THE PREFACE:

WHEREIN

The Authors of the enſuing Annotations (Supplemental to Mr. Poole) preſent to the Reader an Hiſtorical Account of the Tranſlation of the Scriptures into our Engliſh-Tongue, the mighty Workings of Divine Providence conducive to it, and the ſeveral Notes or Annotations which have been publiſhed, and a particular Account of the Reverend Mr. Poole's, and Their preſent Undertaking, with the Reaſons of it.

THE ſame Reaſon which teacheth us to conclude that there is a Firſt Being, and muſt be a Firſt Cauſe and Mover (whom we call God) That it is he who hath made us, and not we our ſelves, and that we are his people and the ſheep of his paſture, will alſo oblige us To enter into his gates with thankſgiving, and into his courts with praiſe, and to be thankful unto him, by fulfilling his Will ; which we cannot do without ſome Revelation of it to us. God therefore having ceaſed to ſpeak to Men face to face, as to Abraham, and Moſes, &c. (which he never ordinarily did but to ſome particular Favourites) we are by Reaſon inforced to conclude, that there are ſome Books in the World in which this Revelation is to be found.) The Church of God (the Mother of us all) hath conſtantly held forth the Books of the Old and New Teſtament, (which we have in our Bibles) for this Sacred Revelation, which hath juſtly obliged all her Children to look upon them, as hung out to them for that uſe, upon that Noble Pillar the Church. Looking into them upon the Churches notice (as the Child does upon the Mother's telling it, That is the Sun) every reaſonable Man finds them of ſo venerable Antiquity, and diſcerneth in them ſuch Stamps of Divinity, in the Majeſty of their Style, the Purity of the Matter, the Sublimeneſs and Spirituality of the Propoſitions contained in them, the Self-denial of the Penmen, the Heavenlineſs of the Scope and End of thoſe Sacred Writings, the Harmony of the Parts, the Seal of Miracles, and principally in the mighty Power and Efficacy of them upon the Souls and Conſciences of Multitudes, both for Conviction, and for Support, and Conſolation ; that he eaſily concludes, This is the voice of God, and not of man ; and looks back upon his Mother the Church (as a Child upon his Nurſe) thanking her for ſhewing him ſuch a Treaſure, and ſaying as the Samaritans to their Countrey-woman, John 4. 42. Now we believe theſe Books are the Word of God, not becauſe of thy ſaying ſo, but becauſe we have looked into them our ſelves, and find them of a different Style, Nature and Matter, and to have a different Scope, End, Power and Efficacy upon the Souls of Men, from what any other Writings in the World have. Though the truth is, that until a Man comes to be fully perſwaded of the Truth of them from the ſame Spirit that dictated them, every Soul will be as apt to waver in his Faith, concerning their being the Word of God, as he in Tully, who only believed the Immortality of the Soul from the reading of Plato's Book, which (if I remember right) the Roman Orator expreſſeth in Words to this Senſe ; I have read over Plato's Book again and again ; but I know not how it comes to paſs, ſo long as I am reading, I agree with it ; but no ſooner is the Book out of my Hands, but De immortalitate animæ dubitare cœpi, I begin to doubt whether the Soul be immortal yea or no. But however, in one Degree or other every Chriſtian makes that the Principle of his Religion, That the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Teſtament are the Word of God. Some believe it more faintly and incertainly ; ſome more fixedly and firmly ; and accordingly the Faith of Perſons, as to them, is more or leſs Operative.

This Revelation of the Divine Will was made perfect gradually (as it pleaſed God in ſucceeding times to reveal what was his Secret Will before, but hid from Ages.) So as (if Chronologers compute right) there were more than 1500 Years paſſed betwixt the writing of the firſt Book of Geneſis by Moſes, and the Revelation (which was the laſt) by John ; and Divines generally judge that he Sealed up the Book, by thoſe words, Revelations 22. 18, 19. So that, as to things to be believed or done, we are to expect no further Revelation.

When the Mighty God, even the Lord, had thus ſpoken, and God had thus ſhined out of Sion the perfection of Beauty, it was but reaſonable that his People ſhould come to the knowledge of what he had ſaid, that they might anſwer the end of the Revelation both by Believing and Obeying.

The Old Teſtament being written in the Hebrew Tongue, when great multitudes of the Hebrews or Jews, by their Captivity in Babylon, had much forgotten, or corrupted their own Language, it was thought reaſonable there ſhould be a Caldaick Paraphraſe ; and the Wiſdom of Divine Providence provided a Septuagint Verſion, as for the benefit of others, ſo poſſibly of the Jews themſelves, the moſt of whom before Chriſt's time were more Grecians than Hebricians ; and it is generally thought that all the Books of the New Teſtament were written in the Grecian Language.

When it pleaſed God that the Goſpel ſhould be preached to all Nations, and the ſound of it go to the ends of the Earth, he ſo ordered it alſo, that ſoon after true Religion came into any place, ſome were ſtirred up to Tranſlate thoſe Holy Books into the Language of that Countrey ; and he ſo far aſſiſted them, that tho' in many leſſer things they failed through want of a knowledge of the juſt propriety of ſome Words in Hebrew or Greek, or the uſe of Particles in thoſe Languages, yet they failed not in any thing whereby the Reader might be led into any pernicious Error touching his Salvation. And we ſhall obſerve the Penmen of the New Teſtament, giving ſuch a deference to the commonly received Verſion in their times, that although the Septuagint Verſion which we have, appears to us more diſſonant from the Hebrew than any other ; yet moſt of the Quotations of the Old Teſtament which we have in the New, are apparently from that Verſion ; which teacheth us, that it is not every private Miniſter's work to make a new Verſion of the Scripture, but he ought to acquieſce in the Verſion which God hath provided for the Church wherein he lives, and not ordinarily, or upon light grounds to enter into a diſſent to it ; and if in any thing he ſees it neceſſary to do it, yet not to do it (as to a particular Text) without great modeſty, and a Preface of Reverence.

The PREFACE.

This Tranſlation of the Scriptures into a Language underſtood by all people in that Countrey into which the Church came, was lookt upon ſo reaſonable and neceſſary, as it was oppoſed by none, till the Papiſts had patched up a Religion, for the upholding of which, it was neceſſary for them to maintain, That Ignorance was the Mother of Devotion: after which it was very difficult in any places where theſe Spiritual Tyrants had a dominion, to get the Scriptures tranſlated into the Language of that Country. Not to inſtance in other places, we ſhall give ſome ſhort account of England. Our Records tell us of a Tranſlation of ſome part of them into the Saxon Language (which was then a great part of ours) within 700 years after Chriſt: and of the Tranſlation of the whole, into the ſame Language by Beda within 40 years after. Beda was himſelf a Papiſt, but the myſtery of iniquity grew up gradually to its height. Soon after, Bibles which the people could underſtand, were very ſcarce commodities in England, and thus it continued for 600 years. Wickliff, who lived in the time of Richard the 2d. and died 1384. being the firſt we know of afterward, who Tranſlated the Scriptures into a Language underſtood by any who were not skilled in ſome or other of the three learned Languages. That great man eaſily underſtood, that without the Scriptures in their own Language the people muſt take all for the Will of God, that their Prieſts told them was ſo, and that the Popiſh Prieſts were generally perſons of ignorance, and impudence enough to entitle God to any of their own blaſphemies and ſuperſtitions. But within thirty years after the death of Wickliff, viz. Anno 1414, the Council, (or Conventicle rather) of Conſtance, Decreed all Wickliffs Books to the Fire; and though ſome were ſpared, yet the battel was ſo hard, that there were very few that eſcaped. This was our ſtate till the year 1527 (in all which years the poor people of the Land of our Nativity, were without a teaching Bible (as to the common people) and indeed without a teaching Prieſt) yea and for ſometime after this, as we ſhall hear.

1527. In the Year 1527, God put it into the heart of Mr. Tindall to Tranſlate the New Teſtament into Engliſh; as alſo the Five Books of Moſes. (He being then an exile in Germany for his Religion.) But he loſt all his Papers by a Shipwrack, in his paſſage to Hamborough, and had his work to begin again: which yet that faithful, and moſt unwearied ſervant of God did accompliſh, adding ſome Prefaces to the ſeveral Books, and ſome Notes to the particular Chapters and Verſes. The publiſhing of which much netled the Popiſh Biſhops in England, and all means were then uſed to ſuppreſs it. Amongſt others, the then Biſhop of London adviſed with one Packington a Merchant of that City, concerning the moſt accommodate mean to that deſign. The Merchant could think of none ſo probable, as with a ſum of money to buy up the whole Impreſſion. The Biſhop approving it, furniſhed him with a round ſum to that purpoſe; which the Merchant (being more a Friend to Mr. Tindall than the Biſhop knew) ſent to Mr. Tindall, and had the Impreſſion ſent him, (ſome few Copies being (as we muſt imagine) firſt ſold off.) With his Money Mr. Tindall ſupported himſelf in his exile, and was alſo enabled to go on with his Tranſlation of the other part of the Bible, and to prepare a perfect Engliſh Bible. In the mean time a paſſage happened ſo pleaſant, that I ſhall think it worth the while here to relate it; Sir Thomas Moore being Lord Chancellor, and having ſeveral Perſons accuſed for Hereſie, and ready for Execution, offered to compound with * one of them for his Life, upon the eaſie terms of his diſcovery to him who they were in London that maintained Tindall beyond Sea. After that the poor man had got as good a ſecurity for his Life, as the Honour, and Truth of the Chancellor could give him, he told him, It was the Biſhop of London maintained him, by ſending him a ſum of money, to buy up the Impreſſion of his Teſtaments. The Chancellor ſmiled, ſaying, That he believed he ſaid true. Thus was this poor Confeſſor's Life ſaved. But to return to our ſtory. In the Year 1536. Mr. Tindall was Martyred at Villefort in Flanders, For Tranſlating into Engliſh the New Teſtament and part of the Old, (ſaith Sir Richard Baker.) But his great Adverſary, Sir Thomas Moore, was the Year before gone to his own place, being executed for Treaſon. Mr. Tindall and Mr. Coverdale, (as Mr. Fox telleth us) before Mr. Tindalls death, had Tranſlated the whole Bible. But it came not out till after his death, under the Name of Thomas Matthews, (with the Addition of the Apocrypha, Tranſlated by John Rogers.) The Lord Cromwel, with Archbiſhop Cranmer, preſented it to the King, and obtained an Order from His Majeſty for leave for any of his Subjects to read it; but this was not without the great regret of the Biſhops.

1540. About thirteen Years after this (or not ſo much) the Lord Cromwel obtained Letters from King Henry VIII. for a Subject of his to Reprint at Paris the Bible in Engliſh; the King alſo wrote a Letter to Bonner (at that time his Embaſſado in France) to further it. Grafton and Whitchurch undertook the work, upon what ſeeming encouragement from Bonner may be read in Mr. Fox's 2d. Vol. of his Martyrology, Pref. 1641. pag. 515, 516. But how it came to paſs I cannot tell (though Bonner's Treachery was ſuſpected in the caſe) when it was upon the point finiſhed, the Copies were ſeized, and ordered to be burnt, and the Work had wholly ceaſed, but for the Covetouſneſs of the Officer, who ſold four great dry fatts filled with them to an Haberdaſher to lay Caps in. By this means having recovered ſome Copies, they came to London, and there made a new Impreſſion.

But after this my Lord Cromwel being put to death, the Biſhops and Popiſh-party made ſo great complaint to the King, (whoſe warmth for the Reformation much abated in the latter part of his Life) that the Sale of the Engliſh Bible was again prohibited, and the Printer impriſoned; and although the Biſhops promiſed the King they would make a more correct Tranſlation, yet it was never done during that King's Reign.

But in the Year of our Lord 1577. which was the 19th. or 20th. of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, ſome Biſhops publiſhed a new Tranſlation; but till that time, the Bibles uſed in Churches were Tindalls and Coverdales, being allowed by the publick Authority of King Edw. 6. 1549, 1550, 1551, 1552. And to this day, the Pſalms in our Service-Book are according to Tindalls and Coverdales Bibles; which ſhould make us wary in our Cenſures of that Tranſlation, tho' we ſee reaſon in many things to diſſent from it. Only we having a more correct Tranſlation Eſtabliſhed by Authority, why (for the avoiding the offence of the leſs knowing people) we have not made uſe of that, but retained a Tranſlation not undertaken by any publick Authority, and confeſſed to be more imperfect, is what I cannot, nor count my ſelf obliged to account for. Poſſibly God for the honour of his Martyr hath ſo ordered it.

After this, King James coming to the Crown, being a Prince of great Learning and Judgment, and obſerving the different uſage of ſome words in his age, from the uſage of them in K. Hen. 8. or in Q. Elizabeth's time, and alſo the ſeveral miſtakes (though of a minute nature) in thoſe more ancient Verſions, was pleaſed to employ diverſe learned men in making a New Tranſlation, which is that which at this day is generally uſed. With what Reverence to former Tranſlators, what labour and care and pains they accompliſhed their work, the Reader may ſee at large in their Preface prefixed to thoſe Copies that are Printed in Folio, and in their Epiſtle to K. James in our Bibles of a leſſer form; of which Tranſlation (though it may not be without its more minute Errors) yet I think it may be ſaid, that it is hardly exceeded by that of any other Church.

By this Hiſtory (Reader!) thou mayeſt underſtand the mighty workings of Divine Providence, and wonderful goodneſs of God to this Nation in the plenty we have of Bibles, and that of a very correct Tranſlation, (though poſſibly not in every little thing perfect.) Mr. Fox (if we remember right) tells us a ſtory of two Maids in Lincolnſhire, that in Q. Maries time parted with a conſiderable part of their eſtate for a few leaves of the Bible. How good is God to us, that we for a few ſhillings can have the whole Revelation of the Divine Will? Upon which account, we offer it to the conſideration of any thinking Engliſh Man or Woman, what he or ſhe will anſwer for his or her ignorance in the Holy Scriptures, or for the ignorance of his or her Children if (having ſo much means as we have, to learn to Read) any ſhall neglect the Teaching of their Children to Read it, or Learning themſelves, in caſe their Parents have neglected them: or being able to Read, ſhall neglect the practice of it, in exerciſing himſelf in the Law of the Lord day and night, and living up to the Rule of it. The Engliſh Bible is come to us at the price of the Blood of one Martyr, and the unwearied Labour of a multitude of Holy and Learned Men ſucceeding one another for more than Sixty years, before we had the Tranſlation ſo perfect as now it is, in all hands.

Poor Chriſtians in Popiſh Countries either have not this Pot of Spiritual Food, or muſt cry out, Death is in the pot. Our Engliſh Tranſlators in their Preface obſerve, that of late the Church of Rome would ſeem to bear ſomething of a Motherly Affection to her Children, and allow them the Scriptures in the Mother-Tongue: But it is indeed a gift not worthy of its Name. They muſt firſt get a Licenſe in Writting before they uſe them; and to get that, they muſt approve themſelves to their Confeſſors, to be ſuch as are, if not frozen in the dregs, yet ſowred with the leaven of their Superſtition. Yet this ſeemed too much to Clement the Eighth, who therefore fruſtrated the Grant of Pius the Fourth. They will allow none to be read but the Doway Bibles, and the Remiſh Teſtaments, (the Corruptions of which have been ſufficiently manifeſted by many Learned Men) nor will they truſt their People with theſe, without the Licenſe of their own Biſhops and Inquiſitors. This is the liberty they boaſt of giving to any of their Religion to Read the Scriptures in Engliſh. What it is worth, let any Man judge.

In the mean time, thoſe who are not affected with the Mercy of God to us in this particular, muſt declare themſelves neither to have any juſt value for God, in the mighty workings of his Providence to bring this about, nor yet for the Blood of Holy Mr. Tindall, who died in his Teſtimony to this Truth, That no People ought to be deprived of ſo great a good; nor for the labours and pains of thoſe many Servants of God, who travelled in this great Work, and thought no labour in it too much, nor indeed for their own Souls, to the Salvation of which, if the Holy Scripture in our own Language doth not highly contribute, we muſt lay the blame upon our ſelves.

But altho we have the Bible in a Language we underſtand, yet we may ſee reaſon to cry out as Bernard does with reference to the Song of Solomon; Here is an excellent Nut, but who ſhall crack it? Heavenly Bread, but who ſhall break it? For tho' the Papiſts and ſuch as have ill will to the good of Souls make too great an improvement of the difficulties in Holy Writ, in making them an Argument againſt the Peoples having them in a Language which they can underſtand, (for Auguſtine ſaid true when he ſaid, there are Fords in them wherein Lambs may wade, as well as Depths in which Elephants may ſwim) and what others obſerve, is as true, That things neceſſary to be believed, or done in order to Salvation, lie plain and obvious in Holy Writ: yet it is as true, that there is much of Holy Writ, of which the generality of People muſt ſay as the Eunuch, How can I underſtand, except ſome man ſhould guide me? Acts 8. 31. (not to mention the ſeeming Contradictions that are betwixt the Holy Penmen of thoſe Sacred Books) and indeed it is hard to ſay, what Book of Scripture is ſo plain that every one who runneth can read it with underſtanding; (ſuch a vaſt difference there is betwixt the Capacities of thoſe who yet have the ſame honeſt hearts.) This hath made Wiſe and Learned Men not only ſee a need of larger Commentaries, but alſo of ſhorter Notes, Annotations, and Paraphraſes, &c. Nor is this a late diſcovery. It is upward of three hundred years ſince Lyra wrote his ſhort Notes upon the whole Bible. What Vatablus and Eraſmus (tho' all of them Papiſts) have done ſince, is ſuffieiently known; to ſay nothing of many others of that Religion. Amongſt the Reformed Churches, there hath been a Learned Piſcator in Germany, Junius and Tremellius elſewhere, who did the ſame things: But all theſe wrote their Notes in Latin, not in the peculiar Language of any Country. The ancienteſt Notes we have in Engliſh were thoſe ordinarily known by the Name of the Geneva Notes, after two years labour finiſhed 1560. by thoſe good Men who flying from Queen Maries Perſecution, took Sanctuary there. A Work ſo acceptable to Proteſtants in the beginning of our Reformation, that their Bible with thoſe Notes annexed was (as is obſerved by the Authors of our late Engliſh Annotations) Printed above Thirty times over by Queen Elizabeth's Printers and their Heirs and Succeſſors. There wanted not one indeed, who Fifty years after boldly reflected on that excellent Work in the moſt Publick Pulpit of our Univerſity of Oxford; but how grateful his Reflections were to the Univerſity at that time, may be read in the Preface to the Engliſh Annotations: he was in the ſame Pulpit checkt and confuted by the Doctor of the Chair, and ſuſpended by the Governors of the Univerſity. The labours of Eraſmus in his Paraphraſe on the New Teſtament were ſo acceptable, that by Publick Order they were to be in every Church expoſed to Publick View, and Uſe, and (if we miſtake not) ought to be ſo ſtill. After theſe, were publiſhed Diodates Notes written in Italian, ſince tranſlated into Engliſh. About the year 1640. ſome Deliberations were taken for the Compoſing and Printing other Engliſh Notes, (the old Geneva Notes not ſo well fitting our new and more correct Tranſlation of the Bible) Theſe were at firſt intended to be ſo ſhort, that they might be printed together with our Bibles in Folio or Quarto. But, thoſe Divines who were ingaged in it found, this would not anſwer their end; it being not poſſible by ſo ſhort Notes, to give People any tolerable light into the whole Text; yet they ſo contracted their Work, that it was all diſpatched in one Volume: Which tho it were at firſt greedily bought up, yet we cannot ſay it gave ſo general a ſatisfaction (by reaſon of the ſhortneſs of it) as was deſired and expected. So as upon the Second Edition, it came forth quite a new thing, making two juſt Volumes. This was ſo acceptable to the World, that within ſixteen Years it was ready for a Third Edition, with ſome further Enlargements. Before which alſo were publiſhed the Dutch Annotations Tranſlated into our Language.

So that at this day (beſides the ſhorter Geneva Notes) we have three ſorts of Annotations in our own Language; Thoſe of famous Diodate; the Dutch Annotations; and thoſe of our own Divines. (Originally ſo wrote.) After which, New Annotations may ſeem ſuperfluous. It ſeems therefore reaſonable that we ſhould give our Readers ſome ſhort account of our undertaking. We dare ſay, nothing could be further from the Thoughts of our Reverend Brother (now at reſt with God) who firſt began this Work, than to reflect any diſhonour upon thoſe Eminent Perſons who laboured before in Works of this Nature, nor is any thing further from our thoughts. (They all of them did famouſly in their Generations.) And if it ſhould appear to any of our Readers, that any of us have ſeen further into any particular Texts than thoſe did who went before us, yet we hope all our Readers will undeſtand there is little Honour due to us upon that account, becauſe we had all their Shoulders to ſtand upon.

The Pains which our Reverend Brother, (ὁ μακαρείτης,) took in his Synopſis Criticorum, is ſuch, as not only will make his Name live in the Churches of Chriſt, but alſo eminently fitted him for giving the Senſe of the whole Scripture in Annotations of this Nature, which he undertook and carried on by his own Hand to the Fifty eighth of Iſaiah, deſigning that Two Volumes ſhould comprehend the Whole, and that the firſt ſhould determine with his Notes upon the Song of Solomon. What occaſioned his firſt Thoughts and Undertaking, himſelf tells us in his Paper of Propoſals publiſhed with reference to that Work, in theſe words. “ But altho there are many excellent Comments upon divers parts of the Scripture, and “ ſome intire Comments, or large Annotations upon the whole in the Engliſh Tongue; yet becauſe of the too “ much brevity of ſome, and the unequal Compoſure of others, as being done by divers Hands, and the Prolixity of thoſe that have been written upon particular Books, it hath been often and earneſtly wiſhed that there “ were ſome ſhort and full Comment, wherein all thoſe Paſſages which need the help of an Interpreter, might “ be ſufficiently cleared, &c. As the firſt Edition of our Engliſh Annotations, after which followed the Tranſlation of thoſe of the Learned Diodate into our Language, and then thoſe of the Low-Country Divines of Holland (tho all of them deſervedly valuable) ſeemed much too ſhort to ſatisfy the Thirſt of many Pious Souls after the fuller knowledge of the Scriptures, ſo the larger Edition of our Engliſh Annotations, ſeems capable of ſome Amendments by which they might be made more ſerviceable to thoſe that uſe them, eſpecially in theſe particulars.

1. The whole Text is not Printed in them, ſo as thoſe who will uſe them muſt make uſe of a Bible alſo, for the underſtanding of them. Our Reverend Brother (with whom alſo we concur) rightly judged, that it would be of more advantage to have the entire Text in the Reader's Eye, while he is ſeeking the Senſe of any particular place, and while he reads a Chapter, to have a Commentary under his Eye in which he might find the Senſe of any part of it, and ſatisfy himſelf as to any difficulty occurring in it.

2. As ſome (very eminently Learned Men) had been too large in thoſe Annotations (ſaying almoſt all that hath been ſaid by any upon the Texts they handled) ſo others had been as much too ſhort, and that eſpecially in the New Teſtament (which ſeems to Chriſtians to need the fulleſt Explication) and others, from their variety of Learning, had mixed ſeveral Quotations out of the Fathers, and Critical, and Philological Notions, poſſibly not ſo proper for the end for which ſuch

The PREFACE.

Annotations are deſigned, which is to give the unlearned Chriſtians the true Senſe of the Holy Scriptures; That thoſe who can, might read and underſtand the Will of God.

That our Reader may not miſtake our deſign or undertaking, we deſire that he ſhould know, That we do not pretend (as ſome have vainly fancied) to tranſlate Mr. Poole's Synopſis Criticorum (that would have asked ſix Volumes inſtead of two), and when it had been done would have ſignified very little, unleſs for thoſe who (being Learned Men) needed no ſuch Tranſlation: poſſibly in a whole Leaf of that Book ſix Lines would not ſerve our purpoſe. Nor have we had any Ambition either to ſay ſomething that none had ſaid before us (we have obſerved that thoſe who have had ſuch an Itch, have for the moſt part happened to ſay, what thoſe who came after them would not ſubſcribe) nor yet to ſay all that we knew was ſaid before us, (that had been to have confounded our Readers only with a variety of Senſes) we have only hinted the Senſes which in our Judgment have ſeemed faireſt, and leaſt conſtrained, and ſhortly ſhewed the Conſonancy of them to other Scriptures. We have avoided all Polemical Diſcourſes as no way proper to our deſign, and very rarely hinted thoſe Practical Concluſions which have aroſe from the Text when opened, (the moſt we have done of that nature is in our Diſcourſes upon the Parables.)

Our Reverend Brother (deſigning but Two Volumes, and the firſt to end with the Song of Solomon, tho ſince it hath been determined to conclude it with the Prophet Iſaiah, that all which he lived to finiſh might be comprehended in one Volume) had an hard Task to contract his Diſcourſes ſo, as to bring them within that compaſs, and thereby was neceſſitated not to give the entire Senſe of each Verſe in his Notes, but only of thoſe Words or Terms in the Verſe which he conceived to ſtand in need of Explication, referring by Letters in the Text to the parts of the Commentary. This was not neceſſary in ſuch parts of the Scripture where the entire Senſe of the whole Text is given. Nor indeed as to ſome parts is it poſſible (ſuch we mean as are opened harmonically); of which nature are the Three firſt Evangeliſts. It is confeſſed by all, that the Evangeliſts make up but one entire Hiſtory, tho ſome of them have ſome things which the others have not, and they ſeldom agree in the Phraſes and Circumſtances of any one piece of Hiſtory. This made it reaſonable, that with the Interpretation of one Evangeliſt ſhould be joyned what the others had, with reference to the ſame piece of Hiſtory. Which Method hath been accordingly purſued (being the ſame in which the moſt Judicious Mr. Calvin and others have gone before us); nor indeed could any other courſe have been taken without a needleſs writing the ſame things over again, ſo as that in our Notes upon Mark, we have only enlarged in the Explication of what he hath, which we did not meet with before in Matthew; and in the Explication of Luke we have only opened what he hath, which was not in Matthew or Mark. Where they all three concurr'd, or but two of them concurr'd in any Story, we have opened what they all or both ſay, in our Notes upon the firſt of them; and when we have come to it again in one or both the other, we have only referred to our former Notes. John (having little which the other Evangeliſts have) we have conſidered by himſelf moſtly, yet ſometimes taking in ſomething from him, where we found it Completory of any thing related by the other Evangeliſts.

In magnis voluiſſe ſat eſt. We cannot ſay that we have left no room for others to come after us, and add to or correct what we have ſaid. But this we can ſay in truth, That we have not willingly baulked any obvious Difficulty, and have deſigned a juſt Satisfaction to all our Readers; and if any Knot remain yet untied, we have told our Readers what hath been moſt probably ſaid for their ſatisfaction in the untying of it.

If it had pleaſed God to have lent a little longer Life to our Reverend Brother, the Work had very probably been done to greater advantage, and more general ſatisfaction. We are but entred upon his Harveſt, and have wanted his Sickle; we cannot pretend to any double Portion of his Spirit. His Mantle dropt from him before he was Tranſlated (we mean his Synopſis.) We have taken that up; out of that great Work of his we have taken ſo much as we judged proper for his deſign in this Work, and made uſe of a great number of other Authors, ſome of which he left out, or very little conſidered in his Synopſis, upon deſign to make a further uſe of them in this Engliſh Work, as thinking their labours more proper for this, than his other Work.

Our deſign, good Reader, was not to tell thee how the Fathers interpreted Texts, (Aquinas, Juſtinianus, and others, have done that Work) nor yet to tell thee any Grammatical Niceties, or what Learned Men have critically noted upon Terms or Phraſes, (that is done in the Synopſis Criticorum) Nor yet to tell thee what Concluſions of Truth may be raiſed from the Verſes (that hath been done profitably upon many Books of Scripture by Mr. Dickſon, Hutchinſon, Ferguſſon, Guild, Durham, and ſome others), much leſs to handle the Controverſies that have riſen from any portion of Scripture. Our Work hath been only to give thee the plain Senſe of the Scripture, and to reconcile ſeeming Contradictions where they occurred, and as far as we were able to open Scripture by Scripture, which is its own beſt Interpreter, comparing things Spiritual with Spiritual, That thy Faith might not ſtand in the wiſdom of men, but in the wiſdom and power of God. If we have reached this end, it is all we aimed at; if thou getteſt any good by what we have done, Remember thy Sacrifice is due at another Altar, even his who miniſtreth ſeed to the ſower, who both watereth the furrows of the field, and bleſſeth the ſpringing of the Corn; let him have the Praiſe, and we only thy Prayers, that we may live an uſeful Life, and dye an happy Death, and attain to the Reſurrection of the Dead, in which we ſhall all ſee and underſtand more perfectly than we yet do.

GENESIS.

The ARGUMENT.

THis Book is called Geneſis, i. e. Generation, or Birth, giving an accompt of paſſages during 2300 years, and upwards, viz. From the creation of all things, to the death of Joſeph. In which Hiſtory Moſes by Divine inſpiration, treats of the Creation of the World, with all the parts, and uſes in it, and of it, but chiefly of Man, who alone was made after God's Image; where he lays down God's Conceſſions, and Prohibitions to him; and Man's Tranſgreſſion, together with the woful effects, and the remedy of them in the promiſe of a Saviour; the Original, Progreſs, and Preſervation of the true Church ſpringing from Abel, and carried on by Seth, Enoch, &c. and the ground and riſe of Apoſtacy begun in Cain, and carried on by his Poſterity, ſeparating themſelves from the Holy Seed, 'till by their monſtrous Provocations they had brought an univerſal Deluge to deſtroy all mankind from off the Earth, excepting only Noah, and his Family; out of which, as the Church did again ſpring forth, ſo another curſed Race carrying on the former enmity to a greater height, not only fell into Idolatry, after it had continued a conſiderable time in Sem's Race, but breaking out into all Outrages, and Tyrannical Oppreſſions, it was almoſt extinct among thoſe numerous Nations that Noah's Poſterity ſprang out into. But God calling Abraham into the Land of Promiſe, who was an Idolater in Chaldea, and giving him Temporal and Spiritual Promiſes, and eſpecially that of the Meſſiah coming out of his Loins, and aſſuring it by a ſpecial Covenant ſealed by Circumciſion, the Church began now to take root, and to be imbodied in Jacob's Family under the name of Iſrael; and here God undertook the protection of his People and Worſhip, by the viſible preſence of Chriſt her Head, that Angel of the Covenant, going continually with them, comforting and defending them, till they came into Egypt, where the Church continued until Joſeph's Death; where this Book ends.

IN * the beginning a God created b the heaven and the earth c.

a To wit, Of Time and Things, in the firſt place, before things were diſtinguiſhed and perfected in manner hereafter expreſſed. Or, the ſenſe is this, The beginning of the World was thus. And this Phraſe further informeth us, That the World, and all things in it, had a beginning, and were not from eternity, as ſome Philoſophers dreamed. b Made out of nothing. c Either 1. The Heaven and Earth as now they are with their Inhabitants. So this Verſe is a Summary or Brief of what is particularly declared in the reſt of this Chapter. Or, 2. The ſubſtance and common matter of Heaven and Earth. Which ſeems more probably by comparing this Verſe with the next, where the Earth here mentioned is declared to be without form, and the Heavens without light; as alſo with Gen. 2. 1. where the heavens and the earth, here only ſaid to be created, are ſaid to be finiſhed or perfected. Yet I conceive the third Heaven to be included under the Title of the heaven, and to have been created and perfected the firſt day, together with its bleſſed Inhabitants the Holy Angels, as may be collected from Job 33. 6, 7. But the Scripture being written for men, and not for Angels, the Holy Ghoſt thought it ſufficient to comprehend them and their dwelling-place under that general term of the Heavens, and proceedeth to give a more particular account of the viſible Heavens and Earth, which were created for the uſe of man. In the Hebrew it is, The heavens and the earth. For there are three Heavens mentioned in Scripture, The Aereal; the place of Birds, Clouds and Meteors, Mat. 26. 64. Rev. 19. 17. & 20. 9. The Starry; the Region of the Sun, the Moon and Stars, Gen. 22. 17. The higheſt or third Heaven; 2 Cor. 12. 2. the dwelling of the Bleſſed Angels

2 And the earth e was without form and void f, and darkneſs was upon the face g of the deep: and the Spirit of God h moved upon the face of the waters*.

e The ſame confuſed maſs or heap is here called both Earth, from its moſt ſolid and ſubſtantial part; and the deep, from its vaſt bulk and depth; and Waters, from its outward face and covering. See Pſal. 104. 6. 2 Pet. 3. 5. f (i. e) Without order and beauty, and without furniture and uſe. g The ſurface or uppermoſt part of it, upon which the light afterward ſhone. Thus not the Earth only, but alſo the Heaven above it was without light, as is manifeſt from the following verſes. h Not the Wind, which was not yet created, as is manifeſt, becauſe the Air, the matter or ſubject of it, was not yet produced: But the Third Perſon of the glorious Trinity called the Holy Ghoſt, to whom the work of Creation is attributed, Job. 26. 13. as it is aſcrib'd to the Second Perſon, the Son, Joh. 1. 3. Col. 1. 16, 17. Heb. 1. 3. and to the Firſt Perſon, the Father, every-where. * (i. e.) Upon the waters, to cheriſh, quicken, and diſpoſe them to the production of the things after mentioned. It is a Metaphor from Birds hovering and fluttering over, and ſitting upon their Eggs and young Ones, to cheriſh, warm, and quicken them.

3 And God ſaid i, * Let there be light: and there was light k.

* 2 Cor. 4. 6.

i (i. e. Commanded, not by ſuch a word or ſpeech as we uſe, which agreeth not with the ſpiritual nature of God; but either by an Act of his powerful will, called the word of his power, Heb. 1. 3. Or, by his ſubſtantial Word, his Son, by whom he made the worlds, Heb. 1. 2. Pſal. 33. 6. who is called, The word, partly, if not principally, for this reaſon, Joh. 1. 1, 2, 3, 10. k Which was ſome bright and lucid Body, peradventure like the fiery Cloud in the Wilderneſs, giving a ſmall and imperfect Light, ſucceſſively moving over the ſeveral parts of the Earth; and afterwards condenſed, encreaſed, perfected, and gathered together in the Sun.

4 And God ſaw l the light, that it was good m: and God divided † the light from the darkneſs n.

l (i. e.) Obſerved with approbation. m (i. e.) Pleaſant and amiable, agreeable to God's purpoſe and Man's uſe. n Made a diſtinction or ſeparation between them in place, time and uſe, that the one ſhould ſucceed and ſhut out the other, and ſo by their viciſſitudes make the day and the night.

5 And God called the light day, and the darkneſs he called night: † and the evening and the morning o were the firſt day p.

† Heb. and the evening was, and the morning was, &c.

o It is acknowledged by all, that the Evening and the Morning are not here to be underſtood according to our common uſage, but are put by a Synecdoche each of them for one whole part of the natural day. But becauſe it may be doubted which part each of them ſignifies, ſome underſtand by Evening, the foregoing day; and by the Morning, the foregoing night, and ſo the natural day begins with the morning or the light, as it did with the ancient Chaldeans. Others by Evening underſtand the firſt night or darkneſs which was upon the face of the Earth, ver. 2. which probably continued for the ſpace of about twelve hours, the beginning whereof might fitly be called Evening, and by Morning the ſucceeding light or day, which may reaſonably be ſuppoſed to continue the other twelve hours,or thereabouts. And this ſeems the truer Opinion. 1. Becauſe the darkneſs was before the light, as the Evening is put before the Morning, v. 5, and 8. and afterwards. 2. Becauſe this beſt agrees both with the vulgar, and with the Scripture-uſe of the terms of Evening and Morning. 3. Becauſe the Jews, who had the beſt opportunity of knowing the mind of God in this matter by Moſes and other ſucceeding Prophets, begun both their common and ſacred days with the Evening, as is confeſſed, and may be gathered from Levit. 23. 32. p Did conſtitute or make up the firſt Day; Day being taken largely for the natural Day, conſiſting of 24 hours: Theſe were the parts of the firſt Day; and the like is to be underſtood of the ſucceeding days. Moreover, God who could have made all things at once, was pleaſed to divide his work into ſix days, partly to give us occaſion more diſtinctly and ſeriouſly to conſider God's works; and principally to lay the foundation for the weekly Sabbath, as is clearly intimated, Gen. 2.2,3. and Exod. 20. 9, 10, 11.

6 ¶ And God ſaid, * Let there be † a firmament q in the midſt of the waters r, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

q Or, An Extenſion, or a Space or place extended, or ſtretched out, and ſpread abroad like a Tent, or Curtain. r (i. e.) Between the Waters, tho' not exactly in the middle place; as Tyrus is ſaid to ſit, or be ſcituated in the midſt of the Seas, Ezek. 28. 2. tho' it was but a little ſpace within the Sea. But of theſe things ſee more in the next verſe.

7 And God made the firmament s, and divided the waters which were under the firmament, from the waters which were above the firmament t, and it was ſo u.

s The firmament here is, Either. 1. The Starry Heaven; ſo called, not from its ſolidity, but from its fixed, durable, and in a ſort incorruptible and unchangeable nature. Or, 2. The Air; called here, The expanſion, or extenſion; becauſe it is extended far and wide, even from the Earth to the third Heaven; called alſo, The Firmament, becauſe it is fixed in its proper place, from whence it cannot be moved, unleſs by force. t The waters under the Firmament are Seas, Rivers, Lakes, Fountains, and other Waters in the bowels of the Earth. The waters above the firmament, or above the Heavens, as they are called, Pſal. 148. 4. are either, 1. A Collection or Sea of Waters placed by God above all the viſible Heavens, and there reſerved for ends known to himſelf. Or rather, 2. The Waters in the Clouds; for the Clouds are called Waters, Pſal. 18. 11. and 104. 3. and are ſaid to be in Heaven, 2 Sam. 21. 10. Matth. 24. 30. and the production thereof is mentioned as an eminent work of God's Creation, Job 35. 5. and 36 29. Pſal 147. 8. Prov. 8. 28. which therefore it is not credible, that Moſes in his Hiſtory of the Creation would omit, which he doth, if they be not here meant; and theſe are rightly ſaid to be above the Firmament, i. e. the Air, becauſe they are above a conſiderable part of it. u As God commanded and ordered it, ſo it was done and ſetled.

8 And God called the firmament heaven: And the evening and the morning were the ſecond day.

*Job 26. 10. & 38. 8. Pſal. 33. 7. & 104. 9. & 136. 6. Prov. 8. 29. Jer. 5. 22.

9 ¶ And God ſaid, * Let the waters under the heaven x be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry-land appear y: and it was ſo.

x Both the great Abyſs, or deep of Water which is ſhut up in the bowels of the Earth, Gen. 7. 11. Pſal. 24. 2. and 33. 7. and 136. 6. as alſo the Sea and Rivers, all which are here ſaid to be gathered together into one place, becauſe of their communication and mixture one with another. y For hitherto it was covered with water, v. 2. 2 Pet. 3. 5.

10 And God called the dry-land earth, and the gathering together of the waters he called ſeas z: and God ſaw that it was good a.

z Not Sea, but Seas; becauſe of the differing quantity and nature both of ſeveral Seas, and of the Rivers, and other leſſer collections of Waters, all which the Hebrews call Seas. a The ſeparation of the Waters was begun on the Second day, v. 6, &c but not perfected till this Third day: Therefore God's approbation of that work is not mentioned there, but here only.

11 And God ſaid, Let the earth bring forth b † graſs c, the herb yielding Seed d, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind e, whoſe Seed is f in it ſelf g, upon the earth: and it was ſo.

b The ſenſe is, For the preſent let it afford matter, out of which I will make Graſs, (as man's rib afforded matter, out of which God made Woman): and for the future let it receive vertue or power of producing it out of that Matter which I have made, and ſuited to that end. c That which groweth of it ſelf without Seed, or manuring, and is the food of Beaſts. d For the propagation of their ſeveral kinds, to wit, mature and perfect Herbs, which alone yield Seed. So afterwards God made man, not in the ſtate of childhood, but of grown and perfect Age. e i. e. According to the ſeveral kinds of Fruits. f Now is by my conſtitution, and ſhall be for the future. g i. e. In ſome part of it ſelf, either in the root, or branch, or leaf, or bud, or fruit. The ſenſe is, Which is ſufficient of it ſelf for the propagation of its kind, without any conjunction of Male and Female.

12 And the earth brought forth graſs, and herb yielding ſeed after his kind; and the tree yielding fruit, whoſe ſeed was in it ſelf, after his kind: And God ſaw that it was good h.

h This clauſe is ſo often added, to ſhew that all the diſorders, evil and hurtful qualities that now are in the Creatures, are not to be imputed to God, who made all of them good; but to man's ſin, which hath corrupted their nature, and perverted their uſe.

13 And the evening and the morning were the third day.

* Deut. 4. 19. Pſal. 136. 7. † Heb. between the Day and between the Night.

14 ¶ And God ſaid, Let there be * lights i in the firmament of the heaven, to divide † the day k from the night: And let them be for ſigns l, and for ſeaſons m, and for days n, and years o.

i To wit, more glorious Lights than that created the firſt Day, which probably was now condenſed and reduced into theſe Lights; which are higher for place, more illuſtrious for Light, and more powerful for influence than that was. Note here, That Herbs and Trees were created before the Sun, whoſe influence now is neceſſary for their production, to ſhew that God doth not depend upon the means, or upon the help of the Creatures in his Operations. k i. e. The artificial day reaching from Sun-riſing to Sun-ſetting. l For the deſignation and diſtinction of times, as months, weeks, &c. as alſo for the ſignification of the quality of the Weather or Seaſon by the manner of their riſing and ſetting, Matth. 16. 2. By their Eclipſes, Conjunctions, &c. And for the diſcovery of ſupernatural and miraculous effects; of which ſee Joſ. 10. 13. Iſa. 38. 8. Luke 21. 25, 26. Acts 2. 19, 20. m By their Motions and Influences to produce and diſtinguiſh the four Seaſons of the year, mentioned Gen. 8. 22. And to ſhew as well the fit Times and Seaſons for Sowing, Planting, Reaping, Navigation, &c. as for the Obſervation of ſet and ſolemn Feaſts, or other times for the ordering of Eccleſiaſtical or Civil Affairs. n By their diurnal and ſwift motion to make the days, and by their nearer approaches to us, or further diſtances from us, to make the Days or Nights either longer, or ſhorter, or equal. He ſpeaks here of natural days conſiſting of 24 hours. o By their annual and ſlower motion to make years.

15 And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth: And it was ſo.

† Heb. the two great, &c. † Heb for the rule of the day, &c. * Job 38. 7.

16 And God made † two great lights *, the greater light p † to rule the day q, and the leſſer light to rule the night: He made the * ſtars alſo.

* Or, Enlightners, as the word properly ſignifies. p The Sun, which is really and conſiderably greater than the Moon, or any of the Stars, or the whole Earth. And the Moon, called here the leſſer Light is greater than any of the Stars, not really, but in appearance, and in clearneſs and light, in reſpect of which it is called great in this place, and both are much greater in efficacy and uſe, than any of the Stars. q Either, 1. To influence the Earth and its Fruits with heat or moiſture, and to govern mens actions and affairs, which commonly are tranſacted by day: For the word Day is ſometimes put Metanymically for the events of the Day, as Prov. 27. 1. 1 Cor. 3. 13. Or, 2. To regulate and manage the day, by its riſe to begin it, by its gradual progreſs to carry it on, even to the mid-day, and by its declination and ſetting, to impair and end it. Which ſeems moſt probable, becauſe the Moon is in like manner ſaid to rule the night, which is meant of the time, and not of the actions or events of the Night.

17 And God ſet them in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth:

* Jer. 31. 35.

18 And to * rule over the day, and over the night, and to divide the night from the darkneſs: And God ſaw that it was good r.

r This Clauſe was omitted in the firſt day's work, but is added here, becauſe the Light was then but glimmering and imperfect, which now was made more clear and compleat.

19 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

† Heb. The creeping ſwimming Creature, a living ſoul. † Heb. Let the Fowl fly. † Heb. Face of the Firmament of Heaven.

20 ¶ And God ſaid, Let the waters bring forth abundantly † the moving creature s that hath life, and † fowl that may fly t above the earth, in the † open firmament of heaven.

s Or, Creeping thing. A word which belongs to all thoſe living Creatures, who move with their Bellies cloſe to the Element they move in: Hence it is uſed both of Birds which fly in the Air, Lev. 11. 20. and of things creeping upon the Earth, as v. 24. of this Chapter, and of Fiſhes that ſwim in the Sea, as here. t The particle that or which is oft wanting, and to be underſtood in the Hebrew Language, as Gen. 39. 4. Job 41. 1. Iſa. 6. 6. according to this Tranſlation the Fowl have their matter from the Water as well as the Fiſhes; which ſeem moſt probable, as from this, ſo alſo from the following Verſes, in which they are both mentioned together as made of the ſame materials, and as works of the ſame day, and both are bleſſed together, and both are diſtinguiſhed and ſeparated from the production of the Earth, which were the works of the ſixth day, v. 24, &c. And whereas it is ſaid, Gen. 2. 19. Out of the ground the Lord God formed every beaſt of the field, and every fowl of the air; It may be anſwered That the word Ground or Earth may be there underſtood more largely, as it is confeſſedly in ſome other places of Scripture, for the lower part of the World conſiſting of Earth and Water. For it is moſt reaſonable to expound that ſhort and general paſſage from the foregoing Chapter, wherein the original both of Beaſts and Fowls are largely and diſtinctly deſcribed. Moreover the Fowl ſeem to have been made of both theſe Elements, viz. of ſoft and moiſt Earth, poſſibly taken from the bottom of the Water, in which caſe they were brought forth by the Water, as is ſaid here, and formed out of the ground, as there. As Eve is ſaid to be made of Adam's Bone and Rib, Gen. 2. 21. and of his Fleſh, v. 23. Which ſhews that with the Rib, Fleſh was taken from Adam, tho it be not ſaid ſo, v. 21. So here, the Fowl were made both of Water and Earth, as their Temper and Conſtitution ſhews, tho but one of them be here expreſſed. But theſe words are by ſome Tranſlated thus, And let the fowl fly. But according to that Tranſlation, the mention of the Fowl, both here and in the following Verſe, ſeems to be very improper and forced. For it is prepoſterous and contrary to the method conſtantly uſed in this whole Chapter, to ſpeak of the motion of any living Creature, and the place thereof, before its original and production be mentioned. Beſides, either the original of the Fowls is deſcribed here, or it is wholly omitted in this Chapter, which is not credible.

*Pſal. 104. 26. † Heb. Living Soul. *Or, Swimmeth.

21 And God Created u great * Whales x, and every † living Creature that * moveth, which the Waters brought forth abundantly after their kind, and every winged Fowl after his kind y, and God ſaw that it was good.

u i.e. Produced out of moſt unfit matter, as if a man ſhould out of a Stone make Bread, which requires as great a power as that which is properly called Creation. x Thoſe vaſt Sea-Monſters known by that Name, though elſewhere this word be applied to great Dragons of the Earth. y In ſuch manner as is declared in the firſt Note upon Verſe 20.

22 And God bleſſed them z, ſaying, * Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the Waters in the Seas a, and let Fowl multiply in the Earth b.

z Gave them power of procreation, and fruitfulneſs, which is juſtly mentioned as a great bleſſing, Pſal. 128. 3, 4. a And conſequently in the Rivers, which come from the Sea, and return into it. b Where they ſhall commonly have their Habitation, though they had their original from the Waters; of which ſee on v. 20.

23 And the Evening and the Morning were the fifth day.

† Heb. Living Souls.

24 ¶ And God ſaid, Let the Earth bring forth † the living Creature c after his kind, Cattle d, and creeping thing e, and the Beaſt f of the Earth after his kind: And it was ſo.

c i.e. Thoſe living Creatures hereafter mentioned, whoſe original is from the Earth, and whoſe Habitation is in it. d i.e. Thoſe tame Beaſts, which are moſt familiar with, and uſeful to men for Food, Clothing, or other ſervice. e To wit, of the Earth, of a differing kind from thoſe creeping things of the Water, v. 20. f i.e. The wild Beaſt, as the Hebrew word commonly ſignifies, and as appears further, becauſe they are diſtinguiſhed from the tame Beaſts, here called Cattle.

25 And God made the Beaſt of the Earth after his kind, and Cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the Earth after his kind: And God ſaw that it was good.

*Chap. 5. 1. & 9. 6. 1 Cor. 11. 7. Eph. 4. 24. Col. 3. 10. *Pſal. 8. 6.

26 ¶ And God ſaid g, * Let us make man h in our Image, after our likeneſs i: and * let them k have dominion over the Fiſh of the Sea, and over the Fowl of the Air, and over the Cattle l, and over all the Earth m, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the Earth.

g Having prepared all things neceſſary for mans uſe and comfort. h The plurals us, and our, afford an evident proof of a plurality of perſons in the Godhead. It is plain from many other Texts as well as from the Nature and Reaſon of the thing, that God alone is mans Creator; the Angels rejoyced at the work of Creation, but only God wrought it, Job 38. 4, 5, 6, 7. And it is no leſs plain from this Text, and from divers other places, that man had more Creators than one Perſon. See Job 35. 10. John 1. 2, 3. &c. Heb. 1. 3. And as other Texts aſſure us that there is but one God, ſo this ſhews that there are more Perſons in the Godhead: Nor can that ſeeming contradiction of one and more being in the Godhead be otherwiſe reconciled, than by acknowledging a plurality of Perſons in the Unity of Eſſence. It is pretended that God here ſpeaks after the manner of Princes in the plural number, who uſe to ſay, We Will and Require, or, It is Our Pleaſure. But this is only the invention and practice of latter times, and no way agreeable to the ſimplicity either of the firſt ages of the World, or of the Hebrew Style. The Kings of Iſrael uſed to ſpeak of themſelves in the ſingular number, 2 Sam. 3. 28. 1 Chron. 21. 17. and 29. 14. 2 Chron. 2. 6. And ſo did the Eaſtern Monarchs too, yea, even in their Decrees and Orders, which now run in the plural number, as Ezra 6. 8. I (Darius) make a Decree, Ezra 7. 21. I, even I Artaxerxes the King, do make a Decree. Nor do I remember one example in Scripture to the contrary. It is therefore a raſh and preſumptuous attempt, without any warrant, to thruſt the uſages of modern Style into the ſacred Scripture. Beſides, the Lord doth generally ſpeak of himſelf in the ſingular number, ſome few places excepted, wherein the plural number is uſed for the ſignification of this Myſtery. Moreover, this device is utterly overthrown by comparing this Text with Gen. 3. 22. The Lord God ſaid, Behold, the man is become as one of us. Therefore there are more Perſons than one in the Godhead. How many they are, other Texts plainly inform us, as we ſhall ſee in their proper places. And whereas he ſaith not now as he did before, Let the Earth or Waters bring forth, but Let us make; this change of the phraſe and manner of expreſſion ſhews, that man was, as the laſt, ſo the moſt perfect, and the chief of the ways and works of God in this lower World. i Image and likeneſs are two words noting the ſame thing, even exact likeneſs. For both of them are uſed of Adam, Gen. 5. 3. He begat a Son in his own likeneſs, after his Image; and they are ſeparately and indifferently uſed in the ſame ſence, man being ſaid to be made in the likeneſs of God, Gen. 5. 1. and in the Image of God, Gen. 9. 6. Queſt. Wherein doth the Image of God in Man conſiſt? Anſw. 1. It is in the whole Man, both in the Bleſſedneſs of his Eſtate, and in his Dominion over the reſt of the Creatures. 2. It ſhines forth even in the Body, in the Majeſty of mans Countenance, and height of his Stature, which is ſet towards Heaven, when other Creatures by their down looks ſhew the lowneſs and meanneſs of their Nature, as even Heathens have obſerved. 3. It principally conſiſts and moſt eminently appears in mans Soul. 1. In its Nature and Subſtance, as it is, like God, Spiritual, Inviſible, Immortal, &c. 2. In its Powers and Faculties, Reaſon or Underſtanding, and freedom in its choice and actions. 3. In the ſingular endowments wherewith God hath adorned it, as Knowledge, Righteouſneſs, and true Holineſs, in which St. Paul chiefly placeth this Image, Eph. 4. 24. Col. 3. 10. k The Male and Female, both comprehended in the word. Man, as is expreſſed v. 27. together with their Poſterity. l By which he underſtands either, 1. Both tame and wild Beaſts, the ſame word being uſed here in a differing ſence from what it hath v. 25. as is frequent in Scripture. Or, 2. Tame Beaſts, which are particularly mentioned, becauſe they are more under mans Dominion than the wild Beaſts, and more fitted for mans Uſe and Benefit, though the other be not excluded, but comprehended under the former, as the more famous kind, as is uſual in Scriptures and other Authors. m Over all other Creatures and Productions of the Earth, and over the Earth it ſelf, to manage it as they ſee fit for their own comforr and advantage.

* Mal. 2. 15. Matth. 19. 4. Mar. 10. 6.

27 So God Created man in his own Image, in the Image of God Created he him. * Male and Female Created he them n.

n Not both together, as ſome of the Jews have Fabled, but ſucceſſively, the Woman after and out of the Man, as is more particularly related, Gen. 2. 21, &c. which is here mentioned by anticipation. Albeit the Woman alſo ſeems to have been made upon the ſixth day, as is here related, and as the following bleſſing ſheweth, which is common to both of them, though the particular Hiſtory of it is brought in afterwards Chap. 2. by way of recapitulation, or repetition.

28 And God bleſſed them o, and God ſaid unto them, * Be fruitful and multiply, and repleniſh the Earth p, and ſubdue it, and have dominion over the Fiſh of the Sea, and over the Fowl of the Air, and over every living thing that † moveth upon the Earth.

o Having bleſſed them with excellent Natures, and heavenly Gifts and Graces, he further bleſſeth them with a ſpecial and temporal bleſſing expreſſed in the following words. p With inhabitants to be begotten by you. Queſt. Whether this be a command obliging all men to Marriage and Procreation? So the Hebrew Doctors think. It may be thus reſolved. 1. It is a command obliging all men ſo far as not to ſuffer the extinction of mankind: Thus it did abſolutely bind Adam and Eve, as alſo Noah, and his Sons and their Wives after the Flood. 2. It doth not oblige every particular perſon to marry, as appears both from the example of the Lord Jeſus, who lived and died in an unmarried State, and from his commendation of thoſe who made themſelves Eunuchs for the Kingdom of God, Matth. 19. 12. And from St. Pauls approbation of Virginity, 1 Cor. 7. 1, 8, 26, 27, 32, &c. 3. It is here rather a promiſe or benediction, than a command, as appears both from v. 22. where the ſame words are applied to the brute Beaſts, who are not ſubject to a command; and becauſe if this were a command, it would equally oblige every man to exerciſe dominion over Fiſhes and Fowls, &c. which is abſurd. It is therefore a permiſſion rather than a command, though it be expreſſed in the form of a command, as other permiſſions frequently are, as Gen. 2. 16. Deut. 14. 4.

† Heb. Seeding Seed. *Chap. 9. 3.

29 ¶ And God ſaid, Behold, I have given you every Herb † bearing ſeed, which is upon the face of all the Earth, and every Tree in the which is the fruit of a Tree yielding ſeed, * to you it ſhall be for meat q.

q It is neither affirmed nor denied that Fleſh alſo was granted to the firſt men for food, and therefore we may ſafely be ignorant of it. It is ſufficient for us, that it was expreſly allowed, Gen. 9. 3.

† Heb. Heaven. † Heb. Living Soul.

30 And to every Beaſt of the Earth, and to every Fowl of the † Air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the Earth, wherein there is † Life, I have given every green Herb for meat: And it was ſo.

31 And God ſaw every thing that he had made: And behold it was very good. And the Evening and the Morning were the ſixth day.

CHAP. II.

The Sabbath Inſtituted and Bleſſed, 2, 3. A rehearſal of the Creation; and (1*ſt.*) of Vegetables, 4, 5. The Earth watered, 6. (2.) of Man, 7. His Habitation, 8, 9. Trees for his delight and Food: as alſo the tree of Life and Knowledge, 9. Its pleaſant Situation and Riches, 10——14. Mans Employment, 15. Every tree given him but that of Knowledge, 16. This denied on pain of Death, 17. A purpoſe to create the Woman, and the Reaſon thereof, 18. Beaſts and Fowls named by Adam, 19, 20. The Woman made of Adam's Rib preſented to him, 21, 22. And owned by him, 23. Marriage Ordained, 24. Their ſtate whilſt innocent, 25.

THus the Heavens and the Earth were finiſhed, and * all the Hoſt of them a.

a All the Creatures in Heaven and Earth are called their Hoſts, for their multitude, variety, order, power, and ſubjection to the Lord of Hoſts. Particularly the Hoſt of Heaven in Scripture (which is its own beſt interpreter) ſignifies both the Stars, as Deut. 4. 19. and 17. 3. Iſa. 34. 4. and the Angels, as 1 Kings 22. 9. 2 Chron. 18. 18. Luke 2. 13. Who from theſe words appear to have been Created within the compaſs of the firſt ſix days, which alſo is probable from Col. 1. 16, 17. But it is no wonder that the Scripture ſaith ſo little concerning Angels, becauſe it was written for the uſe of men, not of Angels; and God would hereby take us off from curious and impertinent ſpeculations, and teach us to employ our thoughts about neceſſary and uſeful things.

*Exod. 20. 11. 31. 17. Deut. 5. 14. Heb. 4. 4.

2 * And on the ſeventh day God ended b his work which he had made: And he reſted c on the ſeventh day from all his work which he had made.

b Or rather had ended or finiſhed, for ſo the Hebrew word may be rendred, as all the Learned know, and ſo it muſt be rendred, elſe it doth not agree with the former Chapter, which expreſly ſaith, that all theſe works were done within ſix days. c Not for his own need and refreſhment, for he is never weary, Iſa. 40. 28. but for our example and inſtruction, that we might keep that day as a day of Religious reſt.

3 And God Bleſſed the ſeventh day d, and ſanctified it e: becauſe that in it he had reſted from all his Work †, which God * Created and made †.

d By conferring ſpecial Honours and Priviledges upon it above all other days, that it ſhould be a day of ſolemn reſt and rejoycing and celebration of God and his Works, and a day of Gods beſtowing ſingular, and the beſt bleſſings upon his Servants and Worſhippers. e Separated it from common uſe and worldly employments, and conſecrated it to the Worſhip of God, that it ſhould be accounted an Holy day, and ſpent in Holy works and Solemn exerciſes of Religion. Some conceive that the Sabbath was not actually bleſſed and ſanctified at and from this time, but only in the days of Moſes, which they pretend to be here related by way of anticipation. But this opinion hath no foundation in the Text or Context, but rather is confuted from them: for as ſoon as the ſacred Penman had ſaid that God had ended his work and reſted, &c. he adds immediately in words of the ſame tenſe, that God bleſſed the ſeventh day, and ſanctified it. And if we compare this place with Exod. 20. we ſhall find that Moſes there ſpeaks of God's bleſſing and ſanctifying of the Sabbath, not as an action then firſt done, but as that which God had done formerly upon the Creation of the World, to the end that men might celebrate the praiſes of God for that glorious work, which as it was agreeable to the ſtate of innocency, ſo was it no leſs proper and neceſſary a duty for the firſt ages of the World after the fall, than it was for the days of Moſes, and for the ſucceeding Generations. * Becauſe he would have the memory of that glorious work of Creation, from which he then reſted, preſerved through all Generations. † Either 1. Created in making, i. e. made by way of Creation. Or rather, 2. Created out of nothing, and afterwards out of that Created matter made or formed divers things, as the Beaſts out of the Earth, the Fiſhes out of the Water. He uſeth theſe two words poſſibly to ſhew that God's Wiſdom, Power and Goodneſs, was manifeſt not only in that which he brought out of meer nothing, but alſo in thoſe things which he wrought out of matter altogether unfit for ſo great works.

4 ¶ Theſe f are the Generations g of the Heavens, and of the Earth, when they were Created, in the day h that the LORD God made the Earth and the Heavens.

f i. e. Theſe things mentioned in the 1 chap. g i. e. A true and full relation of their Generations, i. e. Of their Original, or Beginnings. h Not ſtrictly ſo called, but largely taken for the time, as it is v. 17. Ruth 4. 5. Luke 19. 42. 2 Cor. 6. 2.

5 And every Plant of the Field, before it was in the Earth i, and every Herb of the Field before it grew k: for the LORD God had not cauſed it to rain upon the Earth, and there was not a man to till the ground l.

i i. e. When as yet there were no Plants, nor ſo much as Seeds of them there. k To wit, out of the Earth, as afterwards they did by Gods appointment. l The two great means of the growth of Plants and Herbs, viz. Rain from Heaven, and the labour of man, were both lacking, to ſhew that they were now brought forth by Gods Almighty power and word.

6 * But there went up n a miſt o from the Earth, and watered the whole face of the ground p.

n To wit, from time to time by Gods appointment. o Or, Vapour, or, Cloud, which going up into the Air, was turned into Rain, and fell down again to the Earth from whence it aroſe. p Whereby the Earth was ſoftned and diſpoſed both to the nouriſhment of thoſe Plants or Trees that were Created, and to the production of new Plants in a natural and ordinary way. But theſe words may be otherwiſe underſtood, the Copulative, and, here rendred but, being put for the Disjunctive, or, as it is Exod. 21. 15, 17. Job 6. 22. and 8. 3. and in other places. Or, the Negative particle, not, may be underſtood out of the foregoing clauſe, as it is uſual in the Hebrew Language, as Pſal. 1. 5. and 9. 17. and 44. 19. and 50. 8. and Iſa. 28. 27, 28. And ſo theſe words may be joyned with the foregoing, and both Tranſlated in this manner, There was no Rain, nor a Man to till the ground, or, (or, nor, for both come to one thing) ſo much as a miſt which went up from the Earth, and watered (as afterwards was uſual and natural) the whole face of the ground.

*1 Cor. 15. 47.
*1 Cor. 15. 45.

7 And the LORD God formed man † of the * duſt of the ground, and breathed into his noſtrils q the breath of Life r: and * Man s became a living Soul t.

q And by that door into the Head and whole man. This is an emphatical phraſe, ſufficiently implying that the Soul of man was of a quite differing Nature and higher Extraction and Original than the Souls of Beaſts, which together with their Bodies are ſaid to be brought forth by the Earth, Geneſis 1. 24. r Heb. Of Lives: Either to ſhew the continuance of this breath or ſoul both in this Life, and in the Life to come; or to note the various degrees or kinds of Life, which this one breath worketh in us, the Life of Plants, in growth and nouriſhment; the Life of Beaſts, in ſenſe and motion; and the Life of a Man, in Reaſon and Underſtanding. s Who before this was but a dull lump of Clay, or a comely Statue. t i. e. A living Man: The Soul being oft put for the whole Man, as Gen. 12. 5, 13. and 46. 15, 18. 1 Pet. 3. 20, &c.

8 And the LORD God Planted u a Garden x Eaſt-ward y in Eden z: And there he put the man whom he had formed a.

u Or, had planted, viz. on the third day, when he made the Plants and Trees to grow out of the ground. x A place of the choiceſt Plants and Fruits, moſt beautiful and pleaſant. y From the place where Moſes writ, and the Iſraelites afterwards dwelt. z Eden here is the name of a place, not that Eden near Damaſcus in Syria, of which ſee Amos 1. 5. but another Eden in Meſopotamia or Chaldea, of which ſee Gen. 4. 16. 2 Kings 19. 12. Iſa. 37. 12. Ezek. 27. 23. There are many and tedious diſputes about the place of this Paradiſe: of which he that liſteth may ſee my Latin Synopſis. It may ſuffice to know that which is evident, that it was in or near to Meſopotamia, in the confluence of Euphrates and Tigres. a To wit, in another place.

9 And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every Tree that is pleaſant to the ſight, and good for Food, the Tree of Life b alſo in the midſt of the Garden *, and the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil c.

b So called either ſymbolically, and ſacramentally, becauſe it was a ſign and ſeal of that Life which man had received from God, and of his continual enjoyment of it upon condition of his Obedience: Or, effectively, becauſe God had planted in it a ſingular vertue for the ſupport of Nature, prolongation of Life, and the prevention of all Diſeaſes, Infirmities and decays through age. * Or, within the Garden, as Tyrus is ſaid to be in the midſt of the Seas, Ezek. 28. 2. Though it was but juſt within it. c So called with reſpect, either, 1. To God, who thereby would prove and make known mans Good or Evil, his Obedience and Happineſs, or his Rebellion and Miſery. Or rather, 2. To Man, who by the uſe of it would know to his coſt how great and good things he did enjoy and might have kept by his Obedience, and how evil and bitter the fruits of his Diſobedience were to himſelf and all his poſterity. So it ſeems to be an ironical denomination, q. d. You thirſted after more knowledge, which alſo the Devil promiſed you, and you have got what you deſired; more Knowledge, even dear bought Experience.

10 And a River d went out of Eden e to water the Garden, and from thence † it was parted, and became into four heads f.

d Or, Rivers, by a common Enallage. e The Countrey in which Paradiſe was; where thoſe Rivers either aroſe from one ſpring, or met together in one channel. † (i. e.) From the Garden. f It was divided into four principal Rivers. Concerning which there are now many diſputes. But it is no wonder if the riſe and ſcituation of theſe Rivers be not now certainly known, becauſe of the great changes, which in ſo long time might happen in this, as well as in other Rivers, partly by Earth quakes, and principally by the general Deluge. And yet Euphrates and Tigris, the chief of theſe Rivers, whereof the other two are branches, are diſcovered by ſome learned men, to have one and the ſame original or ſpring, and that in a moſt pleaſant part of Armenia, where they conceive Paradiſe was. See my Latin Synopſis.

11 The name of the firſt is Piſon g; that is it which compaſſeth h the whole Land of Havilah i, where there is Gold.

g An eminent branch of the River Tigris, probably that called by others Paſi-tigris, or Piſo-tigris. h i. e. With many windings and turnings paſſed thorough; as this word is uſed, Joſ. 15. 3. Mat. 23. 15. i Either that which is in thoſe parts of Arabia which is towards Meſopotamia, ſo called from Havilah the iſſue of Cham, Gen. 10. 7. Or that which is nigh Perſia, and in the borders of India, ſo called from another Havilah of the Poſterity of Sem, Gen. 10. 29. To either of theſe following the deſcription agrees well.

12 And the Gold of that Land is * good k: there is Bdellium l, and the Onyx-ſtone m.

* 2 Chron. 3. 5.

k i. e. Better than ordinary. l Which ſignifies either a precious gumme, of which ſee Numb. 11. 70. or Gems and Pearls. Once for all obſerve, that many of the Hebrew words or names of Stones, Trees, Birds, and Beaſts, are even to the Hebrew Doctors and others both ancient and modern Interpreters, of uncertain ſignification, and that without any conſiderable inconvenience to us who are free from the obligations which the Jews were formerly under of procuring ſuch ſtones, and abſtaining in their Diet from ſuch Beaſts and Birds as then were ſufficiently known to them; and if any were doubtful, they had one ſafe courſe, to abſtain from them. m A kind of precious ſtone, of which ſee Exod. 25. 7. and 28. 9, 20.

13 And the name of the ſecond River is Gihon n: The ſame is it that compaſſeth the whole Land of † Ethiopia o.

n Not that River in the Land of Iſrael ſo called, 1 Kings 1. 33. 2 Chron. 32. 30. But another of the ſame name, which in Hebrew ſignifies, the branch of a greater River: Here it is a branch either of Euphrates, as moſt think, or of Tigris, as ſome late Writers conceive. o Not that Countrey in Africa above Egypt, commonly ſo called; but either Arabia, which in Scripture is frequently called Cuſh or Ethiopia. Of which ſee the notes upon 2 Kings 19. 9. Job 28. 19. Ezek. 29. 10. and 30. 8, 9. Hab. 3. 7. or rather a Countrey adjoyning to India, and Perſia, with which Cuſh is joyned, Ezek. 38. 5. See alſo Iſa. 11. 11. and Ezek. 27. 10. And about which place the Ethiopians are ſeated by Herod. l. 7. Homer, Heſiod, and others. Of which ſee my Latin Synopſis.

14 And the name of the third River is Hiddekel p: That is it which goeth * toward the Eaſt of Aſſyria. And the fourth River is Euphrates.

* Or, Eaſtward to Aſſyria.

p (i. e.) Tygris, or an eminent branch of it. See Dan. 10. 4.

15 And the LORD God took † the Man, and put him q into the Garden of Eden, to * dreſs it r, and to keep it s.

† Or, Adam.
* Or, till. See Chap. 3. 23.

q (i. e.) Commanded and enclined him to go. r (i. e.) To prune, dreſs, and order the Trees and Herbs of it. s From the annoyance of Beaſts, which being unreaſonable Creatures, and allowed the uſe of Herbs, might eaſily ſpoil the beauty of it.

16 And the LORD God commanded the Man t, ſaying, Of every Tree of the Garden † thou mayeſt freely eat u.

t And the Woman too (as appears both from the permiſſion for eating Herbs and Fruits given to her, together with her Husband, Gen. 1. 28, 29. and from Gen. 3. 1, 2, 3. and from Eves puniſhment) and that either immediately, or by Adam whom God enjoyned to inform her thereof. u Without offence to me, or hurt to thy ſelf. The words in Hebrew have the form of a command, but are only a permiſſion or indulgence, as 1 Cor. 10. 25, 27.

17 But of the Tree of the Knowledge of good and evil, thou ſhalt not eat of it: For in the day that thou eateſt thereof, † thou ſhalt ſurely dye x.

x With a threefold death. 1. Spiritual by the guilt and power of ſin: at that inſtant thou ſhalt be dead in treſpaſſes and ſins, Eph. 2. 1. 2. Temporal, or the death of the Body, which ſhall then begin in thee, by decays, infirmities, terrors, dangers, and other harbingers of death. 3. Eternal, which ſhall immediately ſucceed the other.

18 And the LORD God ſaid y, It is not good z that the man ſhould be alone: I will make him an help † meet for him a.

† Heb. as before him, or, as it were comparable to him, Iſ 40. 12.

y Or, Had ſaid, to wit, upon the ſixth day, on which the Woman was made, Gen. 1. 27, 28. z Not convenient either for my purpoſe of the increaſe of mankind, or for mans perſonal comfort, or for the propagation of his kind. a A moſt emphatical phraſe, ſignifying thus much, one correſpondent to him, ſuitable both to his nature and neceſſity, one altogether like to him in ſhape and conſtitution, diſpoſition and affection; a ſecond ſelf; or one to be at hand and near to him, to ſtand continually before him, familiarly to converſe with him, to be always ready to ſuccor, ſerve, and comfort him; or, one whoſe eye, reſpect, and care, as well as deſire, (Gen. 3. 16) ſhould be to him, whoſe buſineſs it ſhall be to pleaſe and help him.

19 And out of the ground the LORD God formed every Beaſt of the Field, and every Fowl of the Air, and brought them b unto * Adam c, to ſee d what he would call them: And whatſoever Adam called every † living Creature, that was the name thereof e.

* Or, the Man.

b Either by Winds, or Angels, or by their own ſecret inſtinct, by which Storks, and Cranes, and Swallows change their places with the ſeaſon. c Partly to own their ſubjection to him; partly that man, being recreated with their proſpect, might adore and praiſe the Maker of them, and withal be ſenſible of his want of a meet companion, and ſo the better prepared to receive Gods mercy therein; and partly for the reaſon here following. d Or, make a diſcovery, not to God, who knew it already, but to all future Generations, who would hereby underſtand the deep wiſdom and knowledge of their firſt Parent. e To wit, in the primitive or Hebrew Language. And this was done for the maniſeſtation both of mans Dominion over the Creatures, and of the largeneſs of his underſtanding; it being an act of authority to give names, and an effect of vaſt knowledge to give convenient names to all the Creatures, which ſuppoſeth an exact acquaintance with their Natures.

20 And Adam † gave Names to all Cattel, and to the Fowl of the Air, and to every Beaſt of the Field: but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him f.

f q. d. But though, in giving them names, he conſidered their ſeveral natures and perfections, it was evident to himſelf, as well as to the Lord, that none of them was an help meet for him.

21 And the LORD God cauſed a deep ſleep to fall upon Adam g, and he ſlept: and he took one of his Ribs h, and cloſed up the Fleſh i inſtead thereof k.

g That he, who was without ſin, might feel no pain in the taking away of his Rib. And in this ſleep ſome think Adam was in an extaſie, wherein he ſaw what was done, together with the reaſon and myſtery of it. h Together with the Fleſh upon it, v. 23. Or, one of his ſides, for the Hebrew word ſignifieth a Side as well as a Rib, which may be taken Synecdochically, for a part of one of his ſides, viz. a Rib and the Fleſh upon it: Or, for one part out of each of his ſides; as if the two Ribs clothed with Fleſh were taken out of the man, becauſe he ſaith, verſe 23. This is Bone of my Bones, not, of my Bone. The Woman was taken out of this part, not out of the higher or lower parts, to ſhew that ſhe is neither to be her husbands Miſtreſs, to uſurp authority over him, 1 Tim. 2. 12. Nor yet to be his Slave, to be abuſed, deſpiſed, or trampled under his feet; but to be kindly treated, and uſed like a companion, with moderation, reſpect, and affection. Queſt. How could a Rib be taken from Adam, but it muſt be either ſuperfluous in Adam, while it was in him, or defective afterwards, both which reflect upon the Creator? Anſw. 1. It was no ſuperfluity, but a conveniency, if Adam had at firſt one Rib extraordinary put into him for this purpoſe. 2. If Adam loſt a Rib upon ſo glorious an occaſion, it was but a ſcar or badge of honour, and no diſparagement either to him, or to his Creator. 3. Either God created him a new Rib, or hardned the Fleſh to the Nature and Uſe of a Rib, and ſo there was no defect in him. i Together with another Bone or Rib. k (i. e.) Of that Rib and Fleſh which he took away from him, which was eaſie for God to do.

l From ſome place at a little diſtance, whither he firſt carryed her, that for the decency of the action he might bring her thence. m A Bride to a Bridegroom to be married to him: the great God being pleaſed to act the part of a Father to give his Daughter and workmanſhip to him, thereby both teaching Parents their duty of providing Marriages for their Children, and Children their duty of expecting their Parents conſent in Marriage.

23 And Adam ſaid n, This is now o Bone of my Bones, and Fleſh of my Fleſh p: She ſhall be called Woman, becauſe ſhe was * taken out of man.

NOw the Serpent a was more ſubtile than any Beaſt of the Field b, which the LORD God had made: and he ſaid c unto the Woman d, † Yea, e hath God ſaid f, Ye ſhall not eat of every g Tree of the Garden?

a Or, rather, this or that Serpent: For here is an emphatical article, of which more by and by. b The Serpents eminent ſubtilty is noted both in ſacred Scripture, Gen. 49. 17. Pſal. 58. 5. Matth 10. 16. 2 Cor. 11. 3. and by Heathen Authors, whereof theſe inſtances are given; that when it is aſſaulted, it ſecures its head; That it ſtops its ear at the Charmer's voice; and the like. If it be yet ſaid, that ſome Beaſts are more ſubtile, and therefore this is not true; it may be replied. 1. It is no wonder if the Serpent for its inſtrumentality in mans ſin hath loſt the greateſt part of its original ſubtilty, even as mans ſin was puniſhed with a great decay both of the natural endowments of his Mind, Wiſdom, and Knowledge, and of the beauty, and glory of his Body, the inſtrument of his ſin. But this Text may, and ſeems to be underſtood not of the whole Kind of Serpents, but of this individual, or particular Serpent; for it is in the Hebrew Hannachaſh, that Serpent, or this Serpent, to ſignifie that this was not only an ordinary Serpent, but was acted and aſſiſted by the Devil, who is therefore called that old Serpent, Rev. 12. 9. And this ſeems moſt probable, partly from the following diſcourſe, which is added as a proof of that which is here ſaid concerning the Serpents ſubtilty; and that ſurely was not the diſcourſe of a Beaſt, but of a Devil; and partly from 2 Cor. 11. 3. which hath a maniſeſt reference to this place, where the Apoſtle affirmeth that the Serpent beguiled Eve through his ſubtilty; not ſurely through that ſubtilty which is common to all Serpents, but through that ſubtilty which was peculiar to this, as it was poſſeſſed and acted by the Devil. There ſeems indeed to be an alluſion here to the natural ſubtilty of all Serpents; and the ſenſe of the ſacred Penman may ſeem to be this, as if he ſaid, The Serpent indeed in its ſelf is a ſubtile Creature, and thought to be more ſubtile than any Beaſt of the Field; but howſoever this be in other Serpents, it is certain that this Serpent was more ſubtile than any Beaſt of the Field, as will appear by the following words. If it be ſaid, the particle this, or that, is relative to ſomething going before, whereas there is not a word about it in the foregoing words; it may be replied, That relative particles are often put without any antecedents, and the antecedents are left to be gathered not only out of the foregoing, but ſometimes alſo out of the following paſſages, as is apparent from Exod. 14. 29. Numb. 7. 19. and 24. 17. Pſal. 87. 1. and 105. 19. and 114. 2. Prov. 7. 8. and 14. 26. So here, that Serpent, that of which I am now to ſpeak, whoſe diſcourſe with the Woman here followeth. c Queſt. How the Serpent could ſpeak, and what the Woman conceived of his ſpeech, and why ſhe was not affrighted, but continued the diſcourſe with it? There be two ſatisfactory anſwers may be given to theſe queſtions. 1. The Woman knew that there were Spirits, and did freely and frequently converſe with Spirits or Angels, who alſo did appear in ſome viſible ſhape to her, which ſeems very credible; becauſe in the following Ages not only the Angels, but even the bleſſed God himſelf did in that manner converſe with men. And as they afterwards uſed to appear in the ſhape of men, why might not one of them now appear to her, and converſe with her in the ſhape of a beautiful Serpent? And why might ſhe not freely and ſecurely diſcourſe with this which ſhe thought to be one of thoſe good Angels, to whoſe care and tuition both She and her Husband were committed? For I ſuppoſe the fall of the Angels was yet unknown to her; and ſhe thought this to be a good Spirit, otherwiſe ſhe would have declined all converſation with an Apoſtate Spirit. 2. A late ingenious and learned Writer repreſents the matter thus, in which there is nothing abſurd or incredible: The Serpent makes his addreſs to the Woman with a ſhort ſpeech, and ſalutes her as the Empreſs of the World, &c. She is not affrighted, becauſe there was as yet no cauſe of fear, no ſin, and therefore no danger, but wonders and enquires what this meant, and whether he was not a brute Creature, and how he came to have ſpeech, and underſtanding? The Serpent replies, that he was no better than a brute, and did indeed want both theſe gifts, but by eating of a certain fruit in this Garden he got both. She asked what Fruit and Tree that was? Which when he ſhewed her, ſhe replied, This, no doubt, is an excellent fruit, and likely to make the eater of it wiſe; but God hath forbidden us this Fruit: To which the Serpent replies, as it here follows in the Text. It is true, this diſcourſe is not in the Text; but it is confeſſed by Jewiſh, and other Expoſitors, that theſe words, Yea, hath God ſaid, &c. are a ſhort and abrupt ſentence, and that they were but the cloſe of a foregoing diſcourſe; which might well enough be either this now mentioned, or ſome other of a like nature. And that expreſſion which follows v. 6. When the Woman ſaw, i. e. underſtood, that it was a Tree to be deſired to make one wiſe, may ſeem to imply, both that the Serpent told her, and that ſhe believed, that the ſpeech and underſtanding of the Serpent was the effect of the eating of that Fruit; and therefore that if it raiſed him from a brute Beaſt to the degree of a reaſonable Creature, it would elevate her from the humane to a kind of divine nature or condition. d Who had upon ſome occaſion retired from her Husband for a ſeaſon; an advantage which the crafty Serpent quickly eſpieth, and greedily embraceth, and aſſaulteth her when ſhe wanteth the help of her Husband. e Or, Why, or, Is it ſo, or, indeed, or of a truth. f It is ſcarce credible that God, who is ſo bountiful, and the ſovereign Good, and ſo abhorring from all parſimony, and envy, ſhould forbid you the enjoyment of any part of thoſe proviſions which he hath made for your uſe and comfort. g Or, of any; for the word is ambigious, which therefore the cunning adverſary uſeth to hide the ſnare which he was laying for her.

2 And the Woman ſaid unto the Serpent, We may eat of the Fruit of the Trees of the Garden:

3 But of the Fruit of the Tree, which is in the midſt of the Garden, God hath ſaid, Ye ſhall not eat of it, neither ſhall ye touch it h, leſt ye dye i.

h To wit, in order to the eating of it: Or, the touch might be ſimply forbidden, or ſhe might reaſonably underſtand it to be forbidden in and by the prohibition of eating, becauſe it was an occaſion of ſin, and therefore to be avoided. For it is not probable that the Woman being not yet corrupted, ſhould knowingly add to God's Word, or maliciouſly inſinuate the harſhneſs of the Precept. i Others, leſt peradventure ye dye, as if ſhe doubted of the truth of the threatning: Which ſeems not probable, the Woman yet continuing in the ſtate of innocency, and ſuch doubting being evidently ſinful; and the Hebrew particle Pen, doth not always imply a doubt, as appears from Pſal. 2. 12. Iſa. 27. 3. and 36. 18. compared with 2 Kings 18. 3

* 2 Cor. 11. 3. 1 Tim. 2. 14.

4 * And the Serpent ſaid unto the Woman, Ye ſhall not ſurely dye k.

k It is not ſo certain as you imagine, that you ſhall dye. God did ſay ſo indeed for your terrour, and to keep you in awe; or, he had ſome myſtical meaning in thoſe words; but do not entertain ſuch hard and unworthy thoughts of that God who is infinitely kind and gracious, that he will for ſuch a trifle, as the eating of a little Fruit, undo you and all your Poſterity, and ſo ſuddenly deſtroy the moſt excellent work of his own hands.

5 For God doth know l, that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes ſhall be opened m: and ye ſhall be as Gods n, knowing Good and Evil o.

l If you would have the whole truth of the matter, and God's deſign in that Prohibition, it is only this. m He knoweth that you ſhall be ſo far from dying, that ye ſhall certainly be entred into a new and more noble kind of Life; and the eyes of your minds, which are now ſhut as to the knowledge of a World of things, ſhall then be opened, and ſee things more fully and diſtinctly. n Or, as God, like unto God himſelf in the largeneſs of your hnowledge. o As the very name that God hath put upon the Tree may teach you. But this is a priviledge, of which, for divers cauſes beſt known to himſelf, ſome of which your own reaſon will eaſily gueſs at, he would not have you partake of.

b Mentioned ver. 9. or rather the ſound, as the word voice is often taken in Scripture, as Pſal. 93. 3. Rev. 10. 3. and 19. 6. c Either God the Father, or rather God the Son, appearing in the ſhape of a man, as afterwards he frequently did, to give a foretaſte of his incarnation. d About Evening, the time when men uſe to walk abroad to recreate themſelves, when there was a cool and refreſhing Wind, whereby alſo the voice of the Lord was more ſpeedily and effectually convey'd to Adam and his wife. e Being ſenſible of God's approach, and filled with Shame and Conſcience of their own Guilt and dread of Judgement, inſtead of flying to God for Mercy, they fooliſhly attempted to run away from him, whom it was impoſſible to avoid.

9 And the LORD God called f unto Adam, and ſaid unto him, Where art thou g?

f With a loud voice. g Thou whom I have ſo highly obliged, Whither and wherefore doeſt thou run away from me thy Friend and Father, whoſe preſence was lately ſo ſweet and acceptable to thee? In what Place, or rather in what Condition art thou? What is the cauſe of this ſudden and wonderful Change? This he asks, not that he was ignorant of it, but to make way for the following Sentence, and to ſet a pattern for all Judges, that they ſhould examine the Offender, and enquire into the Offence before they proceed to Puniſhment.

10 And he ſaid, I heard thy voice in the garden: and I was afraid, becauſe I was naked h; and I hid my ſelf i.

h He confeſſeth his nakedneſs, which was evident, but ſaith nothing of his ſin; which, if poſſible, he would have hid. See Job 31. 33. And is grieved for the ſhameful effects of his ſin, but not yet ſincerely penitent for his ſin. i Out of reverence to thy glorious Majeſty.

11 And he ſaid, Who told thee that thou waſt naked *? Haſt thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee k, that thou ſhouldeſt not eat?

* Or, that thy nakedneſs, which lately was thy glory, was now become matter of ſhame. k Concerning which I gave thee ſo ſevere a charge upon pain of death.

12 And the man ſaid, The woman l whom thou gaveſt to be with me m, ſhe gave me of the tree, and I did eat n.

l I have eaten, not by my own choice and inclination, but by the perſwaſion of this woman. m As a meet help, a faithful friend and conſtant companion, ſuppoſing that it was not good for me to be alone, which the event ſhews would have been much better for me. Thus Adam excuſeth himſelf, and chargeth God fooliſhly with his ſin. n Out of complacency to her, not from any evil deſign againſt thee.

13 And the LORD God ſaid unto the woman, What is this that thou haſt done o? And the woman ſaid, The Serpent p beguiled me q, and I did eat r.

o How hainous a crime haſt thou committed? What a World of miſchief haſt thou, by this one act, brought upon thy ſelf and all thy poſterity? Or, Why haſt thou done this? What cauſes or motives couldſt thou have for ſo wicked an action? What need hadſt thou of meddling with this forbidden fruit, when I had given thee ſo large and liberal an allowance? p A Creature which thou haſt made, and that aſſiſted by an higher Power, by an evil Angel, for ſuch I now perceive by ſad experience there are. q A weak and fooliſh Woman, whoſe ſeduction calls for thy Pity, not thine Anger. r Being ſurprized, and over-perſwaded againſt my own Judgment and Reſolution.

14 And the LORD God ſaid unto the Serpent s, Becauſe thou haſt done this t, thou art u curſed above all cattel, and above every beaſt of the field x: upon thy belly ſhalt thou go *, and duſt ſhalt thou eat y all the days of thy life.

e Or rather this, or that Serpent, which as was ſaid before on v. 1. was no ordinary Serpent, but a Serpent acted and aſſiſted by the Devil; and therefore this ſentence or curſe is pronounced againſt both of them; 1. Againſt the Serpent it ſelf, which though an unreaſonable Creature, and therefore not ſubject to a Law, and conſequently not capable of guilt or ſin, Rom. 4. 15. yet, being the inſtrument of the Devils malice, is rightly puniſhed, as other Beaſts being abuſed by man's ſin did ſuffer together with him, Exod. 32. 20. Levit. 20. 15, 16. not for their crime, but partly for the puniſhment, and partly for the benefit of man, who is their Lord and Owner, Pſal. 8. 6. for whoſe ſake ſeeing they were made, it is not ſtrange if they be puniſhed for his uſe, that in their puniſhment man might have a demonſtration of God's anger againſt ſin, and a motive to Repentance. See on c. 6, 7. 2. Againſt the Devil, who is here principally intended, though as he lay hid in the body of the Serpent which he poſſeſſed and uſed; ſo his curſe is here mentioned under the cover of the Serpent's curſe, and under the diſguiſe of ſuch terms as properly and literally agree to the Serpent, but are alſo myſtically to be underſtood concerning the Devil; with whom the Lord entertaineth no conference, as he did with Adam and Eve, whoſe ſin was leſs than his, and whom God meant to bring to repentance; but immediately denounceth the curſe againſt him, as one that ſinned againſt much greater Knowledge, and from far worſe Principles, not from miſtake or miſinformation, but from choice and rebellion, from hatred of God, and from meer envy, and implacable malice againſt men. t Deceived the woman, and tempted her to this ſin. u Or, ſhalt be from hencefoth, both really and in the opinion of all mankind: Or, Be thou. x As in other reſpects, ſo particularly in that which here follows. † If the Serpent did ſo before the fall; what then was natural, is now become painful and ſhameful to it, as nakedneſs and ſome other things were to man. But it ſeems more probable, that this Serpent before the fall either had Feet, or rather did go with its Breaſt erect, as the Baſilisk at this day doth; God peradventure ſo ordering it as a Teſtimony that ſome other Serpents did once go ſo. And ſo the ſenſe of the curſe being applied to this particular Serpent, and to its kind, may be this; whereas thou hadſt a priviledge above other kinds of Serpents, whereby thou didſt go with erected Breaſt, and didſt feed upon the fruits of Trees and other Plants; now thou ſhalt be brought down to the ſame mean and vile eſtate with them, upon thy Belly, (or rather Breaſt, as the word alſo ſignifies) ſhalt thou go,&c. as they do. y Duſt is the food, as of Earth-worms, Scorpions, and ſome other Creatures; ſo alſo of ſome Serpents, as appears both from Iſa. 65. laſt. Mic. 7. 17. and from the Teſtimony of Nicander, Theriac. verſe 372. and Philo an Arabick Writer. Or, the duſt is the Serpent's ſawce rather than his meat, whilſt creeping and groveling upon the Earth, and taking his food from thence, he muſt neceſſarily take in duſt and filth together with it. Theſe two clauſes being applied to the Devil, ſignifie his fall from his noble State and Place to Earth and Hell; the baſeneſs of his Nature and of his Food, his delight being in the vileſt of men and things, it being now his Meat and Drink to diſhonour God, and deſtroy Mankind, and promote the eſteem and love of earthly things.

15 And I will put enmity z between thee and the woman a, and between thy * ſeed b, and her † ſeed c: it ſhall * bruiſe thy head e, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel f.

In the Devil this notes his Power and Authority over men; the ſtrength whereof conſiſts in Death, which Chriſt, the bleſſed ſeed of the Woman, overthroweth by taking away the ſting of death, which is ſin, 1 Cor. 15. 55, 56. and deſtroying him that had the power of death, that is, the Devil, Heb. 2. 14. f The part which is moſt within the Serpent's reach, and wherewith it was bruiſed, and thereby provoked to fix his venomous Teeth there: But a part remote from the Head and Heart, and therefore its wounds, though painful, are not deadly, nor dangerous, if they be obſerved in time. If it be applied to the ſeed of the Woman, Chriſt, his heel may note either his humanity, whereby he trod upon the Earth, which indeed the Devil by God's permiſſion, and the hands of wicked men, did bruiſe and kill: Or his Saints and Members upon the Earth, whom the Devil doth in diverſe manners bruiſe, and vex and afflict, while he cannot reach their head Chriſt in Heaven, nor thoſe of his Members who are or ſhall be advanced thither.

Or, thy Sorrows and thy Conception, by a figure called Hendiaduo, are put for thy ſorrows in Conception, or rather in Child-bearing, which the Hebrew word here uſed ſignifies, Gen. 16. 4. Jud. 13. 3. i Ariſtotle in his Hiſtor. Animal. 7. 9. obſerves, that Women bring forth young with more pain than any other Creatures. k Or, bear, for the word notes all the pains and troubles which Women have, both in the time of Child-bearing, and in the act of bringing forth. *l Heb. 18 Thorns alſo and thiſtles a, ſhall it † bring forth b to thee c: and thou ſhalt * eat the herb of the field d.

a And other unuſeful and hurtful Plants, Synecdochically contained under theſe. b Of its own accord. c Not to thy benefit, but to thy grief and puniſhment. d Inſtead of thoſe generous and delicious fruits of Paradiſe, which becauſe thou didſt deſpiſe, thou ſhalt no more taſt of. See Gen. 1. 29.

19 In the ſweat of thy face f ſhalt thou eat bread g till thou return unto the ground: for out of it waſt thou taken; for duſt thou art i, and unto duſt ſhalt thou return k.

f (i. e.) Of thy Body: He mentions the Face, becauſe there the ſweat appears firſt and moſt. Or, with labour of Body or Brain, Eccleſ. 1. 13. and vexation of mind. g (i. e.) Get thy food and livelihood: Bread being put for all nouriſhment, as Gen 18. 5. and 28. 20. i As to the conſtitution and original of thy Body. See Gen. 18, 27. Job 1. 21. Pſal 103. 14. k Though upon thy obedience I would have preſerved thy Body no leſs than thy Soul from all Mortality; yet now having ſinned, thou ſhalt return unto duſt in thy Body, whilſt the immortal Spirit ſhall return unto God who gave it, Eccleſ. 12. 7. Thus thy end ſhall be as baſe as thy beginning.

m Which ſignifies either Living, or, the giver, or preſerver of Life. n Though for her ſin juſtly ſentenced to a preſent death, yet by God's infinite Mercy, and by vertue of the promiſed Seed, was both continued in Life her ſelf, and was made the Mother of all living Men and Women, that ſhould be after her upon the Earth; who though in and with their Mother they were condemned to ſpeedy Death, yet ſhall be brought forth into the ſtate and land of the Living, and into the hopes of a bleſſed and eternal Life by the Redeemer, whoſe Mother or Progenitor ſhe was.

21 Unto Adam alſo, and to his wife did the LORD God p make coats of skins q, and clothed them r.

p Either by his own Word, or by the miniſtry of Angels. q Of Beaſts ſlain either for ſacrifice to God, or for the uſe of Man, their Lord and Owner. r Which he did, partly to defend them from exceſſive heats and colds, or other injuries of the Air, to which they were now expoſed; partly to mind them of their ſin which made their nakedneſs, which before was Innocent and Honourable, now to be an occaſion of Sin and Shame, and therefore to need covering: And partly to ſhew his care even of fallen Man, and to encourage his hopes of God's mercy through the bleſſed Seed; and thereby to invite him to Repentance.

22 And the LORD God ſaid s, Behold, the man is become t as one of us u, to know good and evil x: and now leſt he put forth his hand y, and take alſo a of the tree of life, and eat and live for ever b:

s Either within himſelf, or to the other perſons of the Godhead. t (i. e.) Adam and Eve both are become ſuch according to the Devil's promiſe, and their own expectation. This is an holy Irony, or Sarcaſm, like thoſe, 1 Kings 18. 27. Eccleſ. 11. 9. q. d. Behold! O all ye Angels, and all the future generations of Men, how the firſt man hath over-reached and conquered us, and got the Divinity which he affected; And how happy he hath made himſelf by his Rebellion! But this bitter ſcorn God uttereth not to inſult over man's miſery, but to convince him of his ſin, folly, danger and calamity, and to oblige him both to a diligent ſeeking after, and a greedy embracing the remedy of the promiſed Seed which God offered him, and to a greater watchfulneſs over himſelf, and reſpect to all God's commands for the time to come. u i. e. As one of the divine Perſons, of infinite Wiſdom and Capacity. Here is an evident proof of a plurality of Perſons in the Godhead, compare Gen. 1. 26. and 11 7. If it be ſaid, God ſpeaks this of himſelf and the Angels; beſides that as yet not one word hath been ſpoken concerning the Angels, it is an abſurd and unreaſonable conceit that the great God ſhould level himſelf with the Angels, and give them a kind of equality with himſelf, as this expreſſion intimates. x To know all things;

both good and evil. y The ſpeech is defective, and to be ſupplied thus, or ſome ſuch way; but now care muſt be taken, or man muſt be baniſhed hence, leſt he, &c. a i. e. As he did take of the tree of Knowledge. b (i. e) And thereby prophane that Sacrament of eternal Life, and fondly perſwade himſelf that he ſhall live for ever. This is another Scoff or Irony, whereby God upbraideth man's preſumption, and thoſe vain hopes wherewith he did ſtill feed himſelf.

23 Therefore d the LORD God ſent him forth e from the garden of Eden, to till f the ground, from whence he was taken g.

d For prevention thereof. e Or, expelled him with ſhame and violence, and ſo as never to reſtore him thither: For it is the ſame word which is uſed concerning divorced Wives. f To wit, with toil and ſweat, as was threatned, verſ. 17. g The ground without Paradiſe: For he was made without Paradiſe, and then put into it, as was noted before.

24 So he drove out the man: and he placed at the eaſt of the garden h of Eden, Cherubims i, and † a flaming ſword k, which turned every way l, to keep the way of the tree of life m.

h Where the enterance into it was, the other ſides of it being incloſed or ſecured by God to preſerve it from the entrance and annoyance of wild Beaſts: Or, before the Garden, i. e. Near to the Garden; before any man could come at the Garden any way. i (i. e) Angels, ſo called from their exquiſite Knowledge, and therefore fitly here uſed for the puniſhment of man who ſinned by affecting divine Knowledge. k In the Cherubims hands, as it was upon other occaſions, Numb 22. 23. Joſ. 5. 13. 1 Chron. 21. 16, 27. And this was either a material Sword, bright, and being brandiſhed, ſhining and glittering like a flame of fire; or flaming fire, in the ſhape of a Sword. Or, flaming Swords, becauſe there were divers Cherubims, and each of them had a Sword. The ſingular number for the plural: Or, a two-edged Sword. l Was brandiſhed and nimbly whirled about by the Cherubims; which poſture was fitteſt for the preſent ſervice. m The way that leads to Paradiſe, and ſo to the tree of Life; that man might be deterred and kept from coming thither.

The birth of Cain and Abel, and their employment, 1, 2. Cain's offering, 3. Abel's ſacrifice, and God's acceptance, 4. Cain's rejected; his diſcontent. 5. God expoſtulates it with him, 6, 7. He murthers Abel, 8. God makes enquiry after Abel, 9. The cry of his blood, 10. God's curſe upon Cain, 11, 12. His complaint, 13, 14. God mitigates it, 15. Its execution, 16. Cain's poſterity, 17, 18. Lamech's two wives, 19. They bear unto him ſons who dwell in tents, 20. Invent muſical inſtruments, 21. Have skill in braſs and iron, 22. His boaſting, 23, 24. The birth of Seth, 25. His ſon; the revival of religion, 26.

AND Adam knew a Eve his wife, and ſhe conceived and bare Cain b, and ſaid, I have gotten a man from the LORD d.

a This modeſt expreſſion is uſed both in Scripture and other Authors, to ſigniſie the conjugal Act, or carnal Knowledge. So Gen. 19. 8. and 24. 16. Numb. 31. 17. Matth. 1. 25. Luke 1. 34. b Whoſe name ſignifies a poſſeſſion. c A male Child, as Gen. 7. 2. which was moſt welcome. d Or, by or with the Lord, (i. e.) by vertue of his firſt Bleſſing, Gen. 1. 28. and ſpecial favour. Or, a Man the Lord, as the words properly ſigniſie, q. d. God-man, or the Meſſias, hoping that this was the promiſed Seed.

2 And ſhe again bare his brother † Abel e: and Abel was a † keeper of ſheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground f.

e Signifying vanity, a vain, mortal, miſerable Man, whereas ſhe thought Cain to be more than an ordinary Man: Or this name might prophetically deſign his miſerable Life, and untimely and unnatural Death. f Which was eſteemed a more honourable calling than that of a Shepherd, and therefore either choſen by the elder Brother, or alloted to him by his Father.

3 And † in * proceſs of time g it came to paſs, that Cain brought h of the fruit of the grounds an offering unto the LORD.

† Heb. at the end of days. Exod. 2. 23. Or, of the year. 2 Sam. 15. 26. Neh. 13. 6. Iſa. 24. 22.
* Ex. 2. 23.

g Either 1. In general at the return of the ſet time then appointed, and uſed for the ſolemn ſervice of God. Or, 2. At the end of the year, when there might be now, as there was afterward among the Jews, more ſolemn Worſhip and Sacrifices: The word days, being often put for a year, as Levit 25. 29. 1 Sam. 1. 3. and 27. 7. Or, 3. More probably at the end of the days of the week, or upon the ſeventh and laſt day of the week, Saturday, which then was the Sabbath day, which before this time was bleſſed and ſanctiſied, Gen. 2. 3. h Either to the place appointed for the ſolemn Worſhip of God: Or, to his Father, who at that time was both King, and Prophet, and Prieſt. Or brought, i. e. offered.

4 And Abel, he alſo brought of the firſtlings i of his † flock, and of the fat thereof k: and the LORD had * reſpect l unto Abel m and to his offering.

i Either 1. The firſt-born, which God reſerved to himſelf both at this time, and afterwards by an expreſs Law, Exod. 13. 2. Numb. 3. 13. Or, 2. The choiceſt and moſt eminent of the Flock: For the beſt of any kind are oft called firſt-born, as Job 18. 13. Jer. 31. 19. Heb. 12. 23. k Either 1. Properly, the fat being properly now required by God, as afterwards was expreſſed, Ex. 29. 13, 22. Levit. 3. 3. Or, 2. The beſt of them, as the word fat is often uſed, as Gen. 45. 18. and 49. 20. Numb. 18. 12. Nehem. 8. 10. Pſal. 147. 14. l Or, looked to him with a gracious eye, kindly accepted and owned him and his Sacrifice, and teſtified this, Heb. 11. 4. to Cain and all there preſent, either by expreſs word, or by ſome viſible ſign; probably by conſuming his Sacrifice by fire from Heaven, as the Fathers generally think; whereby alſo God did afterwards frequently ſignify his acceptance of Sacrifices, as Levit. 9. 24. Judg. 6. 21. 1 Kings 18. 38. 1 Chron. 21. 26. 2 Chron. 7. 1. m Unto Abel's perſon, who was a truly good Man; and then to his Sacrifice, which was offered with Faith in God's Mercy, and in the promiſed Mediator, Heb. 11. 4.

5 But unto Cain and to his offering he had not reſpect: and Cain was very wroth n, and his countenance fell o.

n Partly with God, who had caſt ſo publick a diſgrace upon him, and given the preference to his younger Brother; and partly with Abel, becauſe he had received more Honour from God, and therefore was likely to have more reſpect and priviledge from his Parents than himſelf. o Whereas before it was lifted up and chearful, now it fell down through ſenſe of guilt, diſappointment of his hope, ſhame and grief, and envy at his Brother.

6 And the LORD ſaid unto Cain p, Why art thou wroth? And * why is thy countenance fallen q?

* Job 29. 24.

p That he might bring him to repentance, and the knowledge of his Sin. q The cauſe of this dejectedneſs is not from me, but from thy ſelf.

7 If thou doeſt well r, ſhalt thou not † be accepted s? And if thou doeſt not well, ſin lieth at the door t: and † unto thee ſhall be his deſire, and thou ſhalt rule over him u.

r Or, for the future ſhalt do well, (i. e.) repent of thy Sin, amend thy Life, offer thy Offerings with a willing and chearful Mind, and honeſt Heart, in Faith and Love, as Abel did. s Or, pardoned, received into favour. Or, exalted, and either preſerved in, or reſtored unto thoſe rights of the firſt-born, which thou art conſcious to thy ſelf that thou haſt forfeited? Or, elevated, in thy looks, i. e. would not, or ſhould not, thy Countenance have been upright and pleaſant, which now is ſad and dejected? t Sin is here taken, either 1. Properly; ſo the ſenſe is, Sin will be growing upon thee; one Sin will bring in another, and that malice and purpoſe of revenge againſt thy Brother, which now lies hid in the ſecret Chamber of thy Mind and Heart, lies at the Door ready to break forth into the view of the World in open Murder. Or, 2. For the puniſhment of Sin, as it is taken Gen. 19. 15. Levit. 5. 1. and 20. 20. Numb. 18. 1. 2 Kings 7. 9. Zech. 14. 19. So the ſenſe is, if thou wilt go on in Sin, and execute thy wicked purpoſe, which I perceive lies working in thy Heart, be ſure thy ſin will find thee out, as it is ſaid Numb. 32. 23. Thou ſhalt not long enjoy the fruits of thy Wickedneſs, but a dreadful Judgment ſhall tread upon the heels of thy Sin, and lie like a furious Maſtive Dog at the very door of thy houſe, to ſeize upon thee at thy firſt coming in or going out. For that perſon or thing which is very near to us, or at hand, is ſaid to be at the doors, Matth. 24. 33. James 5. 9. u Thoſe two clauſes may relate either 1. To Sin, which may be here ſpoken of as a perſon, as it is Rom. 7. 8, 9, 11, &c. So the place may be rendred and expounded thus, The deſire of ſin is to thee, (i. e.) to aſſault, ſeduce, conquer and deſtroy thee: As it is ſaid, Luke 22. 31. Satan hath deſired to have you, that he may ſift you, &c. Or thus, its deſire, objectively, not ſubjectively taken, (i. e.) thy deſire, intention, or reſolution of Sinning; that evil motion of thy Heart againſt thy Brother, ſhall be againſt (as the Hebrew particle el oft ſignifies) thee, (i. e.) howſoever at preſent it pleaſeth thee, yet it is really not only againſt him, but againſt thy ſelf, and will certainly turn to thy own ruine: But (for ſo the particle and is commonly taken) If thou be wiſe, give no place to it, but reſiſt it, do thou rule (for the future Tenſe is oft put Imperatively, as in the Ten Commandments, and it frequently ſignifies not what a Man can or ſhall do, but his duty or what he ought to do, as is evident from Gen. 20. 9. Mal. 1. 6. Luke 3. 14.) over it, i. e. conquer and ſubdue it, which is thy duty: Or, thou ſhalt rule over it, (i. e.) by my grace aſſiſting thy endeavours, thou ſhalt be enabled to ſubdue thy evil Concupiſcences and Paſſions, and ſo over-rule, prevent, or remove thoſe Puniſhments, which otherwiſe Sin will infallibly bring upon thee. Or, 2. To Abel, and ſo the ſenſe is, and (as for thy Brother Abel, to whoſe Faith and Piety I have given this publick and honourable Teſtimony, which thy naughty Heart makes an occaſion of envy and malice, and intention of Murther, that thou mayſt not by a miſtake be led to the perpetration of ſo horrid a Crime; know, that this favour of mine concerns only his ſpiritual Priviledge, and the happineſs of the Life to come, which thou deſpiſeſt; bur it makes no change in civil Rights, nor doth it transfer the Dominion from thee, whoſe it is by Birth, unto him; nor doth he ſo underſtand it; for notwithſtanding this) unto thee ſhall be his deſire, ſubject, (i. e.) he ſhall and will nevertheleſs yield to thee as his Superiour, and thou according to thy own Hearts deſire, ſhalt rule over him. If it be ſaid, the name of Abel is not here mentioned, it may be anſwered, that this is ſufficiently included in the Pronouns his and him, and it is not unuſual to put thoſe relative Pronouns alone, the antecedent being not expreſſed, but to be gathered either from the foregoing or following Words; of which ſee my Notes on Gen. 3. 1.

8 And Cain † talked with Abel his brother x: and it came to paſs, when they were in the field y, that Cain roſe up againſt Abel his brother, and * ſlew him z.

x Either 1. Familiarly and friendly, as he uſed to do, thereby to make him ſecure and careleſs: Or by way of expoſtulation and contention. y Into which Abel was led, either by his own employment, or by Cain's perſwaſion; this being a fit place for the execution of his wicked purpoſe. z Poſſibly with Stone or Club, or with ſome Iron Tool belonging to Husbandry.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto Cain, Where is Abel a thy brother b? And he ſaid, I know not: Am I my brothers keeper c?

a Not that God was ignorant where he was, but partly to convince him of his Sin, and to lead him to Repentance, and partly to inſtruct Judges to enquire into Cauſes, and hear the accuſed ſpeak for themſelves, before they paſs Sentence b Whom Nature and near Relation obliged thee to love and preſerve. c Why doſt thou enquire of me concerning him who is of age to look to himſelf? Is he ſuch a ſtripling that he needs a Guardian? Or didſt thou ever make me his Guardian?

10 And he ſaid, What haſt thou done d? the voice of thy brothers † blood e * crieth unto me from the ground f.

d I hear thy Words, but what ſay thy Actions? What an hideous Crime haſt thou committed? In vain doſt thou endeavour to hide it or deny it. e In the Hebrew it is Bloods, either to aggravate the Crime; or, to ſhew the plenty of the Blood ſpilt; or, to charge him with the Murder of all thoſe that might naturally have come out of Abel's loins; which was a far greater Crime in the nonage of the World, when the World greatly wanted People. f Upon which it was ſpilt by thy bloody Hands.

11 And now art thou curſed g from the earth h, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brothers blood from thy hand i.

g As the earth was curſed for thy Father's ſake, ſo now art thou curſed in thy own Perſon. h Or, In regard of the Earth, which ſhall grudge thee both its Fruits, and a certain Dwelling-place. i Which had more humanity to thy Brother than thou hadſt; for it kindly received and covered that Blood which thou didſt cruelly and unnaturally ſhed upon it.

12 When thou tilleſt the ground k it ſhall not henceforth yield unto thee her ſtrength l. A fugitive and a vagabond m ſhalt thou be in the earth.

k Or, That ground, which doth or ſhall fall to thy ſhare; which beſides the firſt and general Curſe inflicted upon the whole Earth, ſhall have this peculiar Curſe added to it. l (i.e.) Its Vertue, and Fruit, in ſuch proportion, as it hath hitherto done. m Baniſhed from thy own Land and Kindred, and Father's Houſe, and from the whole Society of the Faithful, and wandring hither and thither. Others render the words mourning and trembling; or, trembling and wandring. Theſe two words note both the unquietneſs and horrour of his Mind and Conſcience, and the unſettledneſs of his Habitation and Condition, and as ſome add, the trembling of his Body.

13 And Cain ſaid unto the LORD, † My puniſhment n is greater than I can bear.

† Or, mine iniquity is greater than that it may be forgiven.

n Heb. My Sin: But Sin ſeems here to be put for puniſhment, as before verſe 7. and Gen. 19. 15. Levit. 5. 1. Pſal. 69. 27. Prov. 12. 21. For Cain was not ſo ſenſible of his Sin, as of the ill effects of it, as himſelf ſhews verſe 14.

14 Behold o thou haſt driven me out p this day from the face of the earth q: and from thy face r ſhall I be hid, and I ſhall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth, and it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that findeth me, ſhall ſlay me s.

o Conſider how ſeverely thou uſeſt me. p With publick infamy, as the word ſignifies. q Or, this Earth, my native Land. r (i.e.) Favour and Protection. s As the publick Enemy of Mankind, and as one devoted by thee to deſtruction. Queſt. Whom did Cain fear, when it appears not that there were any but his Father and Mother? Anſw. So ignorant People conceive; but it is a fond conceit to think, that there were no more Men than are expreſſed in this Book, where God never intended to give a Catalogue of all Men, but only of the Church, or thoſe who had ſome relation to, or concern with it. Nay, that there were very many thouſands of Men now in being, is very credible upon theſe rational grounds and ſuppoſitions. 1. That Adam and Eve did according to God's precept and bleſſing, Gen. 1. 26. procreate Children preſently after the fall, and God's gracious reconcilement to them; and conſequently their Children did ſo, when they came to competent age. 2. That thoſe firſt Men and Women were endowed by God with extraordinary Fruitfulneſs, and might have two, three, four or more at a time, (as divers Perſons long after had) which was then expedient for the repleniſhing of the World; and the like may be judged of their Children, during the World's infancy. 3. That this Murder was committed but a little before the Hundred and thirtieth year of Adam's age, which appears by comparing Gen. 4. 25. and 5. 3. Before which time, How vaſt and numerous an off-ſpring might have come from Adam, none can be ignorant that can, and ſhall make a rational computation.

15 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Therefore t whoſoever ſlayeth Cain, vengeance ſhall be taken on him ſeven-fold u. And the LORD ſet a mark upon Cain x, leſt any finding him ſhould kill him.

t Or, Aſſuredly, as the word ſignifies, Jer. 2. 32. and 5. 2. Zech. 11. 17. That thou mayſt ſee how I hate Murther, and how impartially I ſhall puniſh all Murtherers; and that thou mayſt be unhappily free from this fear, that thou mayſt live for an example to Mankind, for a terrour to thy ſelf and others. u (i. e.) Abundantly; he ſhall be plagued with many and grievous Puniſhments, as the phraſe is uſed, Levit. 26. 28. Pſal. 12. 7. and 79. 12. and in many other places. x What this was, whether a trembling of his Body, or a ghaſtlineſs of his Countenance, or what other viſible token of the divine Diſpleaſure, God hath not revealed, nor doth it concern us to know.

16 ¶ And Cain went out from the preſence of the LORD y, and dwelt in the land of Nod z, on the eaſt of Eden.

y (i. e.) Was baniſhed from the place of God's ſpecial Preſence and Habitation, from the Society of his Father, and of the only Church which God had upon Earth. z In the Land which was afterwards called Nod, from Cain's unſettled Condition, becauſe he continued wandring hither and thither in it.

17 And Cain knew his wife a, and ſhe conceived and bare † Enoch, and he built a city b, and called the name of the city, after the name of his ſon, Enoch c.

a Of which phraſe ſee on chap. 4. 1. b Partly to divert his troubled Mind with Buſineſs and Pleaſure, and partly for his own ſecurity againſt the Enemies and Evils which his guilty Conſcience made him fear, notwithſtanding the aſſurance which God had given him. And this he did as ſoon as he was in capacity for it, either by the increaſe of his own Poſterity, or by the acceſſion of other degenerate Sons of Adam to him, who either being baniſhed, or having departed from the Church, willingly aſſociated themſelves with their Brethren in iniquity. c Not after his own name, which he knew to be infamous and hateful.

18 And unto Enoch was born Irad: and Irad begat Mehujael, and Mehujael begat Methuſael, and Methuſael begat † Lamech.

† Heb. Lemech.

19 ¶ And Lamech d took unto him two wives e: the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah.

20 And Adah bare Jubal: he was the father of ſuch as dwell in tents f, and of ſuch as have cattel g.

f He taught Shepherds to dwell in Tents, and to remove them from place to place, for conveniency of Paſture. The firſt Authors or Inventers of any thing, are commonly called its Fathers. g Heb. And of Cattel, i. e. The Inventer of the art of keeping and managing Cattel.

21 And his brothers name was Jubal: he was the father of all ſuch as handle the harp and organ h.

h Or, The lovely inſtrument; But what kind of inſtrument this was, even the Jews do not underſtand. The meaning is, he was the Inventer of Muſick and muſical Inſtruments.

22 And Zillah ſhe alſo bare Tubal-Cain i, an † inſtructer of every artificer in braſs, and iron k: and the ſiſter of Tubal-Cain was Naamah l.

† Heb. Whetter.

23 And Lamech ſaid unto his wives, Adah and Zillah m, Hear my voice, ye wives of Lamech, hearken unto my ſpeech: for * I have ſlain a man to my wounding, and † a young man * to my hurt n.

* Or, I would ſlay a man in my wound, &c. † Heb. a Child. * Or, in my hurt.

m Who, obſerving his fierceneſs and cruelty, feared that the Vengeance of God or Men would fall upon him, and upon them for his ſake. n (i. e.) Be it ſo that I have ſlain a Man, and that a young Man, Why do you concern your ſelves in it? It is to my own wounding and hurt, not to yours; I muſt ſuffer for it, not you. Some take this to be a ſorrowful Confeſſion of his bloody Crime, q. d. I have murdered a Man, to my wounding, &c. (i. e.) to my utter ruin, or to the wounding and grief of my Heart and Conſcience. But this ſeems not to agree either with the quality of Cain's Family, or with the temper of Lamech's Perſon, or with the ſcope of the Holy Ghoſt in this place; which is to deſcribe not the Vertues, but the Crimes of that wicked Race. According to the marginal Tranſlation, the ſenſe may be this, Fear not for me; for if any Man, though in his youth and ſtrength, ſhould aſſault me, and give me the firſt wound, he ſhould pay dearly for it; and though I were wounded and weakned, the remainders of my ſtrength would be ſufficient to give him his deaths Wound. The words alſo may be otherwiſe rendred; the Particle chi being taken interrogatively, as it is Iſa. 29. 6. and 36. 19. and elſewhere, Have I ſlain a Man to my wounding, and [or, or] a young Man to my hurt? (i. e.) That thereby I ſhould deſerve ſuch a mortal Wound or Hurt to be inflicted upon me by way of retaliation? You have therefore no cauſe of fear either for my ſake, or for your own.

o If the ſlaughter of Cain ſhall be puniſhed in him that ſhall kill him, whoſoever he be. p (i.e.) My death ſhall be much more certainly and ſeverely revenged by God upon any Man that ſhall murder me. Theſe words may be either 1. A profane ſcoff. q. d. Since Cain, my Father and Pattern in murther, was ſo far from being puniſhed by the Hand of God, that he had a ſpecial Protection from him, that no Man ſhould dare to touch him; I (whoſe murther is not ſo hainous as his was) ſhall not fare worſe than he, and therefore have no reaſon to fear either God or Men. Or 2. An argument or ground of his Security, q. d. I am not only ſecured by my own Puiſſance, but by God's Providence; which certainly will be more watchful over me, who have not committed any ſuch horrid Crime, than over him that killed his own innocent Brother.

25 ¶ And Adam knew his wife again, and ſhe bare a ſon, and called his name † Seth q: for God, ſaid ſhe r, hath appointed me another ſeed s inſtead of Abel t, whom Cain ſlew.

q She gave the name, but not without Adam's conſent, Gen. 5. 3. r By divine Inſpiration. s Note that the word Seed is uſed of one ſingle Perſon here, and Gen. 21. 13. and 38. 8. Which confirms the Apoſtle's argument, Gal. 3. 16. t To ſucceed his Father Adam, as Abel ſhould have done in the Prieſthood, and adminiſtration and care of holy Things in the Church of God.

26 And to Seth, to him alſo there was born a ſon; and he called his name † Enos u: then began men * to call upon the name of the LORD x.

u Which properly ſignifies a miſerable Man, to note the great wickedneſs and wretchedneſs of that Generation; which the Hebrew Writers generally obſerve. x To pray unto God, to worſhip God in a more publick and ſolemn manner: Praying being here put for the whole Worſhip of God, as Gen. 12. 8. and 26. 25. and in many other places. According to the marginal Verſion, the ſenſe is this; then when the World was univerſally corrupt, and had forſaken God and his Service, good Men grew more Valiant and Zealous for God, and did more publickly and avowedly own God, and began to diſtinguiſh and ſeparate themſelves from the ungodly World; and to call themſelves, and one another by the name of God, (i. e.) the Sons, Servants, or Worſhippers of God, as they are expreſly called; and that, as it ſeems, upon this occaſion, Gen. 6. 2. And in this ſenſe this phraſe is elſewhere taken, as Iſa. 43. 7. and 44. 5. and 65. 1. Some render the place thus, Then began Men to profane the name, (i. e.) the Worſhip of the Lord, by Idolatry or Superſtition. But this ſeems neither to agree with the Hebrew phraſe, nor to ſuit with this place, where he ſpeaks of the Poſterity of Seth; who were the holy Seed, and the only Church of God then in the World.

The manner of man's creation repeated, 1, 2. The genealogy, age, and death of the fathers from Adam to Noah, in the line of Seth. Seth begotten of Adam after his image, 3. The piety and tranſlation of Enoch, 24. Lamech's prophecy of his ſon Noah, 29. Sons born to Noah, 32.

* 1 Chron. 1. 1. THis is the * book a of the generations of Adam b: in the day that God created man c, in the likeneſs of God made he him d.

a (i. e.) The Liſt or Catalogue, as this word is taken Nehem. 7. 5. Matth. 1. 1. as it is alſo put for any ſhort writing, as for a bill of Divorce, as Deut. 24. 1, 2. b (i. e.) His poſterity begotten by him; the word being paſſively uſed. But he doth not here give a compleat Liſt of all Adam's Children, but only of his godly Seed, which preſerved true Religion and the Worſhip of God from Adam to the Flood, and from whoſe loins Chriſt came, Luke 3. c This is here repeated to note the different way of the production of Adam and of his Poſterity; his was by Creation from God, theirs by Generation from their Parents. d See Gen 1. 26.

2 Male and female created he them e, and bleſſed them f, and called their name Adam g, in the day when they were created.

e See Gen. 1. 26. Matth. 19. 4. Mark 10. 6. f With Power to propagate their Kind, and with other Bleſſings. See Gen. 1. 28. g Which name is given both to every Man, as Gen. 9. 6. Pſal. 49 20. and to the firſt Man, as Gen. 2. 23. and to the whole kind, both the Man and the Woman, who are called by one name, to ſhew their intimate Union and Communion in all things.

3 And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years h, and begat a ſon in his own likeneſs, after his image i, and called his name Seth.

h After he was created, in which time he begat other Sons and Daughters, as appears from what was ſaid before. i Either 1. In regard of the natural frame of his Body and Soul: But this was ſo evident of it ſelf, that the mention of it had been frivolous. Nor is there any reaſon why that ſhould be ſaid of Seth, rather than of Cain, or Abel. Or 2. In regard of his Corruption, q. d. a weak, ſinful, mortal Man, like himſelf: For Adam's Image is here plainly oppoſed to the likeneſs of God, wherein Adam is ſaid to be created, verſe 1. And this is fitly ſaid of Seth to ſignifie, that although he was a worthy and good Man, and, Adam excepted, the moſt eminent Perſon of the whole Church of God; yet he, no leſs than wicked Cain, was begotten and born in Sin; and that all the difference which was between him, and conſequently between other good Men, and the wicked Progeny of Cain, was not from the nature which they received from Adam, but from the grace infuſed into them by God.

* 1 Chron. 1. 1, &c. 4 * And the days of Adam, after he had begotten Seth, were eight hundred years: and he begat ſons and daughters k.

k Whoſe names and numbers are here paſſed over in ſilence, as not belonging to the Genealogy of Chriſt, nor to the following Hiſtory.

5 And all the days that Adam lived, were nine hundred and thirty years l, and he died.

l The long lives of Men, in ancient times here noted, are alſo mentioned by Heathen Authors: And it was wiſely ſo ordered by God, both for the more plentiful encreaſe of Mankind in the firſt age of the World, and for the more effectual Propagation of true Religion, and other uſeful Knowledge to the World. And many natural Reaſons might be given why their lives were then longer than afterwards.

6 And Seth lived an hundred and five years, and begat Enos.

7 And Seth lived after he begat Enos, eight hundred and ſeven years, and begat ſons and daughters.

8 And all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years, and he died.

† Heb. Kenan. 9 And Enos lived ninety years, and begat † Cainan.

10 And Enos lived after he begat Cainan, eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat ſons and daughters.

11 And all the days of Enos were nine hundred and five years, and he died.

† Gr. Maleleel. 12 And Cainan lived ſeventy years, and begat † Mahalaleel.

13 And Cainan lived after he begat Mahalaleel, eight hundred and forty years and begat ſons and daughters.

14 And all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years, and he died.

15 And Mahalaleel lived ſixty and five years, and begat † Jared. † Heb. Jared.

16 And Mahalaleel lived after he begat Jared, eight hundred and thirty years, and begat ſons and daughters.

17 And all the days of Mahalaleel, were eight hundred ninety and five years, and he died.

18 And Jared lived an hundred ſixty and two years, and he begat Enoch.

19 And Jared lived after he begat Enoch, eight hundred years, and begat ſons and daughters.

20 And all the days of Jared were nine hundred ſixty and two years, and he died.

21 And Enoch lived ſixty and five years, and begat † Methuſelah m. † Gr. Mathuſala.

m Whoſe name is thought by ſome learned men to contain a Propheſy of the Flood, which was to come a thouſand Years after; for it ſignifies, He dies, and the Dart or Arrow of God's Vengeance comes. Or, He dies, and the ſending forth of the Waters comes.

22 And Enoch * walked with God n, after he begat Methuſelah, three hundred years, and begat ſons and daughters o. * Chap 24. 40. Pſal. 16 8. and 116. 9.

n (i. e.) He lived as one whoſe Eye was continually upon God; whoſe care and conſtant courſe and buſineſs it was to pleaſe God, and to imitate him, and to maintain acquaintance and communion with him; as one devoted to God's ſervice, and wholly governed by his will. He walked not with the Men of that wicked age, or as they walked, but being a Prophet and Preacher, as may be gathered from Jude, ver. 14, 15. with great Zeal and Courage he proteſted and preached againſt their evil Practiſes, and boldly owned God and his Ways in the midſt of them. Compare Gen. 6. 6. Jer. 12. 3. Mic. 6. 8. o Hence it is undeniably evident that the ſtate and uſe of Matrimony doth very well agree with the ſevereſt courſe of Holineſs, and with the office of a Prophet or Preacher.

23 And all the days of Enoch were three hundred ſixty and five years.

24 And * Enoch walked with God: and he was not p, for God took him q. * Heb. 1 5.

p (i. e.) He appeared not any longer upon Earth, or amongſt mortal Men. The ſame phraſe is in Gen. 42. 36. Jer. 31. 15. q Out of this ſinful and miſerable World unto himſelf, and to his heavenly Habitation. See Luke 23. 43. And he took either his Soul, of which alone this phraſe is uſed, Ezek. 24. 16. or rather both Soul and Body, as he took Elias, 2 Kings 2. 11. becauſe he ſo took him that he did not ſee death, Heb 11. 5.

26 And Methuſelah lived after he begat Lamech, ſeven hundred eighty and two years, and begat ſons and daughters.

27 And all the days of Methuſelah, were nine hundred ſixty and nine years r, and he died s.

r The longeſt time that any Man lived. But it is obſervable that neither his, nor any of the Patriarch's Lives reached to a thouſand Years, which number hath ſome ſhadow of perfection. s But a little before the Flood came, being taken away from the evil to come.

28 And Lamech t lived an hundred eighty and two years, and begat a ſon.

t Not that wicked Lamech mentioned chap. 4. for he was of the Family of Cain, but this was deſcended from Seth.

29 And he called his name † Noah u, ſaying x, This ſame ſhall comfort us concerning our work, and toil of our hands y, becauſe of the ground which the LORD hath curſed. † Gr. Noe.

u Which ſignifies reſt. x By the Spirit of Propheſy. y (i. e.) Concerning the hard labour and manifold troubles to which we are Sentenced, chap. 3. 19. And this he did either 1. By the invention of Inſtruments of Huſbandry, whereby Tillage was made more eaſy. Or 2. By removing in ſome part the Curſe inflicted upon the Earth, and reconciling God unto Mankind. Poſſibly he might ſuppoſe that this was the Meſſias, or promiſed Seed, and the Saviour of the undone World: As it was frequent with the ancient Fathers, through their earneſt deſire of the Meſſias, to expect him long before he came, and to miſtake other Perſons for him. Or 3. By preſerving a remnant of Mankind from that Deluge, which he by the Spirit foreſaw would come, and re-peopling the emptied Earth with a new Generation of Men, and by reſtoring and improving the Art of Huſbandry. See Geneſis 9. 20.

30 And Lamech lived after he begat Noah, five hundred ninety and five years, and begat ſons and daughters.

31 And all the days of Lamech were ſeven hundred ſeventy and ſeven years, and he died.

32 And Noah was five hundred years old: and Noah begat z Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

z (i. e.) He began to beget; God in mercy denying him Children till that time, that he might not beget them to the deſtroyer, that he might have no more than ſhould be ſaved in the Ark:

Or, having before that time begotten others who were now dead, and having the approaching Flood in his view, he began again to beget a Seminary for the World. Of theſe three Sons here following, the eldeſt ſeems to be Japhet, Gen. 10. 21. The ſecond was Sem, as appears becauſe he was but an Hundred years old two years after the Flood, Gen. 11. 11. The youngeſt Ham, Gen 9. 24. But Sem is firſt named in order of dignity, as being the Progenitor of the Church, and of Jeſus Chriſt; and becauſe he and his progeny is the principal ſubject of this whole Hiſtory.

CHAP. VI.

Unlawful matches of the ſons of God with with the daughters of men, 1, 2. Grieve the ſpirit of God, who threatens their deſtruction, 3. Giants and mighty men born; a general degeneracy of mankind, 4, 5. God repents that he had made man, and reſolves to deſtroy that world, 6, 7. Noah is excepted, and finds favour with God, 8. His character, 9. The earth corrupt and filled with violence, 11, 12. God declares to Noah his purpoſe to deſtroy it, 13. Directs him to make an ark, 14—16. Mentions a deluge, 17. His covenant with Noah to preſerve a ſeed, 18—21. Noah's obedience, 22.

AND it came to paſs when men a began to multiply b on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them c, a (i. e.) Wicked men, the poſterity of Cain, as appears from the following verſe; who are here called men, and the ſons of men, by way of contempt, and of diſtinction; meer men, ſuch as had only the natures and qualities of corrupt men, without the image of God. b To wit, more than ordinarily; or more than the ſons of God, becauſe they practiſed Polygamy after the example of their Predeceſſor, the ungodly Lamech, Gen. 4. 19. c So doubtleſs were Sons alſo; but their Daughters are here mentioned, as one principal occaſion of the ſin noted in the next verſe, and of the following deluge.

2 That the ſons of God d ſaw e the daughters † of men f, that they were fair g, and they took h them Wives i of all which they choſe k. † Or, of Man.

d Either 1. Perſons of greateſt eminency for place and power, for ſuch are called Gods, and Children of the moſt High, Pſal. 82. 6. Where alſo they are oppoſed to Men, verſe 7. i. e. to meaner Men. And the moſt eminent things in their kinds are attributed to God, as Cedars of God, Hill of God, &c. But it is not probable, that the Princes and Nobles ſhould generally take Wives or Women of the meaner rank, nor would the Marriages of ſuch perſons be ſimply condemned, or at leaſt it would not be mentioned as a crying ſin, and a great cauſe of the deluge. Or rather 2. The Children of Seth, and Enos, the profeſſors of the true Religion. For 1. Such, and only ſuch, in the common uſe of Scripture, are called the Sons and Children of God, as Deut. 14. 1. and 32. 19. Iſa. 1. 2. and 45, 11. Hoſ. 11. 1. Luke 17. 27, &c. 2. This title manifeſtly relates to Gen. 4. 26. where the ſame Perſons are ſaid to be called by the name of the Lord, i. e. to be the Sons and Servants of God. 3. They are oppoſed to the Daughters of Men, the word Men being here taken in an ill ſenſe, for ſuch as had nothing in them but the nature of Men, which is corrupt and abominable, and were not Sons of God, but Foreigners and Strangers to him, and Apoſtates from him. 4. Theſe unequal matches with Perſons of a falſe Religion, are every where condemned in Scripture as ſinful and pernicious, as Gen. 26. 35. Exod. 34. 16. 1 Kings 11. 2, 3. Ezra 9. 12. Nehem. 13. 23, &c. Mal. 2. 11. 1 Cor. 7. 39. 2 Cor. 6. 14. and therefore are fitly ſpoken of here, as one of the ſins which brought the Flood upon the ungodly World. e (i. e.) Gazed upon and obſerved curiouſly and luſtfully, as the ſequel ſheweth. f Of that ungodly and accurſed race of Cain. g (i. e.) Beautiful, and ſet off their beauty with all the allurements of Ornaments and Carriage; herein uſing greater liberty than the Sons and Daughters of God did, or durſt take, 1 Pet. 3. 3. and therefore were more enticing and prevalent with fleſhly-minded Men. h Either 1 By force and violence, as the word ſometimes ſignifies. Or rather 2. By conſent; for the Sons of God were ſo few, in compariſon of the wicked World, that they durſt not take away their Daughters by force; which alſo proves that they did not take them for Harlots, but for Wives. i Poſſibly more than one for each of them, after the example of thoſe wicked Familes into which they were matched. k (i. e.) Loved and liked, as the word chooſing is taken, Pſal. 25. 12. and 119. 173. Iſa. 1. 29. and 42. 1. compared with Matth. 12. 28. This is noted as the firſt errour, that they did promiſcuouſly chooſe Wives, without any regard to their Sobriety and Religion, minding only the pleaſing of their own Fancies and Luſts, not the pleaſing and ſerving of their Lord and Maker, nor the obtaining of a godly Seed, which was God's end in the inſtitution of Marriage, Mal. 2. 15. and therefore ſhould have been theirs too.

3 And the LORD ſaid l, My ſpirit ſhall not always ſtrive with man m, for that he alſo n is fleſh o, yet p his days q ſhall be an hundred and twenty years r.

l Either 1. To the men of that age by the mouth of Noah. Or, 2. within himſelf; (ſee Pſal 14. 1.) he determined. m Or, Contend, or, Debate in or againſt men, as it hath hitherto done, by inward motions and ſuggeſtions in the Minds and Conſciences of wicked Men, or by the Mouths and Miniſtry of that ſmall remnant of holy Men, and particularly of Noah, who proteſted againſt, and contended with the World of the ungodly, and by their Doctrines, Admonitions, Threatnings and Examples, endeavoured to bring them to Repentance, 1 Pet. 3. 19. or diſpute with, or concerning, or becauſe of Men, i. e. Whether I ſhould deſtroy or ſave him, as God diſputes with, or about Ephraim, Hoſ. 11. 8. n (i. e.) Even the Seed of Seth, or the Sons of God alſo; no leſs than the off-ſpring of Cain: The Pronoun being here put for the foregoing Noun, and the ſingular Number put for the plural, he, i. e. they, to wit, the Sons of God. Both which Figures are frequent in the uſe of Scripture. Or, he, i. e. Man, all Mankind, the Sons of God not excepted. o Not only fleſhly in part, or in ſome actions, but altogether, in regard of Soul as well as Body, minding nothing but making proviſion for the fleſh to fulfil its Luſts, Rom. 13. 14. Not having the Spirit, Jude verſe 19. nor heeding its good Motions, but ſuppreſſing and reſiſting them. Fleſh not only in the condition of their Nature, but in the baſeneſs and corruption of their Hearts and Lives; as the word Fleſh is commonly uſed when it is oppoſed to the Spirit, as John 3. 6. Rom. 7. 18. and 8, 5, 7. Gal. 5. 17. p Though he deſerve a ſpeedy deſtruction q (i. e.) The time allowed him for Repentance, and the prevention of his Ruine. r During which time Noah was preaching, and to aſſure them of the Truth of his Doctrine, preparing the Ark. See 1 Peter 3. 20. 2 Peter 2. 5. Queſt. How did God perform this Promiſe, when there were but an hundred years between this time and the Flood, by comparing Gen. 5. 32. with Gen. 7. 11? Anſw. 1. The encreaſing wickedneſs of Mankind might juſtly haſten their ruine, and forfeit the benefit of this indulgence. 2. This Promiſe, though mentioned after that, Gen. 5. 32. yet ſeems to have been made twenty years before it; for that verſe is added there out of its proper place, only to compleat the Genealogy; and therefore, after this Narration, it is repeated here in its due order, verſe 10. And ſuch Hyſteron Proterons are frequently noted in Scripture.

4 There were giants s in the earth in thoſe days: and alſo after that t, when the ſons of God came in u unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the ſame became mighty men, which were of old x, men of † renown. † Heb Name.

s Men ſo called, partly from their high ſtature, but principally for their great ſtrength and force, whereby they oppreſſed and tyrannized over others: For this is mentioned as another Sin, and cauſe of the Flood; and therefore they ſeem to be here noted, not for the height of their ſtature, which is no crime, but for their violence, which alſo is expreſſed beneath, verſe 11, 13. t After that time there aroſe a new Generation or Succeſſion of that ſort of Men. u Were united and incorporated with them. A modeſt expreſſion of the Conjugal ſtate and act, as Gen. 16. 2. and 35. 3. Jud. 15. 2. x Which were proper to the firſt ages of the World; for the ſucceeding Generations were generally leſs in ſtature and ſtrength of Body, and therefore not ſo famous for perſonal Exploits. Or theſe words may be thus joyned with the following, Which were of old, (i. e.) among the Men of that firſt and wicked World, men of renown, (i. e.) famous in their Generations; when indeed they ſhould have been infamous for the abuſe of their ſtature and ſtrength to tyranny and cruelty.

5 And God ſaw that the wickedneſs of man was great in the earth, and that † every imagination of the thoughts of his * heart y was only evil † continually a. † Or, the whole imagination. The Hebrew word ſignifieth not only the imagination, but alſo the purpoſes and deſires. * Chap. 8. 21. Matth. 25. 11. † Heb. every day

y To which the Scripture commonly aſcribes all Men's actual wickedneſs, as Pſal. 41. 6. Prov. 4. 23. and 6. 14, 18 Jer. 17. 9. Matth. 15. 19. Rom. 3. 10, &c. Thereby leading us from acts of Sin to the original Corruption of Nature, as the cauſe and ſource of them. a (i. e.) That Man was perpetually either doing or contriving wickedneſs; that not only his Actions were vile, but his Principles alſo; his very Soul, yea the nobleſt part of it, which might ſeem moſt free from the contagion; his Mind and Thoughts were corrupt and abominable, and ſo there was no hopes of amendment.

6 And it repented the LORD b that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart c.

b Properly God cannot repent, Numbers 23. 19. 1 Samuel 15. 11, 29. becauſe he is unchangeable in his Nature and Counſels, Mal. 3. 6. Jam. 1. 17. and perfectly Wiſe, and conſtantly Happy, and therefore not liable to any Grief or Diſappointment: But this is ſpoken of God after the manner of Man, by a common Figure called Anthropopathia, whereby alſo Eyes, Ears, Hands, Noſe, &c. are aſcribed to God; and it ſignifies an alienation of God's Heart and Affections from Men for their wickedneſs, whereby God carries himſelf towards them, like one that is truly penitent and grieved, deſtroying the work of his own Hands. c Or, at his very Soul, i. e. exceedingly.

7 And the LORD ſaid, I will deſtroy man, whom I have created, from the face of the earth: † both man and beaſt d, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air: for it repenteth me that I have made them. † Heb. from man unto beaſt.

d For as the Beaſts were made for Man's uſe and ſervice, ſo they are deſtroyed for Man's puniſhment, and to diſcover the malignity of Sin; and God's deep abhorrency thereof, by deſtroying thoſe innocent Creatures that had been made inſtrumental to it.

8 But Noah found grace e in the eyes of the LORD.

e (i. e.) Obtained Mercy and Favour; which is noted to ſhew that Noah was ſo far guilty of the common Corruption of humane Nature, that he needed God's Grace and Mercy to pardon and preſerve him from the common Deſtruction.

9 Theſe are the generations of Noah f: * Noah was a juſt man, and † perfect h in his generations i, and Noah walked with God k. * Ezek. 14. 14, 20. 2 Pet 2. 5. † Or, upright.

f Either 1. Properly the poſterity of Noah, as the word is commonly uſed; and as it is explained verſe 10. So the reſt of this verſe comes in by way of Parentheſis, which is frequent. Or, 2. The events or occurrences which befel Noah and his Family, as the word is taken, Gen. 37. 2. Prov. 27. 1. h Theſe words are to be taken either 1. Joyntly, q. d. he was Righteous, not only in appearance, or in part, but perfectly, in all reſpects, towards God and Men; or ſincerely and truly. Or, 2. Diſtinctly, q. d. he was for his ſtate and condition juſt before God, which was by Faith, Heb. 11. 7. by which every juſt man lives, Rom. 1. 17. and perfect, i. e. upright and unblameable in the courſe of his Life among the men of his Age, as it follows. i This is ſpoken either 1. Diminutively; he was ſo comparatively to the men that then lived, who were very bad; though otherwiſe even Noah had many infirmities, ſo that he alſo had not been ſaved but for God's Grace and Mercy, v. 8. Or, 2. By way of amplification and commendation; he was good in bad times, in ſpight of all evil Counſels or Examples. He ſaith Generations in the plural Number, to ſhew that as he lived in two Generations, one before the Flood, and another after it, ſo he continued uncorrupted in both of them. k See on Gen. 5. 22.

l See the Note on Gen. 5. 32.

11 The earth m alſo was corrupt before God n, and the earth o was filled with violence p.

m Which is here put for its Inhabitants, as 1 Kings 10. 24. Ezek. 14. 13. n Or, Before the face of God, q. d. in deſpight and contempt of God, and of his Preſence and Juſtice. Compare Gen. 10. 9. and 13. 13. q. d. They ſinned openly and impudently without ſhame, boldly and reſolutely without any fear of God. o Here put for the place, or the inhabited parts of it. So the ſame word is twice uſed in a differing ſenſe in one and the ſame verſe. See the like Matth. 8. 22. p Or, Injuſtice, Fraud, Rapine, Oppreſſion: For all theſe this word ſignifies. Some conceive that theſe two Branches note the univerſal Corruption of mankind, in reference to all their Duties. 1. Towards God and his Worſhip, which they corrupted by horrible Superſtition, and by Idolatry, which is called Corruption, Exod. 32. 7. Deut. 32. 5. Jud. 2. 19. 2 Chron. 27. 28. 2. Towards Men, in the Duties of Righteouſneſs.

12 And God looked upon the earth, and behold, it was corrupt: for all fleſh q had corrupted his way r upon the earth.

q (i. e.) All Men, as the word Fleſh is taken, Pſal. 78. 39. Iſai. 40. 5. and oft elſewhere. r Either 1. God's way, his precepts concerning Religion and Righteouſneſs. Or, 2. Their own way, or manner of living.

13 And God ſaid unto Noah, The end s of all fleſh t is come u before me x; for the earth is filled with violence through them z: and behold, I will deſtroy s (i. e.) The time of ruine, as this word is uſed, Ezek. 7. 2, 3, 6. Amos 8. 2. t (i. e.) Men, as ver. 12. though the Beaſts alſo were involved in the ſame deſtruction. u (i. e.) Is approaching and at the very door, and ſhall as certainly come as if it were actually come. x (i. e.) In my purpoſe and decree: Howſoever vain men flatter themſelves with hopes of longer impunity. z (i. e.) By their means; ſo that the Earth even groans under them. a (i. e.) With the Fruits and Beauty, though not the Subſtance of the Earth. Or, From the Earth, as ver. 7. The Hebrew eth being oft put for min or meeth, as Gen. 44. 4. Deut. 34. 1. and 1 Kings 8. 43. compared with 2 Chron. 6. 33.

Neſts. ſhalt thou make in the ark, and ſhalt pitch it within and without with pitch e.

b A little Ship made in the form of an Ark or Cheſt, but probably ſloping at the bottom for conveniency of Navigation, as it was for another reaſon ſloping at the top. c This word is but once uſed in Scripture, and therefore it is diverſly rendred by the Learned; by ſome Pine, by many Cedar, but by others Cypreſs, a Tree very proper and uſual for Ships, and of a firm and durable Subſtance, and much abounding in thoſe parts; all which appears from ancient Authors. e Or rather, with ſome kind of Bitumen, of the ſame nature and uſe with pitch, to cement the parts of the Ark together, and to preſerve it from the injuries of the Sun, and Water, and Worms; but more odoriferous to correct the unpleaſant ſcent of ſome of the Creatures.

15 And this is the faſhion which thou ſhalt make it of f: the length of the ark ſhall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits g.

f Or, This is the meaſure, or the manner according to which thou ſhalt make it. g A juſt and regular proportion, the length being ſix times more than the breadth, and ten times more than the height. There is no need to underſtand this of Geometrical cubits, which are ſaid to have contained nine ordinary cubits; nor of ſacred cubits, which were an hands breadth longer than the ordinary, Ezek. 43. 13. Nor to ſuppoſe the ſtature of men at that time to have been generally larger, and conſequently their cubit much longer. For the ordinary cubit conſiſting of a common foot and a half, is ſufficient for the containing of all the Kinds of living Creatures and their Proviſions, which was to be put into the Ark, as hath been at large demonſtrated by learned Men. Nor is there any conſiderable difficulty in the point, but what is made by the ignorance of Infidels, and aggravated by their malice againſt the holy Scriptures. Eſpecially if theſe things be conſidered; 1. That the differing kinds of Beaſts and Birds, which unlearned Men fancy to be innumerable, are obſerved by the learned, who have particularly ſearched into them, and written of them, to be little above three hundred, whereof the far greateſt part are but ſmall; and many of theſe which now are thought to differ in kind, in their firſt original were but of one ſort, though now they be ſo greatly altered in their Shape and Qualities; which might eaſily ariſe from the diverſity of their Climate and Food, and other Circumſtances, and from the promiſcuous Conjunctions of thoſe lawleſs Creatures. 2. That the brute Creatures, when they were encloſed in the Ark, where they were idle, and conſtantly under a kind of horror and amazement, would be contented with far leſs Proviſions, and thoſe of another ſort than they were accuſtomed to, and ſuch as might lye in leſs room, as Hay, and the fruits of the Earth. God alſo, who altered their natures, and made the ſavage Creatures mild and gentle, might by the ſame powerful Providence moderate their Appetites, or if he pleaſed have increaſed their Proviſion whilſt they did eat it, as afterwards Chriſt did by the Loaves. So vain and idle are the Cavils of wanton Wits, concerning the incapacity of the Ark for the food of ſo many Beaſts. 3. That ſuppoſing the ravenous Creatures did feed upon Fleſh, here is alſo ſpace enough and to ſpare, for a ſufficient number of Sheep, for their food for a whole year, as upon computation will eaſily appear; there being not two thouſand Sheep neceſſary for them, and the Ark containing no leſs than four hundred and fifty thouſand ſolid Cubits in it. But of this matter more may be ſeen in my Latin Synopſis.

16 A window h ſhalt thou make to the ark, and in a cubit ſhalt thou finiſh it above i, and the door of the ark ſhalt thou ſet in the ſide thereof: with lower, ſecond and third k ſtories ſhalt thou make it.

h Or a Light: Or Lights, or Windows: The ſingular number being put for the plural, which is moſt frequent: Or it might be one great Light or Lanthorn, by which light might be derived and diſtributed into ſeveral rooms. i (i. e.) Either 1. The Window, which was to be a Cubit ſquare. Or rather 2. The Ark; as appears 1. From the Gender of the Hebrew affix, which is feminine, and therefore agrees with the Ark, which in the Hebrew is of the feminine Gender, not with the Window, which is maſculine. 2 From the nature of the thing, the Ark requiring a roof, and that ſloping, that the Rain might ſlide off from it, and not ſink into it; for which end the roof in the middle was to be higher than the Ark by a Cubit. And as the other parts of the Ark were made with exquiſite contrivance, ſo doubtleſs this was not defective therein. k Whereof the higheſt ſtory for Men and Birds; the ſecond for Proviſion for the brute Creatures; the loweſt for the Beaſts, under which was the ſink of the Ark, which moſt probably was made ſloping at the bottom, as all Ships and Boats are, where Serpents and ſuch like Creatures might be put, with their proper Proviſions.

17 And behold I, even I l, do bring m a flood of waters upon the earth, to deſtroy all fleſh n, wherein is the breath of Life, from under Heaven: and every thing that is in the earth o ſhall dye.

l Which is thus emphatically repeated, to ſignify that this flood did not proceed from natural cauſes, but from the immediate hand and judgment of God. m (i. e.) Will aſſuredly and ſpeedily bring. n (i. e.) All Men, Birds and Beaſts. o This limitation is added to ſhew that the Fiſhes are not included in the threatned deſtruction, either becauſe they did not live in the ſame Element wherein Men lived and ſinned; or becauſe they were not ſo inſtrumental in Mens ſins, as the Beaſts might be; or becauſe Man had a greater command over the Beaſts than over the Fiſhes, and greater ſervice and benefit from them; and therefore the deſtruction of the former was a greater and more proper Puniſhment to Man than the latter.

18 But with thee will I eſtabliſh my covenant p: and thou ſhalt come into the ark; thou, and thy ſons, and thy wife, and thy ſons wives with thee.

p Either 1. My promiſe to preſerve thee and thine, both till the Flood and in it, notwithſtanding all the ſcoffs and threats of the wicked World againſt thee all the time of thy Preaching and Building of the Ark. The word Covenant being here underſtood, not of a mutual compact or agreement, but of a ſingle and gracious promiſe, as it is alſo uſed, Numb. 18. 19. and 25. 12. and in other places. Which promiſe though only here mentioned, was doubtleſs made before, as may eaſily be gathered both from theſe words, and ſome foregoing paſſages, and from the need which Noah had of ſuch a ſupport and encouragement, during all the time of his Miniſtry. Or 2. My Covenant concerning the ſending of the promiſed Seed, and the Redemption of Mankind by the Meſſias, who ſhall come out of thy Loins, and therefore thou ſhalt be preſerved.

19 And of every living thing of all fleſh two q of every ſort ſhalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee: they ſhall be male and female.

q (i. e.) Either 1. By Couples, or Male and Female: But this is mentioned as a diſtinct thing in the cloſe of the verſe. Or rather 2. Two at leaſt of every ſort, even of the unclean; but of the clean more, as is noted ch. 7. 2.

20 Of fowls after their kind r, and of cattel after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind: two of every ſort ſhall come unto thee s, to keep them alive.

r (i. e.) According to their ſeveral kinds. s Of their own accord, by my impulſe, or by the conduct of Angels, as Gen. 2. 19.

21 And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten t, and thou ſhalt gather it to thee, and it ſhall be for food for thee, and for them.

t Of which ſee Gen. 1. 29, 30.

manded him, ſo did he u. 7.

u Both for the matter and the manner of it; although the work of building the Ark was laborious, coſtly, tedious, dangerous, and ſeemingly fooliſh and ridiculous; eſpecially when all things continued in the ſame poſture and ſafety for ſo many ſcores of years together: Whereby Noah, without doubt, was all that while the Song of the Drunkards, and the Sport of the Wits of that Age. So that it is not ſtrange that this is mentioned as an heroick Act of Faith in Noah, Heb. 11. 7. whereby he ſurmounted all theſe difficulties.

To wit, Noah and his three Sons, and their four Wives, Gen. 6. 18. Whereby it appears that each had but one Wife, and conſequently it is more than probable that Polygamy, as it began in the poſterity of wicked Cain, Gen. 4. 19. ſo it was confined to them, and had not as yet got footing amongſt the Sons of God. For if ever Polygamy had been allowable, it muſt have been now, for the repeopling of the periſhing World. d With the Righteouſneſs of Faith, as it is explained, Heb. 11. 7. evidenced by all the fruits of Righteouſneſs and true Holineſs. e Not only before Men, and ſeemingly, but really, and to my all-ſeeing Eye. f Of which expreſſion, ſee Notes on Gen. 6. 9.

2 Of every clean beaſt g thou ſhalt take to thee † by ſevens h, the male and his female: and of beaſts that are not clean, by two, the † male and his female.

g Obj. The diſtinction of clean and unclean Beaſts was not before the Law. Anſw. Some legal things were preſcribed and uſed before the Law, as abſtinence from the eating of Blood, Gen. 9. 4. and among other things, Sacrifices, as learned men have ſufficiently proved; and conſequently the diſtinction of Beaſts to be Sacrificed was then, in ſome meaſure, underſtood, which afterwards was expreſſed, Levit. 1, &c. Nor is this a good argument, This was not written before; therefore it was not commanded and practiſed before, eſpecially concerning a time when no commands of God were written, but only delivered by tradition. h Either 1. Seven ſingle, as moſt think. Or rather 2. Seven couples, as may be gathered, 1. From the duplication of the word in Hebrew. If it be ſaid ſeven ſeven, ſignifies only ſeven of every kind, then it would have been ſaid concerning the unclean Beaſts, two two, (i. e.) two of each ſort: Whereas now there is an apparent difference; there it is ſaid only by two, but here, by ſevens, or ſeven ſeven, which difference of the phraſe ſuggeſts a difference in the things. 2. By the following words, The male and his female, which being indifferently applied to the clean and unclean, plainly ſhews that none of them entred into the Ark ſingle, and therefore there was no odd ſeventh among them, but all went in by couples, which was moſt convenient in all for the propagation of their kind, and in the clean for other uſes alſo; as for Sacrifices to God, if not for the ſuſtentation of Men in the Ark, and after they came out of it. Which gives us the reaſon why God would have more of the clean than of the unclean put into the Ark, becauſe they were more ſerviceable both to God and Men.

* Iſa. 13. 65. 9.

See 1 Pet. 4. 6. And as ſome preſerved in the Ark were damned, ſo others drowned in the deluge might be eternally ſaved. n All that hath in it the breath of Life, as was ſaid ch. 6. 17.

5 And Noah did according unto all that the LORD commanded him o.

11 In the ſix hundredth year of Noahs life s, in the ſecond month t, the ſeventeenth day of the month, the ſame day were all the fountains of the great deep u broken up x, and the * windows of heaven were opened y.

s Either compleat: Or rather current or begun; otherwiſe he had lived three hundred fifty one years after the Flood, not three hundred fifty only, as it is written, Gen. 9. laſt. t Either 1. Of that year of Noah's life. Or 2. Of the year. Now as the year among the Hebrews was two-fold; the one ſacred, for the celebration of Feaſts, beginning in March, of which ſee Exod. 12. 2. The other civil, for the better ordering of Men's political or civil Affairs, which began in September. Accordingly this ſecond month is thought, by ſome, to be part of April, and part of May, the moſt pleaſant part of the year, when the Flood was leaſt expected or feared: By others part of October, and part of November, a little after Noah had gathered the fruits of the Earth, and laid them up in the Ark. So the Flood came in with the Winter, and was by degrees dried up by the heat of the following Summer: And this opinion ſeems the more probable, becauſe the moſt ancient and firſt beginning of the year was in September; and the other beginning of the year in March, was but a later inſtitution among the Jews with reſpect to their Feaſts and ſacred Affairs only, which are not at all concerned here. u (i. e.) Of the Sea, called the deep, Job 38. 16, 30. and 41, 31. Pſal. 106. 9. and alſo of that great Abyſs, or Sea of Waters, which is contained in the Bowels of the Earth. For that there are vaſt quantities of Waters there, is implied both here and in other Scriptures, as Pſal. 33. 7. 2 Pet. 3. 5. and is affirmed by Plato in his Phædrus, and by Seneca in his Natural Queſtions, 3. 19. and is evident from Springs and Rivers which have their riſe from thence, and ſome of them have no other place into which they iſſue themſelves, as appears from the Caſpian Sea, into which divers Rivers do empty themſelves, and eſpecially that great River Volga, in ſuch abundance, that it would certainly drown all thoſe parts of the Earth, if there were not a vent for them under ground; for other vent above ground out of that great Lake or Sea they have none. Out of this deep therefore, and out of the Sea together, it was very eaſie for God to bring ſuch a quantity of Waters, as might overwhelm the Earth, without any production of new Waters, which yet he with one word could have created. So vain are the cavils of Atheiſtical Anti-Scripturiſts in this. x The Fountains are ſaid to be broken up here, alſo Pſal. 74. 15. by a Metonymy, becauſe the Earth and other Obſtructions were broken up, and ſo a paſſage opened for the Fountains; as Bread is ſaid to be bruiſed, Iſa. 28. 28. and Meal to be ground, Iſa. 47. 2. Becauſe the Corn, of which the Meal and Bread were made, was bruiſed and ground. y Which ſome underſtand of the Waters, which from Gen. 1. 7. they ſuppoſe were placed by God above the viſible Heavens, and reſerved and kept, as it were in Priſon, for this very purpoſe; and now the Priſon-doors were opened, and they let looſe and ſent down for the Deſtruction of the World: But others more fitly underſtand it of the Clouds, which are called the windows of Heaven, Mal. 3. 10. So 2 Kings 7. 2, 19. Pſal. 78. 23. Iſa. 24. 18. Which then grew thicker and bigger with Waters; nor is there any inconvenience in it, if we ſay that God created a great quantity of Waters for this end, which afterwards he annihilated.

12 And the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights z.

z God by this gradual proceeding both awakened to repentance, and gave them ſpace for it.

17 And the flood g was forty days upon the earth: and the waters encreaſed i, and bare up the ark, and it was lift up above the earth.

g Or, that Flood of Waters, which was poured down in that ſhower mentioned, verſe 12. otherwiſe the Flood was one hundred and fifty days upon the Earth, verſe 24. i By the acceſſion of more Waters from above and beneath.

k Overthrowing Men, and Houſes, and Trees, where poſſibly they did, or thought to ſecure themſelves.

19 And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth, and all the high hills that were under the whole heaven were covered m.

m Profane Wits pretend this to be impoſſible, becauſe of the vaſt height of divers Mountains. But 1. This cannot be thought impoſſible by any Man that believeth a God; to whom it was as eaſy to bring forth a ſufficiency of Water, for this end, as to ſpeak a word. And if we acknowledge a Miracle of the Divine Power and Providence here, it is no more than even Heathens have confeſſed in other caſes. 2. Peradventure this Flood might not be ſimply univerſal over the whole Earth, but only over all the habitable World where either Men or Beaſts lived; which was as much as either the Meritorious cauſe of the Flood, Men's ſins, or the end of it, the deſtruction of all Men and Beaſts, required. And the or that whole Heaven, may be underſtood of that which was over all the habitable parts of it. And whereas our modern Heathens, that miſ-call themſelves Chriſtians, laugh at the Hiſtory of this Flood upon this and the like occaſions, as if it were an idle Romance; they may pleaſe to note, that their Predeceſſors, the ancient and wiſer Heathens, have divers of them acknowledged the Truth of it, though they alſo mixed it with their Fables, which was neither ſtrange, nor unuſual for them to do. Lactantius appeals to the Heathens of his age concerning it. Nay there is not only mention of the Flood in general, but alſo of the Dove ſent out of the Ark, in Plutarch, and Beroſus, and Abydenus. And the memory of this general Flood is preſerved to this day among the poor ignorant Indians, who asked the Chriſtians who invaded their Land, whether they ever heard of ſuch a thing, and whether another Flood was to be expected? And the Chineſe Writers relate, that but one Perſon, whom they call Puoncuſus, with his Family, were ſaved in the Flood, and all the reſt periſhed.

20 Fifteen cubits upwards did the waters prevail n; and the mountains were covered.

n Which was ſufficient for the Deſtruction of the higheſt men, or other Creatures, though placed upon the higheſt Mountains.

21 And all fleſh died that moved o upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattel, and of beaſt, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man.

r This is ſo often repeated, that it may be more deeply ingrafted into the dull Minds and hard Hearts of Men, to teach Men that they ought again and again to conſider this dreadful inſtance of God's juſtice againſt ſin, and incorrigible ſinners.

24 And the waters prevailed s upon the earth an hundred and fifty days t.

AND God remembred Noah a, and every † living thing b, and all the cattel that was with him in the ark: and God made a wind c to paſs over the earth, and the waters aſſwaged.

a (i.e.) He ſhewed by his actions that he minded and cared for him; or pitied and ſuccoured him. God is ſaid to remember his People when after ſome delays or ſuſpenſions of his favour, he returns and ſhews kindneſs to them, as Gen 19. 29. and 30. 22. Exod. 32.13. Job 14.13. *Pſal.*132.1. b As God puniſhed the Beaſts for Man's ſin, ſo now he favours them for Man's ſake c A drying or burning Wind, like that of Exod. 14. 21. which had a natural power to dry up the Waters; but that was heightned by the aſſiſtance of an higher and miraculous operation of God.

2 The fountains alſo of the deep, and the windows of heaven were ſtopped, and the rain from heaven was reſtrained.

† Heb. in going and returning.

3 And the waters returned from off the earth † continually: and after the end of the hundred and fifty days the waters were abated.

4 And the ark reſted in the ſeventh month d, on the ſeventeenth day of the month, upon the mountains of Ararat e.

d From the beginning. not of the Flood, but of the Year, as appears by comparing chap. 7. 11. and chap. 8. 13, 14. e (i.e.) Upon one of the Mountains of Ararat; by a frequent Enallage of the Number, as Jud. 12. 7. Matth. 21. 5. And by Ararat is here commonly and rightly underſtood Armenia, as appears both by comparing Iſa. 37. 38. Jer. 51. 27. and by the Teſtimony of ancient Writers, produced by Joſephus and others to this purpoſe; and by the great height of thoſe Mountains, and by its nearneſs to the place where the firſt Men lived; this great Veſſel not being fitted for ſailing to remote places, but only for the receit and preſervation of Men and other Creatures in it.

5 And the waters † decreaſed continually until the tenth month: in the tenth month, on the firſt day of the month, were the tops of the mountains ſeen.

6 And it came to paſs at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the ark which he had made.

7 And he ſent forth a raven f, which went forth † to and fro g, until the waters were dried up from off the earth h.

f A fit Meſſenger for that purpoſe, becauſe it ſmells dead Carcaſes at a great diſtance, and flies far, and then returneth to its former Habitation with ſomething in its Bill. g Heb. Going and returning. (i.e.) went forth hither and thither, now forward, then backward, ſometimes going from the Ark, and ſometimes returning to the Ark, though never entring into it again. h Not as if ſhe returned afterwards; but the phraſe implies, that ſhe never returned. And ſo the word until is often uſed, as 2 Sam. 6. laſt. Michal had no Child until the day of her death, i. e. never had a Child. See alſo Pſal. 110. 1. Matth. 1. 25.

8 Alſo he ſent forth a dove i from him to ſee if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground.

i Which flies lower and longer than the Raven, and is more ſociable and familiar with Man, and more conſtant to its accuſtomed dwelling, and more loving and faithful to its Mate, and therefore more likely to return with ſome diſcovery.

9 But the dove found no reſt for the ſole of her foot k, and ſhe returned unto him into the ark: for the waters were on the face of the whole earth. Then he put forth his hand, and took her l, and † pulled her in unto him into the ark.

k Becauſe the tops of the Hills which then appeared, were either muddy, and dirty; or unobſerved by the Dove, as not ſoaring ſo high: Whence the Doves are emphatically called the Doves of the Vallies, Ezek. 7. 16. l Her former acquaintance with Noah, and her preſent neceſſity making her more tractable.

10 And he ſtayed yet other ſeven days, and again he ſent forth the dove out of the ark.

11 And the dove came in to him in the evening m, and lo, in her mouth was an olive-leaf n pluckt off: So Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth.

m As the manner of Doves is, partly for better accommodation both for food and lodging, than yet he could meet with abroad; and partly from his love to his Mate. n Queſt. Whence was this leaf, when Trees had been ſo generally overthrown and rooted up by the deluge? Anſw. 1. Many Trees might be preſerved by an advantageous ſcituation, between the Rocks or Hills which broke the force of the Waters. 2. It is probable that God, by his powerful Providence, preſerved the Plants and Trees for future ages; and therefore there is no mention of any of their Roots or Seeds preſerved in the Ark. 3. The Olive-tree eſpecially will not only ſtand, but live and flouriſh under the Waters, as Pliny l. 13. c. 25. and 16. 20. and Theophraſtus 4. 8. obſerve. Add, that the word here rendred, leaf, ſignifies alſo a tender branch.

12 And he ſtayed yet other ſeven days, and ſent forth the dove, which returned not again unto him any more o.

o Finding convenient food and reſting place upon the Earth, and preferring her freedom before her Mate. Poſſibly ſhe might loſe the ſight of the Ark, and forget or miſtake the way to it.

13 And it came to paſs in the ſix hundredth and one year, in the firſt month, the firſt day of the month, p the waters were dried up from off the earth: and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and behold, the face of the ground was dry.

p The words month and day are oft-times, for brevity ſake, omitted by the Hebrews, as being eaſily underſtood. Thus the firſt of the Feaſt, Matth. 26. 17. is the firſt day of the Feaſt, Mark 14. 12.

14 And in the ſecond month, on the ſeven and twentieth day of the month was the earth dried q.

q Not only from water, as it was ver. 13. but from mud and dirt alſo. So the Flood continued ten days more than a year, by comparing this with chap. 7. 11.

15 And God ſpake unto Noah, ſaying,

16 Go forth of the ark r, thou, and thy wife, and ſons, and thy ſons wives with thee.

r As Noah expected the command of God for his going into the Ark, chap. 7. 1, 2. ſo for his coming forth of it.

* Chap 1 22.

17 Bring forth with thee every living thing that is with thee, of all fleſh, both of fowl, and of cattel, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and * be fruitful and multiply upon the earth s.

s Queſt. How could theſe Creatures which came out of the Ark in Aſia, get thence to America, or to the Iſlands remote from the Continent? Anſw. 1. As for America, it is thought by divers learned Men, that it is either joyned to this Continent, or ſeparated from it only by a Narrow Sea, which divers living Creatures could eaſily ſwim over. 2. Many living Creatures are, and always were tranſported by Men in their Veſſels, either for their ſupply, or profit, or diverſion, or other ends, and thence might eaſily be propagated there. 3. The ſame God who made all theſe Creatures, and cauſed them to come firſt to Adam, and afterwards to Noah, could afterwards both encline and impower them to go whither he pleaſed, without the advice of theſe vain Men, who will believe nothing of God which themſelves either do not ſee, or cannot do.

18 And Noah went forth, and his ſons, and his wife, and his ſons wives with him.

19 Every beaſt, every creeping thing, and every fowl, and whatſoever creepeth upon the earth after their † kinds, went forth out of the ark.

20 And Noah built an altar unto the Lord t, and took of every clean beaſt, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt-offerings on the altar u.

t The firſt Altar we read of, but not the firſt which was built: For the Sacrifices which were offered before, Gen. 4. 3, 4. preſuppoſe an Altar. Therefore it is no ſufficient evidence, that ſuch things were not done, becauſe they are not ſaid to be done in Scripture: Which will be an uſeful conſideration for the underſtanding of many paſſages in Scripture hereafter. u The firſt thing Noah doth, is to pay his debt of Juſtice and Gratitude to that God which had ſo miraculouſly preſerved him, and reſtored him to his ancient and proper Habitation. God expects to be ſerved in the firſt place. What Beaſts were clean and what unclean, ſee chap. 7. 2. Levit. 11. 2, &c.

 Chap. 6. 5. Matth. 15. 19.

21 And the Lord ſmelled † a ſweet ſavour x, and the Lord ſaid in his heart y, I will not again curſe the ground z any more for mans ſake, for the * imagination of mans heart is evil a from his youth †: Neither will I again ſmite b any more every thing living as I have done.

x (i. e.) Graciouſly accepted the Perſon and Faith and Praiſe-offering of Noah, and was as well pleaſed therewith, as Men uſe to be with a ſweet ſmell. y (i. e.) Determined within himſelf, and expreſſed ſo much to Noah. The Hebrew Prepoſition el, ſometimes ſignifies in, as Gen 6. 6. 1 Sam. 27. 1. Others, ſaid to his Heart, i. e. ſpake to the Heart of Noah, who is mentioned ver. 20. To ſpeak to the Heart, in Scripture uſe, ſignifies to comfort. z (i e.) The whole Earth with this kind of Curſe, with another deluge. Otherwiſe God doth not hereby tye his Hands, that he may not either deſtroy a particular Land by a deluge, which hath been done ſince, or deſtroy the World by Fire when he ſees fit, as he hath declared he will do. a The reaſon contained in theſe words is this; Since all Men's Hearts are naturally corrupt, and from that filthy Spring wicked Actions will be continually flowing forth into the World; and conſequently, if I ſhould be ſevere to puniſh Men according to their Sins, I ſhould do nothing but ſend one deluge after another. Or theſe words may be joyned with the former, and the ſenſe may be this; I will not again deſtroy the Earth with a deluge for Man's ſake, or for Man's Sin, or becauſe of the imagination, &c. (i. e.) becauſe his Heart is corrupt, and his Actions are agreeable to it, which was the cauſe of the laſt deluge. Or the Particle chi, may be rendred, although, as it is frequently taken, as Exod. 5. 11. and 13. 17. and 34 9. Joſ. 17. 13. Pſal. 25. 11. and 41. 5. and ſo the ſenſe is plain, I will not again deſtroy the Earth, although the imagination, &c. i. e. Although I have juſt cauſe to do ſo. † Or, From his very childhood and infancy, as the Chaldee and Greek Interpreters tranſlate it. b i. e. Kill or deſtroy, as the word ſmiting is taken, Exod. 21. 18. Numb. 14. 12. and 35. 16. Deut. 28. 22, 27. Amos 4. 9.

22 † While the earth remaineth c, ſeed-time, and harveſt, and cold, and heat, and ſummer, and winter, and day and night d ſhall not ceaſe.

c Viz. In this eſtate: For though it ſeems probable that the ſubſtance of the Earth will abide for ever, after the diſſolution of the World by Fire; yet that will be in another manner, and for other purpoſes, and then there will be no need of Seed-time, or Harveſt, &c. d Which diſtinction in a manner ceaſed in the Ark, the Heavens being covered, and all its lights eclipſed by ſuch thick and black Clouds, as never were before nor ſince.

a (i. e.) Renewed the old bleſſing and grant made chap. 1. 28. which might ſeem to be forfeited and made void by Man's Sin, and by God's Judgment conſequent upon it.

2 And the fear of you, and the dread of you ſhall be upon every beaſt of the earth, and upon every fowl of the air, upon all that moveth upon the earth, and upon all the fiſhes of the ſea †; into your hand are they delivered *.

See Exod. 22. 31. Levit. 22. 8. d It is not a command that we muſt, but a permiſſion that we may eat of them. A grant poſſibly given before the Flood, but now expreſſed, either becauſe the former allowance might ſeem to be forfeited, or becauſe as Men now grew more infirm and needed better nouriſhment, ſo the Earth was grown more feeble by the Flood, and its Fruits yielded leſs and worſe nouriſhment. † Underſtand this with the limitation above-mentioned. † Heb. Soul.

4 * But fleſh with the † life thereof e, which is the blood thereof f, ſhall you not eat g.

e (i. e.) Whilſt it lives, or taken from the Creature before it be quite dead: Which was an ancient practice, and an effect either of luxury or cruelty. f (i. e.) Which life or ſoul hath its ſeat in, and its ſupport from the Blood, and the Spirits contained in it. It is certain Blood is the thing which is here principally minded and forbidden, and ſo the words may be thus tranſlated and underſtood, But Fleſh, (i. e.) the Fleſh of living Creatures hereby allowed you with the Life thereof, that is to ſay, with the Blood thereof, wherein its Life conſiſts. Or, But Fleſh whilſt it hath in it its Life or Soul, or, which is all one, its Blood. g God thought fit to forbid this, partly that by this reſpect ſhewn to the Blood of Beaſts it might appear how ſacred a thing the Blood of Man was, and how much God abhorred the Sin of Murther; and principally becauſe the Blood was reſerved and conſecrated to God, and was the means of atonement for Man; (which reaſon God himſelf gives, Levit. 17. 11, 12.) and did in a ſpecial manner repreſent the Blood of Chriſt, which was to be ſhed for the redemption of Mankind.

† Heb. Soul.

5 And ſurely your blood of your † lives h will I require i: at the hand of every beaſt will I require it k, and at the hand of man; at the hand of every mans brother l will I require the † life of man.

* Or, For, as the Particle is oft taken: This being the reaſon of the foregoing prohibition. h Or, Of your Souls, i. e. Of your perſons; the word Soul being oft put for perſon. Or, your Blood, which is for your Lives, (i. e.) which by the Spirits it generates is the great preſerver and inſtrument of your Lives, and of all your vital Actions, and the great bond which ties your Souls and Bodies together. The ſenſe of the place is; If I am thus careful for the Blood of Beaſts, be aſſured I will be much more ſolicitous for the Blood of Men, when it ſhall be ſhed by unjuſt and violent hands. i I will make inquiſition for the Author of ſuch bloodſhed, as I did after Cain, and conſequently puniſh him: For this phraſe of requiring implies Puniſhment. See Gen. 42. 22. Deut. 18. 19. compared with Acts 3. 23. Pſal. 9. 13. If Magiſtrates neglect this Duty, I my ſelf will avenge it by my own Hand. k Not for the Puniſhment of the Beaſt, which being under no Law, is not capable of Sin, nor Puniſhment; but for caution to Men, for whoſe uſe ſeeing they were made, it is no abuſe of them if they be deſtroyed for Man's benefit. Compare Exod. 21. 28. Levit. 20. 15. l This is added, either 1. as an aggravation of the Crime, becauſe the Man ſlain was the Brother of the Murtherer; all Men being made of one Blood, Acts 17. 26. And having one Father, even God, Mal. 2. 10. and Adam too. Upon which account all Men are frequently called one another's brethren, as is manifeſt from Gen 26. 31. and 29. 4. Levit. 19. 17. and 25. 14. and 26. 37. and from many other places of Scripture. Or, 2. As an aſſurance of the Puniſhment of the Murtherer, without any exception of the neareſt Relation; which, though it makes the Sin greater, yet many times is a ſecurity againſt Puniſhment, the Murtherer eaſily finding Favour and Pardon from his Parents and dear Friends. But the former ſenſe ſeems the better.

* Matth. 26. 52. Revel. 13. 10.
† Or, the blood of man in man.
* Chap. 1. 27.

6 * Whoſo ſheddeth † mans blood m, by man n ſhall his blood be ſhed *: for in the image of God made he man o.

m Wilfully and unwarrantably. For there is a double exception to this Law, 1. Of caſual Murther, expreſſed Numb. 35. 31. Deut. 19. 4. 2. Of death inflicted by the Hand of the Magiſtrate for Crimes deſerving it, mentioned in the following words, and elſewhere. n (i. e.) By the Hand of Man, namely the Magiſtrate, Rom. 13. 4. Who is hereby impowered and required upon pain of my higheſt diſpleaſure to inflict this Puniſhment. See Exod. 21. 12. Levit. 24. 17. Matth 26. 57. Or, For that Man, i. e. For that Man's ſake, whoſe Blood he hath ſhed, which cries for Vengeance. o So that Murther is not only an offence againſt Man, but alſo an injury to God, and a contempt of that image of God which all Men are obliged to reverence and maintain, and eſpecially Magiſtrates, who being my Vicegerents and Servants, are therefore under a particular obligation to puniſh thoſe who deface and deſtroy it.

7 And you, be ye fruitful, and multiply p, bring forth abundantly in the earth, and multiply therein.

p (i. e.) As for you, I do not repent of that former Bleſſing I gave to your Parents, Gen. 1. 28. but do hereby renew it to you and your Seed after you.

8 ¶ And God ſpake unto Noah, and to his ſons with him, ſaying,

9 And I, behold, I eſtabliſh my covenant q with you, and with your ſeed r after you;

q (i. e.) My promiſe: For the Beaſts included in this Covenant, verſe 10. are not capable of a Covenant properly ſo called. And the word Covenant is oft uſed for a ſimple Promiſe; as we ſhall ſee hereafter. r (i. e.) Your Poſterity, as that word is frequently taken, as Gen. 12. 7. Exod. 28. 43, &c.

13 I do ſet † my bow u in the cloud x, and it ſhall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth.

† Heb. I have given, (i. e.) I will from time to time give and place. u God calleth it his Bow, partly becauſe it was his workmanſhip, and chiefly becauſe it was his pledge and the ſeal of his promiſe. x A proper ſeat for it: That they might now fetch an Argument of Faith from thence, whence before they had matter of juſt fear; and that which naturally was, and is a ſign of Rain, might by this new appointment of God be turned into an aſſurance, that there ſhould be no ſuch overflowing Rain as now had been.

* Eccleſ. 43. 11, 12.

14 * And it ſhall come to paſs, when I bring a cloud over the earth y, that the bow ſhall be ſeen in the cloud:

y Not always, but very frequently, which is ſufficient for this purpoſe.

15 And I will remember my covenant, which is between me, and you, and every † living creature of all fleſh; and the waters ſhall no more become a flood to deſtroy all fleſh.

16 And the bow ſhall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlaſting covenant z between God and every living creature of all fleſh that is upon the earth.

z (i. e.) This Covenant made with all ſucceeding Generations of Men and Beaſts. This and the like ſpeeches are oft aſcribed to God after the manner of Men, who being forgetful, need helps for their Memory.

17 And God ſaid unto Noah, This is the token of the covenant a, which I have eſtabliſhed between me and all fleſh that is upon the earth.

a The ſame thing is ſo oft repeated for the ſtrengthing of the Faith of all Men, and eſpecially of Noah and his Sons, whom the remembrance of that dreadful deluge, which they had experience of, had made exceeding prone to fears of the like for time to come.

18 ¶ And the ſons of Noah that went forth of the ark, were Shem, and Ham, and Japheth: and Ham is the father of † Canaan b.

b Which is here mentioned to make way for the following relation.

19 Theſe are the three ſons of Noah: and of them was the whole earth overſpread c.

c A Truth which the old Heathens were not ignorant of, though they changed the Names, and mixed their Fables with it; for they tell us that Saturn and his three Sons divided the World among themſelves. And it is apparent, That their Saturn was no other than our Noah, becauſe they tell us he was the common Parent and Prince of all Mankind, alſo an Husbandman and Vinedreſſer, all which Noah was. They ſay he was born of the Sea, becauſe Noah came out of the Waters: That he devoured all his Children except three, becauſe Noah condemned and foretold the deſtruction of all the reſt of the World.

20 And Noah began to be an husbandman d, and he planted a vineyard.

d (i. e.) Was an Husbandman, as he had been before. The Verb, to begin, doth oft abound; and is applied to him that continueth, or repeateth an Action begun before. Thus Chriſt is ſaid to begin to caſt out, Mark 11. 15. and to begin to ſpeak, Luke 12. 1. For which in the parallel places he is ſaid only to caſt out, Matth. 21, 12. and to ſpeak, Matth. 16. 6.

21 And he drank of the wine, and was drunken e, and he was uncovered f within his tent.

e Either through ignorance and inexperience of the nature and ſtrength of that Liquor, or through the infirmity of the Fleſh, which was tempted by its great, and, to him, new pleaſantneſs, and by the refreſhment he found in it, under the weary labours of his Body, and the ſad thoughts of his Mind, for the deſolate condition of the World. f Either to relieve himſelf againſt the heat of the Climate and Seaſon, or from his Negligence and Careleſneſs; which might eaſily happen, becauſe Men's Garments, at that time, were looſe, as they were in the following ages, when Breeches were not in common uſe, and therefore were peculiarly preſcribed to the Prieſts, Exod. 28. 42. Ezek. 44. 18, 19.

22 And Ham g the father of Canaan h ſaw the nakedneſs † of his father and told his two brethren without *.

g Whoſe grown age was a great aggravation of this Sin. h This is here added as a reaſon of Canaan's Curſe, verſe 25. † (i. e.) The ſecret parts, oft ſo called, as Levit. 18. and elſewhere. * (i. e.) Who were then without the Houſe or Room where their Father lay in that poſture, whom he invited to that proſpect.

23 And Shem and Japheth took a garment, and laid it upon both their ſhoulders, and went backward and covered the nakedneſs of their father; and their faces were backward, and they ſaw not their fathers nakedneſs.

24 And Noah awoke from his wine †, and knew i what his younger ſon k had done unto him.

† (i. e.) From his Drunkenneſs, or from his Sleep, the effect of it. i Either by the information of his Sons, or by divine Inſpiration. k Or, His little Son, either Ham mentioned, verſe 22. or Canaan mentioned in the next verſe; by comparing of which places it may be gathered, that Canaan firſt ſaw it, and told his Father Ham of it, and he told it to his Brethren. The latter ſeems here principally intended, 1. Becauſe the Curſe following is appropriated to him. 2. Becauſe of the title of younger or little Son, which ſeems not to be ſo properly added if Ham was meant; both becauſe it doth not appear that he was the youngeſt, for whereſoever theſe three Brethren are mentioned, he is always put in the middle place, and becauſe that addition ſeems to be unneceſſary and impertinent to the preſent buſineſs, which if Canaan be intended, is proper and pertinent, by way of diſtinction, to ſhew that he ſpake of his Grandſon, or his Sons Son. Object. He calleth him his Son. Anſw. Grandchildren are frequently called their Grandfather's Sons in Scripture, as Geneſis 29. 5. 2 Samuel 19. 24. 1 Chron. 1. 17.

25 And he ſaid l, Curſed m be Canaan n; a ſervant of ſervants o ſhall he be unto his brethren.

l Not from the paſſion of Revenge, but by divine Inſpiration, and the ſpirit of Propheſy. m (i. e.) Hateful to God, abhorred by Men, miſerable in his Perſon and Poſterity. n Queſt. Seeing Ham committed the Crime, Why is the Curſe inflicted upon his Son Canaan? Anſw. 1. When Canaan is mentioned, Ham is not exempted from the Curſe, but rather more deeply plunged into it, whilſt he is pronounced accurſed, not only in his Perſon (which is manifeſtly ſuppoſed by his commiſſion of that Sin for which the Curſe was inflicted) but alſo in his Poſterity, which doubtleſs was a great aggravation of his Grief: As on the contrary Joſeph is ſaid to be bleſſed, when his Children are bleſſed, Gen. 48. 15, 16. 2. It ſeems therefore very probable from theſe Words, and the Hebrew Doctors, and others affirm it, that Canaan did partake with his Father in the Sin, yea, that he was the firſt diſcoverer of his Father's Shame. 3. Canaan is particularly mentioned by the ſpirit of Propheſy, in regard of the future extirpation of that People; and this is here remembred for the encouragement of the Iſraelites, who were now in their expedition againſt them. 4. This may be an ellipſis, or defect of the word Father; for ſuch relative words are oft-times omitted and underſtood in Scripture, as Matth. 4. 21. James of Zebedee, for the Son of Zebedee. John 19. 25. Mary of Cleopas, for the wife of Cleopas. Acts 7. 16. Emmor of Sychem, for the Father of Sychem, as our Engliſh Tranſlation rightly ſupplies it from Gen. 33. 19. Thus Goliah is put for Goliah's Brother, as is evident by comparing 2 Sam. 21. 19. with 1 Chron. 20. 5. So here Canaan may be put for the Father of Canaan, as the Arabick Tranſlation hath it, that is, Ham, as the Seventy here render it. And though Ham had more Sons, yet he may be here deſcribed by his relation to Canaan, becauſe in him the Curſe was more fixed and dreadful, reaching to his utter extirpation, whilſt the reſt of Ham's Poſterity in after ages were bleſſed with the ſaving knowledge of the Goſpel. o (i. e.) The vileſt and worſt of Servants; as Vanity of Vanities, is the greateſt Vanity, Eccleſ. 1. 2. and great Wickedneſs, Hoſ. 10. 15. is in the Hebrew Wickedneſs of Wickedneſs, and King of Kings is put for the chief of Kings.

26 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the Lord God of Shem p; and Canaan ſhall be † his ſervant.

p Queſt. What is this to Shem? For it is not Shem, but God who is here bleſſed. Anſw. 1. Shem alſo is here bleſſed, and that in the higheſt degree, becauſe the Lord hath here declared himſelf to be Shem's God. Now for God to be ſaid to be any Man's God, is every where mentioned as the height of Bleſſedneſs. See Gen. 17. 7. Pſal. 144. 15. Jer. 31. 33. Matth. 22. 32. But the phraſe is here juſtly varied. The Curſe is fixed upon Ham, becauſe Man alone is the Author of his own Sin, and the cauſe of his Ruin: But becauſe God is the Author and Fountain of all the Good that Man either doth or receiveth, therefore the Bleſſing is emphatically given to God, who only doth the Work, and of right is to receive all the Glory, yet ſo as it redounds to Shem alſo. And Shem is here peculiarly mentioned, not Japheth, both for the comfort of the Iſraelites, whoſe Progenitor he was, and becauſe this Bleſſing was firſt ſeated and long continued in Shem's Poſterity alone, Japheth's pheth's Poſterity being for a long time excluded from it; and becauſe the Lord Chriſt, who is often called the Lord and God in Scripture, did take Fleſh from Shem; and ſo the Incarnation of Chriſt may be here foretold; and Shem highly honoured and bleſſed in this, that he ſhould be the Father of Chriſt according to the Fleſh, Rom. 9. 5. Anſw. 2. This may be a ſhort and abrupt manner of Speech, which is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue; and it may ſignify that Shem ſhould be ſo eminently bleſſed, that men beholding it ſhould be wrapt up into Admiration, and break forth into the Praiſes of that God who gave ſuch gifts unto men, and did ſo great things for Shem. Anſw. 3. The words may be otherwiſe rendred, either thus, bleſſed, O Lord God, let Shem be, i. e. do thou bleſs him. So it is only the conſtruct from Elohe, for the abſolute Elohim, which is not unuſual in Scripture: Or thus, Bleſſed of the Lord God be Shem, or ſhall Shem be. So here is only a defect of the Hebrew Particle min, which is oft wanting.

27 God ſhall * enlarge Japheth q, and he ſhall dwell in the tents of Shem r, and Canaan ſhall be † his ſervant s.

q Or, Enlarge to Japheth, underſtand here his place, as Gen. 26. 22. Pſal. 4. 1. or his border: Which was very literally made good to him, becauſe he had a very numerous Poſterity; and by them he poſſeſſed the largeſt part of the World, even all Europe, a great part of Aſia, and as it is probable America alſo. Or, God ſhall perſwade Japheth, to do what follows, to dwell in Shem's Tents, where God dwelleth; and ſo to be re-united to his Brother Shem both in Affection and in Religion, in both which the Gentiles, the greateſt part of whom were Japheth's Poſterity, were for a long time at an irreconcileable diſtance from the Jews. r (i. e.) Shall be of the ſame Church with Shem, i. e. of the Church, which is called in Scripture the Tents or Tabernacles of Judah, or of Jacob, or in general of the Saints, Zech. 12. 7. Mal. 2. 12. Revel. 20. 9. and here of Shem, in whoſe Poſterity the Church was firſt and longeſt ſetled. And to dwell with another, notes friendly Aſſociation and Communion with him, as when God is ſaid to dwell with Men: And when the Wolf is ſaid to dwell with the Lamb, Iſa. 11. 6. Poſſibly this may note Japheth's Succeſſion into Shem's Tents, or coming into their place and ſtead, or the calling of the Gentiles, together with the rejection of the Jews; as the Reubenites are ſaid to dwell in the Tabernacles of the Hagarens, whom they ſubdued and expelled, 1 Chron. 5. 10. s This was eminently accompliſhed; for though Shem and Japheth, in their Poſterity, did ſucceſſively conquer and rule one over the other, yet none of Ham's Poſterity did ever bear rule over Japheth; but Ham, though for a time he bore ſway in his Son Nimrod; yet that Dominion ſoon expired, and the Aſſyrians, Chaldeans, Grecians, and Romans ruled the World for a ſucceſſion of many Ages; and Ham's People were conſtantly their Servants and Subjects.

28 And Noah lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years t.

t Which reacheth to the fifty eighth Year of Abraham's age, as the Jews note. And ſo we have a manifeſt Account of the Propagation of Religion, from the beginning of the World to this Day. Noah received it from his Parents, who had the account of it from their firſt Father Adam's own Mouth, and tranſmitted it to Abraham; and its deſcent from him to the Jews, and by the Jews to others is ſufficiently known. Within this time alſo Noah ſaw the Building of Babel's Tower, the horrid Wickedneſs and Idolatry of his Children, and the bloody Wars which even then aroſe between ſome of them.

29 And all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years u, and he died.

u Here is an omiſſion of that ſolemn clauſe uſed in all the preceding Generations, And he begat Sons and Daughters; which implies that Noah had no more than theſe three Sons, which alſo appears from the 19*th*. verſe of this chapter.

CHAP. X.

Noah's poſterity, 1. Sons of Japhet, 2——5. Of Ham, 2——14. Among whom Nimrod the firſt monarch and tyrant; he reigns in Babel, &c. 10. Aſher builds Nineveh, &c. 11. Sons of Canaan, 15. Their border, 19. Of Shem, 21——31.

THis Chapter, though it may ſeem to ſome unprofitable, as conſiſting almoſt wholly of Genealogies, yet hath indeed great and manifold uſes. 1. To ſhew the true Original of the ſeveral Nations; about which all other Authors write idely, fabulouſly and falſly, and thereby to manifeſt the Providence of God in the Government of the World and Church, and the Truth and Authority of the Holy Scriptures. 2. To diſcover and diſtinguiſh from all other Nations, that People or Nation in which God's Church was to be, and from which Chriſt was to come. 3. That Noah's Propheſy concerning his three Sons might be better underſtood, and the accompliſhment of it made evident. 4. To explain divers prophetical Predictions and other paſſages of Scripture, as will appear in the ſequel. For the better underſtanding of this Chapter, compare with it 1 Chron. 1. from verſe 4. to 24. And conſider theſe three things. 1. In the ſearch of theſe Genealogies, we muſt avoid both Careleſneſs for the reaſons now mentioned, and exceſſive Curioſity about every particular Perſon here named, and the People ſprung from him; which is neither neceſſary, nor profitable, nor indeed poſſible now to find out, by reaſon of the great changes of Names through length of time, loſs of ancient Records, differences of Languages, extinction of Families, conqueſt and deſtruction of Nations, and other Cauſes. It may ſuffice that divers of them, and thoſe the moſt eminent, are evident and diſcernable at this day, as will appear in the progreſs, by which we may and ought to preſume the Truth of the reſt, whoſe Names are loſt in the publick Confuſions of the World in former Ages, of whom I ſhall therefore be ſilent, and only ſpeak of the principal Perſons, and that briefly. 2. The ſame People which were originally ſeated in one place, did oft-times ſhift their places, or at leaſt ſent forth Colonies; and that ſometimes into places far diſtant from their Brethren, as appears from the ancient and famous Expeditions mentioned in Sacred and Prophane Story. So you muſt not wonder if you meet with the ſame People in divers Countries. 3. In general, the World was divided into three Parts, whereof the more Eaſtern parts were allotted to Shem and his Iſſue, the more Southern parts to Ham, and the more Northern parts of it to Japheth.

NOW theſe are the generations of the ſons of Noah; Shem, Ham, and Japheth: and unto them were ſons born after the flood.

2 * The ſons of Japheth a; Gomer and Magog c, and Madai d, and Javan e, and Tubal f, and Meſhech g, and Tiras h.

* 1 Chron. 1. 5.

a Whoſe Portion was at firſt Aſia the leſs, and afterwards by degrees all Europe, and the Northern parts of Aſia. This is he ſo much celebrated among the Greeks, by the name of Japetus. b Whoſe Poſterity are reckoned among the Northern People, Ezek. 38. 6. and were ſeated in the Northern parts of the leſſer Aſia, and afterwards about Thracia; and from him were called Gomari, and by an eaſy change Cimbri, or Cimmerii. c The Father of the Scythians, as may be gathered from Ezek. 38. 2, 3, 15. and 39. 3, 6. d Whoſe Poſterity, whereſoever they were firſt placed, in Macedonia, or elſewhere, afterward were fixed in Media, and were called Medes, and in the Hebrew by the Name of their Father Madai, as appears from 2 Kings 17. 6. Iſa 13. 17. Jer. 13. 17. and 25. 25. Dan. 5. 28. and 6. 8. e Of whom came the Grecians, who are called by themſelves Iaones or Iones, and in the Hebrew Jevanim, and their Countrey Greece, Javan. See Iſa. 66. 19. Ezek. 27. 13, 19. Dan. 8. 21. and 10. 21. f Of whom came the Iberi, anciently called Thobeli, a People of Aſia, near the Euxine Sea. See Ezek. 27. 13. and 32. 6. and 38. 2, 3. g The Father of the Moſchi, i. e. the Muſcovites, or rather as others think, the Capadocians, who were anciently called Meſchini, and Moſchi, and their chief City Maraca. h The Father of the Thracians; amongſt whom is a River and Haven called Athyras, and who worſhipped their God Mars, under the Name of Thuras.

3 And the ſons of Gomer; Aſhkenaz i, and Riphath k, and Togarmah l.

i Whoſe Seed poſſeſſed Pontus and Bithynia, and the Neighbouring parts, from whom they took the Names of the Lake and Haven called Aſcanius, and the Sea called Axenus, or Euxinus. k Called Diphath, 1 Chron 1. 6. The Letters Daleth and Reſh being oft interchanged, as we ſhall ſee in other inſtances. His Poſterity dwelled in or near Pontus and Bithynia, where Mela and Pliny and Solinus place the Riphæi, or Riphaces, and the Paphlagonians, who were anciently called Piphatæi. l Whoſe Poſterity are joyned with Gomer's. See Ezek. 27. 14. and 38. 6. and were, as ſome think, the Phrygians and Galatians, and of them the Gauls and Germans; or, as others, the Armenians, and of them the Turks.

m The Father of the Grecians properly ſo called, who have preſerved his Name and remembrance in the Cities, Elis, and Eliſſus, in a tract of ground called Ellas, and in the Elizian Fields. And from theſe came the Æolians, a People of the leſſer Aſia, where many of the Grecian Colonies were ſeated. n The Father of the Cilicians, from whom their chief City Tarſus, in Hebrew Tarſhiſh, took its Name. See Ezek. 27. 12. Jon. 1. 13. Acts 22. 3. and from whom the whole Mediterranean Sea is called Tarſhiſh, becauſe the Cilicians were in a great degree Maſters of that Sea. o Or, Chittim, the Father of the Macedonians, and Italians too, as may be gathered from hence, becauſe both their Countries are called by the Name of Chittim; Macedonia, 1 Mac. 1. 1. and 8. 5. and Italy, Numb. 24. 24. Dan. 11. 30. See alſo Iſa. 23. 1. Jer. 2. 10. Beſides that there are other Evidences in prophane Writers that the Italians came from the Grecians. p Called alſo Rhodanim, 1 Chron. 1. 6. See Riphath in the former verſe. His Poſterity is uncertain. Moſt probably he was ſeated near his Brethren in ſome part of Greece. And the Greeks ſeem to have worſhipped him under the Name of Jupiter Dodonæus, whoſe famous Oracle was in the City Dodona.

5 By theſe were the iſles q of the gentiles divided r in their lands; every one after his tongue s, after their families t, in their nations.

q Not Iſles properly ſo called: For why ſhould they, having their choice, forſake the Continent for Iſlands, and thereby cut off themſelves from their Brethren? And where had they Ships to tranſport them? But the word Iſles here and elſewhere ſignifies all thoſe Countries that had the Sea between them and Judea, as it doth Iſa. 11. 10, 11. and 40. 15. Jer. 2. 10. and 25. 22. Ezek. 27. 3. Zepha. 2. 11. And Iſles are here put for the Inhabitants, as the words Earth and Land are commonly uſed. r This diviſion of the World among them being a work of great weight, was doubtleſs managed with great Care and Conſultation, and the advice of their Heads and Governours, and above all by the wiſe and ſpecial Providence of God, which at this time did particularly determine the bounds of their ſeveral Habitations, as it is Recorded, Acts 17. 26. s (i. e.) According to their ſeveral Languages, into which they were divided at Babel. By which it appears that this diviſion, though mentioned before, was not executed till after the confuſion of Languages at Babel. t Here obſerve the Wiſe and Gracious Providence of God mixed with this judgment, that God diſtributed the Languages according to the difference of Families and Nations, that each ſeveral Nation, and all the Families, or Branches of that Nation ſhould have one and the ſame Language; whereby both Union and Love were preſerved among themſelves, and the ſeveral Nations were diſtinguiſhed one from another; which was very fit and neceſſary for many Reaſons: As that the Church of God, which was confined to the Hebrew Nation, might neither be mixed with, nor infected by the Idolatrous Nations; and that it might be evident to the World, that the Meſſias was born of the Seed of Abraham according to God's promiſe, &c.

* 1 Chron. 1. 8.

6 ¶ * And the ſons of Ham u; Cuſh x, and Mizraim y, and Phut z, and Canaan a.

u Whoſe Poſterity were diſpoſed into the parts South from Babel, both in Aſia and Africa. See 1 Chron. 4. 40. Pſal. 105. 27. x The Father both of the Æthiopians and the Arabians: Who, as it ſeems, ſent forth a Colony from themſelves more Eaſtward, even near to India. See Gen. 2. 13. 2 Kings 19. 9. Job 28. 19. Jer. 13. 23. and 46. 9. y The Father of the Ægyptians, who are generally known in Scripture by that Name. z Of whom ſprung the Libyans, among whom is the River Put, and the Moors. See Jer. 46. 9. Ezek. 27. 10. and 30. 5. Nahum 3. 9. a The curſed Parent of that accurſed Race of the Canaanites, well known in Scripture, Gen. 10. 25.

7 And the ſons of Cuſh; Sheba b, and Havilah c, Sabtah d, and Raamah e, and Sabtecha f: and the ſons of Raamah; Sheba g, and Dedan h.

b Or, Seba, or Saba, whoſe Seed were the Sabeans in Arabia the Deſart. See Pſal. 72. 10. Iſa. 43. 3. and, as ſome think, the Abyſſines in Africa. c The Father of the Inhabitants of the Land of Havilah, mentioned Gen. 2. 11. a Land in the moſt Eaſtern part of Arabia, this being oppoſed to Sur, a Deſart near Egypt, as the two remoteſt bounds of Arabia, Gen. 23. 18. 1 Sam. 15. 7. d The Father of thoſe People who were ſeated in the lower part of Arabia the happy, near the Perſian Gulf, who alſo ſent forth a Colony into Perſia. For in thoſe parts we meet with the Sabateni in Joſephus, the Stabæi, and Meſſabathi in Ptolomy and Pliny. e From whom deſcended another People dwelling in the ſame Arabia. See Ezek. 27. 22. f The Father of another People adjoyning to them. g The Father either of that People which inhabited Æthiopia, who were known by that Name. See 1 Kings 10. 1, 4. Ezek. 27. 22. Matth. 12. 42. Acts 8. 27. Or rather of another People in Arabia: So the ſeveral Sons of Cuſh are conveniently ſeated one near another. And thoſe Æthiopians in Africa might be a Colony either of theſe, or rather of the Poſterity of the former Seba. h Of whoſe Poſterity, ſee Ezekeil 27. 15. and 38. 13.

8 And Cuſh begat Nimrod i: he began to be a mighty one in the Earth.

i Whom he placeth laſt of all his Sons, becauſe he was to ſay more of him.

9 He was a mighty hunter k, before the LORD l: wherefore it is ſaid m, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD.

k Firſt of Beaſts, and by that occaſion of Men. For when Men were few, and lived diſperſedly, and wild Beaſts abounded, and moſt of all in thoſe parts, by Hunting and Deſtroying of thoſe Beaſts, he got much Reputation and Favour with Men, who thereby were ſecured in their Dwellings. In confidence hereof, and having this occaſion to gather great Companies of the youngeſt and ſtrongeſt Men together to himſelf, by their help he eſtabliſhed a Tyranny and Abſolute Power over Men, Enſnaring, Hunting after, and Deſtroying like Beaſts, all thoſe Men who oppoſed his Dominion. Tyrants and Perſecutors are oft in Scripture called Fowlers and Hunters, as Pſal. 91. 1. Jer. 16. 16. Lament. 3. 52. and 4. 18. l An aggravation of his Crime, that it was done in God's preſence, impudently and in contempt both of God, who had ſo lately manifeſted his deteſtation of this Sin by the deſtruction of the World, amongſt other Sins, for this very Sin of Violence, Gen. 6. 13. and of his great Grandfather Noah then Living and Preaching, who probably did admoniſh him of the wickedneſs and danger of this practice. Thus he ſhewed that he neither feared God nor reverenced Man, if they withſtood him in his Uſurpation of Dominion. m It became a Proverb, when any Man was haughty, and cruel and tyrannical, and that joyned with impudence and obſtinacy, That he was another Nimrod.

† Gr. Babylon.

10 And the beginning of his kingdom n was † Babel o, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh p, the land of Shinar q.

n (i. e.) Either his Chief and Royal City, or the place where his Dominion began, and from whence it was extended to other parts. o Which being not built till the confuſion of Languages, chap. 11. 4. ſheweth that this, though here mentioned upon occaſion of the Genealogy, was not executed till afterward; it being very uſual in Scripture to neglect the order of time in Hiſtorical Relations. p Called Calno, Iſa. 10. 9. and Canne, Ezek. 27. 23. and as it is here, Calneth, Amos 6. 2. Where it is mentioned amongſt the eminent Cities. q (i. e.) In Meſopotamia. This caluſe belongs to all the Cities here named; and is added for diſtinction ſake, becauſe there is a Babylon in the Land of Egypt, and there might be other Cities of the ſame Name with the reſt in other Countries.

* Or, he went out into Aſſyria.
* Or, the ſtreets of the City.

11 Out of that land * went forth Aſhur r, and built Nineveh s, and * the city Rehoboth t, and Calah.

r A Man ſo called, either 1. Aſſhur the Son of Shem, who forſook the Land, either being forced by, or weary of Nimrod's Tyranny and Impiety, and erected another Kingdom. But it is not probable either that Moſes would here relate an exploit of a Man whoſe Birth is not mentioned till verſe 22. or that one ſingle Son of Shem would be here diſorderly placed among the Sons of Ham. Or, 2. Another Aſſhur of Ham's race. But it ſeems moſt likely that Aſſhur is the Name of a Place or Countrey, even of Aſſyria, which in the Hebrew is called Aſſhur; and that the words ſhould be thus rendred, he, i. e. Nimrod went forth, out of his own Land to Aſſhur to war againſt it, and add it to his Empire: For to go forth is commonly aſcribed to thoſe that go to war, or to battle, as Jud. 2. 15. and 11. 3. 2 Sam. 11. 3. Pſal. 60. 12. and the Particle to is here underſtood, as it is 2 Sam. 6. 10. and 10. 2. compared with 1 Chron. 13. 13. and 19. 2. s A famous and vaſt City near the River Tigris, but ſo ruined by time, that the Learned are not agreed about the place where it was ſcituate. t Of which ſee Gen. 36. 37. 1 Chron. 1. 48.

12 And Reſen between Nineveh and Calah: the ſame u is a great city.

u Either 1. Nineveh, which is called a great City, Jonah 3. 3. and 4. 11. and indeed was ſo, being Sixty Miles in compaſs. Thus it is a trajection, and the relative is referred to the remoter Noun, as ſometimes is done, though this ſeems to be a little forced. Or, 2. Reſen; ſo the meaning is, though this City be much inferiour to Nineveh, yet this alſo, if compared with moſt others, is a great City.

* Jer. 4 9.

13 And Mizraim begat * Ludim x, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim, x Of this and the following Names here, and verſe 14. obſerve two things, 1. They are not the Names of Perſons, but of People or Nations; and the word Father is here underſtood Ludim, for the Father of the People called Ludim, and ſo the reſt. 2. That they are the ſeveral Nations dwelling in Africa, ſpringing from the Egyptians, which, as they multiplied, went further and further Weſtward and Southward from Egypt.

14 And Pathruſim y, and Caſluhim (out of whom came Philiſtim z) and Caphtorim.

y The Inhabitants of Pathros, of which ſee Iſa. 11. 11. Jer. 44. 1, 15. Ezek. 29. 14. z The meaning is, they came out of his Loins, or were his Off-ſpring, which might be true; though afterwards we find them ſeated amongſt the Off-ſpring of Canaan, having driven out the former Inhabitants, as was uſual in thoſe ancient times. Object. The Philiſtines are elſewhere ſaid to come from Caphtorim. See Jer. 47. 4. Anſw. Therefore ſome make a trajection here, which is not unuſual; and read the words thus, and Caſluhim, and Caphtorim, out of whom came Philiſtim. But this ſeems forced, nor is it neceſſary: For the place may be thus read without any Parentheſis; And Caſluhim, out of whom came the Philiſtim, and Caphtorim, which two latter were Brethren, both the Sons of Caſluhim; and ſo might at firſt dwell together, whence their Names are promiſcuouſly uſed one for another; and the Caphtorims are ſaid to dwell in Azzah, or Gaza, the known ſeat of the Philiſtines, Deut. 2. 23. Afterwards they might be divided firſt in their Dwellings, then in their Affections, and War one againſt another, and the Caphtorims ſeem to have ſubdued and enſlaved the Philiſtines, and carried them into their Countrey, whom therefore God is ſaid to bring and deliver from Caphtor, Amos 9. 7. and the Caphtorims either then or afterward might be deſtroyed and extirpated by the hand of God or Men, whence the Philiſtines, in after times, are called The remnant of the Countrey of Caphtor, Jer. 27. 4.

21 Unto Shem alſo the father of all the children of Eber h, the † brother of Japheth i the elder k, even to him were children born.

h (i. e.) Of the Hebrews, the only Church and People of God when Moſes wrote, who are called Eber, Numb. 24. 24. as here, The Children of Heber. And he is here called the Father of them peculiarly, though he had other Children, becauſe he was their Father not only by natural Generation, but alſo in reſpect of the Promiſe of God, which was conveyed to them through Shem's Hands, and of that Faith and Holineſs, wherein he was their Predeceſſor and eminent Pattern: Even as Ham, though he had other Sons, is ſpecially called the Father of Canaan, Gen. 4. 22. Becauſe his Father's Curſe reſted upon him, verſe 25. Object. Eber had many other Children here Recorded, and therefore in that Senſe Shem was not The Father of all the Children of Eber. Anſw. Though Eber had other Children, yet none are called in Scripture The Children of Eber, or which is all one, the Hebrews, but Abraham's Poſterity: Even as though Abraham had divers other Children, yet the Iſraelites are in many places peculiarly called the Children of Abraham. And the ungodly Jews, when they degenerate from God and Godlineſs, God takes away their Name, and denieth them to be Jews, Rom. 2. 28. and calls them Sodomites, Iſa. 1. 10. And therefore no wonder, if Joktan and his Poſterity having, as it is probable, forſaken their Father's God, and turned Idolaters, be here diſowned as Baſtards, and blotted out of the honourable Catalogue of The Children of Heber. See Rom. 9. 8. i Japheth alone is here mentioned as his Brother, and not Ham, becauſe he was deſervedly ſhut out from Shem's Bleſſing pronounced by Noah, and was accurſed of God, whereas Japheth was partaker with Shem, both in the Piety exerciſed towards their Father, and the Bleſſing thereupon pronounced: The word Brother being often applied to Perſons alike in Condition, Diſpoſition, or Manners. See Gen. 49. 5. k Though the words in Hebrew may ſeem ambiguous, yet other Texts make it probable that Japheth was the Elder. For Noah began to beget Children in his five hundredth Year, Gen. 5. 32. And Shem was but a hundred Years old two Years after the Flood, Gen. 11. 10. Therefore he was not the Eldeſt. And Ham is concluded not to be the Eldeſt from Gen. 9. 24. Of which ſee the Notes there; if ſo, Japheth muſt be the Eldeſt. And Shem is generally named firſt, not becauſe he was the Firſt-born, but becauſe he had the Priviledges of the Firſt-born, and was chief in Dignity and Authority in the Church of God.

q Either 1. In the time of his Birth, whence he was ſo called. Or, 2. Afterwards in the time of Life: So his Father gave him this Name by the Spirit of Propheſy, fore-ſeeing this great Event, and the time of it. This being no unuſual thing in Scripture, as we ſhall hereafter ſee, to give Prophetical Names to Children. And thus there is a longer and more convenient ſpace left for the Peopling of the World, and Ripening of things for the general Diſperſion and Habitation of the Earth. r Firſt in Language, and then in Habitations.

26 And Joktan begat Almodad s, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah, s From him and the reſt of Joktan's Sons here mentioned, come either 1. The various Nations of India, as moſt think. Or rather 2. The ſeveral People that live in the innermoſt parts of Arabia, who profeſs themſelves the Poſterity of Jochtan, and have a City near Mecca, called Jectan. And the Homerites, one ſort of them, are deduced from him by divers Writers.

30 And their dwelling was from Meſha as thou goeſt unto Sephar y, a mount of the eaſt.

y Theſe places were either 1. In India, where there are places called by Ptolomy and Pliny, Mæſæ, and Saparum and Sabara. Or rather 2. In Arabia, where there was a noted Port called Muſa; and near it, and Eaſtward from it, a People called Sapharitæ, and a Royal City called Saphar; from whence this famous and long Mountain doth here receive its Name. If it be ſaid, Arabia is not Eaſt but South from Judæa, it may be anſwered, 1. That Arabia, as it is Eaſt in reſpect of Egypt, where the Jews long dwelt, and part of it is ſo to Judæa alſo; ſo it is not ſeldom in Scripture reckoned as a part of the Eaſt Countrey, as appears from Gen. 25. 6, 18. Judg. 6. 3. 1 Kings 4. 30. Job 1. 3. Iſa. 11. 14. Jer. 49 28. And Tacitus deſcribing Judæa, ſaith, It is bounded on the Eaſt by Arabia. 2. That this Mountain is ſaid to be Eaſterly, not ſimply, but in reſpect of the City Meſa, on the Eaſt whereof Ptolomy placeth this Mountain, though he call it by another Name Climax; add to this, that Moſes ſpeaks of theſe places as known to the Jews, and therefore not ſo far diſtant from them as India, a place wholly unknown to them, and wherewith, as yet, they had no Communication. If it be further objected, That if theſe People had been ſo near and well known to the Jews, we ſhould have had more mention of them in Scripture. I Anſwer, There is mention of ſome of them; and for others, it is no wonder if by the following Wars among Nations, and mixtures and confuſions of People, ſome of them were extirpated, and others loſt their Names, though not their Beings, as oft hapned.

31 Theſe are the ſons of Shem, after their families, after their tongues, in their lands, after their nations.

32 Theſe are the families of the ſons of Noah, after their generations, in their nations, and by theſe were the nations divided in the earth after the flood.

CHAP. XI.

One language in the earth, 1. They journey from the eaſt, ſettle in a plain in the land of Shinar, 2. Make brick: which they burn and uſe with ſlime, 3. Build a city and tower that they might not be ſcattered, 4. God ſees it, 5. Diſapproves their deſign, 6. Defeats it, and ſcatters them by confounding their language, 7, 8. For which reaſon the place called Babel, 9. The poſterity of Shem to Abram, 10—26. Abram takes Sarai to wife, 29. She is barren, 30. He removes from Ur to Haran, 31. Where his father dies, 32.

a Earth is oft put for its Inhabitants, as Gen. 6. 21. 1 Chron. 16. 23. Pſal. 33. 8. b Which even Heathen Writers acknowledge; and that probably was the Hebrew Tongue.

2 And it came to paſs, as they † journeyed from the eaſt c, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar *, and they dwelt there.

It may be rendred to the Eaſt: But that manner of Tranſlation is neither uſual, nor neceſſary here. * Where Babel was, Geneſis 10. 10

3 And † they ſaid one to another, Go to, let us make brick d, and † burn them throughly. And they had brick for ſtone, and ſlime e had they for morter.

d For in that low and fat Soil they had no Quarries of Stones. The Heathen Writers agree that Babylons Walls were made of Brick. e A kind of Clay called Bitumen, which, as Pliny teſtifieth, is Liquid and Glutinous, and fit to be uſed in Brick-buildings, as Strabo, Dion, and others note. And that Babylon was built with this, as is here ſaid, we have the joynt and expreſs Teſtimony of Beroſus, Cteſias, Dion, Curtius, and many others.

4 And they ſaid, Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, whoſe top may reach unto heaven f, and let us make us a name g, leſt we be ſcattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth h.

f (i. e.) A very high Tower. An uſual Hyperbole both in Scripture, as Deut. 1. 28. and 9. 1. and in other Authors. This Tower and its vaſt height is noted by Herodotus, Diodorus, and others. g (i. e.) A great Name, as the phraſe is elſewhere uſed. Compare alſo 2 Sam. 7. 9. with 1 Chron. 17. 8. See alſo Iſa. 63. 12, 14. Dan. 9. 15. They take no care for God's Name, and the defence and propagation of the true Religion, as duty bound them, but meerly out of Pride and Vain glory labour to erect an everlaſting Monument of their Wit, and Wealth, and Magnificence to all Poſterity. h Their deſign was not to ſecure themſelves againſt a Flood, which they well knew Brick buildings were no fence againſt; nor would they then have built this Tower in a Plain, but upon ſome high Mountain; but rather to prevent a total and irrecoverable diſperſion. They ſought therefore to bind themſelves together in one glorious Empire, and to make this glorious City the capital Seat of it, and the place of Refuge and Reſort upon any conſiderable Occaſion.

5 And the LORD came down i to ſee the city, and the tower k which the children of men l built.

i Not by local deſcent, for he is every where; but by the manifeſtation of his Preſence and the effects of his Power in that place. k (i. e.) To know the truth of the Fact, thereby ſetting a Pattern for Judges to examine Cauſes before they paſs Sentence; otherwiſe God ſaw this in Heaven; but in theſe Expreſſions he condeſcends to the capacity of Men. l So called emphatically, 1. For diſtinction of them from the Sons of God, or the Race of Shem, who were not guilty of the Sin, and therefore did not partake in the Curſe, the confuſion of their Language, but retained their ancient Tongue uncorrupted for a good while. 2. To note their raſhneſs and folly, who being but weak and ſilly Men, durſt oppoſe themſelves to the infinitely Wiſe and Powerful God, who did (as they might eaſily gather both from his Words and Works) intend to diſperſe and ſeparate them, that ſo by degrees they might poſſeſs the whole Earth, which God had made for that purpoſe.

6 And the LORD ſaid †, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be reſtrained from them, which they have imagined to do.

7 Go to, let us m go down, and there confound their language n, that they may not † underſtand one anothers ſpeech o.

m (i.e.) The Bleſſed Trinity. See Gen. 1. 26. n By making them forget their former Language, and by putting into their Minds ſeveral Languages, not a diſtinct Language into each Perſon, but into each Family, or rather into each Nation. o And thereby be diſenabled from that mutual Commerce, which was altogether neceſſary for the carrying on of that Work.

8 So the LORD ſcattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth p: and they left off to build the city.

p Thus they brought upon themſelves the very thing they feared, and that more ſpeedily and more miſchievouſly to themſelves: For now they were not only divided in place, but in Language too, and ſo were unfitted for thoſe Confederacies and Correſpondencies which they mainly deſigned, and for the mutual Comfort and Help of one another, which otherwiſe they might in good meaſure have enjoyed.

* That is, confuſion.

9 Therefore is the name of it called * Babel, becauſe the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth : and from thence did the LORD ſcatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth.

*Chap. 10. 32. 1 Chron. 1. 17.

10 ¶ * Theſe are the generations of Shem q : Shem was an hundred years old, and begat Arphaxad two years after the flood.

q Not all of them, as appears both from the next verſe, and from the former chapter ; but of thoſe who were the Seminary of the Church, and the Progenitors of Chriſt.

11 And Shem lived after he begat Arphaxad five hundred years r, and begat ſons and daughters.

r So that he lived almoſt all the time of Abraham ; which was a ſingular Bleſſing both to himſelf, who hereby ſaw his Children of the tenth Generation ; and to the Church of God, which by this means enjoyed the Counſel and Conduct of ſo great a Patriarch.

12 And Arphaxad lived five and thirty years, and begat Salah.

13 And Arphaxad lived after he begat Salah, four hundred and three years, and begat ſons and daughters.

14 And Salah lived thirty years, and begat Eber.

s So that he was the longeſt liv'd of all the Patriarchs which were born after the Flood.

u (i. e.) Began to beget, as Gen. 5. 32. x Who is firſt named in order of Dignity, (for which cauſe Shem is put before Ham and Japheth, and Moſes before Aaron) not in order of time, which ſeems to be this ; Haran probably was the eldeſt, becauſe Nahor married his Daughter ; Nahor the ſecond ; and Abram certainly was the youngeſt, becauſe Terah, Abram's Father lived two hundred and five years, verſe 32. and Abram after his Father's Death, Acts 7. 4. went out of Haran, when he was ſeventy five years old, Gen. 12. 4, 5. therefore he was not begotten in Terah's ſeventieth Year, when Terah began to beget his Sons, as here is ſaid, but in his one hundred and thirtieth Year, and ſo there remains ſeventy five Years preciſely to Abrams departure. And Sarai, Haran's Daughter was but ten Years younger than Abram, Gen. 17. 17. and therefore Haran was Abram's elder Brother.

27 ¶ Now theſe are the generations of Terah : Terah begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran : and Haran begat Lot.

28 And Haran died before his father Terah y in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Caldees.

y (i. e.) In the preſence and during the life of his Father.

29 And Abram and Nahor took them wives : the name of Abrams wife was Sarai ; and the name of Nahors wife, Milcah, the daughter of Haran z, the father of Milcah, and the father of Iſcah a.

z Such Marriages of Uncles and Nieces being permitted then, Exod. 6. 20. (as in the beginning of the World, the Marriages of Brethren and Siſters were) though afterwards, the Church being very much enlarged, they were ſeverely forbidden, Levit. 18. 12, 14. a Who is either Sarai, as the Jews and many others think, or rather another Perſon. For 1. Why ſhould Moſes expreſs Sarai thus darkly and doubtfully ? Had he meant her, he would have added after Iſcha, this is Sarai, according to his manner in like caſes, Gen. 14. 2, 7. and 35. 6. 2. He elſewhere calleth her, the Daughter, not of his Brother, as he ſhould have done, had ſhe been Iſcha, but of his Father by another Mother, 30 But Sarai was barren ; ſhe had no child b.

b See Gen 16. 1, 2. and 18. 11, 12.

32 And the days of Terah were two hundred and five years : and Terah died in Haran.

CHAP. XII.

God calls Abram from his own countrey and kindred to Canaan, 1. Promiſes to make of him a great and flouriſhing nation ; and to bleſs in Chriſt his ſeed, 2, 3. Abram obeys, 4—6. God appears to him, and promiſes to give Canaan to his ſeed ; he builds an altar, 7. He removes to Bethel and there builds an altar, 8, 9. There being a famine he goes down to Egypt, 10. He adviſes Sarai to equivocate, 11 — 3. She is taken into Pharaoh's houſe, 15. Pharaoh kind to Abram for her ſake, 16. God plagues him becauſe of Sarai, 7. He calls Abram and expoſtulates with him, 18, 19. Sends him ſafely away, 20.

† NOW the * LORD had ſaid a unto Abram, Get thee out of thy countrey, * and from thy kindred, and from thy fathers houſe b, unto a land that I will ſhew thee c.

a To wit, in Ur of the Chaldees, by comparing Gen. 11. 31. with Acts 7. 3, 4. or, did ſay, again, i. e. renewed the command in Haran, whilſt Abram might poſſibly linger there, as afterwards Lot did in Sodom, longer than he ſhould. But the former interpretation is more probable, becauſe Moſes ſpeaks here of that command of God which came to Abram before he was gone from his kindred and father's houſe, and therefore before he came to Haran. And this command was given to Abram either immediately, or by Sem, then the Governour of God's Church. b From the Family of Nachor, which was now become Idolatrous, Gen 31. 30. Joſ. 24. 2. and conſequently, their Society was dangerous and pernicious ; and therefore God mercifully ſnatcheth him as a brand out of the Fire. c Which as yet he nameth not, for the greater tryal and exerciſe of Abram's faith and patience, compare Iſa. 41. 2. Heb. 11. 8.

Or, 2. Inſtructed, (i.e.) turned from Idolatry, and taught in the true Religion, as the Chaldee expounds it : For ſuch were moſt proper for Abram to take along with him out of his Father's Houſe in this Expedition. 8 And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the eaſt of Beth-el t, and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the weſt u, and Hai x on the eaſt: and there he built an altar unto the LORD, and called upon the name of the LORD.

t A known place, which afterwards was called Beth-el, but now Luz, Gen. 28. 19. An uſual prolepſis, or anticipation, as before, verſe 6. u Or, On the Sea; which is all one, becauſe the Sea was on the Weſt part of the Land. See Gen. 13. 14. and 28. 14. Num. 3. 23. Deut. 3. 27. x Or Ai, as it is called Joſ. 7. 2. Jer. 49. 3. Iſa. 10. 28.

y Removing from place to place, ſtill hoping to meet with better Neighbours, and to free himſelf from that perpetual Vexation which he had in beholding their Wickedneſs. z (i. e.) The Southern part of the Land of Canaan towards Egypt.

10 ¶ And there was a famine in the land a: and Abram went down into Egypt to ſojourn there: for the famine was grievous in the land.

a Or, In that Land of Canaan, a Land eminently fruitful, Deut. 8. 7, 8. This was partly to puniſh that Peoples Sins, Pſal. 107. 34. partly to try Abram's Faith.

11 And it came to paſs, when he was come near to enter into Egypt, that he ſaid unto Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon b.

b Queſt. How could ſhe be ſo fair, when ſhe was above ſixty Years old? Anſw. She was ſo both comparatively to the Egyptians, and ſimply in her ſelf, and that might be from divers cauſes; 1. From the greater vigour of Nature in that Age of the World. 2. Becauſe her Beauty was not diminiſhed by Childbearing. 3. From God's ſingular Providence, ordering it thus for Abram's tryal, and for the manifeſtation of his ſpecial Providence, watching over him and his.

12 Therefore it ſhall come to paſs, when the Egyptians † ſhall ſee thee, that they ſhall ſay, This is his wife: and they will kill me, but they will ſave thee alive.

† Who were a very luſtful People; which made Abram more cautious.

13 Say, I pray thee, thou art my ſiſter c: that it may be well with me for thy ſake; and my ſoul ſhall live becauſe of thee.

c So ſhe was either, 1. More generally, as his Niece; for Nephews and Nieces are in Scripture called Brethren and Siſters, as Gen. 13. 8, 11. Or rather, 2. Properly, (i. e.) by the Father's ſide, Gen. 20. 12. So this expreſſion was true, but ambiguous, and intended to deceive the Egyptians, and therefore unwarrantable. And here Abram, the Father of the Faithful, elſewhere celebrated for the ſtrength of his Faith, betrays his Infirmity and diſtruſt of God's Providence and Promiſe. and this Fact was not without great danger both to himſelf and Sarai.

14 ¶ And it came to paſs, that when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman, that ſhe was very fair.

15 The Princes d alſo of Pharaoh e ſaw her, and commended her before Pharaoh: and the woman was taken f into Pharaohs houſe g.

d (i. e.) The Officers and Courtiers; whoſe great deſign was to gain their Princes Favour by gratifying his Luſts. e A name common to all the Kings of Egypt now, and for many Ages after. f (i. e.) Taken and brought, one word for two. So the word take is uſed, Gen. 15. 6, 10. Exod. 18. 2. and 27. 20, &c. g Not to his Bed, but the Houſe of his Women, where they were purified and prepared for the King's Preſence and Society, as Eſt. 2. 8, 9. that in due time ſhe might be his Concubine or Wife. Thus even the Ceremonies of Courts ſerve the Providence of God, and give opportunity for working her deliverance.

16 And he entreated Abram well for her ſake: and he had * ſheep, and oxen, and he-aſſes, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants, and ſhe-aſſes, and camels.

* To wit, by Pharaoh's gift over and above his own: Elſe it had been impertinent to mention it in this place.

h Moſt probably with ſome notable Diſtemper of his Body, which did both chaſtiſe him for, and hinder him in the execution of his Luſt. i (i. e.) His Servants; who being ſome one way, ſome another, partners of his Sin, are juſtly made partners in his Plagues. And if any were innocent in this matter, they were obnoxious to God for other Sins. Beſides, as they were puniſhed upon the occaſion of Pharaoh's Sin, ſo Pharaoh was puniſhed in their Puniſhments. k (i. e.) For the act of Violence towards her: For the word taken, verſe 15. implies, that it was by conſtraint, and not with Abram's and with her conſent; which it is not probable that either of them would give in that caſe. 2. For an intention of uncleanneſs. For God who is the ſearcher and judge of Mens Hearts, may juſtly, and doth often puniſh Men for their evil purpoſes. Compare Gen. 20. 3, 4.

18 And Pharaoh called Abram, and ſaid, What is this that thou haſt done unto me? Why didſt thou not tell me that ſhe was thy wife l?

l How great an injury haſt thou done to me in concealing this from me that ſhe was thy Wife? How knew Pharaoh this? Anſw. 1. He gueſſed it from the quality of his Plague; which alſo awakened his Conſcience. 2. Upon a ſerious enquiry into the Cauſe of this Plague, he underſtood it either by Divine Inſtinct, as Gen. 20. 3. or by Sarai's Confeſſion, whom doubtleſs he ſeverely examined about it. And ſhe, being awakened by this warning, durſt no longer conceal her ſelf, and thought ſhe might ſecurely make her ſelf known.

19 Why ſaideſt thou, ſhe is my ſiſter? ſo I might have taken her to me to wife m: now therefore behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way.

m Though he had another before; Polygamy being then commonly practiſed.

20 And Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him n: and they ſent him away, and his wife, and all that he had.

n (i. e.) Gave them a charge concerning him for his ſafe conduct whither he pleaſed.

CHAP. XIII.

Abram returns from Egypt to Canaan with Lot, 1. He comes to Bethel; calls on the Lord, 3, 4. Abram and Lot being both very rich are obliged to part. Lot goes to Sodom, 5—12. The men of Sodom exceeding wicked, 13. God renews his promiſe to Abram concerning Canaan, and a numerous iſſue, 14—17. Abram removes to Mamre, and there builds an altar, 18.

AND Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him into the ſouth a.

a (i. e.) Into the Southern part of Canaan, from whence he came, Gen. 12. 9. and which in Scripture is called ſimply the South, Joſ. 10. 40. and 11. 16. Otherwiſe he went rather into the North: But the Scripture, being written for the Jews, doth frequently accommodate the Names of the quarters of the World to them.

2 And Abram was very rich in cattel, in ſilver, and in gold.

3 And he went on his journey b from the ſouth, even to Beth-el, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el and Hai.

b Or rather, according to his journeys which he took as he came, going in the ſame Road, and reſting in the ſame place, of which he had experience.

4 Unto the * place of the altar c which he had made * Chap.
there at the firſt: and there Abram called on the name 12. 7. of the LORD d.

c (i. e.) Where the Altar was; for the Altar it ſelf was either fallen down, as being probably built of Earth, as afterwards, Exod. 20. 24. or overthrown by the wicked Canaanites. d (i. e.) Worſhipped God by Prayer, and Preaching to his Family, Gen. 18. 19. and offering Sacrifices. See Gen. 4. 26. and 12. 8.

5 ¶ And Lot alſo which went with Abram, had flocks, and herds, and tents.

6 And the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together: for their ſubſtance was great, ſo that they could not dwell together.

7 And there was a ſtrife between the herds-men of Abrams cattel, and the herds-men of Lots cattel: and the Canaanite e and the Perizzite dwelt then in the land f.

r (i. e.) The Canaanites, as Gen. 12. 6. the ſingular number for the plural, as Pſal. 78. 45. and 105. 33, 40. f (i. e.) Were the Lords and Owners of it, and therefore Abram and Lot could not take what Paſtures they pleaſed, but ſuch as the others left them, which was not ſufficient for their conveniency. It may alſo be added as a reaſon of Abram's following motion, becauſe that Idolatrous People were preſent, and diligently obſerved all their Contentions and other Miſcarriages; and would, doubtleſs, take occaſion thence to diſparage the true Religion. And it muſt be remembred, that theſe are the words not of Abram, but of Moſes; who, knowing that the Canaanites were then ſpeedily to be turned out of the Land, intimates that the caſe was otherwiſe in Abram's days, when the Canaanites were poſſeſt, and were likely to continue the Poſſeſſors and Lords of the Land.

8 And Abram ſaid unto Lot g, Let there be no ſtrife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and h between my herds-men and thy herds-men, for we be † brethren i.

† Heb. men brethren. See chap. 11. 27. Exod. 2. 13. Act. 7. 26.

g The elder, and wiſer, and worthier perſon relinquiſheth his own right to his inferiour for peace ſake, leaving us a noble example for our imitation. h Or; or, between, &c. and for or, as Exod. 21. 17. and Pſal. 8. 5. compared with Matth. 15. 14. Heb. 2. 6. for there was no ſtrife between Abram and Lot; though he feared it might paſs from the feet to the head. i (i. e.) Both by nature near Kinſmen, as the word Brother is oft uſed; and in the Faith and Religion too; amongſt whom Contentions are very Indecent and Scandalous.

9 Is not the whole land before thee k? Separate thy ſelf, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take l the left hand, then I will go to the right: or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left.

k (i. e.) Open to thy view, and free to chuſe which part thou pleaſeſt, as thou canſt agree with the Owners: I give thee full power to chuſe before me. See a like phraſe, Gen. 20. 15. and 34. 10, 21. and 47. 6. l This and the following Supplement are eaſily gathered both from the words of this and the 11 verſe, and from the nature of the thing. And the Hebrew Language being a conciſe or ſhort Language, ſuch Supplements are frequently neceſſary, and very uſual. Compare 2 Chron. 10. 12. with 1 Kings 12. 11. 2 Sam. 23. 8. with 1 Chron. 11. 11.

10 And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan m, that it was well watered every where, before the LORD deſtroyed Sodom and Gomorrha, even as the garden of the LORD n, like the land of Egppt o, as thou comeſt unto Zoar p.

m A great Plain ſo called, becauſe there the pleaſant River Jordan divided it ſelf into divers little Streams or Rivulets, which having no viſible out-let into the Sea, by degrees, and in ſeveral places inſinuated themſelves into the Earth, which made it very fruitful and excellent for Lot's purpoſe. But this lovely Plain was afterwards transformed by Divine Vengeance into a filthy Lake or dead Sea, Gen. 19. n (i. e.) Either 1. Like that famous Garden of Eden which God himſelf planted, Gen. 2. 10. The like compariſon we meet with, Iſa. 51. 3. Ezek. 28. 13. and 31. 8. Or, 2. Like ſome excellent Garden: For excellent things are thus expreſſed, as the hoſt of God, 1 Chron 12. 22. i. e. a great hoſt: Cedars of God, Pſal. 80. 10. o A Land of eminent fertility by the influence of that great River Nilus; anciently celebrated as the Granary of other Countries. See Ezek. 31. p (i. e.) To Bela, Gen 14. 2. afterwards called Zoar, Gen. 19. 22. and here ſo called by a Prolepſis. But theſe words are not to be joyned with the words immediately going before, as if Egypt was commended for its fertility in that part of it, from which men go to Zoar, but with the more remote words, and the ſenſe is, as the words of the Text are tranſplaced and rendred by ſome, that The plain of Jordan was (before the Lord deſtroyed it and its Cities Sodom and Gomorrha) watered every where, even to Zoar; or, even until thou comeſt, i. e. till a man come to Zoar, i. e. all the way which leads from the place where Abram then was, to Zoar. And ſuch tranſpoſitions are not unuſual, as we ſhall ſee hereafter.

11 Then Lot choſe him all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed eaſt q: and they ſeparated themſelves the † one from the other.

q Heb. From the Eaſt, or, Eaſtward, as the Hebrew particle min, is ſometimes uſed. See Gen. 2. 8. 2 Sam. 2. 2. compared with 1 Chron. 13. 6.

12 Abram dwelt in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelt in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom.

13 But the men of Sodom were * wicked, and ſinners before the LORD r, exceedingly.

* Ezek 16. 49.

r Eminent, noted and impudent Sinners. See Gen. 18. 20. Ezek. 16. 49. which is here added, as a ſecret reproof to Lot, who was either careleſs in his enquiry into the diſpoſitions and manners of thoſe among whom he intended to fix his abode; which for many reaſons he ſhould have ſearched out: Or he was willing to expoſe himſelf to all the hazards which he might incur by their Neighbourhood and familiarity, for the ſweetneſs and fertility of the Soil. An errour which is frequently committed by Men in the choice of their Habitations, and which oft coſts them dear, as it did Lot in the following Story.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Abram, after that Lot was ſeparated from him s, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art, northward, and ſouth-ward, and eaſt-ward, and weſtward.

s To comfort him now when he was alone, and in a worſe Soil than Lot had choſen.

15 For all the land which thou ſeeſt t, * to thee u will I give it, and to thy ſeed for ever x.

* Chap. 12. 7. and 26. 4. Deut. 34. 4.

t Object. Abram could ſee but a little part of the Land. Anſw. 1. He might now poſſibly be upon a Mountain, from whence he might have a large proſpect every way. 2. He gave him all that he ſaw, but not only that, but alſo the reſt of the Land, and therefore he bids him walk through and view the whole Land, verſe 17. u Queſt. How was the Land given to Abram, when it is expreſly ſaid, He, i. e. God gave him none Inheritance in it, no, not ſo much as to ſet his foot on, Acts 7. 5. Anſw. 1. God gave Abram the right to it, though not the actual poſſeſſion of it, until the time that God appointed; as God gave the right of the Kingdom to David, but not the poſſeſſion till Saul's Death. 2. God explains himſelf, To thee and to thy ſeed, i. e. to thee, that is, to thy Seed, and that for thy ſake; the particle and being put oft for that is, as 1 Chron. 21. 12. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 13. Eph. 1. 3. and in many other places, as we ſhall ſee. x Queſt. How [for ever] when after ſome hundreds of Years they were turned out of it? Anſw. 1. This promiſe was made to them upon condition of their Obedience, which is oft expreſſed in other places, as Levit. 18. 26. Deut. 4. 25, 26. Iſa. 48. 18, 19. 2. The word Olam, rendred for ever, doth not always ſignify Eternity, but a long continuance, as is evident from Gen. 17. 13. and 48. 4. Exod. 21. 6. Pſal. 132. 14. and many other places of Scripture; and in particular, when it is applied to the Jewiſh Rites and Priviledges it commonly ſignifies no more, than during the ſtanding of that Commonwealth, or until the coming of the Meſſias; and ſo it may here be underſtood.

16 And I will make thy ſeed as the duſt of the earth: ſo that if a man can number the duſt of the earth, then ſhall thy ſeed alſo be numbred.

17 Ariſe, walk through the land, in the length of it, and in the breadth of it: for I will give it unto thee.

18 Then Abram removed his tent, and came and dwelt in the † plain of Mamre y which is in * Hebron z, and built there an altar unto the LORD.

3 All theſe were joyned together in the vale of Siddim, which is † the ſalt ſea.

7 And they returned and came to En-miſhpat, which is Kadeſh l, and ſmote all the countrey of the Amalekites m, and alſo the Amorites, that dwelt in Hazezon-tamar.

8 And there went out the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (the ſame is Zoar) and they joyned battel with them in the vale of Siddim;

9 With Chedorlaomer the king of Elam, and with Tidal king of nations, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellaſar: four kings with five.

† Heb pits pits. 10 And the vale of Siddim † was full of ſlime-pits n; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah o fled, and fell p there: and they that remained, fled to the mountain.

Fell into the Pits which they deſigned for others. Or rather 2. Were ſlain; as this word is oft uſed, as Joſ. 8. 24, 25. Judges 8. 10. and 12. 6. and here too; for thoſe that fell are here oppoſed to thoſe that remained.

11 And they took all the goods of Sodom, and Gomorrah, and all their victuals, and went their way.

12 And they took Lot q Abrams brothers ſon (who dwelt in Sodom) and his goods, and departed.

q Who now ſuffered for his Co-habitation with bad Neighbours.

13 And there came one that had eſcaped, and told Abram the Hebrew r; for he dwelt in the plain of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eſhcol; and brother of Aner: and theſe were confederate with Abram s.

r So called, either 1. From his great and good Predeceſſor Eber, Gen. 10. 24. and 11. 14. in and by whom the Primitive Language and true Religion were preſerved; and therefore, though Abram had five other Progenitors between Eber and him, which were perſons of leſs note, he is rightly denominated from Eber, the Hebrew, becauſe he was the firſt that revived the Memory and the Work of Eber, that kept up the ſame Language, and eminently propagated the ſame true Religion. Or 2. As others think, from his paſſing over the River Euphrates, from beyond which he came into Canaan. s i. e. Had entred into a League for their mutual Defence againſt common Enemies. Whence we learn that it is not ſimply and univerſally unlawful to make a League with perſons of a falſe Religion.

14 And when Abram heard that his brother was taken captive, he * armed his * trained t ſervants, born in his own houſe, three hundred and eighteen, and purſued them unto Dan. * Or, led forth. * Or, inſtructed.

t (i.e.) Whom he had Diſciplined and Inſtructed both in Religion and in the Military Art too, both which were neceſſary to make them good Soldiers, that they might both fight with Skill and Courage, and alſo rely upon God, and engage his Aſſiſtance; which was now eſpecially neceſſary, when ſo ſmall a party were to engage againſt ſo numerous an Army. u This is commonly thought to be a Town then called Leſhem, Joſ. 19. 47. or Laiſh, Judg. 18. 7. and afterwards Dan. See Judg. 18. 7, 29. ſo it is an anticipation. But it may be doubted whether this was a City; or if it were, whether it were not another Town called by the ſame name, which was frequent in thoſe parts. And ſome think this is not a Town, but the very Fountain of Dan, whence Jordan had its name.

15 And he divided himſelf x againſt them, he and his ſervants by night, and ſmote them, and purſued them unto Hoba, which is on the left hand of Damaſcus.

x (i e.) His Forces into ſeveral parties, that coming upon them from ſeveral quarters he might ſtrike them with greater terrour, whilſt they thought his Army far more numerous than it was.

16 And he brought back all the goods y, and alſo brought again his brother Lot, and his goods, and the women alſo, and the people.

y Which the victorious Kings had taken from the Princes and People mentioned before in this Chapter.

17 ¶ And the king of Sodom went out to meet him (after his return from the ſlaughter of Chedorlaomer, and of the kings that were with him) at the valley of Shaveh, which is the * kings dale z. * 2 Sam. 18. 18.

a Queſt. Who was this? Anſw. 1. Sem, as the Jews and many others think, who probably was alive at this time, and, no doubt, a great Prince. But neither is it probable that Sem ſhould be a King among the curſed Race of Ham; nor will this agree with the Apoſtle's deſcription of Melchizedek, Heb. 7. 3. Without Father and Mother, &c. Whereas Sem's Parents, and the beginning and end of his days, are as expreſly mentioned by Moſes as any other. 2. A Canaanitiſh King by the Divine Providence made both a King over Men, and Prieſt unto the true God, brought in here in this unuſual manner, without any mention of his Parents Birth or Death, for this end, that he might be an illuſtrious Type of Chriſt. Of this matter ſee more upon Heb. 7. 3. b (i. e.) Of Jeruſalem, called elſewhere Jebus, and Salem, Pſal. 76. 2. c Not for Sacrifice to God; for then he had brought forth Beaſts to be ſlain, which were the uſual and beſt Sacrifices: But partly to ſhew the reſpect which he bore to Abram, and principally to refreſh his weary and hungry Army, according to the manner of thoſe times. See Deut. 23. 3, 4. and 25. 18. Judg. 8. 5, 6, 15. 1 Sam. 17. 17. d Thus in ſucceeding Ages the ſame perſons were often both Kings and Prieſts, as the learned note out of Virgil, and other Authors. And this clauſe is here added, as the Cauſe and Reaſon, not for his bringing forth, or offering Bread and Wine, as ſome would have it, (for that is aſcribed to him as a King, as an act of Royal Munificence) but of the following Benediction and Decimation. e For in thoſe times God had his remnant ſcatttered here and there even in the worſt Places and Nations.

19 * And he bleſſed him, and ſaid, Bleſſed be f Abram of the moſt high God, poſſeſſour of heaven and earth.

* Or, Therefore (as the particle is oft taken, (i. e.) becauſe he was a Prieſt of God) he (i. e. Melchizedek) bleſſed him (Abram) which was one act of the Prieſtly-Office. See on Heb. 7. 6, 7. f So it is a Prayer for him, that God would confirm and increaſe the bleſſing which he had given him. Or, Bleſſed is; ſo it is an acknowledgment of God's bleſſing conferred upon Abram both formerly, and in this late and great Victory. Or, Bleſſed ſhall be; ſo it is a prediction concerning his future and further bleſſedneſs, whereof this was only an earneſt.

20 And bleſſed be the moſt high God, which hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. And he gave him * tithes g of all h. * Heb. 7. 4.

g Not Melchizedek gave to Abram, as ſome Jews fooliſhly underſtand it; for Abram ſwears that he would not keep, nor take any of the recovered Goods of the Kings of Sodom, or his Brethren, verſe 23. But Abram gave to Melchizedek, as appears both from Heb. 4. 7. and from the nature of the thing; for the Tithes confeſſedly belong to the Prieſt, ſuch as Melchizedek, and not Abram, is here deſcribed to be. h Not of all the recovered Goods, but of all the Spoils taken from the Enemies.

21 And the king of Sodom ſaid unto Abram, Give me the † perſons, and take the goods to thy ſelf. † Heb. ſouls.

22 And Abram ſaid to the king of Sodom, I have lift up my hand i unto the LORD, the moſt high God, the poſſeſſour of heaven and earth, i (i.e.) Swore; for this was the ancient manner of ſwearing. See Exod. 6. 8. Numb. 14. 30. Deut. 32. 40. Ezek. 20. 5, 6.

23 That I will not take k from a threed even to a ſhoe-latchet *, and that I will not take any thing that is thine, leſt thou ſhouldſt ſay, I have made Abram rich l.

k Heb: If I ſhall take. Underſtand, God do ſo and ſo to me, which is expreſſed 1 Sam. 14. 44. A defective manner of ſwearing uſed amongſt the Hebrews, either to maintain the reverence of Oaths, and the dread of Perjury, ſeeing they were afraid ſo much as to mention the Curſe which they meant; or to ſhew that they were willing to ſubmit to any puniſhment which God ſhould inflict upon them without exception, if they violated their Oaths. * (i. e.) Any thing though never ſo ſmall or mean. l (i. e.) Leſt thou ſhouldſt claim a ſhare with God in the Honour due to him, to whoſe bleſſing alone I do, and I will owe my riches. Or, leſt thou ſhouldſt ſay, Abram is enriched with my Spoils; and however he pretended Kindneſs and Charity, yet indeed it was his Covetouſneſs that put him upon this Work.

24 Save only that which the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men which went with me m, Aner, Eſhcol, and Mamre; let them take their portion.

m For as Abram had a right to Spoils, ſo had they, whether they joyned with him in the Battel, as it is conceived they did, or only abode by the Stuff, 1 Sam. 30. 24. and therefore though he might, and did give away his own right, he could not give away other mens.

A comfortable promiſe to Abram, 1. His prayer for an heir, 2, 3. The promiſe of an anſwer to his prayer, 4, 5. Abram's faith, 6. He deſires a ſign, 7, 8. God gives him one, 9. He obſerves it, 10, 11. God appears to him when in a deep ſleep, 12. A prediction of evil to befal his poſterity, 13. Their deliverance, 14 — 16. The covenant concerning Canaan renewed, 17 — 21.

AFter theſe things the word of the LORD came unto Abram in a viſion a, ſaying, Fear not, Abram b: I am thy * ſhield and † thy exceeding * great reward c. * Pſal. 3. 3. and 5. 12. and 84. 11. and 91. 4. † Or, thy reward ſhall be very great. * Ps. 16. 5.

a God anciently revealed himſelf to Men two ways, Either 1. When the Man was aſleep, in a dream: Or 2. In a Viſion, Num. 12. 6. when he was awake; and this either 1. When he was wrapt into an Extaſie, wherein his ſenſes are idle, but his mind is active and elevated to the contemplation and underſtanding of what God reveals, reveals. See Numb. 12. 6, 7, 8. and 24. 4. Iſa. 1. 1. Acts 10. 10, 11. Or 2. When the thing was manifeſted by an external repreſentation. So here, God ſeems to have appeared to Abram in the ſhape of a Man, as he did Gen. 18. as may be gathered from v. 5, 10. b Neither the return of thoſe Enemies whom thou haſt ſmitten and provoked, nor the envy of thy Neighbours for this glorious Victory, nor for thy own deſolate condition. c Seeing thou didſt truſt to my protection, I will be a ſhield or a protector to thee; and ſeeing thou didſt ſo honourably, and for my ſake reject other rewards, taken by thy ſelf, and offered by the King of Sodom, thou ſhalt be no loſer by it; I will abundantly recompence all thy piety to me, and charity to thy afflicted kinſman Lot, and thy liberality towards others: I will bleſs thee with all ſorts of good things, as well as defend thee from all evil; which two things make a Man compleatly happy.

2 And Abram ſaid, Lord God, what will thou give me, † ſeeing * I go d childleſs e, and the ſteward of my houſe f is this Eliezer of Damaſcus g?

† What pleaſure can I take in any other gifts, ſo long as thou doſt withhold from me that great and promiſed gift of that bleſſed and bleſſing Seed, in the giving of whom, thy honour and the World's happineſs is ſo highly concerned, Ch. 12. 3. d Either 1. I paſs the time of my life, going on and growing in years, and haſtning to my long home. Or 2. I die, i. e. am about to die, or likely to die. Going is oft-times put for dying, as 1 Chron. 17. 11. compared with 2 Sam. 7. 12. Job 10. 21. and 14. 20. Matth. 26. 24. e What good will the World do me, if I have no Heir to poſſeſs it? if God loſe the Glory of his Truth in making good his promiſe, and I loſe the comfort of my long-hoped for Child, and that ſuch a Child, the effect of a Divine Promiſe, one out of whoſe Loins he muſt come, in whom all Nations ſhall be bleſſed? f Heb. The Son of the care, or Government, or Management of my Houſe, i. e. he who manageth the Affairs of my Houſe. An uſual Hebraiſm, as captives are called children of captivity, Ezra 4. 1. and afflicted Perſons, children of affliction, Prov. 31. 5. Others read the verſe thus, And the ſteward of my houſe, this Eliezer of Damaſcus, underſtand, ſhall be my Heir; which words may eaſily be ſupplied out of the following verſe. And ſuch ſupplements of a word, or ſhort ſentence out of a member or verſe either foregoing or following, are frequent in Scripture, as Numb. 24. 22. Zech. 14. 18. Nehem. 5. 2. Habak. 2. 3. Eph. 2. 1. g This may be the name either of a Man, or of a Place ſo called.

3 And Abram ſaid, Behold, to me thou haſt given no ſeed: and lo, one born in mine houſe h is mine heir i.

h Of ſuch ſee Gen. 14. 14. and Eccleſ. 2. 7. And theſe are oppoſed to them that are born of a Man's body, Job 19. 17. Prov. 31. 2. Jer. 2. 14. i Either 1. By nearneſs of relation, being as ſome conceive, deſcended from Aaron the eldeſt Son of Sem. Or 2. For a recompence of his fidelity, compare Prov. 17. 2. Or 3. Becauſe he only had the exact knowledge and abſolute power of all his Maſter's eſtate, Gen. 24. 10. and therefore could eaſily keep all after his Maſter's death. All which reaſons concurring, might give occaſion for this Speech.

4 And behold, the word of the LORD came unto him, ſaying, This ſhall not be thine heir: but he that ſhall come forth out of thine own bowels k ſhall be thine heir.

k (i. e) Out of thy own body, ſee Gen. 35. 11. 2 Sam. 7. 12. 2 Chron. 6. 9.

5 And he brought him forth abroad, and ſaid, Look now towards heaven, and tell the ſtars l, if thou be able to number them m: and he ſaid unto him, * So ſhall thy ſeed be.

l Qu. Seeing the Sun was not yet going down, v. 12. how could he ſee the Stars? Anſ. 1. He might ſee them by repreſentation in a Viſion, or by a Divine Power ſtrengthning his Eyes to behold them. 2. It was not neceſſary he ſhould then actually ſee them. He bids him make trial when he pleaſed, if he could number the Stars which were now preſent to his mind, and would ſhortly be preſent and viſible to his bodily Eye. m Which thou art not able to do; for tho Aſtronomers have preſumed to give us the number of thoſe Stars which are diſtinctly viſible to the Eye, wherein yet they vary one from another, yet there are other Stars innumerable, appears confuſedly to the Eye, and evidently by the help of Glaſſes.

6 And he * believed in the LORD n; and he counted * it to him for righteouſneſs o.

* Rom. 4. 3. Gal. 3. 6. Jam. 2. 23.

n (i. e.) He was fully perſwaded that God was able to fulfil, and would certainly fulfil the promiſe made to him concerning a Child, and eſpecially concerning the Meſſias, who ſhould come out of his Loyns by that Child, and that both himſelf and all People ſhould be juſtified and bleſſed in and through him. * Or, reckoned or imputed, as this word is tranſlated, Rom. 4. 10, 22. o (i. e.) For a righteous and worthy Action, as Pſalm 106. 31. and further, in reſpect of this action and grace of Faith, whereby he relied upon God for the promiſed Seed, and upon the promiſed Seed too, he pronounced him a juſt and righteous Perſon notwithſtanding his failings, which even this Hiſtory acquaints us with; and graciouſly accepted him as ſuch. Which ſence is eaſily gathered from St. Paul's Explication and Accommodation of this paſſage, Rom. 4. 9, 18, 22.

7 And he ſaid unto him, I am the LORD that brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldees, to give thee this land to inherit it.

8 And he ſaid, Lord GOD, whereby ſhall I know p that I ſhall inherit it?

p He asks a ſign, not out of diſtruſt of God's promiſe, for he was ſtrong in faith, Rom. 4. 20. but for further aſſurance and confirmation of it. And ſuch an asking of a ſign was not an unuſual practice with good Men, as Judg. 6. 37. 2 Kings 20. 8. nor are they reproved for it; but on the contrary, Ahaz was commanded to ask a ſign, and reproved for not asking it, Iſaiah 7.

9 And he ſaid unto him, Take me † an heifer of three years old, q and a ſhe-goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young Pigeon r.

† Take and offer at my command, and for my ſervice. q At which time it is perfect in ſtature and ſtrength, and therefore fitteſt for God's Service. r This and the other Creatures here following, and Sacrifices, are the ſame which afterwards were preſcribed in the Levitical Law.

10 And he s took unto him all theſe, and divided them in the midſt t, and laid each piece one againſt another u: but the birds divided he not x.

s (i. e.) Abram, who by divine inſtinct and precept did all this which here follows. t Into two equal Parts. This was done for two Reaſons. 1. To repreſent the torn and diſtracted condition in which his Seed was to lie for a ſeaſon. 2. To ratifie God's Covenant with Abram and his Seed; for this was a rite uſed in making Covenants, as appears both from Scripture, Jer. 34. 18. and other Authors. u Partly to encourage hope, that God would in his time put thoſe Parts together, and unite thoſe dry Bones (to which the Iſraelites are compared, Ezek. 37.) and clothe them with Fleſh; and partly, that the Perſons entring into Covenant, might paſs between thoſe parts, and ſo teſtify their Union and Conjunction in one and the ſame Sacrifice. x Either becauſe there were two Birds, and the one was laid againſt the other, which anſwered to the diviſion of the larger Creatures; or becauſe they belonged not to the Ceremony of the Covenant, but were for the Uſe of Sacrifice, wherein they were to be offered whole, as afterwards was preſcribed, Levit. 1. 15, 17.

11 And when the fowls came down upon the carcaſſes y, Abram drove them away z.

y To devour them: whereby is ſignified, either 1. The diſturbance and diſtraction which good Men are expoſed to in the Service of God from evil Spirits and Men: or rather 2. The great peril of Abram's Poſterity, who were not only torn in pieces like theſe Sacrifices, but even the remainder of them were likely to be devoured by the Egyptians, whoſe King is compared to an Eagle, the chief of the Birds of prey, Ezek. 17. z By the blaſt of his Mouth, as the Hebrew word ſignifies; repreſenting Abram's Conqueſt over all his Enemies by Faith and Prayer, whereby he engaged God to be the Preſerver and Deliverer of his People.

12 And when the ſun was going down, a deep ſleep fell upon Abram a; and lo, an horror of great darkneſs fell upon him b.

a Partly natural from his labour in killing and ſacrificing thoſe Creatures; and partly ſent upon him from God, to make way for the following Repreſentation. b (i. e) He ſeemed to be covered with a dreadful darkneſs, which was, either 1. A Token of God's ſpecial preſence; compare 1 Kings 8. 12. Or, 2. A ſignification of the diſtreſſed and doleful condition of Abram's Seed; for darkneſs in Scripture is frequently mentioned as an emblem or ſign of great Miſery, as Pſalm 88. 6. and 107. 14, &c.

c (i. e.) In Canaan and Egypt; for though Canaan was theirs by promiſe, to be fulfilled in after times, yet it was not theirs by actual Donation and Poſſeſſion, but they were Strangers in it, Gen. 17. 8. Pſalm 105. 11, 12. d Exactly 405 years, but a ſmall ſum is commonly neglected in a great number, both in ſacred and prophane Writers. There were 430 years between the firſt promiſe, or between the renewing and confirming of the promiſe by the gift of Iſaac, and Iſraels going out of Egypt, or God's giving of the Law, Exod. 12. 40. Gal. 3. 17. but part of this time Abraham with his Son Iſaac lived in much honour and comfort; but after Iſaac grew up, the Affliction here mentioned began with Iſaac in Canaan, and continued to him and his Poſterity in Egypt, till this time was expired.

15 And thou ſhalt go to thy fathers h in peace; * thou ſhalt be buried in a good old age.

h (i. e.) Either 1. Into Heaven, where thy godly Progenitors are gone. Or 2. Into the ſtate of the dead, where all thy Fathers are gone before thee: This may ſeem more probable, at leaſt in this place, partly, becauſe this or the like Phraſe is indifferently uſed concerning good and bad Men. See Gen. 25. 8. Pſalm 49. 19. partly becauſe this Phraſe is ſo expounded, Acts 13. 36. He, i. e. David, was laid to his Fathers, and (for, that is) ſaw corruption; partly, becauſe ſome of Abraham's Fathers, and particularly Nahor, his Grandfather, who lived and died an Idolater, cannot with any warrant from Scripture be preſumed to be gone to the place of bleſſedneſs in their Souls. * Free from thoſe Afflictions which ſhall come upon thy Poſterity after thy deceaſe.

i In the end of the 400 years mentioned, verſe 13. a Generation being at that time reckoned at one hundred years, or thereabouts. Or, in the fourth Generation, numbred from their going into Egypt, or from their leaving Canaan; which may poſſibly be implied by theſe words, they ſhall come hither. So Caleb was the fourth from Judah, and Moſes the fourth from Levi, and ſo doubtleſs many others. k (i. e.) Of the People inhabiting Canaan. And the Amorites, one of thoſe People, verſe 21. are here put for all the reſt, as Gen. 48. 22. 1 Kings 21. 26. 2 Kings 21. 2. Amos 2. 10. either becauſe they were the greateſt and ſtouteſt of all, Amos 2. 9. or becauſe Abram dwelt among that People, Gen. 13. 18. and 14. 13. l All Mens ſins are kept by God as in a Book of remembrance, not one of them is loſt; and as God exactly obſerves the number and meaſure of Mens ſins, ſo he determines within himſelf, how far, and how long he will bear with ſinful Men or Nations, and what ſhall be the period of his Patience; and when that comes, their Meaſure is full, and their Deſtruction infallibly comes. See Jer. 51. 13. Matth. 23. 32. 1 Theſſ. 2. 16.

17 And it came to paſs, that when the ſun went down, and it was dark, behold a ſmoaking furnace, and a † burning lamp m that paſſed between thoſe pieces.

Or, 2. His own Preſence; for God is called a conſuming fire, Heb. 12. laſt. and both Smoak and Fire are elſewhere mentioned as the ſigns and means of God's Appearance. See Exod. 3. 2. and 19. 9, 16, 18. and 20. 18. And this ſenſe ſeems to be favoured by the following words, it being the cuſtom of Perſons entring into covenant, to paſs between ſuch pieces, as hath been ſaid; and becauſe God hath no body which could viſibly do ſo, therefore he doth it in this Type or Shadow.

CHAP. XVI.

Sarah is barren, 1. She gives Hagar, her ſervant, to Abram to be his wife, 2, 3. Hagar conceives and deſpiſes her miſtreſs, 4. Sarai complains of it, 5. Abram leaves her to Sarai's diſpoſal, who deals hardly with her: Hagar runs from her, 6. The angel of the Lord meets her, commands her to return and ſubmit, 7——9. Promiſing her a numerous ſeed, 10. Names the child, 11. Foretels his diſpoſition, 12. God's looking on her in her affliction, comforts her, 13, 14. Her ſon born and named, 15. Abrams age.

NOW Sarai Abrams wife bare him no children: and ſhe had an handmaid an Egyptian, whoſe name was * Hagar.

* Gal. 4. 24.

2 And Sarai ſaid unto Abram, Behold now, the LORD hath reſtrained me from bearing: I pray thee go in unto my maid; it may be that I may † obtain children by her a: and Abram hearkned to the voice of Sarai b.

a She reckons the Children of her Bond-woman, (as Hagar was Gal. 4. 22.) would be accounted her Children. See Gen. 30. 3. Exod. 21. 4. 2 Sam. 21. 8 Eſth. 2. 7. b Suppoſing that God would accompliſh his promiſe of a Seed to come out of his Loins by this way; and knowing that Sarai was not yet mentioned in the promiſe, as the Perſon by whom he ſhould have that Seed; and not conſulting with God, which he ſhould have done.

3 And Sarai Abrams wife took Hagar her maid the Egyptian, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her to her huſband Abram to be his wife c.

c (i. e.) His Concubine, or ſecondary Wife. Polygamy, though it was forbidden by God's firſt Inſtitution, Gen. 2. 24. compared with Matth. 19. 5. and brought into the World by wicked Lamech, yet it was ſometimes practiſed by the Patriarchs, either by God's permiſſion, who could rightly diſpence with his own Laws when and where he pleaſed; or by their miſtake about the lawfulneſs of it. As for the preſent caſe, it is moſt evident this Action was not the effect of an inordinate Luſt, but of an earneſt deſire of having Children, and eſpecially of obtaining the bleſſed and promiſed Seed.

4 ¶ And he went in unto Hagar, and ſhe conceived: and when ſhe ſaw that ſhe had conceived, her miſtreſs was deſpiſed in her eyes d.

d For barrenneſs in it ſelf was a reproach, and eſpecially to Sarai, who ſeemed to be a Perſon rejected by God, as one whom he would not honour with being the Mother of that Seed; and Hagar being ſuddenly made Sarai's Partner in the priviledge of Abram's Bed, and ſuperior to her in reſpect of that great bleſſing of Child bearing, it is no wonder if ſhe grew inſolent upon it, eſpecially being advanced ſo highly from ſo low a condition.

5 And Sarai ſaid unto Abram, My wrong be upon thee e: I have given my maid into thy boſom; and when ſhe ſaw that ſhe had conceived, I was deſpiſed in her eyes: the LORD judge between me and thee f.

e (i. e) The injury done to me by Hagar, who thus wickedly requites my kindneſs to her, be upon thee; i. e. is to be imputed to thee; thou art the cauſe of it, becauſe thou doſt not maintain my Reputation, and repreſs her Arrogancy. f (i. e.) give forth a righteous Sentence between us, and deal with each of us according to our guilt or innocency in this matter. Compare 1 Sam. 24. 13, 16.

6 But Abram ſaid unto Sarai, Behold, thy maid is in thine hand g; do to her † as it pleaſeth thee h. And when Sarai † dealt hardly with her i, ſhe fled from her face k.

† Heb. thatwhich is good in thine eyes.

g (i. e.) Subject to thy Power and Authority, as the phraſe is taken, Gen. 24. 10 and 39. 4, 6, 8. Numb. 31. 49. For though ſhe be my Concubine, yet ſhe is thy inferiour; and therefore if ſhe exalt her ſelf above her meaſure, I give thee Power to exerciſe thy Authority over her. But whether this was not one of Abram's Infirmities to give up his ſecond Wife into the hands of the firſt, may well be queſtioned. h Uſe whatſoever power God hath given thee over her: For we muſt not think that Abram gave her Power of Life and Death over her, eſpecially now when ſhe was with Child. Therefore here, as often elſewhere, the general words muſt be limited from the nature of the thing, and from other Texts of Scripture, which forbid Cruelty even to our Servants. i Either by impoſing Labours upon her above her Strength, or by grievous Stripes which ſhe could not bear. k Contrary to God's command, Eccleſ. 10. 4. and to the Laws of Juſtice, becauſe both her Perſon and the Fruit of her Body were not her own, but Abram's right in Poſſeſſion.

7 ¶ And the Angel of the LORD l found her by a fountain of water in the wilderneſs, by the fountain in the way to Shur m:

l The Son of God, who oft appeared in Man's Shape before he took Man's Nature, who is called an Angel or Meſſenger, becauſe he was the angel of the covenant, Mal. 3. 1. and was ſent upon divers meſſages to Men in the Old Teſtament, and at laſt was to be ſent in the Fleſh as God's great Embaſſador, or Meſſenger of Peace and Reconciliation. m A place near Egypt, Gen. 25. 18. 1 Sam. 15. 7. being her Native Country, Exod. 15. 22.

8 And he ſaid, Hagar, Sarai's maid n, whence cameſt thou? And whither wilt thou go o? And ſhe ſaid, I flee from the face of my miſtreſs Sarai.

n By which Title he admoniſheth her, that tho ſhe was Abram's Wife, yet ſhe was Sarai's Maid, to whom ſhe owed Subjection and Service, from which ſhe could not lawfully withdraw her ſelf. o Conſider with thy ſelf what thou art doing; what a ſad exchange thou art making. Thou forſakeſt not only an excellent Maſter and Huſband, but alſo me and my worſhip, which thou wilt not find in any other Family, and ſo caſteſt thy ſelf out of the true Church, and art running headlong into a place of all Idolatry and Impiety, to thy utter undoing; and this meerly through Pride and Impatience.

9 And the Angel of the LORD ſaid unto her, Return to thy miſtreſs, and ſubmit thy ſelf under her hands.

10 And the Angel of the LORD ſaid unto her, I will multiply thy ſeed exceedingly, that it ſhall not be numbred for multitude.

11 And the Angel of the LORD ſaid unto her, Behold, thou art with child, and ſhalt bear a ſon, and ſhalt call his name † Iſhmael; becauſe the LORD hath heard thy affliction *.

* Hath heard thy Cry in thy Affliction.

12 And he will be a wild man p; his hand will be againſt every man, and every mans hand againſt him q: * and he ſhall dwell in the preſence of all his brethren r.

* Chap. 25. 18.

p Heb. A wild-aſs-man, i e. a Man like a wild Aſs, fierce and untamed, and unſetled in his Habitation; or as that Creature is, Job 39. 5, 8. Jer. 2. 24. Hoſ. 8. 9. living in Deſarts and Mountains, War-like and Violent, exerciſing himſelf continually in hunting Beaſts, and oppreſſing Men. See Gen. 21. 20 q He will provoke and injure all that converſe with him, and thereby will multiply his Enemies; which is to be underſtood not only of him, but alſo of his Poſterity. r In the Borders of the other Sons and Kindred of Abram and Iſaac, who though they ſhall be vexed and annoyed with his Neighbourhood, yet ſhall not be able to make him quit his Habitation. See Gen. 25. 18.

13 And ſhe called the name of the LORD that ſpake unto her, † Thou God ſeeſt me s: for ſhe ſaid, Have I alſo here looked after him that ſeeth me t?

† Heb. El-roi, thou art a God that ſeeſt me.

s Thou haſt been pleaſed to take notice and care of me, and graciouſly to manifeſt thy ſelf unto me. t (i. e.) After that God whoſe eye is upon me for good? So ſhe chides her ſelf for her neglect of God, and of his Providence, and that not only in her Maſter's Houſe, but even here in the Wilderneſs, where her deſolate and miſerable Condition ſhould have made her look after, and call upon God for help. Or rather, theſe are words of admiration, q. d. Have I alſo here, i. e. in this deſolate Wilderneſs, looked after him that ſeeth me, i. e. ſeen the face of my gracious God! That God ſhould appear to me in my Maſter's Houſe, where he uſed to manifeſt himſelf, was not ſtrange; but that I ſhould have ſuch a favour here, that God ſhould not only look upon me, but admit me to look upon him, and viſibly appear to me after I had run away from him, and from my godly Maſter, this was more than I could hope or expect! Others thus, Have I here ſeen after him that ſees me, i. e. after the Viſion of him that hath appeared to me! i. e. Do I yet ſee and live, after I have ſeen God! She wonders at it, becauſe it was then the common Opinion, that an appearance of God to any Perſon was a fore-runner of Death. See Gen. 32. 30. Exod 33. 20. Jud 6. 22. and 13. 22. And ſeeing is here put for living, one function of Life for Life it ſelf, as Exod. 24. 11. Eccleſ. 11. 7, 8. But the word ſeeing, put by its ſelf, as here it is, is neither in thoſe places, nor elſewhere, uſed for living. And had that been her meaning, ſhe would have expreſſed it plainly, as they do in the places alledged, and not have uſed ſo dark and dubious a Metaphor, nor would have ſaid, after him that ſees me, but rather, after I have ſeen him.

14 Wherefore the well was called * † Beer-lahai-roi u; behold, it is between Cadeſh and Bered.

† That is, the well of him that liveth and ſeeth me.

u This name may have reſpect, either 1. To God, The well of him that liveth, (i. e. of the true and living God) and ſeeth me, i. e. taketh care of me. Or, 2. To Hagar, The well of her that liveth, (i. e.) who tho ſhe gave up her ſelf for dead and loſt, yet now is likely to live, both in her Perſon, and in her Poſterity, and ſeeth, or did ſee, namely, God preſent with her.

15 ¶ And Hagar bare Abram a ſon †: and Abram called his ſons name, which Hagar bare, Iſhmael.

† To wit, after her return and ſubmiſſion to her Miſtreſs, which is evident from the following Hiſtory.

16 And Abram was fourſcore and ſix years old, when Hagar bare Iſhmael to Abram.

2 And I will make my covenant between me and thee d, and will multiply thee exceedingly.

d I am come to renew, eſtabliſh, and enlarge that Covenant which I formerly made with thee.

3 And Abram fell on his face e: and God talked with him, ſaying, e Partly in ſelf-abaſement, and an humble ſenſe of his own undeſervedneſs of ſuch favours; and partly in Reverence and Worſhip to God, and a thankful acknowledgment of his marvellous kindneſs. Compare Levit. 9. 24. Ezek. 43. 3.

4 As for me, behold, my covenant is with thee, and thou ſhalt be a father of † many nations f.

f Both literally, or after the Fleſh, of the Iſraelites, Iſmaelites, Edomites, &c. and ſpiritually, of all Believers of all Nations, to whom Abram hath in ſome ſort the place of a Father, Rom. 4. 12, 17. Not only as he was the great Example and Teacher of that Faith by which they are all ſaved (as the Inſtructers of others are called their Fathers, both in Scripture, as Gen. 4. 20, 21. and in profane Authors) but as he was made by God the head of the Covenant, by, or through whom the Covenant-right was conveyed to all his natural Seed, and afterwards to the ſpiritual Seed, all Gentile-Believers.

5 Neither ſhall thy name any more be called Abram; but thy name ſhall be Abraham g, * for a father of many nations have I made thee.

7 And I will eſtabliſh my covenant between me and thee, and thy ſeed after thee, in their Generations, for an everlaſting covenant; to be a God unto thee i, and to thy ſeed after thee.

i (i. e.) Whatſoever I am or have, all that ſhall be thine, and ſhall be employed for thy Protection, Conſolation, and Salvation. This Phraſe contains in it the confluence of all bleſſings, Temporal, Spiritual, and Eternal. See Levit. 26. 12. Pſalm 33. 12. and 144. 15. Jer. 31. 33.

8 And * I will give unto thee, and to thy ſeed † after thee, the land † wherein thou art a ſtranger, all the land of Canaan, for an everlaſting poſſeſſion k; and I will be their God.

† Unto thee, not in thy own Perſon, but in thy Seed. See Gen. 13. 15, 17. k Upon condition of their Obedience to God, as is oft expreſſed: Wherein ſeeing they ſo notoriouſly failed, it is no wonder if they poſſeſſed it but a little while, as the Prophet complains, Iſaiah 63. 18.

9 ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, Thou ſhalt keep my covenant therefore, thou l, and thy ſeed after thee, in their generations.

l The agreement is mutual: My part was expreſſed before; now follows thy part, and the condition to which my promiſe and bleſſing is annexed.

10 This is my covenant m which ye ſhall keep between me and you, and thy ſeed after thee; Every * man-child n among you ſhall be circumciſed.

m Circumciſion is here called the Covenant by an uſual Metonymy, becauſe it is the Condition, Sign, and Seal of the Covenant, the pledge of God's Promiſe and Man's Duty. And upon the ſame grounds the Cup, i. e. the Wine, is called the New Teſtament in Chriſt's blood, Luke 22. 20. Or, which is all one, Chriſt's blood in the New Teſtament, Matth 26. 28. n It is evident that Women as well as Men were comprehended in this Covenant, from Gen. 34. 14. Exod. 12. 3, 4. Joel 2. 15, 16. Yet Circumciſion is given only to the Males, partly becauſe it could not, at leaſt not conveniently be adminiſtred to Females; partly, becauſe Man is the principal Cauſe of the propagation of Children, and conſequently of the propagation of that Original Corruption which cleaves to them; partly, to ſignify that all Perſons begotten by Man ſhould be polluted by Sin, though not all conceived by a Woman, as Chriſt was: And partly, becauſe Man is the Head of the Woman, and of the Family, upon whom all their concerns are devolved, and from whom the diſtinction of Families and People comes 11 And ye ſhall circumciſe the fleſh of your fore-skin o, and it ſhall be a * token of the covenant p betwixt me and you.

* Acts

o (i. e) By an uſual Hypallage, the fore-skin of your fleſh: And the word Fleſh is here put for the genital Part, as it is Levit. 15. 2, 19. Ezek. 16. 26. and 23. 20. and elſewhere. This part God ſingled out for this Ordinance, becauſe it is and was a great Inſtrument both in the commiſſion of actual Sins, and in the propagation of original Sin; and therefore it was very proper to apply to it the Seal of God's gracious Covenant for the Remiſſion of Sins paſt, and the Exptirpation of Sin for the future. p (i. e.) A ſign, evidence, and aſſurance, both of the bleſſing promiſed by that God who appointed this Ordinance, and of Man's obligation to the duties required, which is ſignified by his acceptance of, and ſubmiſſion to this Ordinance. And here we have the Nature and Definition of a Sacrament, viz. that it is a figure or token of God's Covenant.

12 And † he that is eight days old q * ſhall be circumciſed among you, every man-child in your generations r, he that is born in the houſe, or bought with money of any ſtranger s, which is not of thy ſeed.

* Levit. 1
3. Luke
7. 22.

q Not before that time, becauſe of the Childs Weakneſs and Imperfection, and Impurity too, Exod. 22. 30. Levit. 12. 3. for which reaſon alſo Beaſts were not to be offered to God before the eighth day, Exod. 22. 30. r Succeſſively, until the Meſſias come who ſhall circumciſe your hearts, and change this Ordinance for another. s Theſe were of two ſorts: 1. Children, who being entirely his poſſeſſion, and having not underſtanding to diſcern, nor will to chuſe or refuſe, were to be circumciſed. 2. Grown Perſons, who were not to be compelled to be circumciſed, but if they refuſed it, were not to be permitted to dwell in his Family, leſt they ſhould infect others, but were to be ſold to Strangers, as the Hebrew Doctors teach. But as for Abraham's Servants here, they were thoroughly inſtructed in Religion, Gen. 18. 19. and doubtleſs did willingly embrace it, and ſubmit to this Sacrament.

13 He that is born in thy houſe, and he that is bought with thy money, muſt needs be circumciſed: and my covenant ſhall be in your fleſh for an everlaſting covenant t.

t So it was, and is properly in regard of the thing ſignified to all true Believers; and for the ſign, it is ſo called, becauſe it was to endure through all Generations till the coming of the Meſſias: The word Olam here and elſewhere rendred everlaſting, or for ever, being oft uſed to expreſs not only ſimple eternity, but any long continuance for many ages, yea ſometimes for a Man's life. See Exod. 21. 6. Deut. 15. 17. 1 Kings 9. 3.

14 And the uncircumciſed man-child, * whoſe fleſh of his fore-skin is not circumciſed u, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people x: he hath broken my covenant y.

* Or rather, And as for the uncircumciſed man-child. So the nominative is put abſolutely, as is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue. u Or, Who ſhall not circumciſe the fleſh of his fore-skin: For the Hebrew Verb may be rendred actively, which ſeems beſt here; becauſe the puniſhment ſeems more juſtly to belong to the Parent, who was guilty of this neglect; than to the Child, who was not capable of this Precept, and therefore not guilty of the violation of it. And this may further appear from Exod. 4. 24, 25. where God ſeeks to kill, not the Child, but the Father, Moſes, for this Sin. And the fleſh of the Child's fore-skin is rightly called the fleſh of his, i. e. The Parent's fore-skin, becauſe the Child is a part and the poſſeſſion of his Parent. So that this threatning concerns only grown perſons, and of them only ſuch as ſhall wilfully and unneceſſarily neglect this duty; for otherwiſe it was neglected by the Iſraelites for forty years together in the Wilderneſs, Joſ. 5. 7. without any token of God's diſpleaſure for it. x This phraſe denotes either 1. An excluſion from Fellowſhip with God's People, and from all the Promiſes, Priviledges and Bleſſings belonging to them, either in this Life, or that to come. Or rather 2. An untimely and violent Death, as may be gathered from Exod. 31. 14. to be inflicted by the Magiſtrate, to whom God committed the execution of this, as well as other Laws; and in caſe of his neglect and default, or the ſecrecy of the fact, by the extraordinary hand of God, who ſometimes aſcribes this act to himſelf, as Leviticus 17. 10. and 20. 6. y That ſacred bond which tyed him and me together, and by his neglect and contempt of the condition required on his part, he hath forfeited the bleſſing promiſed on my part.

15 ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, As for Sarai thy wife, thou ſhalt not call her name Sarai, but Sarah z ſhall her name be.

z Sarai ſignifies my Lady, or my Princeſs, which confines her Dominion to one Family; but Sarah ſignifies either a Lady or Princeſs, ſimply and abſolutely without reſtriction, or the Princeſs of a multitude, the Hebrew Letter he being taken out of Hamon, and added to her name, as it was to Abram's name.

16 And I will bleſs her, and give thee a ſon alſo of her: yea, I will bleſs her, and † ſhe ſhall be a mother of * nations; kings of people ſhall be of her.

17 Then Abraham fell upon his face, and laughed a, and ſaid in his heart, Shall a child be born unto him that is an hundred years old? and ſhall Sarah that is ninety years old bear?

a Through admiration and holy rejoycing at ſo great a Bleſſing, not through unbelief, as Sarah did Gen. 18. 12, 13. as appears from Rom. 4. 19, 20. And though the outward act was the ſame in both, yet God diſcerned their differing diſpoſitions and intentions therein.

18 And Abraham ſaid unto God, O that Iſhmael might live before thee b?

b Grant, O Lord, that the giving of one Son may not be joyned with the taking away of another; that Iſhmael may faithfully ſerve thee, and may have a ſhare in thy favour, and gracious Covenant. For this ſeems to be the meaning of this phraſe of living before God, or in God's preſence, by comparing a parallel phraſe, of walking before God, verſe 1. and elſewhere, and an oppoſite phraſe, from thy face ſhall I be hid, Gen. 4. 14.

19 And God ſaid, * Sarah thy wife ſhall bear thee a ſon indeed; and thou ſhalt call his name Iſaac c, and I will eſtabliſh my covenant with him for an everlaſting covenant, and with his ſeed after him.

c Which ſignifies laughter, not from Sarah's laughter, which as yet had not happened, but from Abram's paſt laughter, verſe 17. and future joy in his Son.

*Chap. 25. 36.

20 And as for Iſhmael, I have heard thee †: behold, I have bleſſed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly: * twelve princes ſhall he beget, and I will make him a great nation.

† To wit, in part, or ſo far as is here expreſſed; and probably, as to the chief Bleſſing of the Covenant, to wit, the forgiveneſs of his Sins, and eternal Life, as the Hebrew Doctors and ſome others collect from Gen. 25. 17. and from other conſiderations.

21 But my covenant will I eſtabliſh with Iſaac d, whom Sarah ſhall bear unto thee at this ſet time, in the next year.

d The Covenant of the promiſed Seed to come out of his Loins, and of Life and Salvation to accrue to himſelf, and to his Poſterity by vertue of that Seed: In compariſon whereof God ſpeaks ſlightly of all the temporal Bleſſings conferred upon Iſhmael, though in themſelves they were great and glorious. By which it may ſufficiently appear that Abraham's Faith, whereby he is ſaid to be juſtified, Rom. 4. had a farther reach in it than to his own immediate Child, even to the Meſſias, whoſe day therefore Abraham is ſaid to have ſeen, John 8. 56.

23 And he left off talking with him, and God went up e from Abraham.

e To Heaven in a viſible manner, as it ſeems he converſed with him in ſome viſible ſhape. Compare Geneſis 35. 13. Judges 13. 20.

23 ¶ And Abraham took Iſhmael his ſon, and all that were born in his houſe and all that were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abrahams houſe, and circumciſed the fleſh of their fore-skin f in the ſelf-ſame day g, as God had ſaid unto him.

f Partly by his own hand, and partly by the help of others, whom he by Divine Inſtinct called to, and directed in that work. g In which God appeared to him and gave the command. So he made haſte and delayed not to execute God's command. And his Servants alſo yielded a ready and cheerful Obedience to this ſevere and painful Precept, being moved thereunto by Abraham's Example and ſovereign Authority, by God's powerful Preſence ſome way or other manifeſted to them, and by the proſpect and hope of God's Bleſſing to accompany and follow his own Ordinance.

24 And Abraham was ninety years old and nine, when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his fore-skin.

25 And Iſhmael his ſon was thirteen years old, when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his fore-skin.

26 In the ſelf-ſame day was Abraham circumciſed, and Iſhmael his ſon.

27 And all the men of his houſe, born in the houſe, and bought with money of the ſtranger, were circumciſed with him.

CHAP. XVIII.

The Lord appears to Abraham, 1. He ſees three men, 2. Invites them, 3. They accept it, 4, 5. He prepares for them a calf, &c. they eat, 6—8 The promiſe of a ſon by Sarah renewed; the time appointed, 9. Sarah, being old, laughs, 11, 12. God reproves her, 13. And confirms the promiſe, 14. Her denial, and God's reply, 15. The men go towards Sodom, 16. God reſolves to ſhew Abraham his purpoſe to deſtroy Sodom, 17. The reaſon of it, 18. God's teſtimony of him, 19. God reveals his purpoſe to him, 20—22. Abraham's interceſſion for Sodom, oft repeated, and God's condeſcention, 23—32.

o Not in a viſible ſhape, but with my powerful and effectual Preſence to fulfil my promiſe. p This time may reſpect, either 1. Abraham and Sarah; in the time of life, i. e. when you ſhall be both alive and in health. But if it belonged to them, it might ſeem better to underſtand it thus; In the time when God ſhall reſtore life, (i. e.) vigour and activity to you; for till then both Abraham's Body, and Sarah's Womb are expreſly ſaid to be dead, Rom. 4. 19. to which deadneſs this life may be oppoſite; and the time of reſtoring this loſt power of Generation may well be called a time of life, it being a kind of life from the dead, and an impowering of him for a vital action from which he was before diſenabled, and for the conveying of life to a Child, and perpetuating his own life in him. Or 2. To the Child, according to the time of life, i. e. in the time which is uſual for the Conception, Quickning, and Bringing forth of a living Child. Which interpretation receiveth ſome countenance from 2 Kings 4. 16. where we have the ſame phraſe. Or 3. To the year, according to the time, or this time of life, or living time, i. e. when this time or ſeaſon of the year ſhall revive, i. e. return or be reſtored: As Cities and Buildings are ſaid to be revived, when they are repaired or rebuilt, as 1 Chron. 11. 8. Nehem. 4. 2. And this ſeaſon might more properly be ſaid to revive, and be called the time of life, becauſe it may be gathered from the heat, verſe 1. and their refreſhing themſelves under the ſhadow of a Tree, that it was the Spring-time, when Herbs and Plants and Trees, which ſeem to be dead in the Winter, recover and ſhew forth their life and vigour: And ſo the ſenſe may be this, according to this time which is a time of life, or reviving, wherein as the Beauty and Fruits of the Earth will be renewed and revived, ſo thou and Sarah ſhall be revived, or receive, as it were, a new life in the Son that ſhall be born to you. This ſenſe ſeems more probable than either of the former; becauſe he ſpeaks of a certain ſet or appointed time, verſe 14. Rom. 9. 9. Gen. 21. 2. and that time was about a year after this, as may appear by comparing Gen. 17. 24. and Gen. 21. 5. q (i. e.) At the back of the Angel that ſpoke with him. Which is here added to ſhew that he knew her Laughter, not by the ſight of his Eyes, but by his all-ſeeing Knowledge.

*Chap. 17. 17. Rom. 4. 19. Heb. 11. 11, 12.

11 Now * Abraham and Sarah were old, and well ſtricken in age: and it ceaſed to be with Sarah after the manner of women r.

r As to thoſe monthly Effluviums peculiar to her Sex, which are neceſſary to conception, compare Gen. 31. 35.

* Luke 1. 18.
* 1 Pet. 3. 6.

12 Therefore Sarah laughed s within her ſelf t, ſaying, * After I am waxed old, ſhall I have pleaſure, u my * Lord being old alſo?

s Not from joy and admiration, but from diſtruſt and contempt, as if it were incredible. t Heb In her heart, i. e. ſhe ſecretly derided it, though none but her ſelf, as ſhe thought, knew it. u Not ſo much in the conception, as in the education and fruition of a Child.

13 And the LORD ſaid unto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah laugh, ſaying, Shall I of a ſurety bear a child, which am old?

* Jer. 32. 17. Zech. 8. 6. Luke 1. 37.

14 * Is any thing too hard for the LROD x? † at the time appointed will I return unto thee, according to the time of life, and Sarah ſhall have a ſon.

* Heb. Hid from God? So the ſenſe is, though ſhe laughed only in her Heart, it is not unknown to me: Or rather too wonderful for God to effect? Which beſt ſuits with the following words.

15 Then Sarah denied y, ſaying, I laughed not: for ſhe was afraid. And he ſaid, Nay, but thou didſt laugh.

y From the ſenſe of Guilt, and the diſcovery of her Shame, and the expectation of a ſharp Rebuke both from this Perſon, and from her Husband.

* 3 John 6.

16 ¶ And the men roſe up from thence, and looked towards Sodom: and Abraham went with them * to bring them on the way z.

z A civility uſual then and afterwards. See Acts 20. 38. and 21. 5. Rom. 15. 24. 1 Cor. 16. 11.

* Amos 3. 7.

17 And the LORD ſaid, * Shall I hide from Abraham a that thing which I do;

a q. d. I will not, cannot hide it; it is againſt the Laws of Friendſhip to conceal my Secrets from him. The Interrogation here is in effect a Negation, as elſewhere. Compare 2 Sam. 7. 5. with 1 Chron. 17. 4. and Matth. 7. 16. with Luke 6. 43. See alſo Amos 3. 7.

* Chap. 12. 3. and 22. 18. Act. 3. 25. Gal. 3. 8.

18 Seeing that Abraham ſhall ſurely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth ſhall be * bleſſed in him b.

b (q. d.) Seeing I have done greater things for him, How can I deny him the leſs? Compare the argument, Rom. 8. 32. God's ways are not like Men's ways. Former favours to Men are arguments why they ſhould do no more; but to God they are motives for the adding of new ones.

19 For I know him c, that he will command d his children and his houſhold after him e, and they ſhall keep the way of the LORD, to do juſtice and judgment g; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath ſpoken of him h.

c I know him to be ſuch an one as I am now deſcribing; or I know this concerning him which now follows. Others, I love him, and therefore cannot conceal this from him. Words of Knowledge being oft put for Love, as Jer. 1. 5. and 24. 5. Hoſ. 13. 5. Amos 3. 2. d Or, Inſtruct, as the word is uſed, Levit. 14. 5. Deut. 20. 18. and 27. 3. It will not be in vain that I tell him this, and give him occaſion to pray and to taſt my Goodneſs in anſwering Prayers, becauſe he will not ſmother theſe things in his own Breaſt, but manifeſt them to others, and teach them how good God is, who ſo readily complies with the Deſires and Prayers of Men, and how terrible he is to incorrigible Sinners, and how evil and bitter a thing it is to ſin againſt God. And ſo I ſhall get the end I aim at in all my Works, which is, that they may be known for the good of others; that they may learn by ſuch Examples. e Who will live when he is dead. He will ſo diligently imprint theſe things in their Minds, that they ſhall never forget them. f (i. e.) Obſerve and walk in the way of God's Precepts: q. d. He ſhall not loſe his Deſign or Labour; for what he teacheth they ſhall learn and practiſe. See Pſal. 51. 15, &c. g (i. e.) To do all things that are good, and right, and juſt, both to God and Men. Compare Pſal. 119. 121. h (i. e.) That Abraham and his Poſterity, keeping the Conditions of the Covenant required on their part, God may without any blemiſh to his Honour or Juſtice give all thoſe good things which he hath promiſed to them.

* Chap. 10. and 19. 13. Jam. 5.

20 And the LORD ſaid, Becauſe * the cry i of Sodom and Gomorrah k is great, and becauſe their ſin is very grievous;

i Sins are ſaid to cry when they are groſs, and manifeſt, and impudent, and ſuch as highly provoke God to Anger. k He names only theſe two, as being the moſt eminent in State, and exemplary in Wickedneſs; but under them he includes the reſt, as appears by the Story.

* Chap. 5.
† Heb. made an end.

21 * I will go down now, and ſee l whether they have † done altogether m according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know.

l (i. e.) Enquire into the truth of the thing. God here ſpeaks after the manner of Men, and for the Example and Inſtruction of Judges to ſearch into Cauſes ere they paſs Sentence. m Heb. Whether they have made a conſummation or accompliſhment, i. e. whether they have filled up the meaſure of their Sins. Compare Gen. 15. 16. Matth. 23. 32. James 1. 15.

22 And the men n turned their faces from thence, and went toward Sodom: but Abraham ſtood yet before the LORD o.

n (i. e.) Two of them; for the third ſtayed with Abraham, as it here follows. o The third of theſe perſons whom now he perceived to be the Lord himſelf, who had aſſumed an humane ſhame.

23 ¶ And Abraham drew near p, and ſaid, Wilt thou alſo deſtroy the righteous with the wicked?

p (i. e.) Approached unto God to enquire of him, and to pray unto him; for ſo the phraſe of drawing near to God is uſed, 1 Sam. 14. 36. Pſal. 73. 28. Iſa. 29. 13. Heb. 10. 22.

* Jer. 5. 1.

24 * Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city q: wilt thou alſo deſtroy, and not ſpare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein?

q (i. e.) In the Cities concerned, as appears by verſe 20. and 19. 25. The ſingular number for the plural, as is frequent, as Gen. 3. 2. 1 Chron. 10. 1. compared with 1 Sam. 31. 1. and oft elſewhere. Or the City Sodom alone is mentioned, but the reſt are comprehended under it, either becauſe of its eminency, or becauſe they were ſubject or ſubordinate to it, as may ſeem probable from the Hiſtory, Gen. 14.

* Job 8. 3 and 34. 17 Rom. 3. 6.

25 That be far from thee to do after this manner, to ſlay the righteous with the wicked: and that the righteous ſhall be as the wicked, that be far from thee: * ſhall not the judge of all the earth r do right s?

r Now he clearly perceiveth that this perſon was no leſs than the Creator, Governour and Judge of the World, even the ſecond perſon in the Bleſſed Trinity, to whom that Title and Work is aſcribed, as John 5. 22, 27. Acts 10. 42. and 17. 31. s He ſpeaks not this, as if it were ſimply unjuſt for God to involve the Righteous in the ſame temporal Deſtruction with the Wicked; for he knew very well and by his own experience, that there was not a juſt man upon earth that did good and ſinned not, Eccleſ. 7. 20. and therefore no ſuch juſt man who did not for his own Sin deſerve that Death and Deſtruction, which is the proper wages of ſin, Rom. 6. laſt. But he ſpeaks not here of ſtrict and rigorous Juſtice, but of that moderate and equitable way which God is pleaſed to uſe with the Sons of Men, and of that right to temporal Deliverances which by vertue of God's gracious Covenant and Promiſe did accrue to pious and vertuous Perſons, eſpecially in the times of the Old Teſtament, when temporal Promiſes were more expreſly and particularly made to good Men.

26 And the LORD ſaid, If I find in Sodom fifty righteons within the city, then I will ſpare all the place for their ſakes.

27 And Abraham anſwered and ſaid, Behold, now I have taken upon me to ſpeak unto the LORD, which am but duſt and aſhes t.

t In regard of the compoſition of my Body, which was taken out of the Duſt, and ſhall return into it again. See Gen. 3. 19. Job 4. 19. Eccl. 12. 7. 1 Cor. 15. 47, 48.

28 Peradventure there ſhall lack five of the fifty righteous, wilt thou deſtroy all the city for lack of five [u]? And he ſaid, If I find there forty and five, I will not deſtroy it.

[u] Heb. For five, or becauſe of five, to wit, which are lacking or wanting. The ſame Supplement we have alſo, Pſalm 109. 24. Lam. 4. 9.

29 And he ſpake unto him yet again, and ſaid, Peradventure there ſhall be forty found there. And he ſaid, I will not do it for forties ſake.

30 And he ſaid unto him, O, let not the LORD be angry, and I will ſpeak: Peradventure there ſhall thirty be found there. And he ſaid, I will not do it, if I find thirty there.

31 And he ſaid, Behold now, I have taken upon me to ſpeak unto the LORD: Peradventure there ſhall be twenty found there. And he ſaid, I will not deſtroy it for twenties ſake.

* Judg. 6. 39. 32 And he ſaid, * O, let not the LORD be angry, and I will ſpeak yet but this once [x]: Peradventure ten ſhall be found there. And he ſaid, I will not deſtroy it for tens ſake.

[x] Abraham in modeſty could proceed no further, and being a good Man himſelf, he had a charitable Opinion of others, and thought there certainly were ſo many good Men in all thoſe Cities, eſpecially including Lot and his Family. No doubt Abraham remembered Lot in his Prayers; but that large and generous Soul could not content himſelf with Lot's preſervation, but aims at the ſaving of the whole Cities, which when he ſaw was doubtful and unlikely, he prayed for his deliverance out of that common Deſtruction, as may be gathered from Gen. 19. 29.

33 And the LORD went his way, aſſoon as he had left communing with Abraham: and Abraham returned unto his place.

CHAP. XIX.

Two angels come to Sodom, 1. Lot invites them in; they at firſt refuſe, 2. They enter; he entertains them and they eat, 3. The men of Sodom demand to know them, 4, 5. Lot diſſwades them, 6, 7. Offers his daughters; urges reaſon, 8. They are obſtinate, threaten, and preſs to break the door, 9. The angels pull Lot in, and ſhut to the door, 10. And ſmite the men with blindneſs, 11. Adviſe Lot to depart with his kindred, 12. The reaſon, 13. Lot ſpeaks to his ſons in law; they deride him, 14. The angels lay hold on Lot, his wife, and two daughters, and carry them out, 16. Command them not to look back, 17. Lot requeſts to ſtay in Zoar; it is granted; with a command to haſten, becauſe till they are gone the Lord can do nothing, 18—23. God rains brimſtone and fire upon Sodom, 24, 25. Lots wife looking back becomes a pillar of ſalt, 26. Abraham looks towards Sodom, 27, 28. God kind to Lot for Abrahams ſake, 29. Lot and his two daughters remove to the mountain, 30. Lot's daughters contrive for an iſſue, 31, 32. They make their father drunk, lie with him, 33——35. and are with child, 36. Moab and Ben-ammi, the two ſons born thereby, 36, 37.

AND there came [a] two angels [b] to Sodom at even [c]; and Lot ſat in the gate of Sodom [d]: and Lot ſeeing them, roſe up to meet them; and he bowed himſelf with his face toward the ground;

[a] Even thoſe two which departed from Abraham, Chap. 18. 22. and now were come to Lot, the third yet ſtaying and communing with Abraham. [b] So they truly were, though they be called Men, Chap. 18. [c] Of the ſame day on which they departed from Abraham. [d] Where he ſat either to obſerve the Adminiſtration or Corruption of Juſtice there; for the ſeats of Judicature were in the Gates: Or rather to wait for Strangers, to whom he might exerciſe Kindneſs and Hoſpitality.

* Heb. 13. 2. * Chap. 18. 4. * See Luke 24. 28. 2 And he ſaid, Behold now my lords, * turn in, I pray you, into your ſervants houſe, and tarry all night, and * waſh your feet, and ye ſhall riſe up early, and go on your ways †. And they ſaid, * Nay, but we will abide in the ſtreet all night [e].

† And ſo this will be no hindrance to your Occaſions. [e] This was no untruth, but really intended by them in the preſent ſtate of things, and upon ſuppoſition that Lot ſhould preſs them no further; but they alſo intended, if Lot was earneſt with them, to comply with him. The firſt denial was but decent, and an act of Civility, and in them it was a deſign to diſcover Lot's Piety and Hoſpitality, and to manifeſt the great difference between him and the barbarous Sodomites, and the reaſon and juſtice of Lot's Deliverance, and their Deſtruction.

3 And he preſſed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entered into his houſe: and he made them a feaſt, and did bake unleavened bread [f], and they did eat.

[f] Becauſe that was ſooner prepared, that ſo they might eat it, and after that go to Bed in due time.

4 ¶ But before they lay down †, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compaſſed the houſe round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter [g].

† To Sleep, of which this word is uſed, Gen. 28. 13. Lev. 14. 17. and 26. 6. [g] Some to exerciſe Villany, and ſome to pleaſe themſelves with the Contemplation of it, and ſome out of Curioſity, &c. This is added to ſhew how univerſally corrupt they were, and that there were not ten righteous men there.

5 And they called unto Lot, and ſaid unto him, Where are the men which came in to thee this night? bring them out unto us, that we may know them [h].

[h] Either know who they are: Or rather abuſe them, as Lot's anſwer explains it, and ſo that word is uſed, Gen. 4. 1. Numb. 31. 17. Judg. 19. 22. And for the Sin here committed, ſee Lev. 18. 22. and 20. 13. Rom. 1. 26, 27. 1 Cor. 6. 9. Jude, verſe 7. They openly and impudently profeſs their wicked Intention, for which they are branded, Iſa. 3. 9. and this intention of theirs is the more probable, becauſe of the great beauty which it is likely was in thoſe bodies which the Angels aſſumed, whereby their Luſt was more inflamed.

6 And Lot went out at the door unto them, and ſhut the door after him,

7 And ſaid, I pray you, brethren [i], do not ſo wickedly.

[i] So they were by Community of Nature and Habitation. See Gen. 9. 5. and 29. 4. and Lev. 19. 17. and ſo he calls them, if poſſibly he might ſweeten and reſtrain them.

8 * Behold now, I have two daughters which have not * known man [k]; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, and do ye to them as is good in your eyes [l]: only unto theſe men do nothing; for therefore † came they under the ſhadow of my roof [m]. * See Judg. 19. 24. * See Numb. 31, 17, 18.

[k] To wit, Carnally. See Gen. 24. 16. Numb. 31. 18. Judg. 11. 39. [l] Whatſoever your purpoſe or pleaſure is. See the ſame Phraſe, Gen. 20. 15. and 41. 37. Numb. 24. 1, &c. A moſt imprudent and ſinful Motion, whereby he yielded to one ſin to prevent another, contrary to Romans 3. 8. and expoſed his Daughters chaſtity which he was obliged to preſerve, and which indeed he had no power to expoſe, eſpecially ſeeing they were betrothed to other men, v. 14. But it is ſome extenuation of his Sin that it proceeded from his great Charity and Kindneſs to Strangers, and that he was at this time under a great perturbation and diſcompoſure of mind. † That they might be preſerved from ſuch outrages. This was the deſign of the thing, though not of thoſe Perſons. See the note on Gen. 18. 5. [m] (i. e.) Under the protection of my Houſe. Shadow is oft put for protection or defence, as Judges 9. 15. Pſalm 36. 7. Jer. 48. 45.

9 And they ſaid, Stand back [n]. And they ſaid again, This one fellow came in to ſojourn [o], and he will needs be a judge [p]: now will we deal worſe with thee than with them. And they preſſed ſore upon the man, even Lot, and came near to break the door.

[n] Or, Go further off, i. e. out of our way; ſtand not between us and the door, or come hither: That ſo they might ſeize him, and proceed in the deſigned wickedneſs. [o] q. d. One man, and he too but a Stranger, preſumeth to oppoſe the whole Society of the Native Citizens. [p] Heb. In judging he will judge. This buſy-body, if not reſtrained in time, will take Authority to himſelf to cenſure, reprove, and condemn us from time to time.

10 But the men put forth their hand, and pulled Lot into the houſe to them, and ſhut to the door.

11 And they ſmote the men * that were at the door of the houſe with blindneſs [q], both ſmall and great: ſo that they wearied themſelves to find the door. * See Acts 13. 11.

[q] Heb. With blindneſs, i. e. with a blindneſs both of Body and Mind. It was not a total blindneſs, as if they quite loſt the uſe of their Eyes, for they ſaw the Houſe, tho not the Door, but it was a great dimneſs and confuſion of their Sight, and a diſturbance in their Common Senſe, by which they were made unable to diſtinguiſh between differing Perſons or Places; as it was alſo with the Syrians, 2 Kings 6. 18. as it is in ſome meaſure with ſome drunkards, who, tho their Eyes be open, cannot diſtinguiſhed between things that differ. And this was very eaſy for Angels to do by a ſmall alteration either in their Sight, or in the Air, whereby either the Door might appear to them like the ſolid Wall, or the ſeveral parts of the Wall like ſo many Doors.

12 ¶ And the men ſaid unto Lot, Haſt thou here any beſides ſon in law, and thy ſons, and thy daughters? and whatſoever thou haſt in the city, bring them out of this place.

13 For we will deſtroy this place: becauſe the * cry of them is waxen great before the face of the LORD, and the LORD hath ſent us to deſtroy it. * Chap. 18. 20.

14 And Lot went out, and ſpake unto his ſons in law, which married [r] his daughters, and ſaid, Up, get ye out of this place, for the LORD will deſtroy this city: but he ſeemed as one that mocked unto his ſons in law.

[r] Heb. Took, or were taking, or about to take, to wit, either to Eſpouſe, or to Marry. Compare Gen. 6. 2. and 24. 3. and 28. 6. Deut. 7. 3. Anciently Perſons were firſt eſpouſed, and after ſome time, the Marriage was conſummated.

15 ¶ And when the morning aroſe, then the angels haſtned Lot, ſaying, Ariſe, take thy wife, and thy two daughters which † are here [s], leſt thou be conſumed in the * iniquity of the city. † Heb. are found. * Or, puniſhment.

s Heb. Which are found, i. e. Which are preſent with thee, as this word is uſed, 1 Chron. 29. 17. 2 Chron. 5. 11. and 30. 21. and 31. 1. Whence ſome gather that he had two other Daughters married to two Sodomitiſh Men, who by their Husbands perſwaſion and example, ſtaid and periſhed in thoſe Flames. But this is not neceſſary: For this Phraſe may be applied to the Daughters by way of diſtinction from their Spouſes or Husbands. q. d. Tarry no longer in expectation of thy Sons-in-law, who are abſent, and muſt be given up for loſt, but take thy Daughters which are found and preſent with thee, and go thy way.

16 And while he lingred t, the men laid hold upon his hand, and upon the hand of his wife, and upon the hand of his two daughters; the LORD being merciful unto him; and they brought him forth, and ſet him without the city.

t Either through loathneſs to part with all his Eſtate, or to loſe his Sons-in-law: Or, through aſtoniſhment and diſtraction of Mind, which made him both liſtleis and impotent.

17 And it came to paſs, when they had brought them forth abroad, that he u ſaid, Eſcape for thy life x; look not behind thee y, neither ſtay thou in all the plain: eſcape to the mountain, leſt thou be conſumed.

u Either one of the Angels: Or the third Perſon, the Lord himſelf, who having parted from Abraham, after ſome time came to Lot, as appears both by the change of the number, for before this he ſpeaks of them in the plural number, but from hence in the ſingular number, as verſe 19, 21, 22. and by the variation of the Phraſe, for the other two ſpeak with ſubmiſſion, and as ſervants, verſe 13. The Lord hath ſent us, &c. but this ſpeaks with more authority, as is evident from verſe 21, 22. x (i. e.) As thou loveſt thy life. See Deut. 4. 15. Joſ. 23. 11. Jer. 17. 21. Or, eſcape with thy Life, for the Hebrew particle al is ſometimes taken for with, as Exod. 35. 23. Levit. 2. 2. and 14. 31. Deut. 22. 6. So the Senſe is, ſtand not lingring in hopes to ſave thy goods, them thou ſhalt loſe as a puniſhment of thy Sin and Folly in chuſing to dwell with ſo wicked a People, and be thankful that thou haſt thy life given thee for a prey, as it is expreſſed, Jer. 38. 2. y Like one that grieves either for the loſs of thy pleaſant Habitation, or vaſt Eſtate, or for thoſe curſed Miſcreants juſtly devoted to this Deſtruction. And this command tho given to Lot alone, yet was directed alſo to his Companions, to whom doubtleſs he imparted it, as is evident both from all the other commands, which equally concern all, and from the following event. See Matth. 24. 18. Luke 9. 62.

18 And Lot ſaid unto them *, Oh, not ſo, my LORD.

* i. e. Unto one of them, as is manifeſt from the following words.

19 Behold, now, thy ſervant hath found grace in thy ſight, and thou haſt magnified thy mercy, which thou haſt ſhewed unto me in ſaving my life: and I cannot eſcape to the mountain z, leſt ſome evil take me, and I die.

z Becauſe of the infirmity of my Age, and the fainting of my Spirits. Thus he ſheweth an unworthy and unreaſonable diſtruſt of God's Power and Goodneſs which he had now experienced and acknowledged.

20 Behold, now, this city is near to flee unto, and it is a little one a: O let me eſcape thither, (is it not a little one?) and my ſoul ſhall live.

a Therefore as its Inhabitants, ſo its Sins are fewer, and it will not be an eminent Example of thy Vengeance, as the other places will be.

21 And he ſaid unto him, See, I have accepted † thee b concerning this thing alſo, that I will not overthrow this city, for the which thou haſt ſpoken.

b Heb. I have lift up thy countenance, i. e. granted thy requeſt. The manner of the Expreſſion poſſibly may be taken from the cuſtom of the Eaſtern parts; where Petitioners uſed not to fall upon their Knees as we do, but to proſtrate themſelves with their face to the Ground; and the Perſon to whom they addreſſed themſelves, in token of his favourable acceptance of their Petitions, commanded them to be lifted up.

22 Haſte thee, eſcape thither; for I cannot do any thing till thou be come thither c: therefore the name of the city was called Zoar.

c Becauſe of God's Decree and Promiſe to ſave thee from the general Deſtruction.

23 ¶ The ſun was † riſen upon the earth d when Lot entered into Zoar.

d This Phraſe may note, either the time of the day when this was done; or rather the nature and quality of the day, that the Sun appeared and ſhone forth that Morning in great Luſtre and Glory: Which is well noted as a very conſiderable cicumſtance of the Hiſtory, and a great aggravation of the Ruin, which came when they leaſt expected it.

* Deut. 29. 23. Iſa. 13. 19. Jer. 50. 40. Ez. 16. 49. Hoſ. 11. 8. Amos 4. 11. Luke 17. 29. 2 Pet. 2. 6. Jude 7.

* See Jud. 5. 20. 2 Chron. 7. 1. Ezek. 11. 24.

24 Then * the * LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah e brimſtone and fire f from the LORD g out of heaven.

e And the neighbouring Cities, Admah and Zeboim, as appears from Deut. 29. 23. Jer. 49. 18. Hoſ. 11. 8. f Brimſtone is added to the Fire, either to convey and carry down the Fire which in it ſelf is light and apt to aſcend; or to increaſe it, Iſaiah 30. 33. or to repreſent the noyſomneſs of their Luſts. g (i. e.) From himſelf: The Noun put for the Pronoun, as Gen. 1. 27. 2 Chron. 7. 2. But here it is emphatically ſo expreſſed, Either 1. To ſignify that it proceeded not from Natural Cauſes, but from the immediate Hand of God. Or, 2. To note the Plurality of Perſons in the Godhead, God the Son, who now appeared upon the Earth, rained from God his Father in Heaven, both concurring in this Act, as indeed all outward Actions are common to all the Perſons of the Trinity.

25 And he overthrew thoſe cities, and all the plain h, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground.

h To wit, where theſe Cities and their Territories lay, called the Plain of Jordan, Gen. 13. 10. all which then became, and to this day continues to be a filthy Lake, called the Dead-Sea, becauſe no Fiſh lives in it.

26 ¶ But his wife looked back i from behind him k, and ſhe † became a * pillar of ſalt l.

* Luke 17. 32.

i Through curioſity, or unbelief, or deſire of what ſhe left, or from all theſe Cauſes. k (i. e.) From behind her Husband, whom ſhe followed. Which circumſtance ſeems to be mentioned as the reaſon of this Preſumption, becauſe ſhe could do it without her Husband's Obſervation or Reproof, to which ſhe had a greater regard than to the all-ſeeing Eye of God. † i. e. Her Body, by a very common Synecdoche. l Either metaphorically, i. e. a perpetual durable Pillar, as an everlaſting Covenant is called a Covenant of Salt, Numb. 18. 19. or properly, for there is a kind of Metalick Salt, which reſiſts the Rain, and is hard enough for Buildings, as Pliny, Solinus, and others witneſs. And that Salt was here mixed with Brimſtone, may be gathered from Deut. 29. 23. Add to this, that Joſephus Antiq. 1. 12. affirms that this Pillar remained in his time. And the like is witneſſed by others after him.

27 ¶ And Abraham gat up early in the morning, to the place where he * ſtood before the LORD.

* Chap. 22.

28 And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain, and beheld, and lo, the ſmoak of the country went up as the ſmoak of a furnace.

29 ¶ And it came to paſs when God deſtroyed the cities of the plain, that God remembred Abraham m, and ſent Lot out of the midſt of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot dwelt.

m Either 1. The promiſe made to Abraham, Gen. 12. 3. Or, 2. The Prayer made by Abraham, Gen. 18. who doubtleſs in his Prayers for Sodom would not forget Lot, though his Prayer for him be not there mentioned. And hereby it is inſinuated, that Lot though he was a righteous Man, and ſhould be ſaved eternally, yet deſerved to periſh temporally with thoſe wicked People, to whom he aſſociated himſelf meerly for worldly advantages, and ſhould have done ſo, if Abraham had not hindred it by his Prayers.

30 ¶ And Lot went up out of Zoar, and dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in Zoar n: and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters.

n Leſt he ſhould either ſuffer from them, or with them; perceiving now that though it was a little City, yet there was more wickedneſs in it than he imagined.

31 ¶ And the firſt-born ſaid unto the younger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth o to come in unto us after the manner of all the earth p.

o Either 1. In the whole Earth: For they thought the ſame deluge of Fire which deſtroyed the four Cities had by this time extended it ſelf to Zoar, and all other places, knowing that the whole World did lie in Wickedneſs, and having poſſibly heard from their Father, that the World as it was once deſtroyed by Water, ſo it ſhould afterwards be conſumed by Fire, wich they might think was now executed, and that God had ſecured Abraham from it by taking him to himſelf. Or, 2. In that Land, as the word may be rendred. And her meaning might not be this, that there was no Man at all, but not a Man with whom they might or durſt Marry: For though they knew they left many Men in Zoar, yet the ſad experience of the dreadful Ruin wherein their Brethren-in-law were involved, made them abhor the thoughts of any Conjunction with them. p (i. e.) Of all the Inhabitants of the Earth. Compare Gen. 18. 11.

32 Come, let us make our father drink wine q, and we will lie with him, that we may preſerve ſeed of our father r.

q Which they carried with them amongſt other neceſſary Proviſions either from Sodom or Zoar. r Which though an inceſtuous and abominable Action, yet they thought was made lawful by the ſuppoſed neceſſity, as in the beginning of the World the Marriage of Brethren and Siſters was lawful, becauſe neceſſary; and when it ceaſed to be neceſſary, becauſe of the increaſe of Minkind, it became inceſtuous.

33 And they made their father drink wine s that night: and the firſt-born went in, and lay with her father, and he perceived not when ſhe lay down, nor when ſhe aroſe t.

s To wit, in Exceſs, ſo as to deprive him of the uſe of his Reaſon and Grace, which was likely to fruſtrate their Project: This was a great Sin, not only in them, but alſo in Lot himſelf, not to be excuſed by ignorance of the virtue of Wine, which being known to both the Daughters, certainly their Father could not be ignorant of it. Thus he who kept his Integrity in the midſt of all the Temptations of Sodom, falls into a grievous Sin in a place where he might ſeem moſt remote from all Temptations: God permitting this, to teach all following Ages, how weak even the beſt Men are, when they are left to themſelves, and what abſolute need they have of Divine Aſſiſtance. [t] Wherein there is nothing ſtrange, it being uſual with drunken men to do many things in that condition, which when they come to themſelves, they perfectly forget. And ſo might Lot, when under the power of Wine, forget that his Wife was turned into a pillar of Salt, and might miſtake his Daughter for his Wife.

34 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the firſt-born ſaid unto the younger, Behold, I lay yeſternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night alſo; and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preſerve ſeed of our father.

35 And they made their father drink wine that night alſo; and the younger aroſe, and lay with him; and he perceived not when ſhe lay down, nor when ſhe aroſe.

36 Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child † by their father.

† Which they might poſſibly imagine to be an evidence of Divine Approbation of their Fact; whereas, indeed, it was a deſign of God to make a laſting Monument of their Sin and Shame.

37 And the firſt-born bare a ſon, and called his name Moab [u]: the ſame is the father of the Moabites [x] unto this day.

[u] (i.e.) Of my Father, begotten upon me by my Father. So ſhe had learned from her Neighbours to declare her ſin as Sodom, Iſa. 3. 9. [x] A miſchievous and infamous People, branded, as their Brethren alſo the Ammonites were, with Characters of God's Diſpleaſure.

38 And the younger, ſhe alſo bare a ſon, and called his name Ben-ammi [y]: the ſame is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

[y] (i.e.) The Son of my People, or Kindred, not of the curſed Race of the Sodomites, where I was to be married. This is ſomething more modeſt than the other in the name ſhe gives, but both impudently glorying in their Sin and Shame, of which they ſhould have bitterly repented.

CHAP. XX.

Abraham ſojourns in Gerar, 1. Denies Sarah to be his wife: Abimelech ſends and takes her, 2. God warns Abimelech in a dream, 3. He expoſtulates with God; who anſwers and commands him to reſtore Sarah, 4 — 7. Abimelech warns his ſervants, 8. Rebukes Abraham, 10. Who excuſes and defends what he had ſaid, 11 —— 13. Abimelech kind to Abraham; reſtores his wife, 14, 15. Rebukes Sarah, 16. Abraham prays for Abimelech; God removes his judgments, 17, 18.

AND Abraham journeyed from thence [a] towards the ſouth countrey [b], and dwelt between Cadeſh and Shur, and ſojourned in Gerar.

[a] From the plain of Mamre, chap. 18. 1. where he had long dwelt; and whence he removed, either becauſe of its nearneſs to that filthy Lake, which now was in the place of that late fruitful plain; or for other reaſons and conveniences needleſs to be here enquired or determined. [b] Yet more towards the Southern part of Canaan.

*Chap. 12. 13.

2 And Abraham ſaid of Sarah his wife, * She is my ſiſter [c]: and Abimelech king of Gerar ſent, and took Sarah [d].

[c] Leſt they ſhould ſlay him for his beautiful Wifes ſake, as himſelf tells us, verſe 11. For though Sarah was ninety years old, yet ſhe retained her Beauty in good meaſure, partly becauſe ſhe had not been broken by bearing and nurſing of Children, partly becauſe in that age of the World Men and Women as they lived longer, ſo they did not ſo ſoon begin to decay, as now they do; and partly, becauſe of God's eſpecial bleſſing upon her. [d] Not without violence, for it is not to be thought that either Abraham or Sarah would conſent to it.

*Pſal. 105. 14.

3 But God * came to Abimelech in a dream [e] by night, and ſaid to him, Behold, thou art but a dead man *, for the woman which thou haſt taken [f]: for ſhe is † a mans wife.

[e] God then uſed to manifeſt his Mind in Dreams, not only to his People, but even to Heathens for their ſakes, or in things wherein they were concerned. * Thou deſerveſt a preſent and untimely Death; and if thou proceedeſt in thy intended Wickedneſs, it ſhall be inflicted upon thee. [f] Both for thy injuſtice in taking her away by force, and for thy intentions to abuſe her, though not yet executed.

4 But Abimelech had not come near her [g]: and he ſaid, LORD, wilt thou ſlay alſo a righteous [h] nation [i]?

[g] (i.e.) Had not yet lien with her. A modeſt Expreſſion, like that of knowing a woman, Gen. 4. 1. or going in to her, Gen. 6. 4. or touching her, Prov. 6. 29. 1 Cor. 7. 1. by which we are taught to uſe Modeſty in our Speeches, and not, with the rude Cynicks, to expreſs all things by their proper names. This Clauſe and Hiſtory was neceſſary to be added here for Sarah's vindication, and eſpecially for the demonſtration of Iſaac's original from Abraham and Sarah, according to God's promiſe. [h] (i.e.) Innocent as to this matter. Compare 2 Sam. 4. 11. [i] For he knew it was juſt and uſual for God to puniſh a Nation for their King's Sins; and therefore, as became a good Prince, he is ſolicitous, and prays for the ſafety of his Nation: Or elſe by Nation he may mean his Family; for ſome of them were not involved in the guilt of this Fact.

5 Said he not unto me, She is my ſiſter? and ſhe, even ſhe her ſelf ſaid, He is my brother: in the † integrity of my heart, and innocency of my hands [k] have I done this.

[k] Without any adulterous deſign in my Heart, or outward actions tending to it, being wholly ignorant of what thou now informeſt me.

*Chap. 39. 9. Levit. 6. 2. Pſal. 51. 4.

6 And God ſaid unto him in a dream, Yea I know that thou didſt this in the integrity of thy heart [l]; for I alſo withheld thee [m] from ſinning [n] * againſt me [o]: therefore ſuffered I thee not to touch her.

[l] (i.e.) That thou didſt not this knowingly and maliciouſly, but imprudently and inconſiderately, which is indeed an extenuation of thy Sin, though not a total excuſe. Compare 1 Kings 9. 4. 1 Chron. 29. 1. [m] Partly by my reſtraining Grace, and partly by my powerful Providence, and the Plague mentioned, verſe 17. [n] Which plainly ſhews that ignorance is not always an excuſe for Sin. See Luke 12. 48. [o] This Sin, though directly committted againſt Abraham and Sarah only, is ſaid to be againſt God, as other ſuch Sins are, Gen. 39. 9. Pſal. 51. 4. becauſe it was againſt God's command written in Men's Minds, though not yet publiſhed by expreſs Word or Writing; and againſt God's Honour; and that here in a particular manner, becauſe it would have rendred Iſaac's Original, and thereby God's Promiſe, doubtful.

7 Now therefore reſtore the man his wife; for he is a prophet [p], and he ſhall pray for thee *, and thou ſhalt live: and if thou reſtore her not, know thou that thou ſhalt ſurely die, thou, and all that are thine [q].

[p] A perſon very dear to me, and familiarly acquainted with me, and therefore the injuries done to him, I take as done to my ſelf. See Pſal. 105. 15. * Which is one part of a Prophet's Work, Jer. 14. 11. and 15. 1. [q] Which was not unjuſt, becauſe they all had Sins of their own, for which they deſerved Death whenſoever God thought fit to inflict it; and God might take this occaſion to do it, that in puniſhing them he might alſo puniſh the King, whoſe Subjects they were.

8 Therefore Abimelech roſe early in the morning, and called all his ſervants [r], and told all theſe things in their ears: and the men were ſore afraid.

[r] His Counſellors and principal Officers, as that word is uſed, 1 Kings 1. 2. and 10. 13.

*Chap. 26. 10.

9 Then Abimelech called Abraham, and ſaid unto him, What haſt thou done unto us [s]? and what have I offended thee, that * thou haſt brought on me and on my kingdom a great ſin [t]? thou haſt done deeds unto me that ought not to be done.

[s] How great a danger haſt thou expoſed us to? [t] Even the Heathens, who thought Fornication harmleſs, judge Adultery to be a very great and heinous Crime. See Gen. 38. 24. Levit. 20. 10. Deut. 22. 22. Ezek. 16. 38 and 23. 45, 47. Or, A great puniſhment, as this word is oft uſed; which ſeems better to anſwer to his offending Abraham now mentioned.

10 And Abimelech ſaid unto Abraham, What ſaweſt thou, that thou haſt done this thing *?

* What levity or miſcarriage didſt thou diſcern in us which moved thee to deal thus with us?

11 And Abraham ſaid, Becauſe I thought, Surely the fear of God [u] is not in this place; and they will ſlay me for my wifes ſake.

[u] (i.e.) True Piety, or the Knowledge of the true God, which is the only effectual reſtraint from the groſſeſt wickedneſs.

12 And yet indeed ſhe is my ſiſter [x]; ſhe is the daughter [y] of my father, but not the daughter of my mother [z]: and ſhe became my wife [a].

[x] My near Kinſwoman; even as Lot upon the ſame account is called Abraham's Brother, Gen. 13. 8. [y] (i.e.) The Granddaughter: For Grandchildren are commonly called the Sons and Daughters of their Grand-parents, as Gen. 31. 28. Exod. 2. 18. And beſides, her Father Haran dying before her Grandfather, ſhe was left more immediately under his Care and Education, and therefore was more peculiarly reputed Terah's Daughter, and Abraham's Siſter. See Gen. 11. 29. [z] Becauſe Haran was Abraham's Brother only by the Father's ſide; for Terah had Haran by another Wife. [a] How could Abraham marry one ſo near of kin to him? Anſw. There were larger allowances for Marriages in thoſe times, as it was convenient there ſhould be; neither had God as yet given thoſe prohibitions, Levit. 18. Beſides, among all Nations, the Mother's ſide was more regarded than the Father's in all prohibitions of Marriage.

*Chap. 12. 13.

13 And it came to paſs, when God cauſed me to wander [b] from my fathers houſe, that I ſaid unto her, This is thy kindneſs which thou ſhalt ſhew unto me; At every place whither we ſhall come, * ſay of me, He is my brother.

[b] This word he uſeth, becauſe God did not direct him to any certain place, but ſent him out he knew not whither, Heb. 11. 8. And being to travel and ſojourn amongſt perſons of divers tempers and manners, and all Pagans, he thought this equivocal expreſſion convenient for his ſecurity.

14 And Abimelech took ſheep and oxen, and menſervants, and women-ſervants, and gave them unto Abraham, and reſtored him Sarah his wife.

15 And Abimelech ſaid, Behold, my land is before † Heb. as is good in thine eyes. thee c, dwell † where it pleaſeth thee.

c (i. e.) Free for thy view and choice, as Gen. 13. 9.

16 And unto Sarah he ſaid, Behold, I have given thy brother d a thouſand pieces of ſilver e: behold, he is to thee a covering of the eyes f, unto all that are with thee g, and with all other h: thus ſhe was reproved i.

d A ſharp rebuke and irony, q. d. He whom thou didſt miſcal thy Brother. e To wit, Shekels, which is commonly underſtood when a ſum of Silver or Gold is indefinitely mentioned, as Numb. 7. 13, 85. 2 Sam. 18. 12. 2 Kings 6. 25. f (i. e.) A Protection to thee from the wanton eyes and attempts of others, whilſt they know thee to be the Wife of another Man, and he ſuch an one whom they reverence and fear; and therefore thou didſt take a very wrong courſe to diſown him, whereby thou didſt expoſe thy ſelf to great danger. Or, This is to thee, &c. i. e. This I give to thee to buy thee a Veil wherewith thou mayſt cover thy Face, as it is fit and uſual for married perſons to do. Compare Gen. 24. 65. 1 Cor. 11. 3, 6, 7, 10. g Unto all that here live with thee, or near thee. i And with all Men whomſoever; or admoniſhed to be more circumſpect for the future; or, and be thou admoniſhed: For they may be the words of Abimelech.

17 ¶ So Abraham prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maid-ſervants; and they bare children.

18 For the LORD had faſt cloſed up all the wombs k of the houſe of Abimelech, becauſe of Sarah Abrahams wife.

k This phraſe elſewhere notes Barrenneſs, as 1 Sam. 1. 5, 6. and ſo many underſtand it here. Againſt which ſome learned men object that that could not ſo ſoon be diſcovered, for all this happened between the Conception and Birth of Iſaac. Which objection may ſeem not valid, becauſe the evidences of Womens being with Child go ſo long before the Birth of the Child, and thoſe evidences not appearing in any of their Women, who before that time were generally Fruitful and Child-bearing, they might diſcern God's hand in it, eſpecially upon God's admonition to their King. But becauſe this Hiſtory ſeems to have been done in a far leſs ſpace of time, it not being probable either that God would ſuffer Sarah to be long with Abimelech ere he warned him, or that he being warned, and ſo ſeverely threatned, and actually puniſhed, would delay the execution of God's command, or that upon his Obedience to God, the mercy and deliverance promiſed would be delayed by God; that ſeems more probable which others think, that this was an indiſpoſition, or plague, or ſore in the ſecret Parts, by which they were hindred from Co-habitation, and mutual Converſe, and conſequently from hopes of Conception and Child-bearing; upon the removal whereof, it is ſaid, that they bare Children, where, as oft-times in Scripture, the laſt and conſummating Act is put for all the preceding Acts, q. d. and they were reſtored to the Conjugal uſe, and Conception, and, in due time, to Child-bearing.

CHAP. XXI.

God viſits Sarah; ſhe conceives and bears a ſon, 1, 2. He is named Iſaac, 3. Circumciſed the eighth day, 4. Sarah's joy and thanks, 6, 7. Abraham makes a feaſt at the weaning of Iſaac, 8. Iſhmael mocks; Sarah ſees it, 9. She complains to Abraham, and deſires to have him caſt out, 10. Abraham is grieved, 11. God commands it; the reaſon, 12. Promiſes a bleſſing to Iſhmael for his ſake, 13. Abraham ſends Hagar and her ſon away; they wander in the wilderneſs, are like to periſh for want of water, 14—16. God calls to her, 17. Repeats his promiſe to Iſhmael, 18. Opens her eyes; ſhe ſees a well, 19. They dwell there, and Iſhmael is an archer, 20. Marries an Egyptian, 21. Abimelech convinced that God was with Abraham, deſires a covenant, 22, 23. Abraham conſents, 24. Abimelech's ſervants having taken a well from him, Abraham reproves him for it, 25. He pleads ignorance, 26. Both of them make a covenant, 27—32. Abraham plants a grove, and calls on the Lord the everlaſting God, 33, 34.

*Chap. 17. 19. and 18. 10. AND the LORD viſited Sarah a, as he had ſaid, and the LORD did unto Sarah * as he had ſpoken.

a (i. e.) Performed his gracious Promiſe of giving her Strength to conceive and bear a Child. God's Viſitation of a perſon in Scripture uſe, is the manifeſtation and execution of his Purpoſe or Word towards that Perſon, and that either for evil, and ſo it is an inflicting of evils threatned, as the word viſiting is uſed, Exod. 20. 5. Pſal. 59. 5. or for good, and ſo it is uſed for the actual giving of Mercies promiſed, as here and Gen. 50. 24. Exod. 4. 31. Ruth 1. 6.

*Acts 7. 8. Gal. 4. 22. Heb. 11. 11. 2 For Sarah * conceived and bare Abraham a ſon in his old age b; at the ſet time of which God had ſpoken to him.

b Or, For his old age, i. e. for the comfort of his old age.

3 And Abraham called the name of his ſon that was born unto him, whom Sarah bare to him,
*Chap. 17. 19. * Iſaac.

4 And Abraham circumciſed his ſon Iſaac, being *Chap. 17. 12. eight days old, * as God had commanded him.

5 And * Abraham was an hundred years old, when *Chap. 17. 17. his ſon Iſaac was born unto him.

6 ¶ And Sarah ſaid, God hath made me to laugh c, ſo that all that hear will laugh with me d.

c (i. e.) Before my own diſtruſtful Heart made me to laugh, now God makes me laugh, not through diffidence and irreverence, as before, chap. 18. 12. but through exceſs of holy joy. d Or, At me, ſome through Sympathy rejoycing with me and for me; laughter being oft put for joy, as Iſa. 54. 1. Gal. 4. 27, &c. others through ſcorn and deriſion, as at a thing which well may ſeem incredible to them, becauſe it did ſo to me. See Gen. 17. 17. and 18. 12, 13, 15.

7 And ſhe ſaid, Who would have ſaid e unto Abraham, that Sarah ſhould have given children f ſuck g? for I have born him a ſon in his old age.

e (i. e.) What Man or Woman could believe ſo improbable a thing? Or, who but a God could have foreſeen and foretold it? f She ſaith Children, though ſhe had but one Child, either by an uſual Enallage of the Plural Number for the Singular, whereby the word Sons or Daughters is uſed when there was but one, as Gen. 36. 25. and 46. 23. Numb. 26. 8. or preſaging, that having received from God a new Strength, ſhe might have more Children. g By which expreſſion ſhe ſheweth all Mothers what their duty is, viz. to give their Children ſuck, when they are able to do it; and that neither greatneſs of quality, nor multitude of buſineſs, nor other difficulties and inconveniences, will be a ſufficient excuſe to thoſe that neglect it.

8 And the child grew and was weaned h: and Abraham made a great feaſt the ſame day that Iſaac was weaned.

h It doth not appear how old Iſaac was, becauſe the time for the weaning of Children is very various, according to the differing tempers and neceſſities of Children, or inclination of Parents; and in thoſe times when Mens lives were longer than now they are, proportionably the time was longer ere Children were weaned.

9 ¶ And Sarah ſaw the ſon of Hagar the Egyptian, which ſhe had born unto Abraham, mocking i:

i Signifying either by words or geſtures his contempt of Iſaac, and his deriſion of all that magnificence then ſhewed towards his younger Brother: And this carriage proceeding from a moſt envious and malicious diſpoſition, and being a ſufficient indication of further miſchief intended to him, if ever he ſhould have opportunity, it is no wonder it is called perſecution, Gal. 4. 29. although the Hebrew word may be rendred beating him, as it is uſed 2 Sam. 2. 14.

10 Wherefore ſhe ſaid unto Abraham k, * Caſt *Gal.
out this bond-woman l, and her ſon: for the ſon of this bond-woman ſhall not be heir with my ſon, even with Iſaac.

k Being enraged by this fact, and perceiving it was but a beginning and earneſt of greater evil deſigned by him againſt her beloved Iſaac; being alſo guided by the wiſe Counſel and Providence of God, as appears from verſe 12. l Though the fact was done by Iſhmael, yet Sarah plainly ſaw that this and other like carriages were from his Mother's inſtigation and encouragement, who being of an imperious and petulant diſpoſition, as appears from Gen. 16. 4, 9. in all probability comforted her ſelf, and animated her Son, by that right he had to his Father's inheritance as he was his firſt-born, as may be gathered both from the cuſtom of Women in ſuch caſes, and from the laſt words of this verſe. Beſides, if the Mother had been continued, ſhe would eaſily have prevailed with Abraham to fetch the Child back again.

11 And the thing was very grievous in Abrahams ſight m, becauſe of his ſon n.

m Becauſe of his tender affection to him, and God's promiſe concerning him. See Gen. 17. 18, 20. He, who chearfully parted with Iſaac, was hardly brought to part with Iſhmael, becauſe the former was done by God's command, which he was obliged to obey; the latter by the paſſion of an enraged Woman, wherewith he thought not fit to comply; and probably he had denied her deſire, if God had not interpoſed in it. n He doth not ſay becauſe of his wife; from whence may be gathered, either that Hagar was not properly his Wife, or that this was another of Abraham's infirmities, that he had not that affection for her which he ſhould have had. Whereby we may alſo ſee the excellency of God's inſtitutions, who appointed but one Woman for one Man, that each might have the intire intereſt in the others affections; and the danger of Mens inventions, which brought Polygamy into the World, whereby a Man's affections are divided into ſeveral, and ſometimes contrary ſtreams.

12 ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, Let it not be grievous in thy ſight, becauſe of the lad, and becauſe of thy bond-woman o; in all that Sarah hath ſaid unto thee, hearken unto her voice: for in * Iſaac ſhall *Rom thy ſeed p be called q. 7. Heb

o Thus Abraham had better Authority for his Divorce from Hagar than he had for his Marriage with her, chap. 16. 2. p To wit, the Promiſed Seed, the Heir of thy Eſtate, Covenant and Promiſes, the Progenitor of my Church and People, and particularly of the Meſſias. q (i. e.) Reputed and valued both by me and other men. The words may be thus rendred, by Iſaac ſhall thy ſeed be; for to be called is oft-times put for to be, as Iſa. 1. 26. and 47. 1, 5. Matth. 5. 9, 19.

13 And alſo of the ſon of the bond-woman, will I make a * nation, becauſe he is thy ſeed. *Chap

14 And Abraham roſe up early in the morning r, and took bread s, and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar (putting it on her ſhoulder) and the child, and ſent her away t: and ſhe departed, and wandred in the wilderneſs of Beer-ſheba u.

r He who before doubted and lingred to do it when Sarah's Paſſion ſuggeſted it, when once he underſtands it to be God's Will, he makes haſte to execute it. An excellent Example of Prudence and Piety. s By which may be here underſtood all neceſſaries, as Mal. 1. 7, 12. Matth. 6 11. and 14. 15. compared with Mark 6. 36. Luke 14. 1. t Queſt. How is it likely that ſo rich and liberal a Perſon, as Abraham, would ſend away ſuch near and dear Relations with ſo mean Accommodations? Anſw. 1. This might be done by particular Command from God to Abraham, though it be not here expreſſed, as many things were ſaid by God, and done by Men, which are not mentioned in Scripture, as is evident from John 20. 30, 31. and 21. 25. and many other places. And God might order it thus, partly to chaſtiſe Abraham's irregular Marriage with Hagar; partly to correct and tame the haughty and rugged Temper of the Bond-woman and her Son; and to prepare them for the receiving of God's Help and Mercy; and partly, that he might more eminently ſhew his care and kindneſs to Abraham, in providing for ſuch forlorn and neglected Creatures, becauſe they belonged to him. 2. It cannot be reaſonably doubted, that Abraham gave her theſe Proviſions only for the preſent, and intended to ſend further and better afterward to a place appointed by him, which alſo he did. But ſhe miſſed her way, as well ſhe might, in the Wilderneſs, and thereby came into theſe Straits deſigned by God for the ſignification of greater Myſteries, as may be gathered from Gal. 4. u A place near Gerar, ſo called here by a Prolepſis. See ver. 31.

15 And the water was ſpent in the bottle, and ſhe caſt the child x under one of the ſhrubs.

x Not as if ſhe carried him in her Arms, or upon her Shoulders, for he was now about eighteen years old; but being weak and faint, and no doubt much dejected in Spirit upon the proſpect of his deſolate and diſtreſſed Condition, ſhe was forced to ſupport and lead him by the Hand; but now, deſpairing of his Life, ſhe lays him down under a Shrub.

16 And ſhe went, and ſat her down over-againſt him, a good way off, as it were a bow-ſhot: for ſhe ſaid, Let me not ſee the death of the child. And ſhe ſat over againſt him, and lift up her voice and wept y.

y Who wept? Either Hagar, for the Verb is of the Femine Gender; or the Lad, as the words following ſeem to intimate. And for the change of the Genders, that is not infreqent in Scripture-uſe.

17 And God heard the voice of the lad z: and the angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and ſaid unto her, What aileth thee, Hagar? fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the lad where he is a.

z He heard his cries, tho not flowing from true Repentance, but extorted from him by his preſſing Calamity. a Tho he be in a vaſt and deſolate Wilderneſs, yet my Eye is upon him, and I will take care of him.

18 Ariſe, lift up the lad, and hold him in thine hand b: for I will make him a great nation.

b (i. e.) Support or ſuſtain thy languiſhing Child with thy hand; for I will bleſs him, and thy care ſhall not be in vain

19 And God opened her eyes c, and ſhe ſaw a well of water: and ſhe went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink.

c Not that her Eyes were ſhut or blind before, but ſhe ſaw not the Well before; either becauſe it was at ſome diſtance, or becauſe her Eyes were full of Tears, and her Mind diſtracted and heedleſs through exceſſive Grief and Fear; or becauſe God with-held her Eyes that ſhe might not ſee it without his information. Compare Numb. 23. 31. Luke 24. 16.

20 And God was with the lad, and he grew, and dwelt in the wilderneſs, and became an Archer d.

d (i. e.) A skilful Hunter of Beaſts, and Warrier with Men too, according to the Prediction, Gen. 16. 12. For the Bow was a principal Inſtrument in War, as well as in Hunting, Gen. 48. 22. and 49. 23, 24. And theſe two Profeſſions oft went together. See Gen. 10. 9.

21 And he dwelt in the wilderneſs of Paran e: and his mother took him a wife f out of the land of Egypt g.

e In the Borders of that Wilderneſs, by comparing Gen. 14. 6. for the innermoſt parts of it were uninhabitable by Men or Beaſts, as Ancient Writers note. f By which we ſee both the Obligation that lies upon Parents, and the right that is inveſted in them, to diſpoſe of their Children in Marriage in convenient time. Compare Gen. 24. 4. and 28. 2. Judges 14. 2. g Rather than out of Canaan, concerning whoſe accurſed State and future Deſtruction ſhe had been informed in Abraham's Houſe.

22 And it came to paſs at that time, that Abimelech h and Phicol the chief captain of his hoſt ſpake unto Abraham, ſaying, God is with thee in all that thou doſt i.

h He of whom, ſee Gen. 20. 2. i We plainly ſee that God bleſſeth and proſpereth thee in all thy undertakings.

23 Now therefore ſwear unto me here by God, † that thou wilt not deal falſly with me k, nor with my ſon, nor with my ſons ſon: but according to the kindneſs that I have done unto thee, thou ſhalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou haſt ſojourned.

† Heb. if thou ſhalt lie unto me.

k That thou wilt not do me any hurt or injury: Heb. That thou wilt not lye unto me, i. e. As thou haſt formerly profeſſed Kindneſs and Friendſhip to me, give me thy Oath to aſſure me that thou wilt be true and conſtant to thy own Profeſſions.

24 And Abraham ſaid, I will ſwear l.

l Queſt. How could Abraham lawfully ſwear this, when Canaan was given by God to him and his Seed for ever? Anſ. Neither Abraham nor his Seed had any preſent and actual right to the Poſſeſſion of the Land, but only the promiſe of a right in it, and Poſſeſſion of it after ſome hundreds of years, and therefore he gave away none of his right by this Oath. For this Oath did only oblige Abraham, and not his Poſterity; and Abimelech extended that Obligation no further than to his Son's Son.

25 And Abraham reproved Abimelech m, becauſe of a well of water n which Abimelech's ſervants had violently taken away.

m That the foundation of true Friendſhip might be firmly laid, and the Peace inviolably obſerved, he removes an impediment to it, an occaſion of Quarrel and juſt Exception on Abraham's part. n Which in thoſe hot and dry Countries was of great eſteem and neceſſity. Compare Gen. 26. 19, 20, 21. Judges 1. 15. Beſides a Well may be put for Wells, as the Greeks render it, and as may ſeem probable by comparing this with Gen. 26. 15, 18. It being an ordinary thing to uſe the Singular Number for the Plural, as hath been ſhewed. See Gen. 3. 2. and 4. 20 26 And Abimelech ſaid, I wot not who hath done this thing: neither didſt thou tell me, neither yet heard I of it, but to day o.

o By which he wiſely and truly ſuggeſts, that Abraham ſhould not have ſmothered the Grudge in his mind ſo long time, but ſhould inſtantly have reproved him for it; and endeavoured a ſpeedy redreſs, which hereby he intimates that he was ready to give.

27 And Abraham took ſheep, and oxen, and gave them unto Abimelech p: and both of them made a covenant.

p Partly as an acknowledgment to him for his former Favour and Friendſhip; partly as an aſſurance of his ſincere Friendſhip, both preſent and for the future, of his acquieſcence in his anſwer about the Well; and partly for Sacrifice, and for the uſual Rite in making Covenants, which was, that the Perſons covenanting might paſs through the parts of the ſlain Beaſts. See Gen. 15. 18.

28 And Abraham ſet ſeven ew-lambs of the flock by themſelves.

29 And Abimelech ſaid unto Abraham, What mean theſe ſeven ew-lambs, which thou haſt ſet by themſelves?

30 And he ſaid, For theſe ſeven ew-lambs ſhalt thou take of my hand, that they may be a witneſs unto me, that I have digged this well q.

q That this care of Abraham's was not ſuperfluous may appear from Gen. 26. 15.

31 Wherefore he called that place † Beer-ſheba r, becauſe there they ſware both of them.

r Which name was communicated unto a City adjoyning: Of which ſee Gen. 26. 23. Joſ. 15. 28. 2 Sam. 17. 11. and 24. 2.

32 Thus they made a covenant at Beer-ſheba: then Abimelech roſe up, and Phicol the chief captain of his hoſt, and they returned into the land of the Philiſtines s.

s (i. e.) Into their part of that Land, to wit, Gerar, which was not far from this place. It is an uſual Synecdoche, whereby the whole Land is put for a part of it: Otherwiſe they were at this time in that Land.

33 And Abraham planted a † grove t in Beer-ſheba, and called there on the Name of the LORD u, the everlaſting God.

† Or, Tree.

t Not ſo much for ſhade, which yet was pleaſant and neceſſary in theſe hot Regions, as for Religious Uſe, that he might retire thither from the noiſe of worldly Buſineſs, and freely converſe with his Maker. Which practice of his was afterwards abuſed to Superſtition and Idolatry, for which reaſon Groves were commanded to be cut down. See Deut. 12. 2. and 16. 21. u Thankfully acknowledging God's great Goodneſs in giving him the Favour and Friendſhip of ſo great and worthy a Prince and Neighbour.

34 And Abraham ſojourned in the Philiſtines land many days.

CHAP. XXII.

God tempts Abraham, 1. to ſacrifice Iſaac, 2. He readily goes about it, 3——6. Iſaac's queſtion, 7. Abraham's anſwer, 8. They come to the place; he binds Iſaac; lays him on the altar; takes the knife, 9, 10. The Lord ſees his integrity, and forbids him, 11, 12. A ram caught, and offered in the ſtead of Iſaac, 13. The name of the place, Jehova Jireth, 14. The Lord calls a ſecond time, 15. Swears by himſelf; confirms his promiſe to Abraham and his ſeed, 16——18 Abraham returns to Beer-ſheba, 19. The Poſterity of his Brother Nahor, 20——24.

AND it came to paſs after theſe things a, that * God did tempt b Abraham, and ſaid unto him, Abraham. And he ſaid, † Behold, here I am c.

* Heb. 11. 17.

a After the accompliſhment of God's promiſes made to Abraham, and eſpecially of that promiſe concerning the bleſſed Seed; when now he ſeemed to be in a moſt proſperous and ſecure Condition, he meets with a ſevere exerciſe from God. b The word Tempt is ambiguous, and ſignifies either 1. To intice to Sin, in which ſenſe Devils and wicked Men are ſaid to tempt others, but God tempts no man, Jam. 1. 13. Or 2. To prove or try, and in this ſenſe God is ſaid to tempt Men. See Deut. 8. 2. and 13. 3. Judges 2. 22. Thus God tempted Abraham, (i. e.) he tried the ſincerity and ſtrength of his Faith, the univerſality and conſtancy of his Obedience, and this for God's great Honour, and Abraham's great Glory and Comfort, and for the Churches benefit in all following Ages. c An expreſſion ſignifying a Man's attentive hearing what is ſaid to him, and his readineſs to execute it, as v. 7. 11. and Gen. 27. 1. and 1 Sam. 3. 4, 6.

2 And he ſaid, Take now thy ſon, thine only ſon Iſaac, whom thou loveſt d, and get thee into the land of Moriah e; and offer him there for a burnt-offering upon one of the mountains f which I will tell thee of g.

d Not a word here but might pierce an heart of ſtone, much more ſo tender a Father as Abraham was. Take now, without demurring or delay; I allow thee no time for conſideration: thy own proper Son, not a Beaſt, not an Enemy, not a Stranger, tho that had been very difficult to one ſo kind to all Strangers; not a dear Servant, not a Friend or Familiar: thine only Son, not by Birth, for ſo he had another, Iſhmael; but this was his only Son by Sarah, his firſt and legitimate Wife; who only had the right of Succeſſion both to his Inheritance, and to his Covenant and Promiſes; and this only was now left to him, for Iſhmael was abandoned and gone from him: and this muſt be ſuch a Son as Iſaac, once matter of Laughter and great Joy, now cauſe of unexpreſſible Sorrow; thy Benoni; a Son of the Promiſe, of ſo great Hopes, and ſuch pregnant Virtue and Piety as this Story ſhews; whom thou loveſt; peculiarly and ſuperlatively, even as thy own Soul: and get thee into the Land of Moriah; a place at a great diſtance, and to which thou ſhalt go but leiſurely, verſe 4. that thou mayſt have thy mind all that while fixed upon that bloody Act, which other Mens minds can ſcarce once think of without horror; and ſo thou mayſt offer him in a ſort ten thouſand times over before thou giveſt the fatal blow; and offer him there with thine own hands, and cruelly take away the Life which thou haſt in ſome ſort given him: For a burnt-offering, wherein by the Law of the burnt-offering then known to Abraham, afterwards publiſhed to all Iſrael, his Throat was to be cut, his Body diſſected into Quarters, his Bowels taken out, as if he had been ſome notorious Traytor, and vile Malefactor and Miſcreant, and afterwards he was to be burnt to Aſhes, that if poſſible there might be nothing left of him: And this muſt be done upon one of the Mountains, which I ſhall tell thee of, not ſecretly in a Corner, as if it were a work of Darkneſs, and thou wert aſhamed or afraid to own it; but in a publick and open Place, in the view of Heaven, Earth, God, Angels, and Men. Which horrid and ſtupendious Act it may be eaſily conjectured what Reproach and Blaſphemy it would have occaſioned againſt the Name and Worſhip of God and the true Religion, and what Shame and Torment to Abraham, from his own ſelf-accuſing Mind, from the clamours of his Wife, and all his Friends and Allies, and what a dangerous and miſchievous Example this would have been to all future Generations. That Faith that could ſurmount theſe and many more difficulties, and could readily and chearfully reſt upon God in the diſcharge of ſuch a Duty, no wonder it is ſo honoured by God, and celebrated by all Men, yea, even by the Heathens, who have tranſlated this Hiſtory into their Fables. e Which ſignifies the Viſion of God, the Place where God would be ſeen and manifeſted. And ſo it is here called by way of Anticipation, becauſe it was ſo called afterwards, verſe 14. in regard of God's eminent Appearance there for Iſaac's Deliverance; though it may alſo have a further reſpect unto Chriſt, becauſe in that place God was manifeſted in the Fleſh. f For there were divers Mountains there, as is evident from Pſalm 125. 2. and particularly there were two eminent Hills, or rather tops or parts of the ſame Mountain, Sion, where David's Palace was; and Moriah, where the Temple was built, and whence the adjoyning Country afterwards received its name. g By ſome viſible Sign, or ſecret Admonition which I ſhall give thee.

3 And Abraham roſe up early in the morning h, and ſadled his aſs i, and took two of his young men with him, and Iſaac his ſon; and clave the wood for the burnt-offering, and roſe up, and went unto the place of which God had told him.

h That he might execute God's Command without doubt or delay. i For greater Expedition, not waiting for his Servant to do it.

4 Then on the third day † Abraham lift up his eyes, and ſaw the place afar off.

† Probably on the beginning of the third day. It is true, Moriah was not three days Journey from Beer-ſheba. But it muſt be conſidered that the Aſs, upon which he rid, is a dull and ſlow Creature, and that Abraham went no faſter than the reſt of his Company, who for ought appears, were on foot; and that the Proviſions which they carried along with them, both for their own and the Aſſes ſubſiſtence, and for ſacrifice, muſt needs retard them.

5 And Abraham ſaid unto his young men, Abide ye here with the aſs k; and I and the lad will go yonder and worſhip, and come again to you l.

k Leſt they ſhould hinder him in the execution of his deſign. l For he knew that God both could and would for his promiſe ſake, either preſerve Iſaac from being ſacrificed, or afterward raiſe him from the Dead, as it is intimated, Heb. 11. 19.

6 And Abraham took the wood of the burnt-offering, and laid it upon Iſaac his ſon m; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife: and they went both of them together.

m Who tho called a Lad, verſe 5. was now a Grown-man, at leaſt five and twenty Years old, and therefore well able to bear that burden, and in this Act he was an eminent Type of Chriſt, who carried that Wood upon which he was crucified.

7 And Iſaac ſpake unto Abraham his father, and ſaid, My father n: and he ſaid, † Here am I, my ſon o. And he ſaid, Behold the fire and the wood: but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering?

† Heb. behold me.

n A Compellation which might both wound Abraham's Heart, and admoniſh him how unbecoming to a Father that Action was which he was going about. o Which Expreſſion ſhewed that he had not put off Fatherly Affection to him, and that his intention did not ariſe from any unnatural and barbarous Diſpoſition, nor from any decay of Love to him, but from an higher Cauſe, even the declared Will of God.

8 And Abraham ſaid, My ſon, God will provide himſelf a lamb p for a burnt-offering: ſo they went both of them together.

p Either 1. Literally, tho I know not how; for his Wiſdom and Power are infinite: Or 2. Myſtically, as Chriſt, whoſe Type Iſaac was, is called a Lamb. Thus Abraham prudently reveals the matter to him by degrees, not all at once.

9 And they came to the place which God had told him of, and Abraham built an altar there q, and laid the wood in order, and bound Iſaac his ſon r, and * laid him on the altar upon the wood.

q Made of Earth ſlightly put together, as God afterwards preſcribed, Exod. 20. 24. r Partly becauſe Burnt-offerings were to be bound to the Altar; of which ſee on Pſalm 118. 27. Partly to repreſent Chriſt, who was bound to the Croſs. And that Iſaac might be the more exact Type of Chriſt, he was bound by his own Conſent, otherwiſe his Age and Strength ſeem ſufficient to have made an effectual Reſiſtance. It is therefore highly reaſonable to think that Abraham having in the whole Journey prepared Iſaac for ſuch a Work by general but pertinent Diſcourſes, did upon the Mount particularly inſtruct him concerning the plain and peremptory Command of God; the abſolute neceſſity of complying with it; the glorious reward of his Obedience, and the diſmal conſequences of his Diſobedience; the Power and Faithfulneſs of God either to prevent the fatal Blow, or to reſtore his Life loſt with infinite advantage. Upon theſe, and ſuch like reaſons, doubtleſs he readily laid himſelf down at his Father's feet, and yielded up himſelf to the Divine Will.

10 And Abraham ſtretched forth his hand, and took the knife to ſlay his ſon.

11 And the angel of the LORD s called unto him out of heaven, and ſaid, Abraham, Abraham t. And he ſaid, Behold, here am I.

s (i. e.) Chriſt the Angel of the Covenant, as appears from v. 12, 16. t He repeats his Name to prevent Abraham, whom he knew to be moſt expeditious in God's Service, and juſt ready to give the deadly Blow.

12 And he ſaid, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now I know u that thou feareſt God, ſeeing thou haſt not withheld thy ſon, thine only ſon from me x.

u God knew the ſincerity and reſolvedneſs of Abraham's Faith and Obedience before and without this evidence, and from Eternity foreſaw this Fact and all its Circumſtances; and therefore you muſt not think that God had now made any new diſcovery: But this is ſpoken here, as in many other places, of God after the manner of Men, who is then ſaid to know a thing, when it is notorious and evident to a Man's ſelf and others, by ſome remarkable Effect. Thus David prayed that God would ſearch and know his Heart, and his Thoughts, Pſalm 139. 23. Tho he had before profeſſed that God underſtood his thought afar off, verſe 2. This therefore is the ſenſe, Now I know, i. e. Now I have what I deſigned and deſired; now I have made thee and others to know. As the Spirit of God and of Chriſt is ſaid to cry Abba, Father, Gal. 4. 6. when it makes us to cry ſo, Rom. 8. 15. x For my Service and Sacrifice; Or for me, i. e. for my ſake, i. e. thou haſt preferred mine Authority and Honour before the Life of thy dear Son. By which words it appears that God himſelf ſpeaks theſe words.

13 And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold, behind him † a ram y caught in a thicket by his horns: and Abraham went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt-offering, in the ſtead of his ſon.

† Which way he looked, either becauſe the Voice came that way; or becauſe he heard the Noiſe made by the motion of the Ram in the Thicket. y Which had gone aſtray from the reſt of the Flock, and whoſe errors were directed hither by God's wiſe and powerful Providence, and being young, tho horned, it might be called either Lamb, as verſe 7. or Ram, as it is here. There needs no curious enquiry how he could offer up that to God which was not his own, both becauſe it was found in a publick Place, and in all probability utterly loſt to his Owner, and becauſe he had no doubt a Warrant and Inſpiration for it from the great Lord and Supreme Owner of all things.

14. And Abraham called the name of that place † Jehovah-jireh z: as it is ſaid to this day a, In the mount b of the LORD it ſhall be ſeen c.

† That is, the Lord will ſee or provide.

z The ſame Hebrew Letters differently pointed, make the Senſe either active, the Lord will ſee, i. e. provide or take care of thoſe that commit themſelves and their affairs to him; or paſſive, the Lord will be ſeen, i. e. will appear and ſhew himſelf in the behalf of all thoſe that love him. a Wherein Moſes wrote this Book; this is ſtill uſed as a Proverb. b (i. e.) In greateſt Extremities and Diſtreſſes, as we ſay, at the Pits brink. c Or, the Lord ſhall be ſeen or manifeſted.

manifeſted. And although theſe words are uſed by way of remembrance of this great deliverance, and by way of accommodation to ſuch like eminent preſervations from great dangers; yet they may have a further reſpect, and may ſignifie, That this was but an earneſt of further and greater Bleſſings to be expected in this place, where the Temple was built, and the Lord Chriſt was manifeſted in the Fleſh.

15 ¶ And the angel of the LORD called unto Abraham out of heaven the ſecond time,

*Pſal. 105. 9. Luke 1. 73. Heb. 6. 13. 16 And ſaid, * By my ſelf have I ſworn d, ſaith the LORD, for becauſe thou haſt done this thing e, and haſt not with-held thy ſon, thine only ſon:

d So the Lord ſwears by his name, Jer. 44. 26. By his ſoul, in the Hebrew Text, Jer. 51. 14. By his holineſs, Amos 4. 2. which is the ſame with by himſelf, here. Hence alſo it appears that the Angel who ſpeaks here is Chriſt and God, becauſe this is God's prerogative to ſwear by himſelf, as appears from Heb. 6. 13. e Not that Abraham by this act did properly merit, or purchaſe the following promiſes, as plainly appears, becauſe the ſame things for ſubſtance had been freely promiſed to Abraham long before this time and action, Gen. 12. 2. and 13. 16. only what before was promiſed is now confirmed by an Oath, as a Teſtimony of that ſingular reſpect which God had to Abraham, and to this heroical inſtance of Faith and Obedience.

17 That in bleſſing I will bleſs thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy ſeed as the ſtars of the heaven, and as the ſand which is upon the ſea † ſhore; and thy ſeed ſhall poſſeſs the gate f of his enemies;

f (i. e.) The City, by an uſual Synecdoche, as Deut. 12. 15. and 18. 6. all the Cities, and conſequently the Countrey adjacent; gate for gates. The ſenſe is, they ſhall ſubdue their Enemies. For the gates of Cities were the places both of juriſdiction or judicature, Deut. 21. 19. and 22. 15. Amos 5. 12, 15. Zech. 8. 16. and of Fortification and chief Strength in War, Judg. 5. 8. Pſal. 147. 13. Iſa. 22. 7. Ezek. 21. 22. And this promiſe was fulfilled both literally in Iſraels conqueſt of Canaan, in David, Solomon, &c. and ſpiritually in Chriſt, Pſal. 110. 1, 2, 3.

*Chap. 12. 3. and 18. 18. Acts 3. 25. Gal. 3. 8. 18 * And in thy ſeed ſhall all the nations of the earth be bleſſed: becauſe thou haſt obeyed my voice.

19 So Abraham returned unto his young men, and they roſe up, and went together to Beer-ſheba, and Abraham dwelt at Beer-ſheba.

20 ¶ And it came to paſs after theſe things, that it was told Abraham, ſaying, Behold, * Milcah ſhe hath alſo born children unto thy brother Nahor g;

CHAP. XXIII.

Sarah's age and death; Abraham mourns, 1, 2. He ſpeaks to the ſons of Heth for a burying-place, 3, 4. They offer him the choice of their ſepulchres, 5, 6. Abraham deſires to purchaſe a field of Ephron, 8, 9. Ephron would give it him, 10——15. Abraham purchaſes it, and weighs the ſilver, 16. The field made ſure to Abraham for a poſſeſſion before witneſſes, 17——20.

AND Sarah was an hundred and ſeven and twenty years old, theſe were the years of the life of Sarah a.

a This is the peculiar Honour of Sarah the Mother of the Faithful, 1 Pet. 3. 6. to have the years of her life numbred in Scripture.

2 And Sarah died in Kirjath-arba b; the ſame is Hebron c in the land of Canaan: and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah, and to weep for her d.

b Or, The City of Arba, ſo called probably from a Giant or great Man called Arba, who lived and ruled in thoſe parts. See Joſ. 14. 15. and 15. 13. c It is objected againſt this Scripture, that this City was not called Hebron till Joſhua's time, Joſ. 14. 15. but this is a miſtake, Joſhua doth not ſay ſo, but only that the name of Hebron before, (or in old time) as this very Particle is rendred, Deut. 2. 20. and elſewhere. So the ſenſe is, The moſt ancient name of it was Kiriath-Arba, Nor doth Joſhua there give any account, or reaſon of this change of the name at that time, or upon that occaſion, as the ſacred Writers uſe to do in ſuch caſes, but rather ſuppoſeth that Hebron was the name of it before he came thither; and how long before that time, he doth not expreſs. † Into Sarah's Tent. See Gen. 18. 6, 9. d According to the laudable Cuſtom of all Ages and Nations, to manifeſt their ſenſe of God's hand upon them, and of their own loſs. See Gen. 50. 3. Deut. 34. 8, &c.

3 ¶ And Abraham ſtood up from before his dead e, and ſpake unto the ſons of Heth, ſaying, e To ſhew his moderation in ſorrow, and to take care for her burial, according to his duty.

4 I am a ſtranger, and a ſojourner with you: give me a poſſeſſion of a burying-place f with you g, that I may bury my dead out of my ſight.

f The priviledge of Burial hath been always ſought, and prized by all Nations, whom Nature and Humanity teacheth to preſerve the Bodies of Men, which have been the Temples of reaſonable and immortal Souls, from contempt and violation: ſo eſpecially by Chriſtians, as a Teſtimony and Pledge of their future Reſurrection. See Numb. 33. 4. Deut. 21. 23. Job 5. 26. For which cauſe Abraham deſires a diſtinct burying-place ſeparated from the Pagan People. g In Canaan. There he, and after him other Patriarchs, earneſtly deſired to be buried, upon this account, that it might confirm their own and their Childrens Faith in God's Promiſe, and animate their Children in due time to take poſſeſſion of the Land. See Gen. 25. 9. and 47. 29, 30. and 50. 13, 25. Exod. 13. 19. Heb. 11. 22. h So ſhe that before was the deſire of his eyes, Ezek. 24. 16. is now, being dead, become their torment.

5 And the children of Heth anſwered Abraham, ſaying unto him,

6 Hear us, my LORD i; thou art † a mighty prince k amongſt us; in the choice of our ſepulchres l bury thy dead: none of us ſhall with-hold from thee his ſepulchre, but that thou mayeſt bury thy dead.

† Heb. a prince of God.

i Here is a Conjunction of the Plural and Singular Number, becauſe though but one perſon ſpake, yet he ſpake in the name of the whole Community. k Heb. A Prince of God. Great and excellent perſons, or things are oft expreſſed by adding the name of God. See Gen. 13. 10. Or, by Prince of God, they underſtand a Prince favoured and beloved of God. l For each Family had a diſtinct Sepulchre.

7 And Abraham ſtood up, and bowed himſelf m to the people of the land n, even to the children of Heth o.

m (i. e.) Shewed a civil reſpect to them in teſtimony of his thankfulneſs. Religion allows and requires civility, and thoſe geſtures which expreſs it. n To the Governours of the People who managed all publick affairs in the Peoples name, and ſtead, and for their good. o So called from Heth the Son of Canaan, Gen. 10. 15.

8 And he communed with them, ſaying, If it be your mind p that I ſhould bury my dead out of my ſight, hear me, and intreat for me to Ephron the ſon of Zohar:

p Heb. If it be with, i. e. agreeable to, your ſoul, that is, your will, or good pleaſure; for ſo the Soul is ſometimes taken, as Deut. 23. 24. Pſal. 27. 12. and 41. 2.

9 That he may give me the cave of † Machpelah q, which he hath, which is in the end of his field: for † as much money as it is worth r he ſhall give it me, for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place amongſt you.

q Which ſeems to be the proper name of the place. verſe 17. 19. ſo called from its duplicity, becauſe the Cave was double, either one for Men, and another for Women; or the one ſerved only for an entrance into the other, which was the burying-place. r Heb. For full money, 1 Chron. 21. 22, 24. i. e. for Money of full weight, anſwerable to its worth.

10 And Ephron dwelt s amongſt the children of Heth. And Ephron the Hittite anſwered Abraham in the † audience of the children of Heth, even of all that went in at the gates of his city t, ſaying,

s Heb. Did ſit, to wit, at that time, as one of the Chief, or Rulers of the People; for ſo the word ſitting is oft uſed, as we ſhall ſee hereafter. t Either where he was born, or at leaſt where he lived.

11 Nay, my Lord, hear me: the field give I thee, and the cave that is therein, I give it thee; in the preſence of the ſons of my people give I it thee: bury thy dead.

12 And Abraham bowed down himſelf before the people of the land.

13 And he ſpake unto Ephron in the audience of the people of the land, ſaying, But if thou wilt give it u, I pray thee hear me: I will give thee money for the field x; take it of me, and I will bury my dead there.

u It is a ſhort Speech, and ſomething muſt be ſupplied; either if thou wilt give or reſign it to me; or, if thou be the Man of whom I ſpeak: For though Abraham knew his name, he might not know him by face, nor that he was then preſent. x He prudently choſe rather to buy it, than to receive it as a gift, partly becauſe it would be the ſurer to him and his, verſe 17, 20. and partly becauſe he would not have too great obligations to his Pagan Neighbours.

14 And Ephron anſwered Abraham, ſaying unto him,

*Exod. 30. 15. Ezek. 45. 12.

15 My LORD, hearken unto me: the land is worth four hundred * ſhekels of ſilver y; What is that betwixt me and thee z? bury therefore thy dead.

y He ſpeaks of the common Shekel, which many value at fifteen Pence of Engliſh Money; but others, more probably, at two Shillings and ſix Pence, rightly, as I conceive, ſuppoſing that this was of the ſame weight and value with the Shekel of the Sanctuary, which was ſo called, not as if that were double to the former, but only becauſe all Shekels were to be examined by that Standard which was kept in the Sanctuary. z Both Friends, and rich Men; it is not worth any words or trouble between us.

16 And Abraham hearkned unto Ephron, and Abraham weighed a to Ephron, the ſilver which he had named in the audience of the ſons of Heth, four hundred ſhekels of ſilver, currant money with the merchant b.

a For in thoſe times Silver was paid by weight, Gen. 43. 21. Jer. 32. 10. b (i. e.) Right for quality as well as weight, in the judgment of Merchants, whoſe frequent dealing in it makes them more able to judge of it.

*Chap. 25. 9. and 50. 13.

17 ¶ And * the field of Ephron which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made ſure

18 Unto Abraham for a poſſeſſion in the preſence of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gate of his city.

19 And after this Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre: the ſame is Hebron in the land of Canaan.

20 And the field and the cave that is therein were made ſure unto Abraham for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place, by the ſons of Heth.

CHAP. XXIV.

Abraham's age and proſperity, 1. He makes his eldeſt ſervant ſwear not to take a wife for his ſon Iſaac of the Canaanites, but of his own kindred, 2 —— 4. The ſervant enquires into the nature and conditions of the oath, 5. Abraham expreſſes his faith in the promiſe, 7. Explains the oath, 8. The ſervant ſwears, 10. He goes to the city of Nahor, 11. Prays for ſucceſs, 12. And direction, 13, 14. An immediate and particular anſwer, 15 —— 20. He wonders at the providence, 21. Makes a preſent to Rebekah, 22. Enquires of what family ſhe was, 23. Her anſwer, 24, 25. He bleſſeth the Lord, 26, 27. Rebekah acquaints her friends with it, 28. They provide for him, &c and invite him in, 31, 32: He goes in, but refuſes to eat till he had told his errand, 33. He acquaints them with his buſineſs: And God's providence towards him, 34 —— 49. They conſent to his propoſal, 50, 51. He praiſes God, 52. Makes preſents to them all, 53. Deſires to return to his maſter, 54 —— 56. Rebekah being content to go with him, they conſent and bleſs her, 57 —— 60. They depart; and meet Iſaac meditating in the field, 61 —— 65. Who marries her, 67.

b Viz. Eliezer, Gen. 15. 2. c A ceremony uſed in Swearing, as now, ſo anciently in the Eaſtern parts, as Gen. 47. 29. either as a teſtimony of Subjection, and promiſe of faithful Service; for this Rite was uſed only by Inferiours towards Superiours; or, as ſome think, with reſpect to the bleſſed Seed, Chriſt, who was to come out of Abraham's Thigh, as the phraſe is Gen. 46. 26. becauſe this Rite was uſed only to Believers.

3 And I will make thee ſwear by the LORD, the God of heaven and the God of the earth, that * thou ſhalt not take a wife unto my ſon d of the daughters of the Canaanites e amongſt whom I dwell.

d (i. e.) Not perſuade nor engage my Son to take; for Iſaac, though forty years old, was not only willing to be governed by his Father in this affair, but alſo to hearken to the counſel of this wiſe and faithful Servant, of whom both his Father and himſelf had ſuch long and large experience. e For he knew that they were not only groſs Idolaters and heinous Sinners, for ſo many others were; but that they were a People under God's peculiar Curſe, Gen. 9. 25. and devoted to extirpation and utter deſtruction, which was to be inflicted upon them by Abraham's Poſterity: And therefore to marry his Son to ſuch perſons had been an high degree of Self-murder, whereby the holy and bleſſed Seed had been in danger of great infection from them, and utter ruin with them. And Abraham's practiſe was afterwards juſtified by God, who hath oft ſhewed his diſlike of ſuch unequal matches of his People with thoſe Infidels and Idolaters, by ſevere prohibitions and ſharp cenſures. See Exod. 34. 16. Deut. 7. 3. Joſ. 23. 12. Eſd. 9. 1, 2, 3. Nehem. 13. 23, 25. 2 Cor. 6. 14, 15.

4 But thou ſhalt go unto my countrey f, and to my kindred g, and take a wife unto my ſon Iſaac.

f (i. e.) Meſopotomia, verſe 10. which being largely taken for the Countrey between thoſe two famous Rivers Euphrates and Tigris, from which ſcituation it hath that name; ſo Chaldæa, whence Abraham came, Gen. 11. 31. and 12. 1. was a part of it. g The Family of Nahor, concerning the increaſe whereof he had received information, chap. 22. 20, &c. which he juſtly preferred before the Canaanites, partly becauſe though they were Idolaters, as appears from Gen. 31. 19, 30, 32, 35. and Joſ. 24. 2. yet they did worſhip the true God together with Idols, as may be gathered from verſe 31, 50. of this Chapter, and from other places; and therefore there was more hopes of the Converſion of one of that Family; and partly becauſe they lived at a great diſtance from the place where Abraham and his Poſterity did and ſhould live, and therefore one of that ſtock would be more eaſily diſintangled from her Superſtition and Idolatry, becauſe ſhe was removed from the influences of the evil counſels and examples of her neareſt Relations, and partly becauſe they were of the Race of bleſſed Shem, and not of curſed Canaan.

5 And the ſervant ſaid unto him, Peradventure the woman will not be willing to follow me unto this land h: muſt I needs bring thy ſon again unto the land from whence thou cameſt?

h Note here the prudence and piety of this good man, who, before he would take an Oath, doth diligently enquire into the nature and conditions of it, and expreſly mentioneth that exception, which might ſeem to be of courſe ſuppoſed in it.

6 And Abraham ſaid unto him, Beware thou, that thou bring not my ſon thither again i.

i In caſe ſhe will not come hither, do not thou engage that he ſhall go thither. Why ſo? 1. Becauſe there was more danger of infection from his Wife and her Kindred, becauſe of their friendly, and familiar, and conſtant converſe with him, than from the Canaanites, who were ſtrangers to him, and lived ſeparately from him, and had but little converſation with him. 2. Becauſe the command of God to Abraham to come out of Chaldæa, and into Canaan, did extend to his Poſterity alſo, whom God would oblige to dwell there as long as they could, that they might live in conſtant Faith and expectation of the performance of God's promiſe in giving this Land unto them. Queſt. How could he bring Iſaac thither again, where he never was? Anſw. 1. Iſaac might be ſaid to be there before vertually, or in the Loins of his Father, as Levi is ſaid to pay Tithes to Melchiſedek by Abraham in whoſe Loins he was. 2. This again may be referred to the Servant, that when he returned again he would not carry Iſaac along with them. 3. He might reaſonably ſuppoſe that Iſaac muſt go once thither to fetch his Wife; (for her coming ſo ſuddenly to him was an unexpected thing;) but he would not have him promiſe, that when he had done ſo once, he ſhould go thither again to live there with her.

7 ¶ The LORD God of heaven * which took me from my fathers houſe, and from the land of my kindred, and which ſpake unto me, and that ſware unto me, ſaying, * Unto thy ſeed will I give this land, he ſhall ſend his angel before thee †, and thou ſhalt take a wife unto my ſon from thence k.

† To direct and ſucceed thee in this enterprize. Compare Exod. 14. 19. and 23. 20. k I doubt not of the ſucceſs. He might ſay ſo, either by rational conjecture, both from the nature of the thing, and from the conſtant courſe of God's Providence bleſſing him in all his concerns; or by particular aſſurance and inſpiration from God.

8 And if the woman will not be willing to follow thee, then thou ſhalt be clear from this my oath l: only bring not my ſon thither again.

13 Behold, * I ſtand here by the well of water, and * the daughters of the men of the city come out to draw water:

14 And let it come to paſs [o] that the damſel to whom I ſhall ſay, Let down thy pitcher, I pray thee, that I may drink; and ſhe ſhall ſay, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink alſo: let the ſame be ſhe that thou haſt appointed [p] for thy ſervant Iſaac; and thereby ſhall I know that thou haſt ſhewed kindneſs unto my maſter.

[o] That this was not a raſh and vain Fancy, but a ſpecial Expectation and Confidence wrought in him by God's Spirit, appears both by the eminent Prudence and Godlineſs of this Perſon, and by the exact correſpondency of the event with his Prayer, and by parallel Examples, as Judg. 6. 36. 1 Sam 6. 7. and 14. 8. [p] Heb. Evidently pointed out; or, exactly ſearched out, as a perſon meet for him.

15 ¶ And it came to paſs, before he had done ſpeaking, that behold, Rebekah came out, who was born to Bethuel ſon of * Milcah the wife of Nahor Abrahams brother, with her pitcher upon her ſhoulder [q].

*Chap. 11. 29.

[q] According to the manner of the firſt and pureſt Ages of the World, wherein Humility and Diligence, not, as in this degeneration of the World, Pomp and Idleneſs, were the Ornaments of that Sex and Age. See Gen. 18. 6. and 29. 9, 19, 20. Exod. 2. 16. Prov. 31. 27.

16 And the damſel was † very fair to look upon, a virgin, * neither had any man known her [r]: and ſhe went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up.

* Numb. 31. 17.

[r] (i. e.) She was a Virgin not only in Title and Shew, but in Truth, for no man had known her, i. e. corrupted her.

17 And the ſervant ran to meet her, and ſaid, Let me, (I pray thee) drink a little water of thy pitcher.

18 And ſhe ſaid, Drink, my Lord [s]: and ſhe haſted, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him drink.

[s] For his retinue ſhewed him to be a perſon of more than ordinary quality.

19 And when ſhe had done giving him drink, ſhe ſaid, I will draw water for thy camels alſo, until they have done drinking.

20 And ſhe haſted, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels.

21 And the man wondring at her [t], held his peace, to wit that he might know whether the LORD had made his journey proſperous, or not.

[t] (i.e.) At the wonderful Providence of God, and the eminent Anſwer of his Prayer.

22 And it came to paſs as the camels had done drinking, that the man took [u] a golden † ear-ring [x] of half a ſhekel weight, and two bracelets for her hands, of ten ſhekels weight of gold;

[u] (i.e.) Gave to her, as that word of taking, or receiving is oft uſed, as Gen. 12. 19. Exod. 18. 12. and 29. 25. Pſal. 68. 18. compared with Eph. 4. 8. [x] So the word ſignifies, Gen. 35. 4. Exod. 32. 2, 3. Or, jewels for the forehead, which hung down from the forehead to the noſe, or between the eyes. So the word is uſed, verſe 47. Ezek. 16. 12.

23 And ſaid [y], Whoſe daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee: Is there room in thy fathers houſe for us to lodge in?

[y] Or, For he had ſaid; for it is probable he enquired who ſhe was before he gave her thoſe preſents.

24 And ſhe ſaid unto him, I am the daughter of Bethuel the ſon of Milcah [z], which ſhe bare unto Nahor.

[z] So ſhe ſignifies that ſhe was Nahor's Daughter, not by his Concubine, but by his lawful and principal Wiſe.

25 She ſaid moreover unto him, We have both ſtraw and provender enough, and room to lodge in.

26 And the man bowed down his head, and worſhipped the LORD [a].

[a] Giving thanks to God for his marvellous aſſiſtance hitherto, and begging the continuance of his preſence and bleſſing.

27 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of my maſter Abraham, who hath not left deſtitute my maſter of his mercy and his truth [b]: I being in the way, the LORD led me to the houſe of my maſters brethren [c].

[b] (i. e.) Who hath ſhewed his mercy in promiſing all manner of Bleſſings, and his truth in performing his Promiſes at this day. Or, it is a figure called Hendyadis, for true mercy, q. d. he hath not only been kind to him in ſhew, and in words, but in real and conſiderable effects. [c] (i. e.) Near Kinſmen, as that word is commonly uſed, as verſe 48. and Gen. 13. 8. Mark 3. 31, 32.

28 And the damſel ran, and told them of her mothers houſe [d] theſe things.

[d] Not, of her Father's houſe; either becauſe her Father was now dead, and Bethuel, who is hereafter mentioned, was not Laban's Father, but his Brother ſo called; or becauſe the Women had diſtinct apartments in the Houſes, and ſhe went firſt thither according to her cuſtom.

29 ¶ And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was Laban: and Laban ran out unto the man, unto the well.

30 And it came to paſs, when he ſaw the ear-ring and bracelets upon his ſiſters hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his ſiſter, ſaying, Thus ſpake the man unto me; that he came unto the man, and behold he ſtood by the camels at the well.

31 And he ſaid, Come in, thou bleſſed of the LORD [e], wherefore ſtandeſt thou without? for I have prepared the houſe, and room for the camels.

[e] (i. e.) Whom God hath ſo eminently favoured and bleſſed.

[f] Of which cuſtom, ſee Gen. 18. 4.

33 And there was ſet meat before him, to eat: but he ſaid, I will not eat, until I have told mine errand. And he ſaid, Speak on.

34 And he ſaid, I am Abrahams ſervant.

35 And the LORD hath bleſſed my maſter greatly, and he is become great: and he hath given him flocks, and herds, and ſilver, and gold, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants, and camels, and aſſes.

36 And Sarah my maſters wife bare a ſon to my maſter when ſhe was old: and * unto him hath he given all that he hath [g].

[g] (i. e.) Hath purpoſed and promiſed, and doth by me engage that he will give. Things are oft ſaid to be done, in Scripture Language, when they will certainly and ſhortly be done.

37 And my maſter made me ſwear, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not take a wife to my ſon of the daughters of the Canaanites in whoſe land I dwell:

38 But thou ſhalt go unto my fathers houſe, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my ſon.

39 And I ſaid unto my maſter, Peradventure the woman will not follow me.

40 And he ſaid unto me, The LORD * before whom I walk [h], will ſend his angel with thee, and proſper thy way; and thou ſhalt take a wife for my ſon of my kindred, and of my fathers houſe.

*Chap. 17. 1.

[h] In Obedience to all his Commands, and in hearty truſt in his Promiſes and gracious Providence towards me and mine.

[i] Heb. From my curſe, denounced againſt thee if thou ſhouldſt violate thine Oath. The words Oath and Curſe are oft-times indifferently uſed, becauſe they commonly go together, and ſometimes they are both expreſſed, as Numb. 5. 21.

42 And I came this day unto the well, and ſaid, O LORD God of my maſter Abraham, if now thou do proſper my way which I go [k]:

*Verſ. 13.

44 And ſhe ſay to me, Both drink thou, and I will alſo draw for thy camels: let the ſame be the woman whom the LORD hath appointed out for my maſters ſon.

45 And before I had done ſpeaking in my heart, behold, Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her ſhoulder; and ſhe went down unto the well, and drew water: and I ſaid unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee.

46 And ſhe made haſte, and let down her pitcher from her ſhoulder, and ſaid, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink alſo: ſo I drank, and ſhe made the camels drink alſo.

47 And I asked her [l], and ſaid, Whoſe daughter art thou? and ſhe ſaid, The daughter of Bethuel, Nahors ſon, whom Milcah bare unto him: and I put the ear-ring upon her face, and the bracelets upon her hands.

[l] Firſt he asks who ſhe was, then he gives the gifts to her: Which is the right order, and is here obſerved in the repetition; which was inverted in the firſt relation, verſe 22, 23.

48 And I bowed down my head, and worſhipped the LORD, and bleſſed the LORD God of my maſter Abraham, which had led me in † the right way, to take my maſters brothers daughter unto his ſon. † Heb. the way of truth.

49 And now if ye will deal kindly and truly m with my maſter, tell me: and if not, tell me; that I may turn to the right hand, or to the left n.

m If you will ſhew true Kindneſs and real Friendſhip to him in giving your Daughter to his Son. n (i. e.) That I may look out a Wife for him elſewhere. It is a proverbial Expreſſion, Numb. 20. 17. and 22. 26. Deut. 2. 27.

50 Then Laban and Bethuel o anſwered and ſaid, The thing proceedeth from the LORD p: we cannot ſpeak unto thee bad or good q.

o Laban is put firſt, either becauſe this Bethuel was not his Father, but his younger Brother, as Joſephus thinks; or becauſe Laban was the chief manager of this buſineſs, to whom his Father ſeems to have committed the care of his Family, being himſelf unfit for it through Age or Infirmity. p From God's Counſel and Special Providence. Hereby it appears they had the Knowledge and Worſhip of the true God among them, tho they added Idols to him. q We cannot without oppoſing God, ſpeak or act any thing which may hinder thy deſign, or thwart thy deſire. Compare Gen. 31. 24, 29. 2 Sam. 13. 22.

51 Behold, Rebekah is before thee †, take her, and go, and let her be thy maſters ſons wife, as the LORD hath ſpoken.

† (i. e) In thy power and diſpoſal; as this Phraſe is taken, Gen. 20. 15. and elſewhere.

52 And it came to paſs, that when Abrahams ſervant heard their words, he worſhipped the LORD, bowing himſelf to the earth.

† Heb. Veſſels. 53 And the ſervant brought forth † jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave them to Rebekah: he gave alſo to her brother and to her mother precious things r.

r The precious Fruits of the Land from which he came. See Deut 33. 13, &c. or in general, other rare and excellent things. In thoſe days men gave Portions for their Wives, as now they have Portions with them.

54 And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, and tarried all night: and they roſe up in the morning, and he ſaid, * Send me away unto my maſter. * Verſe 56, and 59.

55 And her brother and her mother ſaid, Let the damſel abide with us † a few days, at the leaſt ten s; after that ſhe ſhall go. † Or, a full year, or ten months.

s Others thus, a Year, or at the leaſt ten Months, the word Days being put for a Year, as elſewher. But it is very improbable that they would demand or expect ſuch a thing from this Man whom they ſaw bent ſo much upon Expedition.

56 And he ſaid unto them, Hinder me not, ſeeing the LORD hath proſpered my way: ſend me away, that I may go to my maſter.

57 And they ſaid, We will call the damſel, and inquire at her mouth t.

t (i. e) Underſtand her mind by her words, not ſo much concerning the Marriage it ſelf, in which ſhe reſigned up her ſelf to the diſpoſal of her Parents and Friends, and to which ſhe had given an implicit Conſent by her acceptance of thoſe Preſents which were made to her for that end; as concerning the haſtineſs of her Departure.

58 And they called Rebekah, and ſaid unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? and ſhe ſaid, I will go.

59 And they ſent away Rebekah their ſiſter, and her nurſe u, and Abrahams ſervant, and his men.

u Deborah, by comparing Chap. 35. 8. In this corrupt Family, the Mother and the Nurſe are two diſtinct Perſons; but in Abraham's pious Family there was no ſuch Principle or Practice. See Gen. 21. 7.

60 And they bleſſed Rebekah, and ſaid unto her, Thou art our ſiſter x, be thou the mother of thouſands of millions, and let thy * ſeed poſſeſs the gate of thoſe which hate them. * Chap 22. 17.

x (i. e.) Our near Kinſwoman, diſtance of place ſhall not alienate our Affections from thee, but we ſhall ſtill own thee as our Siſter, and as far as we can, be ready to perform all the duties of Brethren to thee.

61 And Rebekah aroſe, and her damſels, and they rode upon the camels, and followed the man: and the ſervant took Rebekah, and went his way.

62 And Iſaac came from the way of the * well Lahai-roi, for he dwelt in the ſouth country y. * Chap. 16. 14. and 25. 11.

y In the Southern Parts of Canaan, as Gen. 12. 9. at Beer-ſheba, whither it ſeems, Abraham returned after Sarah's Death.

63 And Iſaac went out to † meditate z in the field a at the eventide b: and he lift up his eyes, and ſaw, and behold the camels were coming. † Or, to pray.

z To converſe with God, and with himſelf by pious and profitable Thoughts and Ejaculations, and fervent Prayers, as for other things, ſo particularly for God's Bleſſing upon this great Affair, and ſo his Prayers are eminently anſwered. a He chuſeth a ſolitary place, wherein he might more freely attend upon God without any Interruption or Diſtraction. b That as he had begun the day with God, ſo he might cloſe it with him, and commit himſelf to his Protection. Compare Pſalm 55. 17.

64 And Rebekah lift up her eyes, and when ſhe ſaw Iſaac, ſhe lighted off the camel c.

c As a teſtimony of her reſpect to him whom by the Servant ſhe underſtood to be her Lord and Husband. Compare Joſ. 15. 18. 1 Sam. 25. 23.

65 For ſhe had ſaid unto the ſervant, What man is this that walketh in the field to meet us? And the ſervant had ſaid, It is my maſter: therefore ſhe took a vail, and covered her ſelf d.

d In token of Modeſty, Reverence, and Subjection. See Gen. 20. 16. 1 Cor. 11. 10.

66 And the ſervant told Iſaac all things that he had done.

67 And Iſaac brought her into his mother Sarahs tent e, and took Rebekah, and ſhe became his wife; and he loved her: and Iſaac was comforted after his mothers death f.

e Partly to give her poſſeſſion of it, and partly to conſummate the Marriage. Women then had their Tents apart from Men. See Gen. 18. 10. and 24. 67. and 31. 33. f A ſorrowful ſenſe whereof he yet had retained, tho ſhe died three years before this time.

6 But unto the ſons of the concubines n which Abraham had, Abraham gave gifts, and ſent them away from Iſaac his ſon o (while he yet lived) eaſtward, unto the eaſt country p.

n Hagar and Keturah. Concubines are ſometimes called Wives, as Gen. 16. 3. Judges 19. 1, 2, 3, 29. but their Children had no right to the Inheritance. For tho the Children of Jacob's Concubines did equally partake of the Inheritance with the other Children, that was done by Divine Appointment, and Jacob's Voluntary Act, and upon ſpecial reaſon, becauſe of the vaſt Inheritance promiſed, and afterwards given to them, which made it no loſs, but a great convenience and advantage to the Children of the chief Wives to have their Half-brethren, the Sons of the Concubines, ſeated ſo near to them. o Partly that the intire Poſſeſſion of that Land might be reſerved to the Children of Iſaac; and partly, leſt nearneſs of relation joyned with Cohabitation or Neighbourhood ſhould beget a great familiarity between them, whereby Iſaac's Seed were likely to be infected by their Brethren, whoſe Degeneration and Apoſtacy Abraham might eaſily foreſee from the evil Inclinations of their own Hearts, and God's Excluſion of them from that Covenant of Grace and Life, which was the only effectual remedy againſt that powerful and univerſal Corruption. p Into Arabia, and other Parts of Aſia the Greater, which were ſcituate Eaſt-ward from the Southern part of Canaan where Abraham now was, whence theſe People are oft called the Children of the Eaſt, as Judges 6. 3. and 7. 12. Job 1. 3.

7 And theſe are the days of the years of Abrahams life which he lived, an hundred threeſcore and fifteen years.

8 Then Abraham gave up the ghoſt q, and died in a good r old age, an old man, and full of † years s; and was gathered to his people t.

† Or, days. See Chap. 35. 29.

q His Soul was not required of him, as it was of that fool, Luke 12. 20. not forced from him by ſharp and violent Diſeaſes, but was quietly, eaſily, and chearfully yielded up by him into the hands of his merciful God and Father, as the word intimates. r Good both graciouſly, his hoary Head being found in the way of Righteouſneſs; and naturally, free from the manifold Infirmiries and Calamities of old Age. Of which ſee Eccleſ. 12. 1, &c. s In the Hebrew it is only full, or ſatisfied; but you muſt underſtand, with Days or Years, as the Phraſe is fully expreſſed, Gen. 35. 29. 1 Chron. 23. 1. and 29. 28. Job 42. 17. Jer. 6. 11. When he had lived as long as he deſired, being in ſome ſort weary of Life, and deſirous to be diſſolved; or full of all Good, as the Chaldee renders it; ſatisfied, as it is ſaid of Naphtali, Deut. 33. 23. with favour, and full with the bleſſing of the Lord upon himſelf, and upon his Children. t To his Godly Progenitors, the former Patriarchs; the Congregation of the Juſt in Heaven, Heb. 12. 23. in regard of his Soul: For it cannot be meant of his Body, which was not joyned with them in the place of Burial, as the Phraſe is, Iſa. 14. 20 but buried in a ſtrange Land, where only Sarah's Body lay. And it is obſerved, that this Phraſe is uſed of none but good Men, of which the Jews were ſo fully perſwaded, that from this very Expreſſion uſed concerning Iſhmael here below, v. 17. they infer his Repentance and Salvation See this phraſe, Gen. 15. 15. and 49. 29. Numb. 20. 24. and 27. 13. Judges 2. 10.

9 And his ſons Iſaac and Iſhmael u buried him in the cave of Machpelah, in the field of Ephron, the ſon of Zohar the Hittite, which is before Mamre.

u For Iſhmael, tho baniſhed from his Father's Houſe, lived in a place not very far from him; and as no doubt he received many Favours from his Father after his Departure, which is implied here, verſe 6. tho it be not mentioned elſewhere; ſo it is probable that he had a true Reſpect and Affection to his Father, which he here expreſſeth.

14 And Miſhma, and Dumah a, and Maſſa, a From him Dumah, Iſaiah 21. 11. or Dumatha, a place in Arabia, ſeems to have received its Name. Others make him the Father of the Idumeans.

17 And theſe are the years of the life of Iſhmael, an hundred and thirty and ſeven years; and he gave up the ghoſt, and died, and was gathered unto his people.

18 And they dwelt from Havilah unto Shur, that is before Egypt, as thou goeſt towards Aſſyria †: and he * died in the preſence of all his brethren d.

* Heb. fell, 2 Sam. 21. 9.

† (i. e) On that part or ſide of Egypt which leads to Aſſyria. d His Brethren ſurviving him, and being his Neighbours, and therefore as they had Converſation with him in the time of his Life, ſo now they did him Honour at his Death. But this Tranſlation and Interpretation may ſeem improbable. 1. Becauſe his Death was related, verſe 17. and would not be ſo preſently repeated. 2. Becauſe the foreging words in this Verſe ſpeak not of his Death, but of his Dwelling, to which theſe words do very well agree. For what we tranſlated and he died, is commonly rendred and he fell, or it fell, and is moſt commonly uſed concerning a lot whereby Men's Portions are deſigned and divided, as Levit. 16. 9, 10. Numb 33. 54. Joſ. 16. 1. and ſo the ſenſe may be, it fell, i. e. that Country fell to him or his; or he lay, or was ſtretched out, or poſted himſelf, as the Hebrew word is uſed, Judg. 7. 12. i. e. he dwelt in the preſence of all his Brethren; and ſo indeed his Country lay between the Children of Keturah on the Eaſt, and the Children of Iſaac and Iſrael on the Weſt.

19 ¶ And theſe are the generations of Iſaac, Abrahams ſon: * Abraham begat Iſaac.

* Matth. 1. 2.

20 And Iſaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah to wife, the daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Padan-Aram e, the ſiſter to Laban the Syrian.

e Either of the Country of Syria, as it is called, Hoſea 12. 12. or rather, Padan of Syria, or as the Septuagint and Chaldee render it, Meſopotamia of Syria: For that Padan is the proper Name of a place, may be gathered from Gen. 48. 7. and it is ſo called from its Scituation between two Rivers, for Padan ſignifies a pair or two.

21 And Iſaac intreated the LORD f for his wife g, becauſe ſhe was barren h: and the LORD was intreated of him, and * Rebekah his wife conceived.

* Rom. 9. 10.

f He prayed, as the Hebrew word ſignifies, inſtantly or fervently, frequently and continually, for near twenty years together; for ſo long it was between their Marriage and the firſt Child. He was ſo much concerned, becauſe not only his Comfort, but the truth of God's Promiſe depended upon this mercy: And he knew very well, that God's purpoſe and promiſe did not exclude, but require the uſe of all convenient means for their accompliſhment. g Or in the preſence of his Wiſe, ſignifying, that, beſides their more ſecret Devotions, they did oftentimes in a more ſolemn manner, and with united force pray for this mercy wherein they were both equally concerned. Or, over againſt his Wiſe, noting that each of them did ſeverally and apart intreat God for this mercy, ſo that there was a concurrence, if not in place, yet in deſign and action. h As diverſe of thoſe holy Women that were Progenitors of Chriſt have long been, that it might appear that that ſacred Stock was propagated more by the virtue of God's Grace and Promiſe, than by the Power of Nature.

22 And the children ſtruggled together within her i: and ſhe ſaid, If it be ſo, why am I thus k? And ſhe went to inquire of the LORD l.

i In a violent and extraordinary manner, which was likely to cauſe both Pain and Fear in her. k The ſenſe may be either, 1. If it be thus with me, that there be two Children contending and fighting within me, likely to deſtroy one the other, and both threatning my Death; why did I deſire and pray for this as a great mercy! Or, why is it thus with me! Why hath God dealt thus with me, to continue my Life till it be a burthen to me, and to give me Conception which is ſo painful and hazardous? Or rather, 2. If God hath granted me my deſire in the Conception of a Child, what means this diſturbance and conflict within me, which threatens me with the loſs of the Mercy before I enjoy it? For ſhe ſeems not ſo much to murmur at it, as to wonder and to enquire about it, as it here follows. l Either immediately by ardent Prayers to God that he would reveal his mind to her herein; or mediately by her Father Abraham, who lived fifteen years after this time, verſe 7. or by ſome other godly Patriarch yet ſurviving, by whom God uſed to manifeſt his Will and Counſels to others, when he thought fit.

23 And the LORD ſaid unto her m, Two nations n are in thy womb, and two manner of people ſhall be ſeparated o from thy bowels: and the one people ſhall be ſtronger than the other people; and * the elder p ſhall ſerve the younger.

* Rom. 9. 12.

m Either by inward Inſpiration, in a Dream or Viſion; or by the Miniſtry of an Angel or Prophet. n (i. e) The Roots, Heads, or Parents of two diſtinct Nations, one oppoſite to the other; the one bleſſed, the other curſed, namely the Iſraelites and Edomites. o Not only ſeparated from thee, but one ſeparated or greatly differing from the other in their frame of Body, temper of Mind, courſe of Life, profeſſion and practice of Religion. p Or, the greater, namely Eſau, who was, as older, ſo of a ſtronger Conſtitution of Body, and of greater Power and Dignity in the World than Jacob; and Eſau's Poſterity were great Princes for a long time, when Jacob's Seed were Strangers in Canaan, Slaves in Egypt, and poor afflicted Wanderers in the Wilderneſs. But ſaith he, Eſau and his ſhall not always be ſtronger and mightier than Jacob and his Poſterity, the Tables ſhall be turned, and the Children of Iſrael ſhall be uppermoſt and ſubdue the Edomites, which was literally accompliſhed in David's time, 2 Sam. 8. 14. and afterwards 2 Chron. 25. 11, 12. and after that by the Maccabees, but much more eminently in a ſpiritual Senſe under the Goſpel, when one of Jacob's Children, even Jeſus Chriſt, ſhall obtain the Dominion, and ſhall rule the Edomites no leſs than other Heathen Nations with his Iron rod, and make them ſerviceable one way or other to his Glory, and to the felicity of his true Iſrael.

24 ¶ And when her days to be delivered were fulfilled, behold, there were twins in her womb.

25 And the firſt came out red q, * all over like an hairy garment: and they called his name Eſau r.

* Chap. 27. 11. 16. 23.

q With red Hair upon all the parts of his Body. From him the Red-Sea is ſuppoſed to receive its name, it being ſo called, as the Heathen Writers tell us, from one who reigned in thoſe Parts, and was called Erythras, or Erythrus, which ſignifies Red, the ſame with Edom or Eſau. r (i. e.) Made or perfect; not properly a Child, but rather a Man as ſoon as he was born, having that Hair upon him, which in others was an evidence of Manhood.

* Hoſea 12. 3.

26 And after that came his brother out, and * his hand took hold on Eſau's heel; and his name was called Jacob s: and Iſaac was threeſcore years old when ſhe bare them t.

s (i. e.) Supplanter, or one that taketh hold of, or trippeth up his Brother's heels. See Gen. 27. 36. t Thus God exerciſed his Faith and Patience twenty years by comparing this with verſe 20. ere he gave him the promiſed Bleſſing.

27 And the boys grew: and Eſau was a cunning hunter u, a man of the field x; and Jacob was † a plain man y dwelling in tents z.

u Of wild Beaſts, and afterwards an oppreſſor of Men. Compare Gen. 10. 9. This courſe of life was moſt agreeable to his complexion, fierce and violent. x One that delighted more in converſing abroad than at home, whoſe employment it was to purſue the Beaſts through Fields, and Woods, and Mountains, who therefore choſe an Habitation fit for his purpoſe in Mount Seir. y A ſincere, honeſt, and plain-hearted Man; or a juſt and perfect Man, as the word is uſed, Gen. 6. 9. z Quietly minding the management of his own Domeſtick Affairs, his Lands and Cattel, and giving no diſturbance either to wild Beaſts or Men.

28 And Iſaac loved Eſau, becauſe † he did eat of his veniſon a: but Rebekah loved Jacob b.

a Not ſimply, nor chiefly, becauſe he pleaſed his palate, but becauſe this was an evidence of his Son's great reſpect and affection to him, that he would take ſuch pains and incur ſuch hazards to which that courſe of life expoſed him, that he might pleaſe and ſerve his Father. b Upon better grounds, both becauſe of his more pious and meek Temper, and becauſe of the Oracle and Promiſe of God.

29 ¶ And Jacob ſod pottage: and Eſau came from the field, and he was faint.

† Heb. with that red, with that red pottage.

30 And Eſau ſaid to Jacob, Feed me, I pray thee, † with that ſame red c pottage; for I am faint: therefore was his name called Edom d.

c Red by the infuſion of Lentiles, or Saffron, or ſome other things of that Colour. The word is doubled in the Hebrew Text, to ſhew how vehemently he deſired it. d Which ſignifies Red, as he was at firſt ſo called from the Colour of his Hair; ſo now that name was confirmed and given to him afreſh upon this occaſion, q. d. He was rightly called Edom, or Red, not only Hiſtorically for his Colour, but Prophetically for this Accident.

e (i. e.) Speedily without delay. So this Hebrew Word is uſed 1 Sam. 2. 16. and 9. 13, 27. 2 Chron. 18. 4. f The birth-right then had divers ſingular priviledges; as 1. Dignity and Authority over his Brethren, Gen. 4. 7. and 27. 29, 37. and 49. 3. 2. A double portion, Deut. 21. 17. 1 Chron. 5. 1. 3. A ſpecial Bleſſing from his Father, Gen. 27. 4. 4. The Prieſthood and chief Government of the Affairs of the Church in his Father's abſence, or ſickneſs, and after his death, Numb. 8. 16, 17, &c. 5. The firſt born was a ſpecial Type both of Chriſt, who was to be a firſt-born; and of the Church, which is called God's firſt-born, as Exod. 4. 22. and of the great priviledges of the Church, particularly of Adoption and Eternal Life. See Heb. 12. 23. And therefore he is juſtly called profane, Heb. 12. 16. for ſlighting ſo ſacred and glorious a priveledge. Queſt. 1. Could the birth-right be loſt? Anſw. Yes. See Gen. 4. 7. and 1 Chron. 5. 1. Queſt. 2. Did Jacob well in this matter? Anſw. No; becauſe he tempted his Brother to an act of Profaneneſs and Folly, and ſo was guilty of his Sin. And though God had deſigned and promiſed this priviledge to him, yet he ſhould have waited till God had executed his promiſe in his own way, as David did till God gave him poſſeſſion of Saul's Kingdom, and not have anticipated God, and ſnatched it by an irregular act of his own, as Jeroboam did the Kingdom from Rehoboam.

32 And Eſau ſaid, Behold, I am † at the point to die g: and what profit ſhall this birth-right do to me h?

g Not with Famine, which could not conſiſt with Iſaac's plentiful Eſtate and Houſe, but by the perpetual hazards to which his courſe of life expoſed him in the purſuit of wild Beaſts, and contending with other Men. h By which he plainly ſheweth, that his Care and Affections reached no further than the preſent life.

* Heb. 12. 16.

33 And Jacob ſaid, Swear to me this day i; and he ſware unto him: and * he ſold his birth-right unto Jacob.

i Jacob acted ſubtilly in this Affair; he knew that delays were dangerous; and Eſau's conſideration, or ſecond thoughts, might have ſpoiled his Bargain, and therefore he requires haſte, as in the Sale, ſo in his Oath; wherein he addeth another Sin, in hurrying his Brother into an Oath by precipitation, which neither his Brother ſhould have taken, nor Jacob ſhould have adviſed him to take, without mature Advice.

34 Then Jacob gave Eſau bread and pottage of lentiles; and he did eat and drink, and roſe up, and went his way k: thus Eſau deſpiſed his birth-right l.

k Secure and impenitent, without any remorſe for his ingratitude to God, or the injury which he had done to himſelf and to all his poſterity. l Preferring the preſent and momentary ſatiſfaction of his Luſt and Appetite, before God's and his Father's Bleſſing, and all the glorious priviledges of the Birth-right.

CHAP. XXVI.

A famine in the land; Iſaac goes to Gerar, 1. God directs him to abide there, and promiſes to be with him; the covenant with Abraham alſo made with Iſaac, 2—5. Through fear he denies Rebekah, 7. Abimelech, ſeeing Iſaac and Rebekah together, concludes her to be his wife; charges him with it, he confeſſes it, 8, 9. Abimelech reproves him, charging his people not to touch them on pain of death, 11. Iſaac bleſſed with great plenty, 12—14. The philiſtines envy him; ſtop his wells, 15. Deſire him to depart, 16. He removes to the valley of Gerar, 17. There he digs wells, but the herds-men ſtrive with him about them, 18—21. He hath reſt, 22. Removes to Beer-ſheba, 23. The Lord renews his covenant, 24. He calls on the name of the Lord, 25. Abimelech convinced that the Lord was with Iſaac, deſires to make a covenant with him, 26—29. They make a feaſt, and ſwear to one another, 31. Eſau being forty years old, taketh to him wives of the Canaanites, 34. Iſaac and Rebekah grieved hereat, 35.

* Chap. 12. 10.
* Chap. 26. 1.

AND there was a famine in the land, * beſides the firſt famine that was in the days of Abraham. And Iſaac went unto * Abimelech a king of the Philiſtines, unto Gerar.

a Not he mentioned, Gen. 20. 2. but moſt probably his Son and Succeſſour, called by his Fathers name.

2 And the LORD appeared unto him, and ſaid, Go not down into Egypt b: dwell in the land which I ſhall tell thee of.

b Whither it ſeems Iſaac intended to go, it being a very fruitful place, and being incouraged to do ſo by his Father's Example upon the ſame occaſion. But God ſaw good reaſons to forbid Iſaac to go thither, which it is needleſs to enquire, and not difficult to conjecture.

* Chap. 15. and 15. 18.
* Chap. 22. 16.

3 Sojourn in this land, and I will be with thee, and will bleſs thee: for unto thee, and unto thy ſeed c * I will give all theſe countries, and I will perform * the oath d which I ſware unto Abraham thy father.

c To thee, to enjoy for thy preſent Comfort, and to them to poſſeſs as an Inheritance. See the Notes on Gen. 13. 15. and 15. 18. d (i. e.) The promiſes confirmed by Oath, Gen. 22. 16, &c.

* Chap. 12. 3. and 22. 18.

4 And I will make thy ſeed to multiply as the ſtars of heaven, and will give unto thy ſeed all theſe countries: and in thy ſeed ſhall all the nations of the earth be * bleſſed:

5 Becauſe that Abraham obeyed my voice e, and kept my charge, my commandments, my ſtatutes, and my laws.

e Here was a covenant made between God and Abraham; and as, if Abraham had broken the condition of walking before God required on his part, God had been diſcharged from the promiſe made on his part; ſo contrarily, becauſe Abraham performed his condition, God engageth himſelf to perform his promiſe to him, and to his ſeed. But as that promiſe and covenant was made by God of meer Grace, as is evident and confeſſed; ſo the mercies promiſed and performed to him and his, are ſo great and vaſt, that it is an idle thing to think they could be merited by ſo mean a compenſation as Abraham's Obedience, which was a debt that he owed to God, had there been no ſuch covenant or promiſe made by God, and which alſo was an effect of God's Graces to him and in him.

7 And the men of the place asked him of his wife; and he ſaid, She is my ſiſter: for he feared to ſay, She is my wife, leſt, ſaid he, the men of the place ſhould kill me for Rebekah, becauſe ſhe was fair to look upon.

8 And it came to paſs, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philiſtines looked out at a window, and ſaw, and behold, Iſaac was ſporting with Rebekah his wife g.

g Uſing more free and familiar carriage than became a Brother and Siſter, but ſuch as was allowable between Husband and Wife. See Deut. 24. 5. Prov. 5. 18, 19. But that this was not the Conjugal act, may eaſily be gathered from the circumſtances of the time, and place, which was open to Abimelech's view; and therefore that was not conſiſtent either with Iſaac's modeſty, or with his prudence, becauſe he would not have her thought to be his Wife.

9 And Abimelech called Iſaac, and ſaid, Behold, of a ſurety ſhe is thy wife: and how ſaidſt thou, She is my ſiſter? And Iſaac ſaid unto him, Becauſe I ſaid, leſt I die for her.

* Chap. 20. 9.
† Heb.

10 And Abimelech ſaid, What is this thou haſt done unto us? one of the people might lightly have lien with thy wife h, and * thou ſhouldeſt have brought † guiltineſs upon us i.

h Becauſe the Heathens eſteemed Fornication either no Sin, or a very little one. i The guilt of Adultery, which was heinous and formidable even among the Heathens, and eſpecially here, becauſe it was freſh in memory how ſorely God had puniſhed Abimelech, and all his Family, only for an intention of Adultery, Gen. 20. Note here, they take it for granted, that their Ignorance had not been a ſufficient excuſe for their Sin.

11 And Abimelech charged all his people, ſaying, He that toucheth k this man or his wife, ſhall ſurely be put to death.

k (i.e.) Hurteth or injureth. So that word is uſed, ver. 29. and Joſ. 9.19. *Pſal.*105.15. *Zech.*2.8. and being applied to a woman, it is uſed for the defiling or humbling of her, as Gen. 20. 6. Prov. 6. 29.

12 Then Iſaac ſowed in that land l, and † received in the ſame year and hundred fold m, and the LORD bleſſed him.

l Either in the Grounds which he had hired of the right Owners; or in ſome Grounds which lay neglected; and therefore were free to the firſt Occupier; which was not ſtrange in that Age of the World, when the Inhabitants of Countreys were not ſo numerous as afterward. m (i.e.) An hundred times as much as he ſowed. The ſame degree of increaſe is intimated, Matth. 13.8 and affirmed ſometimes of other places by Heathen Writers, but then it was in a better Soil and Seaſon than this was; for this was a time of Famine or Scarcity.

13 And the man waxed great, and † went forward, and grew until he became very great.

† Or, Huſbandry.

14 For he had poſſeſſion of flocks, and poſſeſſion of herds, and great ſtore of † ſervants n. And the Philiſtines envied him.

n Or rather, of Husbandry, as this word is elſewhere uſed; of Corn-fields, Vineyards, &c. for he is deſcribing his Riches, which then conſiſted in the two things here expreſſed, Cattle and Lands, which he diligently and ſucceſsfully managed, ver. 12.

* Chap. 21. 30.

15 For all the wells * which his father's ſervants had digged in the days of Abraham his father, the Philiſtines had ſtopped them, and filled them with earth.

* Exod. 1. 9.

16 And Abimelech ſaid unto Iſaac, Go from us, for * thou art much mightier than we o.

o Which breeds Envy, and Jealouſie, and Fear, among my Subjects, and may occaſion greater miſchiefs; and therefore it is better that we ſhould part Friends, than by continuing together be turned into Enemies.

17 And Iſaac departed thence, and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there.

18 And Iſaac digged again the wells of water p, which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father q; for the Philiſtines had ſtopped them after the death of Abraham: and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them.

p For though there might be a Brook there, probably it was but little, and ſoon dried up. q He digged thoſe rather than new ones, partly to keep up his Father's memory, and partly becauſe he had moſt right to them, and others leſs cauſe of quarrel with him about them.

19 And Iſaac's ſervants digged in the valley, and found there a well of † ſpringing water.

20 And the herdmen of Gerar did ſtrive with Iſaac's herdmen, ſaying, The water is ours r: and he called the name of the well † Eſek, becauſe they ſtrove with him.

r Becauſe digged in our Soil: Which was no good Argument, becauſe he digged it by their conſent or permiſſion at his own charge, and for his own uſe.

† That is, hatred.

21 And they digged another well, and ſtrove for that alſo: and he called the name of it † Sitnah.

22 And he removed from thence, and digged another well; and for that they ſtrove not: and he called the name of it † Rehoboth; and he ſaid, For now the LORD hath made room for us, and we ſhall be fruitful in the land.

23 And he went up from thence to Beer-ſheba s.

s Where he lived before the Famine drave him thence.

24 And the LORD appeared unto him the ſame night, and ſaid, I am the God of Abraham thy father: fear not, for I am with thee, and will bleſs thee, and multiply thy ſeed for my ſervant Abraham's ſake.

* Chap. 12. 7. and 13. 18.

25 And he * built an altar there, and called upon the name of the LORD, and pitched his tent there: and there Iſaac's ſervants digged a well.

26 Then Abimelech went to him from Gerar, and Ahuzzath one of his friends, and Phicol t the chief captain of his army.

t This may be either 1. The title of an Office; for the word ſignifies, the mouth of all; or he by whom all the people were to preſent their Addreſſes to the King, and receive the King's Commands. Or, 2. The name of a Man: And then this might be the Son of him mentioned Gen. 21. 32. called by his Father's name, as Abimelech alſo was.

27 And Iſaac ſaid unto them, Wherefore come ye to me, ſeeing ye hate me, and have ſent me away from you?

28 And they ſaid, † We ſaw certainly that the LORD was with thee: and we ſaid, Let there be now an oath betwixt us, even betwixt us and thee, and let us make a covenant with thee;

* Heb. if thou ſhalt, &c.

29 * That thou wilt do us no hurt, as we have not touched thee †, and as we have done unto thee nothing but good, and have ſent thee away in peace: thou art now the bleſſed of the LORD u.

† To wit, ſo as to injure or hurt thee, as above, ver. 11. u Or, O thou who art now the bleſſed of the Lord, whom God hath inriched with great and manifold Bleſſings, which we did not take away from thee, as we could eaſily have done, but thou doſt ſtill enjoy them; and now art, as thou wert amongſt us, the bleſſed of the Lord. Or, Seeing God hath bleſſed thee, it will not become thee to curſe us, or to bear any grudge againſt us for that little unkindneſs which we expreſſed to thee. Or, it may be a wiſh, if thou makeſt this Covenant with us, be thou now the bleſſed of the Lord, we heartily wiſh thy Bleſſings and Proſperity may increaſe.

30 And he made them a feaſt, and they did eat and drink.

31 And they roſe up betimes in the morning x, and ſware one to another: And Iſaac ſent them away, and they departed from him in peace.

x Partly for the diſpatch of their Journey and Buſineſs, and partly becauſe then their minds were moſt vigorous, and ſober, and fit to perform ſo ſacred an Action as an Oath was.

32 And it came to paſs the ſame day, that Iſaac's ſervants came, and told him concerning the well which they had digged, and ſaid unto him, We have found water.

* That is, the well of the oath.

33 And he called it † Sheba: therefore the name of the city is * Beer-ſheba y unto this day.

y This name had been given before, either to this, or a neighbouring place, by Abraham, Gen. 21. 31. But was now buried in oblivion, as his Wells were; and the Wells being revived, he revives, and renews the name, which proved now a laſting name, unto this day, as here follows, which is not added, Gen. 21. 31. becauſe then the Name, though given by Abraham, was ſoon forgotten and neglected by others.

34 And Eſau was forty years old when he took to wife Judith, the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Baſhemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite z:

z Both Hittites, the worſt of the Canaanites, Ezek. 16. 3. Which from his Grandfather Abraham's ſevere Charge, Gen. 24. 3. he muſt needs know would be highly diſpleaſing, both to God, and to his Parents. And as Eſau had ſeveral Names, being called alſo Edom and Seir; ſo it ſeems theſe Women and their Parents had, by comparing this with Gen. 36. 2. which was uſual in thoſe times and places. Or Eſau had more Wives than theſe.

a Becauſe to their Idolatry and other Wickedneſs, they added Obſtinacy and incorrigibleneſs, deſpiſing their Perſons, and godly Counſels, whereby they invited them to Repentance.

CHAP. XXVII.

Iſaac being aged, ſends Eſau for Veniſon, that he might eat thereof, and bleſs him, 1——4. Eſau obeys his father, 5. Rebekah hearing it, tells Jacob, 6, 7. Her contrivance and advice to him to intercept the bleſſing, 8——10. Jacob is afraid of a curſe inſtead of a bleſſing, 11, 12. His mother encourageth him, 13. He complies; puts on Eſau's raiment, and the skins of the kids; goes with the veniſon his mother prepared: Iſaac eats of it, and bleſſeth him, 14——29. Eſau brings the veniſon he had taken, 30, 31. Iſaac is exceedingly ſurpriz'd, but confirms the bleſſing on Jacob, 32, 33. Eſau weeps bitterly, and prays for a bleſſing, 34. Expoſtulates with his father, and obtains one, 35——40. Eſau hates Jacob, 41. Rebekah hears of it, 41, 42. She adviſes Jacob to go to her kindred, 43, 44. Complains of Eſau's wives to Iſaac.

AND it came to paſs, that when Iſaac was old a, and his eyes were dim, ſo that he could not ſee b, he called Eſau his eldeſt ſon, and ſaid unto him, My ſon. And he ſaid unto him, Behold, here am I.

a About one hundred and thirty ſeven years old. b Which was ordered by God's wiſe Providence, not only for the exerciſe of Iſaac's patience, but alſo as a means to transfer Eſau's right to Jacob.

2 And he ſaid, Behold now, I am old, I know not the day of my death.

3 Now therefore, take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver †, and thy bow, and go out to the field, and * take me ſome veniſon,

† Or, As the Chaldee and Hebrew Doctors renders it, thy Sword, a Weapon no leſs neceſſary for an Hunter of Beaſts, than a Bow.

4 And make me ſavoury meat, ſuch as I love, and bring it to me, that I may eat c, that my ſoul may bleſs thee d before I die.

c Queſt. Why doth he require this before he bleſs him? Anſw. 1. That being refreſhed, and delighted therewith, his Spirit might be more chearful, and ſo the fitter for the giving of this Prophetical Benediction; for which reaſon alſo the Prophet Eliſha called for a Minſtrel ere he could utter his Propheſie, 2 Kings 3. 15. 2. By the ſpecial direction of Divine Providence, that Eſau's abſence might give Jacob the advantage of getting the Bleſſing. d He ſpeaks not here of a common and cuſtomary Bleſſing, which Parents may beſtow upon any of their Children, as, and when they pleaſe; but of the laſt, ſolemn, extraordinary and Prophetical Benediction, whereby theſe Holy Patriarchs did by God's appointment, and with his concurrence, conſtitute one of their Sons Heir, not only of their Inheritance, but of Abraham's Covenant, and all the Promiſes, both Temporal and Spiritual, belonging to it. As for the Oracle delivered to Rebekah, which transferred this Bleſſing upon Jacob, chap. 25. 23. either Iſaac knew not of it, not being ſufficiently informed thereof by Rebekah; or he did not throughly underſtand it; or he might apprehend that it was to be accompliſhed not in the perſons of Eſau and Jacob, but in their Poſterity; or at this time it was quite out of his mind, or he was induced to neglect it through his paſſionate affection to his Son Eſau.

5 And Rebekah heard when Iſaac ſpake to Eſau his ſon: and Eſau went to the field to hunt for veniſon, and to bring it.

6 ¶ And Rebekah ſpake unto Jacob her ſon, ſaying, Behold, I heard thy father ſpeak unto Eſau thy brother, ſaying, 7 Bring me veniſon, and make me ſavoury meat, that I may eat, and bleſs thee before the LORD e before my death.

e Solemnly, as in God's preſence, in his Name, and by his Authority, and with his leave and favour, which I ſhall heartily pray for thee. So he ſignifies that this was more than an ordinary Bleſſing which he now intended to give him.

8 Now therefore my ſon, obey my voice, according to that which I command thee.

9 Go now to the flock, and fetch me from thence two good kids of the goats f, and I will make them ſavoury meat g for thy father, ſuch as he loveth;

f It is obſervable, That as Jacob deceived his Father by a Kid, ſo his Sons deceived him by the ſame Creature, Gen. 37. 31, 32, 33. g Out of their moſt tender and delicate parts: Wherewith it was not difficult to deceive Iſaac, partly becauſe of the likeneſs of the Fleſh, eſpecially being altered by convenient Sawce; and partly becauſe the ſame old age which had dimmed Iſaac's Sight, had alſo dulled his other Senſes.

10 And thou ſhalt bring it to thy father that he may eat, and that he may bleſs thee before his death.

11 And Jacob ſaid to Rebekah his mother, Behold, Eſau my brother is an hairy man, and I am a ſmooth man.

12 My father peradventure will feel me, and I ſhall ſeem to him as a deceiver g; and I ſhall bring a curſe upon me h, and not a bleſſing.

g I ſhall appear to him to be indeed a Deceiver, one that abuſeth his Age and Blindneſs. The Particle as ſometimes ſignifies not the likeneſs, but the truth of the thing, John 1. 14. 2 Cor. 3. 18. h Which is due to every one that deceiveth the blind, Deut. 27. 18. eſpecially his Father, and eſpecially in a religious concern, Jer. 48. 10. Mal. 1. 14. ſuch as this was.

13 And his mother ſaid unto him, Upon me be thy curſe i, my ſon; only obey my voice, and go fetch me them.

i She ſaith ſo, out of an aſſured confidence in the Divine Oracle and Promiſe.

14 And he went and fetched, and brought them to his mother: and his mother made ſavoury meat, ſuch as his father loved.

15 And Rebekah took † goodly raiment k of her eldeſt ſon Eſau, which were with her in the houſe, and put them upon Jacob her younger ſon.

k Either his Sacerdotal Garments which the eldeſt Son wore in the adminiſtration of that Office which belonged to him; or rather ſome other Suit better than ordinary.

16 And ſhe put the skins of the kids of the goats upon his hands, and upon the ſmooth of his neck l.

l Upon the two naked parts of his Body, which were moſt likely to be diſcovered. As for his Face, it is more than probable from his Age, which was the ſame with Eſau's, chap. 26. 34. that Nature had given him a covering like Eſau's.

17 And ſhe gave the ſavoury meat, and the bread, which ſhe had prepared, into the hand of her ſon Jacob.

18 ¶ And he came unto his father, and ſaid, My father: and he ſaid, Here am I: who art thou, my ſon?

19 And Jacob ſaid unto his father: I am Eſau thy firſt-born m; I have done according as thou badſt me: ariſe, I pray thee, ſit and eat of my veniſon, that thy ſoul may bleſs me.

m This cannot be excuſed, for it was a manifeſt untruth, and no leſs is all this following Relation, though it pleaſed God graciouſly to pardon it; and notwithſtanding theſe failings, to confer the Bleſſing promiſed upon Jacob.

20 And Iſaac ſaid unto his ſon, How is it that thou haſt found it ſo quickly, my ſon? And he ſaid, Becauſe the LORD thy God brought it † to me.

21 And Iſaac ſaid unto Jacob, Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my ſon, whether thou be my very ſon Eſau, or not.

22 And Jacob went near unto Iſaac his father, and he felt him; and ſaid, The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Eſau.

23 And he diſcerned him not n, becauſe his hands were hairy, as his brother Eſau's hands: So he bleſſed him.

n Becauſe all his Senſes were not only dulled with Age and Infirmity, but alſo held by Divine Providence, as theirs, Luke 24. 16. for the bringing about his own purpoſe: So that it is no wonder he was ſo groſly deceived in the whole buſineſs.

24 And he ſaid, Art thou my very ſon Eſau? and he ſaid, I am.

25 And he ſaid, Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my ſon's veniſon, that my ſoul may bleſs thee. And he brought it near to him, and he did eat: and he brought him wine, and he drank.

26 And his father Iſaac ſaid unto him, Come near now, and kiſs me o, my ſon.

o Which he did, either that he might more fully ſatisfy himſelf concerning the perſon; or rather as a mark of that ſpecial favour and affection wherewith he beſtowed the Bleſſing. Compare Gen. 48. 10.

And he came near, and kiſſed him: and he ſmelled the ſmell of his raiment, and bleſſed him, and ſaid, See, the ſmell of my ſon is as the ſmell of a field, which the LORD hath bleſſed f.

f Which is full of odoriferous Herbs, and Flowers, and Fruits, and Spices, with ſome of which Eſau's Garments might be perfumed in the Cheſt wherein they were laid, as the manner now is. Theſe Garments ſmell not of the Sheep-cotes and Stables, as Jacob's do, but of the Fields in which Eſau is converſant.

28 Therefore, * God give * thee of the dew of heaven g, and the fatneſs of the earth h, and plenty of corn and wine. * Heb. 11. 20.

* Or, will give. For it is both a Prayer and a Propheſie. g He mentions the dew rather than the Rain, becauſe it was of more conſtant uſe and neceſſity in thoſe parts than the Rain, which fell conſiderably but twice in a year, the firſt being called the former, and the other the latter Rain. And under this and the following Bleſſings, which are but Temporal, are comprehended all manner of Bleſſings, both Spiritual, Temporal, and Eternal, according to the uſage of that Time and and State of the Church. h A fat and fruitful Land, which Canaan was, abounding with all ſorts of precious Fruits. Compare Deut. 8. 8. and 32. 13, 14.

29 * Let people ſerve thee, and nations bow down to thee: be Lord over thy brethren, and † let thy mother's ſon bow down to thee i: * Curſed be every one that curſeth thee, and bleſſed be he that bleſſeth thee.

* Chap. 9. 25.
† Chap. 49. 8.
* Chap. 12. 3.

i How, and when this was fulfilled, ſee on Gen. 25. 23.

30 ¶ And it came to paſs as ſoon as Iſaac had made an end of bleſſing Jacob, and Jacob was yet ſcarce gone out from the preſence of Iſaac his father, that Eſau his brother came in from his hunting.

31 And he alſo had made ſavoury meat, and brought it unto his father k; and ſaid unto his father, Let my father ariſe, and eat of his ſon's veniſon, that thy ſoul may bleſs me.

k That Eſau did not come to his Father till the Meat was dreſſed, may be aſcribed partly to his own choice, that he might come with more acceptance; and partly to Rebekah, who could eaſily hinder his coming ſooner by ſpecious Pretences and Artifices.

32 And Iſaac his father ſaid unto him, Who art thou? And he ſaid, I am thy ſon, thy firſt-born Eſau.

33 And Iſaac † trembled very exceedingly l, and ſaid, Who, where is he m that hath * taken veniſon, and brought it me, and I have eaten of all before thou cameſt, and have bleſſed him? yea, and he ſhall be bleſſed n.

l He was filled with aſtoniſhment and horror in conſideration of Jacob's Fraud, and the ſad diſappointment and great miſery of his beloved Eſau, and his own raſhneſs and folly in ſuffering his fond affection towards him to carry him headlong into an oppoſition to the Divine Oracle, Gen. 25. 23. which now came to his remembrance, as appears by his ratification of Jacob's Bleſſing. m A ſhort Speech proceeding from a diſcompoſed mind. n This Bleſſing, tho otherwiſe intended by me, and pronounced upon a miſtake of the perſon, ſhall and muſt reſt upon the head of Jacob; and I neither can, nor dare undertake to revoke and contradict God's appointment, which now I more fully diſcern, and in which both thou and I and all men muſt fully acquieſce. And now Iſaac fixeth the bleſſing upon Jacob by faith, as it is expreſſed, Heb. 11. 20. which before, through miſguided Fancy and Affection, he intended for Eſau.

34 And when Eſau heard the words of his father, * he cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry o, and ſaid unto his father, Bleſs me, even me alſo, O my father p. * Heb. 12. 17.

o Not for any ſenſe of his former ſin, in deſpiſing his Birth-right, but for grief at his great loſs therein, becauſe God would not ſuffer him to be perjur'd in keeping that Birthright-bleſſing which he had ſold and ſworn away. p (i. e.) Thou art my Father no leſs than his, and therefore as a Child, I claim a ſhare in thy Bleſſing.

35 And he ſaid, Thy brother came with ſubtilty, and hath taken away thy bleſſing q.

q Which was thine by the right of Nature, and by cuſtom of Nations, and by my hearty deſire and intention, as well as by thy own expectation and opinion.

36 And he ſaid, * Is not he rightly named † Jacob r? for he hath ſupplanted me theſe two times: * he took away my birth-right s; and behold, now he hath taken away my bleſſing. And he ſaid, Haſt thou not reſerved a bleſſing for me?

* Chap. 25. 26.
† That is a ſupplanter.
* Chap. 25. 33.

r He puts a perverſe Conſtruction upon Jacob's Name, as if it belonged not to him ſo properly, becauſe of the manner of his Birth, as becauſe of his falſeneſs and deceitfulneſs, and his tripping up his Brother's Heels. s A falſe Accuſation; Jacob did not take it deceitfully, but Eſau ſold it profanely.

37 And Iſaac anſwered and ſaid unto Eſau, Behold I have made him thy lord, and all his brethren have I given to him for ſervants; and with corn and wine have I † ſuſtained him: and what ſhall I do now unto thee t, my ſon?

t The bleſſing of Abraham is not at my diſpoſal, but God's, who hath manifeſted his Mind and Will by my Error; it cannot be divided into ſeveral hands, nor imparted to one, who, tho my Son, yet hath made himſelf unworthy of it.

* Heb. 12. 17.

38 And Eſau ſaid unto his father, Haſt thou but one bleſſing, my father u? Bleſs me, even me alſo, O my father. And Eſau lift up his voice, * and wept.

u By which words Eſau manifeſts his profane and worldly Mind, that he eſteemed this Bleſſing but as one among many others equal to it, and did not apprehend the true and peculiar excellency and abſolute neceſſity of it, and that it was impoſſible for him or his Poſterity to be happy without an intereſt in this covenant, and continuance in that Church to which it was appropriated.

* Ver. 28. Heb. 11. 20.

39 And Iſaac his father anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Behold, * thy dwelling ſhall be † the fatneſs of the earth, and of the dew of heaven from above x.

x In a Country competently fruitful and refreſhed with convenient Dews and Showers. Obj. Thus Eſau ſeems to have the ſame Bleſſing which was before given to Jacob. Anſ. 1. Tho it may ſeem to be the ſame as to the fertility of the Soil, in which divers other parts of the World did and do equal the Land of Canaan; yet there is an obſervable difference in the manner of Iſaac's Expreſſion. When he ſpeaks of Eſau, he only ſaith, Thy dwelling ſhall be the fatneſs, &c. But when he ſpeaks to Jacob, he ſaith, God give thee, or ſhall give thee of the fatneſs, &c. which words being, as it may ſeem, purpoſely omitted concerning Eſau, and ſo emphatically expreſſed concerning Jacob, ſeem to intimate, eſpecially if compared with many other Scriptures where that Phraſe is applied to good Men, that Eſau's fat Soil was rather taken by himſelf, than given by God; or if given by God to him, it was only by his general Providence by which he giveth food to all Creatures; whereas Jacob's fat and fruitful Soil was derived to him and his by God's ſpecial gift, as a token of his ſingular kindneſs, and pledge of greater Bleſſings. 2. This is but one branch of the Bleſſing; the other part which concerns Dignity and Superiority, is expreſly given to Jacob, verſe 29. and denied to Eſau, verſe 40.

* 2 Sam. 8. 14.

† Or, have mourned, or, been dejected, Pſal. 55. 2.

40 And by thy ſword ſhalt thou live y, and ſhalt ſerve thy brother: and * it ſhall come to paſs when thou ſhalt † have the dominion z, that thou ſhalt break his yoke from off thy neck.

y By Violence and Rapine, in an unquiet and military Poſture, troubling others, and forced to defend thy ſelf. But this, as alſo the following Clauſe, tho ſpoken to Eſau, was not fulfilled in him, but in his Poſterity the Edomites, whoſe Hiſtory makes good this Prophecy. Thus things ſpoken and promiſed to Abraham were fulfilled in his Poſterity, as Gen 12. 3. and 22. 18. z When thou ſhalt grow potent. Some render the words thus, When thou ſhalt have mourned or groaned, as the ſame word is uſed, Pſalm 55. 2. When thou haſt oppreſſed as long as I think fit.

* Obad. 10.

41 ¶ And Eſau hated Jacob b, becauſe of the bleſſing wherewith his father bleſſed him: and Eſau ſaid in his heart c, The days of mourning for my father are at hand, * then will I ſlay my brother Jacob.

b And this hatred was hereditary, extending to their Poſterity alſo. See Ezek. 35. 5. Amos 1. 11. Obad. v. 10. c Within himſelf. Although he could not contain it there, but declared his intentions to ſome of his Confidents, by which means it came to Rebekah's ear.

42 And theſe words of Eſau her elder ſon were told to Rebekah: and ſhe ſent and called her younger ſon, and ſaid unto him, Behold, thy brother Eſau, as touching thee, doth comfort himſelf, purpoſing to kill thee.

43 Now therefore, my ſon, obey my voice: and ariſe, flee thou to Laban my brother to Haran.

* Chap. 29. 20.

44 And tarry with him * a few days d, until thy brothers fury turn away;

d So ſhe expected and intended, but was greatly diſappointed, for he tarried there twenty years.

† Or, even.

45 Until thy brothers anger turn away from thee, and he forget that which thou haſt done to him: then I will ſend, and fetch thee from thence. Why ſhould I be deprived † alſo of you both in one day e?

e Of thee by Eſau's bloody Hands; and of Eſau, who was likely to ſuffer Death for his Murther, either by the Authority of the Magiſtrate, as God commanded, Gen. 9. 6. or by the hand of God, who oft-times ſupplies the Magiſtrates defects in that particular, and in ſome extraordinary manner executes this Vengeance. See Gen. 4. 11, 16. Acts 28. 4.

* Chap. 26. 35.

46 And Rebekah ſaid to Iſaac, * I am weary of my life, becauſe of the daughters of Heth †: if Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Heth, ſuch as theſe which are of the daughters of the land, what good ſhall my life do me f?

† Eſau's Wives, who were Hittites, Gen. 26. 34. f Therefore let us, after the Example of Abraham, ſend him to fetch a Wiſe from his own Kindred. This indeed was one reaſon, but the other ſhe conceals from Iſaac; thus prudently alledging ſeveral reaſons, one to Jacob, and another, as it is probable, to Eſau, and each moſt ſutable to the Perſon to whom ſhe ſpeaks.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Iſaac calls Jacob; charges him not to marry a Canaanite, but one of his kindred in Padan-Aram, 1, 2. Confirms the bleſſing to him, 3, 4. Jacob obeys his father, and goes to Laban, 5. Eſau perceiving this, marries one of his kindred, but of Iſhmael's family, 6——10. Jacob journeys towards Haran; in his way takes of the ſtones of the place for pillows, 11. In a dream ſees a ladder reaching from earth to heaven, angels aſcending and deſcending on it, 12. The Lord ſtanding above it, renews his covenant concerning Canaan, and the promiſed ſeed, &c. 13——15. Jacob awakened, acknowledges God's preſence there, and is afraid, 16, 17. Sets up the ſtones for a pillar, pours oyl on it, 18. Names the place Beth-el, 19. Makes a vow to be the Lord's, if God will return him in Peace, 20——22.

* Chap. 24. 3.

a Confirm'd his former bleſſing, being now thoroughly ſenſible both of God's purpoſe, and of his own Duty, wiſhing him alſo a proſperous and ſucceſsful Journey; as the word is uſed, Joſ. 22. 7.

5 And Iſaac ſent away Jacob, and he went to Padan-Aram unto Laban, ſon of Bethuel the Syrian b, the brother of Rebekah, Jacobs and Eſaus mother.

b Obj. He was no Syrian, but a Meſopotamian. Anſ. Syria is ſometimes largely taken, and ſo it comprehends Meſopotamia, or Chaldea, yea, and Aſſyria, as appears from Iſaiah 36. 11. Dan. 2. 4.

6 ¶ When Eſau ſaw that Iſaac had bleſſed Jacob, and ſent him away to Padan-Aram, to take him a wife from thence; and that as he bleſſed him, he gave him a charge, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan;

7 And that Jacob obeyed his father, and his mother, and was gone to Padan-Aram;

† Heb. were evil in the eyes, &c.

8 And Eſau ſeeing that the daughters of Canaan † pleaſed not Iſaac his father:

9 Then went Eſau unto Iſhmael c, and took unto the wives which he had, Mahalath d the daughter of Iſhmael Abrahams ſon, the ſiſter of Nebajoth e, to be his wife.

c Either to his Perſon; or rather to his Family, called Iſhmael by their Father's Name, as David is ſometimes put for David's Poſterity; for Iſhmael ſeems to have been dead before this, from Gen. 25. 17. tho that may poſſibly be a Prolepſis, and then this may be Iſhmael himſelf. d Called alſo Baſhemath, Gen. 36. 3. He thought by this means to ingratiate himſelf with his Father, and ſo to get another and a better Bleſſing; but he takes no care to reconcile himſelf to God, nor obſerves his hand in the buſineſs. Beſides, he mends one fault by committing another, and taking a third Wiſe when he had one too many before, and her too he unwiſely fetcheth out of that Stock which was begotten to Bondage, and was utterly uncapable of the Inheritance. e Iſhmael's eldeſt Son, Gen. 25. 13. who alone is here mentioned, either in the name of all the reſt, whoſe Siſter ſhe is by conſequence ſuppoſed to be; or becauſe peradventure ſhe and Nebajoth were Iſhmael's Children by the ſame Mother, and the reſt by another.

* Hoſ. 12. 12.
* Called Acts 7. 2, Charran.

10 ¶ And Jacob went f * out from Beerſheba, and went toward * Haran.

f It is not ſtrange that Jacob went alone, as it appears that he did from Gen. 32. 10. when his Grandfather's Servant was attended with a great Retinue, Gen. 24. becauſe Attendance was then neceſſary to procure him Reputation, and to obtain the Conſent of the Virgin and her Parents to ſo long a Journey; but here as it was unneceſſary, ſo it would have been troubleſome and prejudicial, expoſing him both to the Envy and Snares of his Brother Eſau, which by this private Departure he did avoid. Beſides, God in his wiſe Providence did ſo order this, and ſome other matters of the like nature, for the greater Illuſtration of his care and kindneſs towards his Children. Add to this the great Simplicity, Humility, and Innocency of thoſe times, if compared with ours, which made many things then uſual, which now would be ridiculous.

11 And he lighted upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, becauſe the ſun was ſet: and he took of the ſtones of that place, and put them for his pillows, and lay down in that place to ſleep.

12 And he dreamed, and behold a ladder ſet upon the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven: and
* Heb. 1. 14. behold, * the angels of God aſcending and deſcending on it g.

g This Ladder may be conſidered, either 1. Literally, and ſo it repreſented to Jacob the Providence of God, who, though he dwell in Heaven, extends his Care and Government to the Earth, and particularly makes uſe of the Angels as Miniſtring Spirits for the good of his People. And theſe Angels do not appear idle, or ſtanding ſtill, but always in motion, either aſcending to God to receive his Commands, or deſcending to Earth for the Execution of them. Which was a moſt ſeaſonable Viſion for Jacob in his ſad and ſorrowful Condition, that he might ſee that though he was forſaken and perſecuted by Men, and forced to flee away ſecretly for fear of his life, yet he neither was, nor ſhould be neglected, or forſaken by God in this whole Journey. Or 2. Myſtically, and ſo it repreſents Chriſt, by whom Heaven and Earth are united, who is called the way to Heaven, which this Ladder was, who, as the head of Angels, is perpetually ſending them forth either to God, or from God to miniſter to the Heirs of Salvation, Heb. 1. 14. And this explication, or accommodation of this Viſion, is warranted by our Saviour himſelf, John 1. 51.

15 And behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goeſt, and will bring thee again into this land: for I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have ſpoken to thee of i.

i Nor ever after; for ſo the word until is frequently uſed, as 2 Sam. 6. 23. Matth. 1. 25. not ſo as to exclude the time following, but ſo as to include all the foregoing time, wherein the thing ſpoken of might be moſt ſuſpected or feared; as here the worſt and moſt dangerous ſtate in which Jacob was, or was like to be, was this time of his Baniſhment from his Countrey and Kindred, againſt which he is therefore particularly armed, and comforted in theſe words.

16 And Jacob awaked out of his ſleep, and he ſaid, Surely the LORD is in this place k; and I knew it not l.

Compare Gen 14. 22. Eccleſ. 5. 4. t He ſpeaks not thus as if he doubted of the truth of God's Promiſes, or would like a mercenary Perſon make a bargain with God, but rather ſuppoſeth that God will do this for him, as he had in effect promiſed, verſe 15. and thereupon obligeth himſelf to a grateful return to God for this Mercy, If God will be with me, &c. as he hath juſt now aſſured me he will; or, Seeing God will be with me &c. for the Hebrew im doth not always imply a doubt, but rather a ſuppoſition, and is oft rendered ſeeing that, as Exod. 20. 25. Numb. 36. 4. 1 Sam. 15. 17. Amos 7. 2. And ſo the Greek Particle anſwering to the Hebrew im is uſed Matth. 6. 22. Luke 11. 34. u Food convenient, as it is called, Prov. 30. 8. which is oft ſignified by the name of Bread. CHAP. XXIX.

Jacob comes to the well of Haran, 1—3. Enquires of the ſhepherds concerning Laban, 4—8. They ſhow him Rachel Laban's daughter coming with the ſheep, 9. Jacob goeth near to her; waters the flock, 10. Tells her who he was, 11. She tells it her father, who brings him to his houſe, hears what had hapned to him, 12—14. They bargain that Jacob ſhould ſerve ſeven years for Rachel, 15—19. He performs his ſervice, and deſires her to be given him, 21. Laban makes a feaſt, and invites all the men of the place, 22. And puts Leah, his eldeſt daughter, in the room of Rachel, 23—26. Jacob obtains Rachel, promiſing other ſeven years ſervice, 27—30. Rachel is beloved and barren; Leah hated and bears Ruben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, 32—35.

THen Jacob † went a on his journey, and came † Heb. up his fe

a Heb. Lift up his Feet; which may note either the geſture of his Body, that he went on foot; or the temper of his Mind, that he went not ſadly and unwillingly, drawing his Legs after him, as we uſe to ſay, but readily and chearfully, being encouraged by God's Word. b Which lay Eaſtward from Canaan, as Meſopotamia did.

2 And he looked, and behold a well in the field, and lo there were three flocks of ſheep lying by it; for out of that well they watered c the flocks: and a great ſtone was upon the wells mouth d.

c The People belonging to that place watered; or, the flocks were watered: It is an imperſonal Speech. d To preſerve the water which was ſcarce in thoſe parts, and to keep it pure.

3 And thither were all the flocks gathered: and they rolled the ſtone from the wells mouth, and watered the ſheep, and put the ſtone again upon the wells mouth in his place.

4 And Jacob ſaid unto them, My brethren e, whence be ye? And they ſaid, Of Haran are we.

e So he calls them partly in token of reſpect and affection; and partly becauſe they were of the ſame nature and employment with himſelf.

5 And he ſaid unto them, Know ye Laban the ſon of Nahor? And they ſaid, We know him.

6 And he ſaid unto them, † Is he well? And they † Heb. there pea

f According to the manner of thoſe times, Exod. 2. 16. Cant. 1. 7, 8. when Humility, Innocency, Simplicity, and Induſtry were in faſhion, both among Men and Women of great quality. There are ſome that quarrel with the Scripture, and queſtion the truth of ſuch relations, becauſe they judge of the ſtate of ancient Times and Things, by the preſent age, whereby they diſcover great folly and deep ignorance of the ſtate of former ages.

g That they ſhould be taken from their paſture, and brought to be watered.

8 And they ſaid, We cannot h, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the ſtone from the wells mouth; then we water the ſheep.

11 And Jacob kiſſed Rachel l, and lifted up his voice, and wept m.

l As the cuſtom of Friends then was both at their firſt meeting, as verſe 13. and Gen. 33. 4. Exod. 4. 27. and 18. 7. and at their departure, as Ruth 1. 14. 1 Sam. 20. 41. 1 Kings 19. 20. m Tears of joy; like thoſe Gen. 33. 4. at the gracious Providence of God to him, which had brought him ſafe to his deſired place, and ſo happily and ſtrangely conducted him to that Perſon and Family, which was ſo deſirable and dear to him.

12 And Jacob told Rachel that he was her fathers brother *, and that he was Rebekahs ſon: and ſhe ran and told her father.

15 ¶ And Laban ſaid unto Jacob, Becauſe thou art my brother, Shouldeſt thou therefore ſerve me for nought? Tell me, What ſhall thy wages be?

16 And Laban had two daughters, the name of the elder was Leah, and the name of the younger was Rachel.

17 Leah was tender eyed †: but Rachel was beautiful and well-favoured.

† Her eyes were ſoft and moiſt, and therefore unſightly.

18 And Jacob loved Rachel; and ſaid, I will ſerve thee ſeven years for Rachel thy younger daughter p.

19 And Laban ſaid, It is better that I give her to thee, then that I ſhould give her to another man q: abide with me.

q An ambiguous and crafty anſwer, wherein he doth not directly grant his deſire, but only inſinuates it in ſuch terms as might hide his deſign, which the event ſhewed.

* Hoſ. 12. 12.

20 And Jacob * ſerved ſeven years for Rachel: and they ſeemed unto him but a few days r, for the love he had to her.

r He ſpeaks not of the time, which in ſuch caſes ſeems long, Prov. 13. 12. but of the ſervice of that time which ſeemed but little and far below the worth of Rachel.

21 ¶ And Jacob ſaid unto Laban, Give me my wife s (for my days are fulfilled t) that I may go in unto her.

s So ſhe was by Promiſe and Contract; perſons Betrothed, or Eſpouſed, being oft called Wives in Scripture, as Matth. 1. 18, 19. Luke 2. 5. t The ſeven years of ſervice agreed upon, ver. 18.

22 And Laban gathered together all the men of the place u, and made a feaſt.

u Kindred and Neighbours, according to the cuſtom. See Judg. 14. 10, 11. John 2. 1, 2, &c. He gathered a great number together, both that the Marriage might be more Solemn and Publick, and that Jacob might be overawed by their Preſence and Authority, and not dare to diſannul the Marriage, and reject Leah afterwards, which otherwiſe he might have done.

23 And it came to paſs in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter, and brought her to him: and he went in unto her x.

x The occaſion of the deceit was the cuſtom of thoſe times, which was to bring the Bride to her Husband in the dark, and with a Veil upon her Face. See Gen. 24. 65. And Leah being inſtructed by her Father, and confederate with him in the deceit, was, doubtleſs, careful not to diſcover her ſelf by ſpeech, or any other way to him.

24 And Laban gave unto his daughter Leah, Zilpah his maid, for an handmaid.

25 And it came to paſs, that in the morning, behold it was Leah: and he ſaid to Laban, What is this thou haſt done unto me? Did not I ſerve with thee for Rachel? Wherefore then haſt thou beguiled me y?

y Though Laban could not ſolidly anſwer the queſtion, yet Jacob could do it, and had juſt cauſe to reflect upon his own former action of beguiling his Father; for which God had now puniſhed him in the ſame kind.

26 And Laban ſaid, It muſt not be ſo done in our † countrey z, to give the younger before the firſtborn.

z This ſeems to be a falſe pretence; but if it had been true, cuſtom is to give place to juſtice, by which he was obliged to perform his contract with him.

27 Fulfil her week a, and we will give thee this alſo, for the ſervice which thou ſhalt ſerve with me yet ſeven other years.

a The ſeven days uſually devoted to the Feaſt and Solemnity of Marriage, as Judges 14. 12, 15, 17. And this he deſired, that a weeks Co-habitation with Leah, might either knit his Affections to her, or at leaſt confirm the Contract and Marriage with her.

28 And Jacob did ſo, and fulfilled her week: and he gave him Rachel his daughter to wife alſo b.

b It was not ſo ſtrange that Laban ſhould give, as that Jacob ſhould take, not only two Wives, but two Siſters to wife, which ſeems to be againſt the Law of Nature, and was expreſly forbidden by God afterward, Levit. 18. 18. Though it be alſo true that God might diſpence with his own Inſtitution, or permit ſuch things in the Patriarchs upon ſpecial Reaſons, which are not to be drawn into Example.

29 And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter Bilhah, his handmaid, to be her maid.

30 And he went in alſo unto Rachel, and he loved alſo Rachel more than Leah, and ſerved with him yet ſeven other years.

31 ¶ And when the LORD ſaw that Leah was hated c, he opened her womb: but Rachel was barren d.

c Comparatively to Rachel, leſs loved, ſlighted. So that word is oft uſed, as Deut. 21. 15. Matth. 6. 24. and 10. 37. compared with Luke 14. 26. John 12. 25. d Thus variouſly doth God diſtribute his Favours, that all may be contented, and none deſpiſed.

32 And Leah conceived and bare a ſon, and ſhe called his name † Reuben: for ſhe ſaid, Surely the LORD hath looked upon my affliction e; now therefore my husband will love me.

e With an eye of pity and kindneſs; as that general phraſe is oft underſtood.

33 And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon; and ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hath heard f that I was hated, he hath therefore given me this ſon alſo: and ſhe called his name † Simeon.

f (i. e.) Perceived or underſtood; hearing being oft put for underſtanding.

34 And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon; and ſaid, Now this time will my husband be joyned unto me g, becauſe I have born him three ſons: therefore was his name called † Levi.

g In more ſincere and fervent Affection.

35 And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon; and ſhe ſaid, Now will I praiſe the LORD c: therefore ſhe called his name * † Judah, and † left bearing.

* Matth. 1. 2.
† Heb ſtood from bearing.

c More ſolemnly and continually; for otherwiſe ſhe did praiſe and acknowledge God for the former Mercies.

CHAP. XXX.

Rachel being barren, envies her ſiſter, impatiently deſires children of Jacob, 1. He is angry, and reproves her, 2. She gives him her handmaid Bilhah, who bears him Dan and Napthali, 3———8. Leah ceaſing to bear, gives Zilpah her maid to Jacob, 9. She bears him Gad and Aſher, 10———13. Reuben Leah's ſon finds mandrakes and brings them to his mother; Rachel deſires them; they bargain, 14, 15. Jacob goes in to Leah, who conceives again and bears Iſſachar, Zebulon, and Dinah, 16———21. God remembers Rachel; ſhe conceives and bears Joſeph, 22———24. Jacob deſires to return into his own countrey with his wives and children, 25, 26. Laban denies his conſent; having learnt by experience that God had bleſſed him for Jacob's ſake, 27. They make a new contract, 28———36. Jacob's device, and the ſucceſs of it, 37———43.

AND when Rachel ſaw that ſhe bare Jacob no children, Rachel envied her ſiſter; and ſaid unto Jacob, Give me children, or elſe I die a.

a A Speech full of Impatience, and bordering upon Blaſphemy, and ſtriking at God himſelf through Jacob's ſides. For which therefore ſhe afterwards ſmarted, dying by that very means whereby ſhe hoped to prevent her Death, and prolong her Life, Geneſis 35. 18.

2 And Jacobs anger was kindled againſt Rachel b; and he ſaid, Am I in God's ſtead c? who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb?

b For the injury done to himſelf, and eſpecially for the Sin againſt God, in which caſe anger is not only lawful, but neceſſary. c It is God's Prerogative to give Children. See Gen. 16. 2. 1 Sam. 2. 5, 6. Pſal. 113. 9. and 127. 3.

3 And ſhe ſaid, Behold my maid Bilhah, go in unto her; and ſhe ſhall bear upon my knees d, that I may alſo † have children by her e.

d An Ellipſis or ſhort Speech, ſhe ſhall bare a Child which may be laid upon my knees, or in my lap, which I may adopt and bring up as if it were my own. See Gen. 50. 23. Iſa. 66. 12. e For as Servants, ſo their Work and Fruit were not their own, but their Maſters.

4 And ſhe gave him Bilhah her handmaid to wife: and Jacob went in unto her.

5 And Bilhah conceived, and bare Jacob a ſon.

6 And Rachel ſaid, God hath judged me *, and hath alſo heard my voice, and hath given me a ſon: therefore called ſhe his name † Dan.

† That is, judging.

* Pleaded my Cauſe, or given Sentence for me; as this Phraſe is oft taken.

7 And Bilhah Rachels maid conceived again, and bare Jacob a ſecond ſon.

8 And Rachel ſaid, With † great wreſtlings [f] have I wreſtled with my ſiſter, and I have prevailed [g]: and ſhe called his name † * Naphtali.

† That is, my wreſtling.
* Called Matth. 4. 13. Nephthalim.

[f] Heb. With wreſtlings of God, either with great and hard Wreſtlings or Strivings; or by wreſtling with God in fervent Prayer, and by God's Grace and Strength. [g] Which was not true; for her Siſter exceeded her both in the number of her Children, and in her propriety in them, being the fruit of her own Womb, not of her Handmaids, as Rachel's were. Here is an inſtance how partial Judges moſt Perſons are in their own cauſes and concernments.

9 When Leah ſaw that ſhe had left bearing, ſhe took Zilpah her maid, and gave her Jacob to wife.

10 And Zilpah Leahs made bare Jacob a ſon.

11 And Leah ſaid, A troop cometh [h]: And ſhe called his name † Gad.

[h] Or, Good luck cometh; my deſign hath well ſucceeded; an happy Star hath ſhone upon me; and ſuch a Star in the Opinion of Aſtrologers is that of Jupiter, which by the Arabians is called Gad. This may well agree to Leah and her Heatheniſh Education, and the Manners of the Chaldeans, who were much given to the Study of the Stars.

12 And Zilpah Leahs maid bare Jacob a ſecond ſon.

13 And Leah ſaid, † Happy am I, for the daughters † will call me bleſſed: and ſhe called his name † Aſher.

† Of Men, i. e. Women, as Prov. 31. 29. Cant. 6. 9.

14 ¶ And Reuben went in the days of wheat harveſt, and found Mandrakes [i] in the field, and brought them unto his mother Leah. Then Rachel ſaid to Leah, Give me, I pray thee, of thy ſons Mandrakes [k].

[i] The word is only found here, and Cant. 7. 13. whence it appears, that it is a Plant or Fruit of pleaſant Smell, ſuch as the Mandrake is ſaid to be by Dioſcorides and Levinus Lemnius, and by St. Auſtin upon his own experience. If it be ſaid, this was too early for Mandrakes to be ripe, it being now but Wheat-harveſt; it may be replied, that Fruits ripen much ſooner in thoſe hot Countries, than elſewhere, and that they are not here ſaid to be ripe, but only to be gathered. [k] Which ſhe might deſire, either becauſe they were pleaſant to the Eye or Taſte, or becauſe they were thought helpful to Conception.

15 And ſhe ſaid unto her, Is it a ſmall matter that thou haſt taken my husband? and wouldſt thou take away my ſons mandrakes alſo? And Rachel ſaid, Therefore he ſhall lie with thee to night [l], for thy ſons Mandrakes.

[l] Jacob either did equally divide the times between his two Wives; or rather had more eſtranged himſelf from Leah, and cohabited principally with Rachel, which occaſioned the foregoing Expoſtulation.

16 And Jacob came out of the field in the evening, and Leah went out to meet him, and ſaid, Thou muſt come in unto me, for ſurely I have hired thee with my ſons Mandrakes. And he lay with her that night [m].

[m] He ratified their agreement, that he might preſerve Peace and Love amongſt them.

17 And God hearkned unto Leah [n], and ſhe conceived, and bare Jacob the fifth ſon.

[n] Notwithſtanding her many Infirmities. Hence it appears, that ſhe was moved herein not by any inordinate Luſt, but by a deſire of Children.

18 And Leah ſaid, God hath given me mine hire, becauſe I have given my maiden to my husband [o]: and ſhe called his name † Iſſachar.

[o] Thus ſhe miſtakes the Anſwer of her Prayers for a recompence of her Error.

19 And Leah conceived again, and bare Jacob the ſixth ſon.

20 And Leah ſaid, God hath endued me with a good dowry; now will my husband dwell with me, becauſe I have born him ſix ſons: and ſhe called his name † * Zebulun.

* Called Matth. 4. 13. Zabulon.

21 And afterwards ſhe bare a daughter, and called her name † Dinah.

22 ¶ And God remembred Rachel, and God hearkned to her, and opened her womb.

23 And ſhe conceived and bare a ſon, and ſaid, God hath taken away my reproach [p].

[p] Barrenneſs was then accounted a great Reproach, eſpecially in that Race, becauſe it was a kind of Curſe, whereby ſuch Perſons were excluded both from the firſt and general bleſſing of Fructification given to all Mankind, Gen. 1. 28. and from the ſpecial Bleſſing given to Abraham for the multiplication of his Seed; and from all hopes of being the Progenitors of the bleſſed Meſſias.

24 And ſhe called his name † Joſeph; and ſaid, The LORD ſhall add to me another ſon.

† That is, adding.

25 And it came to paſs, when Rachel had born Joſeph, that Jacob ſaid unto Laban, Send me away, that I may go unto mine own place, and to my country [q].

[q] Canaan, which he calleth his Country, in regard both of his former and long Habitation in it, and of the right which he had to it by God's promiſe. See 28. 13.

26 Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have ſerved thee, and let me go: for thou knoweſt my ſervice which I have done thee.

27 And Laban ſaid unto him, I pray thee, if I have * found favour in thine eyes, tarry: for I have learned by experience, that the LORD hath bleſſed me for thy ſake.

* Chap. 39 21.

28 And he ſaid, Appoint me thy wages, and I will give it.

29 And he ſaid unto him, Thou knoweſt how I have ſerved thee, and how thy cattel was with me [r].

[r] How carefully it was managed, and how greatly improved by my care and induſtry.

30 For it was little which thou hadſt before I came [s], and it is now † increaſed unto a multitude; and the LORD hath bleſſed thee † ſince my coming [t]: and now when ſhall I provide for mine own houſe alſo [u]?

[s] Comparatively to what now it is. [t] Heb. At my foot, i. e. upon my coming; ſince my Feet entred into thy Houſe: Or, by my foot, i. e. by my Miniſtry and Labour, as this Phraſe is uſed, Deut. 11. 10. [u] According to my Duty, which alſo is thy Intereſt.

31 And he ſaid, What ſhall I give thee? And Jacob ſaid, Thou ſhalt not give me any thing; If thou wilt do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep thy flock.

32 I will paſs through all thy flock this day, removing from thence all the ſpeckled and ſpotted cattle [x], and all the brown [y] cattle among the ſheep, and the ſpotted and ſpeckled among the goats: and of ſuch ſhall be my hire [z].

[x] Which may ſeem to be thus diſtinguiſhed; ſpeckled with little Spots, and ſpotted with greater Spots or Stains, both of divers colours from the reſt of the Body. Or, the ſpeckled may be the ſame with the Ring-ſtreaked, by comparing this with verſe 35. [y] Or Black, or Dark-coloured, for the Hebrew word ſignifies alſo great heat which produceth ſuch a Colour. [z] Or, then ſhall be my hire; and for then, as is frequent in Scripture. The ſenſe is, Then, when the ſpeckled, and ſpotted, and brown are ſeparated, and none but white remaining, my hire ſhall be out of thoſe white ones, and that in ſuch manner as is expreſſed in the following Verſe, all the white young ones ſhall be thine, and the ſpeckled, and ſpotted, and brown, which ſhall be brought forth by thoſe white ones, ſhall be mine.

33 So ſhall my righteouſneſs anſwer for me [a] † in time to come, when it ſhall come for my hire before thy face [b]: every one that is not ſpeckled and ſpotted amongſt the goats, and brown amongſt the ſheep, that ſhall be accounted ſtollen with me.

[a] When the Cattle ſhall, contrary to their natural and uſual courſe, bring forth young ones of a contrary Colour to their own, it will hereby be evident that this is the work of God, who hereby pleads my righteous Cauſe againſt a cruel and unjuſt Maſter. Or thus, When thou ſhall accuſe me of doing thee Injury, I ſhall have this manifeſt and undeniable evidence of my Righteouſneſs or Innocency, that I have no Cattle but of that Colour which is by agreement appropriated to me. [b] When it, i. e. my Righteouſneſs, ſhall come to, or upon my reward, i. e. when my Righteouſneſs ſhall appear in the very colour of that Cattle which is allotted to me for my Reward or Hire; before thy Face, i. e. thou being preſent and diligently obſerving whether I have any Cattle of another colour. But the Hebrew word Tabo is alſo of the ſecond Perſon, and ſo the ſenſe ſeems to be this, When thou ſhalt come upon my Hire or Reward, to wit, to obſerve and ſee whether I have any other Cattle than what belongs to me. And ſo theſe words come in by way of Parentheſis; and the following words, before my Face, are to be joyned to the former words, thus, ſo ſhall my Righteouſneſs anſwer for me in time to come (when thou ſhalt come upon my Hire) before thy Face. This I prefer before the other, becauſe the Phraſe of coming upon his Hire ſeems more properly to agree to a Perſon, than to his Righteouſneſs.

34 And Laban ſaid, Behold, I would it might be according to thy word [c].

[c] Laban truſted to the Courſe of Nature, whereby Cattle uſually bring forth their Young of their own Colour; and Jacob relied upon the Providence of an Almighty God, and his Gracious Father.

ſome e white in it, and all the brown amongſt the ſheep, and gave them into the hands of his ſons.

d Which had lines or ſtrakes like Bands about them of divers Colours from the reſt of their Body. e This word is oft underſtood in other Texts of Scripture, and here it is ſo neceſſarily; as appears both from the thing it ſelf, as it is related, and from the Phraſe; for he ſaith not that was white, but that had white in it, to wit, mixed with other Colours.

36 And he ſet three days journey f betwixt himſelf and Jacob g: and Jacob fed the reſt of Labans flocks.

f Underſtand it of the journying or travelling of Sheep, not of Men. g Leſt either Jacob ſhould mingle and exchange the Sheep, or the Sheep by the Contemplation of the diverſe coloured ones ſhould bring forth others like to them.

37 ¶ And Jacob took him rods h of green poplar, and of the haſel, and cheſnut-tree i; and pilled white ſtrakes in them, and made the white appear † which was in the rods.

h By Divine appointment, as will appear in the Sequel, which is ſufficient for Jacob's Juſtification. i Either becauſe theſe Trees were next at hand; or becauſe he ſaw theſe in the Divine Viſion afterwards mentioned, and would exactly follow his Pattern. † By pilling off the Rind which covered it.

38 And he ſet the rods which he had pilled before the flocks in the gutters in the watering troughs when the flocks came to drink, that they ſhould conceive when they came to drink k.

k When by their refreſhment and meeting together, they were moſt likely to generate and conceive.

39 And the flocks conceived l before the rods, and brought forth cattle ring-ſtraked, ſpeckled, and ſpotted m.

l Heb. Were heated, i. e. inflamed or excited and diſpoſed to conceive, and this in a more than ordinary manner by the Divine Diſpoſal. m This hath ſome foundation in Nature, becauſe of the great power of imagination; and there are divers inſtances in many Authors, both of Women and of Beaſts, who either by the ſtrong Fancying, or by the actual and frequent Contemplation of ſome certain Objects, have brought forth young ones exactly of the ſame Colour and Complexion, as one did an Ethiopian, &c. But the Providence of God was the principal Cauſe of this Effect, without which the Productions of that kind would neither have been ſo many, nor ſo certain. This Policy of Jacob's could ſcarcely be excuſed from Deceit and Injuſtice, if it were not manifeſt that it was done by the Direction and Authority of the Sovereign Lord of all Eſtates, Gen. 31. 9, 11, &c. who may take them from one, and give them to another, as it pleaſeth him; who alſo obſerved Laban's Injuſtice, and gave to Jacob no more than he abundantly deſerved from Laban.

40 And Jacob did ſeparate the lambs n, and ſet the faces of the flocks towards the ring-ſtraked, and all the brown in the o flock of Laban: and he put his own flocks by themſelves; and put them not unto Labans cattle p.

n Such as were ring-ſtraked and brown, from the white, as it here follows. o He cauſed them to go foremoſt, and the white to follow them, that by the continued beholding of them in the time of their conjunction, they might have their colour more imprinted upon their fancies, and thereby convey it to their young ones. p Which he did upon the ſame reaſon, leſt the conſtant beholding of them ſhould make them bring forth the like, i. e. ſingle coloured ones.

41 And it came to paſs, whenſoever the ſtronger cattle did conceive q, that Jacob laid the rods before the eyes of the cattle in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods.

q It is known that the Cattle in thoſe parts did conceive and bring forth twice in a year, at Spring and in Autumn; and it is ſuppoſed that the ſtronger here mentioned, are ſuch as joyned in the Spring, and the feeble they that joyned in Autumn.

42 But when the cattle were feeble, he put them not in: ſo the feebler were Labans, and the ſtronger Jacobs.

43 And the man increaſed exceedingly, and had much cattle, and maid-ſervants, and men-ſervants, and camels, and aſſes.

CHAP. XXXI.

Jacob obſerving Laban's envy, on God's command and promiſe, with the conſent of his wives, departs ſecretly, 1——21. Laban purſues him; God in a dream warns him not to treat Jacob ill; he overtakes him on Mount Gilead; taxes him ſharply for his ſecret departure, and with ſtealing his gods, 23—30 Jacob excuſes his departure, 31. Denies the taking either gods, or ought elſe that was Labans, 32. Laban ſearches, but finds not, 33—35. Jacob is wroth, and rebukes him vehemently for all he had ſuffered from him, 36—40. He owns God as his defence in the day of his affliction, 41, 42. They make a covenant, in which Laban obliges Jacob not to hurt his daughters, nor take other wives to them, 44———52. Jacob ſwears by the fear of Iſaac, and offers ſacrifice, 53, 54. Laban returns to his place 55.

AND he heard the words of Labans ſons, ſaying, Jacob hath taken away all that was our fathers; and of that which was our fathers hath he gotten all this glory a.

a Theſe riches, which are called glory, Gen. 45. 13. Pſal. 49. 16. Iſa. 66. 12. compared with Iſa. 60. 6. becauſe their poſſeſſours uſe to glory in them, and by them gain glory and eſteem from others.

2 And Jacob beheld the countenance of Laban, and behold, it was not towards him † as before b. † Heb. as yeſterday, and the day before.

b And this change of his Countenance argued a change in his Mind, and preſaged ſome evil intentions in him towards Jacob.

3 And the LORD ſaid unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred; and I will be with thee.

4 And Jacob ſent and called Rachel and Leah c to the field d unto his flocks;

c Rachel is firſt named here, as alſo Ruth 4. 11. becauſe ſhe was his chief, and, by right, his firſt and only deſigned Wife. And therefore it is obſervable, that in the enumeration of Jacob's Wives and Children, Gen 46. Leah is only mentioned by her name, verſe 15. but Rachel is called Jacob's wife, verſe 19. by way of eminency, and in a peculiar manner. d Where they might more freely diſcourſe of their buſineſs, and without fear or interruption.

5 And ſaid unto them, I ſee your fathers countenance, that it is not toward me as before: but the God of my father hath been with me e.

e Either 1. Hath bleſſed me; hath ſtood conſtantly by me, when your Father hath failed and deceived me. Or, 2. Hath appeared unto me, as verſe 13.

6 And ye know that with all my power f I have ſerved your father.

f Both of my Mind and Body, as I would have done for my ſelf, as became a faithful ſervant to do.

7 And your father hath deceived me, and changed my wages * ten times g: but God ſuffered him not to hurt me. * Neh. 4. 12.

g (i. e.) Oft-times, as that certain number is commonly uſed, as Leviticus 26. 26. Numbers 14. 22. 1 Samuel 1. 8. Job 19. 3, &c.

8 If he ſaid thus, The ſpeckled ſhall be thy wages; then all the cattle * bare ſpeckled: and if he ſaid thus, The ring-ſtraked ſhall be thy hire h; then bare all the cattle ring-ſtraked.

* All is here, as oft elſewhere, put for the greater or the better part, as appears from Chap. 31. 1, 8. Or, for all that Jacob deſired to be ſuch. h Hence it appears, that Laban through Envy and Covetouſneſs did break his agreement made with Jacob, and altered it as he thought meet, and that Jacob patiently yielded to all ſuch changes.

9 Thus God hath taken away the cattle of your father, and given them to me.

10 And it came to paſs at the time that the cattle conceived, that I lifted up mine eyes, and ſaw in a dream, and behold, the † rams which leaped upon the cattle, were ring-ſtraked, ſpeckled, and grizled i. † Or, he-goats.

i Which were marked with Spots, like Hail in colour and proportion, as the word ſignifieth.

11 And the Angel of God ſpake unto me in a dream, ſaying, Jacob; and, I ſaid, Here am I.

12 And he ſaid, Lift up now thine eyes, and ſee, all the rams which leap upon the cattle are ring-ſtraked, ſpeckled, and grizled; for I have ſeen all that Laban doth unto thee.

13 I am the God of Bethel, * where thou anointedſt the pillar, and where thou vowedſt a vow unto me k: now * ariſe, get thee out from this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred. * Chap. 28. 18. * Chap. 32. 9.

k Of which ſee Gen. 28. 19, 20. And this God here mentions to ſhew his acceptance of that Action of Jacob's, his mindfulneſs even of the paſt and forgotten Services of his People, and his purpoſe now to fulfil the promiſe there made to him.

14 And Rachel and Leah anſwered and ſaid unto him, Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our fathers houſe l?

l We can expect no further benefit from him, but Deceit, and Oppreſſion, and Injury, and therefore are willing to leave him. This was the fruit of his unnatural and unworthy Carriage to them, that it did eat out their natural Affection to him.

15 Are we not counted of him ſtrangers m? for he * hath ſold us n, and hath quite devoured alſo our money o. * Chap. 29. 15, 27.

m As if we had no more right to his Eſtate than Strangers. n Inſtead of a good part of his Eſtate which by the Law of God and Nature belongs to us, 2 Cor. 12. 14. wherewith he ſhould have endowed us upon our Marriage, he hath made ſale of us for this 14 years hard Service, ſeeking only his own, not our advantage. o Hath not only with-held from us, but ſpent upon himſelf that Money which he got by thy care and induſtry, whereof a conſiderable part was due in equity to us and to our Children.

16 For all the riches which God hath taken from our father, that is ours, p and our childrens: Now then whatſoever God hath ſaid unto thee, do.

p Not only by God's ſpecial gift, but by the natural right which Children have to a ſhare in his Eſtate, and upon the account of thy faithful and laborious Service.

17 Then Jacob roſe up, and ſet his ſons, and his wives upon camels.

18 And he carried away all his cattle, and all his goods which he had gotten, the cattle of his getting, which he had gotten in Padan-Aram; for to go to Iſaac his father to the land of Canaan.

19 And Laban went to ſhear his ſheep: and Rachel had ſtollen the † images that were her father's q.

q Queſt 1. What were thoſe Teraphims or Images? Anſ. They were Images made in the ſhape of Men, 1 Sam. 19. 13, 16. which the Gentiles worſhipped as ſubordinate gods, ver. 30, 32. of this Chapte, to which they committed the protection of their Families, 1 Sam. 19 13. which they uſed to conſult about ſecret or future things, and from which they received anſwers about them, Ezek. 21. 21. Zech. 10. 2. Of theſe ſee more Judg. 17. 5. and 18. 14, 17, &c. Hoſ. 3. 4. And theſe Idols Laban worſhipped together with the true God. Queſt 2. Why did Rachel ſteal them? Anſ. Partly, leſt her Father by conſulting them ſhould diſcover their flight, and the courſe which they took; and partly becauſe ſhe ſeemed yet to retain a ſuperſtitious conceit of them, as may be gathered from Gen. 35. 2. Others, becauſe they were pretty and precious things, made of Silver and Gold, which ſhe took as a part of what was due to her both as his Daughter, and for her Husband's ſervice. Others, that ſhe might remove ſo great an occaſion of her Father's Idolatry, and ſhew him the vanity of ſuch gods as might be ſtoln away.

20 And Jacob ſtole away † unawares to Laban r the Syrian, in that he told him not that he fled.

r Heb. Stole away the heart of Laban, to wit, his Daughters, his Cattle, and his gods, upon which his heart was vehemently ſet, as Michal's was, Judg. 18. 24. But if this had been meant, it had been imputed to Rachel, and not to Jacob, who knew nothing of the gods. Or rather, ſtole away from the heart, &c. the Hebrew eth being put for meeth, as Gen. 4. 1. and 49. 25. 1 King. 8. 43. compared with 2 Chron. 6. 33. Mic. 3. 8. i. e. without the knowledge and conſent of Laban, which ſenſe is confirmed by the words next following, and by ver. 26, 27. and by the like uſe of the phraſe, 2 Sam. 19. 3. Thus he fled, becauſe he knew Laban's ſelfiſh, and unrighteous, and cruel Diſpoſition, that he would always hinder him from departing, either by fraudulent Pretences, or by open force, nor ſuffer ſo great a diminution in that Eſtate, which he thought one time or other he might in good meaſure recover to himſelf.

21 So he fled with all that he had, and he roſe up, and paſſed over the river s, and ſet his face t toward the mount Gilead u.

s Euphrates, which lay between Meſopotamia and Chaldea, Gen. 15. 18. which for its largeneſs and famouſneſs is oft called the River emphatically, as Exod. 23. 31. Joſ. 24. 2, 3, &c. t (i. e.) Reſolutely directed his courſe. See Jer. 50. 5. Luke 9. 51, 53. u A very high and long Mountain beyond Jordan, adjoining to the Mountain of Lebanon, at the foot of which there was a large and fruitful Country, which from the Mountain received the name of Gilead, Deut. 34. 1. Jer. 8. 22. and 22. 6. This Mountain is here called Gilead by anticipation, as appears from ver. 48.

22 And it was told Laban on the third day x, that Jacob was fled.

x That he heard of it no ſooner, muſt be aſcribed to the great diſtance which Laban had put between his and Jacob's Flocks, Gen. 30. 36. and to the care and art which Jacob uſed to prevent a ſooner diſcovery.

23 And he took his brethren with him, and purſued after him ſeven days journey; and they overtook him in the mount Gilead.

* Job 33. 15.

24 And God came to Laban the Syrian * in a dream by night, and ſaid unto him, Take heed that thou ſpeak not to Jacob † either good or bad y.

y Neither perſwading him by flattering Promiſes, and cunning Artifices, nor compelling him by Threatnings, to return. For ſo theſe general words muſt be limited, as is evident from God's deſign in them, and from the following Relation. So this is a Synecdochical Expreſſion 25 Then Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount, and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mount of Gilead.

26 And Laban ſaid to Jacob, What haſt thou done, that thou haſt ſtolen away unawares to me, and carried away my daughters, as captives taken with the ſword z?

z By force and violence. A falſe Accuſation; for they freely conſented, ver. 14, 15, 16.

27 Wherefore didſt thou flee away ſecretly, and † ſteal away from me, and didſt not tell me, that I might have ſent thee away with mirth, and with ſongs, with tabret, and with harp?

28 And haſt not ſuffered me to kiſs my ſons and my daughters a? thou haſt now done fooliſhly in ſo doing b.

a As was uſual at the parting of Friends. See the note on Gen 29. 11. b But indeed Jacob took the wiſeſt courſe for the ſecurity of his Perſon and Eſtate, eſpecially having the direction and protection of God in it.

29 It is in the power of my hand to do you hurt: but the God of your father c ſpake unto me yeſternight, ſaying, Take thou heed, that thou ſpeak not to Jacob either good or bad.

c Iſaac or Abraham, by which he diſowns him for his God, and tacitly reproacheth him with the novelty of his Religion which was firſt brought in by his Father. Compare ver. 53.

30 And now though thou wouldſt needs be gone, becauſe thou ſore longedſt after thy father's houſe; yet wherefore haſt thou ſtoln my Gods d?

d Laban could not be ſo ſenſeleſs, as to take thoſe for true gods which could be ſtollen away; but he called them gods, becauſe they were the means or repreſentations whereby he worſhipped his gods.

31 And Jacob anſwered and ſaid to Laban, Becauſe I was afraid: for I ſaid, Peradventure thou wouldſt take by force thy daughters from me.

* Chap. 44. 9.

32 With whomſoever thou findeſt thy gods, * let him not live e: before our brethren diſcern thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee: for Jacob knew not that Rachel had ſtollen them.

e I give my conſent that he ſhall die by the hands of Juſtice. A raſh and inconſiderate Sentence.

33 And Laban went into Jacob's tent, and into Leah's tent f, and into the two maid-ſervants tents; but he found them not. Then went he out of Leah's tent, and entred into Rachel's tent.

f The Men and Womens Tents were diſtinct and ſeparate. See Gen. 18. 2. and 24. 67.

† Heb.

34 Now Rachel had taken the Images, and put them in the camel's furniture, and ſate upon them: and Laban † ſearched all the Tent, but found them not.

35 And ſhe ſaid to her father, Let it not diſpleaſe my Lord that I cannot riſe up before thee g; for the cuſtom of women is upon me: and he ſearched, but found not the Images.

g Queſt. How could that occaſion hinder her from riſing up to her Father? Anſw. 1. It might be attended in her, as it was, and is, in ſome other Women, eſpecially in thoſe hot Countries, with a great flux of blood, or with more than ordinary infirmity and ſickneſs; and this Laban might know to be uſual with her by former obſervation or information. 2. She offers this as a reaſon, not why ſhe could not riſe up to ſhew a civility to him, but why ſhe could not riſe up from his face, or from before him, as the words in the Hebrew ſound, i. e. ſo as to give way to him that he might come and ſearch there for the Images: Becauſe menſtruous Women were anciently eſteemed polluted, and to pollute the things which they touched, or ſat upon; as you may ſee by Levit. 15. 19, 20, 21, 22. Which Law, though it were not yet given and written, yet that, as well as divers other Ceremonial Rights, might be enjoined by God, and obſerved by ſober Heathens at that time, eſpecially by ſuch as were akin to Abraham, as Laban and his Family were, who by that means might eaſily come to the knowledge of ſuch matters. Add to this, one of the ſeven Precepts given to the Sons of Noah, was that of uncovering nakedneſs; which both Jewiſh and Chriſtian Writers take to be a very comprehenſive Expreſſion, and to include all ſuch things as have a natural turpitude in them, among which this is confeſſed to be one. And the words thus underſtood, contain a ſolid and ſatisfactory reaſon why Laban ſhould not now come near her, nor ſearch the things which ſhe ſat upon, which had been an uncivil and immodeſt thing.

36 And Jacob was very wroth, and chode with Laban, and Jacob anſwered, and ſaid to Laban, What is my treſpaſs? what is my ſin, that thou haſt ſo hotly purſued after me h?

h With ſo much fury and violence.

† Heb.

37 Whereas thou haſt † ſearched all my ſtuff, what haſt thou found of all thy Houſhold-ſtuff? ſet it here before my brethren, and thy brethren, that they may judge betwixt us both.

38 This twenty years have I been with thee: thy ewes, and thy ſhe-goats have not caſt their young i, and the rams of thy flock have I not eaten.

i Which thou oweſt in a great meaſure to my care and diligence in ordering them, and principally to God's bleſſing given to thee for my ſake, by thy own confeſſion, Gen. 30. 27.

* Exod. 22. 12.

39 That which was torn of beaſts I brought not unto thee; I bare the loſs of it: of * my hand didſt thou require it k, whether ſtollen by day, or ſtollen by night.

k Which was unjuſt and unreaſonable, except where it fell out through the Sheperds default, See Exod. 22. 13. Queſt. How could Jacob pay theſe loſſes, ſeeing he came empty from his Father's Houſe, and got nothing by his Service for the firſt 14 years, but his Wives? Anſ. Either 1. he had ſome ſupplies ſent from his Father, though it be not mentioned in this Hiſtory: Or 2. he might have ſome inconſiderable Allowances or Priviledges from Laban, out of which he could eaſily defray theſe Charges, which becauſe of his great care and watchfulneſs did but ſeldom happen: Or 3. theſe loſſes were put to his account, to be ſatisfied by him as ſoon as he ſhould be able to do it.

40 Thus I was in the day, the drought conſumed me, and the froſt by night, and my ſleep departed from mine eyes †.

† Through my extraordinary thoughtfulneſs and care about thy Cattle, eſpecially in caſes of danger.

41 Thus have I been twenty years in thy houſe: I ſerved thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, and ſix years for thy cattle; and thou haſt changed my wages ten times.

42 Except the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the fear of Iſaac l, had been with me, ſurely thou hadſt ſent me away now empty: God hath ſeen my affliction m, and the labour of mine hands, and rebuked thee yeſternight.

l (i. e.) The God whom my Father Iſaac worſhips with reverence and godly fear, as appears by comparing ver. 53. The Act is here put for the Object, as it frequently is; and particularly God is called our fear, Iſa. 8. 13. And fear is one of God's Names amongſt the Rabbins. He calls him not Iſaac's God, but his fear, becauſe Iſaac was yet alive, and in the ſtate of probation, and ſerved God with fear and trembling. See Gen. 27. 33. The Jews obſerve, that God is not called the God of any particular perſon, as of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, till after their death. m With compaſſion and intention of good to me for it. God's ſeeing is oft uſed for his relieving and helping, as Gen. 16. 13. and 29. 32 Exod. 3. 7, 9. Or, hath ſhewed or proved it, to wit, that he hath ſeen, &c. Compare Gen. 20. 16. Either way it is an Ellipſis of the Pronoun, which is uſual, as appears by comparing 1 King. 10. 7. with 2 Chron. 9. 6. and Pſal. 41. 9. with Joh. 13. 18.

43 And Laban anſwered, and ſaid unto Jacob, Theſe daughters are my daughters, and theſe children are my children, and theſe cattle are my cattle, and all that thou ſeeſt is mine: and what can I do this day unto theſe my daughters, or unto their children which they have born o?

o He pretends that to be an act of his natural affection and kindneſs, which was indeed the effect of his fear.

44 Now therefore come thou, let us make a covenant, I and thou; and let it be for a witneſs between me and thee p.

p Both to our own Conſciences of our mutual Obligations, and to God againſt either of us who ſhall break it, that he may ſeverely puniſh us for it.

45 And Jacob took a ſtone, and ſet it up for a pillar q.

q In teſtimony of his compliance with Laban's Propoſal, and his entring into this Covenant. See Exod. 24. 4.

46 And Jacob ſaid unto his brethren, Gather ſtones: and they took ſtones, and made an heap, and they did eat r there upon the heap s.

r To wit, afterwards, ver. 54. though it be here mentioned by anticipation. s Or rather by or beſide the heap, as the Hebrew Particle al is oft underſtood, as Pſal. 23. 2. and 81. 7.

47 And Laban called it † Jegar-ſahadutha: but Jacob called it Galeed t.

† That is, the heap of witneſs.

t Both names ſignify the ſame thing, an heap of witneſs; only Laban gives the name in the Syrian Language; but Jacob, though he had been long converſant in Syria, and underſtood that Language, yet he choſe to give it in Hebrew, which was both a ſecret renouncing of the Syrian Manners and Religion, together with their Language, and an implicit profeſſion of his conjunction with the Hebrews, as in their Tongue, ſo in their Religion.

48 And Laban ſaid, This heap is a witneſs between me and thee this day. Therefore was the name of it called Galeed;

49 And † Mizpah: for he ſaid, The LORD watch between me and thee, when we are abſent one from another.

† That is, a beacon, or watch-tower.

50 If thou ſhalt afflict my daughters, or if thou ſhalt take other wives beſide my daughters u, no man is with us x; See, God is witneſs betwixt me and thee.

u The curſe is here underſtood, as it commonly is, to maintain a greater reverence for Oaths, and to beget a greater dread of the curſe belonging to the violaters of it. x (i. e.) Here is now no man with us, who when we are parted can witneſs and judge between us, and puniſh the Tranſgreſſor. Or thus, Though now we have many with us, as Witneſſes of this Agreement, yet ſhortly when we ſhall be parted, no man will be with us, to obſerve and report our actions to the other, or to do the injur'd perſon right.

51 And Laban ſaid to Jacob, Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have caſt betwixt me and thee.

52 This heap be witneſs, and this pillar be witneſs, that I will not paſs over this heap to thee, and that thou ſhalt not paſs over this heap and this pillar unto me, for harm.

53 The God of Abraham, and the God of Nahor, the God of their father y, judge betwixt us. And Jacob ſware by the fear of his father Iſaac.

y He joins Idols with the true God, and ſecretly chargeth the Religion of Jacob and Abraham with novelty, and prefers his own as the moſt ancient Religion. See Joſh. 24. 2. Whence we may learn, that Antiquity of it ſelf is no certain argument of the true Church or Religion.

54 Then Jacob † offered ſacrifice z upon the mount, and called his brethren to eat bread, and they did eat bread, and tarried all night in the mount.

z Either to give God thanks for the great mercies and deliverances vouchſafed to him, or to beg God's bleſſing upon the preſent Treaty, and upon their whole Family. But it is not ſo probable that Jacob would chuſe that time for the offering of Sacrifices when Laban was preſent, whom he could neither honeſtly admit to them, nor conveniently exclude from them. And therefore ſeeing the ſame Hebrew word ſignifies killing as well as ſacrificing, as appears from Numb. 22. 40. 1 Sam 28. 24. 1 Kings 1. 9. 2 Chron. 18. 2. &c. I rather underſtand it of his killing of beaſts in order to a Feaſt which he made for his brethen, whom he called, as it here follows, to eat bread, &c. under which phraſe all meats are uſually comprehended in Scripture, as hath been already noted, and will appear hereafter. And this practice was uſual in thoſe times, to confirm Covenants by a Feaſt. See Gen. 26. 30.

55 And early in the morning, Laban roſe up and kiſſed his ſons, and his daughters, and bleſſed them: and Laban departed, and returned unto his place.

CHAP. XXXII.

The angels of God meet Jacob, 1. He calls them God's hoſt, and the place Mahanaim, 2. Sends meſſengers to his brother Eſau, 3——5. They return, and bring word that Eſau comes to meet him with four hundred men, 6. Jacob is afraid; divides his people and cattel into two bands, 7. Gives orders concerning them, 8. Prays to God in a very fervent and humble manner, 9——12. Sends preſents to his brother, with directions; gets his wives and children over the ford by night, 13——23. Jacob wreſtles with God, and prevails; is called Iſrael: God bleſſeth him; he enquires after God's name; calls the place Peniel. Jacob halts, 24——31. The Jews obſervation in memorial of it, 32.

AND Jacob went on his way, and the Angels of God met him a.

a In viſible, human, and glorious ſhape, as they frequently appeared to the Patriarchs.

2 And when Jacob ſaw them, he ſaid, This is God's hoſt b: and he called the name of that place † Mahanaim c.

† That is, two hoſts or camps.

b So the Angels are juſtly called for their great number, Dan. 7. 10. Luke 2. 13. excellent order, mighty power, and for their uſe and ſervice to God, and to his Church, for whoſe protection they are ſent. See 2 Kings 6. 17. Pſal. 34. 7. c (i. e.) Two hoſts; ſo called, either becauſe the Angels divided themſelves into two companies, and placed themſelves ſome before, others behind him, or ſome on each ſide of him, for his greater comfort and ſecurity; or becauſe the Angels made one hoſt, and his Family another.

3 And Jacob ſent meſſengers before him to Eſau his brother, unto the land of Seir d, the † countrey of Edom e.

d Of which ſee Gen. 14. 6. and 36. 9, 20, 21. whither Eſau had removed his habitation from Canaan, partly out of diſcontent at his Parents; partly as moſt convenient for his courſe of life; and principally by direction of Divine Providence, that Canaan might be left free and clear for Jacob and his poſterity. e So that Seir and Edom either are one and the ſame place; or rather Seir was a part of Edom. Some ſay both names are put here for diſtinction. For they make two Lands of Edom, the one Southward from Canaan, the other Eaſtward, and this latter they underſtand here, alledging that the other or Southern was ſo remote from Mount Gilead, whence Jacob was now deſcending, that Jacob need not fear Eſau at that diſtance, nor ſend to him. But as that diſtinction ſeems to be without ſolid ground, ſo this reaſon ſeems to have but little weight in it, both becauſe though this Hiſtory immediately follows his deſcent from Mount Gilead, yet it might be done ſome competent time after it, and becauſe Jacob in his journey to thoſe parts where his father Iſaac lived, and whither he was going, was ſtill drawing nearer and nearer to Eſau.

4 And he commanded them, ſaying, Thus ſhall ye ſpeak unto my lord f Eſau, Thy ſervant Jacob ſaith thus; I have ſojourned with Laban, and ſtayed there until now g.

f Which Title being but a civil reſpect commonly given in Scripture to ſuch perſons as have no authority nor ſuperiority over them who uſe it, as Gen. 23. 6. and 24. 18. Jacob doth not hereby renounce his Right of Primogeniture which was devolved upon him, nor return it to Eſau. Nor if he did hereby acknowledge Eſau his Superior for the preſent, would this have been injurious to that Right, becauſe Jacob was not yet in actual poſſeſſion of it, for it was not to commence till his Father's death; and indeed did more belong to his poſterity than to his perſon; and as to his perſon, did more reſpect his ſpiritual advantages, than his worldly greatneſs. See Gen. 27. 29. g As a ſtranger and exile, and ſo a more proper object for thy pity, than for thy envy.

5 And I have oxen, and aſſes, flocks, and men-ſervants, and women-ſervants h: and I have ſent to tell my Lord i, that I may find grace in thy ſight k.

h Yet in my exile God hath bleſſed me with a competency of worldly goods, and therefore I am not likely to be either a burden to thee, or a diſgrace to our Family. i To acquaint him with my coming, and with the ſtate of my affairs. k That I may obtain pardon for my former errors, and thy favour and friendſhip for the future.

6 And the meſſengers returned to Jacob, ſaying, We came to thy brother Eſau l, and alſo * he cometh to meet thee, and four hundred men with him m.

* chap. 33. 1.

l Who gave them but an imperfect and a doubtful anſwer, as appears from Jacob's fear, ver. 7. m Which he brought either as his uſual guard, he being then a great man in theſe parts; or in oſtentation of his power and greatneſs, in ſpight of all the injury which his Father or Brother did him; or becauſe at firſt he deſigned miſchief to Jacob, as may ſeem by his diſmiſſing of his meſſengers without any teſtimony of his favour; though afterwards upon Jacob's prayer, God changed his mind.

7 Then Jacob was greatly afraid n, and diſtreſſed, and he divided the people that was with him, and the flocks, and herds, and the camels into two bands, n Notwithſtanding the renewed promiſe of God, and the late apparition of Angels; wherein he ſhewed the weakneſs of his Faith, to which God left him for his Trial and Exerciſe, and to quicken him to prayer, that ſo God might have more Glory, and he more Comfort in the Mercy.

8 And ſaid, If Eſau come to the one company, and ſmite it, then the other company which is left, ſhall eſcape o.

o Either by flight, or becauſe he ſuppoſed Eſau's Revenge would be ſatisfied with the firſt ſlaughter.

9 And Jacob ſaid, O God p of my father Abraham, and God of my father Iſaac, the LORD which ſaidſt unto me, * Return unto thy countrey, and to thy kindred, and I will deal well with thee:

* chap. 31. 13.

p It is obſervable, that Jacob directs his prayers to God immediately, and not to the Angels, though now, if ever, he had reaſon and obligation to do ſo, from their viſible apparition to him for his ſuccor and comfort.

10 † I am not worthy of the leaſt of all the mercies, and of all the truth, which thou haſt ſhewed unto thy ſervant q: for with my ſtaff r, I paſſed over this Jordan s, and now I am become two bands t.

q In fulfilling thy promiſes made to me; and much more am I unworthy of thoſe further mercies which I am now about to beg of thee. r Having nothing with me but my travelling ſtaff for my ſupport. s Or, that Jordan, either which I now ſee, as being at this time upon an high hill; or, which my mind is ſet upon, as that river which I am going to repaſs, that I may go to my Father, and to that good Land which thou haſt given to me and mine for ever. t Or two Troops, or companies; into which he had now divided his people and cattel, ver. 7.

11 Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Eſau: for I fear him, leſt he will come, and ſmite me, and the mother, † with the children u.

u A proverbial ſpeech, noting a total deſtruction. Compare Deut. 22. 6. Hoſ. 10. 14.

12 And * thou ſaideſt, I will ſurely do thee good, and make thy ſeed as the ſand of the ſea, which cannot be numbred for multitude.

* chap 28. 13, 14.

13 And he lodged there that ſame night, and took of that which came to his hand x, a preſent for Eſau his brother:

x Either that which was in his hand and power; or rather, that which was neareſt at hand, and moſt ready for him, becauſe the approaching night, and his own great fear, gave him not leave to make ſo ſcrupulous a choice as otherwiſe he would have made.

14 Two hundred ſhe-goats, and twenty he-goats, two hundred ewes, and twenty rams, 15 Thirty milch camels with their colts, forty kine, and ten bulls, twenty ſhe-aſſes, and ten foals.

16 And he delivered them into the hand of his ſervants, every drove by themſelves, and ſaid unto his ſervants, Paſs over before me, and put a ſpace betwixt drove and drove y.

y That his gift might be repreſented to Eſau with moſt advantage; and his mind might by little and little be ſweetned towards him.

17 And he commanded the foremoſt, ſaying, When Eſau my brother meeteth thee, and asketh thee, ſaying, Whoſe art thou? and whither goeſt thou? and whoſe are theſe before thee?

18 Then thou ſhalt ſay, They be thy ſervant Jacob's: it is a preſent ſent unto my lord Eſau: and behold alſo, he is behind us z.

z Coming to ſee thy face, and beg thy favour.

19 And ſo commanded he the ſecond, and the third, and all that followed the droves, ſaying, On this manner ſhall you ſpeak unto Eſau, when you find him.

20 And ſay ye moreover, Behold, thy ſervant Jacob is behind us: for he ſaid, I will appeaſe him a with the preſent that goeth before me, and afterward I will ſee his face: peradventure he will accept † of me b.

a Heb. appeaſe or allay his anger: for the Hebrew word panim ſignifies both anger, as Pſal. 21. 9. and 34. 16. and face, as every where, becauſe a mans anger, is moſt diſcernable in his face or countenance, Prov. 21. 14. b Heb. will lift up my face or countenance, which now is dejected with the ſenſe of his diſpleaſure. Compare Gen. 4. 6. or, will accept of my perſon, as this phraſe is oft uſed.

21 So went the preſent over before him: and himſelf lodged that night in the company.

22 And he roſe up that night, and took his two wives, and his two women-ſervants, and his eleven ſons c, and paſſed over the ford Jabbok d.

c And Dinah, though ſhe be not here mentioned; as the women are oft omitted in Scripture, as being comprehended under the men. d Which is here generally related, but the time and manner of it is particularly deſcribed in the following verſes. Of this Ford Jabbok ſee Numb. 21. 24. Deut. 3. 16.

23 And he took them, and † ſent them over the brook, and ſent over that he had.

e In ſome private place, it matters not on which ſide Jabbok, that he might more freely and ardently pour out his ſoul unto God. f An Angel, yea, the Angel of the Covenant, the Son of God, as it is plain from ver. 28, 30. and Hoſ 12, 3, 4. who did here, as oft elſewhere, aſſume the ſhape and body of a man, that he might do this work: For this wreſtling was real and corporeal in its nature, tho it was alſo myſtical and ſpiritual in its ſignification, as we ſhall ſee, and it was accompanied with an inward wreſtling by ardent prayers joined with tears, Hoſ. 12. 4.

25 And when he ſaw that he prevailed not againſt him g, he touched * the hollow of his thigh †: and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wreſtled with him h.

* See M 26. 41. 2 Cor.

g Not through impotency, but in deſign, he ſuffered himſelf to be conquered, to encourage Jacob's faith and hope againſt the approaching danger. † The joint of his Hip-bone, or rather the hollow in which that joint was. h Which was done, that Jacob might ſee that it was not his own ſtrength, but only God's grace, which got him this Victory, and could give him the deliverance which he hoped for.

26 And he ſaid, Let me go i, for the day breaketh k: and he ſaid, * I will not let thee go, except thou bleſs me l.

* Hoſ. 4.

i He ſaith this, partly to ſhew the prevailing power of his prayer with God, and partly to quicken and encourage Jacob to perſiſt in his conflict. 27 And he ſaid unto him, What is thy name? And he ſaid, Jacob.

28 And he ſaid, * Thy name ſhall be called no more Jacob m, but Iſrael n: for as a Prince haſt thou power with God and with men o, and haſt prevailed p.

* Chap. 10.

m Not Jacob only. See the like manner of expreſſion, 1 Sam. 8. 7. Jer. 23. 7. Joh. 7. 16 1 Cor. 1. 17. n Which ſignifies a Prince or prevailer with God: or a Prince of God; i. e. a great Prince and Conqueror. o Thou haſt in ſome ſort conquered both God in this conflict, and men, Laban, Eſau, &c. p Or, and ſhalt prevail over Eſau of whom thou art afraid.

29 And Jacob asked him, and ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name q; and he ſaid, Wherefore is it that thou doſt ask after my name r? and he bleſſed him there s.

q That I may give thee the honour due to it. Art thou a created Angel, or art thou the Ever bleſſed God? r A queſtion which carries in it both a denial of his requeſt, as Judges 13. 17, 18 and a reproof of his curioſity. s In an eminent and peculiar manner, which was a real anſwer to Jacob's queſtion, and gave him to underſtand both his name and nature.

30 And Jacob called the name of the place † Peniel: for I * have ſeen God face to face t, and my life is preſerved u.

* Exod. 11. and 33. 20. Deut. 5. 24. Iſa. 6. 5.

t Not in his Eſſence, for ſo no man ever ſaw God, John 1. 18. nor yet in a dream or viſion, but in a moſt evident, ſenſible, familiar and friendly manifeſtation of himſelf. u And I am now well aſſured of my ſafety from Eſau, whoſe approach threatned my life. Or he ſpeaks of it with wonder, as others did, that he ſhould ſee God, and not be ſtruck dead by the Glory of his preſence. Compare Gen. 16. 13. Exod. 20. 19. Judges 6 22, 23. and 13. 22.

31 And as he paſſed over Peniel, the ſun roſe upon him, and he halted upon his thigh.

32 Therefore the children of Iſrael eat not x of the ſinew which ſhrank, which is upon the hollow of the thigh, unto this day: becauſe he touched the hollow of Jacob's thigh, in the ſinew that ſhrank.

x Not from any ſuperſtitious conceit about it, but only for a memorial of this admirable conflict, the bleſſed effects whereof even the future generations received.

CHAP. XXXIII.

Jacob ſets his wives and children in the order they ſhall travel, 1, 2. Meets his brother; his obeyſance to him, 3. Eſau kindly embraces Jacob, 4. His wives and children preſent themſelves to Eſau, 7. Jacob offers a preſent to his brother, 8. He refuſes it, 9. Jacob preſſes him, and he accepts, 10, 11. They part friendly, 12——15. Eſau returns to Seir; Jacob comes to Succoth, 17. from thence he goes to Sichem; where he buyes a field for 100 pieces of money; builds an altar; calls it El-Elohe-Iſrael, 18——20.

AND Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold, * Eſau came, and with him four hundred men: and he divided the children unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids.

2 And he put the handmaids, and their children foremoſt, and Leah and her children after, and Rachel and Joſeph hindermoſt a.

a Placing his beſt beloved in the laſt and ſafeſt place.

3 And he paſſed over before them b, and bowed himſelf to the ground ſeven times, until he came near to his brother.

b Expoſing himſelf to the firſt and greateſt hazard for the ſecurity of his Wives and Children.

4 And Eſau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him, and they wept.

5 And he lift up his eyes, and ſaw the women, and the children, and ſaid, Who are thoſe † with thee? and he ſaid, The children which God hath graciouſly given thy ſervant.

† Heb. to thee.

6 Then the handmaidens came near, they and their children, and they bowed themſelves.

7 And Leah alſo with her children came near, and bowed themſelves: and after came Joſeph near and Rachel, and they bowed themſelves.

8 And he ſaid, † What meaneſt thou by all this drove which I met? † And he ſaid, Theſe are to find grace in the ſight of my Lord.

† Heb. What is all this band to thee?

† He knew his meaning before from the Servants mouths; but he asks, that he might both be more certainly informed of the Truth, and have an occaſion for a civil refuſal of the gift.

9 And Eſau ſaid, I have enough, my brother: † keep that thou haſt unto thy ſelf c.

† Heb. be that to thee that is thine.

c I neither need it for my uſe, nor deſire it as a compenſation for thy former Injuries.

10 And Jacob ſaid, Nay, I pray thee: If now I have found grace in thy ſight, then receive my preſent at my hand: for therefore d I have ſeen thy face, as though I had ſeen the face of God e, and thou waſt pleaſed with me.

d Or, For I therefore tender it unto thee, and humbly beg thy acceptance of it, becauſe: For thus the Hebrew Al-cen is uſed, Numb. 14. 43. and elſewhere. e It is in a manner as pleaſant a ſight to me as the ſight of God himſelf, becauſe in thy reconciled Face, I ſee the face and favour of God thus manifeſted unto me.

11 Take, I pray thee, my bleſſing f that is brought to thee; becauſe God hath dealt graciouſly with me, and becauſe I have † enough: and he urged him, and he took it.

f This Gift, which as I received from God's bleſſing, ſo I heartily give it to thee with my bleſſing and prayer, that God would abundantly bleſs it to thee. Gifts are oft called Bleſſings, as Joſ. 15. 19. 1 Sam. 25. 27. and 30. 26.

12 And he ſaid, Let us take our journey, and let us go, and I will go before thee g.

g Or rather, beſide thee, ſo as to keep thee company, or to keep pace with thee.

13 And he ſaid unto him, My Lord knoweth, that the children are tender h, and the flocks and herds with young are with me i: and if men ſhould overdrive them one day, all the flock will die.

h The eldeſt of them, Reuben, not being yet fourteen years old. i Or, upon me, i. e. committed to my care, to be managed as their neceſſities require. See Iſa. 40. 11.

14 Let my Lord, I pray thee, paſs over before his ſervant, and I will lead on ſoftly, according † as the cattle that goeth before me, and the children be able to endure, until I come unto my Lord unto Seir k.

† Heb. according to the foot of the work, &c. and according to the foot of the children.

k We do not read that Jacob did according to this Promiſe or Inſinuation, go to Seir; either therefore he changed his firſt Intentions for ſome weighty reaſons, or upon warning from God; Or, he uſed this only as a pretence, which we ſhould not too eaſily believe of ſo good a man, eſpecially after ſuch Dangers and Deliverances; or rather he did perform this Promiſe, though the Scripture be ſilent of it, as it is of many other Hiſtorical paſſages, and as it is here concerning Jacob's viſiting of his Father Iſaac, which is not mentioned till ten years after this time; and yet it is utterly incredible that Jacob ſhould be ſo near to his dear and worthy Father for ſo long a time together, and not once give him a viſit.

15 And Eſau ſaid, Let me now † leave with thee ſome of the folk that are with me: And he ſaid, † What needeth it? * let me find grace in the ſight of my Lord.

† Heb. wherefore is this?
* Chap. 34. 11.

16 So Eſau returned that day on his way unto Seir.

17 And Jacob journyed to Succoth, and built him an houſe l, and made booths for his cattle: therefore the name of the place is called † Succoth.

l Which doubtleſs was ſome ſlight building, becauſe he intended not to ſtay there.

18 And Jacob came to Shalem m, a city of * Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan-Aram, and pitched his tent before the city n.

* Called Acts 7. 16. Sychem.

m Moſt take it for the proper name of a place belonging to Shechem, as it here follows, called Salim, John 3. 23. and Sichem or Sychar, John 4. 5. But others take it for an appellative Noun, and render the place thus, he came ſafe or whole to the City of Shechem; to note either that he was then cured of the lameneſs which the Angel gave him; or rather, to note the good Providence of God that had brought him ſafe in his Perſon, Family, and Eſtate, through all his dangers; firſt from Laban, then from Eſau, till he came to this place, where it ſeems he intended to make his abode for a good while, had not the following Miſcarriages obliged him to remove. n (i. e.) Near to it, but not in it, for the conveniency of his Cattle.

19 And * he bought o a parcel of a field where he had ſpread his tent, at the hand of the children p of † Hamor, Shechem's father, for an hundred † pieces of money q.

* Joſh. 24. 32.
† Called Acts 7. 16. Emor.

o For his preſent poſſeſſion and uſe; for the right which he had to it was only in Reverſion after the time that God had allotted for it. p (i e.) Subjects, called his Children, to note the duty which they owed to him, and the care and affection that he owed to them. Compare Numb. 11. 12. q The word is uſed only here, and Joſ. 24. 32. Job 42. 11. and it may ſignify either Lambs, given in way of exchange for it, or pieces of Money, which ſeems more probable, both by comparing Acts 7. 16. and becauſe Money was come into uſe in that place and time, Gen. 17. 12, 13. and 23. 16. and 47. 16. which were called Lambs poſſibly from the figure of a Lamb ſtamped upon it, as the Athenian Money was called an Ox for the like reaſon, and as we call a piece of Gold a Jacobus, becauſe the Picture of that King is upon it.

20 And he erected there an Altar, and called it † El-Elohe-Iſrael r.

† That is, God the God of Iſrael.

r Or, Called upon El-Elohe-Iſrael, the particle Lo, being redundant, as ſuch Pronouns oft are, as Gen 12. 1. and Joſhua 20. 2.

CHAP. XXXIV.

Dinah going forth to ſee the daughters of the country, is abuſed and defiled by Sichem, ſon of Hamor, 2. Who loves her, 3. Deſires to marry her, 4. Jacob hears it, 5. Hamor treats with Jacob and his ſons, 6—12. They anſwered him deceitfully, making a condition that all the males of the Sichemites ſhould be circumciſed, 13—17. They and their citizens conſent to it, 18—23. Are circumciſed, and, when ſore, ſurprized and murthered by Simeon and Levi; the city is plundered by Jacob's ſons; the women and children are carried away captive, 24—29. Jacob is exceedingly troubled and afraid. 30. They juſtify themſelves, 31.

AND * Dinah the daughter of Leah, which ſhe bare unto Jacob, went out a to ſee the daughters of the land.

* Chap. 30. 21.

a From her Father's Houſe into the City, out of curioſity, there being then, as Joſephus reports, a great concourſe of people to a Feaſt. Thus ſhe put her ſelf out of her Father's protection, and merely out of a vain humour, expoſed both her ſelf and others to temptation; which was the worſe, becauſe it was amongſt them that had no fear of God to reſtrain them from the moſt enormous Crimes. She was now fourteen or fifteen years old.

2 And when Shechem the ſon of Hamor the Hivite, Prince of the country ſaw her, he took her, and lay with her, and † defiled her.

3 And his ſoul clave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the damſel, and ſpake † kindly unto the damſel b.

† Heb. to the heart of the Damſel. See Iſa. 40. 2. Hoſ. 2. 14.

b Perceiving her to be exceedingly enraged and perplexed at this horrid violence, he endeavours to appeaſe and ſweeten her, and to get her conſent to marry him.

4 And Shechem ſpake unto his father Hamor, ſaying, Get me this damſel to wife c.

c He deſires both his Father's conſent and aſſiſtance herein.

5 And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter (now his ſons were with his cattle in the field) and Jacob held his peace until they were come d.

d Being unable to puniſh the Delinquent, and not knowing what to do, he waits for his Sons coming and advice.

6 And Hamor the father of Shechem, went out unto Jacob to commune with him.

7 And the ſons of Jacob came out of the field when they heard it, and the men were grieved: and they were very wroth, becauſe he had wrought folly e in Iſrael f, in lying with Jacob's daughter; which thing ought not to be done g.

e That is, wickedneſs; which howſoever vain men many times eſteem their wiſdom, by the Sentence of the All-wiſe God is accounted and commonly in Scripture called folly; as Deut. 22, 21. Joſh. 7. 15. Judg. 19. 23. and 20. 6, &c. f Or, againſt Iſrael, either 1. againſt the perſon, and in or againſt the Family of Iſrael, a perſon near and dear to God, and highly honoured by him, and in Covenant with God; who therefore eſteems the injuries done to Iſrael, as if they were done to himſelf. See Gen. 12. 3. Exod. 23. 22. Zech. 2. 8. Or 2. in or againſt the Church of God, which then was in a manner confined to that Family, and which is oft called by the name of Iſrael. See Deut. 22. 21. Joſh. 7. 15. And Moſes may here vary the phraſe from what was uſed in Jacob's time, to what was uſual in his time, the ſenſe being in both the ſame, and therefore not altered by ſuch a change. g Heb. ſhall not be done, i. e. ſhould not, &c. But in the Hebrew Language words of the future time oft ſignify duty and decency, as Mal. 1. 6. and 2. 7.

8 And Hamor communed with them h, ſaying, The ſoul of my ſon Shechem longeth for your daughter i: I pray you give her him to wife.

h With Jacob's ſons, to whom Jacob committed the buſineſs, being himſelf oppreſſed with ſhame and grief, and fear for his daughter. i The daughter of your Family; or he thus ſpeaketh to her brothers, becauſe they tranſacted all in their Father's name.

9 And make ye marriages with us, and give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you.

10 And ye ſhall dwell with us, and the land ſhall be before you k: dwell and trade you therein, and get you poſſeſſions therein l.

k (i. e.) In your power, to dwell where you pleaſe, and to have the ſame Rights and Priviledges in it which we enjoy. See Gen. 20. 15. l Or take poſſeſſion in it, i. e. in any vacant part of it, uſe it for Paſture or Tillage, as you think good, and take the benefit to your ſelves.

11 And Shechem ſaid unto her father, and unto her *Chap. 33. 15. brethren, * Let me find grace in your eyes, and what ye ſhall ſay unto me, I will give.

12 Ask me never ſo much dowry and gift m, and I will give according as ye ſhall ſay unto me: but give me the damſel to wife.

m Dowry to her for her Portion, according to the ancient cuſtom of mens buying their wives; of which ſee Exod. 22. 17. and Gift to you either for reparation of the paſt injury, or in teſtimony of my reſpect to you, and deſire of her, as Gen. 24. 53.

13 And the ſons of Jacob anſwered Shechem, and Hamor his father deceitfully n, and ſaid, (becauſe he had defiled Dinah their ſiſter.)

n Pretending and promiſing Marriages with them upon that condition, which they never intended.

14 And they ſaid unto them, We cannot do this thing, to give our ſiſter to one that is uncircumciſed o:
*Joſ. 5. 9. for * that were a reproach unto us.

n There was no ſuch Law yet in force, as the Examples of Iſaac and Jacob ſhew, who married the daughters of uncircumciſed perſons, and therefore they do not here reject it as ſimply unlawful, but only as diſhonourable and reproachful.

17 But if ye will not hearken unto us to be circumciſed, then will we take our daughter, and we will be gone.

18 And their words pleaſed Hamor, and Shechem Hamor's ſon.

19 And the young man deferred not to do the thing, becauſe he had delight in Jacob's daughter: and he was more honourable than all the houſe of his father.

20 And Hamor and Shechem his ſon came unto the gate of their city p, and communed with the men of their city, ſaying, p The place where all publick affairs were debated and concluded. See on Gen 22. 17. and 23. 10.

21 Theſe men are peaceable with us, therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein: for the land, behold it is large enough for them: let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters.

22 Only herein will the men conſent unto us, for to dwell with us, to be one people, if every male among us be circumciſed, as they are circumciſed.

23 Shall not their cattel, and their ſubſtance, and every beaſt of theirs be ours q? only let us conſent unto them, and they will dwell with us.

q Either for our uſe and benefit in the way of Commerce and Trade; or becauſe they will deſcend to the Iſſue of our Children as well as theirs; or becauſe we being more numerous and potent than they, can eaſily over-rule them, and when we think meet, diſpoſe all things to our own advantage. Thus they cover their private deſign with the ſpecious ſhew of publick good.

24 And unto Hamor, and unto Shechem his ſon, hearkned r all that went out of the gate of his city s; and every male was circumciſed, all that went out of the gate of his city.

r They yielded to Circumciſion, partly in compliance with their young Prince, whom they either loved or feared; and partly for the proſpect of their own advantage; for which men are frequently willing to expoſe themſelves to great pains and hazards. s All the Citizens that went out of the gate, &c. or came in at the gate, as they are deſcribed Gen. 23. 10. Jer. 17. 20. For when the chief perſons had conſented, they could eaſily perſuade or over-rule others to comply with them.

25 And it came to paſs on the third day t, when they were ſore u, that two of the ſons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi x, Dinah's brethren y, took each man *Chap. 49. 6. his ſword, and came upon the city boldly and * ſlew all the males z.

t When the pain and grief of Wounds is the greateſt, as Phyſicians note. u And therefore not well able to defend themſelves; for Circumciſion cauſed great pain in Children, which was the ground of that Exclamation, Exod. 4. 25. much more in grown men. See Joſ. 5. 8. x Theſe two only are mentioned, becauſe they were Authors of the Counſel, and Conductors of the reſt in the Execution; but it is probable from ver. 27. that moſt of their Brethren were confederate with them, and that they had a conſiderable number of their Servants with them, who would be ready enough to revenge their Maſter's quarrel, and to puniſh ſo great a Villany; but all that was done is juſtly aſcribed to them two, as it is common for all writers to ſay this or that was done by ſuch a Captain or General, when in truth it was done by his Souldiers. y So they were both by the Father and Mother; which made them more forward and zealous than the reſt. z Such of them as were grown up, by comparing, verſe 29. for theſe, or ſome of them ſeem to have been the abettors of the injury againſt their Siſter and Family. Their Sin in this act was manifold; that they did it without ſufficient Authority, and againſt their Father's Mind, as appears from verſe 20. and Gen. 49. 6. which they well knew; and without all bounds, raſhly, unjuſtly, and cruelly puniſhed the Innocent and the Guilty together, and uſher'd in this fact with horrible deceit and lying, and that under pretence of Friendſhip, and ſhew of Religion.

26 And they ſlew Hamor and Shechem his ſon, with the † edge of the ſword, and took Dinah out of † Heb. mouth Shechems houſe, and went out.

27 The ſons of Jacob came upon the ſlain, and ſpoiled the city, becauſe they had a defiled their ſiſter.

a (i. e.) One of them, as oft-times that which is done by one man is imputed to the whole body. See Joſ. 7. 1, 11, 12. and 22. 20. Matth. 2. 20. Or they impute Shechem's fact to all, either invidiouſly and cunningly to take off from themſelves the reproach of this cruel action; or becauſe they made themſelves guilty of it, either by not diſcouraging and hindring that filthineſs, as far as they might; or by their being inſtrumental in it; or by their approbation of it, and complacency in it.

28 They took their ſheep and their oxen, and their aſſes, and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field b, b Thus they add to their cruelty, theft and robbery; which doubtleſs Jacob diſowned when they brought the ſpoil home, and returned back both the ſurviving People and their Goods, though it be paſſed over in ſilence, as many other things are. See on Gen. 33. 14.

29 And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives took they captive, and ſpoiled even all that was in the houſe c.

c Either in the Prince's Houſe, or in their ſeveral Houſes; or within doors, as the word ſignifies.

30 And Jacob ſaid to Simeon and Levi, * Ye have *Chap.
troubled me, d * to make me to ſtink e among the in- 6.
habitants of the land, amongſt the Canaanites, and Exod.
the Perizzites: and I being few in number f, they 21.
ſhall gather themſelves together againſt me, and ſlay me †, and I ſhall be deſtroyed, I, and my houſe.

d You have not only diſcompoſed my Mind, but perplexed my Affairs, and brought me into ſuch troubles and dangers, as I am never likely to eſcape. e You have made me odious to them, who will impute this perfidious and bloody fact to my contrivance. f Heb. Men of number, i. e. few; for ſuch can eaſily be numbred. So this phraſe is uſed, Deut. 4. 27. and 33. 6. oppoſite to which are men without number, 2 Chron. 12. 3. † He could expect no other in human reaſon, and they were hindred from ſo doing only by the hand of the great God ſmiting them with terrour Gen. 35. 5.

31 And they ſaid, Should he deal with our ſiſter as with an harlot g?

g Shall we expreſs no more reſentment of this abominable abuſe of our Siſter, than if ſhe had been ſome common Harlot, whoſe abuſe no Man either regardeth or revengeth? Thus they excuſe one fault by committing another, and defend themſelves by accuſing their Father of ſtupidity, and inſenſibleneſs of ſo great an indignity and injury.

CHAP. XXXV.

God commands Jacob to dwell at Bethel, and build an altar there, 1. He commands his family to purge themſelves from idols, and go to Bethel, 2. They obey, 3. He and they go thither; none purſuing them; the reaſon thereof, 5, 6. There he builds an an altar, 7. The death and burial of Rebekah's nurſe, 8. God appears to Jacob, confirms his name of Iſrael, renewes the promiſes, 9——13. For which he ſets up a pillar, pours oyl thereon, and calls the place Bethel, 14, 15. Going thence Rachel dies in labour of Benjamin, and is buried there, 16——20. Reuben commits inceſt in his father's houſe, 22. Jacob's ſons names, 23——26. Jacob viſits his father Iſaac, 27. His age, death, and burial, 28, 29.

AND God ſaid unto Jacob a, Ariſe, go up to Beth-el, and dwell there, and make there an altar unto God * that appeared unto thee, * when thou *Chap.

a This was a word in ſeaſon to comfort his diſquieted Mind, and convey him to a ſafer place. b Underſtand, and pay thy Vows there made in the time of thy diſtreſs, but not yet paid; whether it was Jacob's errour to forget and neglect his former Vows and Promiſes; or whether he waited for a fit time, or an admonition from God concerning the ſeaſon of paying them.

2 Then Jacob ſaid unto his houſhold, and to all that were with him, Put away the * ſtrange gods c that are among you d, and be clean e, and change your garments f;

c The Idols, which are ſo called here, and Deut. 31. 16. and 32. 12. Joſ. 24. 20. becauſe they were the Gods of ſtrange and foreign Nations, ſuch as all were accounted who were not Iſraelites. Queſt. How came theſe to be, and to continue ſo long in Jacob's Houſe? Anſw. Either 1. by Rachel's means, who brought them from her Father's Houſe, which haply was not diſcovered till this time Or 2. by Leah, and by Jacob's two Concubines, who might poſſibly bring ſuch with them. Or 3. by the means of Jacob's gentile Servants who might ſecretly worſhip ſuch Gods; or having taken them from the Sichemites, they might keep them for their precious Matter, as Gold and Silver, though not for Religious uſe. d Like a good Man, and a good Maſter of a Family, he takes care not only for himſelf, but for all his Family to keep them from the exerciſe of a falſe Religion, and to engage them as far as he can in the profeſſion and practice of the true. Compare Gen. 18. 19. Joſ. 24. 18. e Cleanſe your ſelves by outward and ritual waſhing, as Exod 19. 10, 14. which even then was in uſe; and eſpecially by purging your Hearts as well as Hands from theſe Idols, which, I perceive, to my ſorrow, ſome of you have ſtill retained; and from your late deteſtable cruelty; that you may be fit to approach to that God who hath now ſummoned me and you to make a ſolemn appearance before him. f Either by putting on new Garments, as 2 Samuel 12. 20. or by waſhing the old ones, as Exodus 19. 10. Leviticus 15. 13. And theſe, as well as other ceremonial Inſtitutions and Practices, were profeſſions of their Repentance; which conſiſts in putting off the old man, and putting on the new, Eph. 4. 22.

3 And let us ariſe, and go up to Beth-el, and I will make there an altar unto God, who anſwered me in the day of my diſtreſs g, and was with me in the way which I went.

g He takes God's gracious Promiſe, and the comfortable hope and aſſurance of God's Favour to him, and Care of him, impreſſed by God upon his Mind and Heart, for an anſwer to his Prayers, though he had then ſeen no ſucceſs nor accompliſhment of God's word to him.

4 And they gave unto Jacob all the ſtrange gods which were in their hand, and all their ear-rings which were in their ears h, and Jacob hid them i under the * oak k which was by Shechem.

*Joſ. 24. 26. Judg. 9. 6.

h Either becauſe they had been abuſed to Idolatry and Superſtition at Sichem, or elſewhere, and therefore were to be deſtroyed according to God's command now ſignified to Jacob, and afterwards delivered to his Poſterity, Deut. 7. 5. and 12. 3. or for fear they ſhould be ſo abuſed. For the Scripture ſeems to inſinuate, and other Writers expreſly affirm, That divers Heathen People did wear ear-rings for the Honour of their Idols, and with the Repreſentations or Enſigns of their Idols engraven upon them. See Judges 8. 24. i After he had melted or broken them, which ſeems probable from parallel inſtances, as Exod. 32. 22. 2 Kings 18. 4. k Under a certain Oak, though not known to his Family which it was He choſe that place, either as moſt proper to put Monuments of Idolatry under thoſe Trees which were ſo much, and ſo generally abuſed to Idolatry, as Oaks eſpecially were, Iſa. 1. 29. or as the ſafeſt place, where they were likely to remain longeſt hid, becauſe the Heathen had a veneration for Oaks, and therefore would not cut them down, nor dig them up, nor do any thing which had a tendency that way.

5 And they journeyed: and * the terrour of God l was upon the cities that were round about them, and they did not purſue after the ſons of Jacob.

l (i. e.) A great terrour ſent from God, as Exod. 23. 27. Joſ. 2. 9, 11. 2 Chron. 14. 14 and 17 10. So we read of a ſleep of God, 1 Sam. 26. 12. Nothing leſs could have ſecured Jacob, conſidering the great Number, Power, and Rage of his Enemies.

6 ¶ So Jacob came to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan m, (that is Beth-el) he and all the people that were with him.

m Properly ſo called, or where the Canaanites properly ſo called dwelt: Thus it is diſtinguiſhed from another Luz, Judges 1. 26.

7 And he built there an altar, and * called the place † El-beth-el n, becauſe there God appeared unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother.

*Chap. 28. 19. † That is, the God of Bethel.

n (i. e.) He confirmed the name which he had formerly given to the place.

8 But Deborah Rebekahs nurſe o died, and ſhe was buried beneath Beth-el under an oak: and the name of it was called † Allon-bachuth p.

† That is, the oak of weeping.

o Who came with Rebekah into Canaan, Gen 24. 59. and probably tarried with her whileſt ſhe lived, and after her death, as it ſeems, and upon Jacob's deſire, after his return from Haran, came into his Family; where, being a perſon of great prudence and piety, her preſence and advice was very uſeful in his numerous and divided Family. p From the great lamentation which they made there for the loſs of a perſon of ſuch ſingular worth.

¶ And God appeared unto Jacob again, when he came out of Padan-Aram, and bleſſed him.

10 And God ſaid unto him, Thy name is Jacob: thy name ſhall not be called any more Jacob, * but Iſrael ſhall be thy name q; and he called his name Iſrael.

*Chap. 32. 28.

q I do not repent of the change which I made of thy name, but I do again confirm it; and as then thou didſt prevail over thy brother Eſau, ſo now thou ſhalt prevail over thoſe of whom thou art afraid.

11 And God ſaid unto him, * I am God Almighty: be fruitful and multiply: * a nation, and a company of nations r ſhall be of thee, and kings ſhall come out of thy loins s.

*Chap. 17. 1. *Chap. 17. 6, 16.

r Tribes, for number and power, equal to ſo many Nations. s (i. e.) Shall be begotten by thee; as this phraſe is taken alſo in Gen. 46. 26. 1 Kings 8. 19. Acts 2. 30.

12 And the land * which I gave Abraham and Iſaac, to thee will I give it, and to thy ſeed after thee will I give this land.

*Chap. 12. 7. and 26. 3.

13 And God went up from him t in the place where he talked with him.

t Either locally and viſibly; to wit, in that humane ſhape in which he appeared to him; or by withdrawing the ſigns of his ſpecial preſence, as Gen. 17. 22. Judg. 13. 20. as on the contrary God is ſaid to come down, not by change of place, but by ſome ſignal manifeſtation of his Preſence and Favour, as Exod. 3. 8. Numb. 11. 7.

14 And Jacob ſet up a pillar u in the place where he talked with him, even a pillar of ſtone: and he poured a drink-offering x thereon, and he poured oyl thereon.

u Either he repaired the old pillar, ſet up by him, Gen. 28. 18. which was ruined by the injury of time or by the neighbouring Idolaters; or rather erected a new one, more ſtable and durable than he could do in that time, as a Monument or Witneſs of God's manifold Favours, and of his own Gratitude x Of Wine, as may be gathered by comparing Exod 29. 40. Numb. 28. 14.

15 And Jacob called the name of the place, where God ſpake with him, * Beth-el.

*Chap. 28. 19.

16 ¶ And they journeyed from Beth-el: and there was but † a little way to come to Ephrath; and Rachel travailed, and ſhe had hard labour.

† Heb. a little piece of ground.

17 And it came to paſs, when ſhe was in hard labour, that the midwife ſaid unto her, Fear not: thou ſhalt have this ſon alſo.

18 And it came to paſs, as her ſoul was in departing y, (for ſhe died) that ſhe called his name † Ben-oni: but his father called him † Benjamin z.

y Or, In going out, namely out of the body, as Pſal. 146. 4. which is an argument of the Souls immortality, eſpecially if compared with Eccleſ. 12. 7. From which places, laid together, we learn the two terms of the Journey, whence it goes, and whither it goes. z Either as near, and dear and precious to him as his right hand, which is both more uſeful and more honourable than the left. See Pſal. 80. 17. or inſtead of his right hand, the ſtaff, ſtay, and comfort of his old Age.

19 And * Rachel died, and was buried in the way to Ephrath a, which is Bethlehem.

*Chap. 48. 7.

a Not in the City, though that was near; for in ancient times their Sepulchres were not in the places of reſort, but in ſeparated places, and out of Cities. See Matth 27. 60. Luke 7. 12.

20 And Jacob ſet a pillar b upon her grave: that is the pillar of Rachels grave unto this day c.

b As a monument or memorial of her life and death, and as a teſtimony of her future reſurrection. c (i. e.) Unto the time wherein Moſes writ this Book, and long after. See 1 Sam. 10. 2. Jer. 31. 15.

21 ¶ And Iſrael journeyed, and ſpread his tent beyond the tower of Edar d.

d Or, The tower of the flock, a place where were excellent Paſtures. See Mich. 4. 8.

22 And it came to paſs, when Iſrael dwelt in that land, that Reuben went, and * lay with Bilhah his fathers concubine e: and Iſrael heard it f. Now the ſons of Jacob were twelve g.

*Chap. 49. 4. 1 Cor. 5. 1.

e An horrid Inceſt; for Concubines were a ſort of Wives. See Gen. 22. 24. and 25 1. f And doubtleſs ſadly reſented it, both in Reuben, as appears from Gen. 49. 4. 1 Chron. 5. 1, 2. and in Bilhah whoſe Bed without queſtion he forſook upon it, as afterwards David did in the like caſe. See 2 Sam. 16. 22. and 20. 3. Yet here is no mention of Jacob's reproof of it, nor any cenſure of Moſes added to it; poſſibly to teach us, that we are not to approve of every fact which is mentioned in Scripture without cenſure, and that the miſcarriages of Profeſſours of Religion are rather to be ſilently bewailed, than publickly reproached, leſt Religion ſhould ſuffer by it. g Which were heads of the twelve Tribes; therefore his daughter Dinah is not here mentioned, becauſe ſhe was not the head of a Tribe.

23 The ſons of Leah: * Reuben Jacobs firſt-born, and Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Iſſachar, and Zebulun.

24 The ſons of Rachel: Joſeph and Benjamin.

25 And the ſons of Bilhah, Rachels handmaid: Dan and Naphtali.

26 And the ſons of Zilpah, Leahs handmaid, Gad and Aſher. Theſe are the ſons of Jacob which were born to him in Padan-Aram h, h All but Benjamin, who muſt in all reaſon be ſuppoſed to be excepted here, becauſe he is ſaid to be born elſewhere, above, verſe 16. But it is an uſual Synecdoche, whereby that is aſcribed to all in groſs, which belongs to the greateſt part. See Geneſis 15. 13. and 46. 15. Exodus 12. 40. Judges 20. 46. John 20. 24. 1 Cor. 15. 5.

*Chap.13. 18. and 23. 2. 27 ¶ And Jacob came unto Iſaac i his father unto * Mamre, unto the city of Arbah (which is Hebron) where Abraham and Iſaac ſojourned.

i Either with his Wives, and Children, and Eſtate, to dwell with him; or rather in perſon to viſit his ſick and dying Father; for otherwiſe Jacob having been ten years near his Father, no doubt he had oft viſited him, and carried his Wives, and Children thither, though Scripture be ſilent in this particular: But they could not live together becauſe of the greatneſs of their Eſtates, as it happened with others. See Gen. 13. 6 and 36. 7.

28 And the days of Iſaac were an hundred and fourſcore years.

*Chap.15. 15. and 25. 8. 29 And Iſaac gave up the ghoſt, and died, and was * gathered unto his people k, being old and full of dayes: and his ſons Eſau and Jacob buried him.

k Either to the ſociety of the dead, or to the Congregation of the juſt. See Gen. 15. 15. and 25. 8.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Eſau's wives and children born in Canaan, 1——5. They remove from Jacob to Seir; the reaſon, 6——8. His poſterity, 9——19. As alſo that of Seir the Horite, 20. Among whom is Ana, who firſt found out mules in the wilderneſs, 24. His children, 25——30. A catalogue of kings and princes in Edom, 31——43.

NOW theſe are the generations of Eſau a, who is Edom.

a They are here mentioned partly to ſhew the effect of his Father's Bleſſing, chap. 27. 39. partly that the Iſraelites might be admoniſhed to treat the Edomites like Brethren, and not to invade their Land. See Deut. 23. 7.

*Verſ 25. 2 Eſau took his wives of the daughters of Canaan: Adah the daughter of Elon the Hittite, and * Aholibamah the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon the Hivite b.

b If this account be compared with that Gen. 26. 34. we ſhall find ſome difficulties, which yet admit of an eaſy reconciliation, if theſe things be conſidered. 1. That it is very uſual and confeſſed by all, that the ſame perſons are oft called by ſeveral names. 2. That the names of ſome perſons are in Scripture given to others, becauſe of a great reſemblance between them. Upon which account the Parents of the Iſraelites are called Amorites and Hittites, Ezek. 16. 3. and the Governours of Jeruſalem are called the Rulers of Sodom and Gomorrah, Iſa. 1. 10. and John the Baptiſt is called Elias, Matth. 17. 12. 3. That the ſame men are oft times denominated from ſeveral Countries, as Chriſt is noted to have a threefold Countrey in Scripture; Bethlehem by his Birth; Nazareth by his Education; and Capernaum by his much Reſidence and Preaching there. 4 That the ſame names are ſometimes common to Men and Women. 5. That perſons are called the Children, not only of their immediate Parents, but of their Grand parents, and of thoſe who adopted them. Theſe things premiſed, the ſeeming contradictions objected by Infidels, do vaniſh. She who was properly called Judith, chap. 26. is here called Aholibamah, a name which ſeems to be given her either by Iſaac, or by Moſes, from her ſettledneſs in her Idolatrous courſes. And Adah was alſo called Baſhemath; and Mahalath, Iſhmaels daughter, was called Baſhemath, chap. 26. either becauſe in her Principles and Manners ſhe reſembled Eſau's other Wife ſo called, or to ſhew that Iſhmael's Marriage to a third Wife was no leſs opprobrious to him, and diſpleaſing to his Parents than the former; Anah a Man, and the Son of Zibeon, as appears from verſe 24. called here an Hivite, is called Beeri the Hittite, chap. 26. either becauſe thoſe two People were mixed together in Habitation and by Marriage, or becauſe the one People were larger than the other, and comprehended under their name, or becauſe he was an Hivite by birth, an Hittite by habitation or incorporation with them. Hence alſo we may learn how Aholibamah here comes to be the Daughter both of Anah, and of Zibeon; the one being either the Natural or Proper Father, and the other either the Grandfather, or Father by Adoption.

*Chap.26 24. 3 And * Baſhemath, Iſhmael's daughter, ſiſter of Nebajoth.

*1 Chron. 1. 35. 4 And * Adah bare to Eſau, Eliphaz c: and Baſhemath bare Reuel d.

c The progenitor of that Eliphaz, Job 2. 11. d The father of Jethro. See Exod. 2. 18. Numb. 10. 29.

5 And Aholibamah bare Jeuſh, and Jaalam, and Korah: theſe are the ſons of Eſau e, which were born unto him in the land of Canaan.

e He had alſo Daughters, ver. 6 though their names be not here mentioned.

† Heb. ſouls. 6 And Eſau took his wives, and his ſons, and his daughters, and all the † perſons of his houſe, and his cattle, and all his beaſts, and all his ſubſtance which he had got in the land of Canaan: and went f into the countrey g from the face of his brother Jacob.

f Queſt. 1. Why went he thither? Anſw. Partly by his own choice, that Wild and Mountainous Countrey being very commodious for hunting, to which he wholly addicted himſelf; partly by his Wives perſuaſions, who were both utterly averſe from cohabitation with Iſaac or Jacob, and ſtrongly inclined to their own Countrey; but principally from the ſecret conduct of Divine Providence, thus accompliſhing his promiſes. See Joſh. 24. 4. Mal. 1. 3. Queſt. 2. When went he thither? Anſw. He went thither before this time in diſcontent at his Parents, and dwelt in Seir before Jacob's return to Canaan, as appears from Gen. 32. 3. and 33. 14, 16. Yet ſo as he came ſometimes to Canaan, and to his Father's houſe, and did not quit his intereſt in his father's eſtate. But when his Father was dead, and Jacob and he agreed about the partition of the Eſtate, he did totally and finally forſake Canaan, partly for the reaſon here following; partly for the other reaſons now alledged; and partly to avoid all occaſion both of Communication and Contention with his Brother. g (i. e.) Further up into the Countrey: Or, into another Countrey, as the Chaldee renders it, namely, into Seir; the word another being ſupplied. If that ſeem too bold a ſupplement, the place may be rendred thus, he went into a land diſtant or remote from the face of his brother, which ſupplement lies hid, and is implied in the word Mipne, from the face: Or thus, he went out of the Land: For ſo the Hebrew Prepoſition El is ſometimes uſed for Min, which ſignifies off, or out of, as appears by comparing 1 Kings 8. 30 with 2 Chron. 6. 21. and Iſa. 59. 20. Rom. 11. 26. and Judges 17. 2. 2 Chron. 1. 13. and many other places.

7 * For their riches were more than that they might dwell together: and † the land wherein they were ſtrangers h, could not bear them, becauſe of their cattle. *Chap.13. 6, 11. †Chap.17. 8. and 28. 4.

h Which words contain the reaſon why that Land which was large and fruitful could not bear them, becauſe they were not entire poſſeſſors of it, but only ſojourners in it, and therefore muſt take the owner's leavings, which were not ſufficient for both of them and their numerous Families.

8 Thus dwelt Eſau in * mount Seir: Eſau is Edom i. *Joſh. 24. 4.

i This ſeems to be mentioned by the Holy Ghoſt by way of contempt or reproach; this is he who ſold his Birth-right for a meſs of Red Pottage, and therefore was called Edom or Red.

9 And theſe are the generations of Eſau, the father of † the Edomites in mount Seir. † Heb. dom.

10 Theſe are the names of Eſau's ſons: * Eliphaz the ſon of Adah the wife of Eſau, Reuel the ſon of Baſhemath the wife of Eſau. * 1 Chron. 1. 35, &c.

11 And the ſons of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, † Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz. † Or, Ze*phi.*

12 And Timna was concubine to Eliphaz Eſau's ſon, and ſhe bare to Eliphaz, Amalek: theſe were the ſons of Adah, Eſau's wife.

13 And theſe are the ſons of Reuel: Nahath, and Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah: theſe were the ſons of Baſhemath, Eſau's wife.

14 And theſe were the ſons of Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon, Eſau's wife, and ſhe bare to Eſau, Jeuſh, and Jaalam, and Korah.

15 Theſe were Dukes k of the ſons of Eſau; the ſons of Eliphaz the firſt-born ſon of Eſau, Duke Teman, Duke Omar, Duke Zepho, Duke Kenaz, k Princes or Heads of their ſeveral Families and little Principalities, according to the manner of thoſe times, who ruled their Dominions, either ſeverally, each his own, or jointly by common advice, or it may be under one chief Prince, their ſuperior either in Title or in Power. And in this diviſion Eliphaz, as he was Eſau's firſt-born, ſo he had more than a double portion, his ſix ſons being made Dukes, as Eſau's immediate Sons were. Compare 1 Chron. 5. 1.

16 Duke Korah l, Duke Gatam, and Duke Amalek. Theſe are the Dukes that came of Eliphaz, in the land of Edom: Theſe were the ſons of Adah.

l He is not mentioned among Eliphaz his ſons, and therefore is thought to be his Grandſon. There is another Korah, ver. 14. and 18.

17 And theſe are the ſons of Reuel, Eſau's ſon: Duke Nahath, Duke Zerah, Duke Shammah, Duke Mizzah. Theſe are the Dukes that came of Reuel, in the land of Edom. Theſe are the ſons of Baſhemath, Eſau's wife.

18 And theſe are the ſons of Aholibamah, Eſau's wife: Duke Jeuſh, Duke Jaalam, Duke Korah: Theſe were the Dukes that came of Aholibamah the daughter of Anah, Eſau's wife.

19 Theſe are the ſons of Eſau (who is Edom) and theſe are their Dukes.

20 * Theſe are the ſons of Seir m the Horite, who inhabited the land o, Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah, * 1 Chron. 1. 38.

m Who are here mentioned, partly becauſe of their alliance with Eſau's Family, ver. 2, 20, 22, 24, 25 and partly becauſe the Government was tranſlated from his to Eſau's Family. o And ruled there, till Eſau and his poſterity drove them out, Deut. 2. 12, 22.

21 And Diſhon, and Ezer, and Diſhan: theſe are the Dukes of the Horites the children of Seir, in the land of Edom. 1 Chron. 1. 39.

22 And the children of Lotan, were Hori, and † Heman: and Lotan's ſiſter was Timna. † Or, H*man*,

23 And the children of Shobal were theſe: * Alvan, and Manahath, and Ebal, † Shepho, and Onam. * Or, A*an*, 1 Chron. 40. † Or, S*phi*, 24 And theſe are the children of Zibeon, both 1 Chron. 1. 40.

Ajah,

* Lev. 19. 19. Ajah, and Anah: this was that Anah that found * the mules p in the wilderneſs, as he fed the aſſes of Zibeon his father.

p So moſt underſtand the word Jemim, which is no where elſe uſed, and give this ſenſe of it. That he found out the way of the Generation of Mules by the Copulation of an Horſe and a Mare. Others render it waters, that he found out ſome ſprings of water, which in thoſe hot Countries were rare and precious; or hot waters, ſome hot and medicinal ſprings. But the Chaldee renders it Giants, and the Samaritan Verſion Emims, a ſort of Giants mentioned Deut. 2. 10, 11. who alſo were Neighbours to the Horites here ſpoken of, as appears from Gen. 14, 5, 6. and therefore might, according to the manner of thoſe times, make inroads one upon another. So Jemim is put for Emim, either by an Apocope of the firſt letter, or by the change of the Hebrew Letter Jod into Aleph, both which are frequent among the Hebrews. And the ſenſe is, that Anah the Horite found out the Emims, that is, he met with them, or came upon them ſuddenly, and ſmote them. In this ſenſe the word finding is oft uſed, as Judg. 1. 5. 1 Sam. 31. 3. Pſal. 21. 8. Iſa. 10. 10.

25 And the children q of Anah were theſe: Diſhon, and Aholibamah the daughter of Anah.

q Heb. Sons, though but one Son be mentioned. Either then he had other Sons not here expreſſed: Or the plural number is put for the ſingular, as Gen. 21. 7.

† Or, Amram, 1 Chron. 1. 41. 26 And theſe are the children of Diſhon: † Hemdan, and Eſhban, and Ithran, and Cheran.

* Or, Jakan, 1 Chron. 1. 42. 27 The children of Ezer are theſe: Bilhan, and Zaavan, and * Akan.

28 The children of Diſhan are theſe: Uz, and Aran.

29 Theſe are the Dukes that came of the Horites: Duke Lotan, Duke Shobal, Duke Zibeon, Duke Anah, 30 Duke Diſhon, Duke Ezer, Duke Diſhan: theſe are the Dukes that came of Hori, among their Dukes r in the land of Seir.

r Among other Dukes which were in that Countrey. Or, according to their Dukedoms or Principalities: The word Duke being here put for Dukedom, as the word King is put for Kingdom, Iſa. 23. 15. Dan. 7. 17.

* 1 Chron. 1. 43. 31 And * theſe are the kings that reigned in the land of Edom s, before there reigned any king over the children of Iſrael t.

s He ſpeaks of the poſterity of Eſau, who after they had ſubdued the Horites, erected a Kingdom there. t Here Prophane Wits triumph. How, ſay they, could Moſes write this, when as yet there was no King in Iſrael? Anſw. 1. The word may be taken for any chief Governor, in which ſenſe the Title of King is given to Moſes, Deut. 33. 5. and to the Judges, Judg. 17. 6. and to others who were not Kings, properly ſo called. Pſal. 119. 46. Luke 22. 25. Acts 9. 15, &c. Anſw. 2. Moſes might well ſay thus, becauſe he did by the Spirit of Prophecy foreſee, and therefore could foretell that the Iſraelites would have a King, as appears from Deut. 17. 14, 15. Anſw. 3. This, with other Clauſes of the ſame nature, might be inſerted afterwards by ſome Holy and Inſpired Man of God, as it is confeſſed that part of the laſt Chapter of Deuteronomy was.

32 And Bela the ſon of Beor reigned in Edom, and the name of his city u was Dinhabah.

u Where he was born or dwelt, and ſo in the reſt. The diverſity of their Cities makes it probable, that theſe Kings had not their power by ſucceſſion, but either by election, or by uſurpation, according to Iſaac's Prophecy of them, Gen. 27. 40. By thy ſword thou ſhalt live 33 And Bela died, and Jobab the ſon of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his ſtead.

34 And Jobab died, and Huſham of the land of Temani x reigned in his ſtead.

x Of which Land ſee Jer. 49. 7, 20. ſo called either from the City Teman, or from Teman the ſon of Eliphaz, ver. 11. Or, of the South Countrey, as the ancient Tranſlations render it.

35 And Huſham died, and Hadad the ſon of Bedad (who ſmote Midian in the field of Moab) reigned in his ſtead: and the name of his city was Avith.

36 And Hadad died, and Samlah of Maſrekah reigned in his ſtead.

37 And Samlah died, and Saul of Rehoboth, by the river y reigned in his ſtead.

y Either Euphrates, or a Branch of it, called Chabras, by which there is even at this day a City called Rahabath-Melic, i. e. Kings Rahabath, as the Learned obſerve: Or ſome other River of Note in thoſe Times and Parts.

38 And Saul died, and Baal-hanan the ſon of Achbor reigned in his ſtead.

† Or, Hadad. * Or, Pai. 1 Chron. 1. 50. 39 And Baal-hanan the ſon of Achbor died, and † Hadar reigned in his ſtead: and the name of his city was * Pau, and his wife's name was Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mezahab z.

z Either Matred was the Father and Mezahab the Mother; or Matred was the Mother, and Mezahab the Grandmother.

* 1 Chron. 1. 51. * Or, Aliah. 40 And theſe are the names of * the Dukes † that came of Eſau, according to their families, after their places, by their names: Duke Timnah, Duke * Alvah, Duke Jetheth,

† Of their Perſons, and Generations, and Families. The ſtate of Edom between the times of Eſau and Moſes ſeems to have been this; There were firſt Dukes, then Kings, and after them Dukes again. But if it be objected, that the time was too ſhort for a ſucceſſion of ſo many perſons, it may be replied, that what is confeſſed concerning the Dukes preceding the Kings, might be true alſo of theſe ſucceeding Dukes, and that the Edomites either having taken ſome diſtaſte at Kingly Government, or differing about the choice of a new King, divided themſelves again into ſeveral petty Principalities or Dukedoms; and ſo ſeveral of thoſe were Dukes at the ſame time in divers parts.

41 Duke Aholibamah, Duke Elah, Duke Pinon,

42 Duke Kenaz, Duke Teman, Duke Mibzar,

43 Duke Magdiel, Duke Iram. Theſe be the Dukes of Edom, according to their habitations, in the land of their poſſeſſion: he is Eſau the father of † the Edomites. † Heb. Edom.

CHAP. XXXVII.

Jacob dwells in Canaan: Joſeph brings to his father an ill report of his brethren, 2. He loves, they hate him, 3, 4. The more becauſe of his dreams, which he told them, 5. His firſt dream 7. His brethren interpret it, and their hatred increaſes, 8. His ſecond dream, 9. Tells it his father, who rebukes him, but obſerves his ſaying, 10, 11. He is ſent by his father, to ſeek after his brethren, 13—17. They ſeeing him, conſpire his death, 18—20. But upon the interceſſion of Reuben, they ſtrip and throw him into a pit, 21—24. Some Iſhmaelites paſſing by, by Judah's advice they ſell him to them, who carry him into Egypt, 25—28. Reuben is concerned for him, 29, 30. Their contrivance to deceive Jacob, 31, 32. His grief for the loſs of Joſeph, 33—35. Joſeph ſold to Potiphar an officer in Egypt, 36.

AND Jacob dwelt in the land † wherein his father was a ſtranger, in the land of Canaan. † Heb. of his fathers ſojournings,

2 Theſe are the generations a of Jacob: Joſeph being ſeventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren, and the lad was with the ſons of Bilhah, and with the ſons of Zilpah b, his fathers wives: and Joſeph brought unto his father their evil report c.

a (i. e.) The events or occurrences which happened to Jacob in his Family and Iſſue. So that word is uſed, Gen. 6. 9. and Numb. 3. 1. Or the word Theſe, may relate to what is ſaid Gen. 35. 22, &c. The Genealogy of Eſau being brought in by way of Parentheſis, and that being finiſhed, Moſes returns to the Generations of Jacob, as his principal buſineſs, and proceeds in the Hiſtory of their concerns. b Jacob placed Joſeph with them rather than with the ſons of Leah, either to keep Joſeph humble; Or for Joſeph's ſecurity, becauſe the other ſons retained the old grudge of their Mother, and were more like to envy, contemn, hate and abuſe him; Or as an obſerver of their actions, whom he moſt ſuſpected, as the following words may ſeem to imply. c Acquainted him with their lewd and wicked courſes, to the diſhonour of God and of their Family, that ſo his Father might apply ſuch remedies as he thought meet.

3 Now Iſrael loved Joſeph more than all his children, becauſe he was the ſon of his old age d: and he made him a coat of many † colours e. † Or, pieces. Judg. 5. 20. 2 Sam. 13. 18.

d Being born when Jacob was Ninety one years old. Such Children are commonly beſt beloved by their Parents, either becauſe ſuch are a ſingular bleſſing of God, and a more than common teſtimony of his favour, and a mercy leaſt expected by them, and therefore moſt prized; or becauſe they have more pleaſing converſation with them, and leſs experience of their miſbehaviour, of which the elder oft-times are guilty, whereby they alienate their Parents affections from them. The ancient Tranſlations, Chaldee Perſian, Arabick, and Samaritan, render the words thus, a wiſe or prudent ſon; old age being oft mentioned as a token of prudence; one born old, one wiſe above his years, one that had a grey head, as we ſay, upon green ſhoulders This may ſeem the more probable, both becauſe Joſeph was indeed ſuch a Child, and gave good evidence of it in a prudent obſervation of his brethrens treſpaſſes, and a diſcreet choice of the fitteſt remedy for them; and becauſe the reaſon here alledged ſeems proper and peculiar to Joſeph; whereas in the other ſenſe it belongs more to Benjamin, who was younger than Joſeph, and coſt his Mother dearer, and therefore might upon that account claim a greater intereſt in his Father's affections. e Probably made of threads of divers Colours interwoven together. Compare 2 Sam. 13. 18. This he gave him as a token of his ſpecial love, and of the rights of the firſt-born, which being juſtly taken from Reuben, he conferred upon Joſeph, 1 Chron 5. 1.

And when his brethren ſaw that their father loved him more than all his brethren, they hated him, and could not ſpeak peaceably unto him f.

f Their hatred was ſo deep and keen, that they could not ſmother it, as for their own intereſt they ſhould have done, but diſcovered it by their churliſh words and carriages to him.

5 And Joſeph dreamed a dream g, and he told it his brethren, and they hated him yet the more.

g Which it is probable he did not underſtand, for then he would never have told it to them, who, as he knew very well, were likely to make an evil conſtruction and uſe of it.

6 And he ſaid unto them, Here, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed.

7 For * behold, we were binding ſheaves in the field h, and lo, my ſheave aroſe, and alſo ſtood upright; and behold, your ſheaves ſtood round about i, and made obeiſance to my ſheaf. * Chap. 42. 6, 9. and 43. 26. and 44. 14.

h A ſecret Inſinuation of the occaſion of Jacob's advancement, which was from his Counſel and Care about the Corn of Egypt.

i This was a poſture of Miniſtry and Service, as is manifeſt both from Scripture and from common uſage.

8 And his brethren ſaid to him, Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or ſhalt thou indeed have dominion over us? and they hated him yet the more, for his dreams, and for his words †.

† For his relation of his Dreams, which they imputed to his Arrogancy.

* Chap. 46. 29.

9 ¶ And he dreamed yet another dream k, and told it his brethren, and ſaid, Behold, I have dreamed a dream more; and behold *, the Sun and the Moon l, and the eleven ſtars made obeiſance to me.

k That the Repetition of the ſame thing in another ſhape, might teach them, that the thing was both certain and very obſervable. l Theſe were not mentioned in the firſt Dream, becauſe in the event, his Brethren only went at firſt to Egypt and there worſhipped him, as afterwards his Father went with them. Obj. His Father did not worſhip him in Egypt. Anſw. 1. He did worſhip him mediately by his Sons, who in their Father's name and ſtead bowed before him, and by the Preſents which he ſent as Teſtimonies of that reſpect which he owed to him. 2. It is probable, that Jacob did, before the Egyptians, pay that Reverence to his Son, which all the reſt did, and which was due to the Dignity of his Place. As the Roman Conſul was commended by his Father for requiring him to alight from his Horſe, as the reſt did, when he met him upon the way.

10 And he told it to his father, and to his brethren; and his father rebuked him m, and ſaid unto him, What is this dream that thou haſt dreamed? ſhall I, and thy mother †, and thy brethren indeed come to bow down our ſelves to thee, to the earth?

m Not through anger at Joſeph, or contempt of his Dream, for it follows, he obſerved it; but partly leſt Joſeph ſhould be puffed up upon the account of his Dreams; and principally, to allay the envy and hatred of his Brethren. † Either 1. Rachel, who was now dead, and therefore muſt riſe again and worſhip thee; whence he may ſeem to infer the idleneſs of the Dream, becauſe the fulfilling it was impoſſible. Or rather, 2. Leah, his Step-mother, one that filled his Mother's place, being now Jacob's only Wife, and the Mother of the Family.

* Dan. 7. 28 Luk. 2. 19, 51.

11 And his brethren envied him: but his father * obſerved the ſaying n.

n The words of Joſeph; or the thing, the Dream which he told, well knowing that God did frequently at that time ſignify his mind by Dreams, and perceiving ſomething ſingular and extraordinary in this Dream, and eſpecially in the doubling of it.

12 ¶ And his brethren went to feed their fathers flock in Shechem o.

o In the Parts adjoyning to Shechem, in the Lands which he had purchaſed there, Gen. 33. 19. Let none think ſtrange that he ſhould ſend his Sheep ſo far from him, both becauſe that Land was his own, and becauſe his Sheep being exceeding numerous, and he but a Stranger in the Land, was likely to be expoſed to many ſuch Inconveniencies. Compare Gen. 30. 36. One may rather wonder that he durſt venture his Sons and his Cattle there, where that barbarous Maſſacre had been committed, Chap. 34. 25. But thoſe Paſtures being his own, and convenient for his uſe, he did commit himſelf and them to that ſame good Providence which watched over him then and ever ſince, and ſtill kept up that terror which then he ſent upon them. Beſides Jacob's Sons and Servants made a conſiderable Company, and the Men of Shechem being univerſally ſlain, others were not very forward to revenge their Quarrel, where there was any hazard to themſelves in ſuch an enterprize.

13 And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, Do not thy brethren feed the flock in Shechem? Come, and I will ſend thee unto them p: and he ſaid, Here am I.

p Having kept him for ſome time at home, and ſuppoſing that length of time had cooled their heats, and worn out their hatred, he now ſends him to them.

† Heb. ſee the peace of thy brethren, &c.

14 And he ſaid to him, Go, I pray thee, † ſee whether it be well with thy brethren, and well with the flocks, and bring me word again: ſo he ſent him out of the vale of Hebron, and he came to Shechem.

15 ¶ And a certain man found him, and behold he was wandering in the field, and the man asked him, ſaying, What ſeekeſt thou?

16 And he ſaid, I ſeek my brethren; tell me, I pray thee, where they feed their flocks.

17 And the man ſaid, They are departed hence: for I heard them ſay, Let us go to Dothan q. And Joſeph went after his brethren, and found them in Dothan.

q A place not very far from Shechem, where afterwards a City was built. See 2 Kings 6. 13.

18 And when they ſaw him afar off, even before he came near unto them, they conſpired againſt him, to ſlay him.

19 And they ſaid one to another, Behold, this † dreamer r cometh.

r Heb. This Maſter of Dreams, this crafty Dreamer, that covers his own ambitious Deſigns and Deſires with pretences or fictions of Dreams.

20 Come now therefore, and let us ſlay him, and caſt him into ſome pit s, and we will ſay, Some evil beaſt hath devoured him t: and we ſhall ſee what will become of his dreams.

s Partly as unworthy of Burial; partly to cover their villanous Action, and partly that they might quickly put him out of their ſight and minds. t There being great ſtore of ſuch Creatures in thoſe Parts. See 1 Kings 13. 24 2 Kings 2. 24.

21 And * Reuben heard it, and he delivered him u out of their hands, and ſaid, Let us not kill him.

u He did ſo, as to the violent and certain diſpatch of his Life which was intended: Or the Act is here put for the purpoſe and endeavour of doing it, in which ſenſe Balak is ſaid to fight againſt Iſrael, Joſ. 24. 9. and Abraham to offer up Iſaac, Heb. 11. 17. So here, he delivered him, i. e. uſed his utmoſt Power to deliver him, that ſo he might recover his Father's favour loſt by his inceſtuous Action.

22 And Reuben ſaid unto them, Shed no blood, but caſt him into this pit that is in the wilderneſs, and lay no hand upon him; that he might rid him out of their hands, to deliver him to his father again.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Joſeph was come unto his brethren, that they ſtript Joſeph out of his coat, his coat of many † colours that was on him.

† Or, Pieces.

24 And they took him, and caſt him into a pit: and the pit was empty, there was no water in it.

25 And they ſat down to eat bread x: and they lift up their eyes, and looked, and behold, a company of * Iſhmaelites y came from Gilead z, with their camels, bearing ſpicery, and balm a, and myrrh, going to carry it down to Egypt.

26 And Judah ſaid unto his brethren, What profit is it, if we ſlay our brother b, and conceal his blood c?

b If we ſuffer him to periſh in the Pit, when we may ſell him with advantage. c (i. e.) His Death, as the word Blood is often uſed. See Deut. 17. 8. 2 Sam 1. 16. and 3 28.

27 Come, and let us ſell him to the Iſhmaelites, and let not our hand be upon him: for he is our brother, and our fleſh: and his brethren † were content.

28 Then there paſſed by Midianites d, merchantmen, and they drew and lift up Joſeph out of the pit, and * ſold Joſeph to the Iſhmaelites for * twenty pieces of ſilver: and they brought Joſeph into Egypt.

* Pſalm 105. 17. Wiſd. 13. Ac 7. 9.
* See M 27. 9.

d This Story ſeems a little involved, and the Perſons to whom he was ſold, doubtful. Here ſeem to be two, if not three, ſorts of Merchants mentioned, Iſhmaelites, and Midianites here, and Medanites, as it is in the Hebrew, verſe 36. which were a diſtinct People from the Midianites, as deſcended from Medan, when the Midianites, deſcended from Midian, both Abraham's Sons, Gen. 25. 2. The buſineſs may be accommodated divers ways, either 1. the ſame Perſons or People are promiſcuouſly called both Iſhmaelites and Midianites, as they alſo are, Judges 8. 1, 24, 28. either becauſe they were mixed together in their Dwellings, and by Marriages; or becauſe they were here joyned together, and made one Caravan or Company of Merchants. And the Text may be read thus, And the Midianite Merchant-men (either the ſame who were called Iſhmaelites, verſe 27. or others being in the ſame Company with them) paſſed by, and they (i. e. not the Merchant-men, but Joſeph's Brethren ſpoken of, verſe 27. the Relative being referred to the remoter Antecedent, as it is frequently in the Scripture) lift up Joſeph and ſold him to the Iſhmaelites or Midianites, &c. Or 2. The Perſons may be diſtinguiſhed, and the Story may very well be conceived thus, The Iſhmaelites are going to Egypt, and are diſcerned at ſome diſtance by Joſeph's Brethren, while they were diſcourſing about their Brother. In the time of their diſcourſe, the Midianites, who ſeem to be coming from Egypt, coming by the Pit and hearing Joſeph's Cries there, pull him out of the Pit, and ſell him to the Iſhmaelites, who carry him with them into Egypt. There they ſell him to the Medanites, tho that, as many other Hiſtorical Paſſages, be omitted in the Sacred Story. And the Medanites, or Midianites, if you pleaſe, only ſuppoſing them to be other Perſons than thoſe mentioned, verſe 28. which is but a fair and reaſonable Suppoſition, ſell him to Potiphar.

29 ¶ And Reuben returned unto the pit e, and behold, Joſeph was not in the pit: and he rent his clothes f.

e That according to his Brethren's order, verſe 27. he might take him thence and ſell him. f As the manner was upon doleful Occurrences. See below, verſe 34. Numb. 14. 6. Ezra 9. 3. Job 1. 20. and 2. 12.

30 And he returned unto his brethren, and ſaid, The child g is not h, and I, whither ſhall I go i?

g So he calls him comparatively to his Brethren, though he was 17 years old, verſe 2. h (i. e.) Is not in the Land of the Living, or, is Dead, as that Phraſe is commonly uſed, as Gen. 42. 13, 36. compared with Gen. 44. 20. Job 7. 21. Jer. 31. 15. Lam. 5. 7. Matth. 2. 18. i Either to find the Child, or to flee from our Father? He is more ſolicitous than the reſt, becauſe he being the eldeſt Brother, his Father would require Joſeph at his hand, and being ſo highly incenſed againſt him for his former Crime, would be the more apt to ſuſpect him, and deal more ſeverely with him.

31 And they took Joſephs coat, and killed a kid of the goats, and dipped the coat in the blood.

32 And they ſent the coat of many colours, and they brought k it to their father, and ſaid, This have we found: know now whether it be thy ſons coat or no.

k They brought it by a Meſſenger whom they ſent: Men are commonly ſaid to do what they cauſe others to do.

33 And he knew it, and ſaid, It is my ſons coat; an * evil beaſt hath devoured him; Joſeph is without doubt rent in pieces.

* Chap. 44. 28.

34 And Jacob rent his clothes, and put ſackcloth l upon his loins, and mourned for his ſon many days.

l (i. e.) A courſe and mournful Habit. This is the firſt Example of that kind, but afterwards was in common uſe upon theſe occaſions. See 2 Sam. 3. 31. 1 Kings 20. 31. and 21. 27, &c.

35 And all his ſons, and all his daughters m roſe up to comfort him: but he refuſed to be comforted: and he ſaid, For I will go down into the grave n unto my ſon o mourning: thus his father wept for him.

m Dinah, and his Daughters-in-law, and his Son's Daughters. n This Hebrew word Sheol is taken ſometimes for Hell, as Job 11. 8. Prov. 15. 11. but moſt commonly for the Grave, or the Place or State of the Dead, as Gen. 42. 38. and 44. 29, 31. Pſalm 6. 5. and 16. 10, &c. And whether of thoſe it ſignifies, muſt be determined by the Subject and the Circumſtances of the Place; here it cannot be meant of Hell, for Jacob neither could believe that good Joſeph was there, nor would have reſolved to go thither; but the ſenſe is, I will kill my ſelf with Grief, or I will never leave mourning till I dye. o Or, For my Son: ſo the Prepoſition El is oft uſed for Al, as 1 Sam. 1. 27. and 4. 19, 21, 22. and 2 Sam. 21. 2.

36 And the Midianites ſold him into Egypt unto Potiphar, an † officer of Pharaohs, and † * captain of the guard p.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

Judah marries a Canaanitiſh woman, who bears him three ſons, 1——5. He marries his eldeſt ſon to Tamar, 6. He being wicked is ſlain by God, 7. The ſecond ſon is commanded to marry her, 8. His wickedneſs, 9. and death, 10. He promiſes her his third ſon, but performs not, 11. She by a ſubtil practice commits inceſt with him, 12. He gives her a pledge, 18. She is found with child; Judah commands her to be burnt, 24. She brings to her father the pledge, 25. He acknowledges it; Acquits her, and condemns himſelf, 26. She brings forth two ſons, 27, 30.

AND it came to paſs at that time a that Judah went down from his brethren b, and turned in to a certain Adullamite c, whoſe name was Hirah.

a This Story is not without difficulty, if we conſider how little time is allowed for all the events of this Chapter, there being not above twenty three years between Judah's Marriage, and the Birth of Pharez, yea, and the Birth of his Sons too, Eſrom and Hamul, who are ſaid to go into Egypt with Jacob, Gen. 46. 12. But there are two ways propoſed for the Reſolution of it, as the Phraſe, at that time, may be underſtood two ways, either 1. More largely, for the time ſince Jacob's return from Padan to Canaan, and ſo the Hiſtory may be conceived thus; Judah was married ſome years before the ſelling of Joſeph, tho it be here mentioned after it, and ſo out of its place, as being the foundation of all the following Events, which are here placed together, becauſe they followed the ſelling of Joſeph. Judah, and Er, and Onan, and afterwards Pharez, are ſuppoſed each to Marry, and have a Child at fourteen years old, which though unuſual, wants not Examples both in Sacred and Prophane Writers. And they that will quarrel with the Scripture, and queſtion its Authority for ſome ſuch uncuſtomary Occurrences which it relates, ſhew more of Impiety than Wiſdom in it, and ſhall do well to conſider, that God might ſo order things by his Providence, and record ſuch things in his word, upon the ſame account on which he hath put ſeveral other difficult Paſſages in Scripture, partly to try and exerciſe Men's Faith, Humility, and Modeſty; and partly to puniſh the evil Minds of ungodly Men, and for their Sins to lay an occaſion of Stumbling and Cavilling at the Scriptures before them that greedily ſeek and gladly catch at all ſuch occaſions. Or, 2. More ſtrictly, for the time following the ſale of Joſeph, which ſeems the more probable way, and ſo the Story lies thus; Judah was now about twenty years old when he married, and the three firſt years he hath three Sons, Er, Onan, and Shelah: The two firſt Marry, each when they were about Seventeen years old. Three years after both their Deaths, and when Skelah had been marriageable a year or two, and was not given to Tamar, Judah lies with Tamar and begets upon her Pharez. But as for Eſrom and Hamul, they are ſaid to go into Egypt with Jacob, as alſo Benjamin's ten Sons are ſaid to go with him thither, to wit, in their Father's Loins, becauſe they were begotten by their Father in Egypt, whileſt Jacob lived there, of which more in its proper place. b Probably in diſcontent, upon occaſion of Quarrels ariſen among them about the ſelling of Joſeph, whereof Judah was a great Promoter, if not the firſt Mover. c Of the City of Adullam. Of which ſee Joſ. 12. 15. and 15. 35.

2 And Judah ſaw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite d, whoſe name was * Shuah e: and he took her, and went in unto her.

* 1 Chron. 2. 3.

d Whom he married, againſt the Counſel and Example of his Parents. But when Judah had committed ſo great a Crime as the ſelling of his Brother, and God had forſaken him, no wonder he adds one Sin to another. e The name, not of the Daughter, but of her Father, verſe 12.

3 And ſhe conceived, and bare a ſon, and he called his name Er.

4 * And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon, and ſhe called his name Onan.

* Numb. 26. 19.

5 And ſhe yet again conceived, and bare a ſon, and called his name Shelah; and he was at Chezib f, when ſhe bare him.

f A place near Adullam, called alſo Aczib, Joſ. 19. 29. Mich. 1. 14.

6 And Judah took a wife for Er his firſt-born, whoſe name was Tamar.

7 And * Er, Judahs firſt-born was wicked in the ſight of the LORD g, and the LORD ſlew him h.

* Numb. 26. 19.

g (i. e) Notoriouſly wicked. Compare Gen. 10. 9. and 13. 13. h In ſome extraordinary and remarkable manner, as verſe 10.

8 And Judah ſaid unto Onan, Go in unto thy brothers wife, and marry her i, and raiſe up ſeed to thy brother k.

i This, as alſo divers other things, was now inſtituted and obſerved amongſt God's People, and afterwards was expreſſed in a written Law, Deut. 25. 5, 6. See alſo Numb. 36. 6, 7. Ruth 1. 11. Matth. 22. 24. k Beget a Child which may have thy Brothers Name and Inheritance, and may be reputed as his Child. So it was with the firſt Child, but the reſt were reputed his own.

9 And Onan knew that the ſeed ſhould not be his; and it came to paſs when he went in unto his brothers wife, that he ſpilled it on the ground, leſt that he ſhould give ſeed unto his brother l.

l Two things are here noted, 1. The Sin it ſelf, which is here particularly deſcribed by the Holy Ghoſt, that Men might be inſtructed concerning the nature, and the great evil of this Sin of Self-pollution, which is ſuch, that it brought upon the Actor of it the extraordinary Vengeance of God, and which is condemned not only by Scripture, but even by the Light of Nature, and the Judgment of Heathens, who have expreſly cenſured it as a great Sin, and as a kind of Murther. Of which ſee my Latin Synopſis. Whereby we may ſufficiently underſtand how wicked and abominable a Practice this is amongſt Chriſtians, and in the Light of the Goſpel, which lays greater and ſtricter Obligations upon us to Purity, and ſeverely forbids all Pollution both of Fleſh and Spirit. 2. The cauſe of this Wickedneſs; which ſeems to have been either hatred of his Brother; or envy at his Brother's Name and Honour, ſpringing from the pride of his own Heart.

10 And the thing which he did, † diſpleaſed the LORD m, wherefore he ſlew him alſo n.

† Heb. was evil in the eyes of the Lord.

m An Expreſſion noting a more than ordinary Offence againſt God, as 2 Sam. 11. 27. n This juſt, but dreadful, ſeverity of God is noted both for the terror of ſuch like Tranſgreſſors, and to provoke love and thankfulneſs to God in thoſe whom he uſeth more indulgently.

11 Then ſaid Judah to Tamar his daugter-in-law, Remain a widow at thy fathers houſe o, till Shelah my ſon be grown p: (for he ſaid q, Leſt peradventure he die alſo as his brethren did r) and Tamar went and dwelt in her fathers houſe.

o Whether he ſent her from his Houſe, that Shelah might not be inſnared by her Preſence and Converſation. p So he diſmiſſed her with a pretence of kindneſs, and a tacit promiſe of Marriage to her, which he never intended to keep, as the following words imply. q Or rather, but he ſaid; for the Hebrew chi oft ſignifies but, as Gen. 45. 8. Pſalm 37. 20. Eccl. 2. 10. and 6. 2. So here is an Oppoſition between what he ſaid to Tamar, and what he ſaid to himſelf, or in his own heart, as that word ſaid is oft uſed: He intimated to her, that he would give Shelah to her, but he meant otherwiſe, and ſaid in himſelf, I will not do it. r Imputing the Death of his two Sons either to her fault, or to her unluckineſs, rather than to his own, or his Son's miſcarriages.

12 ¶ And † in proceſs of time s the daughter of Shuah Judahs wife died: and Judah was comforted, and went up unto his ſheep-ſhearers t to Timnath u, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite.

13 And it was told Tamar, ſaying, Behold thy father-in-law goeth up to Timnath to ſhear his ſheep.

14 And ſhe put her widows garments off from her, and covered her with a vail x, and wrapped her ſelf, and ſat in † an open place y, which is by the way to Timnath: for ſhe ſaw that Shelah was grown, and ſhe was not given unto him to wife.

† Heb. the door of eyes, or of Enajim.

x As Harlots uſed to do in thoſe modeſter Ages of the World, when they had not learnt to outface the Sun, nor to glory in their Villanies. y Where ſhe might be ſooneſt diſcovered by Paſſengers.

This is noted as the practice of Harlots, Prov. 7. 12. and 9. 14. Jer. 3. 2. Ezek 16. 24, 25.

15 When Judah ſaw her, he thought her to be an harlot: becauſe ſhe had covered her face z.

z And was doubtleſs careful not to diſcover her ſelf by her Voice.

16 And he turned unto her by the way, and ſaid, Go to, I pray thee, let me come in unto thee (for he knew not that ſhe was his daughter-in-law) and ſhe ſaid, What wilt thou give me, that thou mayeſt come in unto me?

17 And he ſaid, I will ſend thee † a kid from the flock: and ſhe ſaid, Wilt thou give me a pledge till thou ſend it?

† Heb. a kid of the goats.

18 And he ſaid, What pledge ſhall I give thee? And ſhe ſaid, Thy ſignet, and thy bracelets a, and thy ſtaff that is in thine hand: and he gave it her, and came in unto her, and ſhe conceived by him b.

a Or, handkerchief, or girdle, or any other Ornament made of twiſted Thread, which the Hebrew word ſignifies. b God ſo ordering things by his Providence, that his Sin might be diſcovered. And this and other ſuch horrid Crimes committed ſometimes by the Patriarchs, and other eminent Perſons, it hath pleaſed God for divers wiſe and holy Reaſons to leave upon Record, partly to diſcover how great and deep the Corruption of Man's Nature is, and that even in the beſt; partly to oblige all Men to an humble Sence of their own Infirmity, and to a diligent Application of themſelves to God for his gracious Succors, and to a greater Circumſpection and Watchfulneſs to prevent thoſe Evils in themſelves; partly to encourage even the greateſt Sinners to Repentance and the hope of Pardon; and partly for the juſt Puniſhment and Obduration of incorrigible Sinners, who make ſuch ſad Examples matter of their Delight and Imitation.

19 And ſhe aroſe and went away, and laid by her vail from her, and put on the garments of her widowhood.

20 And Judah ſent the kid by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive his pledge from the womans hand, but he found her not.

21 Then he asked the men of that place, ſaying, Where is the harlot that was † openly by the way ſide? And they ſaid, There was no harlot in this place.

† Or, in Enajim.

22 And he returned to Judah, and ſaid, I cannot find her: and alſo the men of the place ſaid, That there was no harlot in this place.

23 And Judah ſaid, Let her take it to her, leſt we † be aſhamed b: behold, I ſent this kid, and thou haſt not found her.

† Heb. become a contempt.

b Note, That Fornication was eſteemed ſinful and ſhameful amongſt the Heathens.

24 ¶ And it came to paſs about three months after, that it was told Judah, ſaying, Tamar thy daughter-in-law hath played the harlot, and alſo behold, ſhe is with child by whoredom: and Judah ſaid, Bring her forth c, and let her be burnt d.

c To the Magiſtrate, from whom ſhe may receive her Sentence and deſerved Puniſhment. Judah had not the power of Life and Death, at leaſt not over her who was a Canaanite, and who was not in his, but in her own Father's Houſe. But he being a perſon of great Eſtate and Authority, and as it ſeems, of obliging Converſation, could do very much to perſwade thoſe who then had the power of the Sword, either to draw it forth, at leaſt in a juſt Cauſe, on his behalf, or to ſheath it upon his deſire and ſatisfaction. d As guilty of Adultery, which was puniſhed with Death by the Laws of God, Deut. 22. 23, 24. and of Nations too, Jer. 29. 22, 23. He chargeth her with Adultery, becauſe ſhe was betrothed to Shelah. See Deut. 22. 23. This eagerneſs of Judah proceeded not from zeal of Juſtice, for then he would not have endeavoured to deſtroy the innocent Child with the guilty Mother, againſt God's Law, Deut. 24. 16. Ezek. 18. 20. but from worldly Policy, that he might take her out of the way, which he eſteemed a burden and a blot to his Family.

25 When ſhe was brought forth, ſhe ſent to her father-in-law, ſaying, By the man whoſe theſe are, am I with child: and ſhe ſaid, Diſcern, I pray thee, whoſe are theſe, the ſignet, and bracelets, and ſtaff.

26 And Judah acknowledged them e, and ſaid, She hath been more righteous than I f: becauſe that I gave her not to Shelah my ſon: and he knew her again no more g.

e His guilty Conſcience, and the horrour of ſo foul a Fact, together with his ſudden ſurprizal, forced him to an ingenuous Confeſſion, whereas he might have uſed many pretences and evaſions, which would eaſily have prevailed with ſuch partial Judges. f She was more unchaſt, becauſe ſhe knowingly committed Adultery and Inceſt, when he deſigned neither; but he was more unjuſt, becauſe he was the cauſe of her Sin, both by withholding Shelah from her, who was hers both by Right and by Judah's Promiſe, and by whom her Chaſtity ſhould have been preſerved; and by his ſolicitation and encouragement of her to the Sin. g Shewing the ſincerity of his Confeſſion by his forſaking of the Sin confeſſed. See Job 34. 32. And it may be probably concluded that he neither knew her, nor any other Woman afterward, becauſe there is no mention of any Child which he had after this time.

27 ¶ And it came to paſs in the time of her travail, that behold, twins were in her womb.

28 And it came to paſs when ſhe travailed, that the one put out his hand, and the midwife took and bound upon his hand a skarlet thread h, ſaying, This came out firſt.

h In token of his being the firſt born, which ſhe confidently expected he would be.

29 And it came to paſs, as he drew back his hand, that behold his brother came out: and ſhe ſaid, † How haſt thou broken forth? this breach be upon thee i: therefore his name was called † * Pharez.

† Or, wherefore haſt thou made this breach againſt the

* 1 Chron. 2. 4. Matth. 1. 3.

i Be imputed to thee, as the ſame phraſe is taken Geneſis 16. 5.

30 And afterward came out his brother that had the skarlet thread upon his hand, and his name was called Zarah.

CHAP. XXXIX.

God proſpers Joſeph in Potiphar's ſervice, 1, 2. Potiphar obſerves it, and ſets him over all his houſe, 3—6. He is a goodly Perſon, and his miſtreſs ſollicites him to lye with her, 7. He abhorring the ingratitude againſt his maſter, and ſin againſt God, conſtantly refuſes, 8—10. they being in the Houſe alone, ſhe ſeizes his coat, which he leaves with her, and fled, 11——13. She accuſes him firſt to the ſervants, 14, 15. Then to his maſter, 16—18. Who caſts him into priſon, 19, 20. the Lord is with him there; he finds favour with the keeper; is ſet over the priſoners, and proſpers, 21—23.

AND Joſeph was brought down to Egypt, and * Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hand of the Iſhmaelites, which had brought him down thither.

* Chap. 36.

2 And * the LORD was with Joſeph a, and he was a proſperous man, and he was in the houſe b of his maſter the Egyptian.

* 1 Sam. 16. 18. and 18. Acts 7.

a With his gracious Preſence and Bleſſing, as this phraſe is taken here, verſe 21. and Gen. 21. 22. and 26. 24. b He doth not endeavour to make an eſcape to his Father, but demeaned himſelf patiently and faithfully in the ſtation into which God's Providence had brought him.

3 And his maſter ſaw that the LORD was with him c, and that the LORD made all that he did to proſper in his hand d.

c The Heathens owned a ſupream God, and his over-ruling Providence in Affairs, though they did not glorify him as God, but worſhipped the Creature with, and more than the Creator, Rom. 1. 25. d (i. e.) Under his Miniſtry, as this Phraſe is uſed, Exod. 4. 13. Levit. 8. 36. Prov. 26. 6. and oft elſewhere.

4 And Joſeph found grace in his ſight, and he ſerved him e, and he made him overſeer over his houſe, and all that he had he put into his hand f.

e Not now as a Slave, but in an higher degree. f (i. e) Committed to his care and management, as Gen. 16. 6. Object. How could this be, when Joſeph underſtood not the Egyptian Tongue? Anſ. Joſeph doubtleſs when he came thither, did as much as poſſibly he could, endeavour to get the knowledge of that Language, and being a Perſon of excellent Parts would ſoon obtain it, eſpecially becauſe of the great Affinity between that Language and his own. Nor muſt we think that Joſeph was thus highly advanced in an inſtant, but by degrees, ſtep by ſtep, and after ſome conſiderable time.

5 And it came to paſs from the time that he had made him overſeer in his houſe, and over all that he had, that * the LORD bleſſed the Egyptians houſe for Joſephs ſake: and the bleſſing of the LORD was upon all that he had in the houſe, and in the field.

* Chap. 27.

6 And he left all that he had, in Joſephs hand: and he knew not ought he had, ſave the bread which he did eat g: and Joſeph was a goodly perſon, and well-favoured.

g He took care for nothing, but that he might eat, and drink, and fare deliciouſly. Nor did he indeed take any care for that, it being provided for him by other hands. Others thus, he took care for nothing, but committed all to Joſeph, except his Bread, which he would not have provided by an Hebrew hand, becauſe the Egyptians might not eat Bread with the Hebrews, Gen. 43. 32. But that was no impediment, for neither did Joſeph eat with his Maſter, nor was he the Cook to dreſs it for him. But he might provide Food for him, as afterwards he did for all the Egyptians without any ſcruple on their ſide.

7 And it came to paſs after theſe things, that his maſters wife caſt her eyes upon Joſeph h, and ſhe ſaid, Lie with me.

h In a laſcivious and unchaſt manner. See Job 31. 1. Matth. 5. 28. 2 Pet. 2. 14.

8 But he refuſed, and ſaid unto his maſters wife, Behold, my maſter wotteth not what is with me in the houſe, and he hath committed all that he hath to my hand:

9 There is none greater in this houſe than I: neither hath he kept back any thing from me, but thee, becauſe thou art his wife: How then can I do this great wickedneſs, and * ſin againſt God?

* Chap. 20. 6. Lev. 6. 2. Pſal 51. 4.

10 And it came to paſs, as ſhe ſpake to Joſeph day by day, that he hearkned not unto her, to lie by her, or to be with her i.

i He avoided her Company and familiar Converſation, as evil in it ſelf, the preſent circumſtances conſidered, and as an occaſion of further evil. See Prov. 1. 15. and 5. 8. 1 Cor. 15. 33. 1 Theſſ. 5. 22. 1 Tim. 5. 14.

11 And it came to paſs about this thime k, that Joſeph went into the houſe to do his buſineſs l, and there was none of the men of the houſe there within *.

k Or, Upon a certain day, which ſhe thought convenient for the reaſon following. l That which belonged to his charge; to caſt up his accounts, as the Chaldee renders it, which requiring privacy, gave her this opportunity. * To wit, in that part of the Houſe where Joſeph was.

12 And ſhe caught him by his garment, ſaying, Lie with me: and he left his garment in her hand m, and fled, and got him out.

m Which he would not ſtrive to get from her, partly for reverence to his Miſtreſs; partly in deteſtation of her Wickedneſs, whereby even his Garment might ſeem to be infected; and partly to put himſelf and her out of the danger of further Temptation.

13 And it came to paſs, when ſhe ſaw that he had left his garment in her hand, and was fled forth;

14 That ſhe called unto the men of her houſe n, and ſpake unto them, ſaying, See, he o hath brought in an Hebrew p unto us, to mock q us r: he came in unto me to lie with me, and I cryed with a † loud voice.

n To ſuch as were in other parts of the Houſe, whom ſhe called in as Witneſſes for her Husbands ſatisfaction. o (i. e.) My Huſband, whom ſhe would not name, as it were out of diſdain and high diſpleaſure for being the occaſion of this horrid affront. Thus the Pronouns he and they are oft uſed by way of contempt, as Luke 14. 24. and 19. 27. John 7. 11. and 8. 10. p So ſhe calls him to render him hateful and contemptible to the Egyptians. q To abuſe me; or to vitiate and defile me; for that word is oft uſed in an obſcene ſenſe. r She inſinuates, that this was not only an indignity to her, but an injury to all the Family, which therefore they were obliged to revenge.

15 And it came to paſs, when he heard that I lifted up my voice, and cryed, that he left his garment with me, and fled, and got him out.

16 And ſhe laid up his garment by her, until her Lord came home.

17 And ſhe ſpake unto him according to theſe words, ſaying: The Hebrew ſervant which thou haſt brought unto us s, came in unto me to mock me.

s So ſhe makes her Husband acceſſary to the Crime, that ſhe might provoke him to the ſharper revenge.

18 And it came to paſs, as I lift up my voice, and cryed, that he left his garment with me, and fled out t.

t An improbable ſtory, and an evidence that the violence was on her ſide; otherwiſe if he had attempted violence upon her Perſon, he would not have forborn violence to the recovery of his Garment, which he very well knew might be made a pretence againſt him.

19 And it came to paſs, when his maſter heard the words of his wife, which ſhe ſpake unto him, ſaying, After this manner did thy ſervant to me, that his wrath was kindled.

20 And Joſephs maſter took him, and put him into the priſon u, a place where the kings priſoners x were bound: and he was there in the priſon.

u Queſt. Why did he not kill him, the Crime being capital, and he having ſo undoubted a Power in his hand to do it? Anſw. 1. It is probable he was a little moderated by Joſeph's Apology, which doubtleſs he made for himſelf, though it be not here recorded. 2. This is to be aſcribed to the good Providence of God, which reſtains the Waves of the Sea, and the Paſſions of Men, and ſets them their bounds which they ſhall not paſs, which watched over Joſeph in a peculiar manner. x Traytors or great Offenders againſt the King, whoſe Priſon doubtleſs was none of the eaſieſt, and therefore it is called a Dungeon, Gen. 40. 15. and 41. 14. and he indured great hardſhip in it. See Pſal. 105. 18.

21 ¶ But the LORD was with Joſeph, and † ſhewed him mercy, and * gave him favour in the ſight of the keeper of the priſon y.

† Heb. extended kindneſs unto him.
* Exod. 3. 21. and 11. 3. and 12. 36. Pſal. 106. 46. Prov. 16. 7. Dan. 1. 9.

y The Gaoler, who under Potiphar was the Keeper of that particular Priſon.

22 And the keeper of the priſon committed to Joſephs hand all the priſoners that were in the priſon, and whatſoever they did there, he was the doer of it z.

z They did nothing but by Joſeph's command or permiſſion.

23 The keeper of the priſon looked not to any thing that was under his hand, becauſe the LORD was with him: and that which he did, the LORD made it to proſper.

CHAP. XL.

Pharaoh's chief butler and baker are put into priſon; and committed to Joſeph, 1——4. They dream, and are ſad, 5, 6. He asks the reaſon, 7. Their anſwer, and Joſeph's reply, 8. The chief butler tells his dream, 9——11. Joſeph interprets it of his reſtoration, and deſires him to be mindful of him, 12——15. The chief baker alſo tells his dream, 16, 17. Joſeph interprets it, 18, 19. Both made good by the event, 20——22. The butler forgets Joſeph, 23.

AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that the butler of the king of Egypt, and his baker, had offended their lord the king of Egypt.

2 And Pharaoh was wroth againſt two of his officers, againſt the chief of the butlers, and againſt the chief of the bakers.

3 And he put them in ward in the houſe of the captain of the guard a, into the priſon where Joſeph was bound b.

a To wit, Potiphar, Gen. 37. 36. who being informed by his Underkeeper of Joſeph's great care and faithfulneſs, began to have a better Opinion of him, though for his own quiet, and his Wives reputation, he left him ſtill in the Priſon. b Was a Priſoner, as that word is uſed, Iſa. 22. 3. For Joſeph being now made Governour of the Priſoners, was doubtleſs freed from his bonds; or had been bound, and that with Irons in a cruel manner, Pſal. 105. 18.

4 And the captain of the guard charged Joſeph with them, and he ſerved them, and they continued a ſeaſon c in ward.

c Heb. Days, i. e. either many Days, or a Year, as that word ſometimes ſignifies. See Gen. 24. 55.

5 ¶ And they dreamed a dream both of them, each man his dream in one night, each man according to the interpretation of his dream d, the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, which were bound in the priſon.

d (i. e.) Not a vain and idle Dream, but one that had in it a ſignification of future things, and needed interpretation; and the ſeveral Dreams were proper and agreeable to the ſeveral events which befel them, and to the ſeveral Interpretations which Joſeph put upon them: The Dream and Interpretation did fitly anſwer one to the other.

6 And Joſeph came in unto them in the morning, and looked upon them, and behold, they were ſad e.

e Perplexed and terrified both, becauſe they perceived the Dream was extraordinary and ſent from God, compare Gen. 41. 8. Dan. 2. 1. Matth. 27. 19. and becauſe they underſtood not the meaning of it.

7 And he asked Pharaohs officers that were with him in the ward of his lords houſe, ſaying, Wherefore † look ye ſo ſadly to day?

† Heb. are your faces evil?

8 And they ſaid unto him, We have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it f. And Joſeph ſaid unto them, * Do not interpretations belong to God g? Tell me h them, I pray you.

* See chap. 41. 16. Dan. 2. 11, 28.

f To wit, with us, or to whom we can now reſort; for otherwiſe there were many in Egypt of that profeſſion, chap. 41. 8. g In vain do you expect ſuch things from your Wiſemen, for it is only that God who ſends theſe Dreams, that can interpret them, and to him you ſhuold ſeek for it. h Who am the Servant of the true God, who uſeth to communicate his Secrets to his People, and who, I doubt not, will hear my Prayers for this Mercy. This he ſpoke by ſpecial direction and inſtinct from God, who had given this gift to him.

9 And the chief butler told his dream to Joſeph, and ſaid to him, In my dream, behold, a vine was before me;

10 And in the vine were three branches, and it was as though it budded, and her bloſſoms ſhot forth, and the cluſters thereof brought forth ripe grapes.

11 And Pharaohs cup was in my hand, and I took the grapes, and preſſed them into Pharaohs cup, and I gave the cup into Pharaohs hand.

12 And Joſeph ſaid unto him, This is the interpretation of it: the three branches are i three days.

i (i. e.) Signify. So that word is oft uſed, as verſe 18. and 41. 26, 27. Dan. 2. 38. and 4. 22. Matth. 13. 19, 38. and 26. 26, 28. Luke 8. 11. 1 Cor. 10. 4. And indeed there is no proper Hebrew word which anſwers to ſignify.

13 Yet within three days ſhall Pharaoh † lift up thine head k, and reſtore thee unto thy place, and thou ſhalt deliver Pharaohs cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou waſt his butler.

k (i. e.) Advance thee to thy former dignity. So that phraſe is uſed 2 Kings 25. 27. Pſal. 110. 7. Or, reckon thy head, i. e. thy name or thy perſon, to wit, among his ſervants, which is added verſe 20. According to the cuſtom, which was this; At ſet times Governours of Families uſed to take an Account of their Servants, and to have the Names of their Servants read to them, and they either left them in the Catalogue, or put any of them out, as they ſaw fit, and inflicted ſuch further Puniſhments upon any of them as they deſerved. This ſeems the truer Interpretation, becauſe it is ſaid that Pharaoh lifted up the head of his Butler, and of his Baker, verſe 20. and therefore the phraſe muſt be ſo expounded, as to agree equally to both.

l Though he patiently endures his Priſon, yet he prudently uſeth all lawful means to get his freedom.

15 For indeed I was ſtollen away m out of the land of the Hebrews n: and here alſo have I done nothing o that they ſhould put me into the dungeon.

m Taken away by force and fraud without my own, or Father's conſent. n Out of the Land of Canaan, which he might call the Land of Hebrews, either becauſe they now dwelt in it, or by way of proteſtation of their right and claim to it by God's Gift. Or rather thus, out of that part of Canaan where the Hebrews dwell; for the word Land is not only ſpoken of whole Countries, as of the whole Land of Canaan, but of any parts or parcels thereof, as Gen. 13. 6. and 22. 2. and 23. 15. and 34. 1. o Obſerve, that Joſeph doth not accuſe either his Brethren or his Miſtreſs, but only aſſerts his own Innocency, which was neceſſary for his deliverance.

16 When the chief baker ſaw that the interpretation was good, he ſaid unto Joſeph, I alſo was in my † Or, full of holes. dream, and behold, I had three † white p baskets on my head.

p So called from the Colour, either of the Baskets, which were made of pilled, and ſo white Twigs, or of the things contained in them, as white Bread, &c.

17 And in the uppermoſt basket there was of all † Heb. meat of Pharaoh the work of a Baker, or Cook. manner of † bake-meats for Pharaoh, and the birds did eat them out of the basket upon my head.

18 And Joſeph anſwered, and ſaid, This is the interpretation thereof: the three baskets are three days:

† Or, reckon thee, and take thy Office from thee. 19 Yet within three days ſhall Pharaoh † lift up thy head from q off thee, and ſhall hang thee on a tree, and the birds ſhall eat thy fleſh from off thee.

q This clauſe is induſtriouſly added here to the former phraſe, to ſhew that it was now meant in another ſenſe. He ſhall indeed lift up thy head, as well as the chief Butlers, but in another manner, not for thee, but from thee, or ſo as to take away thy Head, or thy Life (which eminently conſiſts, and appears in the Head) from thee.

20 ¶ And it came to paſs the third day which was * Mark 6. 21. Pharaohs birth-day r, that he * made a feaſt unto all † Or, reckoned. his ſervants: and he † lifted up the head of the chief butler, and of the chief baker among his ſervants.

r Which by perſons of Eminency then was, and ſince hath uſually been, celebrated with Feaſting and Rejoycing.

21 And he reſtored the chief butler unto his butlerſhip again, and he gave the cup into Pharaohs hand.

22 But he hanged the chief baker, as Joſeph had interpreted to them.

23 Yet did not the chief butler remember Joſeph, but forgat him s.

s (i. e.) Neglected him and his deſire; as men in Scripture are oft ſaid to forget God, when they do not remember him ſo as to love and obey him, as Pſal. 106. 13, 21. Hoſ. 2. 13.

CHAP. XLI.

Pharaoh's two dreams, 1——7. He is troubled; ſends for interpreters; their inability, 8. The chief butler ſenſible of his fault, remembers Joſeph, 9 Commends him to Pharaoh, 10——13. Who cauſes him to be brought before him, 14 Expecting the interpretation from him, 15. Joſeph aſcribes all to God, 16. Pharaoh relates his dreams to Joſeph, 17——24. He interprets them, 25——31. The reaſon of their being doubled, 32. His advice to Pharaoh againſt the dearth to come, 33——36. Which he approves of, 37. Appoints him governour, next himſelf, over the whole land, 38——41. The enſigns of dignity and ſtately preſents conferred on him, 42——44. Alſo a new name Zaphnah Paaneah, and a wife, 45. Joſeph now thirty years of age, makes a progreſs over all the land, inſpects the ſtores, lays up proviſions, 45——49. Has two children Manaſſe and Ephraim, 50——52. Bad years come on; he ſupplies the countrey, 53——57.

† Heb. years of days. AND it came to paſs at the end of two † full years a, that Pharaoh dreamed: and behold, he ſtood by the river b.

a After the Butler's reſtitution to his place. Heb. Years of days, for full years, as 2 Sam. 14. 28 Jer. 28. 3. as a month of days is put for a full month, Gen 29. 14. which is compleat to a day b Nilus, called the River ſimply, becauſe of its eminency, as Homer or Virgil are called the Poet.

2 And behold, there came up out of the river c, ſeven well-favoured kine d, and fat-fleſhed, and they fed in a medow.

c This ſuits well with the nature of the thing, for both the fruitfulneſs and the barrenneſs of Egypt depended, under God, upon the increaſe, or diminution of the Waters of that River. d Which when they appeared in Dreams did portend, in the Opinion of the learned Egyptians, the years or times to come, and them either good or bad according to their quality.

3 And behold, ſeven other kine came up after them out of the river, ill-favoured, and lean-fleſhed, and ſtood by the other kine upon the brink of the river e.

e Which ſhews how ſparingly the River over-flowed the Lands.

4 And the ill-favoured and lean-fleſhed kine, did eat up the ſeven well-favoured and fat kine. So Pharaoh awoke.

5 And he ſlept, and dreamed the ſecond time: and behold, ſeven ears of corn f came up upon one ſtalk, † rank and good. † Heb.

f Which are fit and proper reſemblances of the thing here intended, both becauſe the fertility of a Land doth mainly conſiſt in the abundance and goodneſs of theſe; and becauſe ears of Corn appearing to any in a Dream, did, in the judgment of the Egyptian wiſe-men, ſignify years, as Joſephus notes.

6 And behold, ſeven thin ears and blaſted with the eaſt-wind g, ſprang up after them.

g A boiſterous Wind, and in thoſe parts of the World very pernicious to the Fruits of the Earth, Ezek. 17. 10. and 19. 12. Hoſ. 13. 15.

7 And the ſeven thin ears devoured the ſeven rank and full ears: and Pharaoh awoke, and behold it was a dream h.

h Not a real thing, as Pharaoh in his ſleep imagined it to be. Heb. Behold the dream, i. e. The Dream did not vaniſh, as Dreams commonly do, but was fixed in his Mind, and he could not ſhake it off; by which he ſaw that it was no Common or Natural, but a Divine and ſignificant Dream.

8 And it came to paſs in the morning, that his ſpirit was troubled i, and he ſent and called for all the Magicians k of Egypt, and all the wiſe men l thereof; and Pharaoh told them his dream m: but there was none that could interpret them unto Pharaoh.

i Becauſe he underſtood not the meaning of it, and dreaded the conſequences of it. Compare Gen. 40. 6. Dan 2. 1, 3. Matth. 27. 19. k Whoſe profeſſion it was to diſcover ſecret and future things; which they did either by the obſervation of the Stars, or by other ſuperſtitious Practiſes, and the help of evil Spirits. See Exod. 7. 11. and 8. 19 Dan. 2. 2, 10. l Who were converſant in the ſtudy of Nature; and by reaſon of their great Sagacity, did ofttimes make happy conjectures. m He calls them both one Dream, either becauſe they ſeemed to portend the ſame thing, or becauſe they were the product of one night, and were divided only by a very little interruption.

9 ¶ Then ſpake the chief butler unto Pharaoh, ſaying, I do remember my faults n this day.

n Not againſt Joſeph by ingratitude, but againſt the King; by which expreſſion he both acknowledgeth the King's Juſtice in impriſoning him, and his Clemency in Pardoning him.

10 Pharaoh was wroth with his ſervants, and put me in ward in the captain of the guards houſe, both me, and the chief baker.

11 And we dreamed a dream in one night, I and he: we dreamed each man according to the interpretation of his dream *.

* Of which phraſe ſee on Gen. 40. 5.

12 And there was there with us a young man, an Hebrew, ſervant to the captain of the guard: and we told him, and he * interpreted to us our dreams, to * Chap. 12, each man according to his dream, he did interpret.

13 And it came to paſs, as he interpreted to us, ſo it was; me he o reſtored unto mine office, and him he hanged.

o Either 1. Pharaoh. But then he would have mentioned either his Name or Title, and not have ſpoken ſo ſlightly and indecently of him. Or rather 2. Joſeph, of whom he ſpake laſt, and who is here ſaid to reſtore the one, and to hang the other, becauſe he foretold thoſe Events, as Jeremy is ſaid to pull down and deſtroy thoſe Nations, Jer. 1. 10. whoſe deſtruction he did only foretel.

14 ¶ * Then Pharaoh ſent and called Joſeph, and * Pſal. 20 they † brought him haſtily out of the dungeon †: and † Heb. made run. he ſhaved himſelf p, and changed his raiment, and came in unto Pharaoh.

† Or, Priſon, by a Synecdoche of the part for the whole. For it is not probable that Joſeph, who was now ſo much employed, and entruſted with all the Affairs of the Priſon and Priſoners, Gen. 39. 21, 22, 23. ſhould ſtill be kept in the Dungeon properly ſo called. p For till then he ſuffered his Hair to grow, as the manner was for perſons in Priſon, or under great Sorrow, 2 Sam. 19. 24. But to appear in a mournful dreſs before the King was not convenient, nor uſual. Compare Eſther 4. 4.

15 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, I have dreamed a dream, and there is none that can interpret it: and † Or, I have heard ſay of thee, that † thou canſt underſtand a dream to interpret it.

16 And Joſeph anſwered Pharaoh, ſaying, It is not in me q: God ſhall give Pharaoh an anſwer of peace †.

q I cannot do this by any power, or virtue, or art of my own, for I am but a Man, as your Magicians are, but only by Inſpiration from the great God. Thus he gives the honour from himſelf unto God, and leads Pharaoh to the knowledge of the true God. For the Phraſe compare Matth. 10. 20. 1 Cor. 15. 10. † Or, May God give,&c. It is my deſire that God would vouchſafe to Pharaoh a comfortable and happy anſwer.

17 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, In my dream, behold, I ſtood upon the bank of a river.

18 And behold, there came up out of the river ſeven kine, fat-fleſhed and well-favoured, and they fed in a medow.

19 And behold, ſeven other kine came up after them, poor, and very ill-favoured, and lean-fleſhed, ſuch as I never ſaw in all the land of Egypt, for badneſs.

20 And the lean, and the ill-favoured kine, did eat up the firſt ſeven fat kine.

† Heb. come to the inward parts of them.

21 And when they had † eaten them up, it could not be known that they had eaten them r, but they were ſtill ill-favoured, as at the beginning: So I awoke.

r They ſeemed to be neither fatter in the fleſh, nor fuller in their bodies. As many times in Famine men eat much, but are not ſatisfied, becauſe God withdraws his bleſſing from it, by which alone it is that meat nouriſheth us.

22 And I ſaw in my dream, and behold, ſeven ears came up in one ſtalk, full and good.

23 And behold, ſeven ears † withered, thin, and blaſted with the Eaſt-wind, ſprung up after them.

24 And the thin ears devoured the ſeven good ears: and I told this unto the Magicians, but there was none that could declare it to me.

25 ¶ And Joſeph ſaid unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is one s: God hath ſhewed Pharaoh what he is about to do.

s To wit, In its deſign and ſignification; both dreams portend the ſame thing.

26 The ſeven good kine are ſeven years, and the ſeven good ears are ſeven years: the dream is one.

27 And the ſeven thin and ill-favoured kine that came up after them, are ſeven years: and the ſeven empty ears, blaſted with the Eaſt-wind, ſhall be ſeven years of famine.

28 This is the thing which I have ſpoken unto Pharaoh: what God is about to do, he ſheweth unto Pharaoh.

29 Behold, there come ſeven years of great plenty, throughout all the land of Egypt.

30 And there ſhall ariſe after them ſeven years of famine, and all the plenty ſhall be forgotten t in the land of Egypt: and the famine ſhall conſume the land.

t There ſhall be no relicks of it to keep it in mens minds, which will be ſo taken up with the contemplation of their preſent miſery and future danger, that they will have neither heart nor leiſure to reflect upon their former Plenty, the remembrance whereof will but aggravate the preſent calamity.

31 And the plenty ſhall not be known in the land, by reaſon of that famine following: for it ſhall be very † grievous.

† Heb. heavy.

† Or, prepared of God.

32 And for that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice, it is becauſe the thing is † eſtabliſhed by God: and God will ſhortly bring it to paſs.

33 Now therefore let Pharaoh look out a man diſcreet and wiſe, and ſet him over the land of Egypt.

34 Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint † officers over the land, and take up u the fifth part x of the land of Egypt in the ſeven plenteous years.

u Not by force or violence, for Joſeph would never be the author of ſuch unrighteous Counſels; but by purchaſe at the common price, which was like to be very low in that caſe, and therefore might eaſily be compaſſed by that rich and mighty Prince. x Queſt. Why not half, ſeeing the years of Famine were as many as the years of Plenty? Anſw. Becauſe 1. Men would and ſhould live more ſparingly in times of Famine. 2. It was likely that very many men would lay up great quantities of Corn in thoſe years, partly becauſe they could not ſpend it all, and partly in expectation of a ſcarcer and dearer time, when they might either uſe it themſelves, or ſell it to their advantage. 3. The fifth part of thoſe Years of great Plenty, might be more than the half, yea equal to the whole Crop of ordinary years.

35 And let them gather all the food of thoſe good years that come, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the Cities.

36 And that food ſhall be for ſtore to the land againſt the ſeven years of famine, which ſhall be in the land of Egypt, that the land † periſh not through the famine.

37 And the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his ſervants.

38 And Pharaoh ſaid unto his ſervants, Can we find ſuch a one as this is, a man in whom the ſpirit of God y is?

y Or, of the Gods, in his Heathen Language. One whom God hath endowed with ſuch admirable Knowledge and Wiſdom.

39 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, Foraſmuch as God hath ſhewed thee all this z, there is none ſo diſcreet and wiſe as thou art:

z i. e. Hath given thee this extraordinary gift of foreſeeing and foretelling things to come, and of giving ſuch ſage advice for the future.

40 * Thou ſhalt be over my houſe, and according unto thy word a ſhall all my people be † ruled b: only in the throne c will I be greater than thou.

* Pſal. 105. 21. Mac. 2. 53. Act. 7. 10.

a i. e. direction and command. Heb. mouth, which is oft put for command, as Exod. 17. 1. and 38. 21. Numb. 3. 16, 39, &c. b Or, be fed; they ſhall receive their proviſions from thy hand, and according to thy diſpoſal. Others, ſhall kiſs, viz. the hand, as inferiors uſed to do, upon their addreſs to or conference with great perſons. See Job 31. 27. Hoſ. 13. 2. But it was frivolous for Joſeph to command them to do that which by the cuſtom of the place they were obliged and wont to do. Some render the words thus, and that agreeable to the Hebrew, at thy mouth ſhall the people kiſs. Which may be underſtood either properly, as inferiors did ſometimes kiſs their ſuperiors in token of their homage, See 1 Sam. 10. 1. Or rather metaphorically, as the ſame phraſe is uſed, Pſal. 2. 12. Prov. 24. 26. receive all thy commands with reverence and ſubmiſſion. c i. e. In ſovereign power and dignity.

41 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, See, I have ſet thee over all the land of Egypt.

42 And Pharaoh took off his ring d from his hand, and put it upon Joſeph's hand, and arrayed him in veſtures of † fine linnen e, and put a gold chain f about his neck.

d Which was both a token of higheſt dignity, and an inſtrument of greateſt power, by which he had authority to make and ſign what Decrees he thought fit in the King's Name. See Eſther 3. 10. and 8. 2. e Wherewith the greateſt Potentates were arrayed. See Prov. 31. 22, 24. Ezek. 16. 10. Luke 16. 19. Rev. 19. 8. f Another badge of great honour. See Prov. 1. 9. Ezek. 16. 11. Dan. 5. 7, 16, 29.

43 And he made him to ride in the ſecond chariot which he had g: and they cryed before him, † Bow the knee h: and he made him ruler over all the land of Egypt.

g In the King's ſecond Chariot, that he might be known and owned to be the next perſon to the King in power and dignity. Compare 2 Chron. 35. 24. Eſther 6. 8. and 10. 3. Dan. 5. 29. h They commanded all that paſſed by him, or came to him, to ſhew their reverent reſpect to him in this manner. Compare Eſther 3. 2. Others, tender father, to ſignify that he was to be owned as the Father of the Countrey, becauſe by his prudence and care he had provided for them all, and ſaved them from utter ruin.

44 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, I am Pharaoh i, and without thee ſhall no man lift up his hand or foot k in all the land of Egypt.

i (i. e.) I only am the King, I reſerve to my ſelf the ſovereign power over thee, and over all. As the name of Cæſar among the Romans was commonly uſed for the Emperor, ſo the name of Pharaoh for the King. Or thus, I have the ſupreme Power, and therefore as I have authority to give thee the following Power, ſo I will make it good to thee, and oblige all my people to obſerve and obey thee. k No man ſhall do any thing in the publick affairs of the Kingdom concerning matters of War or Peace, without thy commiſſion or licenſe.

45 And Pharaoh called Joſeph's name, Zaphnath-Paaneah l; and he gave him to wife Aſenath the daughter of Poti-pherah m, † Prieſt n of On o: and Joſeph went out p over all the land of Egypt.

l (i. e.) The revealer of ſecrets, as the Hebrews generally underſtand it, and with them moſt others. m Not that Potiphar, Gen. 39. 1. both becauſe he had another Title, and dwelt in another place; and becauſe it is not probable Joſeph would have married the daughter of ſo unchaſte a mother; but another and a greater perſon. It is the obſervation of a late ingenious and learned Writer, that among the Egyptians there were three words, or endings of words, near akin, but differing in ſignification, and in the degree of dignity and authority to which thoſe names were annexed; Phar, which belonged to inferior Officers; and Pherah, which was given to thoſe of greater dignity and power; and Pharaoh, which was appropriated to the King. n Or Prince, as the word ſignifies Exod. 18. 1. 2 Sam. 8. 18. and 20. 26. and elſewhere. This ſenſe is the more probable, both from Joſeph's high quality, and from his holy diſpoſition, whereby he hated Idolatry, and would never have married the daughter of an Idolatrous Prieſt. o A famous City of Egypt, called alſo Aven, Ezek. 30. 17. and afterwards, as ſome think, Heliopolis, now Damiata. See Jer. 43. 13. p Upon his employment, and to execute the King's command, and his own counſel.

46 (And Joſeph was thirty years old q when he ſtood r before Pharaoh King of Egypt) and Joſeph went out from the preſence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt s.

q Which is here noted to teach us, 1. That Joſeph's ſhort affliction was recompenced with a much longer proſperity, even for 80 years. 2. That Joſeph's excellent wiſdom did not proceed from his large and long experience, but from the ſingular gift of God. r As his chief miniſter: to ſtand before another is the poſture and deſignation of a ſervant, as 1 Sam 16. 21. Dan. 1. 19. s To provide places for his ſtores, and to conſtitute Officers for the management of them

t Or, unto handfuls, to wit, growing upon one ſtalk; or, unto heaps; or, as the ancients render it, for the barns or ſtorehouſes; i. e. in ſuch plenty, that all their ſtorehouſes were filled with heaps of Corn.

48 And he gathered up all the food u of the ſeven years, which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field which was round about every city, laid he up in the ſame.

u That is, either all ſorts of grain which was proper for food: or all which he intended to gather, to wit, the fifth part, ver. 34.

49 And Joſeph gathered corn as the ſand of the ſea, very much, until he left numbring: for it was without number.

* Chap. 46. 20. and 48. 5. † Or, Prince. † That is, forgetting.

50 * And unto Joſeph were born two ſons, before the years of famine came, which Aſenath the daughter of Poti-pherah, † Prieſt of On bare unto him.

51 And Joſeph called the name of the firſt-born † Manaſſeh: for God, ſaid he, hath made me forget x all my toyl, and all my father's houſe y.

x (i. e.) Hath expelled all ſorrowful remembrance of it by my preſent comfort and glory. y (i. e.) The toil of my father's houſe, or the toil and miſery which for many years I have endured by means of my father's family, and my own brethren who ſold me hither. A figure called Hendyadis.

52 And the name of the ſecond called he † Ephraim: for God hath cauſed me to be fruitful in the land of my affliction z.

z (i. e.) In the land which hitherto hath been to me a land of affliction.

53 ¶ And the ſeven years of plenteouſneſs, that was in the land of Egypt, were ended.

* Pſal. 105. 16.

54 * And the ſeven years of dearth began to come, according as Joſeph had ſaid, and the dearth was in all lands *: but in all the land of Egypt there was bread.

* In all the neighbouring Countries, as appears by comparing this with Gen. 42. 1.

55 And when all the land of Egypt was famiſhed, the people cried to Pharaoh † for bread: and Pharaoh ſaid unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joſeph: what he ſaith to you, do.

† As to their King and common Father. Compare 2 Kings 6. 26.

56 And the famine was over all the face of the earth: and Joſeph opened all † the ſtore-houſes, and ſold unto the Egyptians, and the famine waxed ſore in all the land of Egypt.

57 And all countries came into Egypt to Joſeph for to buy corn, becauſe that the famine was ſo ſore in all lands.

CHAP. XLII.

Jacob hearing there was corn in Egypt, ſends all his ſons thither, but Benjamin, 1—5. They bow before Joſeph, who knew them, but not they him; he treats them roughly, 6—8. Remembers his dreams; charges them for ſpies, 9—12. They to vindicate themſelves, declare that they were all ſons of one father, and had a younger brother at home, 13. Joſeph impriſons them, but releaſes all but Simeon, and ſends the reſt to fetch their brother, and ſo prove their words true, 14—20. Their conſciences are awakened, and charge them with their ſin againſt Joſeph; they accuſe one another, 21, 22. Joſeph hears them; weeps; binds Simeon, 23, 24. Joſeph orders their ſacks to be filled with corn, and to return their money, 25, 26. In the way one finds his money in his ſack; they are the more afraid, 27, 28. At home they relate to Jacob what happened to them, ſo far as to perſuade Jacob to let Benjamin go, 29—35. He complains; Reuben undertakes for him; he cannot conſent to let him go, 36—38.

* Acts. 7. 12.

NOW when * Jacob ſaw a that there was corn in Egypt, Jacob ſaid unto his ſons, Why do ye look one upon another b?

a (i. e.) Heard, as the word is uſed, Exod. 20. 18. as ſeeing is put for ſmelling, Exod. 5. 21. and for taſting, Pſal. 34. 8. and for touching, John 20. 29. b Like lazy, careleſs, and helpleſs perſons, each one expecting relief from the other, but none offering either counſel or help for all our ſubſiſtence.

* Chap. 43. 8. Pſal. 118. 17. Iſa. 38. 1.

2 And he ſaid, Behold, I have heard c that there is corn in Egypt: get you down d thither, and buy for us from thence, that we may * live and not dye e.

c This word explains the word ſaw, ver. 1. d For Egypt was lower than Canaan; whence on the contrary they are ſaid to go up to Canaan, Gen. 45. 9. e An emphatical repetition of the ſame thing, uſed here to make them more ſenſible of their danger.

3 ¶ And Joſeph's ten brethren went down to buy corn in Egypt.

4 But Benjamin, Joſeph's brother, Jacob ſent not f with his brethren: for he ſaid, Leſt peradventure miſchief befal him.

f Becauſe he was very young, and now his beſt beloved ſon.

5 And the ſons of Iſrael came to buy corn among thoſe that came: for the famine was in the land of Canaan.

6 And Joſeph was the governour over the land, and he it was that ſold g to all the people of the land: and Joſeph's brethren came, and bowed down themſelves before him h, with their faces to the earth.

g Either 1. by his Miniſters and Commiſſioners apppointed to that end, as men in Scripture and in all Authors are ſaid to do that which others do by their authority and command. Or 2. he himſelf immediately contracted with the buyers, or at leaſt with ſuch as were foreigners; which he did upon prudential reaſons; both becauſe he would not have them to pry into the ſtate of Egypt, ver. 12. and becauſe he would by that opportunity underſtand the ſtate of other lands, and improve that knowledge for his maſter's ſervice. h Thus unwittingly fulfilling Joſeph's dream, Gen. 37. 7.

7 And Joſeph ſaw his brethren, and he knew them, but made himſelf ſtrange unto them, and ſpake † roughly unto them i: and he ſaid unto them, Whence come ye? And they ſaid, From the land of Canaan to buy food.

i Partly to bring their ſin to remembrance; partly to get the knowledge of the true ſtate of his Father and Family; and partly to further the following deſign, and make way for his and their greater happineſs k Becauſe his viſage was much altered by his beard, and by other things, it being about 20 years ſince they ſaw him; and his Egyptian Language, and Habit, and Carriage, together with the great dignity of his Place, prevented all ſuſpicions concerning their Brother.

8 And Joſeph knew his brethren, but they knew not him k.

* Chap. 37. 5.

9 And Joſeph * remembred the dreams which he dreamed of them, and ſaid unto them, Ye are ſpies l: to ſee the nakedneſs of the land m you are come.

l This he ſaith, not becauſe they were ſo, or he thought them to be ſo, but that he might ſearch out the truth of their Affair, ſpeaking too much like a Courtier or Politician. m (i. e.) The weak parts of it, and where it may be beſt aſſaulted or ſurprized.

10 And they ſaid unto him, Nay, my lord, but to buy food are thy ſervants come.

11 We are all one man's ſons n; we are true men o: thy ſervants are no ſpies.

n And therefore not Spies; for it is not likely either that a Father would venture ſo many of his Sons upon ſo hazardous an employment; or that ſuch a work would have been truſted in the hands of one Family only. o Who honeſtly and truly mean what we pretend, and have no other deſign in our coming hither.

12 And he ſaid unto them, Nay, but to ſee the nakedneſs of the land you are come.

* Lam 7.

13 And they ſaid, Thy ſervants are twelve brethren, the ſons of one man in the land of Canaan: and behold, the youngeſt is this day with our father, and one * is not p.

p (i. e.) Is dead, as that Phraſe often ſignifies both in Scripture, as Gen. 37. 30. and 44. 20. Jer. 31. 15. Matth. 2. 17, 18. and in other Authors, as Homer, Euripides, &c They concluded with great probability that he was dead, chap. 44. 20. becauſe for twenty years together they had heard nothing, either of him, or from him; which may ſeem ſtrange, conſidering the nearneſs of Egypt and Canaan: But this came to paſs partly from his own long impriſonment, and afterwards from his great and high Employment; partly from his loathneſs to bring ſo much miſchief to his Father, and Brethren, as the diſcovery of his caſe might have produced; and principally from the over-ruling Providence of God, which for its own glorious deſign diſpoſed of Joſeph's mind and Affairs, ſo that he either did not ſend to his Father's Houſe, or that the Meſſages were intercepted, there being not then thoſe conveniencies for mutual correſpondencies which now there are. And it is not improbable that Joſeph might be further acquainted with the mind of God in this matter by Dreams, which may ſeem to have been familiarly afforded to him, together with the interpretation of them. See Gen. 40. 8. and 41. 16.

14 And Joſeph ſaid unto them, That is it that I ſpake unto you, ſaying, Ye are ſpies q.

q This juſtifies my Accuſation; for it is not probable, that one man ſhould have ſo many Sons, all grown up and living together in one Family, and that he ſhould expoſe them all to the perils of ſuch a Journey.

* See 1 S 1. 26. & 17. 55.

15 Hereby ye ſhall be proved: * By the life of Pharaoh r, ye ſhall not go forth hence, except your youngeſt brother come hither.

r As ſure as Pharaoh lives. It ſeems to be the form of an Oath in uſe among the Egyptians, as afterwards the Romans uſed to ſwear by the Name, Genius, Health, and Life of their Emperors. Compare 1 Sam. 1. 26. and 17. 55. 2 Kings 2. 2. Ezek. 33. 11. And it is not ſtrange that Joſeph through human infirmity was carried by the ſtream of the general practice of the Court, eſpecially when the law of God was not yet delivered concerning the appropriation of Oaths unto God.

16 Send one of you, and let him fetch your brother, and ye ſhall be † kept in priſon, that your words may be proved, whether there be any truth in you: or elſe by the life of Pharaoh ſurely ye are ſpies.

17 And he † put them all together into ward ſeven days.

* Neh. 5. 15.

18 And Joſeph ſaid unto them the third day, This do, and live[s]: * for I fear God[t].

[s] I will ſpare your lives, and not puniſh you with death as Spies, and you ſhall carry proviſions, that your family alſo may live. [t] And therefore will not be cruel to you, nor to your brother whom you ſhall leave with me. This might have raiſed ſome ſuſpicion concerning Joſeph, but that they knew there were divers among the Heathens who did own the true God, though they worſhipped Idols with him.

19 If ye be true men, let one of your brethren be bound in the houſe of your priſon *: go ye, carry corn for the famine of your houſes:

* In which you are now impriſoned, and are ſtill like to be ſo, if you accept not this condition.

* Chap. 43. 5.

20 But * bring your youngeſt brother unto me, ſo ſhall your words be verified, and ye ſhall not dye: and they did ſo[u].

[u] (i. e.) Reſolved and promiſed to do ſo. Thoſe things are oft ſaid to be done in Scripture, which were ſincerely reſolved upon, as hath been noted before.

21 And they ſaid one to another, We are verily guilty[x] concerning our brother, in that we ſaw the anguiſh of his ſoul, when he beſought us[y], and we would not hear: therefore is this diſtreſs come upon us[z].

[x] This is the juſt puniſhment of that great wickedneſs, which though we could cover from men, yet we now ſee and feel was known to God, who is now reckoning with us for it. Thus Divine Vengeance overtakes them, and Conſcience tortures them for a ſin committed above 20 years before, and their affliction brings them to Repentance. [y] Compare Gen. 49. 23. Yet this paſſage is not mentioned in that Hiſtory, chap. 37. Learn hence, that the ſilence of the Scripture is no good Argument that ſuch or ſuch a thing was not ſaid or done, except in ſome ſpecial caſes. [z] He is inexorable to us, as we were to him.

* Chap. 37. 21.

22 And Reuben anſwered them, ſaying, *Spake I not unto you, ſaying, Do not ſin againſt the child, and ye would not hear? therefore behold alſo, his blood[a] is required.

[a] The puniſhment of his blood or death occaſioned by us.

† Heb. an interpreter was between 'em.

23 And they knew not that Joſeph underſtood them: for † he ſpake unto them by an interpreter.

24 And he turned himſelf about from them, and wept[b], and returned to them again, and communed with them, and took from them Simeon[c], and bound him before their eyes[d].

[b] Tears partly of natural affection and compaſſion towards his brethren, now in great diſtreſs and anguiſh; and partly of joy to ſee the happy ſucceſs of his deſign, and rigorous carriage, in bringing them to the ſight of their ſins. [c] Whom he chuſeth to puniſh, partly, becauſe next to Reuben he was the eldeſt, and as it may be probably gathered from his bloody diſpoſition, Gen. 34. 25. and 49. 6. the moſt fierce and forward againſt Joſeph, when Reuben was for milder counſels, as we ſee here, ver. 22. and chap. 37. 29. and partly becauſe the detainment of one of ſo perverſe and furious a temper would leaſt afflict his father, and moſt ſecure Benjamin, who was to come with his Brethren. [d] That it might make deeper impreſſion upon their hard hearts, and make their repentance more effectual.

25 Then Joſeph commanded to fill their ſacks with corn, and to reſtore every mans money into his ſack, and to give them proviſion for the way, and thus did he unto them.

26 And they laded their aſſes with the corn, and departed thence.

27 And as one of them[e] opened his ſack, to give his aſs provender in the inn, he eſpied his money; for behold, it was in his ſacks mouth.

[e] And after him the reſt by his example and information did ſo, as is affirmed, chap. 43. ver. 21. and it is not denied here.

28 And he ſaid unto his brethren, My money is reſtored, and lo, it is even in my ſack; and their heart † failed them, and they were afraid[f], ſaying one to another, What is this that God hath done unto us †?

[f] Leſt this ſhould be a deſign to entrap, and ſo deſtroy them. † Whoever were the Inſtruments, they knew that God was the chief Author of this occurrent, and wiſely reflect upon his Providence in it, and their own Guilt which provoked him againſt them.

29 And they came unto Jacob their father, unto the land of Canaan, and told him all that befel unto them, ſaying;

30 The man who is the lord of the land, ſpake † roughly to us, and took us for ſpies of the countrey.

31 And we ſaid unto him, We are true men, we are no ſpies.

32 We be twelve brethren, ſons of our father: one is not, and the youngeſt is this day with our father in the land of Canaan.

33 And the man, the lord of the countrey, ſaid unto us, Hereby ſhall I know that ye are true men, leave one of your brethren here with me, and take food for the famine of your houſholds, and be gone, 34 And bring your youngeſt brother unto me: then ſhall I know that you are no ſpies, but that you are true men: ſo will I deliver you your brother, and ye ſhall traffick in the land.

35 And it came to paſs as they emptied their ſacks, that behold every man's bundle of money was in his ſack: and when both they and their father ſaw the bundles of money, they were afraid[g].

[g] (i. e.) Their fear returned upon them with more violence, having now more leiſure to conſider things, and their wiſe and experienced father ſuggeſting new matters to them, which might more deeply affect them.

36 And Jacob their father ſaid unto them, Me have ye bereaved of my children; Joſeph is not, and Simeon is not[h]: and ye will take Benjamin away: all theſe things are againſt me[i].

[h] He gave him up for loſt, as being, as he thought, in the power of a cruel enemy. [i] I am the great ſufferer in all theſe things: you carry your ſelves as if you were neither concerned nor affected with them.

37 And Reuben ſpake unto his father, ſaying, Slay my two ſons[k] if I bring him not to thee; deliver him into my hand, and I will bring him to thee again.

[k] Two of the four mentioned Gen 46. 9. An abſurd propoſition, neither fit for him to make, nor for Jacob to accept.

38 And he ſaid, My ſon ſhall not go down with you; for his brother is dead, and he is left alone[l]: if miſchief befal him by the way in the which ye go, then ſhall ye bring down my gray-hairs with ſorrow to the grave.

CHAP. XLIII.

The famine continuing, and their proviſion being ſpent, Jacob commands them to go again to Egypt, 1, 2. They prevail with their father to ſend Benjamin: Judah undertakes for him, 3——10. He gives them preſents; double money; and his bleſſing, 11——14. They go to Egypt; ſtand before Joſeph, 15. He ſeeing Benjamin with them, cauſeth them to be brought to his houſe, and entertain'd, 16, 17. Whereat they are afraid, and make an apology to the ſteward about their money, 18——22. He bids them good cheer, uſeth them courteouſly, brings Simeon to them, 23, 24. They prepare to bring their preſents to Joſeph; who ſpeaks kindly to them, (and asks them of their father) eſpecially to Benjamin, with whom he is ſo moved, that he muſt retire to weep, 25——30. He feaſts them, but Benjamin in an eſpecial manner, 31——34.

AND the famine was ſore in the land.

2 And it came to paſs when they had eaten up the corn which they had brought out of Egypt, their father ſaid unto them, Go again, buy us a little food[a].

[a] He ſaith a little, either to ſhew that he took no thought to ſatisfy his or their curioſity or luxury, but only their neceſſity, for which a little would ſuffice, and that they muſt all moderate their appetites, eſpecially in a time of ſuch ſcarcity; or to encourage them to the journey, by ſuggeſting to them that they needed not bring great ſtores, but only what was ſufficient for that year, and that God would provide better for them hereafter, ſo as they ſhould not need to go ſo far for corn any more.

*Chap. 42. 20. and 44. 23.

3 And Judah ſpake unto him, ſaying, The man did † ſolemnly proteſt unto us, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſee my face[b] except your * brother be with you.

[b] See the ſame expreſſion, 2 Sam. 14. 24, 32. Acts 20. 25, 38. Ye ſhall not be admitted into my preſence, nor to the purchaſing of any Corn here.

4 If thou wilt ſend our brother with us, we will go down and buy thee food.

5 But if thou wilt not ſend him, we will not go down[c]; for the man ſaid unto us, Ye ſhall not ſee my face except your brother be with you.

[c] Becauſe we ſhall both loſe the end of our journey, viz. the getting of Corn, and run the utmoſt hazard of all our lives.

6 And Iſrael ſaid, Wherefore dealt ye ſo ill with me as to tell the man whether ye had yet a brother?

† Heb. asking he asked us.

* Heb. mouth.

† Heb. knowing could we know.

7 And they ſaid, The man † asked us ſtraitly of our ſtate, and of our kindred, ſaying, Is your father yet alive? have ye another brother? and we told him according to the * tenor of theſe words[d]; † could we certainly know that he would ſay, Bring your brother down?

[d] We gave anſwers ſuitable to his queſtions, or ſuch as his words required.

8 And Judah[e] ſaid unto Iſrael his father, Send the lad[f] with me, and we will ariſe and go, that we may live, and not die, both we and thou, and alſo our little ones.

e Who for his age and prudence, and penitent carriage for his youthful follies, was moſt beloved and regarded by his father. f So he calls him, becauſe he was the youngeſt of all, though he was now thirty years old, and a father of divers children. See Gen 30.22. and 35. 18. and 41. 46. and 46. 21.

9 I will be ſurety for him: of my hand ſhalt thou require him: * If I bring him not unto thee, and ſet him before thee, then let me bear the blame g for ever.

*Chap.44. 32.

g Heb. be an offender to thee. Let me bear the guilt, and ſhame, and puniſhment due to ſo great an offence.

10 For except we had lingred, ſurely now we had returned † this ſecond time.

11 And their father Iſrael ſaid unto them, If it muſt be ſo now, do this: take of the beſt fruits in the land in your veſſels, and carry down the man a preſent, a little balm, and a little honey, ſpices, and myrrhe *, nuts h and almonds.

* Of all which ſee Gen. 37. 25. h That kind of Nuts which we call Piſtaches, as ſome Hebrew and other Expoſitors render the word; for that was both an excellent Fruit, and peculiar to Judea and Syria, and well agreeing with the Almonds which here follow.

12 And take double money i in your hand; and the money that was brought again in the mouth of your ſacks, carry it again k in your hand; peradventure it was an overſight l.

i Double to what you carried laſt, either to procure more Corn, which may prevent the frequency of ſuch perilous journeys; or becauſe the continuance and increaſe of the ſcarcity had advanced the price. k For it is their money, not ours, and therefore muſt be reſtored. l Either in you, or in the Receiver of your money, who through multitude of Buyers, and haſte in his buſineſs, might eaſily be miſtaken.

13 Take alſo your brother, and ariſe, go again unto the man.

14 And God almighty give you mercy before the man, that he may ſend away your other brother, and Benjamin: † If I be bereaved of my children, I am bereaved m.

† Or, and I, as I have been, &c.

m An expreſſion whereby he ſubmits himſelf and children to God's Will and Providence, whatever the iſſue ſhall be. Compare Eſther 4. 16. Or thus, As I have been already bereaved of ſome of my deareſt children, ſo I ſhall be bereaved of the reſt, and I ſhall be left ſolitary; and if this be my portion, God's will be done.

15 And the men took that preſent, and they took double money in their hand, and Benjamin, and roſe up, and went down to Egypt, and ſtood before Joſeph.

16 And when Joſeph ſaw Benjamin with them, he ſaid to the ruler of his houſe, Bring theſe men home, and † ſlay, and make ready: for theſe men ſhall † dine with me at noon n.

n The uſual time for the more ſolemn Meal in the Eaſt Countries, as the evening was the time, and the ſupper the great meal among the Romans.

17 And the man did as Joſeph bade: and the man brought the men into Joſeph's houſe.

18 And the men were afraid becauſe they were brought into Joſeph's houſe, and they ſaid, Becauſe of the money that was returned in our ſacks at the firſt time, are we brought in, that he may † ſeek occaſion againſt us, and fall upon us, and take us for bondmen o, and our aſſes.

19 And they came near to the ſteward of Joſeph's houſe, and they communed with him at the door of the houſe;

20 And ſaid, O ſir, * † we came indeed down at the firſt time to buy food,

*Chap.42. 3.
† Heb coming down, we came down.

21 And * it came to paſs when we came to the inn, that we opened our ſacks, and behold, every man's money was in the mouth of his ſack, our money in full weight: and we have brought it again in our hand.

*Chap.42. 27.

22 And other money have we brought down in our hands to buy food: we cannot tell who put our money in our ſacks.

23 And he ſaid, Peace be to you p; fear not: your God, and the God of your father q hath given you treaſure in your ſacks r: † I had your money. And he brought Simeon out unto them.

p No harm ſhall come to you for that matter. q Thus he ſpeaks, becauſe Joſeph had inſtructed him, as well as others of his family, in the true Religion. r By his power and providence ſecretly putting it there.

24 And the man brought the men into Joſeph's houſe, and * gave them water, and they waſhed their feet, and he gave their aſſes provender.

* Chap. 18. 4. & 24. 32.

25 And they made ready the preſent againſt Joſeph came at noon: for they heard that they ſhould eat bread there.

26 And when Joſeph came home, they brought him the preſent which was in their hand, into the houſe, and bowed themſelves to him to the earth.

27 And he asked them of their † welfare, and ſaid, * Is your father well, the old man † of whom ye ſpake? Is he yet alive?

* Heb. thereupon to your father.
† Chap. 42. 11, 13.

28 And they anſwered, Thy ſervant s our father is in good health, he is yet alive: and they bowed down their heads, and made obeiſance.

s By which expreſſion delivered in Jacob's name, and by his order, Jacob himſelf made obeiſance to him, as was foretold, Gen. 37. 9.

29 And he lift up his eyes, and ſaw t his brother Benjamin, his mother's ſon, and ſaid, Is this your younger brother * of whom ye ſpake unto me? And he ſaid, God be gracious unto thee my ſon u.

* Chap. 42. 13.

t (i. e.) More narrowly obſerved him, having now more leiſure than he ſeems to have had when he ſaw him firſt, ver. 16. u So he calls him, not from ſpecial affection, which he intended not yet to diſcover; but becauſe this compellation is commonly uſed when a man ſpeaks to another who is his inferior in age or dignity.

30 And Joſeph made haſte, for his bowels did yern x upon his brother: and he ſought where to weep, and he entred into his chamber, and wept there.

x His heart and inward parts were vehemently moved, as they commonly are upon occaſion of any exceſſive paſſion, of love, pity, grief, or joy, &c.

31 And he waſhed his face, and went out, and refrained himſelf, and ſaid, Set on bread.

32 And they ſet on for him by himſelf y, and for them by themſelves, and for the Egyptians which did eat with him, by themſelves: becauſe the Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews, for that is an abomination unto the Egyptians z.

y Partly becauſe the dignity of his place, and the cuſtom of Princes required this ſtate; and partly for the reaſon here following. z Not ſo much from their pride and diſdain of other people, as from their ſuperſtition and idolatry; partly becauſe they worſhipped the Creatures which the Hebrews and others did commonly eat; and partly becauſe of ſome peculiar Rites and Cuſtoms which they had in the dreſſing and ordering of their diet. Whence Herodotus affirms, that the Egyptians would not uſe the pots nor knives of the Grecians about their food Compare Gen 46. 34. See there, Exod. 8. 26.

33 And they ſate before him, the firſt-born according to his birth-right, and the youngeſt according to his youth a: and the men b marvelled c one at another.

a Being ſo placed either by Joſeph's appointment; or rather by their own choice, and according to their cuſtom; by which the elder, though the handmaidens children, took place of the younger, who by that order were taught what veneration they owe to the aged, and how great a ſin it is, though very cuſtomary, in young men to deſpiſe thoſe whom they ſhould reverence b Not the Egyptians, but the Hebrews, the men laſt ſpoken of. c Either at the matter and manner of the feaſts and entertainments of the Egyptians; or rather, at the ſingular honour which Joſeph did to them above all others, the reaſon whereof they could not conceive, and therefore marvelled at it.

34 And he took, and ſent meſſes unto them from before him d: but Benjamin's meſs was five times ſo much as any of theirs e: and they drunk, and † were merry f with him.

d It was the ancient cuſtom of Egypt and other Countries in their feaſts, that either all the meat, or at leaſt ſome eminent parts and parcels of it, were not promiſcuouſly ſet before all the gueſts, but peculiarly diſtributed by the Maſter of the Feaſt to the ſeveral Gueſts, and that differently, according to his reſpect and affection to them, or to their ſeveral qualities. See 1 Sam. 1. 5. and 9. 22, 23, 24. e Partly becauſe of his nearer relation and dearer affection to him, and partly to obſerve whether this would raiſe that envy in them towards him, which was the occaſion of their malicious enterprize againſt himſelf, that he might accordingly provide for his ſecurity. f The Hebrew word oft ſignifies to be drunk, but oft-times it is only to drink liberally, though not to drunkenneſs, as may appear from Cant. 5. 1. Hag. 1. 6. John 2. 10.

CHAP. XLIV.

Joſeph commands his ſteward to fill their ſacks; reſtore every man's money; and put his ſilver cup into Benjamin's ſack; ſends them away, 1——3. Thereby contriving to bring them back again; they are purſued, and charged with theft, 4——6. Whereat being greatly perplex'd, they ignorantly make themſelves liable to puniſhment, 7——10. The cup is found in Benjamin's ſack; they return to Joſeph, ſubmitting to his cenſure, 10——14. Joſeph pretends the gift of prophecy, 15. Judah ſpeaks much and earneſtly on Benjamin's behalf, offering to remain in his ſtead, 16——34.

AND he commanded the † ſteward of his houſe, ſaying, Fill the mens ſacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put every man's money in his ſack's mouth.

† Heb. that was over his houſe.

2 And put my cup a, the ſilver cup, in the ſack's mouth of the youngeſt b, and his corn-money: and he did according to the word that Joſeph had ſpoken.

a It ſeems to have been a large cup, and of great price, and much uſed by Joſeph. b With deſign to diſcover their intentions and affections towards Benjamin, whether they did envy him, and would deſert him in his danger, as they did Joſeph; or would cleave to him, that hence he might take his meaſures how to deal with him and them.

3 As ſoon as the morning was light, the men were ſent away, they, and their aſſes.

4 And when they were gone out of the city, and not yet far off, Joſeph ſaid unto his ſteward, Up, follow after the men: and when thou doſt overtake them, ſay unto them, Wherefore have ye rewarded evil for good?

5 Is not this it in which my lord drinketh? and whereby indeed he † divineth c? Ye have done evil * in ſo doing.

c Amongſt the ſeveral kinds of divination in uſe among the Egyptians and other Heathens, this was one, to do it by a cup or baſon, which they filled with water, and put in them plates of ſilver, or precious ſtones, in which certain characters were engraven, by which, and ſome words they uſed, they called upon the Devil, who gave them anſwer. Joſeph did not uſe this courſe, nor was a Diviner, but the people thought him ſuch a one, and the ſteward might repreſent him as ſuch, for the better covering or carrying on his deſign. But this ſenſe agrees not with the 15*th* verſe of this Chapter, Wot you not, &c. Which words ſhew that he ſpeaks of ſomething which they all might eaſily know; but they did not know that Joſeph was a Diviner, much leſs that he divined by that Cup, whereas that kind of divination was generally performed by a Glaſs, not by a Cup. Others obſerve, that the Hebrew word of-times ſignifies not to divine, but only to obſerve and diſcover a thing, as Gen. 30. 27. 1 Kings 20. 33. and render the place thus, whereby he will certainly obſerve or diſcover, to wit, what you are, and do. But this alſo ſeems not to conſiſt with ver. 15. and the ſupplement is too large and remote. The true ſenſe then is this, the Hebrew bo is not to be render'd by which, but concerning which, as the Particle beth is oft uſed, and it notes not the Inſtrument whereby, but the Object about which he did divine, and the words muſt be rendred, concerning which he can or would certainly divine. And this agrees well with ver 15. q. d. Did you think you could deceive my Maſter? Did not you and all others know that he could divine, and diſcover ſecret things, whence he had both his name and preferment? And this Cup being much prized and uſed by him, you might eaſily judge that he would uſe his art to recover it. * (i. e.) Very evil, unjuſtly, unthankfully, and fooliſhly.

6 And he overtook them, and he ſpake unto them theſe ſame words.

7 And they ſaid unto him, Wherefore ſaith my lord theſe words? God forbid that thy ſervants ſhould do according to this thing.

8 Behold, the money which we found in our ſacks mouths, we brought again unto thee out of the land of Canaan: how then ſhould we ſteal out of thy lord's houſe ſilver or gold d?

d It is not probable that we who reſtored that which was in our power to keep, and to conceal without any danger, ſhould ſteal that which was likely to be diſcovered with ſo much ſhame and hazard to our ſelves.

9 With whom ſoever of thy ſervants it be found, both * let him dye, and we alſo will be my lord's bondmen e.

* Chap. 31. 32.

e This over-daring offer proceeded from hence, that they were all conſcious of their own innocency, and did not ſuſpect any fraud or artifice in the matter.

10 And he ſaid, Now alſo let it be according unto your words: he with whom it is found, ſhall be my ſervant, and ye ſhall be blameleſs f.

f Thus he moderates the conditions which they propoſed, exempting the innocent, and exchanging the deſerved and offered death of the nocent into ſlavery.

11 Then they ſpeedily took down every man his ſack to the ground, and opened every man his ſack.

12 And he ſearched, and began at the eldeſt g, and left at the youngeſt: and the cup h was found in Benjamin's ſack.

g To take off all their ſuſpicion of his fraud. h He found doubtleſs the money there, but he accuſed them not about that matter, both becauſe they had an anſwer ready to that charge from his own mouth, chap. 43. 23. and becauſe the greater crime, the ſtealing of the Cup which Joſeph ſo much prized and uſed, might ſeem to extinguiſh the leſs, or at leaſt cauſe him to neglect it.

13 Then they rent their cloathes, and laded every man his aſs, and returned to the City i.

i Being afraid and aſhamed to go to their Father without Benjamin, concerning whom they had received ſo ſevere a Charge, and made ſuch ſolemn Promiſes and Imprecations.

14 And Judah and his brethren came to Joſeph's houſe: (for he was yet there) and they fell before him on the ground.

15 And Joſeph ſaid unto them, What deed is this that ye have done? Wot ye not that ſuch a man as I can certainly † divine?

16 And Judah k ſaid, What ſhall we ſay unto my lord? what ſhall we ſpeak? or how ſhall we clear our ſelves? God hath found out the iniquity l of thy ſervants: behold, we are my lord's ſervants, both we, and he alſo with whom the cup is found.

k Who ſpeaks in the cauſe, as being one of the eldeſt, and a perſon of moſt gravity and diſcretion, and readineſs of ſpeech, and moſt eminently concerned for his brother. l viz. This iniquity, of which it ſeems ſome of us are guilty, and God hath diſcovered it. Or, iniquity may be put for iniquities; whether we are guilty of this Fact or not, we are certainly guilty of many other ſins, for which God is now puniſhing us, to whoſe Providence we therefore willingly ſubmit.

17 And he ſaid, God forbid that I ſhould do ſo: but the man in whoſe hand the cup is found, he ſhall be my ſervant: and as for you, get you up in peace unto your father.

18 Then Judah came near unto him m, and ſaid, O my lord, let thy ſervant, I pray thee, ſpeak a word in my lord's ears n, and let not thy anger burn againſt thy ſervant: for thou art even as Pharaoh o.

m Made a little nearer approach to him, that he might preſent his humble Petition to him. n In thy hearing: For this phraſe doth not neceſſarily imply that he whiſpered in his ears; as appears from Numb 14. 28. Deut. 32. 44. Judg. 17. 2. o As thou repreſenteſt his Perſon, ſo thou art inveſted with his Majeſty and Authority, and therefore thy Word is a Law; thou canſt do with us what thou pleaſeſt, either ſpare or puniſh us, and therefore we do juſtly deprecate thine Anger, and moſt humbly intreat thy favourable Audience, and Princely Compaſſion to us.

19 My lord asked his ſervants, ſaying, Have ye a father, or a brother?

20 And we ſaid unto my lord, We have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, a little one p, and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loveth him.

p So they call him comparatively to themſelves, who were much elder; and withal, to ſignify the reaſon why he came not with them, becauſe he was young and tender, and unfit for ſuch a journey.

21 And thou ſaidſt unto thy ſervants, Bring him down unto me, that I may ſet mine eyes upon him q.

q (i. e.) See him with my own eyes, and thereby be ſatisfied of the truth of what you ſay. Compare Gen. 42. 15, 16. Elſewhere this Phraſe ſignifies to ſhew favour to a perſon, as Jer. 39. 12. and 40. 4. But tho that was Joſeph's intention, as yet he was minded to conceal it from them.

22 And we ſaid unto my lord, The lad cannot leave his father: for if he ſhould leave his father, his father would dye.

23 And thou ſaidſt unto thy ſervants, * Except your youngeſt brother come down with you, you ſhall ſee my face no more r.

* Chap. 43. 3.

r Queſt. Why would Joſeph expoſe his Father to the hazard of his life, in parting with his dear Child? Anſw. Joſeph ſuppoſed that to be but a pretence, and might fear leſt his brethren had diſpoſed of Benjamin as they did of him, and therefore could not bring him forth. And as for his Father, the experience which he had of his continuance in life and health after the ſuppoſed untimely death of Joſeph, gave him good aſſurance that his parting with Benjamin for a ſeaſon, and that under the care and charge of his brethren, was not likely to make any dangerous impreſſion upon him.

24 And it came to paſs when we came up unto thy ſervant my father, we told him the words of my lord.

25 And * our father ſaid, Go again, and buy us a little food.

* Chap. 43. 2.

26 And we ſaid, We cannot go down: if our youngeſt brother be with us, then will we go down: for we may not ſee the man's face, except our youngeſt brother be with us.

27 And thy ſervant my father ſaid unto us, Ye know that my wife s bare me two ſons.

s He calleth her ſo by way of Eminency, as Gen. 46. 19. becauſe ſhe only was his Wife by deſign and choice, whereas Leah was put upon him by fraud, and might have been refuſed by him, if he had ſo pleaſed; and the other two were given to him by Rachel and Leah.

28 And the one went out from me, and I ſaid, * Surely he is torn in pieces; and I ſaw him not ſince.

* Chap. 37. 33.

29 And if ye take this alſo from me, and miſchief befal him, ye ſhall bring down my gray hairs with ſorrow to the grave.

30 Now therefore when I come to thy ſervant my father, and the lad be not with us; (ſeeing that his life is bound up in the lads life) t t The death of the Child, which upon this occaſion he will firmly believe will unavoidably procure his death alſo.

31 It ſhall come to paſs when he ſeeth that the lad is not with us, that he will die, and thy ſervants ſhal bring down the gray hairs of thy ſervant our father with ſorrow to the grave.

32 For thy ſervant became ſurety for the lad unto *Chap. 43. 9. my father, ſaying, * If I bring him not unto thee, then I ſhall bear the blame to my father for ever.

33 Now therefore, I pray thee, let thy ſervant abide in ſtead of the lad u, a bondman to my Lord, and let the lad go up with his brethren.

u Partly in compaſſion to our aged Father, and partly for thy own advantage; becauſe I can be more ſerviceable to thee than he, becauſe of my greater ſtrength and experience.

34 For how ſhall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me, leſt peradventure I ſee the evil that †Heb. find my father. ſhall † come on my father?

CHAP. XLV.

Joſeph no longer able to refrain, diſcovers himſelf to his brethren, and weeps; asks concerning his father: they are troubled at his preſence, 1—3. He forbids their grief for their ſin, and comforts them with God's gracious deſign and providence in it, 4—8. He haſtens them to go and acquaint their father, and bring him to Egypt; his meſſage to his father, 9—13. His kindneſs to Benjamin and his brethren, 14, 15. Pharaoh is glad, and invites them down to Egypt, 16—20. Joſeph diſmiſſes them with gifts and preſents to his father; exhorting them not to fall out by the way, 21—24 Coming home they relate all to their father, who at laſt believes them, rejoycing that he ſhould ſee his ſon before he died, 25—28.

THen Joſeph could not refrain himſelf before all them that ſtood by him, and he cryed, Cauſe every man to go out from me a: and there ſtood no man with him, while Joſeph made himſelf known unto his brethren.

a Remove all the Egyptians out of my Preſence and Chamber. Which he did, partly that he might maintain the honour of his place, and not make himſelf cheap and contemptible to the Egyptians, by his exceſſive tears and paſſions, and by his free and familiar, and affectionate converſe with his Brethren; and partly to preſerve the reputation of his Brethren, by concealing their fault from the Egyptians.

† Heb. gave forth his voice in weeping. 2 And he † wept aloud b; and the Egyptians, and the houſe of Pharaoh heard *.

b His tears and voice which had been hitherto kept in by main force, now breaking forth with greater violence. * Some who were near with their own ears, and others by report.

*Acts 7. 13. 3 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, * I am Joſeph; Doth my father yet live c? And his brethren could not anſwer him: for they were † troubled at his † Or, terrified. preſence †.

c He repeats his former queſtion, Gen. 43. 27. either becauſe he queſtioned the truth of their former relation, or would be further ſatisfied in it, it being uſual with men to aſk over and over again what they long to know; or becauſe he now deſired a more particular relation of his Father's Condition, and how he did bear up under all his Calamities. † From a ſudden and deep ſenſe of their horrid guilt, and their juſt fear of ſome dreadful puniſhment.

4 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, Come near to me d, I pray you: and they came near, and he ſaid, I am Joſeph your brother, whom ye ſold into Egypt e.

d Be not afraid of me, but come nearer to me with chearfulneſs and confidence, that you may be aſſured that I am he, and that we may more freely and privately diſcourſe together, ſo as none others may hear. It is probable that Joſeph ſate in ſtate, and that they hitherto kept a due diſtance from him. e (i. e.) Sold unto them that brought me into Egypt, and ſold me there. See Gen. 37. 28. and 39. 1. So they ſold him into Egypt occaſionally and eventually.

†Heb. neither let there be anger in your eyes. *Chap. 50. 20. Pſal. 105. 16, 17. 5 Now therefore be not grieved f, † nor angry with your ſelves g, that ye ſold me hither: * for God did ſend me h before you to preſerve life i.

f To wit, immoderately, and for the injury which you did to me, or for the danger which you have brought upon your ſelves. Otherwiſe he doth not diſſwade them from a godly ſorrow for their offence againſt God, for the procurement of which he deſigned and uſed that ſtrange and rough carriage towards them. g Neither exceſſively torment your ſelves with the remembrance of the fact, neither break forth into contentions and wrath, and upbraidings of one another. h God by his wiſe, powerful, and gracious Providence over-ruled your evil intentions to an happy end. i Not only your lives, for the expreſſion is here indefinite and general, but the lives of all the People in this and the neighbouring Countries. Which though it doth not leſſen your ſin, yet ought to qualify your ſorrow.

6 For theſe two years hath the famine been in the land: and yet there are five years, in the which there ſhall neither be earing nor harveſt k.

k Neither ſowing nor reaping, except in a few places near Nilus, becauſe the People could not ſpare ſeed-corn, and would not loſe it; underſtanding from Joſeph that their coſt and labour would be loſt, and that the famine would be of long continuance.

† Heb. to put for you a remnant. 7 And God ſent me before you to † preſerve you a poſterity l in the earth, and to ſave your lives by a great deliverance m.

l That you and your Children might be ſuſtained and preſerved in this time of Famine, and afterwards abundantly multiplied, as God hath promiſed. m Or, For a great remnant, or eſcaping, (i. e.) that you who are now but an handful, eſcaping this danger, may grow into a vaſt multitude. The word evaſion, or eſcaping, is here put for the perſons that do eſcape, as it is 2 Chron. 30. 6. Iſa. 10. 20. and as captivity is oft put for the Captives, as it is Numb. 21. 1. Deut. 21. 10. And ſo what was ſaid in the former clauſe is repeated in this, with an emphatical addition.

n That I came to this place, and pitch of honour and power, is not to be imputed to your deſign, which was of another nature, but to God's over-ruling Providence, which ordered the circumſtances of your action, ſo as I ſhould be brought to this place and ſtate. Compare Gen. 50. 20. o To adviſe him, and to provide for him as Fathers do for their Children, and to have the authority, reſpect, and power of a Father with him.

9 Haſte you, and go up to my father, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith thy ſon Joſeph; God hath made me lord of all Egypt: come down unto me, tarry not.

10 And thou ſhalt dwell in the land of Goſhen p, and thou ſhalt be near unto me, thou, and thy children, and thy childrens children, and thy flocks, and thy herds, and all that thou haſt.

p A part of Egypt bordering upon Canaan, well watered and fit for cattle, and therefore moſt proper for the Iſraelites not only for preſent uſe, and to keep them at ſome diſtance from the inward parts of Egypt, and from the Court, but alſo that they might have Canaan always in their eye, and mind, and in God's time might with leaſt diſadvantage march thither. Joſeph promiſeth this place, either becauſe it was leaſt inhabited, being in the borders of the Land, or becauſe he juſtly preſumed upon the King's favour, and knew that the growing Famine would give him opportunity to diſpoſe of the people as he pleaſed.

11 And there will I nouriſh thee (for yet there are five years of famine) leſt thou, and thy houſhold, and all that thou haſt, come to poverty.

12 And behold, your eyes ſee, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth that ſpeaketh unto you q.

q Becauſe I ſpeak to you not by an Interpreter, as hitherto I have done, but immediately, and in the Hebrew Language.

13 And you ſhall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that you have ſeen, and ye ſhall haſte, and * bring down my father hither. *A 14 And he fell upon his brother Benjamins neck, 14 and wept: and Benjamin wept upon his neck.

15 Moreover, he kiſſed all his brethren, and wept upon them: and after that his brethren talked with him r.

r To wit, freely and familiarly, being encouraged by his kindneſs.

16 ¶ And the fame thereof was heard in Pharaohs houſe, ſaying, Joſephs brethren are come: and it † † He pleaſed Pharaoh well, and his ſervants s.

s Becauſe they all owed their lives unto Joſeph, and his favour was now freſh and preſent, and therefore he had more influence upon them, and they more kindneſs for him.

17 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, Say unto thy brethren, This do ye, lade your beaſts, and go, get you unto the land of Canaan,

18 And take your father, and your houſholds, and come unto me, and I will give you the good of the land of Egypt, and ye ſhall eat * the fat of the *Cha land t. 28.

t The choiceſt Fruits of the Land. Fat oft is put for the beſt of any ſort, as Numb. 18. 12, 29. Deut. 32. 14. Pſal. 63. 5. and 147. 14.

19 Now thou art commanded u, this do ye; Take you wagons out of the land of Egypt for your little ones, and for your wives, and bring your father and come.

u Beſides that abſolute power which I have given thee to diſpoſe of all things as thou pleaſeſt, I do particularly and eſpecially command thee to do this thing.

20 Alſo † regard not your ſtuff x: for the good of † He all the land of Egypt is yours. &c.

x Heb. Let not your eye pity or ſpare any part of your ſtuff, as loath to leave it behind you, or afraid to loſe it. Sparing or pitying is an act of the Mind, but it is aſcribed to the Eye here, as alſo Ezek. 7. 4, 9. and 16. 5. partly becauſe there it diſcovers it ſelf by tears, or otherwiſe; and partly becauſe the ſight of the Eye doth oft affect the Heart, and move pity.

21 And the children of Iſrael did ſo: and Joſeph gave them wagons, according to the † command- † He ment of Pharaoh, and gave them proviſion for the way.

22 To all of them he gave each man changes of raiment y: but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of ſilver, and five changes of raiment.

y New and handſome Garments, which upon their coming into Pharaoh's preſence, and on other occaſions they might wear in ſtead of thoſe more old and homely ones, which they brought with them from Canaan. Compare Judg. 14. 12, 19. 2 Kings 5. 5.

23 And to his father he ſent after this manner z: ten aſſes † laden with the good things of Egypt, and ten ſhe aſſes laden with corn, and bread, and meat for his father by the way.

† Heb. carrying.

z Heb. According to this. What? Either what went before, changes of raiment, or what follows, ten aſſes, &c.

24 So he ſent his brethren away, and they departed, and he ſaid unto them, See that ye fall not out a by the way.

a Or, contend, one with another, each vindicating himſelf, and laying the blame upon his Brother.

25 ¶ And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan unto Jacob their father.

26 And told him, ſaying, Joſeph is yet alive, and he is governour over all the land of Egypt. And † Jacobs heart fainted b, for he believed them not c.

b Or, was weakned, or failed, he fell into a ſwoon, as it is ordinary, becauſe of the greatneſs and ſuddenneſs of the news, and the conflict of contrary and violent paſſions, raiſed hereby, grief at the remembrance of his former loſs, and exceſſive joy for Joſeph's recovery and felicity; hope that this might be true, and fear leſt it ſhould be but a fiction of theirs: Any one of theſe paſſions are able to cauſe a fainting of the ſpirits, but much more when all meet together, eſpecially in an aged perſon. c Partly becauſe of the greatneſs, and ſtrangeneſs, and deſirableneſs of the thing. Compare Pſal 126. 1. and partly becauſe they were by this very relation convicted of one lye about Joſeph, in ſaying that he was dead, and therefore might eaſily be thought guilty of another.

27 And they told him all the words of Joſeph which he had ſaid unto them; and when he ſaw the wagons which Joſeph had ſent to carry him, the ſpirit of Jacob their father revived.

28 And Iſrael ſaid, It is enough d; Joſeph my ſon is yet alive: I will go and ſee him before I die.

d I deſire no more, no greater happineſs in this World, than to ſee him. Which when I have done, I am willing to die.

CHAP. XLVI.

Jacob ſets out towards Egypt with his family and ſubſtance; offers ſacrifices at Beerſheba; God appears to him in a viſion; renewing his promiſes and bleſſing, 1——4. He goes to Egypt, 5. The names of the children of Iſrael, 8——27. Jacob ſends Judah before him; Joſeph goes to meet his father; their joy, 28——30. Joſeph inſtructs his brethren what to ſay to Pharaoh, to declare themſelves ſhepherds, and deſire to dwell in Goſhen; the reaſon, 31——34.

AND Iſrael took his journey with all that he had, and came to Beerſheba, and offered ſacrifices a unto the God of his father Iſaac b.

a Both in thankfulneſs to God for former favours, and eſpecially for Joſeph's preſervation and happineſs; and by way of ſupplication to God for his direction in this great caſe, whether he might leave the promiſed land of Canaan, and go into the idolatrous and impious land of Egypt; and for his protection and bleſſing, as well in his journey as in Egypt. b Whom Iſaac honoured and ſerved, and who had conſtantly protected, and provided for Iſaac, and confirmed his covenant with him. He mentions Iſaac rather than Abraham, partly for Iſaac's honour, to ſhew that though Iſaac was much inferiour to Abraham in gifts and graces, yet God was no leſs Iſaac's than Abraham's God, and therefore would be his God alſo, notwithſtanding his unworthineſs; and partly for his own comfort, becauſe Iſaac was Jacob's immediate Parent, and had transferred the bleſſing of the covenant from Eſau to Jacob, and the validity of that tranſlation depended upon Iſaac's intereſt in God.

2 And God ſpake unto Iſrael in the viſions of the night c, and ſaid, Jacob, Jacob d: And he ſaid, Here am I.

c (i. e.) In that way or manner of Viſions which God affordeth to Men by night, and in their ſleep. See Gen. 20. 3. Job 33. 15, 16. Matth. 1. 20. and 2. 13, 19. Acts 16. 9. and 18. 9, &c. d He doubles the name both in token of his friendſhip and familiarity with him, and to raiſe Jacob's attention. Compare Gen. 22. 11. 1 Sam. 3. 10.

3 And he ſaid, I am God, the God of thy father; fear not e to go down into Egypt: for I will there make of thee a great nation.

e For here were many cauſes of fear, leſt he ſhould do evil in forſaking the promiſed and bleſſed Land, and going to a place which had been incommodious to his Grandfather, Gen. 12. 15. and forbidden to his Father, Gen. 26. 2. leſt he ſhould expoſe his Children to manifold perils, as of being infected with the vices, and particularly the Idolatry which reigned there above all other Countries, and of being inveagled by the pleaſantneſs and eminent fruitfulneſs of that Soil, to give up themſelves to all manner of pleaſures, and to ſettle themſelves there, and give over all thoughts of returning to Canaan; and of being brought into that grievous bondage and affliction which was ſpoken of Gen. 15. 13. and leſt ſome miſchief ſhould befal him or his in ſo long and dangerous a journey.

4 I will go down with thee into Egypt, and I will alſo ſurely bring thee up again f: and Joſeph ſhall put his hand upon thine eyes g.

f Though not in thy perſon, yet in thy body, Gen 47. 29, 30. and 50. 5, 13. and in thy poſterity, which are a part of thy ſelf, or thy ſelf multiplied. g Shall cloſe thy eyes; which office was uſually performed by the neareſt and deareſt Relations of the dying party among the Jews, Greeks, and Romans. Hereby Jacob is aſſured that he ſhould die in peace, and that Joſeph both now was alive, and ſhould ſurvive his Father.

5 And * Jacob roſe up from Beerſheba: and the ſons of Iſrael carried Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives in the wagons which Pharaoh had ſent to carry him.

* Acts 7. 15.

6 And they took their cattle, and their goods, which they had gotten in the land of Canaan h, and came into Egypt, * Jacob, and all his ſeed with him.

* Joſh. 24. 4. Pſal. 105. 23. Iſa. 52. 4.

h And in Meſopotamia. But Canaan only is here mentioned, becauſe here they got the far greateſt part of them, which by a Synecdoche is put for the whole.

7 His ſons, and his ſons ſons with him, his daughters i, and his ſons daughters, and all his ſeed brought he with him into Egypt.

i Either, his Daughter Dinah, the Plural Number for the Singular, as verſe 23. Gen. 21. 7. Numb. 26. 8. or Dinah and her Daughters; for Grandchildren are commonly called their Grandfather's Children, or Sons or Daughters; or his Daughters-in-law, his Son's Wives.

8 ¶ And * theſe are the names of the children of Iſrael which came into Egypt k, Jacob and his ſons: * Reuben, Jacobs firſt-born.

* Exod. 1. 1. and 6. 14. Num. 26 8. and 1 Chr. 5. 1.

* Numb. 26. 5.

k This Genealogy is both here and elſewhere deſcribed exactly and particularly, as well to ſhew the faithfulneſs of God in the performance of his Promiſe concerning the vaſt Multiplication of Abraham's Seed, and that in ſo ſhort a time; as to diſtinguiſh the Tribes; which was of great importance, and neceſſary for the diſpoſal of the Kingdom and Prieſthood, and above all, for the diſcovery of the true Meſſias. Compare this following Catalogue with that Numb. 26. and 1 Chron. 6. and 7. and 8.

9 And the ſons of Reuben, Hanoch, and Phallu, and Hezron, and Carmi.

10 ¶ * And the ſons of Simeon: † Jemuel, and Jamin, and Ohad l, and † Jachin, and † Zohar, and Shaul the ſon of a Canaanitiſh woman m.

* Exod. 6. 15. 1 Chron. 4. 24.

† Or, Jarib

l Who is not mentioned in thoſe parallel places, becauſe he was then dead, and that without iſſue. m Which is here mentioned as a Brand upon him, and as an intimation that the reſt of them, except Judah, married to Perſons of a better Race.

11 ¶ And the ſons * of Levi, † Gerſhon, Kohath, and Merari.

* 1 Chron. 6. 1, 16.

† Or, Gerſhom.

12 ¶ And the ſons of * Judah: Er, and Onan, and Shelah and Pharez, and Zerah: but Er, and Onan died in the land of Canaan n. And the ſons of Pharez were * Hezron, and Hamul o.

* 1 Chron. 2. 3. and 4. 21. Chap. 38. 3.

* 1 Chron. 2. 5.

n And therefore are not contained in the following number, verſe 15. o Who, though they ſeem to have been born in Egypt, yet are here ſet down amongſt thoſe who came into Egypt, becauſe they came thither in their Father's Loyns, as Levi is ſaid to pay tithes in Abraham, Heb. 7. 9. And the Children may as well be ſaid to come thither in their Parents, as their Father Jacob is ſaid to return from thence, verſe 4. in his Children. Obj. If this be the ſenſe, why ſhould theſe two be mentioned rather than the Grandchildren of the other Brethren, who came into Egypt in the ſame manner! Anſw. This may be done either, 1. From ſome ſpecial Excellency or Eminency in them above the reſt, as Hezron was eminent for being the Progenitor of the Meſſiah, and Hamul might be ſo for ſome other cauſe though unknown to us. Or 2. Becauſe they were the firſt Grandchilden that were born in Egypt, and it may be all that were born whilſt Jacob lived there, and therefore are not unfitly named with Jacob, and allotted to him, as Joſeph's two eldeſt Sons, Ephraim and Manaſſeh were by Jacob appropriated to himſelf, and reckoned as his immediate Sons, when all the reſt of Joſeph's Sons were excluded from that priviledge, Gen. 48. 5, 6. And the like may be ſaid of the other two Grandchildren mentioned verſe 17.

13 ¶ * And the ſons of Iſſachar: Tola and † Phuvah, and Job, and Shimron.

* 1 Chron. 7. 1.

† Or, Puah—Jaſhub.

14 ¶ And the ſons of Zebulun: Sered, and Elon, and Jahleel.

15 Theſe be the ſons of Leah which ſhe bare unto Jacob in Padan-Aram p with his daughter Dinah: all the ſouls of his ſons and his daughters q, were thirty and three.

p This is true properly and immediately of the Sons, who were indeed born there, but improperly and mediately of the Grandchildren, which are as truly ſaid to be born of Leah in Padan, as to be born of her at all, becauſe they were indeed born of them which were born of her, and that in Padan. q To wit, which came into Egypt as before; ſo that Er and Onan are excluded, as dying before this Journey into Egypt, verſe 12. Daughters is here put for Daughter, as verſe 7. becauſe Dinah was all the Daughters which Jacob had Heb. all the Souls, Sons and Daughters, being reckoned together with their Father.

† Heb. Thigh.

26 All the * ſouls that came with Jacob into Egypt, which came out of his † loyns s, beſides Jacobs ſons wives, all theſe ſouls were threeſcore and ſix t.

s Heb. Thigh, which is here put for the ſecret Parts between the Thighs, which are called ſometimes the Feet, as Gen. 49. 10. Deut. 28. 57. Ezek. 16. 25. for the like reaſon, becauſe they are between the Feet. From this Eaſtern manner of Speech, came that paſſage in the Greek Fables, concerning Bacchus being born out of Jupiter's Thigh. t So many they are, excluding Jacob, as the Common Parent, and Joſeph and his two Sons, as being in Egypt before Jacob's coming thither; which four being included they make up 70, as it is verſe 27.

* Deut. 10. 22. See Acts 7. 14.

27 And the ſons of Joſeph which were born him in Egypt, were two ſouls: * all the ſouls of the houſe of Jacob, which came into Egypt u, were threeſcore and ten.

u He doth not ſay, which came with Jacob into Egypt, becauſe ſome of them came thither before him, and others with him, ſome in their Perſons, and ſome in their Parents. As for the difficulty ariſing from comparing this place with Acts 7. 14. it will be more fit to ſpeak of it when we come to that place.

28 ¶ And he ſent Judah before him unto Joſeph, to direct his face unto Goſhen x; and they came into the land of Goſhen.

x Heb. To prepare, or to teach him, the way before his Face, i. e. before his coming to Goſhen; i. e. to ſhew him where it was, and into what part of it he ſhould come and ſettle himſelf; or to give notice unto Joſeph of his approach, before his face or coming into Goſhen.

29 And Joſeph made ready his chariot, and went up to meet Iſrael his father to Goſhen, and preſented himſelf unto him y, and he fell on his neck, and wept on his neck a good while.

y And doubtleſs fell down before him with all that reverence which Children owe to their Parents, and in this poſture Jacob falls upon his Neck, &c. Of which poſture ſee Gen. 33. 4. and 45. 14. Luke 15. 20. Acts 20. 37.

30 And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, Now let me die z, ſince I have ſeen thy face, becauſe thou art yet alive.

z Now I expect no greater happineſs upon Earth, and therefore am content to die. Compare Luke 2. 29.

31 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, and unto his fathers houſe, I will go up, and ſhew Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, My brethren, and my fathers houſe, which were in the land of Canaan, are come unto me.

† Heb. they are men of cattle.

32 And the men are ſhepherds, for † their trade hath been to feed cattle: and they have brought their flocks and their herds, and all that they have.

33 And it ſhall come to paſs, when Pharaoh ſhall call you, and ſhall ſay, What is your occupation?

34 That ye ſhall ſay, Thy ſervants trade hath been about cattle from our youth, even until now, both we, and alſo our fathers: that ye may dwell in the land of Goſhen *. For every ſhepherd is an abomination to the Egyptians †.

* In which deſign and choice Joſeph ſhews both his Prudence and Piety. He brings them not to Court, where it had been eaſy for him to have put them all into the beſt Places and Offices of the Court; and as he is not aſhamed to own himſelf a Brother to Shepherds, which were contemptible among the Egyptians, ſo he ſeeks not to advance them higher, but continues them in their Employment, and placeth them in Goſhen: whereby, 1. He kept them together, which was very convenient for them in many reſpects. 2. He ſecured them both from Envy, and as far as he could, from the Corruption of their Religion and Manners, which was likely to follow their mixture with the Egyptians, and eſpecially their being at the Court. 3. He put them into a capacity of returning to Canaan, when God gave them opportunity. † Either, 1. Becauſe they did both kill and eat thoſe Creatures which the Egyptians adored. Or, 2. Becauſe of the freſh remembrance of the horrid Cruelties lately committed there by the Phœnician Shepherds, who as ſome very Ancient Writers affirm, were ſeated in Egypt in great Numbers, and had arrived to great Power, and waged a cruel War with other Egyptians, wherein they waſted divers Cities, and burned their Temples, and barbarouſly murdered a multitude of People. And therefore it is no wonder if the Calling of Shepherds was grown out of uſe and credit among them. True it is, the Egyptians had ſome Sheep, and other Cattle, Gen. 47. 6, 17. Exod. 8. 26. and 9. 3. which they kept for delight or profit by their Milk, Wooll, &c. or for Sale to others, but they did not uſe them, as other Shepherds generally did, kill and eat them. And it is probable that they committed even the keeping of their Sheep and Cattle to thoſe Strangers which were diſperſed among them, and looked upon the Employment as too vile and mean for any Egyptian. And tho Pharaoh offered it to Joſeph's Brethren as a favour to be Rulers over his Cattle, Gen 47. 6. that might proceed only from hence, becauſe he ſaw them firmly reſolved upon that courſe of Life, and therefore could not beſtow any higher preferment upon them.

CHAP. XLVII.

Joſeph acquaints Pharaoh with his father's arrival; preſents five of his brethren to him, 1, 2. He after ſome enquiry inſtates them in Goſhen; they being ſhepherds, he orders Joſeph, if he knew any men of activity amongſt them, to make them rulers over his cattle, 3——6. Joſeph likewiſe brings his father before Pharaoh, who enquires after his age, and is bleſſed by Jacob, 7——10. Joſeph maintains his father, and all his houſe in Goſhen, 11, 12. Joſeph gets all the money, cattle, and lands of the Egyptians into his hands for corn; removes them to diſtant quarters of the land, 13——21. The prieſts only excepted, who have a portion aſſigned them by Pharaoh, 22. Joſeph leaves the land to the people to till, and gives them corn to ſow, they giving Pharaoh the fifth part of the crop, 23——26. Jacobs life in Egypt, and full age, 27, 28. He takes an oath of Joſeph concerning his burial, 29——31.

THen Joſeph came and told Pharaoh, and ſaid, My father, and my brethren, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan: and behold, they are in the land of Goſhen a.

a Either to abide there: Or to remove thence to any other place which thou ſhalt appoint for them.

2 And he took ſome b of his brethren, even five men, and preſented them unto Pharaoh.

b Or, part, as this Hebrew word is uſed, Dan. 1. 2. Or the extremity, or end, or tail of them, i. e. the meaneſt of them for Perſon and Preſence, as the word is taken, 1 Kings 12. 31. leſt if he had preſented the goodlieſt of them, Pharaoh might have required their attendance upon him, either at Court or Camp. And for the ſame reaſon for which he did induſtriouſly repreſent them to Pharaoh as contemptible in their employment, he might alſo preſent thoſe to him who were ſo in their Perſons.

3 And Pharaoh ſaid unto his brethren, What is your occupation? And they ſaid unto Pharaoh, Thy ſervants are ſhepherds both we, and alſo our fathers *.

* This Employment is not pretended nor taken up by us in deſign, or in contempt of thee or thy People, but was handed to us by our Fathers, and hath been our buſineſs to this day.

4 They ſaid moreover unto Pharaoh, For to ſojourn in the land c are we come: for thy ſervants have no paſture for their flocks, for the famine is ſore in the land of Canaan d: now therefore we pray thee, let thy ſervants dwell in the land of Goſhen.

c Not to defraud thy People of their Lands and Habitations, but only to be here for a ſeaſon as Strangers and Sojourners till we can conveniently return to our own Land. d Which being an higher Ground than Egypt, and watered in a manner only by Rain from Heaven, muſt needs ſooner and ſorer feel the effects of a Drought and Scarcity than Egypt, which had relief from Nilus in that kind.

5 And Pharaoh ſpake unto Joſeph, ſaying, Thy father and thy brethren are come unto thee.

6 The land of Egypt is before thee e; in the beſt of the land make thy father and thy brethren to dwell, in the land of Goſhen let them dwell: and if thou knoweſt any man of activity f amongſt them, then make them rulers over my cattle.

e To view it, and take thy choice where thou pleaſeſt, it is in thy power. See Gen. 13. 9. f Or, of Strength or Vigour of Body and Mind, fit for the Employment. By which Expreſſion it ſeems probable that thoſe five preſented to Pharaoh were of the meaneſt ſort of them. See on verſe 2.

7 And Joſeph brought in Jacob his father, and ſet him before Pharaoh: and Jacob bleſſed g Pharaoh.

g Not in an authoritative way, as the greater bleſſeth the leſs, but in a general manner, i. e. he ſaluted him, thanked him for all his favours to him and his, and prayed to God to bleſs and recompence him for it. Thus bleſſing is put for ſaluting, 1 Sam. 13. 10. 2 Kings 4. 29. for praying, Numb. 6. 23, 24. for thankſgiving, Matth. 26. 26. compare with Luke 22. 19.

† Heb. how many are the days of the years of thy life?

* Heb. 11. 9, 13.

8 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Jacob, † How old art thou?

9 And Jacob ſaid unto Pharaoh, * The days of the years of my pilgrimage i are an hundred and thirty years: few and evil have the days of the years of my life been, and have not attained unto the days of the years of the life of my fathers k, in the days of their pilgrimage.

i (i. e.) Of my unſtable or unſetled Life, in which I have been flitting from place to place. See Gen. 17. 8. Pſalm 119. 19. Heb. 11. 9, 13. k Though I ſeem old in compariſon of thy People, yet I fall much ſhort of my Progenitors, Iſaac, and Abraham, and Terah.

10 And Jacob bleſſed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

11 ¶ And Joſeph placed his father and his brethren, and gave them a poſſeſſion in the land of Egypt, in the beſt of the land, in the land of Rameſes l, as Pharaoh had commanded.

l A part of the Land of Goſhen, poſſibly that part where afterwards the City Rameſes was built by the Iſraelites, Exod. 1. 11. and 12. 37. whence it is ſo called here by Anticipation. For the Iſraelites were not now numerous enough to poſſeſs the whole Land of Goſhen, which was given to them, but contented themſelves with a part of it, leaving the reſt to the management of the Egyptians, and therefore when they encreaſed greatly, they were forced to ſpread their Habitations amongſt the Egyptians. See Exod. 12. 7, 23, 35, 37.

12 And Joſeph nouriſhed his father and his brethren, and all his fathers houſhold with bread, * † according to their families m.

* Or, as a little child is nouriſhed.

m Or, According to the Mouth of the Family: Mouth being put for their Will or Deſire, as it is Gen. 24. 57. Iſaiah 30. 2. as much as every one deſired, without any reſtraint: Or, according to the manner of a little Child, he put their meat into their very Mouths; it was brought to them without any more care or pains of theirs, than an Infant takes for its food.

13 ¶ And there was no bread in all the land: for the famine was very ſore, ſo that the land of Egypt, and all the land of Canaan fainted by reaſon of the famine n.

n Queſt. Whence came it that the People in this extremity did not take the Corn by force out of the ſeveral Store-houſes! Anſ. Beſides that ſingular Providence of God which watcheth over Kings and Rulers, and ſtilleth the Tumults of the People, Joſeph had no doubt foreſeen this difficulty, and took due care to prevent it, partly by diſpoſing the Stores in ſtrong and well-guarded Places; partly by adding Wealth and Strength to the King, whereby he might more eaſily ſuppreſs any ſeditious Riſings; and principally by not permitting the People to Deſpair, or come to the utmoſt Extremity, but giving them relief in all their Exigencies.

14 And Joſeph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt o, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought: and Joſeph brought the money into Pharaohs houſe.

o Wherein he did no more than any of the Subjects might have done; he bought great ſtore of Corn in the plentiful years with the King's Money, and kept it till a time of Famine, and ſold it at a rate which was agreeable to the ſeaſon.

15 And when money failed in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came unto Joſeph, and ſaid, Give us bread: for why ſhould we die in thy preſence? for the money faileth.

p Why ſhouldſt thou ſee and ſuffer us to periſh for our want of Money, when thou canſt relieve us?

16 And Joſeph ſaid, Give your cattle: and I will give for your cattle, if money fail.

17 And they brought their cattle unto Joſeph: and Joſeph gave them bread in exchange for horſes, and for the flocks, and for the cattle of their herds, and for the aſſes, and † he fed them with bread, for all their cattle, for that year.

† Heb. led them.

18 When that year was ended, they came unto him the ſecond year q, and ſaid unto him, We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money is ſpent, my lord alſo had our herds of cattle: there is not ought left in the ſight of my lord, but our bodies, and our lands.

q Not the ſecond from the beginning of the Famine, but from their great extremity, the ſecond year after that laſt mentioned, wherein they had ſold their Cattle; but this ſeems to have been the laſt year of the Famine, becauſe he now gives them Corn for food and for ſeed too, ver. 23. whereas in the firſt ſix years there was no ſowing nor reaping, Gen. 45. 6.

19 Wherefore ſhall we dye before thine eyes r, both we and our land s? buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be ſervants unto Pharaoh t: and give us ſeed u that we may live and not dye, that the land be not deſolate x.

r (i. e.) Whilſt thou lookeſt upon us like an idle ſpectator, not pitying and relieving us. s The land is ſaid to dye improperly, when it is deſolate and barren, and when the fruits of it dye, or which is equivalent to it, do not live. t Pharaoh ſhall be the ſole Proprietor, and we are content to be his Tenants, to manage it for his uſe. u Becauſe this was the laſt year of Famine, as Joſeph informed them, and therefore they tilled and ſowed the ground for the following year. x Without inhabitants, as it will be if thou ſuffereſt us to dye for want of bread.

20 And Joſeph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh: for the Egyptians ſold every man his field, becauſe the famine prevailed over them: ſo the land became Pharaoh's.

21 And as for the people, he removed them to cities y, from one end of the borders of Egypt, even to the other end thereof z.

y Under the Cities are here comprehended the Villages and Lands belonging to the Territory and Government of each City; for the ſeed which he gave them was not to be ſown in Cities, but in the Countrey; but the Cities only are here mentioned, becauſe they were ſent thither firſt, either for the conveniency of nouriſhing them during this Famine, out of the Publick Storehouſes which were there; or that they might all profeſs their Subjection to the Governments of the ſeveral Cities, which was convenient for the management of that numerous and tumultuous people; or that the Cities might be firſt and moſt repleniſhed with Inhabitants, as being the principal Honour, and Strength, and Security of a Kingdom, and that Arts, and Trades, and Merchandiſe might flouriſh, without which the Commodities of the Countrey would have been of leſs Price and Uſe. But the Cities being firſt ſupplied, the reſidue, which doubtleſs was vaſt, were diſperſed in the Countrey. z Far from their Native Soil and Ancient Patrimonies, that none of them might plead Preſcription, but that all might be forced to acknowledge that they owed their Eſtates not to their own Wit and Induſtry, nor to their Parents Gift, but wholly to the King's Favour; and that the remembrance of their Patrimonial Lands might be worn out, and therewith the grief which would ariſe from their reſentment of their loſs of them, which probably would be matter of Tumults and Seditions, to which that people were very prone. And it is probable that he ſo diſpoſed of this affair, that thoſe who were apt and likely, and uſed to unite together in ſeditious Inſurrections, whether Kindred or others, ſhould be ſeparared one from another as far as might be. If any think that Joſeph dealt hardly with them, and made an ill uſe of their neceſſity, he will ſee how moderately and mercifully he deals with them, ver. 24.

22 Only the land of the † Prieſts a bought he not b: for the Prieſts had a portion aſſigned them of Pharaoh, and did eat their portion which Pharaoh gave them: wherefore they ſold not their lands.

a Under this name he underſtands chiefly thoſe who adminiſtred the Worſhip of the Gods or Idols of Egypt, and withal thoſe who applied themſelves to the Study of the Arts and Virtues, called their Wiſemen and Magicians. Though ſome underſtand it of the Princes (as that word ſometimes ſignifies) or Officers of Pharaoh, who were nouriſhed out of the King's Treaſures. And poſſibly the ſame Hebrew word may here comprehend both, viz. the Miniſters of the King, and of their Idols too, for both enjoyed the ſame Privileges, as Diodorus Siculus relates. And that the Prieſts are included, if not mainly intended here, will be evident enough to any one that conſiders the ſtate of Egypt, how mad that people univerſally were upon their Idols, how numerous their Prieſts were, and in how great honour and veneration both with Prince and People: Beſides, reaſon of State obliged Pharaoh to engage and ſecure to himſelf that ſort of men, which bore ſo great ſway with the old inhabitants of their ſeveral places, and were likely to have the ſame authority with the new inhabitants, to quiet and ſatisfy them at their firſt change, which muſt needs be very ungrateful to them. b Of this Immunity of the Prieſts, that Ancient Writer Diodorus Siculus makes mention. But this is not to be aſcribed to Joſeph's will or choice; for he who abhorred their Idolatry, could not have a kindneſs for, nor would have given encouragement to the great upholders and promoters of it; but in this he was over-ruled either by Pharaoh's expreſs Command, (it being not probable that ſo great an Intereſt as that of the Prieſts ſhould not have Friends at Court, or that their Friends ſhould not plead for them, or that their Pleas and Deſires ſhould not be granted by an Idolatrous King) or by the Laws of Egypt, or by their Cuſtoms and Uſages in things of a like nature, which would have the force of a Law among them.

23 Then Joſeph ſaid unto the people, Behold, I have bought you this day, and your land for Pharaoh, Lo, here is ſeed for you, and ye ſhall ſow the land †:

† For this was the laſt year of the Famine, as was noted before.

24 And it ſhall come to paſs in the increaſe, that you ſhall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh, and four parts ſhall be your own c, for ſeed of the field, and for your food, and for them of your houſholds, and for food for your little ones.

c Whereas he might have reſerved four parts to Pharaoh, and have allowed them only the fifth. Herein he ſhewed both his humanity and kindneſs, in mitigating that hard bargain which themſelves had made, and were neceſſitated to make, and his prudence in compoſing, ſweetning, and winning the hearts of the people to the King, and making them pay their Tribute for the future with more chearfulneſs.

25 And they ſaid, Thou haſt ſaved our lives d: let us find grace in the ſight of my lord e, and we will be Pharaoh's ſervants *.

d Without thy Care and Providence we had all been dead men; and therefore if thou hadſt kept us to the firſt bargain, thou hadſt done us more kindneſs than wrong, much more when thou haſt uſed us with ſo much equity and clemency. e Be thou our Friend with Pharaoh in this and upon all other occaſions. * To manage his land for him upon the terms which thou haſt propoſed.

26 And Joſeph made it a law over the land of Egypt unto this day, that Pharaoh ſhould have the fifth part f: except the land of the † Prieſts only, which became not Pharaoh's.

† Or, Princes.

f That the Propriety of the Land ſhould be Pharaoh's; and that in token thereof the people ſhould pay the fifth part of the Products of it to Pharaoh.

27 ¶ And Iſrael dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the countrey of Goſhen, and they had poſſeſſions g therein, and grew and multiplied exceedingly.

g (i. e.) Lands, not for the Dominion or Propriety of them, for that reſted in Pharaoh, but for the uſe and profit of them for their preſent ſubſiſtence.

28 And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt ſeventeen years: ſo † the whole age of Jacob was an hundred forty and ſeven years.

† Heb. the days of the years of his life.

29 And the time drew nigh that Iſrael muſt dye, and he called his ſon Joſeph, and ſaid unto him, If now I have found grace in thy ſight, * put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh h, and deal i kindly and truly k with me, * bury me not, I pray thee, in Egypt.

* Chap. 24. 2.

* See chap. 50. 25.

h (i.e.) Swear to me, (as ver. 31.) that thou wilt do what I am now deſiring of thee. See the Notes on Gen. 24. 2. He requires this, not out of any diſtruſt of Joſeph's promiſe, but partly as a more ſolemn proteſtation of his right to, and affection for that promiſed Land; partly as a motive to all his Children to have their minds and hearts there, even when their bodies were in Egypt; and partly to give Joſeph an argument and excuſe to Pharaoh, that he might more willingly permit Joſeph to fulfil his father's deſire, becauſe of his own Oath. i Or, that thou wilt deal; as the Hebrew Vau joined with the Future Tenſe, is elſewhere uſed; as Pſal. 24. 7. and 35. 24. and 51. 15. k Kindly in promiſing, and truly in performing thy promiſe.

30 But I will lye with my fathers l, and thou ſhalt carry me out of Egypt, and bury me in their buryingplace: and he ſaid, I will do as thou haſt ſaid.

l Abraham and Iſaac in Canaan. See Gen. 23. 19. and 25. 9. and 35. 29. Which he deſired not ſo much for himſelf, as knowing that whereever he was buried he ſhould riſe to Glory; as for his Children, to ſhew his own, and confirm their Faith in God's Promiſe of Canaan; to diſcover his high valuation of that Land, not only for it ſelf, but as it was a Type and Pledge of the Heavenly Inheritance; to keep his Childrens minds and hearts looſe from Egypt, a place of ſo much ſin and danger, and fixed upon Canaan, that they might be more willing to go thither when God called them, by virtue of that inclination which is in moſt perſons, to be buried with their Fathers; and in the mean time to declare his deteſtation of Idolaters, with whom he would have no communion either in life, as far as he could avoid it, or in the place of burial; and on the contrary, to profeſs his communion with his godly Anceſtors, by his deſire to be joined with them in burial. And for the ſame reaſons Joſeph deſired the tranſlation of his Bones thither, Gen. 50. 25.

31 And he ſaid, Swear unto me: and he ſware unto him. And * Iſrael bowed himſelf m upon the bed's head n.

* Heb. 11. 21.

m Not to Joſeph, who being now not upon his Throne, nor amongſt the Egyptians, but in his Father's Houſe, was doubtleſs more ready to pay that Reverence, (as he did chap. 48. 12.) than to receive Veneration from him, which he owed to his Father; but to God, who is here to be underſtood, as he is in the ſame Phraſe, 1 Kings 1. 47. whom with this Geſture he worſhipped and praiſed, as for the Promiſe of Canaan, and the aſſurance which he had now received from Joſeph, of his being buried there, ſo for all his favours to him and to Joſeph, and by him to all his Family. n Jacob at this time was bed-rid through Age and Infirmity; but being now to give God ſolemn Thanks, though the words and manner of it be not here expreſſed, he raiſed himſelf and ſat upon the head or uppermoſt part of his bed, as he did alſo Gen. 48. 2. that he might expreſs his Reverence to God as much as he could by Bowing, when he could not do it as much as he would, being unable to do it Kneeling. Others for bed read ſtaff, the diſcuſſion whereof I refer unto its proper place, Heb. 11. 21.

CHAP. XLVIII.

Jacob being ſick, Joſeph comes and viſits him, 1, 2. Jacob declares God's appearances and promiſes to him, 3, 4. Adopts Joſeph's two ſons Manaſſeh and Ephraim to be fathers of two tribes in Iſrael, 5, 6. Mentions Rachel's death, and the place where he buried her, 7. Calls for his ſons to bleſs them: Joſeph brings and places them: Jacob purpoſely croſſes his hands, 8——14. His bleſſing on Joſeph and his ſons, 15, 16. Joſeph interpoſes to remove his father's hands, 17, 18. He declares the preheminence of the younger, 19. But the other alſo bleſſed, 20. Propheſieth of their return to Canaan, 21. He gives Joſeph a piece of land apart, 22.

AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that one told Joſeph, Behold, thy father is ſick: and he took with him his two ſons a, Manaſſeh and Ephraim.

a To obtain his Venerable and Religious Father's Bleſſing for them.

2 And one told Jacob, and ſaid, Behold, thy ſon Joſeph cometh unto thee: and Iſrael ſtrengthned himſelf b, and ſat upon the bed.

b He got new ſtrength, his ſpirits being quickned and refreſhed by the tidings of Joſeph's approach, and he put forth all the ſtrength which he had.

3 And Jacob ſaid unto Joſeph, God Almighty appeared unto me at * Luz in the land of Canaan, and bleſſed me,

* Chap. 28. 1 35. 6.

4 And ſaid unto me, Behold, I will make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, and I will † make of thee a multitude of people; and will give this land to thy ſeed after thee, for an everlaſting poſſeſſion.

† Heb. make thee a multitude of people.

5 ¶ And now thy * two ſons, Ephraim and Manaſſeh, which were born unto thee in the land of Egypt, before I came unto thee into Egypt, are mine c: as Reuben and Simeon d they ſhall be mine.

* Chap. 41. 50. 46. 20. Joſh. 1 c By Adoption: I ſhall own them as if they were my immediate Children, and each of them ſhall have equal ſhare both in my preſent Eſtate, and future Inheritance of Cannan with the reſt of my Children. Thus Jacob transfers the double Portion, which was the Right of the Firſt-born, from which Reuben by his Tranſgreſſion fell, Gen. 49. 4. upon Joſeph, 1 Chron. 5. 1. d Which two he names as the eldeſt, who, if any, might ſeem to claim a greater Privilege than the reſt.

6 And thy iſſue which thou begetteſt after them ſhall be thine e, and ſhall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritance *.

e Shall be reputed as thy Children, and my Grandchildren, and ſhall not have any diſtinct ſhare in my preſent or future Inheritance, but ſhall have a part of their brethrens Lot, in ſuch manner and proportion as thou ſhalt think fit, or as their ſucceeding Parents or Governors ſhall determine. But it doth not appear, nor doth Scripture any where mention, that Joſeph had any other Sons but theſe, and therefore it is probable he had no more; only Jacob ſpeaks this upon ſuppoſition, in caſe he ſhould have any other. * Either Ephraimites or Manaſſites.

7 And as for me, * when I came from Padan, Rachel died by me f in the land of Canaan, in the way when yet there was but a little way to come unto Ephrath: and I buried her there in the way of Ephrath g: the ſame is Bethlehem.

* Gen. 19.

f Or, beſide me; near me, before mine eyes, I ſeeing, but not being able to help her in her extremity; which makes the remembrance of it more grievous to me. This ſtory he here mentions, partly becauſe the ſight of Joſeph and his Children brought his beloved Rachel to his remembrance; partly to give the reaſon of this action of his to the reſt of his Children, which was not only becauſe Rackel was his firſt rightful Wife by Deſignation and Contract, and therefore the right of the Firſt-born was truly Joſeph's; but becauſe by her early death he was cut off from all hopes of having more Children by her, and therefore it was but fit he ſhould ſupply that defect, by adopting Joſeph's Children. g Not out of diſreſpect to her, whoſe Perſon was, and Memory yet is, precious and honourable to me, but either becauſe dying in Childbed they could not keep her till they came to the Burying-place of the Patriarchs at Hebron, Gen. 23. 19. eſpecially when they were tied to the ſlow motion of the flocks and herds; or becauſe I would not bury her in the common Burying-place with Heathens and Idolaters, in the City of Ephrath. By which he tacitely implies, that he would not have Joſeph joined with the Egyptians in Burial.

8 And Iſrael beheld Joſeph's ſons, and ſaid, Who are theſe h?

h For Jacob's eyes were dim through age and infirmity, as is obſerved ver. 10. and therefore he could not diſtinctly diſcern them.

9 And Joſeph ſaid unto his father, They are my ſons, whom God hath given me in this place: and he ſaid, Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, and I will bleſs them i.

i Or, that I may bleſs them, not with a common, but with a Paternal and Patriarchal and Prophetical Bleſſing, in the Name and by the Spirit of God, praying for, and foretelling thoſe Bleſſings which God will confer upon them.

10 (Now the eyes of Iſrael were † dim for age, ſo that he could not ſee) and he brought them near unto him, and he kiſſed them, and embraced them:

† Heb. heavy.

11 And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, I had not thought to ſee thy face, and lo, God hath ſhewed me alſo thy ſeed.

12 And Joſeph brought them out from between his knees k, and he bowed himſelf with his face to the earth l.

k Not his own knees, from which they had been taken before, but Jacob's knees, between which they ſtood whilſt Jacob kiſſed and embraced them; from which Joſeph removed them, partly that they might not be burdenſome to their aged and weak Grandfather, and principally that he might place them in fit order and reverend poſture to receive the Bleſſing for which he longed. l Teſtifying thereby his Reverence to his Father, his Thankfulneſs for the Favour which he had now ſhewed to him and his, and his humble and earneſt Requeſt for his Bleſſing upon them.

14 And Iſrael ſtretched out his right hand m, and laid it upon Ephraim's head n, who was the younger, and his left hand upon Manaſſeh's head, guiding his hands wittingly o: for Manaſſeh was the firſt-born.

m Which was more honourable both in Scripture account, and amongſt the Gentiles. n Which was a rite uſed often, and in divers caſes, as in the conferring of offices either ſacred or civil, as Numb. 8. 10. Deut. 34. 9. Acts 6. 6. and 13. 3. and among other things, in giving benedictions, as Matth. 19. 13. o This proceeded not from chance, or the miſtake and weakneſs of his eyes, but from deſign, and the wiſdom of his hands. Heb. He diſpoſed his hands prudently, or, he dealt wiſely with his hands. Here was a double wiſdom ſhewed. 1. Humane, by which he gathered that Manaſſeh was the eldeſt, becauſe Joſeph placed him towards his right hand. 2. Divine and Prophetical, by which he foreſaw Ephraim's advantages above Manaſſeh, and wiſely ſuited the Ceremony to the Subſtance, giving the greater ſign of Honour to him, to whom God deſigned the thing.

Chap. 17. 1. and 24. 40.

15 ¶ * And he bleſſed Joſeph p, and ſaid, God, * before whom my fathers Abraham and Iſaac did walk, the God which fed me * all my life long unto this day;

p Not now in his Perſon, but in his Children, which yet is called here a bleſſing of Joſeph, becauſe they were a part of himſelf. In which ſenſe, and upon the ſame ground the land of Canaan is ofttimes ſaid to be not only promiſed but given to Abraham, and Iſaac, &c. not as if they were in perſon to poſſeſs it, but becauſe it ſhould be given to their Children. Thus Cham is ſaid to be curſed when his Son is curſed, Gen. 9. 25. * (i. e.) Protected, ſuſtained, and directed me.

† Heb. as fiſhes do increaſe. See Numb. 26. 34, 37.

16 The angel q * which redeemed me from all evil, bleſs the lads, and let my name be named on them r, and the name of my fathers Abraham, and Iſaac s, and let them grow † into a multitude in the midſt of the earth.

q Not ſurely a created Angel, but Chriſt Jeſus, who is called an Angel, Exod. 23. 20. and the Angel of the covenant, Mal. 3. 1. who was the conductor of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs, as plainly appears by comparing of Exod. 23. 20, 21. with 1 Cor. 10. 4, 9. Add hereunto, that this Angel is called Jacob's redeemer, which is the Title appropriated by God to himſelf, Iſa. 43. 14. and 47. 4. and that from all evil, and therefore from ſin, from which no created Angel can deliver us, but Chriſt only, Matth. 1. 21. and that Jacob worſhippeth and prayeth to this Angel no leſs than to God for the bleſſing, and that without any note of diſtinction, the word bleſs, being in the Singular Number, and equally relating to God, and to the Angel; and that the Angel to whom he here aſcribes his Deliverances from all evil, muſt in all reaſon be the ſame to whom he prayed for theſe very Deliverances which he here commemorates, and that was no other than the very God of Abraham, as is evident from Gen. 28. 15, 20, 21. and 32. 9, 10, 11. and 35. 3. r (i. e.) Let them be called by my name, owned for my immediate Children, and inveſted with the ſame Priviledges with my other Children, be the heads of diſtinct Tribes, and as ſuch receive diſtinct Inheritances. And hence they are called the children of Jacob or Iſrael, no leſs than the children of Joſeph. For the phraſe, ſee Deut. 28. 10. 2 Chron. 7. 14. Iſa. 4. 1. Jer. 14. 9. s Let them be called their Children; let them not only have my bleſſing, but the bleſſings of Abraham and Iſaac; let all meet together upon their heads; and let that gracious Covenant of God made with Abraham, and confirmed with Iſaac and me, be ratified and made good unto them.

17 And when Joſeph ſaw that his father laid his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, it diſpleaſed him t: and he held up his fathers hand, to remove it from Ephraims head, unto Manaſſehs head.

t Becauſe of that affection which Parents generally have for their firſt-born. See Gen. 21. 11.

18 And Joſeph ſaid unto his father, Not ſo my father: for this is the firſt-born, put thy right hand upon his head.

19 And his father refuſed, and ſaid, I know it, my ſon, I know it: he alſo ſhall become a people, and he alſo ſhall be great: but truly his younger brother ſhall be greater than he u, and his ſeed ſhall become a † multitude of nations x.

u So the Tribe of Ephraim was both in number, Numb. 1. 32, 33, 35. and 2. 19, 21. and Deut. 33. 17. and in Power and Priviledges; for that Tribe was the ſeat firſt of the Tabernacle, and afterwards of the Kingdom. Whence the name of Ephraim is ſometimes put for all the ten Tribes, as Iſa. 7. 2. and ſometimes for Joſeph himſelf, as Numb. 1. 32. Rev. 7. 8. which Manaſſeh never is. x (i. e.) Equal to many Nations, in number and ſtrength; or, from them ſhall proceed many Nations, i. e. many numerous, potent, and flouriſhing Families, whereof each is equivalent to an ordinary Nation. For as Nations are ſometimes called Families, as Zech. 14. 18. ſo the Tribes and Families of Iſrael are called Nations or People, as Ezek. 2. 2. Acts 4. 27.

20 And he bleſſed them in that day, ſaying, In thee y ſhall Iſrael bleſs, ſaying, God make thee as Ephraim, and as Manaſſeh: and he ſet Ephraim before Manaſſeh.

y (i e) In thy ſeed, as appears both from the relative, them, here, and from verſe 15. where his bleſſing of them is called the bleſſing of Joſeph; and from the following words, where this is interpreted of Ephraim and Manaſſeh. And in thee, or in thy ſeed, i. e. uſing their names in the form or words of bleſſing, as eminent examples of bleſſedneſs.

21 And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, Behold I die z: but God ſhall be with you, and bring you again unto the land of your fathers a.

z (i. e.) I am about to die. The preſent time for that which will ſhortly and certainly be, as Gen. 19. 13. and 20. 3. Joh. 14. 2. a (i. e) Canaan, their Land, 1. By habitation, as Nazareth is called Chriſt's Countrey, becauſe he dwelt in it. 2. By the donation of God, who had promiſed, and would in his time give the actual poſſeſſion of it to them, i. e. to their ſeed.

22 Moreover, I have given to thee b one portion c above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand of the Amorite with my ſword and with my bow d.

b (i. e.) I do now give to thee the right, and I do prophetically give, and God will really and actually give unto thy Son Ephraim, or his poſterity, who ſhall poſſeſs this part over and above that portion which ſhall fall to him by lot. This was all the Land which Jacob had in Canaan, which he here gives to Joſeph, partly in Teſtimony of his great affection and obligation to him; partly as a ſign that he did confer the right of the firſt-born upon him; and partly for the confirmation of the Faith of Joſeph and his Brethren, and to oblige them to ſet up their reſt no where but in Canaan. c The Hebrew word is Shechem, which word indeed ſignifies a ſhoulder, as Gen. 9. 23. and is here put for a part of Land which is choice and good, as the Shoulder is among the parts of the Body. See 1 Sam. 9. 24. And he uſeth this word, that by alluſion he might ſignify what place he ſpeaks of, even Shechem, as may farther appear by comparing Joſ. 24. 32. Joh. 4. 5. Yea ſome would have Shechem here to be the proper name of the place, which might be if the word one were not added to it. d This place is underſtood, either, 1. Of the future Conqueſt of the Land of the Amorites or Canaanites by his poſterity, which he here aſcribes to himſelf, and ſpeaks of it in the paſt time, as of a thing already done, as the manner of the Prophets is. But Jacob would not attribute that to his Sword, which his poſterity deny to be done by their Sword, Pſal. 43. 4. And it is manifeſt, that Jacob here ſpeaks of that which was his by a ſpecial Title, and which in a peculiar manner he gave to Joſeph. Or, 2. Of the City and Territory of Shechem, whoſe Inhabitants were rooted out by Simeon and Levi, and whoſe Land being void was poſſeſſed by Jacob. And this is ſaid to be got by Jacob's Sword and Bow, becauſe it was got with the Sword and Bow of his Sons Simeon and Levi, and a great number of his Family, who doubtleſs were aſſociated with them in this expedition. But it is not likely that he would take to himſelf that which he declares his utter abhorrency of, Gen. 34. 30. and 42. 5, 6. or that he ſhould call that his Sword and his Bow here which he calls inſtruments of cruelty in Simeon's and Levi's hands, Gen. 49. 5. Or, 3. Which ſeems the trueſt of that Land in the Territory of Shechem, which Jacob bought of Hamor, Gen. 33. 19. which is ſaid to be got by his Sword and Bow, either 1. Properly, becauſe he did by force of Arms expel thoſe Amorites, who upon his retirement from thoſe parts, after the ſlaughter of the Sichemites, had invaded his Lands, though this ſtory be not elſewhere recorded; as many things are mentioned by the by in ſome one place of Scripture, without any particular account of the circumſtances of them, either there or elſewhere, as Gen. 36. 24. Deut. 2. 9, 10, 11. Joſ. 24. 11. And though Jacob was a man of Peace, yet his Sons were Warriors; and they by his permiſſion might drive out, by their Arms, thoſe ſtragling Canaanites which had taken poſſeſſion of his purchaſe, Jacob being the more willing to recover his right herein, becauſe it was an earneſt of his future poſſeſſion of the whole Land. And the neighbouring Canaanites would not concern themſelves in the defence of the invaders, both becauſe they were convinced of the right of Jacob's Cauſe, and becauſe they were over-ruled by divine Providence, in which Jacob truſted, and of which he had ample experience. Or, 2. Metaphorically, i. e. by his Money, which he calls his Sword and his Bow, not only becauſe Money is anſwerable to the Sword and the Bow, and all other things, Eccleſ. 10. 19. and is a defence, Eccleſ. 7. 12. and therefore may well be ſo called, even as prayers and tears are called the arms of the Church, becauſe they ſerve for the ſame purpoſe that Arms do againſt their Enemies; but alſo and principally by way of oppoſition to the Sword and Bow of his cruel Sons. So the ſenſe may be this, I have given to thee one portion, or one Shechem, not the City of Shechem, which Simeon and Levi took from the hand of the Amorite with their Sword and their Bow, but a part of the Territory of Shechem which I took, or received from the hand of the Amorite by my Sword and my Bow, i. e. by my Money, whereby I purchaſed it.

CHAP. XLIX.

Jacob calls his ſons to bleſs them before his death, 1. Beſpeaks their attention, 2. Condemns Reuben's inceſt, 3, 4. Simeon's and Levi's cruelty, 5——7. Extols Judah; prophecieth of Chriſt, and the calling of the Gentiles, 9——12. Of Zebulon, 13. Iſſachar, 14, 15. Dan, 16. Expreſſes his faith on God's ſalvation, 17. Of Gad, 19. Aſher, 20. Naphtali, 21. Joſeph's peculiar bleſſing, 22——26. Of Benjamin, 27. His charge concerning his burial, and death, 28—33.

AND Jacob called unto his ſons, and ſaid, Gather your ſelves together, that I may tell you that which ſhall befal you in the laſt days a.

a Or, In the following times, or latter days, when you ſhall enter into, and be ſettled in the Land of Promiſe. Hereby he ſignifies, that he ſpeaks here of things which concern not ſo much their perſons, as their poſterity.

2 Gather your ſelves together, and hear ye ſons of Jacob, and hearken unto Iſrael your father.

3 ¶ Reuben thou art my firſt-born, my might, and the beginning of my ſtrength b, the excellency of dignity, and the excellency of power c.

b The firſt inſtance, or evidence of my might, or ſtrength, or of that maſculine vigour, whereby God enabled me to beget a Child. Compare Deut. 21. 17. Pſal. 105. 36. Or the firſt of my Children, which are the ſtrength, the ſtays, and ſupports of a Father, and of his Family; thence called his Arrows, as Pſal. 127. 4. and by other Authors, The pillars of the houſe. c As firſt-born thou hadſt the right of precedency before all thy Brethren in point of Dignity and Power, or Priviledge; the double portion, the Prieſthood, the Dominion over thy Brethren were thine.

*Chap. 35. 22. 1 Chro. 5. 1.

4 Unſtable as water d, † thou ſhalt not excel e, becauſe thou * wenteſt up to thy fathers bed: then defiledſt thou it f. † He went up to my couch g.

d This may concern either, 1. Something paſt, or Reuben's fault; and ſo he is ſaid to have been unſtable, or light, and vain, as the word is uſed, Judg. 9. 4. Zeph. 3. 4. like water, moved with every little wind of Temptation, and unbounded in thy Luſt; as Water of it ſelf hath no bounds, but will ſcatter it ſelf every way, if it be not kept within Banks, or in a Veſſel: Or, haſty, violent, impetuous in thy Luſt, like Water, which either overflows or breaks its Banks. Or, 2 Something to come, or Reuben's puniſhment, and ſo the meaning is, thou, i. e. thy poſterity, ſhall be unſtable, or unſettled, flitting and vaniſhing, coming to nothing, or poured forth like Water, uſeleſs, contemptible and weak. Such indeed was the ſtate of that Tribe, of which we read nothing eminent in Scripture. See Judg. 5. 15, 16. This I prefer before the former, 1 Becauſe it is not probable that his fault ſhould be deſcribed here in ſuch general and ambiguous and dark terms, which is deſcribed ſo plainly and particularly in the following words. 2. Becauſe this makes the coherence moſt plain. Here is a deſcription, (1.) Of Reuben's excellent ſtate to which he was born, verſe 3. (2.) Of his fall from that ſtate, in theſe words, and the immediately following, thou ſhalt not excel. (3.) Of the reaſon of this fall, his great ſin. 3. Becauſe the ſimilitude of Water applied to men in this manner, notes rather their impotency and calamity, than their ſin, as Joſ. 7. 5. Pſal. 22. 14. e Or, Be the moſt eminent amongſt thy Brethren; thou haſt loſt thy preeminency due to thee by birthright, both for thy ſelf and for thy poſterity, and it ſhall be given to others; the Prieſthood to Levi, the Dominion to Judah, and the double Portion to Joſeph. f By committing inceſt with Bilhah. g He repeats the ſame thing, and that in an emphatical manner turning his Speech and Face from Reuben to his Brethren, in a poſture of Indignation and Deteſtation; which you muſt not impute to Jacob's paſſion, he being now a dying man, and this being forty years after the crime committed, but to the Spirit of God guiding his Tongue to utter this, not only nor chiefly for the puniſhment of Reuben, who, as many think, had repented of his ſin; but for terrour, inſtruction, and caution to all others, and to aſſure them that ſin, though it may be long diſſembled and born with, yet it will one time or other be ſorely puniſhed. But theſe and the next foregoing words may be thus rendred, Then defiledſt thou my bed: He went up to it, or rather, he is gone up, i. e. he is vaniſhed, or periſhed, or loſt; for ſo this word is oft uſed, as Job 5. 26. Iſa. 5. 24. Jer. 48. 15. And ſo here is an elegant Figure, called Antanaclaſis, whereby the ſame word is repeated in the ſame verſe in a different ſenſe, as Pſal. 18. 26. Matth. 8. 22. So here; He went up wickedly to his Father's Bed to commit a great ſin; therefore now he is gone up penally, to receive condign puniſhment; his excellency is gone up like Smoak, which aſcendeth and is diſperſed in the Air. And this may ſeem to be the trueſt Tranſlation and Interpretation, becauſe it keeps cloſe to the Hebrew words and their order; whereas, in our Tranſlation, there is both a tranſplacing of the Hebrew words, and a ſupplement added unneceſſarily.

*Chap. 29. 33, 34.
† Or, their ſwords are weapons of violence.

5 ¶ * Simeon and Levi are brethren h; † inſtruments of cruelty are in their habitations i.

h Not only by Nature, but in Iniquity; of like cruel and bloody diſpoſition, confederate in the ſame wicked deſign, Gen. 34. 25. So the word Brother is elſewhere uſed, for him that agrees much with another in his temper, or employment, or deſigns, as Job 30. 29 Prov. 18. 9, &c. i (i. e.) Their bloody Swords are yet in their dwellings, to bear witneſs againſt them for their barbarous cruelty. But theſe words may be, and are by ſome both ancient and later Interpreters, rendred otherwiſe. For the Hebrew word Mecheroth, here rendred habitations, is never ſo uſed, nor indeed is found elſewhere in Scripture. Nor doth that ſignification agree with the Hebrew root from whence this comes, which is Machar, and ſignifies to bargain, or ſell, or exchange. And accordingly this word is by the Samaritan Tranſlator, and by other learned Interpreters, rendred, their conventions, or compacts, or civil contracts, or agreements. And which is more, the Chaldee Verb, Mechar, from whence this word may very well be deduced; ſignifies to eſpouſe, and the Noun, Mechirah, derived from it, ſignifies a ſpouſe. And ſo the words may be rendred thus, their contracts, or agreements (or their nuptial contracts) were inſtruments of cruelty. Which Tranſlation ſeems better than the other, 1. Becauſe it keeps cloſeſt to the words of the Text, and leaves out that Particle, in, which is not in the Hebrew Text, but was added by our Tranſlators to compleat the ſenſe. 2. Becauſe this beſt agrees with the Hiſtory recorded, Gen. 34. where we read that they did cover their bloody deſign with a pretence of an agreement, and nuptial contract with the Sichemites, which was a great aggravation of their villany, that thoſe things which to others are bonds of love and peace, were made by them inſtruments of cruelty.

6 O my ſoul, come not thou into their ſecret k: unto their aſſembly mine honour l be not thou united: for in their anger they ſlew a man m, and in their ſelf-will n they † digged down a wall o.

k Or, Counſel, or company, as the word is uſed, Pſal. 64. 2. Jer. 15. 17. i.e. do not partake with them in their ſecret and wicked deſigns. Hereby he ſignifies to all poſterity, that that bloody enterprize was undertaken without his conſent or approbation, and that he could not think of it without deteſtation, nor let it paſs without a ſevere cenſure. Or, O my ſoul, thou waſt not in their ſecret, as the Chald. Syr. and Arab. take it, by a common Enallage of the future Tenſe for the paſt. l Either 1. properly ſo called. So the is ſenſe, Let not my honour or good name be bound up with theirs; they gloried in this wickedneſs, which I abominate, and which indeed is their ſhame. Or 2. Improperly, ſo he underſtands either, 1. His Soul, which is indeed the glory of a man; though I do not remember any place of Scripture where that word muſt neceſſarily be ſo underſtood. So this is a repetition of the ſame thing in other words, which is uſual in Scripture. Or rather 2. His Tongue, for which the word honour, or glory, is commonly put, as Pſal. 16. 9. compare with Acts 2. 26. Pſal. 30. 12. and 57. 8. and 108. 1. becauſe the Tongue or Speech is the glory of a man, by which he is diſtinguiſhed from unreaſonable creatures, and, if well uſed, it brings much honour to God, and to the man that ſpeaks with it. So the ſenſe is, As my Soul did not approve of that wicked action, ſo my Tongue never gave conſent to it, nor ſhall it now by ſilence ſeem to own it, but ſhall publickly witneſs my abhorrency of it. m (i. e.) Men, the Sichemites, Gen. 34. 25, 26. the Singular Number for the Plural, as Gen. 3. 2. and 32. 5 1 Chron. 10. 1. compared with 1 Sam. 31. 1. He ſaith man rather then men, either with reſpect unto the Prince, whoſe ſlaughter was principally deſigned; or to ſhew that they ſlew them all to a man. n It may note, that this cruelty of theirs was committed, 1. By their own will and choice, not by Jacob's will or conſent, which they never asked nor obtained. 2. Without any neceſſity or ſufficient provocation, but meerly by their own will and proper motion. 3. Not raſhly and haſtily, but wilfully and reſolvedly, after mature deliberation. 4. Not unwillingly, but cheerfully, and with delight, and good will, as that word commonly ſignifies. o Not the Walls of the City, but of private Houſes; it may be only of the Prince's Houſe, who upon the firſt noiſe of the Tumult might, and probably did retire and ſecure himſelf in ſome ſtrong Room of the Houſe, whoſe Wall they brake down that they might come at him. For neither were the Walls of Houſes or Cities ſo ſtrong then as now many are; nor were Simeon and Levi deſtitute of fit inſtruments to break down a Wall, which doubtleſs they brought with them, as eaſily foreſeeing that difficulty in their enterprize. But becauſe the Hebrew word is not Shur, a Wall, but Schor, an Ox, others tranſlate the words thus, They houghed, or killed an Ox, or Bull, meaning Shechem, ſo called either from his Luſt, or from his Strength and Power, from which Princes are oft ſo called, as Deut. 33. 17. Pſal. 22. 12. and 68. 30. Or, rather thus, They rooted out, or drove away an Ox, i.e. the Oxen, the Singular Number for the Plural, as before, and under them are comprehended the other Cattle of the Sichemites, which they drove away, as we read they did, Gen. 34. 28. For as the words may bear this ſenſe, ſo it ſeems more reaſonable to underſtand them of that which certainly was done by them, than of their breaking a Wall, of which we do not read any thing in the Hiſtory.

7 Curſed be p their anger, for it was fierce, and their wrath, for it was cruel: I * will divide them in Jacob, and ſcatter them in Iſrael q.

p Or, Curſed was. It was execrable and abominable both before God and Men; ſuch as deſerved and brought the Curſe of God upon themſelves, which I, as God's Inſtrument, am now to pronounce againſt them. q (i. e.) I do here declare in the Name of God, that they ſhall be divided and diſperſed in Jacob, &c. that is, among the Children or Tribes of Jacob or Iſrael. Prophets are ſaid to do what they foretel that God will do, as Jeremy is ſaid to root out and pull down kingdoms, Jer. 1. 10 and Ezekiel to deſtroy the city, Ezek. 43. 3. Add Hoſea 6. 5. Note here how ſuitable their Puniſhment was to their Crime. They ſinned by Conſpiracy and Confederation in the Counſel and Action, and they are puniſhed with Diviſion or Separation, not only of the two Brethren and their Tribes, but of the Children and Families of the ſeveral Tribes, one from another. This was eminently fulfilled in the Tribe of Levi, which had no proper Portion or Inheritance, but was ſcattered among all the Tribes, Joſ 18. 7. though afterwards God turned this Curſe into a Bleſſing. And for Simeon, he had no part of his own in the Diviſion of the Land, but the Portion of Judah being too large for that Tribe, he was taken into that lot, and was as an Inmate to them, Joſ. 19. 1, 2, 9. and afterwards part of them were forced to ſeek new Seats, and ſo were divided from the reſt of their Brethren, 1 Chron. 4. 27, 39, 42. And moreover the Jewiſh Doctors write, that that Tribe was ſo ſtraitned in their Habitations and Conveniences, that a very great number of them were forced to ſcatter themſelves amongſt the other Tribes to get a ſubſiſtence by teaching their Children.

8 ¶ Judah, thou art he whom thy brethren ſhall praiſe r: thy hand ſhall be in the neck s of thine enemies; * thy fathers children t ſhall bow down before thee u.

r Or rather, Thou art Judah, thy brethren ſhall praiſe or celebrate thee. So the expreſſion is like that, 1 Sam. 25. 25. as his name is, ſo is he: Nabal is his name, and folly is with him, or in him. So here the ſenſe is, As thy name ſignifies Praiſe, Gen. 29. 35. ſo ſhalt thou have Praiſe or Honour from thy Brethren. He alludes to his Name, and to the occaſion of it, but with an elegant Variation, Thou art deſervedly called Judah, not only becauſe thy Mother prais'd God for thee, but alſo becauſe thy Brethren ſhall praiſe and bleſs thee for the reaſons here following. But this, as alſo the other Bleſſings or Predictions, do not ſo much declare the ſtate of Judah, or the reſt in their own Perſons, as in their Poſterity. s (i. e) Thou ſhalt overthrow and ſubdue them. This was fulfilled in part, Judg. 1. 1, 2, 4. and 3. 9, 10. but more fully in David, 2 Sam. 8. 1. and Solomon, 1 Chron. 22. 9. and moſt eminently, though ſpiritually, in Chriſt. The phraſe is taken either 1. From the practice of Warriors, who uſe to aſſault their Enemies in that part, that they may throw them down at their Feet; of which ſee Job 15. 26. and 16. 12. Or, 2. from the cuſtom of Conquerors, who are ſaid to put the Yokes upon the Necks of the conquered. See Gen. 27. 40, Deut. 28. 48. Iſaiah 10. 27. Jer. 27. 8 and 28. 14. t (i. e.) All thy Brethren, and my Poſterity; he ſaith not thy Mothers Children, for his Sons had divers Mothers. u (i. e.) Shall own thee as their Superior and Lord, upon whom I have devolved this part of the right of the firſt-born. By this and the following words we plainly ſee that theſe Bleſſing and Predictions were not diſtributed according to Jacob's Affections and Inclinations (for then Judah ſhould never have been advanced above his worthily beloved Joſeph) but by the direction of God's Spirit.

* Numb. 23. 24. and 24. 9.

9 Judah is a lions whelp x: from the prey, my ſon, thou art gone up y: he z * ſtooped down, he couched a as a lion, and as an old lion b: who ſhall rouſe him up c?

x (i. e.) Is as a lions whelp, or as a young lion, for Courage, and Strength, and Terror to his Enemies. The particle as is here wanting, as alſo verſe 14, 17, 21, 22 and in many other places, as Pſalm 11. 1. and 12. 6 and 22. 6, &c And he is rightly compared firſt to a Lion's Whelp, then to an old Lion, to ſignify the growth of that Tribe in ſtrength and intereſt, and that from ſmall beginnings, and a precedency of order only, (Judges 1. 1, 2.) it ſhould aſcend to the height of Honour, and Power, and Happineſs in David, and eſpecially in the Meſſiah, who ſhould conquer all Nations. y Having taken the Prey, i. e. conquered thine Enemies, thou art gone up in triumph; or gone up, i. e. grown greater and higher after thy Victories, as the manner is. Or he alludes to the Lions, which uſually dwell in Mountains, as divers Writers obſerve, and come down to Prey in the Valleys, and when they have got their Prey, they go up to their Habitations, and ſo ſhall Judah do. z A change of the Perſon very frequent in Prophetical Writings, as we ſhall oft have occaſion to note hereafter. a When he hath taken the Prey, he doth not convey it away to his Den with haſte and ſpeed for fear the Enemy ſhould return and overtake him, but like a Lion he ſtoops down to feed upon his Prey, and coucheth or lieth down ſecurely to reſt himſelf after he hath eaten it, without the leſt fear of any Enemy, as it is obſerved of him, Iſaiah 31. 4 Judah's Conqueſts ſhall not be interrupted or followed with ill Succeſſes, and Defeats or Overthrows afterward, as it frequently happens in the Courſe of War, but he ſhall quietly poſſeſs his Spoils, and after the bloody Wars to which he will be forced, ſhall enjoy a ſweet Peace and Tranquillity, which his Poſterity did, 1 Kings 4. 25. b Or rather a grown Lion, not a decrepit and impotent Lion, but one come to his full ſtrength. c Who ſhall preſume or dare to diſturb or provoke him? All ſhall fear him, and ſeek peace with him.

* Pſalm 60. 7. and 108. 8.
* Luke 1. 32.

10 The ſcepter d ſhall not depart from Judah, nor a * Law-giver e from between his feet f, * until Shiloh † come: and unto him ſhall the gathering g of the people h be.

d (i. e.) The Dominion or Government, which is oft expreſſed by this word, as Numb. 24. 17. Pſalm 45. 6. Iſaiah 14. 5. Ezek. 19. 11, 14. Amos 1. 5, 8. Zech. 10. 11. becauſe it is an Enſign of Government, Eſther 4. 11. So it is a Figure called a Metonymy of the ſign, than which nothing more frequent. The ſenſe is, That Superiority or Dominion over his Brethren, which I ſaid he ſhould obtain, (verſe 8.) he ſhall keep; it ſhall not depart from him. Others the Tribe, as the word Shebet ſignifies, 1 Sam. 10. 19, 20, 21. 1 Kings 11, 32, &c. So the ſenſe is this, Whereas the other Tribes ſhall be captivated, diſperſed and confounded, the Tribe of Judah ſhall be kept entire and diſtinct until Chriſt come. This is a great and important truth, and a ſingular Demonſtration of the all-diſpoſing Providence of God, and of the Truth and Divine Authority of the Scriptures; but it ſeems not to be the meaning of this place, 1. becauſe both the foregoing and following words do evidently ſpeak of Judah's Power and Greatneſs, and particularly this Shebet, or Scepter, is explained and reſtrained by the following Law-giver: 2. Becauſe this renders the Phraſe improper and abſurd; for the Tribe had not departed from Judah, nor had they ceaſed to be a Tribe, if the other Tribes had been mixed with them in their Land, as indeed they were ſometimes. See 2 Chron. 11. 16. 3. Becauſe this is not peculiar to the Tribe of Judah; for in this ſenſe the Tribe did not depart from Levi, nay, that Tribe was kept more diſtinct than that of Judah; thus alſo the Tribe did not depart from Benjamin, as appears from Ezra 1. 5. and 10. 9. Nehem. 11. 4. Nay, it is queſtionable, whether in this ſenſe the Tribe departed from any of the other Tribes, not only becauſe there is a diſtinct mention of the ſeveral Tribes, Ezek. 48. which was written after the Diſperſion and ſuppoſed Confuſion of the other Tribes, and which ſpeaks of the times after the coming of the Meſſiah, but alſo becauſe of the great care which the Iſraelites generally took in diſtinguiſhing not only their Tribes, but their ſeveral Families in exact Genealogies, of which we have many proofs and inſtances, as 1 Chron. 4. 33. and 5. 1, 7, 17. and 7. 7, 9, 40. and 9. 1, 22. and Ezra 2. 62. and 8. 1, 3. Nehem. 7. 5, 64. The Jews indeed have another device to avoid the force of this Text. They ſay, Shebet ſignifies a Rod, to wit, a Rod of Correction, as the word is taken, Prov. 22. 15. And ſo they ſay the ſenſe is, The Tyrannical Scepter, or the Rod of the Oppreſſor ſhall not ceaſe or depart from Iſrael, till the Meſſiah come, who ſhall ſave them from all their Oppreſſors and Enemies. But this is a vain and frivolous conceit, for 1. the following Sentence, which expounds the former, as it is uſual in Scripture, plainly ſhews that this Shebet or Rod, is ſuch as is proper to the Law-giver, and therefore is a Rod of Authority, or a Scepter, which is called alſo a Rod, Ezek. 19. 14. and not a Rod of Affliction. 2. This is contrary to the whole Context, wherein there is nothing propheſied of Judah, but Honour, and Dominion, and Victory, and Safety. 3. There was no reaſon why the Rod of Affliction ſhould be appropriated to Judah, which was common to all the Tribes, and came ſooner, and fell heavier, and abode longer upon the other Tribes than upon Judah. 4. This Interpretation is confuted by the Event or Hiſtory, both becauſe the Rod of Correction did depart from Judah, and from them more than from the other Tribes, for many Generations before the coming of the Meſſiah; and becauſe that Rod is not removed from them, but hath continued longer and more dreadfully upon them ſince the coming of the Meſſias, than ever before; which one conſideration hath been the occaſion of the Converſion of many Jews. 5. Howſoever the modern Jews pervert this Word and Text out of Enmity to Chriſt and Chriſtians; it is certain that the Ancient Jews, the LXX. and the Chaldee Paraphraſt, with many others, take the word as we do, as the Learned have proved out of their own Writings. See my Latin Synopſis. e So the Hebrew word ſignifies, as here, ſo alſo Numb. 21. 18. Deut. 33. 21. Pſal. 60. 7. and 108. 8. Iſa. 33. 22. And the Verb, from whence this word comes, ſignifies to make Laws, as Prov. 8. 15, &c. and the Hebrew word, Chok, which comes from the ſame root, conſtantly ſignifies a Law or Statute. Some render it, the Scribe, and that either the Civil Scribe, who belongs to the Ruler; or the Eccleſiaſtical Scribe, the Interpreter of the Law; and ſo it ſignifies, that both the Civil and the Eccleſiaſtical Power ſhould continue in Judah till Chriſt came, and then ſhould be taken away, both which the Event did verify. But indeed the Hebrew word for Scribe is Sopher, not Mechokek, which never is ſo uſed in Scripture, but always for a Lawgiver, as I have ſhewed, and ſo Kimchi and Aben Ezra, two late and learned Jews, with others, expound it. f From his Poſterity, or from thoſe that come from between his Feet, i. e. that are begotten and born of that Tribe. And thus Kimchi, and the Chaldee Paraphraſt, and other Ancient Jews underſtand this place. And the truth of this Interpretation may appear, by comparing this with other Texts of Scripture, as Deut. 28. 57. where the young one is deſcribed to be one that cometh from between her (the Womans) Feet; and Ezek. 16. 25. and with thoſe places where the word Feet is uſed for the Secret Parts, as Iſaiah 7. 20. the hair of the feet, not propely ſo called, for Hair ſeldom grows there; and 2 Kings 18. 27. Iſaiah 36. 12. where the Water which comes from the Secret parts is called the Water of the Feet. And poſſibly that Phraſe of covering the Feet applied to them that eaſed their Bellies, may note ſo much, becauſe the care of the Jews in that Action was not to hide their Feet properly ſo called, but their Secret Parts, which without due care might be diſcovered upon that occaſion. † (i. e.) The Meſſias. Which we need not ſtand to prove, becauſe it is ſo expounded by all the three Chaldee Paraphraſts, and by the Jewiſh Talmud, and by divers of the latter Jews themſelves. And the word ſignifies, either a Peace-maker or Saviour; or as others, her Son, or one that came out of the Womans Womb, or out of that Skin in which the Child in the Womb is wrapped, which this word, or one near akin to it ſignifies. So it notes, that the Meſſias ſhould be born of a Woman, though without the help of Man: Or, as others, the ſent, he who was oft promiſed and to be ſent. And this Signification may ſeem to be warranted by comparing John 9. 7. with thoſe places of the New Teſtament, in which the Meſſias is deſcribed by that Periphraſis of one ſent or to be ſent, as John 3. 39, &c. And the Phraſe here uſed is remarkable, till the Shiloh come, for the Shiloh or Meſſiah oft goeth under the Name of him that was to come, as Matth. 21. 9. Luke 7. 20. and 13. 35. And hence the Kingdom of the Meſſiah is called the World, or Kingdom to come, i. e. of him who was to come, Heb. 2. 5. and 6. 5. g They ſhall be gathered together, or united both among themſelves, and with the Jews, under him as their Head. Others, the Reverence, Obedience, or Worſhip: Which comes to the ſame thing, for they that are gathered to him, do alſo Reverence, Obey, and Worſhip him. The Hebrew word is uſed only here, and Prov. 30. 17. h (i. e.) The Gentiles, as the Jews themſelves underſtand it. And ſo it is a plain Propheſy of the Converſion of the Gentiles by and under the Meſſiah; ſignifying, that whereas the Ordinances of God, and means of Worſhip and Salvation were confined to the Jews before Chriſt's coming (Pſalm 147. 19, 20.) when the Meſſiah ſhould come, the Pale of the Church ſhould be enlarged, the Partition-wall between Jews and Gentiles taken down, and the Gentiles ſhould Worſhip the True God, and the Meſſias. And this is no more than is foretold and promiſed in other Propheſies, as we ſhall ſee hereafter. The ſum of this Verſe is, The Scepter or Dominion ſhall be ſeated in the Tribe of Judah, though he doth not determine when it ſhall come thither; but when once it ſhall come, it ſhall not depart from thence, till the Meſſiah come; and then Judah ſhall loſe his Scepter and other Priviledges, and the Gentiles ſhall come into the ſtead of the Jews, and ſhall embrace that Meſſiah whom they ſhall reject. So now here is an undeniable Argument to prove againſt the Jews, that the Meſſiah is already come, and that the Lord Jeſus Chriſt is he, becauſe he was to come during the time wherein the Scepter was in the hands of Judah; and about that time when Jeſus Chriſt came, the Scepter was taken away from Judah and the Jews, and hath now been loſt for Sixteen hundred years together. The Jews are mightily perplexed and confounded with this Argument; one evidence whereof is their various and contradictory Expoſitions of the place, whileſt ſome of them affirm this Shiloh to be Moſes, others Saul, others, Jeroboam, others, Nebuchadnezzar, which neither need, nor deſerve Confutation; others, David. Which, though ſome of the acuteſt of the Jewiſh Doctors aſſert, is as contemptible as any of the reſt, it being ridiculous to ſay the Scepter departed from Judah under him by whom it firſt came into that Tribe, having been till David's time in other Tribes. But the great difficulty is, how this was accompliſhed; for if the event fully agrees with this Propheſy, the cauſe of the Jews is loſt, and Chriſt muſt be owned as the true Meſſias. The Scepter was for a time in other Tribes, as in Moſes of the Tribe of Levi, in divers of the Judges, who were of ſeveral Tribes; and laſtly in the Tribe of Benjamin under Saul, but the Scepter departed from all theſe. But this is propheſied as Judah's Priviledge, that when once the Scepter or Government came into that Tribe, which it did in David's time, it ſhould not depart from it till Chriſt came, and then it ſhould depart. And thus it came to paſs. Concerning the time from David unto the Captivity of Babylon there is no diſpute, there being a conſtant Succeſſion of Kings in that Tribe all that time. For the time of the Babyloniſh Captivity, wherein there may ſeem to be more difficulty, it is to be conſidered, 1. That the Scepter or Government was not loſt or departed from Judah, but only interrupted, and that but for Seventy years at moſt, which in ſo long a ſpace of time as above a Thouſand years, is little to be regarded. As none will ſay the Kingdom was departed from the Houſe of David, becauſe of thoſe Inter-reigns or Interruptions which ſometimes fell out in that Family Add to this, that God hath given them an abſolute promiſe and aſſured hope of the Reſtauration of Judah's Scepter, ſo that this was rather a Sleep than the Death of that Government. 2. That within theſe Seventy years there were ſome Remainders and Beams of Judah's Soveraignty in Jehoiachin, 2 Kings 25. 27. in Daniel, who was of that Tribe, Dan. 2. 25. and 5. 13. and of the King's Seed, Dan. 1. 3. and in the ſucceſſive Heads or Governors of the Exiles, of whom the Jewiſh Writers ſay ſo much, and they affirm that they were always of the Houſe of David, and were more honourable than the Governors of the Jews which were left in the Land of Iſrael. 3. All that was then left of the Scepter of the Jews was in the Tribe of Judah; nor was the Scepter departed from Judah to any other Tribe; and that is the thing which ſeems eſpecially to be reſpected in this Propheſy: For Judah is here compared with the reſt of the Tribes; and it is here ſignified, that the Power and Dominion which was in Judah, when once it came thither, ſhould not ſhift from Tribe to Tribe, as it had done, but whilſt there was any Scepter or Supreme Government among the Jews, it ſhould be in that Tribe, even till the coming of the Meſſias. But if there ſhould happen any total, but temporary Intercision or Ceſſation of the Government among all the Tribes, which now was the caſe, that was no prejudice to the truth of this promiſe, nor to the priviledge granted to Judah above the reſt of the Tribes. After the Captivity, the State of the Jews was very various. Sometimes they had Governors put in by the Perſian King, as Zorobabel, who was alſo of the Tribe of Judah, and, as it is ſuppoſed, Nephew of Jehojachin; and Nehemiah, whom Euſebius affirms to have been of the Tribe of Judah. And though he may ſeem to be numbred among the Prieſts, Nehem. 10. 8. yet a diligent Reader will find that he is even there diſtinguiſhed from them by his Title the Tirſhatha, ver. 1. and the word Prieſts (verſe 8.) relateth only to the reſt there mentioned beſides him; eſpecially if this be compared with Chap. 9. 38. where the Princes (among whom ſurely Nehemiah was the chief) are dinſtinguiſhed from the Prieſts. And ſometimes the People choſe Governors, or Captain-Generals, as the Maccabees, and others. But under all their Viciſſitudes, after their return from Babylon, the Chief Government was evidently and unqueſtionably ſeated in the great Council called Sanhedrim, or Synedrium, wherein though ſome of the Tribe of Levi were mixed with thoſe of the Tribe of Judah; yet becauſe they, together with other Members of that Council, had their power both from that Tribe by which they were choſen, and in it, and for it, the Scepter did truly remain in the Tribe of Judah; even as it was rightly called the Roman Empire when Trajan a Spaniard, or other Foreigners adminiſtred it; or as we call it, the Kingdom of Poland, when they chuſe a King of another Nation. How great and venerable the Authority of this Council was among the Jews, may eaſily be gathered, 1. From the Divine Inſtitution of it, Numb. 11. 16. whereby indeed it was at firſt to conſiſt of Perſons indifferently choſen out of all the Tribes; but now the other Tribes being baniſhed and diſperſed in unknown places, and Benjamin and Levi being as it were Acceſſions to the Tribe of Judah, and in a ſort incorporated with it; it now becomes as it were appropriated to the Tribe of Judah, as acting in its Name, and by its Authority; and the whole Land is called Judæa, and all the People Jews, from the predominancy of that Tribe above the reſt. 2. From the great Power and Priviledges anciently granted to it, Deut. 17. 8, &c. 2 Chron. 19. 8, 11. Pſalm 122. 5. 3. From the teſtimony of Joſephus, and other Jewiſh Writers, which is moſt conſiderable in this Argument, who largely deſcribe and magnify the Power and Authority of it; who tell us that the Power of their King was ſubject to that of this Council; and therefore one of them addreſſing his Speech to that Council, where alſo the King himſelf was preſent, firſt ſalutes the Senators, and after them the King. They affirm alſo, that the Power of making War or Peace was veſted in that Council; and that Herod was tried for his Life by it. If it be ſaid, that the Power of this Council was in a great meaſure taken away, which the Jews confeſs, John 18. 31. and that the Scepter of Judæa was in the hand of the Romans, and by them given to Herod, who was no Jew, but an Idumæan, and this before the coming of the Meſſias, which is the only remaining difficulty; to this many things may be ſaid, 1. That this happned but a few years before the coming of Chriſt, when Chriſt was even at the Doors, and about to come, and therefore might well be ſaid to be come; eſpecially in the Prophetical Stile, whereby things are oft ſaid to be done, which are near doing. 2. That the Jewiſh Senators did long ſtruggle with Herod about the Government, and did not yield it up to him till his laſt year, when they took an Oath of Fealty to him, which was after Chriſt was born. Nor indeed was the Scepter quite gone from them then, for that Council ſtill had the Power, tho not of Life and Death, yet of Civil and Eccleſiaſtical Matters. See John 18. 31. So that if the Scepter was gone, the Law giver remained there ſtill. Nor was their Government and Commonwealth quite deſtroyed until the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Titus. And therefore ſome tranſlate the place thus, and that with great probability, The Scepter ſhall not depart—until the Shiloh come, and until (which word is repeated out of the former Member, as it is moſt uſual in the Scripture) the gathering of the people be to him, (i. e.) until the Gentiles be converted and brought in to Chriſt. And this interpretation receiveth countenance from Matth. 24. 14. The Goſpel ſhall be preached in all the world,—and then ſhall the end come, not the end of the whole World, as it is evident, but the end of the Commonwealth and Government of the Jews, when the Scepter and Lawgiver ſhould be wholly taken away from that Tribe and People.

i He ſignifies the plenty of Vines in Judah's Portion, that they ſhall be planted every where, even in the Commons and High-ways where men travel, and where upon occaſion they uſe to tie the Beaſts on which they ride, to any Tree which is near them. k Such ſhall be the plenty of it, that if it were convenient, Men might uſe Wine inſtead of Water to waſh their Garments. l So the Wine is called alſo in Deut. 32. 14. 1 Macc. 6. 34. and by Pliny, Heſiod, and others. As Oyl is called the Blood of the Olive.

12 His eyes ſhall be red with wine m, and his teeth white with milk.

13 * Zebulun ſhall dwell at the haven of the ſea n, and he ſhall be for an haven of ſhips, and his border ſhall be unto Zidon o.

* Deut. 33. 18. Josh. 1 10.

n Acknowledge here, and adore the Divine Providence, which directed Jacob thus exactly to foretel the Portion of Zebulun, which fell to them 200 years after this, and that not by choice, or any deſign of men, but merely by Lot. His Portion was extended from the Sea of Galilee to the great Mediterranean Sea, and to ſuch parts of it where there were convenient Havens. o Or his ſide or coaſt, to wit, that which is upon the Mediterranean Sea, is near Sidon, underſtanding not the City, but the Territory belonging to it, unto which that Tribe reached upon the Sea-coaſt. For though Aſher might ſeem to intercept them, yet he did not reach to the Sea. Or, his coaſt looks towards Sidon; hath it in view, and lies commodiouſly for Commerce with that great City, which then was the Mart of the Nations.

Or, lying down, i. e. enjoying his eaſe and reſt, between the borders, to wit, of the other Tribes, with which he was encompaſſed and ſecured from Foreign Enemies, which made him more ſecure and ſlothful. Or, between the borders or folds of Cattle; as a word very near a-kin to it, and proceeding from the ſame root, ſignifies, Judg. 5. 16. to the feeding and minding whereof he wholly gave himſelf, neglecting more generous things.

15 And he ſaw that reſt r was good, and the land that it was pleaſant, and bowed his ſhoulder to bear, and became a ſervant unto tribute s.

r Or rather, his reſting place, as this very word ſignifies, Gen. 8. 9. Pſal. 116. 7. and 132. 8. Iſa. 11. 10. (i. e.) his Portion or Habitation, as the Chald. and Syr. tranſlate it So this agrees with the following member, where, after the manner of the Hebrews, the ſame thing is repeated in other words. And if it be objected againſt this Verſion, that it is not ſaid his reſt, but reſt in the general, it may be replied, that ſo it is in the following branch, the land, though it be apparently meant of his land, or portion of land allotted to him. Beſides, the Pronouns are often omitted, and to be underſtood in Hebrew Text; as may appear by comparing 1 Kings 10. 7. with 2 Chron. 9. 6. and Pſal. 41. 9. with John 13. 18. and Mat. 3. 12. with Luke 3. 17. s Willingly paying whatſoever Tributes were impoſed upon him, either by the Neighbouring Tribes, or by Foreign Powers, rather than to forfeit his pleaſant and fruitful Countrey, and his ſweet Repoſe.

t (i. e.) Rule and govern them. Though he be the ſon of my Concubine, yet he ſhall not be ſubject to any other Tribe, but ſhall have an Abſolute Power within himſelf. What is ſaid of him, is to be underſtood of the reſt of the ſons of the Concubines, and hereby all difference between the ſons of the Wives and Concubines is taken away. It is ſaid of Dan, becauſe he is the firſt mentioned of that ſort. u As the reſt of the Tribes do, having diſtinct Governments and Governors amongſt them. See Numb. 1. 4, 16.

y I do earneſtly wait, and hope, and pray for thy helping hand to ſave me and my poſterity from the manifold temporal Calamities which I foreſee will come upon them, and eſpecially from ſpiritual and eternal miſchiefs, by that Meſſiah which thou haſt promiſed. Jacob in the midſt of his great work doth take a little breathing, and finding himſelf weakned by his Speech to his Children, and drawing nearer death, he opens his arms to receive it, as the thing for which he had long waited, as the only effectual remedy and mean of Salvation or deliverance from all his pains and miſeries, and particularly from his preſent horrors, upon the contemplation of the future ſtate of his Children. And this pathetical Exclamation may look either, 1. backward, to the ſtate of the Tribe of Dan, which he foreſaw would be deplorable, both for its great ſtraits and preſſures, of which ſee Joſ. 19. 47. Judg. 1. 34. and eſpecially for that Idolatry which that Tribe would introduce and promote, Judg. 18. 30. and 1 Kings 12. 29. whereby they would ruin themſelves, and moſt of the other Tribes with them. Or 2. forward, to the doubtful and miſerable condition of Gad.

19 Gad, a troop z ſhall overcome him; but he ſhall overcome at the laſt a.

And ſo it came to paſs, becauſe the Inheritance of that Tribe lay beyond Jordan, near to the Ammonites and Moabites, two inveterate Enemies of Iſrael, and to other hoſtile Nations on the Eaſt. a Or, afterward. This was fulfilled 1 Chron. 5. 18, &c. He ſhews that the Events of the Wars ſhould be various, but Gad ſhould one time or other ſpoil his ſpoilers. Or, free from the yoke which they together with the other Tribes did bear in Egypt; free from its former reſtraints, which make it run away more ſwiftly. So it may note their nimbleneſs and expedition either in encountring enemies, or in avoiding dangers. See Judg. 4. 6, 10 and 5. 18. Or like a tame hind, left to its liberty, in which the Owner takes delight, as Prov. 5 19. For he ſeems to be commended rather for Arts of Peace than War. And this may note, that his temper and converſation was civil, obliging, and amiable; which ſenſe the next words favour. f His ſpeeches and diſcourſes with others are fair, and friendly, and winning. It is not ſtrange that this Tribe was generally of a ſweeter diſpoſition than others, ſeeing it is commonly obſerved that there is a great difference in the tempers of people of divers Provinces or Cities bordering one upon another. But this verſe may be otherwiſe rendred according to the opinion of a late Learned Writer; Naphtali is a tree (ſo the Hebrew word ſignifies, only jod is inſerted here, as it is in the ſame word, Iſa. 1. 29. and 61. 3) ſhot forth, or ſpread forth, (into many branches; for the Hebrew Verb Shalach is oft uſed concerning Trees, and their ſhooting forth of Branches, as Pſal. 80. 11. Ezek 17. 6. and 31. 5.) ſending forth goodly branches; the word imre, which is by others rendred words, here ſignifying branches, as either the ſame word, or one coming from the ſame root, and conſiſting of the ſame radical Letters, is taken Iſa 17. 6, 9. And it is uſual in the Hebrew Language for two words coming from the ſame root, to exchange their ſignifications. And this Interpretation is favoured by the Ancient Interpreters, the LXX, and one of the Arabick Manuſcripts, which make Naphtali here to be compared to a goodly tree bringing forth excellent Fruit.

24 But * his bow l abode in ſtrength, and the arms of his hands were made ſtrong, by the hands of the mighty God of Jacob m: from thence is the Shepherd, the ſtone of Iſrael n. * Job 29. 20.

l Wherewith he oppoſed his enemies; which was no military Bow, but that which he oppoſed to all their injuries, to wit, his own Virtue, his Innocence, his Patience, his Temperance, his Faith and Hope in God, whereby he reſiſted and vanquiſhed all the Temptations and Difficulties which he met with, ſo that all his Enemies could neither defile nor deſtroy him. m (i. e) Of my God; the noun for the pronoun, which is frequent. When men forſook and perſecuted him, my God and his God ſtood by him. He ſhewed, that it was not Joſeph's Wiſdom and Courage, but God's gracious Aſſiſtance that made him Conqueror. n Either 1. From that great deliverance vouchſafed by God to Joſeph it is, that Iſrael or Jacob hath a Shepherd to feed him, a Stone to lay his head upon, as once he did, Gen. 28. 11. or a rock of refuge to fly to in his great diſtreſſes, or a foundation-Stone, or corner-Stone or Pillar to ſuſtain or preſerve Jacob's Houſe. Or rather 2. from the hands of the mighty God of Jacob, laſt mentioned. Or from the God of his father, as it follows the next verſe. So the ſenſe is this, Though Joſeph was a bleſſed Inſtrument in this wonderful work, yet the God of Jacob was the chief Author of it, by whoſe wiſe and merciful Providence it was ſo ordered that Joſeph ſhould be firſt ſold and afterwards advanced, and all in order to this end, that his Iſrael, with whom he hath been pleaſed to make a gracious and everlaſting Covenant, ſhould have a Shepherd to feed him in the time of Famine, and a Stone or Rock to ſupport him.

25 Even by the God of thy father o who ſhall help thee, and by the Almighty, who ſhall bleſs thee with bleſſings of heaven above p, bleſſings of the deep that lieth under q, bleſſings of the breaſts, and of the womb r.

o Here he explains and determines that doubtful expreſſion from thence, by adding, even by (or rather from, as this Particle Mem properly ſignifies, and was juſt now uſed) the God of thy father, i. e. who hath choſen and loved thy Father, and made a league with him, and bleſſed him with all manner of bleſſings. p (i. e.) The ſweet and powerful influences of the heavenly Bodies, and the Dews and Rains which fall from Heaven, whereby the fruits of the Earth are produced in great plenty. See Levit. 26. 4. Deut. 28. 12. and 33. 14. q (i. e.) Of that great Sea of waters both about the Earth, and in the Earth, whence come thoſe Springs and Rivers by which the Earth is moiſtned and made fruitful. See Gen. 1. 2. and 7. 11. and Deut. 8. 7. r Whereby both Men and Beaſts ſhall be greatly multiplied, and abundantly ſupplied with all neceſſaries.

26 The bleſſings of thy father have prevailed above the bleſſings of my progenitors s; unto the utmoſt bound of the everlaſting hills t; they ſhall be † on the head of Joſeph, and on the crown of the head of him that was ſeparate from his brethren u.

s The Bleſſings which I thy Father have conferred upon thee, are much more conſiderable than thoſe which I received from my Father Iſaac, or from my Grandfather Abraham. This was true, 1. in the extent of the Bleſſings; Iſhmael was excluded from Abraham's Bleſſing, and my Brother excluded from Iſaac's Bleſſing, but both Joſeph's Children are comprehended in Jacob's Bleſſing. 2 In the diſtinctneſs and clearneſs of them; For that Land of Canaan which was tranſmitted to Iſaac and to Jacob only in the general, was now in ſome ſort particularly diſtributed to Joſeph, and to the reſt of his Brethren, as afterwards it was by Joſhua. 3 In the nearneſs of the accompliſhment Now there was a more likely proſpect of the multiplication of their Seed, than there was to Abraham, or Iſaac; and in not very many years after this, they multiplied to aſtoniſhment, and drew nearer to the poſſeſſion of the promiſed Land. t Theſe words ſeem to note the duration of Joſeph's Bleſſing, that it ſhould continue even to the bounds of the everlaſting, or laſting, or ancient hills, i. e. as long as the moſt ſolid and ſtable Mountains ſhall laſt, i. e. for ever. Perpetuity is deſcribed by the continuance of the Mountains, as Iſa. 54. 10. or of the Sun and Moon, as Pſal. 72. 5, 7, 17. or of the Heavens and Earth, as Matth. 5. 18. In the foregoing words of this Verſe he commends theſe Bleſſings from their excellency above all former Bleſſings; and here he commends them from their durableneſs. † Or, let them be. For this may be a Prayer to God that theſe Bleſſings may be conſtant and perpetual. u So he was, when he was ſold into Egypt, and abode there in the Court when his Brethren were in Goſhen: Or, the crowned of, or among his brethren, i. e. who, though he was once ſcorned and trampled upon by his Brethren, yet now is highly honoured and advanced above them. Others, the Nazarite of, or among his Brethren; as he may be called either for his purity and ſanctity, or for his eminency and dignity. But we muſt remember that the Nazarites were as yet unknown, being inſtituted long after this time.

27 Benjamin ſhall ravine as a wolf x: in the morning he ſhall devour the prey, and at night he ſhall divide the ſpoil y.

x He notes the warlike and fierce diſpoſition and carriage of that Tribe. Inſtances whereof we have, Judg. 3. 15. and 19, and 20. 1 Sam. 12. and 14. and 15. y This may be underſtood, either of the ſame Wolf, which in the morning being more hungry and greedy, devours his Prey alone; but in the evening, being in ſome meaſure ſatisfied, is content that his Brethren ſhould ſhare with him. Or rather of ſeveral ſorts of Wolves, whereof ſome hunt and devour alone, others hunt in couples or troups, and thoſe divide the Prey among themſelves. He mentions both morning and evening, becauſe theſe are the two Seaſons when the Wolves prey, and to note that this would be Benjamin's carriage both in the firſt and laſt times of that Tribe, as indeed it was.

28 All theſe are the twelve tribes z of Iſrael; and this is it that their father ſpake unto them, and bleſſed them: every one according to his bleſſing a he bleſſed them.

z (i. e.) The Heads and Parents of the Twelve Tribes. A Metonymy of the effect. The Tribes are generally accounted Twelve, though they were Thirteen, becauſe the Land was divided only into Twelve parts, Levi having no diſtinct part of his own. a (i. e.) According to that Bleſſing which God in his purpoſe had allotted to each of them, which alſo he manifeſted unto Jacob by his Spirit. Object. There is no Bleſſing here given to Reuben, Simeon and Levi, but rather a Curſe, how then is he ſaid to bleſs every one of them! Anſw. He bleſſed them all implicitly and really, though not expreſly, or in words, becauſe he gave each of them a part in Canaan; and his taking away from Reuben only the right of the Firſt-born, plainly ſuppoſeth that he left him his ſingle Portion and Inheritance. And he might well be ſaid to bleſs them all, becauſe he left them all an intereſt in God's Covenant, one Article whereof was the giving of Canaan, or part of Canaan, to them and this was an earneſt of the other Branches or Articles of it. Though it is probable he alſo added ſome ſhort Bleſſing or Prayer to God for his bleſſing upon them all.

29 And he charged them, and ſaid unto them, I am to be gathered unto my people: * bury me with my fathers b, in the cave that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite. * Chap. 47. 30.

b In Canaan. Whereby he deſigned to withdraw their minds from Egypt, and fix them upon Canaan.

30 In the cave that is in the field of Matchpelah, which is before Mamre c, in the land of Canaan, * which Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hittite, for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place. * Chap. 23. 16.

c He deſcribes it ſo particularly, both for their direction, becauſe they had been ſome years abſent thence; and to expreſs how much his heart was ſet upon this matter; and thereby to oblige them to the more careful performance of his Command.

31 (* There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife, there they buried Iſaac and Rebekah his wife, and there I buried Leah.) * Chap. 23. 19. and 25. 9.

32 The purchaſe of the field, and of the cave that is therein, was from the children of Heth.

33 And when Jacob had made an end of commanding his ſons d, he gathered up his feet into bed e, and yielded up the ghoſt, and was gathered unto his people.

d To wit, concerning the place of his burial. Whilſt he was employed in that moſt ſolemn and religious work of bleſſing his Children in the name, and by the Spirit of God, he uſed as reverend a poſture as his infirm Body would permit, and therefore is ſuppoſed to ſit upon his Bed-ſide with his Feet hanging downwards. And when he had finiſhed that great work, and wearied himſelf with ſo long Speech delivered with a moſt raiſed and affected mind, he compoſed himſelf to reſt, and waited for the comfortable approach of his death, which ſpeedily followed it.

CHAP. L.

Joſeph bewails his father's death ; and embalms him, 1, 2. The Egyptians mourn for him 70 days, 3. Joſeph with Pharaoh's leave carries him ſtately accompanied to Canaan, 4—9. They mourn there ſeven days, and ſorely, ſo that the Canaanites from thence named the place Abel-Miſraim, 10, 11. They bury him where he commanded, 12, 13. They return to Egypt, 14. Jacob being dead, his ſons are afraid of their brother Joſeph, 15. Pretending their father's order, they addreſs for pardon, 16——18. He weeps, forgives, and encourageth them, 19, 21. Joſeph lives to ſee a third and fourth generation, 22, 23. Aſſures his brethren of their future return to Canaan, 24. He takes an oath of them to carry his bones with them, 25. Dies; is embalm'd; and put in a coffin, 26.

AND Joſeph fell upon his fathers face a, and wept upon him, and kiſſed him.

a And doubtleſs cloſed his eyes, as God had promiſed, Gen. 46. 4. which may be implied in this general phraſe.

2 And Joſeph commanded his ſervants the Phyſicians to imbalm his father b : and the Phyſicians imbalmed Iſrael.

b The dead Corps of his Father with Spices, and Oyntments, and other things neceſſary for the preſervation of the Body from putrefaction as long as might be. This Joſeph did, partly becauſe he would comply as far as he could with the Egyptians, whoſe cuſtom this was, from whom alſo the Jews took it, 2 Chron. 16. 14. John 19. 39, 40. Partly to do honour, and ſhew his affections to his worthy Father; and partly becauſe this was neceſſary for the keeping of the Body ſo long as the times of mourning and the journey to Canaan required.

3 And forty days were fulfilled for him c, (for ſo are fulfilled the days of thoſe which are imbalmed) and the Egyptians † mourned for him threeſcore and ten days d.

c (i. e.) For his embalming ; that ſo the Drugs or Spices which were applied, might more effectually reach to all the parts of the dead Body, and keep it from corruption. And the effect of their diligence, and ſo long continuance in this work was, that Bodies have been preſerved uncorrupt for ſome thouſands of years. d (i. e) Thirty days, according to the cuſtom of the Hebrews, Numb. 20. 29. Deut. 34. 8. to which doubtleſs the Egyptians in this caſe did accommodate themſelves, beſides the forty days ſpent in embalming him, which alſo was a time of mourning. And thus I ſuppoſe, the Egyptians reckoned thoſe ſeventy two days which Diodorus Siculus ſaith they ſpent in mourning for their deceaſed Kings.

4 And when the days of his mourning were paſt, Joſeph ſpake unto the houſe e of Pharaoh, ſaying, If now I have found grace in your eyes, ſpeak, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh f, ſaying, e The Houſhold or Family, namely, thoſe of them which were chief in place and favour with the King. f Joſeph makes uſe of their interceſſion, either, 1. Leſt he might ſeem to deſpiſe them, or to preſume too much upon his own ſingle intereſt. Or, 2. By engaging them in this matter to ſtop their mouths, who otherwiſe might have been ready enough to cenſure this Action, which they would have a fair opportunity to do in Joſeph's abſence. Or, 3. Becauſe it was the cuſtom here, as it was elſewhere, Eſth. 4. 2. that perſons in mourning habit might not come into the King's preſence, partly becauſe they would not give them any occaſion of ſadneſs, and partly becauſe, according to their ſuperſtitious conceits the ſight of ſuch a perſon was judged ominous.

* Chap. 47. 29.

5 * My father made me ſwear g, ſaying, Lo, I die: in my grave, which I have digged for me h, in the land of Canaan, there ſhalt thou bury me. Now therefore let me go up, I pray thee, and bury my father, and I will come again.

g Here is a triple obligation upon Joſeph, 1. His duty to fulfil the will of the dead. 2. The obedience which he owed to his Father's command. 3. The tye of a ſolemn Oath : All which had weight even with the Heathens, and were ſo many Arguments to Pharaoh and his Courtiers. h According to the manner of thoſe ancient and ſucceeding times. See 2 Chron. 16. 14. Iſa. 22. 16. Matth. 27. 60. In that large Cave which Abraham bought for a burying-place for his Family, Jacob had digged a particular and ſmall Cell or Repoſitory for himſelf, as others did after him upon the like occaſion. And this reaſon is prudently added, to ſhew that this deſire proceeded not from any contempt of Pharaoh, or his Land, but from that common and cuſtomary deſire of perſons of all Ages and Nations, to be buried in their Fathers Sepulchres.

6 And Pharaoh ſaid, Go up, and bury thy father, according as he made thee ſwear h.

h The Heathens by the light of nature diſcovered the ſacredneſs of an Oath, and the wickedneſs of Perjury.

7 And Joſeph went up to bury his father : and with him went up all i the ſervants of Pharaoh k, the elders of his houſe l, and all the elders of the land m of Egypt, [illegible]

i (i. e.) A [illegible] it, that [illegible] them, as that word is underſtood, Matth. 3. 5. and oft elſewhere. For many of them were aged and infirm, and many could not be ſpared from their attendance at Court, or upon their Employments, &c. k Courtiers of an inferior rank. l The chief Officers, and under him Governours of his Family and Counſels, who uſed to reſide at or near the Court. m The great Officers Civil and Military, whoſe places of habitation and command were diſperſed in the ſeveral parts of the Land.

8 And all the houſe of Joſeph, and his brethren, and his father's houſe : only their little ones, and their flocks, and their herds n, they left in the land of Goſhen.

n And ſuch as were neceſſary to take care of them, which muſt needs be underſtood.

9 And there went up with him both chariots and horſemen o, and it was a very great company.

o For their defence, in caſe of any oppoſition.

10 And they came to the threſhing-floor of Atad p, which is beyond q Jordan, and there r they mourned with a great and very ſore lamentation s : and he made a mourning for his father ſeven days t.

p A man ſo called, or, of thorn, or thorns, as the word ſignifies, Judg. 9. 14. Pſal. 58. 9. So it might be a place either abounding or encompaſſed with thorns. q Or, on this ſide ; for the word ſignifies both, and it may be taken either way here, the one in reſpect of Egypt, the other in regard of the place in which Moſes wrote. It is creatain they fetched a great compaſs, whether for the commodiouſneſs of the way for their Chariots, and for conveniencies for ſo great a company, or to prevent all jealouſies in the People, as if they came thither with ill deſign, is not material. r Becauſe there was the entrance into that Countrey or Territory where he was to be buried. s The Egyptians though they were not much grieved nor concerned for Jacob's death, yet they uſed bitter cries and lamentations, which poſſibly were made or aggravated by perſons hired, and uſed upon ſuch occaſions. See Jer. 9. 17. t According to the cuſtom. See 1 Sam. 31. 13.

11 And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, ſaw the mourning in the floor of Atat, they ſaid, This is a grievous mourning to the Egyptians: wherefore the name of it was called † Abel-Mizraim, which is beyond Jordan.

12 And his ſons did unto him according as he commanded them.

13 For * his ſons carried him into the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah, which Abraham * bought with the field for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place of Ephron the Hittite, before Mamre.

14 And Joſeph returned into Egypt, he, and his brethren, and all that went with him to bury his father, after he had buried his father.

15 And when Joſeph's brethren ſaw that their father was dead, they ſaid, Joſeph will peradventure hate us, and will certainly requite us all the evil which we did unto him.

16 And they † ſent a meſſenger unto Joſeph, ſaying, Thy father did command before he died u, ſaying, u This looks like a lye ; for Jacob either did not know this fact, or rather, was ſo well aſſured of Joſeph's Clemency and Goodneſs, that he never feared his Revenge. But Guilt doth ſo awaken Fear, that it makes a man never to think himſelf ſecure.

17 So ſhall ye ſay unto Joſeph, Forgive, I pray thee now, the treſpaſs of thy brethren, and their ſin : for they did unto thee evil : And now, we pray thee, forgive the treſpaſs of the ſervants of the God of thy father x. And Joſeph wept y when they ſpake unto him.

x For whoſe ſake Pardon thoſe that joyn with thee in his Worſhip. y Partly in compaſſion to their Fear and Trouble ; and partly becauſe they ſtill retained a diffidence in his kindneſs, after all his great and real demonſtrations of it.

18 And his brethren alſo went and fell down before his face, and they ſaid, Behold, we be thy ſervants z.

z Ready and willing to undergo that ſervitude, into which we ſo wickedly ſold thee.

19 And Joſeph ſaid unto them, * Fear not : for am I in the place of God a ?

a It is God's Prerogative to take Vengeance, which I dare not uſurp. See Deut. 32. 35. Or, Can I do what I pleaſe with you without God's leave ? Therefore fear him rather than me, and upon your experience of his wonderful care and kindneſs to you, believe that God will not, and therefore that I neither can nor will do you any hurt. But it is not unuſual to put the Hebrew he for halo, as it is Gen. 27. 36. 1 Sam 2. 28. 2 Sam. 23. 19. 1 Kings 16. 31, &c. and ſo the words may be very well rendred, Am not I under God ? i. e. Subject to his Will, a miniſter of his Providence ? Dare I deſtroy thoſe whom God ſo eminently deſigned to ſave ? Dare I puniſh thoſe whom God hath pardoned ?

20 But as for you, ye thought evil againſt me b, but God meant it unto good, to bring to paſs, as it is this day, to ſave much people alive.

b Therefore I do not excuſe your Guilt, though I comfort you againſt Deſpondency.

21 Now therefore fear ye not: I will nouriſh you and your little ones c. And he comforted them, and ſpake † kindly unto them.

c Expect not only a free Pardon from me, but all the kindneſs of a loving Brother.

22 And Joſeph dwelt in Egypt, he and his father's houſe: and Joſeph lived an hundred and ten years.

* Numb. 32. 39. 23 * And Joſeph ſaw Ephraim's children of the third generation d: the children e alſo of Machir the ſon of Manaſſeh, were † brought up upon Joſeph's knees f.

d Reckoning from and after Ephraim, i. e. Ephraim's Grandchildrens Children. So early did Ephraim's priviledge above Manaſſeh appear, and Jacob's Bleſſing, (Gen. 48. 19.) take place. e Heb. Sons. For though he had but one Son, viz. Gilead by his firſt Wife, yet he married a ſecond Wife, and by her had two other Sons, 1 Chron. 7. 16. which Joſeph lived long enough to ſee. Or under the name of Children his Grandchildren alſo might be comprehended. So there is no need of that Enallage of Sons for one Son, which we meet with in other places. f Laid upon Joſeph's Lap or Knees, where Parents uſe oft-times to take up and repoſe their Infants, to expreſs their love to them, and delight in them. And ſome obſerve, that it was an ancient cuſtom in divers Nations, that the Infant, as ſoon as it was born, was laid upon the Grandfather's Knees. So it is an Ellipſis, whereby one word is put for two, or under one Verb. See more of this phraſe on Gen 30. 3. and 48. 12.

*Heb. 11. 22. 24 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, * I die: and God will ſurely viſit you g, and bring you out of this land, unto the land * which he ſware to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob.

Exod. 3. 16.

*Chap. 15. 14. and 26. 3. and 35. 12. and 46. 4.

g (i. e.) Deliver you out of this place, where I foreſee you will be hardly uſed after my deceaſe; or, fulfil his promiſed kindneſs to you, as that word is uſed, Gen. 21. 1. Exod. 4. 31. There is a double Viſitation oft mentioned in Scripture, the one of Grace and Mercy, which is here meant; the other of Juſtice and Anger, as elſewhere.

25 And Joſeph took an oath h of the children of Iſrael i, ſaying, * God will ſurely viſit you, and ye ſhall carry up my bones k hence.

* Exod. 13 19. Joſh. 24. 32. Act. 7. 16.

h For the ſame reaſon which moved Jacob to require an Oath from him, Gen. 47. 30, 31. i He ſaith not, of his brethren, but of Iſrael's children; under which his Grandchildren are comprehended, and ſeem principally intended here; either becauſe his Brethren were moſt of them dead, or rather becauſe he knew that they were not to go out of Egypt in his Brethrens time, but in their ſecond or third Generation. k (i. e.) My dead Body: But he mentions only his Bones, becauſe part of his Body was corrupted, and the other part though preſerved from Corruption by the embalming, yet was ſo changed and adulterated with the Spices, and other materials which they uſed, that it looked like another thing: Only his Bones remained intire and unchanged. Queſt. Why did he not deſire to be preſently carried thither, and buried there, as his Father did? Anſw. 1. Leſt he ſhould diſoblige the Egyptians, and provoke them againſt his Brethren and Children. The removal of his Father thither was neceſſary and forced from him by an Oath, but the order for the removal of himſelf would have been voluntary and deſigned, and therefore could not have eſcaped the Cenſure of an ungrateful Contempt of the Land of Egypt, which as it was thought good enough for him and his to live in, ſhould have been judged ſo too for his burial. 2. That by theſe his Remains, his Memory might be the longer and better preſerved both with the Egyptians, who for his ſake might ſhew kindneſs to his near Relations; and with the Iſraelites, to whom this was a viſible pledge of their Deliverance, and an help to their Faith, and an obligation to them to perſiſt in the true Religion.

26 So Joſeph died, being an hundred and ten years old l: and they imbalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

l So for about Thirteen years of Affliction he enjoyed Eighty years of Honour, and as much Happineſs as earth could afford him.

Annotations on EXODUS.

The ARGUMENT.

After the death of Joſeph, who had ſent for his Father's Houſe into Egypt, the Children of Iſrael exceedingly multiplied, notwithſtanding Pharaoh's cruel oppreſſing of them; from under which, God, hearing their cry, brought them with a ſtrong hand. Wherefore this Book is called by the Greeks Exodus, i. e. A going forth; containing an Hiſtorical Account of paſſages for about one hundred and forty years; with the wonderful raiſing up of Moſes, who, together with Aaron, were to be inſtruments of their Deliverance; and accordingly after the inflicting ten dreadful Plagues upon Pharaoh, brought them into the Wilderneſs through the Red-Sea, wherein Pharaoh, (his Heart being hardned under all theſe Plagues) and all his Hoſt purſuing of them, were drowned; God having firſt inſtituted the Paſſover, as an abiding Sacrament to bring to their remembrance in after times this great Deliverance.

In their conduct through the Wilderneſs, God gave them the ſignal mark of his preſence in the pillar of a Cloud, and the pillar of Fire; who, notwithſtanding their great and reiterated murmurings, gave them Food, both Bread and Fleſh from Heaven, and Drink out of the Rock; and, when they were come to Mount Sinai, he there gave them the Moral Law, beſide other both Politick, and Eccleſiaſtical Ordinances: Afterwards, the breaking of the Tables being occaſioned by the Idolatry of the Golden Calf, God graciouſly renewed his Covenant with them: There being alſo a Tabernacle, and Ark, and other things to be made by God's command, the bounty of the People, in order to the making, and furniſhing thereof, is here ſet down; which being finiſhed, the Tabernacle is anointed, and filled with the glory of God.

f Here are many words, and ſome very emphatical, to expreſs their incredible Multiplication g This may relate either to their Numbers, which greatly added to their Strength, or to their Conſtitution, to note, that their Off ſpring was Strong as well as Numerous. Atheiſtical Wits cavil at this Story, and pretend it impoſſible that out of ſeventy perſons ſhould come above ſix hundred thouſand men within two hundred and fifteen years: Wherein they betray no leſs Ignorance than Impiety. For to ſay nothing of the extraordinary Fruitfulneſs of the Women in Egypt, who oft bring forth four or five Children at one birth, as Ariſtot. notes Hiſt. animal. 7. 4. nor of the long lives of the Men of that age, nor of the plurality of Wives then much in uſe, nor of the ſingular bleſſing of God upon the Hebrews in giving them Conceptions and Births without Abortion; all which are but very reaſonable ſuppoſitions, the probability of it may plainly appear thus; Suppoſe there were only 200 years reckoned, and only fifty perſons who did beget Children, and theſe begin not to beget before they be twenty years old, and then each of them beget only three Children. Divide this time now into ten times twenty years. In the firſt time, of 50 come 150. In the ſecond, of 150 come 450. Of them in the third, come 1350. Of them in the fourth 4050. Of theſe in the fifth 12150. Of theſe in the ſixth 36450. Of them in the ſeventh 109350. Of them in the eighth 328050. Of theſe in the ninth 984150. And of them in the tenth 2952450. If it be objected, That we read nothing of their great Multiplication, till after Joſeph's death, which ſome ſay was not above 50 years before their going out of Egypt, it may be eaſily replied; 1. This is a great miſtake, for there were above 140 years between Joſeph's death and their going out of Egypt, as may appear thus: It is granted that the Iſraelites were in Egypt 210 or 215 years in all. They came not thither till Joſeph was near 40 years old, as is evident by comparing Gen. 41. 46. with Gen. 45. 6. So there reſts only 70 years of Joſeph's life, which are the firſt part of the time of Iſrael's dwelling in Egypt, and there remain 145 years, being the other part of the 215 years. 2. That the Iſraelites did multiply much before Joſeph's death, though Scripture be ſilent in it, as it is of many other paſſages confeſſedly true, cannot be reaſonably doubted. But if there was any defect in the Numbers propoſed in the firſt 55 years, it might be abundantly compenſated in the 145 years ſucceeding. And ſo the computation remains good.

8 Now there aroſe up a new king g over Egypt, which knew h not Joſeph.

g (i. e.) Another King; one of another Diſpoſition, or Intereſt, or Family; for the Kingdom of Egypt did oft paſs from one Family to another, as appears from the Hiſtory of the Dynaſties recorded in ancient Writers. h Or, acknowleaged not the vaſt obligations which Joſeph had laid not only upon the Kingdoms of Egypt, and the King under whom Joſeph lived, but upon all his Succeſſors, in regard of thoſe vaſt additions of Wealth and Power, which he had made to that Crown. This phraſe notes his ungrateful diſowning, and ill requiting of Joſeph's Favours. For words of knowledge in Scripture commonly include the affections and actions; as men are oft ſaid not to know God, when they do not love nor ſerve him; and God is ſaid not to know men, when he doth not love them.

*Pſal. 105. 24.

9 And he ſaid unto his people, * Behold, the people of the children of Iſrael are more and mightier than we i.

i This was not a true, but an invidious repreſentation and aggravation of the matter, the better to juſtifie the ſeverities which he deſigned.

*Acts 7. 19.

10 Come on, * let us deal wiſely with them leſt they multiply, and it come to paſs that when there falleth out any war k, they joyn alſo unto our enemies, and fight againſt us, and ſo get them up out of the land l.

k Which was not unuſual in that Countrey. l Which they might eaſily learn from ſome of the Hebrews, that they were in due time to do. And they were very unwilling to part with them, becauſe of the tribute and ſervice which they did receive and expect from them.

*Gen. 15. 13.

11 Therefore they did ſet over them task-maſters m * to afflict n them with their burdens: and they built for Pharaoh treaſure-cities o, Pithom and Raamſes.

m Heb. Maſters of tribute, who were to exact from them the tribute required, which was both Money and Labour; that their Purſes might be exhauſted by the one, their Strength by the other, and their Spirits by both. n Or, oppreſs, or humble; to ſpend their Strength by exceſſive Labours, and ſo diſenable them for the Procreation of Children. o Where they laid the Kings Money, or Corn, which is reckoned among Treaſures, 2 Chron. 17. 12. and 32. 27. and wherein a great part of the Riches of Egypt conſiſted; for they had Corn enough not only for themſelves, but to ſell to other Countries; ſo that Egypt was accounted the Granary of the Roman Empire. Or, defenced Cities, in which Gariſons were to be placed, which ſeems beſt to agree with the place and uſe of them. For they were in the borders of the Land, and among the Iſraelites, which appears concerning the one from Gen. 47. 11. (where the Land in which they were placed is called Rameſes, which in Hebrew conſiſts of the ſame Letters, with this Raamſes, and ſeems to be ſo called then by anticipation from the City of that name now built in it) and may be reaſonably preſumed concerning the other; and therefore it is moſt probable that they were built to keep the Iſraelites in ſubjection, and to hinder them from going out of the Land.

12 † But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied p, and grew: and they were grieved * becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

p Through God's over-ruling Providence, and ſingular Bleſſing, which God gave them purpoſely to haſten firſt their ſorer affliction, and next, and by that means their glorious Deliverance. * Through envy and fear.

q Or, Cruelty, or tyranny; with hard words and cruel uſage, without mercy, or mitigation. This God permitted for wiſe and juſt reaſons; 1. As a puniſhment of their Idolatry, into which divers of them fell there, Joſ. 24. 14. Ezek. 20. 5, 7, 8. and 23. 8. 2. To wean them from the Land of Egypt, which otherwiſe was a plentiful and deſirable Land, and to quicken their deſires after Canaan. 3. To prepare the way for God's glorious works, and Iſrael's deliverance.

*Pſal. 81. 6.

14 And they made their lives bitter with hard bondage, * in morter, and in brick, and in all manner of ſervice in the field r: all their ſervice wherein they made them ſerve, was with rigour.

r Which was the baſeſt and moſt laborious of all their ſervices.

s Such as not only were employed about the Hebrew Women, but were Hebrews themſelves, not Egyptians, as ſome ſuppoſe, as may appear, 1. Becauſe they are expreſly called not the midwives of the Hebrews, but the Hebrew midwives. 2. The Egyptian midwives would not willingly employ their time and pains among the meaneſt and pooreſt of Servants, as theſe were. And if they were ſent in deſign by the King, he had loſt his end, which was to cover his cruelty with cunning, and to perſwade the People that their death was not from his Intention, but from the chances and dangers of Child-bearing. 3. The Hebrew Women as they had doubtleſs midwives of their own, ſo they would never have admitted others. 4. They are ſaid to fear God, verſe 17. 21. t You are not to think that theſe were the only midwives to ſo many thouſands of Hebrew Women, but they were the moſt eminent among them; and it may be for their excellency in that profeſſion called to the ſervice of ſome Egyptian Ladies, and by them known to Pharaoh, who might therefore think by their own intereſt, and by the promiſe of great rewards, or by ſevere threatnings, to oblige them to comply with his deſires; and if he met with the deſired ſucceſs by them, he meant to proceed further, and to engage the reſt in like manner.

16 And he ſaid, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and ſee them upon the ſtools u, if it be a ſon, then ye ſhall kill him x: but if it be a daughter, then ſhe ſhall live y.

u A ſeat uſed by Women when ready to be delivered, conveniently framed for the midwives better diſcharge of her Office. x Which it was not difficult for them to do, without much obſervation. y Either 1. Becauſe he feared not them, but the males only; and ſome add, that he was adviſed by one of their Magicians, that a male-child ſhould be born of the Iſraelites, who ſhould be a dreadful ſcourge to the Egyptians. Or, 2. They reſerved them for their luſt, or for ſervice, or for the increaſe of their People, and the raiſing of a fairer Breed by them.

17 But the midwives feared God z, and did not as the king of Egypt commanded them, but ſaved the men-children alive.

z More than the King, and therefore choſe to obey God rather than the King, their Commands being contrary each to other.

18 And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and ſaid unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have ſaved the men-children alive?

19 And the midwives ſaid unto Pharaoh, Becauſe the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women, for they are lively a, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them b.

a Or, Vigorous and active in promoting the Birth of their own Children: Or, like the beaſts; which without any help of others bring forth their young. So the Hebrew word ſignifies, and ſo there is only a defect of the Particle of ſimilitude, which is frequent, as I have noted before. b This might be no lye, as many ſuppoſe, but a truth concerning many of them, and they do not affirm it to be ſo with all. And ſo it might be, either becauſe their daily and exceſſive labours joyned with the fears of the Execution of the King's Command, whereof they ſeem to have gotten notice, did haſten their Birth, as the ſame cauſes do commonly in other Women; or becauſe they underſtanding their danger, would not ſend for the midwives, but committed themſelves to God's Providence, and the care of ſome of their Neighbours preſent with them. So here was nothing but Truth, though they did not ſpeak the whole Truth, which they were not obliged to do.

20 Therefore c God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty.

c Becauſe they feared God, and ſpared the Children, verſe 17. whereby they expoſed themſelves to the King's diſpleaſure; becauſe they would not offend God by murdering the Children, which they might have done many times ſecretly, and therefore it was only the fear of God which reſtrained them from it.

21 And it came to paſs, becauſe the midwives feared God, that he made them houſes d.

d (i. e.) God greatly increaſed their Families both in Children and Poſterity, and in Wealth, and other outward Bleſſings. So this phraſe is uſed Gen. 30. 30. Deut. 25. 9. 1 Sam. 2. 35. 1 Kings 2. 24. and 11. 38. Pſal. 127. 1. As houſes are commonly put for Families, ſo building is put for procreating of Children, Gen. 16. 2. and 30. 3.

22 And Pharaoh charged all his people, ſaying, Every ſon that is born, ye ſhall caſt into the river, and every daughter ye ſhall ſave alive.

CHAP. II.

Moſes's parentage and birth, 1, 2. His mother makes an ark, puts him therein, 3. Pharaoh's daughter going to waſh her ſelf, ſeeth him, takes him for her own child, and gives him to his mother to nurſe, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. Moſes ſeeing an Iſraelite wronged by an Egyptian, kills him, 11, 12. Pharaoh hearing this, ſeeks to ſlay Moſes; he flies to Midian, 15. There he reſcues Reuel's daughters from the violence of the ſhepherds, 17. Serves Reuel, and marries his daughter Zipporah, 21. She bears him a ſon, his name, and the reaſon of it, 22. God heareth the cry of the Iſraelites, 25.

*1 Chro. 23. 13.

AND there went a * a man of the houſe of Levi b, and took to wife a daughter of Levi c.

a From the place of his abode to another place for the following purpoſe. b viz. Amram, Exod. 6. 20. Numb. 26. 58, 59.

c Namely Jochebed, Numb. 26. 59. called a daughter, not ſtrictly, but more largely, to wit, a Grandchild, as the words father and ſon are oft uſed for a Grandfather and a Grandſon, as hath been ſhewed before. And ſo the word ſiſter, Exod. 6. 20. is to be taken largely, as brother is oft uſed for a Couſin. This ſeems more probable than that an Iſraelite ſhould marry his own Siſter, which even Heathens by the light of Nature have condemned, eſpecially now when he had ſuch abundant choice elſewhere.

2 And the woman conceived and bare a ſon: and when ſhe ſaw him that he was a goodly child, ſhe * hid him three months.

* Acts 7. 20 Heb. 11. 23.

3 And when ſhe could not longer hide him d, ſhe took for him an ark of bulruſhes e, and daubed it with ſlime and with pitch, * and put the child therein, and ſhe laid it in the flags f by the rivers brink.

d To wit, with ſafety to her ſelf, becauſe they now grew more violent in executing that bloody Decree, and the Child growing up was more likely to be diſcovered, eſpecially ſeeing the Egyptians dwelt among them, Exod. 3. 22. e That Boats were made of ſuch materials in thoſe parts, is evident from Iſa. 18. 2. and from the Teſtimonies of Herod. Pliny, and others. * Slime within, and pitch without. f Which grew near the Rivers ſide; partly that the Veſſel might not be carried away, and overturned by the violence of the Winds and Water, and partly that the Child might be ſooner diſcerned, and more eaſily taken out thence by any kind hand, which ſhe hoped for.

4 And his ſiſter ſtood afar off g, to wit what would be done unto him.

g That ſhe might not be thought to have laid the Child there, or to be related to it.

5 ¶ And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to waſh her ſelf at the river, and her maidens walked along by the river ſide: and when ſhe ſaw the ark among the flags, ſhe ſent her maid to fetch it.

6 And when ſhe had opened it, ſhe ſaw the child: and behold the babe wept. And ſhe had compaſſion on him, and ſaid, This is one of the Hebrews children h.

h This ſhe might very probably gueſs both from the circumſtances in which ſhe found him, and from the ſingular fairneſs and beauty of the Child, far differing from the Egyptian hew; and ſhe might certainly know it by its circumciſion.

7 Then ſaid his ſiſter to Pharaohs daughter, Shall I go, and call to thee a nurſe of the Hebrew women, that ſhe may nurſe the child for thee?

8 And Pharaohs daughter ſaid unto her, Go: and the maid went and called the childs mother.

9 And Pharaohs daughter ſaid unto her, Take this child away and nurſe it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nurſed it.

10 And the child grew, and ſhe brought him unto Pharaohs daughter, and he became her ſon i. And ſhe called his name † Moſes k: and ſhe ſaid, Becauſe I drew him out of the water.

† That is, rawn out.

i By adoption, Heb. 11. 24 For as Philo reports, ſhe, though long married, had no Child of her own; and therefore treated him as her own, and gave him Royal Education and Inſtruction. See Acts 7. 21. k It matters not whether this be an Egyptian name, or an Hebrew name anſwering to it in ſignification, ſeeing the meaning of it is here explained.

11 ¶ And it came to paſs in thoſe days l, when Moſes was grown m, that he went out unto his brethren n, and looked on their burdens, and he ſpied an Egyptian ſmiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren.

l Whileſt Moſes lived at Court, and was owned as the Son of Pharaoh's Daughter, and, as ſome write, deſigned to ſucceed Pharaoh in the Throne. m To maturity, being 40 years old, Acts 7. 23. n Partly by natural Affection and Inclination, that he might learn the ſtate of his Brethren, and help them, as occaſion ſhould offer it ſelf; and partly by divine Inſtigation, and in deſign, that he might give ſome manifeſtation to them that he was raiſed, and ſent of God to deliver them; as may be gathered from Acts 7. 25.

12 And he looked this way and that way o, and when he ſaw that there was no man, he ſlew the Egyptian p, and hid him in the ſand.

o Not from Conſcience of Guilt in what he intended, but from humane and warrantable Prudence. p This action of Moſes was extraordinary, and is not to be juſtified by the common right of defending the oppreſſed, which belongs not to private perſons, Rom. 12. 19. but only by his divine and ſpecial Vocation to be the Ruler and Deliverer of Iſrael. Which call of his, howſoever manifeſted, whether by his Father, as Joſephus ſaith, or immediately to himſelf, was evident to his own Conſcience, and he gave this as a ſignal to make it evident to the people.

13 And when he went out the ſecond day q, behold, two men of the Hebrews ſtrove together: And he ſaid to him that did the wrong, Wherefore ſmiteſt thou thy fellow?

q The next day after that Atchievement, he returns to execute the Office in which God had ſet him as a Judge, whoſe work it is both to deſtroy Enemies, and to reconcile Brethren.

14 And he ſaid, Who made thee † a prince and a judge over us? Intendeſt thou to kill me, as thou killedſt the Egyptian? And Moſes feared r, and ſaid, Surely this thing is known.

† Heb. a man, a Prince.

r Through the weakneſs of his Faith, which afterwards growing ſtronger, he feared not that which now he did fear, the wrath of the King, Heb. 11. 27. Diſtinguiſh the times, and Scriptures agree which ſeemed to claſh together.

15 Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he ſought to ſlay Moſes s. But Moſes fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian: and he ſate down by a well.

s Not out of zeal to puniſh a Murderer, but to ſecure himſelf from ſo dangerous a perſon, probably ſuppoſing that this was the man foretold to be the ſcourge of Egypt, and the deliverer of Iſrael.

16 Now the † Prieſt t of Midian had ſeven daughters, and they came and drew water, and filled the troughs to water their fathers flock.

† Or, Prince.

t Not of Idols, for then Moſes would not have married into his Family; but of the true God; for ſome ſuch were in thoſe ancient times here and there, as appears by Melchiſedeck, though his manner of worſhipping God might be ſuperſtitious and corrupt: Or the Hebrew Cohen may here ſignify a Prince, or a Potentate, as Gen. 41. 45. Nor doth the employment of his Daughters contradict that tranſlation, both becauſe Principalities were then many of them very ſmall and mean, and becauſe this employment then was eſteemed noble, and worthy of great mens Daughters, as appears from Gen. 24. 15. and 29. 6, &c.

17 And the ſhepherds came and drove them away u: but Moſes ſtood up and helped them x, and watered their flock.

u That they might enjoy the fruit of their Labours, and make uſe of the Water which they had drawn for their own Cattle. x Either by perſwading them with fair words, or by force; for Moſes was ſtrong, and full of courage, and reſolution, wherewith the Shepherds were eaſily daunted.

18 And when they came to Reuel their father x, he ſaid, How is it that you are come ſo ſoon to day?

x Either 1. Strictly, and then he is the ſame who elſewhere is called Jethro, Exod 3. 1. and 18. oft-times, and, as ſome think, Hobab, Judg. 4. 11. Or 2. Largely, i. e. their Grandfather, for ſuch are oft called fathers, as Gen. 31. 43. 2 Kings 14. 3, &c. and 16. 2. and 18. 3. ſo he was the Father of Jethro, or Hobab, Numbers 10. 29.

19 And they ſaid, An Egyptian y delivered us out of the hand of the ſhepherds, and alſo drew water enough z for us, and watered the flock.

y So they gueſſed him to be by his Habit and Speech, or he told them that he came from thence. z Heb. In drawing drew, which notes that he drew it very diligently and readily, which cauſed their quick return.

20 And he ſaid unto his daughters, And where is he? Why is it that ye have left a the man? Call him, that he may eat bread.

a Heb. Have left thus, or now, at this time of the day, when it is ſo late, and he a Stranger and Traveller.

21 And Moſes was content b to dwell with the man, and he gave Moſes Zipporah his daughter c.

b Or, conſented to his deſire or offer. And ſo his preſent and temporary Repoſe there is turned into a ſettled Habitation. c Whom Moſes married not inſtantly, but after ſome years of acquaintance with the Family, as may probably be gathered from the youngneſs and uncircumciſedneſs of one of his Sons 40 years after this, Exod. 4. 25. In which time as Moſes would not fail to inſtruct them in the knowledge of the true God, which he was able excellently to do, ſo it is likely he had ſucceeded therein in ſome meaſure, and therefore married Zipporah.

22 And ſhe bare him a ſon, and he called his name * Gerſhom: for he ſaid, I have been * a ſtranger in a ſtrange land.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs in proceſs of time d, that the king of Egypt e died, and the children of Iſrael * ſighed † by reaſon of the bondage, and they cried, and their cry came up unto God, by reaſon of the bondage.

After 40 years, as appears by comparing Exod. 7. 7. with Acts 7. 30. e And after him one or two more of his Sons or Succeſſors, and the reſt who ſought for Moſes his life, Exod. 4. 19. † Becauſe though their great oppreſſor was dead, yet they found no relief, as they hoped to do.

p Through God's over-ruling Providence, and ſingular Bleſſing, which God gave them purpoſely to haſten firſt their ſorer affliction, and next, and by that means their glorious Deliverance. * Through envy and fear.

13 And the Egyptians made the children of Iſrael to ſerve with rigour q.

q Or, Cruelty, or tyranny; with hard words and cruel uſage, without mercy, or mitigation. This God permitted for wiſe and juſt reaſons; 1. As a puniſhment of their Idolatry, into which divers of them fell there, Joſ. 24. 14. Ezek. 20. 5, 7, 8. and 23. 8. 2. To wean them from the Land of Egypt, which otherwiſe was a plentiful and deſirable Land, and to quicken their deſires after Canaan. 3. To prepare the way for God's glorious works, and Iſrael's deliverance.

*Pſal. 81. 6. 14 And they made their lives bitter with hard bondage, * in morter, and in brick, and in all manner of ſervice in the field r: all their ſervice wherein they made them ſerve, was with rigour.

r Which was the baſeſt and moſt laborious of all their ſervices.

s Such as not only were employed about the Hebrew Women, but were Hebrews themſelves, not Egyptians, as ſome ſuppoſe, as may appear, 1. Becauſe they are expreſly called not the midwives of the Hebrews, but the Hebrew midwives. 2. The Egyptian midwives would not willingly employ their time and pains among the meaneſt and pooreſt of Servants, as theſe were. And if they were ſent in deſign by the King, he had loſt his end, which was to cover his cruelty with cunning, and to perſwade the People that their death was not from his Intention, but from the chances and dangers of Child-bearing. 3. The Hebrew Women as they had doubtleſs midwives of their own, ſo they would never have admitted others. 4. They are ſaid to fear God, verſe 17. 21. t You are not to think that theſe were the only midwives to ſo many thouſands of Hebrew Women, but they were the moſt eminent among them; and it may be for their excellency in that profeſſion called to the ſervice of ſome Egyptian Ladies, and by them known to Pharaoh, who might therefore think by their own intereſt, and by the promiſe of great rewards, or by ſevere threatnings, to oblige them to comply with his deſires; and if he met with the deſired ſucceſs by them, he meant to proceed further, and to engage the reſt in like manner.

16 And he ſaid, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and ſee them upon the ſtools u, if it be a ſon, then ye ſhall kill him x: but if it be a daughter, then ſhe ſhall live y.

u A ſeat uſed by Women when ready to be delivered, conveniently framed for the midwives better diſcharge of her Office. x Which it was not difficult for them to do, without much obſervation. y Either 1. Becauſe he feared not them, but the males only; and ſome add, that he was adviſed by one of their Magicians, that a male-child ſhould be born of the Iſraelites, who ſhould be a dreadful ſcourge to the Egyptians. Or, 2. They reſerved them for their luſt, or for ſervice, or for the increaſe of their People, and the raiſing of a fairer Breed by them.

17 But the midwives feared God z, and did not as the king of Egypt commanded them, but ſaved the men-children alive.

z More than the King, and therefore choſe to obey God rather than the King, their Commands being contrary each to other.

18 And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and ſaid unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have ſaved the men-children alive?

19 And the midwives ſaid unto Pharaoh, Becauſe the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women, for they are lively a, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them b.

a Or, Vigorous and active in promoting the Birth of their own Children: Or, like the beaſts; which without any help of others bring forth their young. So the Hebrew word ſignifies, and ſo there is only a defect of the Particle of ſimilitude, which is frequent, as I have noted before. b This might be no lye, as many ſuppoſe, but a truth concerning many of them, and they do not affirm it to be ſo with all. And ſo it might be, either becauſe their daily and exceſſive labours joyned with the fears of the Execution of the King's Command, whereof they ſeem to have gotten notice, did haſten their Birth, as the ſame cauſes do commonly in other Women; or becauſe they underſtanding their danger, would not ſend for the midwives, but committed themſelves to God's Providence, and the care of ſome of their Neighbours preſent with them. So here was nothing but Truth, though they did not ſpeak the whole Truth, which they were not obliged to do.

20 Therefore c God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty.

c Becauſe they feared God, and ſpared the Children, verſe 17. whereby they expoſed themſelves to the King's diſpleaſure; becauſe they would not offend God by murdering the Children, which they might have done many times ſecretly, and therefore it was only the fear of God which reſtrained them from it.

21 And it came to paſs, becauſe the midwives feared God, that he made them houſes d.

d (i. e.) God greatly increaſed their Families both in Children and Poſterity, and in Wealth, and other outward Bleſſings. So this phraſe is uſed Gen. 30. 30. Deut. 25. 9. 1 Sam. 2. 35. 1 Kings 2. 24. and 11. 38. Pſal. 127. 1. As houſes are commonly put for Families, ſo building is put for procreating of Children, Gen. 16. 2. and 30. 3.

22 And Pharaoh charged all his people, ſaying, Every ſon that is born, ye ſhall caſt into the river, and every daughter ye ſhall ſave alive.

CHAP. II.

Moſes's parentage and birth, 1, 2. His mother makes an ark, puts him therein, 3. Pharaoh's daughter going to waſh her ſelf, ſeeth him, takes him for her own child, and gives him to his mother to nurſe, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. Moſes ſeeing an Iſraelite wronged by an Egyptian, kills him, 11, 12. Pharaoh hearing this, ſeeks to ſlay Moſes; he flies to Midian, 15. There he reſcues Reuel's daughters from the violence of the ſhepherds, 17. Serves Reuel, and marries his daughter Zipporah, 21. She bears him a ſon, his name, and the reaſon of it, 22. God heareth the cry of the Iſraelites, 25.

AND there went a * a man of the houſe of Levi b, and took to wife a daughter of Levi c. *1 Chro. 23. 13.

a From the place of his abode to another place for the following purpoſe. b viz. Amram, Exod. 6. 20. Numb. 26. 58, 59. c Namely c Namely Jochebed, Numb. 26. 59. called a daughter, not ſtrictly, but more largely, to wit, a Grandchild, as the words father and ſon are oft uſed for a Grandfather and a Grandſon, as hath been ſhewed before. And ſo the word ſiſter, Exod. 6. 20. is to be taken largely, as brother is oft uſed for a Couſin. This ſeems more probable than that an Iſraelite ſhould marry his own Siſter, which even Heathens by the light of Nature have condemned, eſpecially now when he had ſuch abundant choice elſewhere.

2 And the woman conceived and bare a ſon: and
* Acts 7. 20 Heb. 11. 23. when ſhe ſaw him that he was a goodly child, ſhe * hid him three months.

3 And when ſhe could not longer hide him d, ſhe took for him an ark of bulruſhes e, and daubed it with ſlime and with pitch, * and put the child therein, and ſhe laid it in the flags f by the rivers brink.

d To wit, with ſafety to her ſelf, becauſe they now grew more violent in executing that bloody Decree, and the Child growing up was more likely to be diſcovered, eſpecially ſeeing the Egyptians dwelt among them, Exod. 3. 22. e That Boats were made of ſuch materials in thoſe parts, is evident from Iſa. 18. 2. and from the Teſtimonies of Herod. Pliny, and others. * Slime within, and pitch without. f Which grew near the Rivers ſide; partly that the Veſſel might not be carried away, and overturned by the violence of the Winds and Water, and partly that the Child might be ſooner diſcerned, and more eaſily taken out thence by any kind hand, which ſhe hoped for.

4 And his ſiſter ſtood afar off g, to wit what would be done unto him.

g That ſhe might not be thought to have laid the Child there, or to be related to it.

5 ¶ And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to waſh her ſelf at the river, and her maidens walked along by the river ſide: and when ſhe ſaw the ark among the flags, ſhe ſent her maid to fetch it.

6 And when ſhe had opened it, ſhe ſaw the child: and behold the babe wept. And ſhe had compaſſion on him, and ſaid, This is one of the Hebrews children h.

h This ſhe might very probably gueſs both from the circumſtances in which ſhe found him, and from the ſingular fairneſs and beauty of the Child, far differing from the Egyptian hew; and ſhe might certainly know it by its circumciſion.

7 Then ſaid his ſiſter to Pharaohs daughter, Shall I go, and call to thee a nurſe of the Hebrew women, that ſhe may nurſe the child for thee?

8 And Pharaohs daughter ſaid unto her, Go: and the maid went and called the childs mother.

9 And Pharaohs daughter ſaid unto her, Take this child away and nurſe it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nurſed it.

10 And the child grew, and ſhe brought him unto Pharaohs daughter, and he became her ſon i. And † That is, ſhe called his name † Moſes k: and ſhe ſaid, Becauſe I drawn out. drew him out of the water.

i By adoption, Heb. 11. 24 For as Philo reports, ſhe, though long married, had no Child of her own; and therefore treated him as her own, and gave him Royal Education and Inſtruction. See Acts 7. 21. k It matters not whether this be an Egyptian name, or an Hebrew name anſwering to it in ſignification, ſeeing the meaning of it is here explained.

11 ¶ And it came to paſs in thoſe days l, when Moſes was grown m, that he went out unto his brethren n, and looked on their burdens, and he ſpied an Egyptian ſmiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren.

l Whileſt Moſes lived at Court, and was owned as the Son of Pharaoh's Daughter, and, as ſome write, deſigned to ſucceed Pharaoh in the Throne. m To maturity, being 40 years old, Acts 7. 23. n Partly by natural Affection and Inclination, that he might learn the ſtate of his Brethren, and help them, as occaſion ſhould offer it ſelf; and partly by divine Inſtigation, and in deſign, that he might give ſome manifeſtation to them that he was raiſed, and ſent of God to deliver them; as may be gathered from Acts 7. 25.

12 And he looked this way and that way o, and when he ſaw that there was no man, he ſlew the Egyptian p, and hid him in the ſand.

o Not from Conſcience of Guilt in what he intended, but from humane and warrantable Prudence. p This action of Moſes was extraordinary, and is not to be juſtified by the common right of defending the oppreſſed, which belongs not to private perſons, Rom. 12. 19. but only by his divine and ſpecial Vocation to be the Ruler and Deliverer of Iſrael. Which call of his, howſoever manifeſted, whether by his Father, as Joſephus ſaith, or immediately to himſelf, was evident to his own Conſcience, and he gave this as a ſignal to make it evident to the people.

13 And when he went out the ſecond day q, behold, two men of the Hebrews ſtrove together: And he ſaid to him that did the wrong, Wherefore ſmiteſt thou thy fellow?

q The next day after that Atchievement, he returns to execute the Office in which God had ſet him as a Judge, whoſe work it is both to deſtroy Enemies, and to reconcile Brethren.

14 And he ſaid, Who made thee † a prince and a † Heb. a judge over us? Intendeſt thou to kill me, as thou kil- man, a ledſt the Egyptian? And Moſes feared r, and ſaid, Prince.
Surely this thing is known.

r Through the weakneſs of his Faith, which afterwards growing ſtronger, he feared not that which now he did fear, the wrath of the King, Heb. 11. 27. Diſtinguiſh the times, and Scriptures agree which ſeemed to claſh together.

15 Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he ſought to ſlay Moſes s. But Moſes fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian: and he ſate down by a well.

s Not out of zeal to puniſh a Murderer, but to ſecure himſelf from ſo dangerous a perſon, probably ſuppoſing that this was the man foretold to be the ſcourge of Egypt, and the deliverer of Iſrael.

16 Now the † Prieſt t of Midian had ſeven daugh- † Or, troughs to water their fathers flock.

t Not of Idols, for then Moſes would not have married into his Family; but of the true God; for ſome ſuch were in thoſe ancient times here and there, as appears by Melchiſedeck, though his manner of worſhipping God might be ſuperſtitious and corrupt: Or the Hebrew Cohen may here ſignify a Prince, or a Potentate, as Gen. 41. 45. Nor doth the employment of his Daughters contradict that tranſlation, both becauſe Principalities were then many of them very ſmall and mean, and becauſe this employment then was eſteemed noble, and worthy of great mens Daughters, as appears from Gen. 24. 15. and 29. 6, &c.

17 And the ſhepherds came and drove them away u: but Moſes ſtood up and helped them x, and watered their flock.

u That they might enjoy the fruit of their Labours, and make uſe of the Water which they had drawn for their own Cattle. x Either by perſwading them with fair words, or by force; for Moſes was ſtrong, and full of courage, and reſolution, wherewith the Shepherds were eaſily daunted.

18 And when they came to Reuel their father x, he ſaid, How is it that you are come ſo ſoon to day?

x Either 1. Strictly, and then he is the ſame who elſewhere is called Jethro, Exod 3. 1. and 18. oft-times, and, as ſome think, Hobab, Judg. 4. 11. Or 2. Largely, i. e. their Grandfather, for ſuch are oft called fathers, as Gen. 31. 43. 2 Kings 14. 3, &c. and 16. 2. and 18. 3. ſo he was the Father of Jethro, or Hobab, Numbers 10. 29.

19 And they ſaid, An Egyptian y delivered us out of the hand of the ſhepherds, and alſo drew water enough z for us, and watered the flock.

y So they gueſſed him to be by his Habit and Speech, or he told them that he came from thence. z Heb. In drawing drew, which notes that he drew it very diligently and readily, which cauſed their quick return.

20 And he ſaid unto his daughters, And where is he? Why is it that ye have left a the man? Call him, that he may eat bread.

a Heb. Have left thus, or now, at this time of the day, when it is ſo late, and he a Stranger and Traveller.

21 And Moſes was content b to dwell with the man, and he gave Moſes Zipporah his daughter c.

b Or, conſented to his deſire or offer. And ſo his preſent and temporary Repoſe there is turned into a ſettled Habitation. c Whom Moſes married not inſtantly, but after ſome years of acquaintance with the Family, as may probably be gathered from the youngneſs and uncircumciſedneſs of one of his Sons 40 years after this, Exod. 4. 25. In which time as Moſes would not fail to inſtruct them in the knowledge of the true God, which he was able excellently to do, ſo it is likely he had ſucceeded therein in ſome meaſure, and therefore married Zipporah.

CHAP. III.

Moſes keeping Jethro's flock, cometh to mount Horeb, 1. There God appears to him in a burning buſh, 2. Moſes beholds it, 3. God calls to him out of the burning buſh, 4. Cautions him what to do, 5, 6. God ſeeth their afflictions, 7. Promiſes them a happy deliverance, 8. Sends Moſes to Pharaoh, 10. He deſires to be excuſed becauſe unworthy, 11. God encourages him, 12. And directs him what to ſay to the children of Iſrael, 13, 14. Makes his name known to Moſes, 15. Commands him to gather the elders of Iſrael, 16. And what he was to ſay to them, 17. Likewiſe to Pharaoh, 18. Pharaoh's obſtinacy, 19. God threatens the Egyptians, 20. And tells Moſes with what plenty the Iſraelites ſhould depart, 21, 22.

NOW Moſes kept the flock of Jethro a his father-in-law, the prieſt of Midian: and he led the flock to the back-ſide of the deſert b, and came to the mountain of God c, even to Horeb d.

d Either the ſame with Reuel, or his Son, who upon his Father's death, ſucceeded into his Office. See Exod 2. 18. b To its innermoſt parts, which were behind Jethro's Habitation, and the former Paſtures, whither he went for freſh Paſtures. c So called, either as an high or eminent Mountain; or, from the Viſion of God here following. See Acts 7. 30. or by anticipation, from God's glorious appearance there, and giving the Law from thence, Exod. 18. 5. and 19. 3. See alſo 1 Kings 19. 8. d Called alſo Sinai, Exod. 19. 1. Acts 7. 30. Or Horeb was the name of the whole tract or row of Mountains, and Sinai the name of that particular Mountain where this Viſion hapned, and the Law was delivered. Or Horeb and Sinai were two ſeveral tops of the ſame Mountain.

*Deut. 33. 16. 2 And the Angel of the LORD e appeared unto him in a * flame of fire f out of the midſt of a buſh, and he looked, and behold, the buſh burned with fire, and the buſh was not conſumed g.

e Not a created Angel, but the Angel of the Covenant, Chriſt Jeſus, who then and ever was God, and was to be Man, and to be ſent into the World in our Fleſh as a Meſſenger from God. And theſe temporary Apparitions of his were Preſages or Fore runners of his more ſolemn Miſſion and coming, and therefore he is fitly called an Angel. That this Angel was no Creature, plainly appears by the whole Context, and ſpecially by his ſaying, I am the Lord, &c. The Angels never ſpeak that Language in Scripture, but I am ſent from God, and I am thy fellow-ſervant, &c. And it is a vain pretence to ſay, That the Angel as God's Ambaſſadour ſpeaks in God's name and perſon; For what Ambaſſadour of any King in the World did ever ſpeak thus, I am the King, &c? Miniſters are God's Ambaſſadours; but if any of them ſhould ſay, I am the Lord, they would be guilty of Blaſphemy, and ſo would any created Angel be too, for the ſame reaſon f Whereby was fitly repreſented God's Majeſty, and Purity, and Power. g Which doubtleſs repreſented the condition of the Church and People of Iſrael, who were now in the fire of affliction, yet ſo as that God was preſent with them, and that they ſhould not be conſumed in it, whereof this Viſion was a Pledge.

3 And Moſes ſaid, I will now turn aſide, and ſee this great ſight, why the buſh is not burnt.

*Deut. 33. 16. 4 And when the LORD ſaw that he turned aſide to ſee, God called unto him * out of the midſt of the buſh, and ſaid, Moſes, Moſes h; and he ſaid, Here am I.

h He doubles the Name, partly to ſhew kindneſs and familiarity, and principally to make Moſes more attentive to the buſineſs before him.

*Acts 7. 33. 5 And he ſaid, Draw not nigh hither i; * put off thy ſhoes from off thy feet k, for the place whereon thou ſtandeſt, is holy ground l.

i Keep thy diſtance; whereby he checks his curioſity and forwardneſs, and works him to the greater reverence and humility. Compare Exod. 19. 12, 21. Joſ. 5. 15. k This he requires as an act and token, 1. Of his reverence to the divine Majeſty, then and there eminently preſent. 2. Of his humiliation for his ſins, whereby he was unfit and unworthy to appear before God; for this was a poſture of humiliation, 2 Sam. 15. 30. Iſa. 20. 2, 4. Ezek. 24. 17, 23. 3. Of purification from the filth of his feet, or ways, or converſation, that he might be more fit to approach to God. See Joh. 13. 10. Heb. 10. 22. 4. Of his ſubmiſſion and readineſs to obey God's will, for which reaſon ſlaves uſed to be barefooted. l With a relative holineſs at this time, becauſe of my ſpecial preſence in it.

*Mat. 22. 32. Act. 7. 32. 6 Moreover he ſaid, * I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob m. And Moſes hid his face: for he was afraid to look upon God n.

m The God ingaged to them by Covenant or Promiſe, which I am now come to perform. n As other excellent Servants of God have been through the ſence of their own Meanneſs, and Sinfulneſs, and of God's Majeſty, and Holineſs. See Gen. 16. 13. and 17. 3. 1 Kings 19 13. Iſa. 6. 2, 5, &c.

*Chap. 2. 23. 7 ¶ And the LORD ſaid, I have ſurely ſeen o the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and * have heard their cry, by reaſon of their task-maſters: for I know their ſorrows, o Heb. In ſeeing I have ſeen, (i. e.) I have ſeen and obſerved it diligently, accurately, and certainly; for ſo much the doubling of the Verb ſignifies.

8 And I am come down p to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land, unto a good land and a large q, unto a land flowing with milk and honey r, unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites; and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites s.

p This word notes God's manifeſtation of himſelf and his favour, and giving help from Heaven. See Gen. 18. 21. q So it was not only comparatively to Goſhen, where they now dwelt, and to the number of the Iſraelites at that time; but abſolutely, if you take the Land of Promiſe according to its true and firſt and ancient Bounds of it, as you have them deſcribed, Gen. 15. 18. Deut. 1. 7. and 11. 24. and not according to thoſe narrow limits to which they were afterwards confined for their Unbelief, Sloth, Cowardice, and Impiety. r (i. e.) Abounding with the choiceſt Fruits, both for neceſſity and for delight. The excellency, and ſingular fruitfulneſs of this Land, howſoever denied or diſputed by ſome ill-minded Perſons, is ſufficiently evident, 1. From expreſs Teſtimony not only of Moſes, Deut. 8. 7, 8, 9. but alſo of the Spies who were ſent to view it, and, though prejudiced againſt it, yet acknowledged it, Numb. 13. 27. and of the Holy Prophets that lived long in it, as David, Pſalm 106. 24. Joel, Chap. 2. 3. and Ezekiel, who calls it the glory of all lands, Ezek. 20. 15. Which if it had not been true, it is ridiculous to think that they durſt have ſaid and writ ſo, when the people with whom they conteſted, and thouſands of other Perſons there and then living, were able to confute them. After them Joſephus, and St. Hierom, and others ſince, who lived long in that Land, have highly commended it. And whereas Strabo ſpeaks of the barrenneſs of the Soil about Jeruſalem, that is true, but by himſelf it is limited to the compaſs of 60 Furlongs from Jeruſalem. And if at this day the Land be now grown barren in a great meaſure, it is not ſtrange, conſidering both the great neglect and ſloth of the People as to the improvement of it, and the great wickedneſs of its Inhabitants, for which God hath threatned to turn a fruitful land into barrenneſs, Pſalm 107 34. s Theſe People are diverſly numbred, there are ten ſorts reckoned, Gen. 15. 19, 20, 21. and ſeven, Deut. 7. 1. and here but ſix, becauſe ſome of them were either deſtroyed or driven out of their Land by others; or did by choice and deſign remove to ſome other place, as many in thoſe times did, though it be not mentioned in Scripture; or by Cohabitation and Marriage with ſome of the other People, did make a Coalition, and were incorporated with them, and ſo their Name was ſwallowed up in the other; or becauſe the Names of ſome of theſe People, as particularly the Canaanites, and the Amorites, were uſed ſometimes more ſtrictly, and ſometimes more largely, ſo as to comprehend under them the other People, as the Girgaſhites, &c. whence it comes to paſs, that all the reſt go under the names of the Canaanites, Gen. 13. 7. and of the Amorites in ſome places of Scripture, as hath been ſhewed.

9 Now therefore behold the cry * of the children of Iſrael is come unto me: and I have alſo ſeen the oppreſſion wherewith the Egyptians oppreſs them.

* Either in Prayer; or rather forced by their Oppreſſions, as the next Clauſe explains it.

10 Come now therefore, and I will ſend thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayeſt bring forth my people the children of Iſrael out of Egypt.

11 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto God, * Who am I t, that I ſhould go unto Pharaoh; and that I ſhould bring forth the children of Iſrael out of Egypt? *See 5. 6.

t What a mean inconſiderable Perſon am I? how unworthy and unfit for that employment? He was more forward in the work 40 years ago, by reaſon of the fervours of his Youth, his inexperience in Affairs, the advantage of his Power and Intereſt in the Court, by which he thought he could and ſhould procure their Deliverance; but now Age had made him cool and conſiderate; the remembrance of his Brethrens Rejection of him, when he was a great Man at Court, took away all probability of prevailing with them to follow him, much more of prevailing with Pharoah to let them go. Thus Moſes falls into that Diſtemper to which moſt Men are prone, of meaſuring God by himſelf, and by the probabilities or improbabilities of ſecond Cauſes.

12 And he ſaid, Certainly I will be with thee; and this ſhall be a token unto thee u, that I have ſent thee: When thou haſt brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye ſhall ſerve God upon this mountain.

u Either 1. this Viſion, or 2. the fulfilling of this Promiſe, that I will be with thee by Signs and Wonders, and a Strong Hand; or rather 3. this which here follows, that he and Iſrael ſhould ſerve God there. Signs indeed are commonly given from things paſt or preſent, but ſometimes from things to come, as here, and 1 Sam. 2. 34. Iſaiah 7. 13, 14. and 9. 6, &c. Queſt. How could Moſes be confirmed in his preſent Calling and Work by a thing yet to come? Anſ. Such Signs if they were ſingle, and the only evidences of a Mans calling, might leave ſome ground for ſuſpicion; but when they are accompanied with other Signs, as it is here and in the other places produced, they are of great uſe for the Corroboration of a Man's Faith. Moſes was otherwiſe aſſured of the Preſence, and Power, and Faithfulneſs of that God who ſpake to him, and was to expect more aſſurances that God would be with him to help him in, and carry him through his Work. And as an evidence that this Work of bringing Iſrael out of Egypt ſhould be compleated, he gives him a promiſe that he ſhould ſerve God in that place; which promiſe coming from God, he knew to be as infallibly certain, as if it were already come to paſs, and therefore this was an apt mean to ſtrengthen his Faith in his preſent undertaking.

13 And Moſes ſaid unto God, Behold, when I come unto the children of Iſrael, and ſhall ſay unto them,

The God of your fathers hath ſent me unto you, and they ſhall ſay to me, What is his Name x? what ſhall I ſay unto them?

x Since I muſt go to them in thy name, and thou haſt variety of Names and glorious Titles, and ſome of them are aſcribed to Idols, not only by the Egyptians, but by too many of thy own People; what Name ſhall I uſe, whereby both thou maiſt be dinſtinguiſhed from falſe gods, and thy People may be encouraged to expect Deliverance from thee?

14 And God ſaid unto Moſes, I AM THAT I AM y: And he ſaid, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto the children of Iſrael, I AM * hath ſent me unto you. * Chap. 6. 3. 2 Cor. 1. 20. Heb. 13. 8. Rev. 1. 4.

y A moſt comprehenſive and ſignificant Name, and moſt proper for the preſent Occaſion. It notes 1. The reality of his Being: whereas Idols are nothings, 1 Cor. 8. 4. all their Divinity is only in the fancies and opinions of Men. 2. The Neceſſarineſs, Eternity, and Unchangeableneſs of his Being; whereas all other beings once were not, and if he pleaſe, they ſhall be no more; and all their being was derived from him, and wholly depends upon him; and he only is by and from himſelf. 3. The Conſtancy and Certainty of his Nature, and Will, and Word: The ſenſe is, I am the ſame that ever I was; the ſame who made the promiſes to Abraham, &c. and am now come to perform them; who as I can do what I pleaſe, ſo I will do what I have ſaid. Heb. I ſhall be what I ſhall be He uſeth the Future Tenſe, either, 1. becauſe that Tenſe in the uſe of the Hebrew Tongue comprehends all times, paſt, preſent, and to come, to ſignify that all times are alike to God, and all are preſent to him, and therefore what is here, I ſhall be, is rendred, I am, by Chriſt, John 8. 58. See Pſalm 90. 4. 2 Pet. 3. 8. Or 2. To intimate, though darkly, according to that State and Age of the Church, the Myſtery of Chriſt's Incarnation, I ſhall be what I ſhall be, i. e. God-man; and I who now come in an inviſible, tho glorious, manner to deliver you from this temporal Bondage, ſhall in due time come viſibly, and by Incarnation, to ſave you and all my People from a far worſe Slavery and Miſery, even from your Sins, and from Wrath to come. Of this Name of God, ſee Rev. 1. 4, 8. and 16. 5.

15 And God ſaid moreover unto Moſes, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto the children of Iſrael, The LORD † God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob, hath ſent me unto you: this is my Name for ever, and this is my memorial z unto all generations.

† Heb. Jehovah, a word of the ſame root and ſignification with I am. See Exod. 6. 3. This he adds, becauſe God was beſt known to the Iſraelites by that Name; and to ſhew, that though he had given himſelf a new Name, yet he was the ſame God. z By which I will be remembred, owned, and ſerved by my People, and diſtinguiſhed from all others. See Pſalm 102. 12. and 105. 13.

* Chap. 4. 29. 16 Go and * gather the Elders a of Iſrael together, and ſay unto them, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Iſaac, and of Jacob, appeared unto me, ſaying, I have ſurely viſited you, and ſeen that which is done to you in Egypt;

a Either by Age, or rather by Office and Authority. For though they were all Slaves to the Egytians, yet among themſelves they retained ſome Order and Government, and had doubtleſs ſome whom they owned as their Teachers and Rulers, as Heads of Tribes and Families, &c.

17 And I have ſaid, I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt, unto the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, unto a land flowing with milk and honey.

* Chap. 4. 31. * Chap. 5. 3. 18 And * they ſhall hearken to thy voice, and thou ſhalt come, thou and the elders of Iſrael unto the King of Egypt, and you ſhall ſay unto him, The LORD * God of the Hebrews hath met with us b; and now let us go, (we beſeech thee) three days journey c into the wilderneſs that we may ſacrifice to the LORD our God d.

b Hath appeared to us, expreſſing his diſpleaſure for our neglect of him, and declaring his Will that we ſhould do what follows. c To Sinai, which, going the neareſt way, was no further from Egypt; for here God had declared he would be ſerved, verſe 12. Queſt. Was not this deceitfully and unjuſtly ſpoken, when they intended to go quite away from him? Anſ. No; for 1. Pharaoh had no juſt Right and Title to them, to keep them in Bondage, ſeeing they came thither only to ſojourn for a time, and by Joſeph had abundantly paid for their Habitation there, and therefore they might have demanded a total Diſmiſſion. 2. Moſes doth not ſay any thing which is falſe, but only conceals a part of the truth; and he was not obliged to diſcover the whole truth to ſo cruel a Tyrant, and ſo implacable an Enemy. 3. Moſes cannot be blamed, both becauſe he was none of Pharaoh's Subject, and becauſe herein he follows the Direction and Command of his Maſter that ſent him. And God ſurely was not obliged to acquaint Pharaoh with all his mind, but only ſo far as he pleaſed. And it pleaſed him for wiſe and juſt reaſons to propoſe only this to Pharaoh, that his denial of ſo modeſt a Requeſt (which God foreſaw) might make his Tyranny more manifeſt, and God's Vengeance upon him more juſt and remarkable. d Which they could not do freely and ſafely in Egypt, Exod 8. 26.

† Or, but by ſtrong hand. 19 ¶ And I am ſure e that the King of Egypt will not let you go, † no not by a mighty hand f.

e I know it infallibly before-hand. f Though he ſee and feel the miraculous and dreadful Works of a Strong, yea Almighty Hand, yet he will not conſent to your going; which the Hiſtory makes good. Nor did he let them go till he could hold them no longer, till the fear of his own Life, and the clamours of his People forced him to give way to it. And yet, after that he repents of his Permiſſion, and laboured to bring them back again. Others, but, or except by a ſtrong hand, i. e. except by my Almighty Power he be forced to it. Both Tranſlations come to the ſame ſenſe.

20 And I will ſtretch out my hand, and ſmite Egypt with all my wonders which I will do in the midſt thereof; and after that he will let you go.

21 And I will give this people favour in the ſight of the Egyptians g; and it ſhall come to paſs, that when ye go, ye ſhall not go empty:

g So that they ſhall readily grant what the Iſraelites deſire. See Exod. 12. 36.

22 * But every woman ſhall borrow of her neighbour, and of her that ſojourneth in her houſe, jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment: and ye ſhall put them upon your ſons, and upon your daughters, and ye ſhall ſpoil † the Egyptians h. * Chap. 11. 2. Gen. 15. 14. † Or, Egypt.

h Whether this was juſt or no, ſee on Exod. 12. 36.

CHAP. IV.

Moſes's objection, 1. The anſwer, 2. God turns his rod into a ſerpent, 3—5. He adds another ſign, 6. And leſt they would not believe, 8. Water is turn'd into blood, 9. Moſes's objection, 10. God argues with him, 11. God's command and promiſe, 12. Moſes's anſwer, 13. God is angry, and enjoyns Aaron to the ſame employment, 14. Tells what Aaron ſhould be, and what Moſes ſhould do, 15—17. Moſes returning to Jethro, craves leave to go to Egypt to ſee his brethren. Jethro's grant, 18, 19. Moſes having taken the rod of God, departs with his wife and children into Egypt, 20, 21. God tells him what he ſhould ſay to Pharaoh, 22, 23. God ſeeketh to kill Moſes, 24. Zipporah with a ſharp knife cuts off her ſon's foreskin, and what ſhe ſaid, 25, 26. God commands Aaron to meet Moſes, 27. Moſes declares to Aaron both what he had heard and ſeen, 28. They gather together the Elders of Iſrael, 29. And Aaron ſpeaks all the words, and does all the ſigns which God commanded, 30. The people believe, 31.

AND Moſes anſwered and ſaid, But behold, they will not believe me a, nor hearken unto my voice: for they will ſay, The LORD hath not appeared unto thee.

a Which he conjectured both from reaſon, becauſe the greatneſs and ſtrangeneſs of the Deliverance made it ſeem incredible; and their minds were ſo oppreſſed with Cares and Labours, that it was not likely they could raiſe them up to any ſuch expectation; and from the experience which he had of them forty years before, when their Deliverance by his means and intereſt at Court ſeemed much more credible, then now it did.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto him, What is that in thine hand? And he ſaid, A rod.

3 And he ſaid, Caſt it on the ground. And he caſt it on the ground, and it became a ſerpent b: And Moſes fled from before it.

b (i. e.) Was really changed into a Serpent; whereby it was intimated what and how pernicious his Rod ſhould be to the Egyptians.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the tail c: And he put forth his hand and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand:

c The dangerous part; whereby God would try Moſes his Faith, and prepare him for the approaching difficulties.

5 That they may be believe d that the LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob hath appeared unto thee.

d An imperfect Sentence, to be thus compleated, This thou ſhalt do before them, that they may believe. See the like in 2 Sam. 5. 8. compared with 1 Chron. 11. 6. and Mark 14. 49. compared with Matth. 26. 56.

6 ¶ And the LORD ſaid furthermore unto him, Put now thine hand into thy boſom. And he put his hand into his boſom: and when he took it out, behold his hand was leprous * as ſnow e. * 2 Kings 5. 27.

e For whiteneſs. See Numb. 12. 10. Hereby God would ſuggeſt to them, how ſoon he could weaken and deſtroy the hard and ſtrong hand by which the Egyptians tyrannized over them. It might alſo be done to keep Moſes humble and depending upon God, and to teach him and Iſrael to aſcribe all the future Miracles not to the hand of Moſes, which was weak and liable to many Diſtempers, but wholly to the Divine Power and Goodneſs.

7 And he ſaid, Put thine hand into thy boſom again. And he put his hand into his boſom again, and plucked it out of his boſom, and behold, it was turned again as his other fleſh.

8 And it ſhall come to paſs, if they will not believe thee, neither hearken to the voice of the firſt ſign f, that they will believe the voice of the latter ſign.

f To the Voice or Word of God delivered and confirmed by the firſt Sign. For Moſes did not make dumb ſhews before them, but acquainted them with the mind of God therein. Or he ſaith the Voice, to note that God's works have a voice to ſpeak to us, which we muſt diligently obſerve. See Mic. 6. 9.

† Heb. ſhall be, and ſhall be.

9 And it ſhall come to paſs, if they will not believe alſo theſe two ſigns, neither hearken unto thy voice, that thou ſhalt take of the water of the river g, and pour it upon the dry land: and the water which thou takeſt out of the river, † ſhall become h blood upon the dry land.

g Nilus, well known to Moſes, and called ſo by way of Eminency, as Euphrates alſo is. h Heb. ſhall be, even ſhall be, i. e. it ſhall aſſuredly be ſo.

† Heb. a man of words. † Heb. ſince yeſterday, nor ſince the third day. * Chap. 6. 12.

10 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, O my Lord, I am not † eloquent i, neither † heretofore, nor ſince thou haſt ſpoken unto thy ſervant k: but * I am ſlow of ſpeech, and of a ſlow tongue.

i Not able to deliver thy Meſſage acceptably and decently, either to Pharaoh, or to the Iſraelites. k Since thy appearance to me, thou haſt made ſome change in my Hand, but none in my Tongue, but ſtill I am, as I was, moſt unfit for ſo high an Employment. But indeed he was therefore fit for it, as the unlearned Apoſtles were for the Preaching of the Goſpel, that the Honour of their glorious Works might be entirely given to God, and not to the Inſtruments which he uſed.

* Pſalm 94. 9.

11 And the LORD ſaid unto him, * Who hath made mans mouth? or who maketh the dumb, or deaf, or the ſeeing, or the blind? have not I the LORD?

* Mark 13. 11. Luke 12. 11.

12 Now therefore go, and I will be * with thy mouth l, and teach thee what thou ſhalt ſay.

l By my Spirit to direct and aſſiſt thee what and how to ſpeak. Whence Moſes, though he ſtill ſeems to have remained ſlow in Speech, yet was in truth mighty in Words as well as Deeds, Acts 7. 22. Compare Matth. 10. 19, 20.

13 And he ſaid, O my Lord, ſend, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou † wilt ſend m.

m By one who is fitter for the work than I am. Heb. ſend by the hand of him whom thou wiltſt ſend, i. e. ſhould ſend; For the Future Tenſe oft ſignifies what one ſhould do. See Gen. 20 9. and 34. 7. Mal. 1. 6. and 2. 7. Thou uſeſt according to thy Wiſdom to chuſe fit Inſtruments, and to uſe none but whom thou doſt either find or make fit for their Employment, which I am not. Others, Send by the Hand of Meſſias, whom thou wiltſt certainly ſend, and canſt not ſend at a fitter time, nor for better work. Moſes and the Prophets knew that Chriſt would come, but the particular time of his coming was unknown to them. See 1 Pet. 1. 11.

14 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Moſes, and he ſaid, Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that he can ſpeak well. And alſo behold, he cometh forth to meet thee n: and when he ſeeth thee, he will be glad in his heart.

n By my Inſtigation and Direction; which, becauſe I ſee thou art ſtill diffident, I give thee for a new Sign to ſtrengthen thy belief that I will carry thee through this hard work.

15 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, and put words in his mouth o, and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and I will teach you what ye ſhall do.

o (i. e) Inſtruct him what to ſpeak, and command him freely and faithfully to expreſs it. See Iſa. 51. 16. and 59. 21.

16 And he ſhall be thy ſpokeſman unto the people: and he ſhall be, even he ſhall be to thee in ſtead of a mouth, and thou ſhalt be to him in ſtead of God p.

p To teach and to command him. See Exod. 7. 1.

17 And thou ſhalt take this rod in thy hand, wherewith thou ſhalt do ſigns q.

q Both thoſe which I have already made thee to do, and others as I ſhall direct and enable thee.

18 And Moſes went and returned to Jethro his father-in-law, and ſaid unto him, Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren which are in Egypt, and ſee whether they be yet alive r. And Jethro ſaid to Moſes, Go in peace.

r He pretends only a Viſit, and ſo indeed it was, and that no very long one neither: He knew that he ſhould certainly return to this place, and there meet with his Father-in-law. So that he did not deceive him, nor intended to do ſo, though he thought fit to conceal from him the Errand upon which God ſent him, leſt his Father or Wife ſhould attempt to hinder or diſcourage him from ſo difficult and dangerous an Enterprize. Moſes ſhews here a rare Example, as well of Modeſty and Humility, that ſuch glorious and familiar Converſe with God, and the high Calling to which God had advanced him, did neither make him forget the Civility and Duty which he owed to his Father, nor make him break forth into publick and vain-glorious boaſting of ſuch a Priviledge; as alſo of his Piety and Prudence, that he avoided all Occaſions and Temptations to Diſobedience to God's Command.

* Chap. 2. 15, 23.

19 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes in Midian s, Go, return into Egypt, for * all the men are dead which ſought thy life t.

This ſeems to have been a ſecond Viſion, whereby God calls him forth to the preſent and ſpeedy Execution of that Command which before was more generally delivered. t To wit, to take it away. See the like expreſſion, 1 Sam. 22. 23. 1 Kings 19. 14. Matth. 2. 20. God knew very well that one great cauſe of Moſes his unwillingneſs to this undertaking, was his carnal Fear, though he was aſhamed to profeſs it, and therefore gives him this Cordial.

20 And Moſes took his wife, and his ſons u, and ſet them upon an aſs x, and he returned to the land of Egypt. And Moſes took the rod of God y in his hand.

u Gerſhom, Exod. 2. 22. and Eliezer, Exod. 18. 4. Whom he intended to carry with him, but afterwards obſerving that they were like to be Impediments to him in his great buſineſs, and being well aſſured that it would not be long ere he returned to them, he ſent them back to Jethro, as may ſeem from Exod. 18. 5. x One Aſs might be ſufficient for her and her two Children, becauſe one of them was but little, verſe 25. Or, Aſs may be put for Aſſes, which changes of the numbers is very frequent in Scripture. y His Shepherds rod ſo called, partly becauſe it was appropriated to God's ſpecial Service, to be the Inſtrument in all his glorious Works; and partly to ſhew that whatſoever was done by that Rod, was not done by any virtue in the Rod, or in Moſes his hand, but meerly by the Power of God, who was pleaſed for the greater Confuſion of his Enemies to uſe ſo mean an Inſtrument.

21 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, When thou goeſt to return into Egypt, ſee that thou do all thoſe wonders before Pharaoh, which I have put in thine hand z: but * I will harden his heart a, that he ſhall not let the people go.

* Chap. 3. and 12. and 10. 1. 14. 8. Deut. 30. 63. 17. John 40. 9. 17.

z (i. e.) In thy Power or Commiſſion, to be done by thy Hand, and the Rod in it. a That he ſhall be unmerciful to all the Groans and Preſſures of the Iſraelites, inexorable to the requeſts of Moſes, unmoveable and incorrigible by all my Words and Works. But God doth not properly and poſitively make Mens hearts hard, but only privatively, either by denying to them, or withdrawing from them that Grace, which alone can make Men ſoft, and flexible, and pliable to the Divine Will; as the Sun hardens the Clay by drawing out of it that moiſture which made it ſoft; or by expoſing them to thoſe Temptations of the World, or the Devil, which meeting with a corrupt heart are apt to harden it.

* Jer. 9. 18.

22 And thou ſhalt ſay unto Pharaoh, Thus ſaith the LORD, Iſrael is my ſon, * even my firſt-born b.

b By my Choice and Adoption. They are moſt dear to me, and reſerved by me out of all Nations to be my peculiar People; and therefore I will no longer ſuffer thee to invade my Right, nor them to live in the neglect of my Service.

* Chap. 11. 5. 12. 29.

23 And I ſay unto thee c, Let my ſon go, that he may ſerve me: and if thou refuſe to let him go, behold, * I will ſlay thy ſon, even thy firſt-born d.

c I command thee: For ſaying is put for commanding, Luke 4. 3. and 9. 54. and in 1 Chron. 21. 19. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 19. d By which Plague coming after the reſt, thou wilt be enforced to do what I adviſe thee now to do upon cheaper terms.

* Numb. 22. 22.

24 ¶ And it came to paſs by the way in the inn, that the LORD * met him e; and ſought to kill him f.

e (i. e.) Appeared to him in ſome viſible ſhape. f Whom? Moſes, ſpoken of and to before. He offered and endeavoured to kill him, either by inflicting ſome ſudden and dangerous Diſeaſe or ſtroke upon him, or by ſhewing himſelf in ſome threatning poſture, poſſibly as the Angel did to Balaam, and afterwards to David, with a drawn Sword in his hand, ready to give him a deadly blow. The reaſon of this ſeverity was not Moſes his diſtruſt of God, or delay in his journey, nor the bringing of his Wife and Children along with him, (which it was convenient for him to carry with him, both that his Father might not think he intended to deſert them, and for the greater aſſurance and encouragement of the Iſraelites, when they ſaw that he expoſed his deareſt Relations to the ſame hazards with them all) but the neglect of circumciſing his Child, which alſo the Lord ſome way or other ſignified to Moſes and Zipporah, as plainly appears, 1. From Zipporah's following fact upon that occaſion. 2. From the Lord's Diſmiſſion of Moſes upon the Circumciſion of the Child. 3. From the threatning of Death, or cutting off for this Sin, Gen. 17. 14. which, becauſe there was now no Magiſtrate to do it, God himſelf offers to execute it, as he ſometimes ſaith he would do in that caſe. And this was a greater Sin in Moſes than in another Man, and at this time than it had been before, becauſe he underſtood the Will and Law of God about it better than any man, and God had lately minded him of that Covenant of his with Abraham, &c. whereof Circumciſion was a Seal; the Bleſſings and Benefits of which Covenant Moſes was now going to procure for himſelf and for his People, whileſt he remained under the guilt of groſly neglecting the Condition of it. Beſides, what could be more abſurd than that he ſhould come to be a Lawgiver, who lived in a manifeſt violation of God's Law? or that he ſhould be the chief Ruler and Inſtructer of the Iſraelites, whoſe duty it was to acquaint them with their Duty of circumciſing their Children, and as far as he could, to puniſh the wilful neglect of it, and yet at the ſame time be guilty of the ſame Sin? or that he ſhould undertake to govern the Church of God, that could not well rule his own Houſe, 1 Tim. 3. 5.? And this was not only a great Sin in it ſelf, but a great Scandal to the Iſraelites, who might by this great Example eaſily be led into the ſame miſcarriage; and moreover might not without colour of probability ſuſpect the Call of ſuch a Perſon, and conclude that God would not honour that Man who ſhould continue in ſuch a viſible contempt of his Law. And therefore it is no wonder that God was ſo angry at Moſes for this Sin. Queſt. How came Moſes to neglect this evident Duty? Anſ. From Zipporah's averſeneſs to, and dread of that painful, and as ſhe thought, dangerous Ordinance of God, which ſhe her ſelf evidently diſcovers in this place; and the rather becauſe of the experience which ſhe had of it in her eldeſt Son. And as ſhe ſeems to have been a Woman of an eager and paſſionate temper, ſo Moſes was eminently meek and pliable, and in this matter too indulgent to his Wife, eſpecially in her Father's Houſe, and therefore he put it off till a more convenient ſeaſon, when he might either perſuade or over-rule her therein. Which was a great fault, for God had obliged all the Children of Abraham not only to the thing, but to the time alſo, to do it upon the eighth day, which Seaſon Moſes had groſly, and for ſome conſiderable time ſlipped, and ſo had preferred the pleaſing of his Wife before his Obedience to God.

† Or, knife. * Heb. made it touch. 25 Then Zipporah g took a ſharp † ſtone h, and cut off the foreskin of her ſon, and * caſt it at his feet i, and ſaid, Surely a bloody husband art thou to me k.

g Perceiving the danger of her Husband, and the cauſe of it, and her Husband being diſenabled from performing that work, whether by ſome ſtroke or ſickneſs, or by the terrour of ſo diſmal and unexpected an Apparition to him, and delays being highly dangerous, ſhe thought it better to do it her ſelf as well as ſhe could, rather than put it off a moment longer; whether becauſe the adminiſtration of that Sacrament was not confined to any kind or order of perſons, or becauſe, if it was ſo, ſhe did not apprehend it to be ſo, or becauſe ſhe thought this was the leaſt of two evils; and that it was ſafer to commit a circumſtantial Error, than to continue in a ſubſtantial Fault. h Which ſhe took as next at hand in that ſtony Country. Let none think this ſtrange, for not only this work, but the cutting off of that part, which ſome uſed to do, was commonly performed with a Flint, or a ſharp Stone, as is expreſly affirmed by Herodotus, l. 2. Plin. 35. 12. See alſo Juvenal, Sat. 6. and Martial. Epigram. 3. 18. But the word may be rendred, a ſharp Knife. See Joſ. 5. 2, 3. i The words are very ſhort, and therefore ambiguous, and may be rendred, either thus, ſhe caſt her ſelf at his feet, either 1. At the feet of the Angel, as a Supplicant for her Husband's Life. But it is moſt probable that ſhe directs this Action and her following Speech to the ſame perſon. Or 2. The feet of her Husband, to make requeſt to him, that ſhe and her Children might depart from him, and return to her Father, which alſo he granted. But neither was ſhe of ſo humble a temper, nor at this time in ſo mild a frame, as to put her ſelf into ſuch a lowly poſture to her Husband, nor was ſhe likely to preſent her humble ſupplication to him, to whom at the ſame time ſhe ſhewed ſuch ſcorn and indignation. Or rather thus, ſhe caſt it at his, i. e. her Husband's feet: it, either the Child. But that being tender, and now in great pain, ſhe would not uſe it ſo roughly: Or rather the foreskin cut off, or at leaſt the blood which came from it; which ſhe did in ſpight and anger againſt her Husband, as the cauſe of ſo much pain to the Child, and grief to herſelf. k This ſome think ſhe ſpake to the Child, whom ſhe calls her Spouſe, as ſome late Rabbins affirm the Infant uſed to be called, when it was circumciſed; though they bring no competent proof for this uſage; or her Son, as the Hebrew word chathan ſignifies. But indeed that ſignifies only a Son in-law, as 1 Sam 18. 18. which is not true nor proper here. Yet ſome make theſe to be the form or ſolemn words uſed in Circumciſion, Thou art a Spouſe, or a Son of bloods to me, i. e. made ſo to me by the blood of Circumciſion. But it doth not appear that this was the uſual form. Now was it likely, that ſhe being a Midianitiſh, not an Hebrew Woman, and doing this ſuddenly, and in a rage, ſhould be ſo expert to know, and ſo punctual to uſe the right form of words, when ſhe did not uſe a fit and decent carriage in the action, as appears by her caſting it at his feet. It is therefore more probable ſhe ſpoke thus to her Husband. And becauſe ſhe durſt not accuſe God, the Author of this work, ſhe falls foul upon her Husband as the occaſion of it, and as a coſtly and bloody Husband to her, whoſe endangered Life ſhe was forced to redeem with blood, even the blood of her little Child, by which as he received a new Life after a ſort, ſo ſhe did anew, and the ſecond time eſpouſe him; whence ſhe calls him chathan, which properly ſignifies a Spouſe, not an Husband.

26 So he let him go l: then ſhe ſaid, A bloody husband thou art, becauſe of the circumciſion m.

l Or, He, i. e. God, or the deſtroying Angel ſent from God, departed from him, i. e. from Moſes, and removed the tokens of God's indignation, the ſickneſs or ſtroke laid upon him. m She both repeats and amplifies her former Cenſure, and reproacheth not only her Husband, but alſo God's Ordinance. Which perverſe and obſtinate Spirit her Husband obſerving in her, and wiſely forecaſting how much diſturbance ſhe might give him in his great and difficult work in Egypt, he thought fit to ſend her and her Children back to her Father, as appears from Exodus 18. 1, 2, 3. In the Hebrew it is becauſe of the circumciſions, to wit, of her two Sons, who poſſibly were both circumciſed at this time, tho' it be not ſo expreſſed; but one being mentioned for an example, we are left to ſuppoſe the like concerning the other; Or, the circumciſion of this Child brings the other to her remembrance, and ſo ſhe upbraids him with both. Only this doth more provoke her than it ſeems the other did, becauſe ſhe was forced to do this ſpeedily, and with her own hands, and that to a tender Infant; whereas the elder peradventure was circumciſed when he was more grown and ſtrong, and able to bear the pain. Let none think it ſtrange that Zipporah ſhould quarrel ſo much at Circumciſion, becauſe the Midianites were deſcended from Abraham, and therefore were circumciſed. For if they were ſo, it was done when they were grown up, about the 13th year of their age, from the example of Iſhmael, who was circumciſed at that age. But indeed it is more likely, that thoſe people, being caſt out of God's Covenant, as to the benefit of it, would, and did in a little time, throw off the ſign of it, as having much more of pain and danger in it, than of uſe and priviledge.

27 And the LORD ſaid to Aaron, Go into the wilderneſs to meet Moſes. And he went and met him
* Chap. 3. 1. in * the mount of God, and kiſſed him.

28 And Moſes told Aaron all the words of the LORD, who had ſent him, and all the ſigns which he had commanded him.

29 And Moſes and Aaron went, and gathered together all the elders of the children of Iſrael n.

n All of them whom they could eaſily and quickly bring together, or all that were in thoſe parts. Of thoſe Elders, ſee Exod. 3. 16. and 24. 1, 9. and Numb. 11. 16.

30 And Aaron ſpake o all the words which the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes, and did p the ſigns in the ſight of the people.

o Thus beginning to execute the Office which God had put upon him, which was to be Moſes his mouth, or Spokeſman. p (i. e.) Aaron did them, as Moſes's Miniſter, or by the command and direction of Moſes.

31 And the people believed: and when they heard that the LORD had viſited q the children of Iſrael, and that he had looked upon their affliction, then * they * Chap. 12.
bowed their heads and worſhipped r. 27.

q (i. e.) Taken cognizance of their Cauſe and Condition, and reſolved to deliver them. r Acknowledging, and adoring the kindneſs and faithfulneſs of God therein.

CHAP. V.

Moſes and Aaron entreateth Pharaoh to let the people go, 1. Pharaoh's blaſphemous refuſal, 2, 3. Chides Moſes and Aaron for their requeſt, 4. Pharaoh, ſeeing the Iſraelites to be many, 5. commands the task-maſters and officers to encreaſe their bondage, 6——9. The task-maſters go and do as Pharaoh commands, 10, 11. The ſcattering of the people throughout Egypt, 12. The task-maſters cruelty to the officers of the Iſraelites, 14. The officers complaint to Pharaoh, 15. He upbraids 'em with idleneſs, 17. His harſh anſwer, 18. The officers of the children of Iſrael meet Moſes and Aaron, and blame 'em, 20, 21. Moſes returns and complains to God, 22.

AND afterward Moſes and Aaron a went in, and told Pharaoh b: Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Let my people go, that they may hold a feaſt c unto me in the wilderneſs.

a And with them ſome of the Elders of Iſrael, as may ſeem from Exod. 3. 18. though here only the two Chiefs be mentioned. Or, becauſe Moſes did not ſeem to be ſatisfied with the aſſiſtance of the Elders before offered him, Exod 3. 18. God was pleaſed to give him a more acceptable Aſſiſtant in their ſtead, even Aaron his Brother, Exod 4. 14. b Either both ſucceſſively told him; or Aaron did it immediately, and with his tongue, Moſes by his Interpreter, and by his command. c Or, offer a Sacrifice, as they expreſs it, v. 3. and chap. 10. 9. For both went together, and a good part of many Sacrifices was ſpent in feaſting before the Lord, and unto the honour of the Lord. See Deut. 12. 6, 7, 11, 12.

2 And Pharaoh ſaid, * Who is the LORD, that I * Job 21.
ſhould obey his voice d to let Iſrael go? I know not 15.
the LORD, neither will I let Iſrael go.

d I am the Sovereign Lord of Egypt, and I own no ſuperiour here.

3 And they ſaid, The God of the Hebrews hath met with us e; Let us go, we pray thee, three days journey into the deſart, and ſacrifice unto the LORD our God, leſt he fall upon us f with peſtilence, or with the ſword.

e (i. e.) Hath appeared to us lately, and laid this command upon us. Others, is called upon us, i. e. his name is called upon us, or we are called by his name. But why ſhould Moſes ſo ſolemnly tell that to Pharaoh which all the people knew, to wit, that the Hebrews did worſhip the God of the Hebrews? And our Tranſlation is confirmed by comparing this with Exod 3. 18. where this very Meſſage is preſcribed. f Leſt he puniſh, either us, if we diſobey his command, or thee, if thou hindereſt us from obeying it: But this latter they only imply, as being eaſily gathered from the former.

4 And the King of Egypt ſaid unto them, Wherefore do ye, Moſes and Aaron, let the people from their works? Get you unto your burdens g.

g Either 1. Ye, the Elders of Iſrael, who are here come with Moſes and Aaron; ſee ver. 1. Or, 2. Ye, Moſes and Aaron. So far am I from granting the Liberty which you deſire for the people, that as a juſt puniſhment upon you for your ſeditious Attempt, I command you alſo to go with the reſt, and to take your ſhare in their burthens, and to perform the Task which ſhall be required of you. And that ſo cruel a Tyrant did not proceed further againſt them, muſt be aſcribed to the mighty power of God, who governs the Spirits, and reſtrains the hands of the greateſt Kings, when he pleaſeth.

5 And Pharaoh ſaid, Behold, the people of the land now are many h, and you make them reſt from their burdens.

h The Iſraelites in this Land are very numerous, and therefore it were a madneſs in me to permit them all to meet and go together, as you deſire, which may tend to the ruin of my whole Kingdom; and probably it is deſigned by you to that purpoſe. Or, Therefore your injury to me is the greater, in attempting to rob me of the benefit of their Labours. This I prefer, becauſe it ſuits beſt with the following words.

6 And Pharaoh commanded the ſame day the task-maſters of the peoole, and their officers *, ſaying,

* The Task-maſters were Egyptians, and the Officers were Iſraelites, Under-officers to them, ver. 14, 15, 19.

7 Ye ſhall no more give the people ſtraw to make brick i as heretofore: let them go and gather ſtraw for themſelves.

i The Straw was uſed either to mingle with the Clay, that it might not be too brittle; or to cover the Clay when it was formed into Bricks, that the heat of the Sun might not dry them too much, which might eaſily be done in that hot Country; or for fewel, either wholly, or in part, to burn their Bricks with, Straw being abundant there, and much uſed for that purpoſe.

8 And the tale of the bricks which they did make heretofore ye ſhall lay upon them: you ſhall not diminiſh ought thereof: for they be idle, therefore they cry, ſaying, Let us go and ſacrifice to our God.

† Heb. let the work be heavy upon the men.

9 † Let there more work be laid upon the men, that they may labour therein, and let them not regard vain words k.

k The words of Moſes and Aaron, which are vain, or falſe, i. e. which they falſly pretend to come from God, when it is only an ill deſign of their own to advance themſelves by raiſing ſedition.

10 And the task-maſters of the people went out, and their officers, and they ſpake to the people, ſaying, Thus ſaith Pharaoh, I will not give you ſtraw.

11 Go ye, get you ſtraw where you can find it: yet not ought of your work ſhall be diminiſhed.

12 So the people were ſcattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt *, to gather ſtubble inſtead of ſtraw.

* (i. e) All that part of it; which is a very uſual Synecdoche.

13 And the task-maſters haſted them, ſaying, Fulfil your works, your † daily tasks, as when there was ſtraw.

14 And the officers of the children of Iſrael, which Pharaoh's task-maſters had ſet over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick, both yeſterday, and to day, as heretofore?

15 Then the officers of the children of Iſrael came and cried unto Pharaoh, ſaying, Wherefore dealeſt thou thus with thy ſervants?

16 There is no ſtraw given unto thy ſervants, and they ſay to us, Make brick: and behold, thy ſervants are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people l.

l (i. e.) The Egyptian Task-maſters, who by ſending us abroad to gather Straw, hinder us from doing the work which they require; And ſo they are both unjuſt and unreaſonable. They charge the Task-maſters, not the King, either in civility and duty, caſting his fault upon the Inſtruments; or becauſe they did not know, or at beſt not believe that this was the King's Act. Others. Thy people, i. e. the Egyptians, make themſelves guilty, and will bring the vengeance of God upon them for their cruelty.

17 But he ſaid, Ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye ſay, Let us go and do ſacrifice to the LORD.

18 Go therefore now and work, for there ſhall no ſtraw be given you: yet ſhall ye deliver the tale of bricks.

19 And the officers of the children of Iſrael did ſee that they were in evil caſe m, after it was ſaid, Ye ſhall not miniſh ought from your bricks of your daily task.

m Or, looked upon them with ſadneſs, or with an evil eye, i. e. with a ſorrowful and angry countenance, as thoſe that could obtain no relaxation for themſelves, or for their Brethren.

20 And they met Moſes and Aaron, who ſtood in the way, as they † came forth from Pharaoh:

† The Officers who went to pour out their complaints to Pharaoh, ver. 15.

21 And they ſaid unto them, The LORD look upon you, and judge, becauſe you have made our ſavour † to be abhored in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his ſervants, to put a ſword in their hand to ſlay us n.

† Heb. to ſtink. Gen. 34. 30.

n To give them, what they have long ſought and thirſted after, to wit, an occaſion to deſtroy and root us out.

22 And Moſes returned unto the LORD o, and ſaid, LORD, wherefore haſt thou ſo evil intreated this people p? Why is it that thou haſt ſent me?

o To expoſtulate with him, and pray to him. To the people he ſaith nothing, but meekly paſſeth by their ſevere Cenſures, as forced from them by intolerable oppreſſion; and becauſe their minds being now imbitter'd and exaſperated, they were uncapable of admonition. p By giving occaſion to their greater bondage. He expoſtulates the matter with God, not from pride and arrogance, as one that would cenſure and condemn his Actions, but from zeal for God's glory, and his Peoples happineſs, as one that would prevail with God to relieve them. Though it muſt be confeſſed that Moſes exceeded his bounds, being tranſported with grief and paſſion, which the gracious God was pleaſed to paſs by.

23 For ſince I came to Pharaoh to ſpeak in thy Name q, he hath done evil to this people, neither haſt thou † delivered thy people at all r.

† Heb. delivering thou haſt not delivered.

q Not of my own head, but by thy command and commiſſion. r According to thy promiſe and mine, and thy peoples juſt expection.

2 And God ſpake unto Moſes, and ſaid unto him, I am the LORD.

* Queſt. How is this true, when God was known to them, and called by the name Jehovah, Gen. 15. 7. and 26. 24. &c.? Anſw. 1. He ſpeaks not of the Letters or Syllables, but of the thing ſignified by that name. For that denotes all his his Perfections, and, amongſt others, the eternity, conſtancy, and immutability of his Nature and Will, and the infallible certainty of his Word and Promiſes. And this, ſaith he, though it was believed by Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, yet it was not experimentally known to them; for they only ſaw the Promiſes afar off, Heb. 11. 13. Anſw. 2. This negative Expreſſion may be underſtood comparatively, as many others are, as Gen. 32. 29. Matth. 9. 13. 1 Cor. 1. 17. q. d. They knew this but darkly and imperfectly, which will now be made known more clearly and fully.

4 And I have alſo eſtabliſhed my covenant with them, * to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they were ſtrangers.

* Gen. 8. and 4.

5 And * I have alſo heard the groaning of the children of Iſrael, whom the Egyptians keep in bondage, and I have remembred my covenant.

* Chap. 24.

6 Wherefore ſay unto the children of Iſrael, I am the LORD, and I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will rid you out of their bondage, and I will redeem you with a ſtretched out arm b, and with great judgments c.

b (i. e.) My Almighty Power. A Metaphor from a man that ſtretcheth out his Arm, and puts forth all his ſtrength to give the greater blow. c (i. e.) Puniſhments juſtly inflicted upon them, as the word judging and judgments is oft uſed, as Gen. 15. 14. 2 Chron. 20. 12. Prov. 19. 29.

7 And I will take you to me for a people d, and I will be to you a God e: and ye ſhall know that I am the LORD your God, which bringeth you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians.

d (i. e.) For my People; ye ſhall no longer be the People and Slaves of the King of Egypt, but my People and Servants, whom I will bleſs and preſerve. e To judge and deliver you.

f And therefore have Authority and Power to diſpoſe of Lands and Kingdoms as I pleaſe; and faithful to give you what I have promiſed.

9 And Moſes ſpake ſo unto the children of Iſrael: but they hearkened not unto Moſes for † anguiſh of ſpirit g, and for cruel bondage.

Gen. 14. and 26. 3. 35. 11.
† Heb. ſhortneſs ſtraitneſs

g Their minds were ſo oppreſſed with their preſent burthens and future expections, that they could not believe nor hope for any deliverance, but deemed it impoſſible; and having been once deceived in their hopes, they now quite deſpaired, and thought their entertainment of new hopes, or uſe of further endeavours, would make their condition worſe, as it had done.

10 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

11 Go in, ſpeak unto Pharaoh King of Egypt, that he let the children of Iſrael go out of his land.

12 And Moſes ſpake before the LORD, ſaying, Behold the children of Iſrael have not hearkened unto me, how then ſhall Pharaoh hear me, * who am of uncircumciſed lips h?

* Chap. 10.

h (i. e.) Of polluted lips. Uncircumciſion being a great defect and blemiſh, whereby men were rendred profane, contemptible, and unfit for many Services and Priviledges; may note any defect, whether moral, and of the Spirit; or natural, and of the Body. So here it notes Moſes his inability to cloath God's Commands in ſuch words as might prevail with Pharaoh. But this was a great weakneſs of faith, as if God could not effect his purpoſe, becauſe the Inſtrument was unfit.

13 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, and gave them a charge unto the children of Iſrael, and unto Pharaoh King of Egypt to bring the children of Iſrael out of the land of Egypt.

* Gen. 9. 1 Chro 3.

i This Genealogy he deſcribes here, to ſhew the Lineage of Moſes and Aaron, by whom this great work was to be effected. Only he premiſeth in brief the Genealogy of his two elder Brethren, Reuben and Simeon, to make way for the third, which he intended more largely to inſiſt upon. And he mentions them rather than any other, either to advance the favour of God in preferring that Tribe before the Deſcendants of their elder Brethren; or to ſhew that, although the Parents were ſharply cenſured, and rather curſed than bleſſed by Jacob, Gen. 49. yet their Poſterity was not rejected by God, but received to mercy, and admitted to the ſame priviledge with their Brethren.

m A Prince of the Tribe of Judah, Numb. 1. 7. and 2. 3. Marriages were not yet confined to their own Tribes; and when they were, the Levites ſeem to have had this priviledge, that they might marry a Daughter of any other Tribe, becauſe indeed the reaſon of that Law did not concern them, there being no danger of confuſion, or loſs of inheritance on their part. And eſpecially there were many Marriages made between the Tribes of Judah and Levi, to ſignify that both were united in Chriſt, who was to be both King and Prieſt. It is obſervable, that Moſes is here ſilent in his own Progeny, but gives a particular account of his Brother's, not only from his great humility and modeſty, which ſhines forth in many other paſſages, but becauſe it was of more concernment, and the honour of Prieſthood given to Aaron was to be hereditary, and peculiar to his Seed, and therefore it was neceſſary they ſhould be exactly known; whereas Moſes his Honour and Government was only perſonal, and did not paſs to his Children.

n (i. e.) According to their numerous Families, which were equal to great Armies, and which went out of Egypt, like ſeveral Armies in military order, and with great power. See Exod. 12. 41, 51. and 13. 18. and 14. 8.

27 Theſe are they which ſpake to Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring out the children of Iſrael from Egypt: Theſe are that Aaron and Moſes.

28 And it came to paſs, on the day when the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the land of Egypt, 29 That the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, I am the LORD, ſpeak thou unto Pharaoh King of Egypt, all that I ſay unto thee.

30 And Moſes ſaid before the LORD, Behold, I am of uncircumciſed lips, and how ſhall Pharaoh hearken unto me?

CHAP. VII.

God encourages Moſes to ſpeak to Pharaoh, 1. God foretells the hardneſs of Pharaoh's heart, 3. That he might multiply his wonders in Egypt, 4. to declare to the Egyptions, that he only is the Lord, 5. Moſes and Aaron obey God's command, 6. Their Age, 7. God commands them to ſhew a miracle for the confirmation of their authority, 8, 9. Their rod turn'd into a ſerpent, 10. The magicians do the ſame, 11. Aaron's rod devoureth theirs, 12. Pharaoh is hard'ned, as the Lord had ſaid, 13. And refuſeth to let the people go, 14. God denounces judgments on the Egyptians, 17, 18. Commands Moſes and Aaron to ſtretch out their hands over the waters. The waters are turned into blood, 20. The fiſh die, and the rivers ſtink, 21. The Magicians do the ſame, whereby Pharaoh's heart is hard'ned, 22. The means they uſed againſt this plague, 24. The continuance of it, 25.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, See, I have made thee a god to Pharaoh a: and Aaron thy brother ſhall be thy Prophet b.

a To repreſent my perſon, to act like God, by requiring his obedience to thy Commands, and by puniſhing his diſobedience with ſuch puniſhments as none but God can inflict, to which end thou ſhalt have my Omnipotent Aſſiſtance. b (i. e.) Thy Interpreter, or Spokeſman (as Chap. 4. 16.) to deliver thy Commands to Pharaoh.

2 Thou ſhalt ſpeak all that I command thee, and Aaron thy brother ſhall ſpeak unto Pharaoh, that he ſend c the children out of his land.

c Heb. and he will ſend or diſmiſs, to wit, at laſt, being forced to it. Succeſs ſhall attend your Endeavours.

3 And I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and multiply my ſigns, and my wonders in the land of Egypt.

4 But Pharaoh ſhall not hearken unto you, that I may lay my hand upon Egypt, and bring forth mine armies, and my people the children of Iſrael out of the land of Egypt, * by great judgments. * Chap. 6. 6.

5 And the Egyptians ſhall know that I am the LORD, when I ſtretch forth mine hand upon Egypt, and bring out the children of Iſrael from among them.

6 And Moſes and Aaron did as the LORD commanded them, ſo did they d.

d An emphatical repetition, to ſhew their Courage in attempting to ſay, and do ſuch things to ſo great a Monarch in his own Dominions, and their fidelity in the execution of all God's commands.

7 And Moſes was fourſcore years old, and Aaron fourſcore and three years old, when they ſpoke unto Pharaoh e.

e The Ages of Moſes and Aaron here, as of Levi and Kohath chapter 6. 16, 18 and before them of Jacob and Joſeph, are ſo exactly ſet down, that thence we may underſtand the accompliſhment of God's prediction, Gen. 15. 13. and the time of Iſraels being in Egypt.

8 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

9 When Pharaoh ſhall ſpeak unto you, ſaying, Shew a miracle for you: then thou ſhalt ſay unto Aaron f, * Take thy rod g, and caſt it before Pharaoh, and it ſhall become a ſerpent h. * Chap. 4, 2, 17.

f By whoſe hands this and other Miracles were to be done, and not by Moſes immediately; partly to take off the ſuſpicion that theſe Miracles were wrought by ſome magical Artifice of Moſes; and partly for the greater honour of Moſes, that he might be what God had ſaid, verſe 1. A God to Pharaoh, who not only could work Wonders himſelf, but alſo give Power to others to do ſo. g The ſame Rod is called the rod of God, and of Moſes, and of Aaron, here and v. 12. becauſe it was appointed, and as it were conſecrated by God, and uſed both by Moſes and Aaron in their great Works. And this Rod Moſes ordinarily held in his hand, and delivered it to Aaron upon occaſion for the execution of his commands. h Heb. A Dragon, which is a great Serpent. Others, a Crocodile, to whoſe Jaws he had expoſed the Iſraelitiſh Infants.

10 ¶ And Moſes and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and they did ſo as the LORD had commanded: and Aaron caſt down his rod before Pharaoh, and before his ſervants, and it became a ſerpent.

11 Then Pharaoh alſo called the wiſe-men *, and the ſorcerers: now the magicians i of Egypt, they alſo did in like manner k with their inchantments.

* Under which general Title he ſeems to comprehend all who were moſt eminent in any ſort of Wiſdom, either Natural, or Civil, or Divine, who were all called to give their Opinion and Advice in theſe Matters. i The ſame now called Sorcerers, who acted by the power of the Devil, whom by certain Rites and Ceremonies they engaged to their aſſiſtance. Of theſe the two chief were Jannes and Jambres, 2 Tim. 3. 8. k In ſhew and appearance, which was not difficult for the Devil to do, either by altering the air and the ſpectatours ſight, and by cauſing their Rods both to look and move like Serpents; or by a ſudden and ſecret conveyance of real Serpents thither, and removing the Rods. Nor is it ſtrange that God permitted thoſe deluſions, partly becauſe it was a juſt puniſhment upon the Egyptians for their horrid and manifold Idolatry, and barbarous Cruelty towards the Iſraelites, and their other Wickedneſs; and partly becauſe there was a ſufficient difference made between their Impoſtures, and the real Miracles wrought by Moſes and Aaron, as appears from the next verſe, and from chapter 8. 18. and from other paſſages. And this is a great evidence of the truth of Scripture Story, and that it was not written by fiction and deſign. For if Moſes had written theſe Books to deceive the World, and to advance his own Reputation, (as ſome have impudently ſaid) it is ridiculous to think that he would have put in this, and many other paſſages, which might ſeem ſo much to eclipſe his honour, and the glory of his Works.

12 For they caſt down every man his rod, and they became ſerpents l: but Aarons rod ſwallowed up their rods m.

l Either 1. in appearance. For the Scripture oft ſpeaks of things otherwiſe then they are, becauſe they ſeem to be ſo. And therefore as the Devil appearing to Saul in the likeneſs of Samuel, is called Samuel; ſo may theſe Rods upon the ſame account be called Serpents;

pents, becauſe through Diabolical illuſion they ſeemed to be ſo. Or 2. really, in manner expreſſed, verſe 11. m By which it was evident, either that Aaron's Rod was turned into a real Serpent, becauſe it had the real properties and effects of a Serpent, viz. to devour; or, at leaſt, that the God of Iſrael was infinitely more powerful than the Egyptian Idols, or Devils.

13 And he † hardened Pharaoh's heart that he hearkened not unto them, * as the LORD had ſaid. * Chap. 4. 21.

† The Lord, to whom this act of hardening is frequently aſcribed both in this Book and elſewhere.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Pharaoh's heart is hardened n: he refuſeth to let the people go. * Chap. 8. 15 and 10. 1,20,27.

n Is obſtinate, and reſolved in his way, ſo as neither my Word nor Works can make any impreſſion upon him.

15 Get thee unto Pharaoh in the morning, lo he goeth out unto the water o, and thou ſhalt ſtand by the rivers brink, againſt he come: and the rod which was turned to a ſerpent, ſhalt thou take into thine hand.

o (i. e) Nilus, whither he went at that time, either for his Recreation; or to pay his Morning-worſhip to that River, which the Egyptians had in great Veneration, as Plutarch teſtifies.

16 ¶ And thou ſhalt ſay unto him, The LORD God of the Hebrews hath ſent me unto thee, ſaying, Let my people go, * that they may ſerve me in the wilderneſs: and behold, hitherto thou wouldeſt not hear. * Chap. 3. 12,18. and 5. 1,3.

17 Thus ſaith the LORD, In this thou ſhalt know that I am the LORD p: * Behold, I will ſmite q with the rod that is in my hand, upon the waters which are in the river r, and they ſhall be turned * to blood s. * Chap. 4. 9. * Rev. 16. 6.

p Becauſe thou ſaidſt, Who is the Lord? and I know not the Lord, chap. 5. 2. thou ſhalt know him experimentally, and to thy coſt. q viz. By Aaron's hand, who ſhall do it by my command and direction. Thus Pilate is ſaid to give Chriſt's body to Joſeph, Mark 15. 45. becauſe he commanded it to be delivered by others to him. The ſame action is aſcribed to the principal and inſtrumental Cauſe. r Nilus, which was one of their principal Gods; and therefore it was inexcuſable in them, that they would not renounce thoſe feeble Gods which were unable to help not only their worſhippers, but even themſelves, nor embrace the ſervice and commands of that God whoſe almighty Power they ſaw and felt. s Which was a very grievous Plague to them; both becauſe it was an eternal diſhonour to their Religion, and becauſe from hence they had both their drink, Deut. 11. 10, 11. Jer. 2. 18 and their meat, Numb. 11. 5. for greater and leſſer Cattle they would not eat, Exod. 8. 26. And it was a very proper puniſhment for them, who had made that River an inſtrument for the execution of their bloody Deſign againſt the Iſraelitiſh Infants, Exod. 1. 22.

18 And the fiſh that is in the river ſhall die, and the river ſhall ſtink, and the Egyptians t ſhall loath u to drink of the water of the river.

t Therefore the Iſraelites were free from this Plague, and thoſe branches of Nilus which they uſed were uncorrupted, when all others were turned into Blood. u Or, ſhall weary themſelves, in running hither and thither in hopes of finding Water in ſome parts, or branches of the River.

19 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and ſtretch out thine hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their ſtreams, upon their rivers, and upon their ponds, and upon all their † pools of water x, that they may become blood, and that there may be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in veſſels of wood, and in veſſels of ſtone. † Heb. gathering of their waters.

x Not that he was to go to every Pool to uſe this Ceremony there, but he ſtretched his Hand and Rod over ſome of them in the name of all the reſt, which he might ſignify either by his words, or by the various motions of his Rod ſeveral ways.

20 And Moſes and Aaron did ſo, as the LORD commanded: and he * lift up the rod, and ſmote the waters that were in the river, in the ſight of Pharaoh, and in the ſight of his ſervants: and all the * waters that were in the river, were turned to blood. * Chap. 17. 5. * Pſal. 78. 44. and 105. 29.

21 And the fiſh that was in the river died: and the river ſtunk, and the Egyptians could not drink of the water of the river, and there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt.

22 * And the magicians of Egypt did ſo with their inchantments y: and Pharaoh's heart was hardened: neither did he hearken unto them, as the LORD had ſaid. * Wiſd. 17. 7.

y It was not difficult for the Devil to convey Blood ſpeedily, and unperceivably, and that in a great quantity, which might ſuffice to infect with a bloody Colour thoſe ſmall parcels of Water which were left for them to ſhew their Art in. Queſt. Whence could they have Water, when all their Waters were turned into Blood? Anſw. 1. It might be had, either 1. by Rain, which at that time God was pleaſed to ſend down either for this purpoſe, or to mitigate the extremity of the Plague, or for other reaſons known to him, though not to us. For that Rain ſometimes falls in Egypt, though not much, nor often, is affirmed by ancient Writers, and late Travellers. Or, 2. From Goſhen, which was not far from the Court, or from ſome Houſes of the Iſraelites, who dwelt amongſt the Egyptians, as appears from many places of this Hiſtory, and who were free from theſe Plagues. See Exod. 8 22. and 9. 26. and 10. 23. and 12. 13. &c. Or, 3. From the pits which they digged, verſe 24. Or, 4. From ſome branch of Nilus, or ſome Veſſels in their Houſes, whoſe Waters were not yet changed: For this change might be wrought not ſuddenly (which is not affirmed in this relation) but by degrees, which God might ſo order for this very end, that the Magicians might have matter for the trial of their experiment.

23 And Pharaoh turned, and went into his houſe, neither did he ſet his heart to this z alſo.

z He did not ſeriouſly conſider it, nor the cauſes or cure of this Plague, and was not much affected with it, becauſe he ſaw this fact exceeded not the Power of his Magicians.

24 And all the Egyptians digged round about the river for water to drink †: for they could not drink of the water of the river.

† It is not much material to us, whether they loſt their Labour, and found only Blood there, as Joſephus affirms; or whether they ſucceeded and found Water there, which ſeems more probable, becauſe theſe come not within the compaſs of Moſes his commiſſion, verſe 17, 19, 20. or whether they found the Water ſomething purified and leſs bloody, though mixed with Blood. But it is obſerveable, that though the Devil could do ſomething which might increaſe the Plague, or imitate it, yet he could do nothing to remove it.

25 And ſeven days were fulfilled † after that the LORD had ſmitten the river.

† Ere all the Waters of Egypt were perfectly free from this infection. Queſt. How could the Egyptians ſubſiſt ſo long without Water? Anſw. 1. Philo tells us that many of them died of this Plague. 2. As the Plague might come on, ſo it might go off by degrees; and ſo the Water, though mixed with Blood, might give them ſome relief. 3. The juyces of Herbs, and other Liquors, which were untouched with this Plague, might refreſh them. 4. They might have ſome Water, either from their Pits, or by Rain from Heaven, as was ſaid before; or from Goſhen; for though it be ſaid, that the Blood was in all their Veſſels, verſe 19 yet it is not ſaid, that all that ſhould afterwards be put into them, ſhould be turned into Blood.

CHAP. VIII.

God ſends Moſes to Pharaoh that he might let the people go, 1. He threatens his denial with a judgment of frogs, 2, 3, 4. Aaron ſtretching forth his rod, Egypt is covered with frogs, 6. The magicians do ſo, 7. Pharaoh calls Moſes and Aaron to intreat the Lord to remove the frogs, and promiſes them to let them go, 8. Moſes and Aaron cries to the Lord to take away the frogs, 12. Which he did 13. Pharaoh's heart ſtill hardned, 15. Aaron ſtretching forth his rod ſmites the duſt, which becomes lice, 17. The magicians attempt the ſame, but could not, 18. Which extorted a confeſſion from them, that this is the finger of God, yet Pharaoh's hardned, 19. Swarms of flies threatned, 20, 21, 22, 23. God fulfils his word, 24. Pharaoh ſends for Moſes and Aaron, and permits a ſacrifice in Egypt, 25. Moſes would go three days into the wilderneſs, 27. Pharaoh permits that, but not far, 28. The flies are removed, 29——31. Pharaoh's hardned, 32.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Go unto Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

2 And if thou refuſe to let them go, behold, I will ſmite all thy borders a with * frogs. * Rev. 16. 13.

a All thy Land, which is within thy borders. A Synecdoche; ſo that word is uſed alſo, Exod. 10. 14, 19. 1 Kings 1. 3. Pſal. 147. 14. Jer. 15. 13. So the gate and the wall are put for the City to which they belong, Gen. 22. 17. Amos 1 7, 10. 14.

3 And the river b ſhall bring forth frogs abundantly, which ſhall go up and come into thine houſe, and into thy bed-chamber c, and upon thy bed, and into the houſe of thy ſervants, and upon thy people, and into thine ovens, and into thy † kneading-troughs. † Or, dough.

b Under which are comprehended all other Rivers, Streams and Ponds, as appears from verſe 5. But the River Nilus is mentioned, becauſe God would make that an inſtrument of their Miſery, in which they moſt gloried, Ezek. 29. 3. and to which they gave divine Honours, and which was the inſtrument of their Cruelty againſt the Iſraelites, chap. 1. 22. c Either becauſe God made the Doors and Windows to fly open, which it is eaſy to believe concerning God, ſeeing that this hath been many times done by evil Angels; or becauſe whenſoever men entred into any Houſe, or any Room of their Houſe, which their occaſions would oft force them to do, the Frogs, being always at their Heels in great numbers, would go in with them. This Plague was worſe than the former, becauſe it was more conſtant and more general; for the former was only in the Waters, and did only moleſt them when they went to drink or uſe the Water; but this infected all Liquors, and all Places, and at all Times, and annoyed all their Senſes with their filthy Subſtance, and Shape, and Noiſe, and Stink, and mingled themſelves with their Meats, and Sauces, and Drinks, and crawling into their Beds made them reſtleſs. And many of them probably were of a more ugly Shape and infectious Nature than ordinary.

4 And the frogs ſhall come up both on thee, and upon thy people d, and upon all thy ſervants.

d Not upon the Iſraelites, whom he hereby exempts from the number of Pharaoh's People and Subjects, and owns them for his peculiar People. The Frogs did not only invade their Houſes, but aſſault their Perſons, which is not ſtrange, conſidering that they were armed with a divine Commiſſion and Power.

5 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes e, Say unto Aaron, Stretch forth thine hand with thy rod over the ſtreams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cauſe frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt.

e By inward inſtinct or ſuggeſtion to his Mind; for he was now in the King's preſence.

6 And Aaron ſtretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, and * the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt.

* Pſal. 78. 45. and 105. 30.

7 * And the Magicians did ſo with their inchantments f, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt.

* Wiſd. 17. 7.

f Nor was it hard for the Devil to produce them out of their own ſpawn, and the ſlime of the River.

8 ¶ Then Pharaoh called for Moſes and Aaron, and ſaid, Intreat the LORD, that he may take away the frogs from me, and from my people; and I will let the people go, that they may do ſacrifice unto the LORD.

9 And Moſes ſaid unto Pharaoh, † Glory over me g: * When ſhall I intreat for thee h, and for thy ſervants, and for thy people, to † deſtroy the frogs from thee and thy houſes, that they may remain in the river only?

† Or, have this honour over me. * Or, againſt when. † Heb. to cut off.

g As I have gloried over thee in laying firſt my Commands, and then my Plagues upon thee, ſo now lay thy Commands upon me for the time of my Praying, and if I do not what thou requireſt, I am content thou ſhouldeſt inſult over me, and puniſh me. Or Glory, or boaſt thy ſelf of, or concerning me, as one that by God's Power can do that for thee which all thy Magicians cannot, of whom therefore thou now ſeeſt thou canſt not glory nor boaſt, as thou haſt hitherto done. h Appoint me what time thou pleaſeſt. Hereby he knew that the hand and glory of God would be more conſpicuous in it. And this was no preſumption in Moſes, becauſe he had a large Commiſſion, chap. 7. 1. and alſo had particular direction from God in all that he ſaid or did in theſe matters.

10 And he ſaid, † To morrow i. And he ſaid, Be it according to thy word, that thou mayeſt know that there is none like unto the LORD our God.

† Or, againſt to morrow.

i Why not preſently? Anſw. 1. Becauſe he hoped ere that time they might be removed, either by natural cauſes, or by chance, and ſo he ſhould not need the favour of Moſes, or his God. 2. Becauſe he thought it an hard and long work to remove ſo vaſt a number of Frogs, and that Moſes might uſe divers Ceremonies, as the Magicians did, in his addreſſes to God, which would require ſome conſiderable time.

11 And the frogs ſhall depart from thee, and from thy houſes, and from thy ſervants, and from thy people; they ſhall remain in the river only.

12 And Moſes and Aaron went out from Pharaoh, and Moſes cryed unto the LORD k, becauſe of the frogs which he had brought againſt Pharaoh l.

k Though he was aſſured that the Frogs would depart at his word, yet he would uſe the means appointed by God for the accompliſhment of it. l Or, as the place is fitly rendred by others, becauſe of the word, or matter of, or about the frogs which he had given, or propounded to Pharaoh. Becauſe he had given his word both for the thing and the time of it, he prayed more earneſtly, leſt God ſhould be diſhonoured, and Pharaoh have occaſion of triumph. The Hebrew Verbs to put and to give, are frequently exchanged, as appears by comparing 1 Kings 10. 9. with 2 Chron. 9. 8. and Iſa. 42. 1. with Matth. 12. 18.

13 And the LORD did according to the word of Moſes: and the frogs died out of the houſes m, out of the villages, and out of the fields.

m A ſhort Speech for, they died, and were removed out of, &c. as appears from the next Verſe. It being frequent in the Hebrew Tongue under one Verb expreſſed, to underſtand another agreeable to it. See Examples in the Hebrew, Gen. 43. 33, 34. Exod. 18. 12. and 25. 2. Prov. 25. 22.

14 And they gathered them together upon heaps n, and the land ſtank.

n Which doubtleſs they caſt into their Rivers, or Pits, &c. tho that be not here mentioned. God would not inſtantly and wholly take them away, both to convince them of the truth of the Miracle, and to make them more ſenſible of this judgment, and more fearful of bringing another upon themſelves.

15 But when Pharaoh ſaw that there was reſpite, * he hardened his heart, and hearkened not unto them, as the LORD had ſaid.

* Chap. 7. 14.

16 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Say unto Aaron o, Stretch out thy rod, and ſmite the duſt of the land, that it may become lice p throughout all the land of Egypt.

o God, it ſeems, gave him no warning, becauſe he ſhewed himſelf in the very laſt Plague to be both perfidious and incorrigible. Others think, he was forewarned, though that be not here expreſſed. p So the Hebrew word is rendred by all the Jewiſh, and moſt other Interpreters. But it is probable, that what is ſaid of the Locuſts, Exod. 10. 14. was true of theſe, that they were much more loathſome and troubleſome than ordinary.

17 And they did ſo: for Aaron ſtretched out his hand with his rod, and ſmote the duſt q of the earth, and it became lice, in man and in beaſt: all the duſt of the land * became lice, throughout all the land of Egypt.

q Which was not fit matter to produce Lice, and therefore ſhews this work to be divine and miraculous. * i. e. A great part of it, the word all being commonly ſo underſtood in Scripture.

18 And the Magicians did ſo r with their inchantments to bring forth lice, but they could not s: ſo there were lice upon man and upon beaſt.

r (i. e.) Indeavoured to do ſo. Thus to enter, Matth. 7. 13. is put for ſtriving to enter, Luk. 13. 24. Thus men are ſaid to deliver, Gen. 37. 21. to fight, Joſ. 24. 9. to return, Joſ. 10. 15. when they only attempted or endeavoured to do ſo. And therefore when it is ſaid in any of the Plagues, that the Magicians did ſo, it is not to be underſtood, that they really did the ſame thing, but that they endeavoured to do ſo, and that they did ſomething which looked like it. s It was as eaſie for them to produce Lice as Frogs, but God hindred them, partly to confound them and their deviliſh Arts, and to ſhew, that what they did before was only by his permiſſion; and partly to convince Pharaoh and the Egptians of their vanity in truſting to ſuch impotent Magicians, and in oppoſing that God who could control and confound them when he pleaſed.

19 Then the Magicians ſaid unto Pharaoh, This is * the finger t of God u. And Pharaoh's heart was hardened, and he hearkened not unto them x, as the LORD had ſaid.

* 1 Sam. 6. 9.

t Which is put either Synecdochially for the hand, as it is Exod. 31. 18. Pſal. 8. 3. and 144. 1. or metaphorically for the power or vertue, as Luk. 11. 20. compared with Matth. 12. 28. u Of that Supream God, whom both the Egyptians and other Heathen Idolaters acknowledged as ſuperiour to all men, and Idols, and Devils. This they ſaid, leſt they ſhould be thought inferior to Moſes and Aaron in magical Art. But hereby they own the Sovereign God to be on Iſrael's ſide; and yet, like the Devils, they proceed to fight againſt him. x Either to his Magicians, of whom he laſt ſpake; or rather to Moſes and Aaron, as the following words ſhew. For relatives oft belong to the remoter antecedents, as Gen. 19. 13. 1 Sam. 7. 17. Mark 2. 13.

20 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Riſe up early in the morning, and ſtand before Pharaoh, lo, he cometh forth to the water, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

21 Elſe, if thou wilt not let my people go, behold, I will ſend † ſwarms of flies y upon thee, and upon thy ſervants, and upon thy people, and into thy houſes: and the houſes of the Egyptians ſhall be full of ſwarms of flies, and alſo the ground whereon they are.

† Or, a mixture of noiſome beaſts, &c.

y Heb. a mixture, of Inſects or Flies, as appears from Pſal. 78. 45. which were of various kinds, as Bees, Waſps, Gnats, Hornets, &c. infinite in their numbers, and doubtleſs larger, and more venomous and pernicious than the common ones were.

22 And * I will ſever in that day the land of Goſhen, in which my people dwell, that no ſwarms of flies ſhall be there, to the end that thou mayſt know that I am the LOKD in the midſt of the earth z.

* Chap. 9. 4, 26. and 10. 23. and 12. 13.

z Either 1. of the whole Earth, and conſequently of Egypt, that I am not only the Lord of Iſrael, but of thee and thy Dominions too. God is here ſpoken of after the manner of earthly Princes, who uſe to reſide in the midſt of their Kingdoms, that they may more conveniently rule and influence them. Or rather 2. of Goſhen, the words being properly thus rendred, that I the Lord am in the midſt of that land, to wit, the Land of Goſhen now ſpoken of, to defend and preſerve it. For God is ſaid to be in the midſt of them whom he protects, Deut. 7. 21. and 23. 14. Joſ. 3. 10. Pſal. 46. 5. and not to be in the midſt of others whom he forſakes, and deſigns or threatens to deſtroy, Num. 14. 42. Deut. 1. 42. and 31. 17. Compare Exod. 33. 3. with 34. 9.

23 And I will put † a diviſion a between my people, and thy people: * to morrow ſhall this ſign be b.

† Heb. a redemption. * Or, by to morrow.

a Heb. a redemption or deliverance, i. e. a token or mean of deliverance, by a Metonimy; a wall of partition, by which I will preſerve the Iſraelites, whilſt I deſtroy the Egyptians. b This he ſaith, partly to gain the more belief to himſelf in what he now did or ſhould further ſpeak in God's name to them; and partly to warn them of their danger, and make their diſobedience more inexcuſable.

24 And the LORD did ſo c: and * there came a grievous ſwarm of flies d into the houſe of Pharaoh, and into his ſervants houſes, and into all the land of Egypt: the land e was † corrupted by reaſon of the ſwarm of flies.

* Wiſd. 16. 9. Pſal. 105. 31. † Or, deſtroyed.

c Immediately by his own word, and not by Moſes his rod, leſt the Egyptians ſhould think it was a Magician's Wand, and that all Moſes his Works were done by the power of the Devil. d Heb. an heavy mixture of Flies: Heavy, i. e. either great, as this Hebrew word is uſed, Gen. 41. 31. Iſa. 32. 2. or miſchievous and troubleſome; or rather, numerous, as it is taken, Gen. 50. 9. Num. 11. 14. 1 King. 3. 9. compared with 2 Chron. 1. 10. e (i. e.) Either the Fruits or products of the Land; or rather, the Inhabitants of the Land, as the word land is taken, Gen 41. 36. 1 Sam. 27. 9. many of the people were poiſoned, or ſtung to death by them, as appears from Pſal. 78. 45. See alſo the Book of Wiſdom, chap. 16. 9.

25 And Pharaoh called for Moſes and for Aaron, and ſaid, Go ye, ſacrifice to your God in the land.

26 And Moſes ſaid, It is not meet f ſo to do: for we ſhall ſacrifice the * abomination of the Egyptians g to the LORD our God: Lo, ſhall we ſacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, and will they not ſtone us h?

* Gen 43. 32. and 46. 34.

f Heb. not right, neither in God's eyes, who hath appointed us the place, as well as the thing; nor in the Egyptians eyes, as it follows. g That which the Egyptians abhor to kill, or to ſee killed; as not only Scripture, but profane Authors, as Diodorus, and Tully, and Juvenal, witneſs, becauſe they worſhipped them as Gods, as is notoriouſly known. h It was a juſt fear. For when once a Roman had but killed a Cat, though imprudently, the people tumultuouſly met together, and beſet his Houſe, and killed him in ſpight of the King and his Princes, who uſed their utmoſt power and diligence to prevent it.

27 We will go * three days journey into the wilderneſs, and ſacrifice to the LORD our God, as * he ſhall command us i.

* Chap. 3. 12.
* Chap. 3. 18.

i For we know not what kind or number of Sacrifices to offer to him, till we come thither.

28 And Pharaoh ſaid, I will let you go, that ye may ſacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderneſs: only you ſhall not go very far away: intreat for me.

29 And Moſes ſaid, Behold, I go out from thee, and I will intreat the Lord that the ſwarms of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people to morrow: but let not Pharaoh deal deceitfully any more, in not letting the people go to ſacrifice unto the LORD.

30 And Moſes went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD.

31 And the LORD did according to the word of Moſes: and he removed the ſwarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people: there remained not one.

32 And Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time alſo, neither would he let the people go.

CHAP. IX.

God threatens to ſmite his cattle with a peſtilence, 1——3. But ſpares Iſrael's, 4. Appoints a time for the execution hereof, 5. wherein the Egyptians cattle dies, 6. Pharaoh's obſtinacy, 7. God ſtrikes all Egypt with boils, which is the ſixth plague, 10. The Magicians are not able to ſtand before Moſes, 11. Pharaoh's heart hardned according to the word of the Lord, 12. God commands Moſes to repeat his meſſage, 13. and threatens Pharaoh with more grievous Plagues, 14. God's end in raiſing up Pharaoh, 16. The ſeventh plague (viz.) hail and rain, 18. God's counſel for the ſecuring of their cattle, 19. The execution of this plague, 23. The effects of it, 25. The land of Goſhen is preſerved, 26 Pharaoh's confeſſion, 27. Moſes's prayer for him, 29. He foretells Pharaoh's obſtinacy, 30, 31. By Moſes's intreaty the plague is ſtaid, 33. Pharaoh's heart remains hardned.

THen the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

2 For if thou refuſe to let them go, and wilt hold them ſtill,

3 Behold the hand of the LORD a is upon thy cattle b which is in the field, upon the horſes, upon the aſſes, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the ſheep: there ſhall be a very grievous murrain.

a In an immediate manner, not by my Rod, that thou mayſt know, it is not I, but the Lord, which doth all theſe things to thee. b Which they kept for their Wool or Milk, or manifold uſes and ſervices, though not for Food and Sacrifice.

4 And * the LORD ſhall ſever between the cattle of Iſrael, and the cattle of Egypt, and there ſhall nothing die of all that is the childrens of Iſrael.

* Chap. 8. 22.

5 And the LORD appointed a ſet time, ſaying, To morrow the LORD ſhall do this thing in the land.

6 And the LORD did that thing on the morrow, and * all c the cattle of Egypt died, but of the cattle of the children of Iſrael died not one.

* Pſal. 78. 48.

c Either of all ſorts; or a very great number of them, as the word all is frequently uſed; or rather, all that were in the Field, as it is expreſly limited, ver. 3. but not all abſolutely, as appears from v. 9, 19, 25. and Chap. 14. 23.

7 And Pharaoh ſent, and behold, there was not one of the cattle of the Iſraelites dead. And * the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

* Chap. 7. 14.

8 And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, Take to you handfuls of aſhes of the furnace d, and let Moſes e ſprinkle it towards the heaven, in the ſight of Pharaoh.

d To mind them of their cruel uſage of the Iſraelites in their Furnace, of which ſee Deut. 4. 20. Jer. 11. 4. e Both were to take them up, but Moſes only to ſprinkle them, as at other times Aaron only did the work, to ſhew that they were but Inſtruments, which God could uſe as he pleaſed, and God was the principal Author of it.

9 And it ſhall become ſmall duſt in all the land of Egypt, and ſhall be a * boil breaking forth with blains f, upon man, and upon beaſt, throughout all the land of Egypt.

f A burning Scab, which quickly raiſed Blains and Bliſters; whereby they were both vehemently inclined to ſcratch themſelves, and yet utterly diſenabled from it by its great ſoreneſs.

10 And they took aſhes of the furnace and ſtood before Pharaoh, and Moſes ſprinkled it up toward heaven: and it became a * boil g breaking forth with blains, upon man, and upon beaſt.

* Deut. 28. 27.

g God multiplying that Duſt, and heating it, and then diſperſing it over all the Land, and cauſing it to fall and reſt upon the Bodies of the Egyptians.

11 And the Magicians could not ſtand before Moſes h becauſe of the boils: for the boil was upon the Magicians, and upon all the Egyptians.

h As they hitherto had done, both as Spies, and as Adverſaries; for though their Underſtandings were convinced of God's Hand, and infinite Power, yet their hearts were not changed, but for their worldly Intereſt they perſiſted to rebel againſt their light, and therefore are juſtly plagued. It was no favour to Pharaoh, that the Plague was not upon him, but only a reſervation to a greater miſchief, as it follows.

12 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them, * as the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes.

* Chap. 4. 21.

13 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Riſe up early in the morning, and ſtand before Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go that they may ſerve me.

14 For I will at this time ſend all my plagues upon thine heart i, and upon thy ſervants, and upon thy people: that thou mayſt know that there is none like me in all the earth.

i Or, into thy heart: Thou haſt hitherto not felt my Plagues upon thy own perſon, or thy Body, but I ſhall ſhortly reach and wound it, and that not only in the skin, as the Magicians and others are now ſmitten, but even to thy heart, ſuch as ſhall make thy heart ſick, Mic. 6. 13. ſuch as ſhall give thee a mortal and irrecoverable wound. Some underſtand it of inward and ſpiritual judgments upon Pharaoh's heart, ſuch as hardneſs of heart; but that plague had been inflicted upon him, and is recorded before this time. And Pharaoh's heart being here oppoſed to his ſervants and people, ſeems rather to denote his perſon, the heart or ſoul being often put Synecdochically for the whole man.

15 For now I will ſtretch out mine hand, that I may ſmite thee and thy people with peſtilence k, and thou ſhalt be cut off from the earth.

k (i. e.) Not properly ſo called, but largely, as the word is uſed, Hoſ. 13. 14. meaning, with an utter and irrecoverable deſtruction. This relates partly to the killing of the Firſt-born, which plague did more immediately and nearly concern both him and his People, and principally to their deſtruction in the Red Sea.

16 And in very deed, for this cauſe have I † raiſed thee up l, for to ſhew in thee my power m, and that my Name n may be declared throughout all the earth.

† Heb. made thee ſtand.

l So the Hebrew word is tranſlated, Rom. 9. 17. I have raiſed thee up out of thy firſt nothing, into thy being, and life, and Kingdom; and upheld thy being, and reign, even in the midſt of thy Tyranny. Heb. I have made thee to ſtand, i. e. to remain alive and untouched, when thy Magicians could not ſtand, ver. 11. I have preſerved thee in life, not for want of power to deſtroy thee, as thou mayſt fancy, nor for want of provocation from thee, but for my own glory. m In thoſe mighty works which have been occaſioned by thy rebellion and obſtinacy. n My Being and Providence, and my manifold Perfections; my patience in bearing thee ſo long, my Juſtice in puniſhing thee, my Power in conquering thee, my Wiſdom in overruling thy Pride, and Tyranny, and Cruelty, to thy own deſtruction, and the redemption of my oppreſſed People, and my Faithfulneſs in making good my Promiſes to them, and my Threatnings to thee.

17 As yet exalteſt thou thy ſelf againſt my people o, that thou wilt not let them go?

o (i. e.) Againſt me acting for my People. The gracious God takes what is done to, or againſt his People, as done to, or againſt himſelf. See Zech. 2. 8. Matth. 25. 40, 45. Acts 9. 4, 5.

18 Behold, to morrow about this time I will cauſe it to rain a very grievous hail, ſuch as hath not been in Egypt ſince the foundation thereof p, even until now.

p Since they were a Kingdom, or a Nation.

19 Send therefore now, and gather thy cattle q, and all that thou haſt in the field: for upon every man and beaſt which ſhall be found in the field, and ſhall not be brought home, the hail ſhall come down upon them, and they ſhall die.

q This forewarning God gives, partly to mitigate the ſeverity of the judgment; partly that a conſiderable number of Horſes might be reſerved for Pharaoh's Expedition, chap. 14. partly to ſhew the Juſtice of God in puniſhing ſo wicked and obſtinate People, as would take no warning neither from God's Words, nor from his former Works; and partly to make a difference between the penitent and the incorrigible Egyptians.

20 He that feared the word of the LORD amongſt the ſervants of Pharaoh, made his ſervants and his cattle flee into the houſes.

21 And he that † regarded not the word of the LORD, left his ſervants and his cattle in the field. † Heb. ſet his unto.

22 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch forth thine hand toward heaven, that there may be * hail in all the land of Egypt upon man r, and upon beaſt, and upon every herb of the field, throughout all the land of Egypt. * v. 16. 21.

r (i. e.) Upon thoſe Men that preſumed to continue in the field after this Admonition.

23 And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand toward heaven, and the LORD ſent thunder and hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground s, and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt.

s Devouring both Herbs and Cattle which were upon it, Pſal. 78. 47, 48. and 105. 32, 33.

24 So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail t, very grievous, ſuch as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt ſince it became a nation u.

t Which ſtrange mixture much increaſed the Miracle. u For that Hail and Rain did ſometimes, though but ſeldom, fall in Egypt, is atteſted by divers Eye-witneſſes.

25 And the hail ſmote throughout all the land of Egypt all that was in the field both man and beaſt, and the hail ſmote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field x.

x (i. e) Moſt of them; or Herbs and Trees of all ſorts, as appears from Chap. 10. 12, 15. See before verſe 6.

26 * Only in the land of Goſhen y, where the children of Iſrael were, was there no hail. * Chap. 8. 22. and 11. 7.

y It ſeems the Egytians that dwelt there were ſpared for the ſake of their Neighbours the Iſraelites: Which great Obligation probably made them more willing to lend their Jewels to them, Chap. 12. 35.

27 ¶ And Pharaoh ſent, and called for Moſes and Aaron, and ſaid unto them, I have ſinned this time y: the LORD is righteous, and I and my people are wicked.

y I now plainly ſee and freely acknowledge my Sin in ſtriving with God. He ſeems not to deny that he had ſinned before, for even the Light of Nature would diſcover his Sin, in breaking his Faith, and the Word of a King given to Moſes for Iſrael's Diſmiſſion.

28 Intreat the LORD, (for it is enough) that there be no more z † mighty thundrings and hail, and I will let ye go, and ye ſhall ſtay no longer. † Heb. voices of God.

z Or, and let it be enough, (let God content himſelf that he hath puniſhed me ſo long, and that I have confeſſed my Sin, and promiſed amendment) that there may be hereafter no more.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto him, Aſſoon as I am gone out of the city, I will ſpread abroad my hands unto the LORD, and the thunder ſhall ceaſe, neither ſhall there be any more hail: that thou mayeſt know how that the * earth is the LORDS a. * Pſalm 24. 1.

a Or, that this land is the Lords, even his whom thou deniedſt to have any Juriſdiction in it, or over thee, Exod. 5. 2. Or the Earth is put for the World, the Heaven and the Earth, q. d. That thou mayſt ſee that he can either cauſe the Heavens to ſend forth ſuch Thunders and Hails, or reſtrain them as he pleaſeth.

30 But as for thee and thy ſervants, I know that ye will not yet fear the LORD God.

31 And the flax and the barley b was ſmitten: for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was bolled.

b Which were not ſo neceſſary for Human Life as the Wheat and Rye. Thus God ſtill ſends ſmaller Judgments to uſher in the greater.

32 But the wheat and the rie were not ſmitten: for they were † not grown up c. † Heb. hidden or dark

c The Hebrew word may be rendred either dark or hid, to wit, under the ground, whereby it was ſecured from this ſtroke: or late, as divers of the Hebrews, and other Interpreters render it. This kind of Corn coming later up, was now tender and hidden either in the ground, or in the Herb; whereby it was in ſome meaſure ſecured both from the Fire by its greenneſs and moiſture, and from the Hail by its pliableneſs and yielding to it, whereas the Stalks of Barly were more dry and ſtiff, and therefore more liable to the Hail and Fire.

33 And Moſes went out of the city d from Pharaoh, and ſpread abroad his hands unto the LORD: and the thunders and hail ceaſed, and the rain was not poured upon the earth.

d That being ſolitary, he might pour forth his heart in fervent Prayers.

34 And when Pharaoh ſaw that the rain, and the hail, and the thunders were ceaſed, he ſinned yet more, and hardned his heart, he and his ſervants.

35 And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened; neither would he let the children of Iſrael go, as the LORD had ſpoken † by Moſes. † Heb. by the hand of Moſes.

CHAP. X.

The reaſon why God hardned Pharaoh's heart, 1. Egypt threatned with locuſts, 4. Pharaoh's ſervants perſwade him to let the Iſraelites go, 7. Pharaoh enquires of Moſes who are they that ſhould go to ſerve the Lord, 8. Moſes's anſwer, 9. Pharaoh's reply, 11. Locuſts come over all Egypt, 15. Pharaoh ſends for Moſes, 16. And confeſſeth his Sin, 17. Moſes prays to God, 18. The plague is ſtay'd, 19. Pharaoh's heart hardned, 20. The ninth plague, to wit, darkneſs over all Egypt, 22, 23. Pharaoh would let Iſrael go, but without cattle, 24. Moſes will not leave a hoof behind, 26. Pharaoh hardned, 27. And charges Moſes upon pain of death never to appear in his ſight any more, 28. Which alſo came to paſs, 29.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh: for * I have hardned his heart, and the heart of his ſervants, that I might ſhew theſe my ſigns before him. * Chap. 4. 21. and 7. 14.

2 And that * thou mayſt tell in the ears of thy ſon, and of thy ſons ſon, what things I have wrought in Egypt, and my ſigns which I have done amongſt them: that ye may know how that I am the LORD. * Pſalm 78. 5.

3 And Moſes and Aaron came in unto Pharaoh, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, How long wilt thou refuſe to humble thy ſelf before me? Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

4 Elſe, if thou refuſe to let my people go, behold, to morrow will I bring the * locuſts into thy coaſts. * Wiſd. 16. 9.

5 And they ſhall cover the † face of the earth, that one cannot be able to ſee the earth, and * they ſhall eat the reſidue of that which is eſcaped a, which remaineth unto you from the hail, and ſhall eat every tree b which groweth for you out of the field. † Heb. eye. * Joel 1. 4.

a The Wheat and the Rye, the ſtaff of their lives. b The Fruits and Leaves of every Tree.

6 And they ſhall fill thy houſes, and the houſes of all thy ſervants, and the houſes of all the Egyptians, which neither thy fathers, nor thy fathers fathers have ſeen c, ſince the day that they were upon the earth unto this day. And he turned himſelf, and went out from Pharaoh.

c Such for number, or ſhape, or miſchievous effects, as were never ſeen before.

7 And Pharaohs ſervants ſaid unto him, How long ſhall this man be a ſnare d unto us? Let the men go, that they may ſerve the LORD their God: Knoweſt thou not yet that Egypt is deſtroyed?

d An occaſion of Sin and Deſtruction. See Exod. 23. 33. Joſ. 23. 13.

8 And Moſes and Aaron were brought again unto Pharaoh: and he ſaid unto them, Go ſerve the LORD your God: but † who are they that ſhall go? † Heb. who and who, &c.

9 And Moſes ſaid, We will go with our young and with our old, with our ſons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds will we go: for we muſt hold a feaſt unto the LORD e.

e A Feaſt upon a Sacrifice, wherein all are concerned and therefore all muſt be preſent and ready to do what God requires us.

10 And he ſaid unto them, Let the LORD be ſo with you, as I will let you go f, and your little ones. Look to it, for evil is before you g.

f I wiſh God may be no more ready and willing to be with you and to do you good, than I am willing to let you go. g Either 1. Evil of Sin. You have ſome ill deſign againſt me, either to ſtir up Sedition or War againſt me, or utterly to depart out of my Kingdom. Or rather 2. Evil of Calamity or Miſchief. 1. Becauſe it is here ſaid to be before their Faces, whereas evil Deſigns are in mens hearts, and the fair pretences wherewith they cover them are ſaid to be before their Faces. 2. The word of Caution he gives to them, look to it, or take heed, ſeems to imply that he ſpeaks not of the Evil they deſigned againſt Pharoah, but of that which they would unavoidably bring upon themſelves from ſo Potent a King, by the refuſal of ſuch fair Offers, and continuing in ſuch inſolent and unreaſonable demands.

11 Not ſo: go now ye that are men and ſerve the LORD, for that ye did deſire †: and they were driven out from Pharaohs preſence.

† Which was not true, but only was gathered by him out of their daclared Intention of going to Sacrifice, wherein he thought the preſence of the Women and Children wholly unneceſſary.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand over the land of Egypt for the locuſts, that they may come up upon the land of Egypt, and eat every herb of the land h, even all that the hail hath left.

h This is no unuſual Plague in Africa and Arabia, where when the Harveſt is ripe, they frequently come in vaſt numbers, and upon all their Corn, and what they do not eat they infect with their touch, and the moiſture coming from them, and afterwards dying in great numbers, they poiſon the Air, and cauſe a Peſtilence. So that it is no wonder that Pharoah and his Servants were ſo concerned for this Plague, ſo well known to them, eſpecially conſidering, that this was like to be far worſe than all of the ſame kind which they had either ſeen or heard of.

13 And Moſes ſtretched forth his rod over the land i of Egypt, and the LORD brought an eaſt-wind k upon the land all that day and all that night, and when it was morning, the eaſt-wind brought the locuſts.

i Over divers parts of the Land, ſhaking his Rod towards the ſeveral Quarters of it. k Which in thoſe Parts is a moſt violent and pernicious Wind, Exod. 14 21. Numb. 11. 31. and a dry Wind, and therefore fit for the ingendring of thoſe Creatures. This Wind brought them from Arabia, where they are in great numbers, as we have ſeen verſe 12. though God miraculouſly increaſed their numbers, and their power of doing miſchief.

* Pſal. 78. 46. and 105. 34.

14 And * the locuſts went up over all the land of Egypt, and reſted in all the coaſts of Egypt: very grievous were they: before them there were no ſuch locuſts as they, neither after them ſhall be ſuch †.

† Queſt. How can this be true, when the ſame words are uſed of the Locuſts in Joel's time? Anſw. It might be true of both in divers reſpects; of theſe for number and quality, of them for long continuance, for they laſted three or four years, when theſe were but for a little time; of theſe for Egypt, of them for Judea, where they were fixed.

15 For they covered the face of the whole earth, ſo that the land was darkned l, and they did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left m, and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, through all the land of Egypt.

l Either by their flying in vaſt numbers, and ſo darkning the Air, as they have oft times done; or by covering the green and lightſome Herbs and Productions of the Earth with their dark and direful Bodies. m How could this be, when the Hail had ſmitten every herb, and broken every tree, Chap. 9. 25? Anſ. 1. There ſeems to have been ſome diſtance of time between theſe two Plagues, in which ſpace new Productions might be ſprouting forth both out of the Ground, and from the Trees. 2. The words all and every are commonly underſtood of the greateſt part.

16 ¶ Then Pharaoh † called for Moſes and Aaron in haſt n: and he ſaid, I have ſinned againſt the LORD your God, and againſt you o.

n Becauſe this kind of Plague in it ſelf was moſt pernicious, whereby whole Countries had been waſted, and grievous Famines and Peſtilences cauſed, and was mightily aggravated by the Vengeance of God, and by the peculiar quality of theſe Locuſts, which did not only fall upon their Herbs and Fruits, as they uſe to do, but invade their very Houſes, verſe 6. infect their Meats, fill their Beds, poiſon them with their Stink and with their venomous Bitings, whereby they killed many Men, as it is written in the Book of Wiſdom, Chap. 16 verſe 19. o By contempt of your great and terrible Works, by breach of my Promiſe made to you, and by my denial of your juſt Deſires and Commands given to me in his Name whom I now find and feel to be the Almighty and Sovereign God.

17 Now therefore forgive, I pray thee, my ſin only this once p, and intreat the LORD your God, that he may take away from me this death q only.

p I deſire no further favour, I will no more offend nor need your pardon. q This deadly Plague, compare 2 Kings 4. 40. and 2 Cor. 11. 23. Beſides it did deſtroy the Life of Herbs and Trees, yea of Beaſts and Men, either directly, or at leaſt by conſequence, in depriving them of the neceſſary Supports of Life.

18 And he went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD.

19 And the LORD turned a mighty ſtrong weſt-wind r, which took away the locuſts, and † caſt them s * into the Red-ſea t: there remained not one locuſt in all the coaſts of Egypt.

* Joel 2. 20.

r Heb. A wind of the Sea, i. e. coming from the Sea, called there the great Sea, and the Mediterranean Sea, from whence came the North-weſt Wind, which did blow the Locuſts directly into the Red-Sea. s Caſt them, as the Hebrew word ſignifies, with a great noiſe, and with great force, ſo as they ſhould never riſe again to moleſt them. t Heb. The Sea of Bulruſhes, ſo called from the great number of Bulruſhes near its Shore; or, The Sea of Bounds or Limits, q. d. the Narrow Sea, whereas they could ſee no Bounds nor Shore beyond the Mediterranean Sea. It was called the Arabian Gulf, and by others the Red-Sea, either from its Red Sand; or rather from Eſau, called alſo Edom, which ſignifies Red, Gen. 25. 30. from whom as the adjoyning Country was called Edom, or Red, ſo this was called the Red-Sea.

* Chap. 4. 21.

20 But the LORD * hardened Pharaohs heart, ſo that he would not let the children of Iſrael go.

21 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand towards heaven, that there may be darkneſs over the land of Egypt, † even darkneſs which may be felt u.

†Heb. th one may feel darkneſs.

u It is an Hyperbolical Expreſſion, ſuch being very frequent both in Scripture and in all Authors. For Darkneſs being only a privation, cannot be properly felt, yet it might be felt in its Cauſe, to wit, thoſe thick and groſs Vapours which filled and infected the Air. But the place may be rendred thus, that there may be darkneſs——after that (ſo the Hebrew Vau is ſometimes uſed, as Mich. 7. 13.) the darkneſs (i. e. the darkneſs of the Night, or the common and daily darkneſs) is departed or removed, and the time of the day come: for ſo the root, from whence this word may be derived, ſignifies, Exod. 13. 22. And to this purpoſe the words are rendred by the Chaldee and Syriack, and ſome others; and the ſence is, that the Darkneſs may continue in the day-time as well as in the night.

22 And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand toward heaven: and there was a * thick darkneſs in all the land of Egypt three days.

*Pſal. 10 28.

23 They ſaw not one another x, neither roſe any from his place y for three days: * but all the children of Iſrael had light in their dwellings z.

*Wiſd. 1 1. chap. 1 22.

x Becauſe theſe groſs and moiſt Fogs and Vapours did not only quite ſhut out the light of the heavenly Bodies, but alſo put out their Candles, or other artificial lights, or at leaſt ſo darken them that men could have no benefit by them. y Place here may be taken, either 1. More ſtrictly and particularly; ſo the ſenſe is, The horrour of that darkneſs was ſo great that they durſt not remove at all, but ſtood or ſat where the darkneſs found them, like men aſtoniſhed or affrighted, and therefore unmoveable, having their Minds diſturbed, being terrified with their guilty Conſciences, which moſt affect men in the dark, and with the dreadful noiſes which they heard, Wiſd. 17. 5. and with the Apparitions of evil Angels, as may ſeem from Pſal. 78. 49. where the Plague of evil Angels is put inſtead of this Plague of darkneſs, which therefore is omitted in that place where all the reſt are reckoned up. Or rather 2. More largely, for their own Houſes or Dwellings, for ſo the Hebrew word is certainly uſed, Exod. 16. 29. So the ſenſe is, They did not ſtir abroad out of their Houſes upon their moſt neceſſary occaſions. Obj. He ſaith not that they could not go, but that they could not riſe from their place, which may ſeem to limit this expreſſion to their particular places. Anſw. The word, to riſe, is commonly put for going about any buſineſs; and here it is a pregnant word, as they call it, and implies going in it, none aroſe, viz. to go or remove from his place. And riſing cannot be properly taken here for that particular poſture, unleſs we will ſuppoſe that this darkneſs found all men ſitting, which is abſurd to imagine. z Whereby they might have conveyed themſelves, and families, and goods away, as afterwards they did in haſte; but they waited for Moſes his Orders, and he for God's Command, and God intended to bring them forth, not by ſtealth, but in a more honourable and publick manner, in ſpight of all oppoſition.

24 ¶ And a Pharaoh called unto Moſes, and ſaid, Go ye, ſerve the LORD: only let your flocks and your herds be ſtayed b: let your little ones c alſo go with you.

a Or, Therefore; or Then, to wit, after the darkneſs was either wholly, or in part removed. b Either as a pledge of your return after your Sacrifice is ended; or as a recompence for the Cattle which I have loſt by your means. c And conſequently the Women, whoſe help and ſervice was neceſſary for their little ones in divers regards.

25 And Moſes ſaid, Thou muſt give † us * alſo ſacrifices, and burnt-offerings, that we may ſacrifice unto the LORD our God.

† Heb. our han

* i. e. Suffer us to take of our own ſtock.

26 Our cattle alſo ſhall go with us, there ſhall not an hoof be left behind, for thereof muſt we take to ſerve the LORD our God: and we know not with what we muſt ſerve the LORD until we come thither d.

d Which was not a Pretence, but a real Truth. For this being a ſolemn and extraordinary Sacrifice by the expreſs and particular appointment of God, they knew not either of what kinds, or in what number or manner their Sacrifices muſt be offered. And for all theſe things they did not receive particular directions till they came to Mount Sinai.

27 ¶ But the LORD * hardned Pharaohs heart, and he would not let them go.

*Chap. 14 4, 8.

28 And Pharaoh ſaid unto him, Get thee from me, take heed to thy ſelf: ſee my face no more: for in that day thou ſeeſt my face, thou ſhalt die.

29 And Moſes ſaid, Thou haſt ſpoken well e, I will ſee thy face again no more.

e Heb. Right, not morally, for ſo it was very ill ſaid; but Logically, that which agrees, though not with thy Duty, yet with the Event and Truth of the thing; for as thou haſt warned me to ſee thee no more, ſo I in the name of God aſſure thee, that thou ſhalt ſee me no more, to beg my Prayers, or to be helped out of thy Troubles by my means. And therefore that Diſcourſe of Moſes to Pharaoh, which follows chap. 11. 4, &c. though it be put there out of its order and proper place, as many other paſſages are, yet was delivered at this time, and upon occaſion of theſe words.

CHAP. XI.

God commandeth the Iſraelites to borrow jewels of the Egyptians, 2. God giveth them favour among the Egyptians, 3. Moſes denounceth the laſt plague, 4. A great cry, 6. The Iſraelites ſafety, 7. The Egyptians thruſting them out, 8. God foretels Pharaoh's hardneſs, 9.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes a, Yet will I bring one plague more upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt, afterwards he will let you go hence: * when he ſhall let you go, he ſhall ſurely thruſt you out hence altogether b. *Chap. 12. 31,33,39.

a Either 1. Whilſt Moſes was not yet gone out of Pharaoh's preſence; ſo God might ſuggeſt this to his Mind, as he did other things to Michaiah, when he was before Ahab and Jehoſaphat, 1 King. 22. Or rather 2. Before his laſt coming to Pharaoh; and the words may be rendred thus, Now the Lord had ſaid unto Moſes. And this is here added, as the reaſon why Moſes ſpake ſo boldly to Pharaoh, becauſe God had aſſured him of a good iſſue. b Men, and Women, and Children, and Cattle, and all that they had, which he would never do before.

2 Speak now in the ears of the people, and let every man borrow of his neighbour c, and every woman of her neighbour, * jewels d of ſilver, and jewels of gold. *Chap. 3. 22. and 12. 35.

c The Iſraelites, who at firſt lived diſtinctly by themſelves, when they were greatly multiplied, and Pharaoh began to caſt a jealous eye upon them, and to take cruel Counſels againſt them, were more mixed with the Egyptians, as appears from chap. 12. 12, 13. and many other places, either by their own choice, that they might receive Protection and Suſtenance from them; or rather by Pharaoh's deſign, who planted many of his own People among them, to watch and chaſtiſe them, Exod. 1. 11. and, it may be, removed ſome of them from Goſhen to the parts adjoyning to it, which were inhabited by his People. d Or, Veſſels, as the Hebrew word properly ſignifies; for they might more plauſibly ask, and the Egyptians would with leſs ſuſpicion lend them Veſſels, which might be proper and uſeful both for their Sacrifices and Feaſts, than Jewels for which they had no preſent need or uſe.

3 And the LORD gave the people favour in the ſight of the Egyptians; Moreover, the man * Moſes was very great in the land of Egypt, in the ſight of Pharaohs ſervants, and in the ſight of the people e. *Eccl. 45. 1.

e Therefore they complied with their requeſt not only out of love to the People, but out of fear of Moſes, leſt he ſhould puniſh them ſeverely in caſe of refuſal.

4 And Moſes ſaid f, Thus ſaith the LORD, About midnight will I go out g into the midſt of Egypt.

f To Pharaoh, before his departure, as appears by comparing verſe 8. with chap. 10. 29. And therefore the three firſt verſes of this chapter come in by way of Parentheſis; and now he returns to the Story, and ſets down the laſt words which Moſes ſpake to Pharaoh for a final parting. g God is ſaid to go out, or go forth, or come down, &c. by way of condeſcenſion to the cuſtom and capacity of men, when he doth any eminent act of Power either in way of Juſtice, or Mercy.

5 And all the firſt-born of the land of Egypt ſhall die, from the firſt-born of Pharaoh that ſitteth upon his throne h, even unto the firſt-born of the maid-ſervant that is behind the mill i, and all the firſt-born of beaſts.

h Either now actually, ruling with his Father, as Solomon did even whileſt David lived, 1 Kings 1. 34. or more probably, he that is to ſit, the preſent time for the future, he whoſe right this is by the Cuſtom of Egypt, and by the Law of Nations. i The poor captive Slave that was in the Priſon, as it is chap. 12. 29. and there did grind at the Mill. In thoſe times and places they had divers Mills, which were not turned about by Wind or Water, as ours are, but by the Hands of their Servants, who for that purpoſe ſtood behind the Mill, and ſo with hard labour turned it about. See Judg. 16. 21. Iſa 47. 1, 2. Lam. 5. 13.

6 And there ſhall be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, ſuch as there was none like it, nor ſhall be like it any more.

*Chap. 8. 22. 7 * But againſt any of the children of Iſrael ſhall not a dog move his tongue k, againſt man or beaſt: that ye may know how that the LORD doth put a difference between the Egyptians and Iſrael.

k In ſtead of thoſe loud cries of the Egyptian Families, there ſhall be ſo great a tranquillity among the Iſraelites, that even the Dogs, which are ſenſible of, and awaked, and provoked by the leaſt noiſe, ſhall not be ſtirred up by them.

*Chap. 12. 31,33. 8 And * all theſe thy ſervants l ſhall come down unto me †, and bow down themſelves unto me, ſaying, Get thee out, and all the people that † follow thee m; and after that I will go out: and he went out from Pharaoh in † a great anger n. †Heb. that is at thy feet. †Heb. heat of anger.

l Thy Courtiers and great Officers, who now are ſo inſolent and obſtinate. † Both by their own inclination, and neceſſity, and in thy name, and by thy command. m That are under thy conduct and command; as this or the like expreſſion is uſed Judg. 4. 10. 1 Kings 20. 10. 2 Kings 3. 9. Iſa 41. 2. n Not ſo much for the Affront offered to himſelf, as for his incurable Rebellion againſt God. Compare Mark 3. 5.

*Chap. 3. 19. 9 And * the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Pharaoh ſhall not hearken unto you, that * my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt. *Chap 7. 3.

10 And Moſes and Aaron did all theſe wonders before Pharaoh: and the LORD hardened Pharaohs heart, ſo that he would not let the children of Iſrael go out of his land.

CHAP. XII.

The month wherein they went out of Egypt to be to them the firſt month of the year, 1, 2. God enjoyns them to chuſe a ſpotleſs lamb for the paſſover, 3. How they were to eat the ſame, 4. The deſcription of the lamb, 5. The time of killing it, 6. The manner of ſprinkling, 7. The time and method of eating it, 8 —— 11. God's purpoſe to ſmite the firſt-born, 12. The uſe of the blood upon the doors, 13. Seven days of unleavened bread, and the manner of keeping it, 15. Moſes directeth the elders, both for their preſent and future ſafety, 21 —— 23. They inſtruct their children concerning it, 26. The firſt-born of all Egypt ſlain, 29. A great cry, 30. Pharaoh giveth Iſrael leave to go, 31. The Egyptians thruſt them out, 33. Their haſty departure, 34. They ſpoil the Egyptians, 35, 36. Their number, 37. Their baking unleavened bread, 39. How long they dwelt in Egypt, 40. The time of their deliverance, 41. Who were to partake of the paſſover, 43, 44. The children of Iſrael did as the Lord commanded.

AND the LORD ſpake a unto Moſes and Aaron, in the land of Egypt, ſaying:

a Had ſpoken, before the three days darkneſs, as may appear by comparing verſe 3. and 6. of this chapter with chap. 11. 4. And the mention of it was put off by him till this place, as well that he might not interrupt the Hiſtory of all the Plagues, as that he might give the whole inſtitution of the Paſſover together.

2 This month b ſhall be unto you the beginning c of months: it ſhall be the firſt month of the year unto you d.

b The firſt month after the vernal Equinox, called Abib, Exod. 13. 4. and 23. 15. Deut. 16. 1. and Niſan, Neh. 2. 1. Eſth. 3. 7. containing part of our March, and part of April. c Heb. The head; which, I conceive, notes not ſo much the order, which is more plainly mentioned in the following words, as the eminency of it, that it ſhall be accounted the chief and principal of all months; as the Sabbath hath been called by ſome the Queen of days. And juſtly muſt they prefer this month before the reſt, whether they looked backward to their prodigious Deliverance from Egypt therein, or forward to their ſpiritual Redemption by Chriſt, and to the acceptable year of the Lord, Luke 4. 19. for in this very month our Lord Jeſus ſuffered, Joh. 18. 28. d Heretofore your firſt month for all Affairs hath been Tiſri, which in part anſwers to our September, and is the firſt month after the Autumnal Equinox; and ſo it ſhall be to you ſtill as to Civil Affairs, as it appears from Exod 23. 16. and 34. 22. and Levit. 25. 8, 9, 10. but as to Sacred and Eccleſiaſtical Matters this ſhall henceforth be your firſt month.

3 ¶ Speak ye unto all the congregation of Iſrael, ſaying, In the tenth day e of this month, they ſhall take to them f every man a lamb g, according to the houſe of their fathers †, a † lamb for an houſe. † Or, kid.

e Partly that they might have the Lamb ready for the Sacrifice, and might not be diſtracted about procuring it when they ſhould be going to uſe it; partly that by the frequent Contemplation of the Lamb, as a ſign appointed by God, they might have their Faith ſtrengthned as to their approaching Deliverance, and afterwards might have their Minds quickned to the more ſerious Conſideration of that great Deliverance out of Egypt, and of that more glorious Deliverance from Hell by Chriſt the true Paſſover, which ſhould be offered for them; partly to teach the Church in all Ages, how neceſſary a thing preparation is to the ſolemn Duties and Exerciſes of Religion; and partly to ſignify that Chriſt ſhould be firſt ſet apart, and ſeparated to the Miniſtry, which was done three or four Prophetical days, i. e. years before his Death, and afterwards offered: Moſt of which reaſons being perpetual, it may ſeem this uſage was ſo too, and not for the firſt Paſſover only. f Into their Houſes, where the Jews tell us he was tied to the Bedſpoſt. g Or, Kid, verſe 5. for the ſame word ſignifies both, though a Lamb was commonly uſed, and a Kid only in caſe of the want of a Lamb; and the Chaldee, and LXX do almoſt conſtantly tranſlate the Hebrew word Lamb. And Chriſt is ſeldom or never Typified by a Kid, but generally by a Lamb, as he is called Joh. 1. 29. partly for his Innocency, Meekneſs, Patience, &c but principally with reſpect to the Paſchal lamb, inſtead whereof he was in due time to be offered; whence he is called our Paſſover, 1 Cor. 5. 7. † A Lamb was to be diſpoſed of to every Houſe or Family, according to its quantity, or the numbers of perſons in it, as the next verſe explains it. The ſeveral Families are called the houſes of their fathers, becauſe they conſiſt of thoſe perſons which come from one Father or Grandfather. The people were divided into Tribes, the Tribes were ſubdivided into Families, and the Families again into Houſes, which were like ſprigs taken from the greater branches, and planted apart, and each of theſe had their ſeveral Fathers, from whom they were denominated, as here they are.

4 And if the houſhold be too little for the lamb h, let him and his neighbour next unto his houſe, take it i according to the number of the ſouls k: every man according to his eating † ſhall make your count for the lamb.

h (i. e.) For the eating of the whole Lamb at one meal, according to the rule, verſe 8, 10. If the perſons be ſo few that they cannot eat it up without gluttony. i Or rather thus, word for word, And, or Then he (the Maſter of that Family) ſhall take alſo his neighbour next unto his houſe, he ſhall take him and his Family into Society with himſelf; they ſhall joyn together. k Or perſons, i. e. as the two Families ſhall conſiſt of more or fewer perſons. I ſuppoſe, the meaning is, that if his next Neighbour's Family were of it ſelf ſufficient for the eating of the whole Lamb, that he ſhould paſs over that to the next ſmall Family, which being joyned with his might make up a fit number, which, as the Hebrew Doctors tell us, was ten, beſides Women and Children. † (i. e.) According to the proportion which he can, or commonly doth eat. The meaning is this, The whole Lamb being to be eaten at once, and a ſufficient number being neceſſary to that end, and there being great variety in mens ſtomachs and meals, they were to give allowance for that, and to take either more or fewer perſons, as their ſtomachs were better or worſe.

5 Your lamb ſhall be without blemiſh l, a male m † Heb Son of a year. † of the firſt year n: ye ſhall take it out from the ſheep, or from the goats n.

l Without any deformity or diſtemper of Body. Heb. perfect. Of which ſee Levit. 22. 22, &c. Deut. 15. 21 and 17. 1. And this the very light of Nature taught the Heathens to obſerve in their Sacrifices. This property was required both to typify Chriſt, a Lamb without ſpot or blemiſh, Heb. 9. 14. 1 Pet. 1. 19. and to inſtruct us, that all our ſervices to God muſt be as perfect as poſſibly may be. m Partly becauſe that was better and more perfect than the Female, whence a Male is oppoſed to a corrupt thing, Mal. 1. 14. and partly to tipify the man Chriſt Jeſus. n (i. e.) A year old, when it is in its vigour and perfection, and the fitteſt type of Chriſt. Moſt explain it thus, That it was not to be more than a year old, but it might be much leſs, ſeeing it might be offered to God any time after it was eight days old, Exod. 22. 30. Levit. 22. 27. But though it was then fit to be offered to God, it was not very fit to be eaten by Men. And the Hebrew Phraſe, the Son of a Year, ſeems to require a years Age, as Saul is called the ſon of one year, 1 Sam 13. 1. when he had reigned one whole Year. And it is remarkable, that he doth not ſay the Son of this or that Year, which might agree to one brought forth that Year, though it was much younger than a Year, but the Son of a Year, without any reſtrictive Article. n Heb. and from the Goats: If you want a Lamb, you ſhall take a Kid of or from the Goats. But the particle and is here well rendred or as it is uſed, Gen. 13. 8. Exod. 21. 17. compared with Matth. 15. 4. Pſalm 8. 4. compared with Heb. 2. 6.

6 And ye ſhall keep it up o until the fourteenth day
* Lev. 23. 5. Numb. 9. 3. and 28. 16. Deut. 16. 1. of the ſame month: and * the whole aſſembly p of † Heb. between the two Evenings. the congregation of Iſrael ſhall kill it † in the evening q.

o Separate it from the reſt of the Flock, and keep it in a ſafe place; the reaſons of which ſee verſe 3. p Or rather, every Aſſembly; to wit, every ſuch Society as meet together for eating of the Lamb. And the Aſſembly is ſaid to kill it, becauſe one Perſon did it in their Name, and by their Appointment; in which manner, and upon which reaſon the whole Congregation is ſaid to ſtone a Man, Levit. 24 14, 16 Numb. 15. 35. Deut. 22. 21. It is probable it was killed by the Maſter of the Family, who was a Prieſt in his own Family, &c. q Heb. between the Evenings, or the two Evenings, i e. between the beginning and end of the Evening. The Evening is one third part of the Day, and one of the appointed and uſual times of Devotion, as appears from Pſalm 55. 17. Dan 6. 10. and it begun at their ninth, or our third Hour, as may be gathered from Acts 3. 1. For then the Sun began more ſenſibly to decline, whence that time is fitly called by the Jews the firſt Evening, and that was the time of the Evening Sacrifice; the ſecond Evening was when the Sun was ſetting or ſet. Between theſe it was to be killed. This had a reſpect both to the time of the World's Age when Chriſt came, which was its Evening, or declining Time, or End, Heb. 1. 2. and 9. 26. 1 Pet. 1. 20. and the time of the day in which Chriſt our Paſſover was killed, Matth. 27. 46——50. Mark 15. 25, 33, 34.

7 And they ſhall take of the blood r, and ſtrike it s on the two ſide-poſts, and on the upper door-poſt of the houſes wherein they ſhall eat it t.

r This was afterwards reſtrained to the Prieſts, but at this time it was allowed to the Maſters of Families, as their preſent circumſtances required. s With a bunch of Hyſop, verſe 22. t As a badge of diſtinction between their Houſes and the Egyptians, not to direct the deſtroying Angel where they were, who could as well diſcern the Houſes as the Blood in the Night, but to direct their Thoughts to Chriſt, whoſe Blood was hereby evidently typified, by whoſe Merits and Mediation they obtained this Preſervation and Deliverance from Egypt, as well as their great Deliverance from Hell.

8 And they ſhall eat the fleſh in that night u roſte with fire x, and unleavened bread y, and with bitter herbs z they ſhall eat it.

u (i. e.) The Night following the fourteenth, and beginning the fifteenth day. The Lamb was killed upon the fourteenth day, in the Evening or Cloſe thereof, but it was eaten upon the fifteenth day, to wit, in the beginning of it: whence the Paſſover is ſaid to be offered ſometimes upon the fourteenth and ſometimes upon the fifteenth day, which may ſerve for the Reconciliation of ſome ſeemingly contrary Scriptures. x Partly for expedition, verſe 11. and principally to be a Type of the Lamb of God Chriſt, and of the ſharp and dreadful Pains which he ſuffered not only from Men, but from God too, and from the Fire of his ſore Diſpleaſure againſt Sinners, whoſe place and perſon Chriſt ſuſtained in his Sufferings. y Partly as a Monument of their ſpeedy Departure out of Egypt, which gave them not time to leaven their Bread, verſe 34. which is the reaſon alledged for it, Deut. 16. 3. partly to teach us how Men ſhould be qualified that come to the Sacrament, they ſhould be purged from Error, and Pride, and Malice, and Hypocriſy, which are called and compared to Leaven, Matth. 16. 6, 11. Luke 12. 1. 1 Cor. 5. 8. and partly to ſignify the ſingular Purity of Chriſt from all kind of ſpiritual Leaven. z Both to remind them of their hard Service and bitter Uſage in Egypt, Exod. 1. 14. from which God delivered them, Deut. 16. 3. and to prefigure the further Croſſes and Troubles which they were to expect between their going out of Egypt and coming to Canaan. Or, with bitterneſſes, i. e. with great bitterneſs, or with grief of heart, that together with Faith in God and in Chriſt, and Hope, and Joy for their approaching Deliverance, they might exerciſe bitter and hearty Repentance for their Idolatries, and other ſinful Practices whereof they were guilty in Egypt. And this inſtructs us as well as them of the abſolute neceſſity of true and bitter Repentance in all thoſe that would profitably feed upon Chriſt our Paſſover.

9 Eat not of it raw a, nor ſodden at all with water, but roſt with fire: his head, with his legs, and with the purtenance b thereof.

a (i. e.) Not throughly roaſted, for ſuch we alſo ſay is Raw, and ſo the Hebrew word na is underſtood by the Jewiſh and other Doctors. It ſignified, that Chriſt ſhould Suffer, as well as Save, to the uttermoſt, all that was due for our Sins. b Heb. the Inwards, which were to be taken and waſhed, and then to be roaſted together with the reſt. Some do here except the Fat, and Caul, and Kidneys, which were reſerved by God for himſelf, 2 Chron. 35. 12, 14. But that Exception was not made till after this time, and it ſeems not certain that that Exception extended to the Paſchal Lamb. Theſe, and the Head and Legs are here mentioned, not to exclude other Parts, but becauſe they are not commonly roaſted; but God would have the whole Lamb roaſted and eaten, to ſignify, that we muſt have either nothing of Chriſt, or the whole Chriſt, and all his benefits, his Spirit to ſanctify and rule us, as well as his Blood to ſave us.

10 * And ye ſhall let nothing of it remain until the morning: and that which remaineth of † it until the morning, ye ſhall burn with fire c. * Chap. 23. 18. and 34. 25.

† Which either was not uſually eaten, or was more than all of you could conveniently eat. b To prevent either 1. the ſuperſtitious uſe of the Relicks of that Lamb by the Iſraelites, who thereby had received a greater benefit, than they did afterwards by the Brazen Serpent, which upon that account they worſhipped: Or 2. the profane Abuſe of that which had been conſecrated to God's Service. Compare Exod. 29. 34.

11 ¶ And thus ſhall ye eat it d; with your loins girded e, your ſhoes on your feet f, and your ſtaff in your hand g: and ye ſhall eat it in haſte h: it is the LORDS paſſover i.

d To wit, for this time, becauſe their Circumſtances required it, that they being ſuddenly to take a great Journey, might be in a Travellers habit. But that theſe, and ſome other circumſtances now enjoyned and uſed, were only Temporary, and not Perpetual, nor Obligatory, ſufficiently appears from the practice not only of the Jews in following Ages, but alſo of Chriſt and of his Apoſtles. And in like manner there are ſome Inſtitutions in the New Teſtament which did only oblige that Age, and not all that follow them, as Acts 15. 28, 29. e Like Travellers and Perſons undertaking ſome difficult Service; for ſuch uſed to gird up their Garments, which in thoſe Parts were long and troubleſome. See 2 Kings 4. 29. and 9. 1. Luke 12. 35. f A Badge, 1. of their readineſs for their Journey, Iſaiah 5. 27. Acts 12. 8. 2. Of their Freedom; for Slaves, ſuch as the Iſraelites now were in Egypt, uſed to go barefooted. 3. Of Joy, as on the contrary going barefoot was a Badge of Mourning, 2 Sam. 15. 30. g Like Perſons upon the point of departing, which was a very comfortable Circumſtance. h For ſo the word ſignifies, Deut. 16. 3. Iſa. 52. 12. i This Lamb, or your eating of it, is the Lord's Paſſover, i. e. it is a ſign of Gods paſſing over you and your Houſes, when he comes to deſtroy the Egyptians on every ſide of you, verſe 13. 23. It is a Metonymy uſual in Sacramental Speeches, as Gen. 17. 10. Matth. 26. 26, 27, 28.

k Either 1. by expoſing them to ſhame and contempt, as vain and impotent gods that could not ſave their Worſhippers. But that appeared before. Or 2. by deſtroying thoſe Beaſts which they worſhipped; and it is not unlikely, but thoſe particular Beaſts, which were their chief Idols, as Apis, Mnevis, &c were firſt-born, and therefore periſhed in this Plague. Or 3. by overthrowing their Idols, as he afterwards did Dagon. And ſo ſome Hebrew Writers tell us, that this very Night all their Idols were broken and thrown down. And there are ſome Foot-ſteps hereof even in Heathen Authors: Of whom ſome tell us, that moſt of the Temples of Egypt at one time fell down by an Earthquake; and others affirm, that the Egyptian gods for fear of one Typho (by whom it is apparent they meant Moſes) did hide themſelves for a ſeaſon, &c.

See on ver. 7. m This is ſpoken of God after the manner of Men; the ſenſe is, If I find, that you keep the condition which I require, you may expect the priviledge which I have promiſed you; otherwiſe not.

14 And this day ſhall be unto you for a memorial n: and you ſhall keep it a feaſt * to the LORD throughout your generations: you ſhall keep it a feaſt by an ordinance for ever o.

n Or, Monument, both of this Deliverance from Egypt, and moreover of your Redemption by Chriſt, of which that is a Type, as even the Ancient Jews underſtood it, who alſo noted that Iſrael was to be redeemed in the days of the Meſſias upon the ſame day on which they were delivered from Egypt, to wit, upon the fifteenth day of the Month of Niſan. Upon which day our bleſſed Lord was crucified for the Redemption of his People. * You ſhall obſerve it for a Solemn Feaſt or Feſtival Time. o (i. e.) So long as your State and Church continues, or till the coming of the Meſſias. Nor let any one think that this was too ſevere a Puniſhment for what may ſeem no great Offence. For this was indeed a very great Crime, being a manifeſt Contempt of God, and a Rebellion againſt God's Authority and expreſs Command, which ſurely deſerves as ſevere a Puniſhment as is inflicted upon Rebels againſt their Prince, eſpecially conſidering that the Iſraelites were the People and Subjects of God in a peculiar manner. It was alſo a tacit Renunciation of their Religion, and of the Covenant of God with them, and of their Intereſt both in that paſt Deliverance out of Egypt, and in the future Deliverance by the Meſſias. See more on Gen. 17. 14.

s A ſolemn day for the People to aſſemble together, and to attend upon the Publick Worſhip and Service of God in hearing his Word, Prayers, Praiſes, and Sacrifices. t Becauſe then Pharaoh and his Hoſt were drowned in the Sea. As on the firſt day the firſt-born were killed; ſo their Deliverance was begun on the firſt, and compleated on the ſeventh day, and therefore thoſe days deſerved a ſpecial Character of Honour. And indeed that there were ſeven days between thoſe two Miracles, the Jews unanimouſly affirm, and it ſeems probable from the account of their Journies. u (i. e.) Of ſervile Work, Lev. 23. 7. x Herein, as many think, theſe days were inferior to the Sabbath, in which that was forbidden. But of this ſee my notes on Exod. 16 23. and 35. 3.

17 And ye ſhall obſerve the feaſt of unleavened bread: for in this ſelf-ſame day have I brought your armies y out of the land of Egypt: therefore ſhall ye obſerve this day in your generations, by an ordinance for ever.

y So called, not from their Military force or courage, but from their numbers, and the order and manner in which they came forth, See Chap. 13. 18.

*Lev. 23. 5. Numb. 28. 16. 18 ¶ * In the firſt month, on the fourteenth day of the month, at even ye ſhall eat unleavened bread until the one and twentieth day z of the month at even.

z Incluſively. For otherwiſe they were obliged to eat unleavened Bread eight days, viz. on the day of the Paſſover, verſe 8 and ſeven days after, which is ſtrictly and properly called the Feaſt of unleavened Bread, becauſe in them they were tied to that Ceremony only, except the two days of an Holy Convocation.

19 Seven days ſhall there be no leaven found in your houſes: for whoſoever eateth that which is leavened, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from the congregation of Iſrael, whether he be a ſtranger a, or born in the land †.

a To wit, a Proſelite: for Strangers unconverted to the Jewiſh Religion were not obliged nor admitted to the Celebration of the Paſſover or Feaſt of unleavened Bread. Though I ſee no inconvenience, if all Strangers, though Heathens, were forbidden to have or uſe any unleavened Bread at that time, leſt the Jews who converſed with them might be tempted to deſire or partake of it with them. † To wit, of Canaan which I have promiſed to you, and to which I am now leading you, which was ſo well known to all of them, that it was needleſs to expreſs it in this place.

20 Ye ſhall eat nothing leavened: in all your habitations ſhall ye eat unleavened bread.

21 ¶ Then Moſes called for all the elders of Iſrael, and ſaid unto them, Draw out, and take you a † lamb according to your families, and kill the paſſover. † Or, kid.

*Heb. 11. 28. 22 * And ye ſhall take a bunch of hyſop b, and dip it in the blood that is in the baſon, and ſtrike the lintel and the two ſide-poſts with the blood that is in the baſon: and none of you ſhall go out at the door of his houſe c until the morning d.

b So the Hebrew word is rightly rendred, as appears from Heb. 9. 19. c (i. e.) Of the Houſe wherein he did eat the Paſſover, which oft-times was his Neighbours Houſe: See verſe 4. d Till the beginning of the Morning after Midnight, and after the Slaughter of the Egyptians firſt-born; which may reconcile thoſe Scriptures that ſeem to contradict one another, while ſome affirm they went out of Egypt by Night, and others by Day, for they went out in the Morning very early when it was yet dark, as it is expreſſed in a like caſe, John 20. 1.

23 For the LORD will paſs through to ſmite the Egyptians: and when he ſeeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two ſide-poſts, the LORD will paſs over the door, and * will not ſuffer e the deſtroyer f to come in unto your houſes to ſmite you. *Ezek. 9. 6. Rev. 7. 3. and 9. 4.

e Heb. not give him Licenſe or Commiſſion. f (i. e.) The deſtroying Angel, which whether it were a good or bad Angel is not agreed, nor is it neceſſary to determine.

24 And ye ſhall obſerve this thing g for an ordinance to thee, and to thy ſons for ever.

g viz. The ſubſtance of the thing, the Paſſover and Feaſt of unleavened Bread, though not all the Rites and Ceremonies, whereof divers were peculiar to the firſt time.

25 And it ſhall come to paſs when ye be come to the land h, which the LORD will give you according as he hath promiſed, that ye ſhall keep my ſervice.

h Viz. Of Canaan, as verſe 19. For in the Wilderneſs they kept this Feaſt but once, and that by God's particular Direction, Numb. 9. 2.

26 * And it ſhall come to paſs, when your children ſhall ſay unto you, What mean you by this ſervice i? *Joſ. 4. 6.

i Or, part of Divine Worſhip. God expects this even from the Jewiſh Children, and much more from Chriſtian Men, that they ſhould enquire and underſtand what is ſaid or done in the Publick Worſhip or Service of God, and therefore not to reſt in dumb Signs whereof they neither enquire nor know the meaning, or in the Service of God in a Language which they underſtand not.

27 That ye ſhall ſay, It is the ſacrifice of the LORDS paſſover k, who paſſed over the houſes of the children of Iſrael in Egypt, when he ſmote the Egyptians, and delivered our houſes. And the people * bowed the head l, and worſhipped. *Chap. 4. 31.

k The Paſſover was both a Sacrifice, as it was offered to God, as it appears from Exod. 23. 18. and 34. 25. Numb. 9. 7, 13. Deut 16. 2, 5. and becauſe there was in it the ſhedding and ſprinkling of Blood, wherein the Eſſence of a Sacrifice conſiſts. 2 Chron. 30. 16. and 35. 11, 13. and alſo a Sacrament, as it was received and eaten by Men. l In token of their thankful acknowledgement of God's favours, and of their chearful ſubmiſſion to God's Command and Ordinance. See 2 Chron. 29 30.

28 And the children of Iſrael went away, and did as the LORD had commanded Moſes and Aaron; ſo did they m.

m They killed, and did eat the Paſchal Lamb in ſuch manner as God preſcribed.

29 ¶ * And it came to paſs, that at midnight n * the LORD ſmote all the firſt-born o in the land of Egypt, * from the firſt-born of Pharoah that ſat on his throne, unto the firſt-born of the captive that was in the † dungeon, and all the firſt-born of cattle. *Chap. 11. 4. *Numb. 8. 17. and 33. 4. Pſalm 78. 51. and 105. 36. and 135. 8. and 136. 10. *Wiſdom 18. 11. Chap. 4. 23. † Heb. houſe of the pit.

n A great Aggravation of the Plague: For then darkneſs it ſelf ſtrikes Men with horror, and makes any Calamity more terrible; then they were aſleep and ſecure, and leaſt expected ſuch a ſtroke. o Both of Man and Beaſt, whether Male or Female. Some extend it to all that were firſt born, and ſo many Perſons might be killed in one Houſe, as both Father and Mother, and ſeveral Sons, which might be the firſt born by ſeveral Mothers, and Sons Sons or Daughters, &c. Others confine it to the firſt born Child in the Family. I conceive the Heads of the Family are not included, for theſe, though they might be the firſt born Children of their Parents Families, yet were not, nor ever are, called or accounted the firſt-born of their own Families, but the Heads and Roots of them: But for all the reſt I conceive they are all included, becauſe all ſuch were really firſt-born, and did firſt open their Mothers Womb, and all ſuch were to be ſet apart unto the Lord, inſtead of theſe firſt born of the Egyptians now ſlain, Chap. 13. 12, 15. and therefore are in both places to be underſtood in the ſame latitude.

30 And Pharaoh roſe up in the night, he and all his ſervants, and all the Egyptians, and there was a great cry in Egypt: for there was not an houſe p where there was not one dead.

p To wit, of thoſe Houſes which had any firſt born in them, for in divers Families there might be no firſt-born. And ſuch Reſtrictions of the univerſal Particles are frequently underſtood.

31 ¶ And he called for Moſes and Aaron q by night, and ſaid, Riſe up, and get you forth from amongſt my people, * both you, and the children of Iſrael, and go, ſerve the LORD, as ye have ſaid. *Chap. 10. 9.

q (i. e.) He ſent this Meſſage to them, for they came no more to him, Chap. 10. 29.

32 * Alſo take your flocks and your herds, as ye have ſaid, and be gone, and bleſs me alſo r. *Chap. 10. 26.

r Pray to God for me, that I may not periſh by this, or any other Plague.

33 And the Egyptians were urgent s upon the people, that they might ſend them out of the land in haſte: for they ſaid, We be all dead men.

s Not by force, which they durſt not now uſe, but by earneſt and importunate Intreaties, Exod. 11. 8. This was the ground of that Fable of the Heathens mentioned in Tacitus, That the Jews were driven out of Egypt for their Scabs: So they falſly and maliciouſly aſcribed their own Ulcers and Scabs ſent upon them by God to the Iſraelites.

† Or, dough

34 And the people took their dough before it was leavened, their † kneading troughs t being bound up in their cloathes upon their ſhoulders.

t Or, as others rightly render it, their dough lumps, or food, or lumps of paſte unleavened.

* Chap. 3. 22.

35 And the children of Iſrael did according to the word of Moſes: and they borrowed of the Egyptians u * jewels x of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment.

u Either before this time, as they had opportunity, when their hearts were mollified by the foregoing Plagues; or even at this time, when the Iſraelites might well take confidence to borrow, and the Egyptians would be willing to lend them, partly that they might gain their Affections and Prayers, and partly that they might more readily depart from them. x Wherewith they uſed to adorn themſelves in the worſhip of their Idols, and therefore ſuppoſed the Iſraelites might uſe them in the worſhip of their God. Or, veſſels; of which ſee on chap. 11. 2.

* Gen. 15. 14. Chap. 3. 22. Pſal. 105. 37.

36 And the LORD gave the people favour in the ſight of the Egyptians y, ſo that they lent unto them ſuch things as they required z: and they * ſpoiled the Egyptians a.

y (i.e.) Inclined their hearts to do it willingly, and not only out of fear. z Heb. and they lent them, to wit, the Jewels or Veſſels mentioned, ver. 35. a To wit, of their Ornaments. Queſt. Was not this unjuſtly done of the Iſraelites to borrow theſe Jewels which they never paid again? Anſ. No, 1. becauſe they did nothing in this matter but by God's appointment, chap. 11. 1, 2. ſo that if there be any injuſtice, it muſt be in God, in whom there neither can be in any thing, nor is in this thing, the leaſt blot or ſhadow of injuſtice, as well becauſe he hath an unqueſtionable right in, and power to diſpoſe of all perſons and things, as being the Maker, and Giver, and Lord of all; as becauſe there was great and evident reaſon both why the Iſraelites ſhould be recompenced for all their hard Labours and ſufferings, and why the Egyptians ſhould be ſpoiled for their Idolatry, Luxury, and Cruelty to the Iſraelites, and the great benefits which they had received from Joſeph, and from the ſervice of the Iſraelites. 2. Becauſe the Supreme Lord of all forbad them to reſtore what they borrowed, and gave them the entire right and ſole propriety therein. 3. Becauſe tho there was a form and appearance of borrowing and lending, yet indeed the Iſraelites did not ſo much borrow as deſire, as the Hebrew word rendred borrow, (ver. 35.) ſignifies; and the Egyptians did not reckon theſe things as lent, and to be reſtored, but as given, and never to be expected again; even as Pharaoh and his people rightly judged, that if the Iſraelites were once permitted to go out of the Land with their whole Families and Eſtates, they would never return again, chap. 14. 5. And in truth the Egyptians did and might eſteem it a good bargain to give theſe things to redeem their Lives, and to ingage the Iſraelites to a ſpeedy departure, knowing that otherwiſe both their Perſons and all their Eſtates were in extreme hazard. 4. Becauſe, if theſe Jewels were properly borrowed, yet the Egyptians by their cauſeleſs and hoſtile purſuit after the Iſraelites with intent to deſtroy them, did fully diſcharge them from all obligations to reſtitution, and give them a right not only to keep theſe Goods, but to take any other which they could from the Egyptians, according to the known and approved Laws of War.

* Chap. 38. 26. Numb 1. 46. and 11. 21.

37 * And the children of Iſrael journeyed from * Rameſes to Succoth b, about * Six hundred thouſand c on foot, that were men d, beſide children e.

b A place ſo called, either becauſe there the Iſraelites firſt lodged in Booths or Tents, whereas before they dwelt in Houſes; or becauſe there God firſt ſpread his Cloud of fire over them, for a covering, Pſal. 105. 39. c To wit, grown and ſtrong men, and fit for War, among whom there was none feeble or ſick, Pſal. 105. 37. Thus the Heathen Writer Chæremon, mentioned by Joſephus, ſpeaking of this matter, reckons up firſt 250 thouſand, and then 380 thouſand more. d The Hebrew word properly ſignifies ſtrong and able men, fit to go on foot in battel-array; ſo decrepit or weak old men are not comprehended in this number. e And Women, whoſe preſence and aſſiſtance is neceſſary to them. See Exod 10. 24. Some ſay the Hebrew word taph ſignifies their houſholds or families, which conſiſt principally of Women and Children.

38 And a † mixed multitude f went up alſo with them, and flocks, and herds, even very much cattle.

f Conſiſting of Egyptians or other people, who went with them, either becauſe they were their ſervants, or that by this means they might free themſelves from the ſervitude which they endured under hard Maſters in Egypt; or becauſe the glorious works which they had ſeen, had raiſed their eſteem of God and of his People, and made them expect a ſhare in the great Felicities which they preſumed would be conferred upon a People ſo highly honoured and beloved of ſuch an Almighty and Allſufficient God. And becauſe their Hearts were not ſincere, nor their Ends right, they ſoon repented of their choice, Numb. 11. 4. Compare Zech. 8. 23.

* Chap. 6. 1. and 11. 1.

39 And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Egypt, for it was not leavened g: becauſe * they were thruſt out of Egypt h, and could not tarry, neither had they prepared for themſelves any victuals.

g Both becauſe leaven was forbidden to them at that time, and becauſe the great haſte required gave them not time for leavening it. h Not by force, but by importunate requeſts, as was obſerved on ver. 33. Thus men are ſaid to be driven to worſhip the ſun, moon, &c. when they are perſuaded to it, Deut. 4. 19.

40 Now the ſojourning of the children of Iſrael, who dwelt in Egypt, was * four hundred and thirty years i.

i It is plain that thoſe years are to be computed from the firſt Promiſe made to Abraham, Gen. 12. 1, 2. to the giving of the Law, from Gal 3. 17. where this is affirmed. And although it doth not plainly appear when that Promiſe was made, becauſe the Scripture mentions not Abraham's Age, neither when it was made, nor when Abraham came to Haran with his Father, Gen. 11. 31. but only when he went out of Haran, being 75 years old, Gen. 12. 4. yet a good while after it was made, and, as it may ſeem more than probable, 30 years afterward, it is manifeſt there were only 400 years of this time to come, Gen. 15. 13. And many more years paſſed ere there was ſuch a man as Iſrael or Jacob, and more ere there were any children of Iſrael, or of Jacob, and yet more ere they came into Egypt. How then can this be true which is here ſaid? Anſ. 1. Some affirm that they were in Egypt 430 years, which is ſooner ſaid than proved. 2. Some ancient Hebrew Copies are ſaid to have had more words than ours now have; for the LXX, and Samaritan Interpreters after the words in Egypt, read, and, in the land of Canaan. And ſome other Copies after the word, who, add, together with their fathers, or, and their fathers. And ſo the difficulty vaniſheth. And if it ſhould be granted, that there were ſome few ſuch errors in our preſent Copies in matters purely Hiſtorical or Chronological, which God might permit to be there for many wiſe and holy Reaſons, yet this is no prejudice to our Faith, or to God's Providence, which hath been pleaſed to have ſo ſpecial a care of thoſe Texts which concern the eſſentials of Faith and a good Life, that all Copies are agreed in them. 3. Theſe 430 years are not by the Text confined to Egypt, but may be extended to any place where they were ſojourners; and the Hebrew word, aſher, is not to be rendred, which, as relating to the time of their ſojourning, but who, as belonging to the perſons ſojourning, as our Tranſlation well renders it; and the ſenſe is, that they were ſojourners, or, which is all one, ſtrangers, or dwellers in a land that was not theirs, as it is ſaid Gen. 15. 13. for 430 years. And the emphaſis lies in the Hebrew word moſhab, which is here fitly rendred ſojourning; as toſhab, coming from the ſame root, is commonly uſed for a ſojourner, or one that lives in a Place or Land which is not his, as Levit. 22. 10. and 25. 35, 40. Numb. 35. 15. Pſal. 39. 12. There is now but one difficulty remains, How the Children of Iſrael can be ſaid to be ſojourners ſo long, ſeeing much of this time paſſed before they were born? Anſ. As Levi is ſaid to pay tithes in Abraham, Heb. 7. 9. becauſe he was in the Loyns of Abraham when Abraham paid Tythes; with much more reaſon might the Children of Iſrael be ſaid to ſojourn ſo long, becauſe they ſojourned a great part of it in their own perſons, and the reſt in the Loyns of their Parents. And as oft times when the Parents only are mentioned, the Children are included or intended, as Gen. 12. 3. in thee, i. e. in thy Seed; and Gen. 13. 17. I will give it (the Land) unto thee, i. e. to thy Seed; and Jacob is ſaid to be brought up again out of Egypt, Gen. 46. 4. to wit, in his Poſterity; and David is oft put for his Poſterity, as 1 King. 12. 16. Ezek. 34. 23. and 37. 24, 25. why may not Parents alſo be underſtood ſometimes, when the Children only are mentioned? But we need not make Suppoſitions, ſeeing we have Examples; the Perſecution in Egypt, and deliverance out of it, which happened to the Parents only, being attributed to their Poſterity, who neither felt the one, nor ſaw the other, Deut. 26. 5. &c. Compare Pſal 66. 6. Judg. 10. 11, 12. And the ſouls of the houſe of Jacob (i. e.) of the Children of Iſrael, for by houſe it is evident he means only Children) which came with Jacob into Egypt, are ſaid to be threeſcore and ten ſouls, Gen. 46. 26, 27. In which number and title Jacob himſelf is confeſſedly included. And therefore upon the very ſame ground, under this title of the children of Iſrael, we muſt underſtand Iſrael himſelf, who being the chief author and ſubject of this ſojourning in Egypt, it were unreaſonable to exclude him from the number of theſe ſojourners. And this Phraſe being once extended to their immediate Parent, may by a parity of reaſon be extended to their great Grandfather Abraham, as being the firſt Author of that famous Peregrination or Sojourning, which being begun in Canaan, ended in Egypt. Add to this, that the word Iſrael, as it is put for the People or Children of Iſrael, is elſewhere uſed for the whole Church of God, as Rom. 9. 6. and therefore may well include Abraham as the Father, and, under God, the Founder of it. And the title of the children of Iſrael might well be given to all that People, and to the Family from which they deſcended, becauſe they were now known by that name. And that this indeed was Moſes his meaning, which is here produced, may be further gathered from hence, that otherwiſe Moſes had contradicted himſelf; for by the years of the Lives of Jacob, and Levi, and Kohath, and Amram, and Moſes himſelf, which he preciſely ſets down, it appears that the ſojourning of the Children of Iſrael, ſtrictly ſo called, in Egypt, was not above 215 years. And it is abſurd to think that ſo wiſe and learned a man, as all acknowledge Moſes to have been, ſhould commit ſo groſs an error, eſpecially ſeeing that Generation could eaſily have confuted him.

41 And it came to paſs at the end of the four hundred and thirty years †, even the ſelf-ſame day k it came to paſs, that all the hoſts of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt.

† If this be the right Tranſlation, the 430 years mentioned Gal. 3. 17. are to be taken in a latitude, for about or near ſo many years, as is very frequent in Scripture, and other Authors; elſe there wants one year of it, becauſe the Law was not given till about a year after their coming out of Egypt. Nor was it of any concernment to the Apoſtle's Argument there, whether it wanted a year of that number or no, as here it is. But the words may be rendred here, as Gen. 7. 12. in the body or ſtrength of the day, i. e. when the day-light was full, and clear, and ſtrong, when it was broad day-light, the Egyptians ſeeing, and not being able to hinder them. If it be ſaid, they went out by night, Deut 16. 1. that is true, in regard of their reſolution, and preparation, and the beginning of their journey; but their actual marching forth was by day-light, or in the morning; nor could it be done ſooner from the nature of the thing, and the time neceſſarily required for ſo great a work. k This Circumſtance is noted to ſet forth the accurateneſs and infallibility of God's Foreknowledge, and the efficacy of his Providence in accompliſhing all his own Counſels in his own appointed time.

* See Deut. 16. 6. † Heb. a night of obſervations.

42 It is * a † night to be much obſerved unto the LORD for bringing them out from the land of Egypt: This is that night of the LORD to be obſerved of all the children of Iſrael in their generations.

43 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes and Aaron, This is the ordinance of the Paſſeover l: there ſhall no ſtranger m eat thereof.

l This which here followeth is the law or appointment of God concerning the celebration of the Paſſeover. m Or, foreigner, who is ſo both by Nation and Religion: For, if he were circumciſed, he might eat of it, ver. 44 48

44 But every man-ſervant that is bought for money, when thou haſt circumciſed him n, then ſhall he eat thereof.

n For the Maſter had a power to circumciſe ſuch perſons, Gen. 17 12. And though it is probable, that by their intereſt in them, and a diligent inſtruction of them, they made them willing to receive Circumciſion, yet it ſeems they had a power to compel them to it; but then Circumciſion was not to them a Seal of God's Covenant, nor of their Religion, for that muſt be matter of choice, but only a civil badge, or a note of that Family or People into which they were politically incorporated.

45 A foreiner, and an hired ſervant ſhall not eat thereof o.

o Except he ſubmit to Circumciſion, as ver. 43. See Numb. 9. 14.

* Num. 9. 12.

46 * In one houſe ſhall it be eaten, thou ſhalt not carry forth ought of the fleſh abroad out of the houſe p, neither ſhall ye break a bone thereof q.

p Partly becauſe they were all obliged not to go out of the Houſe till the morning, ver. 22. and to leave none of it till that time, ver. 10 partly, leſt it ſhould be either ſuperſtitiouſly or profanely abuſed; and partly to ſignify, that Chriſt and Salvation are not to be had out of God's Houſe or Church q To take out and eat the marrow of it. This was required, partly to mind them of their haſty departure out of Egypt, wherein they had no leiſure to break and empty the Bones; and principally, that it might be an evident Type of the Lord Jeſus, in whom this was literally fulfilled, Joh. 19 36. The Bones were burnt with the other remainders of the Lamb.

49 One law ſhall be to him that is home-born, and unto the ſtranger that ſojourneth among you.

50 Thus did all the children of Iſrael: as the LORD commanded Moſes and Aaron, ſo did they.

* Chap. 12. 25, 26.

5 And it ſhall be when the LORD ſhall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites: which he ſware unto thy fathers to give thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, * that thou ſhalt keep this ſervice g in this month.

g Which is ſpoken of before, and in the following Verſes. From this place it is evident, the Iſraelites were not obliged to this ſervice in the Wilderneſs without a particular command from God. See Deut. 12 1, 9.

* Chap. 12. 15, 16.

6 * Seven days thou ſhalt eat unleavened bread, and in the ſeventh day ſhall be a feaſt to the LORD.

7 Unleavened bread ſhall be eaten ſeven days: and there ſhall no leavened bread be ſeen with thee, neither ſhall there be leaven ſeen with thee in all thy quarters.

8 And thou ſhalt ſhew thy ſon in that day, ſaying, This is done becauſe of that which the LORD did unto me, when I came forth out of Egypt.

* See verſe 16 Numb. 15. 38. Deut. 11. 18. Prov. 1. 9. Mat. 23. 5.

9 And it ſhall be for * a ſign unto thee upon thine hand h, and for a memoral between thine eyes i, that the LORDS law may be in thy mouth: for with a ſtrong hand hath the LORD brought thee out of Egypt.

h The celebration of this Feaſt ſhall be to thee inſtead of a mark which a man makes, or a ring, or any thing elſe which he puts upon his Hand or Arm, to bring any thing to his remembrance. For ſuch things his Eye is moſt frequently fixed upon. Compare Cant. 8. 6. Iſa. 49. 16. Jer. 22. 24. Hag. 2. 23. i Inſtead of any Monument or Memorial, which is placed between, and therefore directly before a man's Eyes, which he can ſcarcely overlook, and therefore muſt needs bring to remembrance the thing which he would not forget. Such Proverbial Phraſes are uſual in Scripture, as Deut. 6. 8. Prov 3. 3. and 6. 21. and 7. 3. and are not to be underſtood literally, as the ſuperſtitious Jews underſtood them, who hence derive their cuſtom of wearing ſcrowls of Parchment upon their Foreheads, and Arms, and Garments, which they call Phylacteries, wherein they wrote certain portions of Scripture. But they might as well have added parcels of God's Law to be kept in their Mouths, becauſe it follows, That the Lords law may be in thy mouth; from whence we may better infer, that neither mouth, nor hand, nor eyes are to be properly underſtood, for then it had been an improper method to faſten a Parchment between their Eyes, that it might be in their Mouths; but figuratively, as they are commonly underſtood in Scripture.

10 Thou ſhalt therefore keep this ordinance in his ſeaſon from year to year k.

k Heb. From days to days. But days in the Hebrew Tongue are oft put for a compleat year. Of which ſee Gen. 4 3. Lev. 25. 29. Amos 4. 4.

11 ¶ And it ſhall be when the LORD ſhall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites l, as he ſware unto thee, and to thy fathers, and ſhall give it thee:

m (i. e.) Separate it from the reſt; reſign thy right in it to God. Heb. Cauſe it to paſs, not through the Fire, as that Verb is uſed Deut. 18. 10. 2 Kings 16. 3. but under the Rod; as it is uſed and more fully expreſſed, Lev. 27. 32. which was the Rite when any thing was ſeparated and conſecrated to God n Devoted to him, either to be ſacrificed, if it was clean, or to be otherwiſe deſtroyed, if it was unclean, as it here follows.

o An unclean Creature, and therefore this Rule was to be obſerved in all other unclean Creatures, as appears, 1. Becauſe the reaſon of this Law is common to all ſuch. 2. By comparing this place with Numb. 18. 15 3. Becauſe the firſt born of all Beaſts were appropriated to God, and becauſe many of them were unclean, and ſo could not be ſacriſiced, there was no other way of offering them to God, but by redemption, or a price paid for them. And the ſingle exception of the price of a Dog in this caſe (Deut. 23. 18.) doth ſufficiently intimate, that the price of all other unclean Creatures was allowed and required. The Aſs alone is here named for all the reſt, becauſe this Creature was moſt common, and moſt uſeful, and yet was not to be ſpared; whence it was eaſy to infer, that this courſe was much rather to be obſerved in other Creatures which were of leſs uſe. p Or, Cut off his neck, or head, as the word is uſed Deut. 21. 4. Iſa 66 3. becauſe being conſecrated to God, it was not to be applied to any profane or common uſe.

† Heb. to morrow.

14 ¶ And it ſhall be when thy ſon asketh thee † in time to come, ſaying, What is this? that thou ſhalt ſay unto him, By ſtrength of hand the LORD brought us out from Egypt, from the houſe of bondage q.

q Which is added to teach Parents in all ſucceeding Ages, that it is their Duty to inſtruct their Children in the word and works of God, and in the nature and reaſons of every particular kind or part of God's worſhip and ſervice. See Deut. 15. 5. Pſal. 66. 4. Hoſ. 2. 14.

15 And it came to paſs, when Pharaoh would hardly let us go, that the LORD ſlew all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt, both the firſt-born of man, and the firſt-born of beaſt; therefore I ſacrifice to the LORD all that openeth the matrix, being males: but all the firſt-born of my children I redeem.

16 And it ſhall be for a token upon thine hand, and for frontlets r between thine eyes: For by ſtrength of hand the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt.

r Inſtead of frontlets. The ſenſe is, This practice ſhall make your deliverance from Egypt as freſh and evident to you, and to your Children, as any thing which you ſee hanged or written upon one anothers Foreheads. See Ezek. 9. 4. It ſeems ſtrange to me, that they that underſtand the ſign on the hand, and the memorial between the eyes, verſe 9. Metaphorically, ſhould underſtand the frontlets between the eyes in this place properly, ſeeing the phraſe is perfectly the ſame; only here is a more particular alluſion to the cuſtom of the Egyptians, which uſed to wear ſome devices upon their Foreheads, which probably they called Totaphoth, which were Memorials of their Idols, or of ſomething relating to them. And therefore it ſeems unlikely that he would here preſcribe the uſe of the ſame things to the Jews; and the more probable meaning of the phraſe is only this, that this practice would be as effectual and uſeful a remembrancer of this mighty and glorious work of God in bringing them out of Egypt, as thoſe contrivances were to the Egyptians of their Idols.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God led them not through the way of the land of the Philiſtines s, although that was near t; for God ſaid, Leſt peradventure u the people repent them when they ſee war x, and they return to Egypt y.

s A fierce and warlike People, whereof they had ſad and late experience, 1 Chron. 7. 21. t There being this way but a few days journey between Egypt and Canaan. u God ſpeaks after the manner of men, for nothing was unknown nor uncertain to him. Though the Hebrew Particle pen, doth not always imply doubting, but oft-times only ſignifies leſt, as Gen. 3. 3. and 38. 23. Numb. 20. 18. x Which they were likely to do, becauſe the War would probably be long and hot, and their Bodies were much weakned, and their Spirits and Courage broken by a tedious and grievous Bondage; and therefore it was fit that before they were called to ſuch ſharp conflicts, they ſhould be hardned by the labours of a long and troubleſome journey, and their Faith ſhould be ſtrengthened by further experience of God's Power, and Faithfulneſs, and Goodneſs, and by the glorious appearance of God at Mount Sinai, and thoſe Commands, Promiſes, and Encouragements there given them. But though this which is here mentioned was one, yet it was not the only reaſon of his Counſel, but there were other cauſes of it; the Egyptians were to be drowned in the Sea, the Iſraelites to be further tried, Deut. 8. 2. and full meaſure to be allowed to the iniquity of the Amorites. y As afterwards they attempted to do, Numb. 14. upon a like occaſion.

† Or, by five in a rank.

z Or, Armed, or girt with Swords and Belts about the fifth Rib, as the Hebrew word may imply. But it doth not appear how, or whence they ſhould get their Arms, nor how the Egyptians would permit ſo numerous a People to have, and to keep Arms, eſpecially when they had a long time oppreſſed and exaſperated them, and made them deſperate. It is true, ſome few of them might procure Arms, but this word is here uſed concerning the whole Body of them. Others render it by fives, five and five in a Rank, that is, by an uſual Synecdoche, in Military Order, not doubtfully and fearfully, but confidently and couragiouſly; not confuſedly, as men that ſteal or run away, but in good order, ſo as one might not hinder another. Which interpretation is ſtrengthened by comparing Joſ. 1. 14. It may be rendred girt, to wit, about the fifth Rib, as the word implies, the place where men uſed to gird their Garments, this being the uſual poſture for Travellers: He implies that they went out reſolved upon, and prepared for their journey.

It was a Cloud erected towards Heaven, like a Pillar upwards; but downwards flat and broad, ſpread over the body of the People, and afterwards more eminently over the Tabernacle. f Which was altogether neceſſary in thoſe vaſt and pathleſs Deſerts, Numbers 10. 33. Deuteronomie 1. 33.

23 And the Egyptians purſued, and went in after them, to the midſt of the Sea; even all Pharaoh's horſes, his charets, and his hoſemen.

c The night was anciently divided, not by hours, as now it is, but by watches, which ſometimes were accounted four, and ſometimes but three; howſoever the laſt of them was called the morning-watch. Then when they hoped for moſt advantage in the purſuit, they met with their greateſt diſaſter. d Called the Angel of God, v. 19. By which promiſcuous uſe of theſe Titles it ſufficiently appears, that this was no ordinary Angel, but the Son of God. e With an eye of indignation and vengeance, as that phraſe is uſed, Job 40. 12. See alſo Amos 9. 4. f With moſt terrible and prodigious Winds, and Rains, and Lightnings, and both claps and bolts of Thunder, as may be gathered from Exod. 15. 10. Pſal. 77. 18, 19. and as ſome ancient Hiſtorians relate, with terrours alſo in their minds, &c.

† Or, made them to go heavily. 25 And took off their charet-wheels g, † that they drave them heavily h: ſo that the Egyptians ſaid, Let us flee from the face of Iſrael: for the LORD fighteth for them, againſt the Egyptians i.

They did not underſtand and conſider this, though it was notorious, to them eſpecially, by many great and freſh inſtances, till it was too late to prevent it; therein being a Type of moſt Sinners, who will not be convinced, nor repent, till they be paſt all benefit by it.

26 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand over the ſea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians; upon their charets, and upon their horſemen.

† Heb. ſhook off. Deut. 11. 4. 27 And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand over the ſea, and the ſea returned to his ſtrength k when the morning appeared: and the Egyptians fled againſt it l: and the LORD † overthrew the Egyptians in the midſt of the ſea.

k To its natural and ordinary courſe, and motion, which is ſwift and ſtrong, which it had been hitherto reſtrained by a ſtronger hand, and rendred in a manner impotent and weak But now, Sampſon-like, when its bonds are broken it puts forth its former and natural ſtrength. But indeed this word may belong to the morning, and ſo a learned man tranſlates the place, and that very agreeably to the uſe and order of the Hebrew words, the Sea returned, to wit, to its courſe, when the morning appeared according to, or in his ſtrength, i. e. when it was full and clear morning; as we oft read of the ſtrength of the day. See Gen. 7. 13. Job 21 23. So the ſtrength of the morning is here oppoſed to the morning-watch. l Againſt the Sea, for which way ſoever they fled, the waters met them, and fought againſt them.

* Hab. 3. 8, 10. * Pſal. 106. 11. 28 And the * waters returned, and covered the charets, and the horſemen, and all the hoſt of Pharaoh that came into the ſea after them m: there remained not ſo much as * one of them.

m (i. e.) After the Children of Iſrael. Note here, the relative is put without an antecedent before it; the antecedent being to be underſtood and gathered out of the following Verſe, or out of the courſe of the ſtory. An obſervation which is very uſeful for the underſtanding of many Scriptures. See the note on Gen. 3. 1.

29 But the children of Iſrael walked upon dry land in the midſt of the ſea; and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand and on their left.

30 Thus the LORD ſaved Iſrael that day out of the hand of the Egyptians: and Iſrael ſaw the Egyptians dead upon the ſea-ſhore n.

n Which was done either 1. By the natural power of the Sea, which caſteth up its dead bodies after a certain time; till which time God cauſed the Iſraelites to abide near the Sea, that they might ſee this for their comfort. Or, 2. By the mighty power of God, which brought them, and their Arms too; as many probably conceive, to ſhore, before the uſual time. Queſt. How could the Iſraelites, both they and their Cattle, in ſo little time get over that great Sea? Anſ. 1. The Hebrew and ſome other Interpreters deny that they went over, and tell us, they only went into the Sea, and fetched a compaſs in it, that they might allure the Egyptians to follow them, and then by Moſes his conduct returned to the Egyptian ſhore again. The principal ground of which Opinion is this, That as they went into the Sea out of the Wilderneſs of Etham, Exod. 13. 20. ſo they came again out of the Sea into the Wilderneſs of Etham, Numb. 33. 8. But the ſameneſs of the name doth not prove that it is the ſame place, nothing being more frequent in Scripture, than for divers places to be called by one and the ſame name. And the Iſraelites might poſſibly give the name of Etham to this Deſert on the Arabian ſide of the Red-ſea, either for its great reſemblance to that Deſert ſo called on the Egyptian ſide; or to intimate, that God by dividing the Sea, had made that and this to be one continued Deſert. Or the name of Etham might be common to all that Deſert at the end of the Red-Sea, and on both ſides of it. Anſw. 2. They might all conveniently paſs over the Sea to the Arabian ſhore in the time allowed for it, either by the mighty power of God which could eaſily make both Men and Beaſts to do it in much leſs than ordinary time, or even by the courſe of nature; for that part of the Sea was not above eight or nine miles over, as Geographers and others affirm. And the time allotted for their paſſage ſeems to me to be much more than Interpreters have aſſigned for it. For the Egyptians and Iſraelites were divided one from another by the cloudy Pillar all the night, ver. 20. and a ſtrong Eaſt-wind blew all that night, ver. 21. The next morning, as I apprehend it, the Cloud ſtill keeping between them, and poſſibly covering the Egyptians with groſs and horrible darkneſs which hindred their march, the whole body of the Iſraelites, and their Cattle too, are drawn by Moſes his direction near the ſhore, and, it may be, the Cattle were put into the Sea, all which might well take up moſt of that day; then towards the evening they enter into the Sea, and ſo proceed, and the Cloud withdrawing further from the Egyptians, and following the Iſraelites, the Egyptians purſue after them, and, as it is very probable from the nature and reaſon of the thing, ſtand debating ſome conſiderable time, when they came to the ſhore, whether they ſhould venture to follow them into the Sea or no. At laſt, the worſt Counſel prevails, as it generally happens when a People are under a Divine Infatuation, and into the Sea they go, and by the beginning of the morning-watch they draw near the Iſraelites, when God ſeaſonably appears for Iſrael's ſuccour, and puts a ſtop to the march of the Egyptians. So the morning watch mentioned ver. 24. I take to be, not the morning watch of that night, mentioned ver. 20, 21. (for all that night, and therefore the morning-watch of that night, which was a third, or at leaſt, a fourth part of it, was now paſt and gone) but the next morning-watch after that night, and the ſucceeding day; which ſeems much more reaſonable, than to ſhrink up the march, firſt of the Iſraelites, and then of the Egyptians, into about three hours time, which is the time between the midnight and the morning-watch. Nor is there any thing in the Text which in the leaſt contradicts this Opinion, but only that this days interval and work is not mentioned in this Story; whereas ſuch omiſſions are frequent in Scripture relations, in which the ſubſtance only is mentioned, and many circumſtances omitted, whereof we have ſeen ſome inſtances already, and ſhall meet with many more hereafter.

they went out into the wilderneſs of Shur a : and they went three days in the wilderneſs, and found no water.

a So uſually called, Gen. 16. 7. and by the Iſraelites Etham, as may be gathered by comparing this place with Numb. 33. 8. for both there and here it is ſaid they went three days in this wilderneſs.

23 ¶ And when they came to Marah, they could not drink of the waters of * Marah, for they were bitter : therefore the name of it was called † Marah.

* Numb. 33. 8. † That is, bitterneſs.

24 And the people murmured againſt Moſes, ſaying, What ſhall we drink ?

* Eccleſ. 38. 5. * Chap. 16. 4.

b Not ſo much by any vertue in that Tree, as by the Power of God who uſed this, rather as a ſign to the Iſraelites, than as an Inſtrument to himſelf in this Work. c God, or Moſes in God's Name, and by his Order, conſtituted and publiſhed to them a Statute. Which ſeems to be underſtood not of any particular Statute or Law, as that concerning the Sabbath, or their Duty to their Parents, or the like ; for the ſpecifying of their Duties is reſerved to another time and place ; but of a general Law or Rule formerly given, and now ſolemnly renewed by Moſes at God's command, like that given to Abraham their Father, Gen. 17. 1. Walk before me and be perfect. God having thus far performed his part of that Covenant made with Abraham and his Seed, to bring them out of Egypt towards Canaan, tells them that he expects, and requires of them their Obſervance of the Condition of that Covenant, and gives them this indefinite and univerſal Law or Precept, that they ſhould obey and fulfil all the commands which God had already laid upon them or their Parents, and which he ſhould hereafter reveal to them. This ſenſe may be gathered out of the following verſe, wherein he explains what he meant by this Statute, even all God's Statutes or Commandments, which if they would keep, he engageth himſelf to preſerve and deliver them. So it is only a change of the Number, the Singular, Statute, being put for the Plural, Statutes, which is a Figure very frequently uſed both in Scripture, and in other Authors. God having now eaſed them of the hard and iron Yoke of the Egyptians, puts his ſweet and eaſy Yoke upon them ; and having undertaken to be their King, and Protector, and Captain, he claims their ſubjection to himſelf, and to his Laws or Statutes. * Or, tryed them, i. e. the Iſraelites. There he tryed both their Faith by the difficulty now mentioned, viz. their want of Water, and their future Obedience by this general command, which he is about to branch forth into divers particulars.

26 And ſaid, If thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his ſight, and wilt give ear to his commandments, and keep all his ſtatutes, * I will put none of theſe diſeaſes upon thee d, which I have brought upon the Egyptians : for I am the LORD * that healeth thee e.

* Deut. 7. 15. * Chap. 23. 25. Pſal. 103 3. and 147. 3.

d Nor other Evils or Plagues ; but on the contrary, I will bleſs thee with all manner of bleſſings. Under one branch or part of the bleſſings of God's Covenant, he includes all the reſt by a very common Synecdoche. e Or, thy Phyſician, for all thy Maladies both of Soul and Body.

27 ¶ * And they came to Elim, where were twelve wells of water, and threeſcore and ten palm-trees f, and they encamped there by the waters.

* Numb. 33. 9.

f Which were both pleaſant for their ſhade, and refreſhing for their ſweet Fruit. Thus the Iſraelites are obliged and encouraged to the Obedience commanded, by being put into better circumſtances than they were under in their laſt ſtation.

CHAP. XVI.

The children of Iſrael ſojourn in the wilderneſs of Sin, 1. Murmur againſt Moſes, 2, 3. God promiſes to ſupply their wants with bread from heaven, 4. And directs about preparing this bread, 5. Moſes reproves the people for murmuring, 7, 8. Appoints them to come before the Lord, 9. God's glory appeareth in the cloud, 10——12. He ſendeth quails, 13. and manna, 15. Every one gather a quantity, 16—18. The command about keeping it, 19. is diſobeyed, 20. The time of gathering, 21. Their increaſing the quantity on the ſixth day, 22—24. The command concerning the ſabbath, 25, 26. diſobeyed, 27. for which God is angry, 28. Moſes's counſel, 29. They reſt, 30. The name of the bread, 31. The command concerning the preſervation of the manna, 32, 33. The time of the manna's continuance, 35.

AND they took their journey from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Iſrael came a unto the wilderneſs of Sin b, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the ſecond month, after their departing out of the land of Egypt.

a Though not immediately ; for there is another Stage of theirs by the Red-Sea, mentioned Numb. 33. 10. (in which Chapter Moſes deſigned exactly to ſet down all their Stations) but omitted here, becauſe nothing remarkable happened in it ; and Moſes in this place deſigned to record only the memorable Paſſages. b A great Wilderneſs between the Red-Sea and Mount Sinai, but differing from that Sin mentioned Numb. 20. 1.

2 And the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured c againſt Moſes and Aaron in the wilderneſs.

c For want of Meat, as appears from the following Verſe, their Proviſions brought out of Egypt being now ſpent.

3 And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto them, Would to God we had died by the hand of the LORD d in the land of Egypt, * when we ſate by the fleſh-pots, and when we did eat bread to the full e : for ye have brought us forth into this wilderneſs to kill this whole aſſembly with hunger f.

d By any of thoſe Plagues wherewith God deſtroyed the Egyptians. e Which is not probable ; but they amplify their former Mercies, that they might aggravate their preſent Calamity, as the manner of impatient and ungodly Men is. f Queſt. What danger was there of dying with Hunger, ſeeing they had their Flocks and Herds which they brought out of Egypt ? Anſw. 1. There was no great danger of it, but they uſe aggravating Expreſſions, as diſcontented perſons uſe to do. 2. Their Flocks and Herds were not ſo numerous as to ſuffice them for above a months Proviſion, if they had all been ſlain and eaten, as it is implied Numb. 11. 21, 22. So there was ſome danger of it, though neither immediate, nor great. 3. They were it ſeems reſolved to ſpare theſe, partly for increaſe, and for their future Subſiſtence ; and partly for Sacrifice, as not knowing how many of them they ſhould be required to offer. See Exod. 10. 26.

4 ¶ Then ſaid the LORD unto Moſes, Behold, I will rain * bread g from heaven † for you : and the people ſhall go out, and gather † a certain rate every day h, that I may * prove them i, whether they will walk in my law or no.

7 And in the morning, then ye ſhall ſee the glory of the LORD m, for that he heareth your murmurings againſt the LORD: And what are we that ye murmur againſt us ?

8 And Moſes ſaid, This ſhall be when the LORD ſhall give you in the evening fleſh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full: for that the LORD heareth your murmurings, which ye murmur againſt him ; and what are we ? your murmurings are not againſt us, but * againſt the LORD.

n Either before the cloudy Pillar, where God was eſpecially preſent ; or in the place of God's Worſhip. For though the great Tabernacle was not yet built, yet it ſeems from Exod. 33. 7. there was a little Tabernacle. For as the Solemn, and Publick, and Sabbath-Worſhip was among them before the Tabernacle was built, ſo it was neceſſary there ſhould be ſome place where they did Aſſemble together, and perform that Worſhip which was proper to thoſe times, and there God was ſuppoſed to be preſent in a peculiar manner.

t Or, What is this? which beſt ſuits with the following reaſon, For they wiſt not what it was. Man ſignifies what in the Egyptian Tongue; and it is not ſtrange that the Iſraelites uſe one of their words, being newly come out of their Land. Hence this is called Manna, but it is of a different Nature from the ordinary Manna which now we uſe only as phyſick for purging; whereas this Manna was food, and nouriſhing, being prepared by the great God for this uſe.

It might ſeem too much, but it muſt be remembred that it was a very light Meat, and eaſy of Digeſtion; nor was every one obliged to eat up his whole portion, as we ſhall ſee.

17 And the children of Iſrael did ſo, and gathered ſome more, ſome leſs y.

18 And when they did mete it with an omer, he that gathered much, had nothing over, and he that gathered little, had no lack z: they gathered every man according to his eating.

20 Notwithſtanding, they hearkened not unto Moſes, but ſome of them left of it b until the morning, and it bred worms and ſtank c: and Moſes was wroth with them.

21 And they gathered it every morning, every man according to his eating: and when the ſun waxed hot, it melted d.

d To wit, as much of it as was left upon the ground. This was not from its own nature, which was ſo ſolid that it could indure the Fire, and was bruiſed by a Peſtel; but from God's wiſe Providence, partly that it might not be corrupted or trodden under foot, or otherwiſe abuſed, and ſo deſpiſed; partly that it might not remain there to tempt any of them to gather more of it than they ſhould; and partly that all their ſtock of proviſion being waſted, they might be obliged to the more entire dependance upon God. And this is here mentioned as a reaſon why they gathered it in the morning.

22 ¶ And it came to paſs, that on the ſixth day they gathered twice as much bread e, two omers for one man: and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moſes f.

e Conſidering God's preſent Providence in cauſing it to fall in double proportion, and remembring that the next day was the Sabbath-day, which God had bleſſed and ſanctified to his own immediate ſervice, Gen. 2. 3. and therefore was not to be employed in ſervile works, ſuch as the gathering of Manna was, they rightly concluded, that God's commands delivered verſe 16, 19. reached only to ordinary days, and muſt in all reaſon give place to the more ancient and neceſſary Law of the Sabbath. f Either to acquaint him with this increaſe of the Miracle, or to take his direction for their Practiſe, becauſe they found two commands ſeemingly claſhing together, and therefore needed and deſired his advice.

23 And he ſaid unto them, This is that which the LORD hath ſaid g, To morrow is the reſt of the holy ſabbath unto the LORD: bake h that which you will bake, to day i, and ſeethe k that ye will ſeethe, and that which remaineth over, lay up for you to be kept until the morning †.

g Either to Moſes by Inſpiration; or to the former Patriarchs upon like occaſions; this practice is agreeable to the former Word and Law of God concerning the Sabbath, as it follow. h The Manna was dreſſed theſe two ways, Numb. 11. 8. i Theſe words, to day, are not in the Original, and poſſibly are better left out than taken in; or if they be taken in, they do not ſeem to me, as they do to many others, to prove, that they were commanded to bake or ſeethe on the ſixth day all that they were to eat both that day, and upon the following Sabbath, or that they were forbidden to bake or ſeethe it upon the Sabbath-day; for there is not a word here to that pupoſe; and it is apparent from the whole Context, that the Reſt of the Sabbath is not oppoſed to their baking or ſeething of it, but to their going out into the Field to gather it. Nay the contrary is here implied, becauſe after they had baken and ſodden what they intended to bake or ſeethe, part of the Manna did, as is here expreſly added, remain over, and was reſerved for the Sabbath days Proviſion, and that unbaken and unſodden, otherwiſe it would not have been noted as a miraculous thing, that it did not Stink nor breed Worms, verſe 24. † What you do not eat this day, keep for the next day's Proviſion.

24 And they laid it up till the morning, as Moſes bade: and it did not ſtink, neither was there any worm therein k.

k As there was before, verſe 20. So great a difference there is between the doing of a thing upon God's Command, and with his Bleſſing, and the doing of the ſame thing againſt his Will, and with his Curſe.

25 And Moſes ſaid, Eat that to day l, for to day is a ſabbath unto the LORD m: to day ye ſhall not find it in the field.

l Theſe words were ſpoken upon the Morning of the Sabbath-day, as appears from the foregoing Verſe. m (i. e.) Wholly conſecrated to his Service, and therefore not to be employed in ſervile Works.

26 Six days ye ſhall gather it, but on the ſeventh day which is the ſabbath, in it there ſhall be none.

27 ¶ And it came to paſs, that there went out ſome of the people on the ſeventh day for to gather, and they found none.

28 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes n, How long o refuſe ye to keep my commandments, and my laws?

n That he might ſpeak it to the People. o He ſignifies that this was an old Diſeaſe in them, to diſobey God's Precepts, and to pollute his Sabbaths.

29 See, for that the LORD hath given you the ſabbath p, therefore he giveth you on the ſixth day the bread of two days: abide ye every man in his place: let no man go out of his place q on the ſeventh day.

p Hath given to you, and to your Fathers, that great command and priviledge of the Sabbath. q Out of his Houſe or Tent into the Field to gather Manna, as appears from the occaſion and reaſon of the Law here before mentioned. For otherwiſe they might and ought to go out of their Houſes to the Publick Aſſemblies, as appears from Levit. 23. 3. Acts 15. 21. and to lead their Cattle to watering, Luke 13. 15. or to help them out of a Pit, Matth. 12. 11. And a Sabbath-days Journey was permitted, Acts 1. 12.

30 So the people reſted r on the ſeventh day.

r Or ceaſed, to wit, from gathering Manna, by comparing this with verſe 27. and conſequently from all works of that nature.

31 And the houſe of Iſrael called the name thereof Manna: and * it was like coriander-ſeed s, white: and the taſt of it t was like wafers made with honey.

* Numb. 11. 7.

s In Shape and Figure, but not in Colour, for that is dark-coloured, but this white, as it follows here, like Bdellium, &c. Numb. 11. 7. t When it was raw; but when it was dreſt it was like freſh Oyl, Numb. 11. 8.

32 ¶ And Moſes ſaid, This is the thing which the LORD commandeth: Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations, that they may ſee the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderneſs, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt.

33 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, * Take a pot, and put an omer full of Manna therein, and lay it up before the LORD u, to be kept for your generations.

* 1 Kings 8. 9. Heb. 9.

u In the Tabernacle, and by the Ark, when they ſhall be built, and at preſent in the place where you meet for the Solemn Worſhip of God.

34 As the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo Aaron laid it up before the teſtimony x, to be kept.

x (i. e) Before the Ark, which is called, the ark of the teſtimony, Exod. 25. 16. and here, by way of Abbreviation, the Teſtimony, or Witneſs, becauſe in it were the Tables of the Covenant, or the Law of God, which was a Teſtimony of God's Authority and Will, and of Man's Subjection and Duty, or of the Covenant made between God and Man. See Deut. 10. 5. and 31. 26. Queſt. How could this be laid up before the Ark, when the Ark was not yet built? Anſ. This Text only tells us that Aaron did lay it up, but it doth not determine the time, nor affirm that it was done at this inſtant, but rather intimates the contrary, and that it was done afterwards when the Teſtmony, i. e. the Ark was built. As the next Verſe alſo ſpeaks of what was done in the following forty years.

* Joſh. 5. 12. Neh. 9. 15.

35 And the children of Iſrael did eat Manna forty years, * until they came to a land inhabited: they did eat Manna, until they came to the borders of the land of Canaan y.

y This Moſes might well write; for though he did not go into Canaan, yet he came to the Borders of Canaan. And though he did not ſee the Ceſſation of the Manna, yet he ſufficiently knew both from the Nature of the Thing, and by Revelation from God, that it would forthwith ceaſe upon their entrance into Canaan.

36 Now an omer is the tenth part of an Ephah.

CHAP. XVII.

The children of Iſrael came to Rephidim, there is no water, therefore murmur againſt Moſes, 1——3. Moſes crieth to the Lord, 4. The Lord ſendeth Moſes to Horeb; he ſmiteth the rock, and water cometh out, 5, 6 He names that place, and the reaſon of it, 7. Amalek warreth againſt the Iſraelites, 8. Moſes appointeth Joſhua to fight with him, 9. Joſhua's ſucceſs when Moſes held up his hand; when let down, Amalek prevailed, 11——13. Moſes buildeth an altar, and nameth it, 15. The reaſon of it, 16.

AND all the congregation of the children of Iſrael journey from the wilderneſs of Sin after their journeys a, according to the commandment of the LORD b, and pitched in Rephidim: and there was no water for the people to drink.

a By divers Stations, recorded Numb. 33. 12, 13, &c. but here omitted, becauſe there was nothing extraordinary hapned in them. b Expreſſed either by word of mouth, or by the motion or reſt of the cloudy Pillar, Exod. 13. 21.

* Pſalm 78. 41. 1 Cor. 10. 9.

2 Wherefore the * people did chide with Moſes, and ſaid, Give us water that we may drink. And Moſes ſaid unto them, Why chide you with me? Wherefore do ye * tempt the LORD c?

c By diſtruſting God's Power, and Providence, and Faithfulneſs, and Goodneſs, upon ſuch a ſmall occaſion, by refuſing to ſubmit to God's Will, and to wait upon him by humble and fervent Prayers for relief, and inſtead thereof quarrelling with me as if it were my fault, and murmuing againſt God under my name.

3 And the people thirſted there for water, and the people murmured againſt Moſes, and ſaid, Wherefore is this, that thou haſt brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children, and our cattle with thirſt?

4 And Moſes cried unto the LORD, ſaying, What ſhall I do unto this people? they be almoſt ready to ſtone me.

* Chap. 7. 20.

5 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go on before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Iſrael d; and thy rod wherewith * thou ſmoteſt the river e, take in thine hand, and go.

d That they may be eye-witneſſes of this glorious Work, and may report it to the People. e Either the Red-Sea; for an Arm of the Sea is ſometimes called a River; or, the River Nilus.

* Numb. 20. 9. Pſalm 78. 15. and 105. 41. Wiſd. 11. 4.

6 * Behold, I will ſtand before thee there f upon the rock in Horeb g, and thou ſhalt ſmite the rock, and there ſhall water come come out of it, that the people may drink. And Moſes did ſo h, in the ſight of the elders of Iſrael.

f In my cloudy Pillar, which ſhall ſtand over that place. g Horeb and Sinai are ſometimes ſpoken of as the ſame place, and ſometimes as two differing places, as here compared with Exod. 19. 2. The Learned write, that this was one long Mountain, whereof there were two eminent Parts or Tops, the one at a conſiderable diſtance from the other, and Horeb was the firſt part of it, and near Rephidim; and Sinai the more remote, to which they came afterwards. h (i. e.) Smote the Rock, and the Waters flowed out plentifully and continually, making a River, which God cauſed to follow them to their ſeveral Stations. See 1 Cor. 10. 4.

† That is, tentation.
† That is, chiding or ſtrife.

7 And he called the name of the place † Maſſah, and † Meribah, becauſe of the chiding of the children of Iſrael, and becauſe they tempted the LORD, ſaying, Is the LORD amongſt us i, or not?

i Viz. To protect and provide for us according to his Word given to us. Will God be as good as his word, or will he not? For it is to us very doubtful.

* Deut 25. 17. 1 Sam. 15. 2. Wiſ. 11. 4.

8 ¶ * Then k came Amalek, and fought with Iſrael l in Rephidim.

k When they were upon their March from Rephidim to Horeb, Deut. 25. 17, 18 l The ground of the Quarrel was the proſecution of the old hatred of Eſau againſt Jacob, and the revenging of themſelves and their Father upon the Poſterity of Jacob; for which they thought this the fitteſt ſeaſon, they being now a great and potent People, Numb. 24. 20. and Iſrael now weak, and unarmed, and diſpirited with long Servitude.

* Called Jeſus, Acts 7. 45.
* Chap. 4. 20.

9 And Moſes ſaid unto * Joſhua, Chuſe us out men, and go m out, fight with Amalek: to morrow I will ſtand on the top of the hill n, with * the rod of God o in mine hand.

m Out of the Camp to meet the Enemy. n Both to obſerve thy Carriage, and Succeſs or Defeat, that I may govern my ſelf accordingly, and that I may in that Retirement pour out my Soul unto the Lord of Hoſts, that he may give thee Victory. o By which having done ſo great Exploits formerly, doubt not of the ſame Divine Aſſiſtance to accompany it, and make thee victorious.

10 So Joſhua did as Moſes had ſaid to him, and fought with Amalek: and Moſes, Aaron, and Hur p went up to the top of the hill.

p A Perſon of Eminency both for Wiſdom and Experience, and for Place and Authority, ſuppoſed to be the Husband of Miriam. See Exod. 24. 14.

11 And it came to paſs when Moſes held up his hand q, that Iſrael prevailed: and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed r.

q With the Rod of God in it. This Geſture, though fervent Prayer was doubtleſs joyned with it, ſeems not to have been the Geſture of praying, which is the lifting up of both hands, but of an Enſign-bearer, or of one ready to ſmite his Enemies. Howſoever this was only a ſign whereby Moſes ſtrengthned his Faith, and quickned his Prayers, and heightned the Courage of the Soldiers below, and proteſted that he expected Victory not from the skill and proweſs of his Army, but from the Aſſiſtance of God. r God ſo diſpenſing his favour, that the Honour of the day and Victory might be wholly aſcribed to the Rod and Power of God, not to Iſrael.

12 But Moſes hands were heavy, and they took a ſtone, and put it under him, and he ſat thereon: and Aaron and Hur ſtayed up his hands s, the one on the one ſide, and the other on the other ſide, and his hands were ſteady until the going down of the ſun.

s Not that both Hands were erected and joyned together, which was not a fit poſture for one holding a Rod in his hand; but that Moſes ſhifted the Rod out of one hand into the other when the former was weary, and that Aaron and Hur did each of them with both hands hold up that hand which was next to them, ſucceſſively, that they alſo might relieve one the other.

13 And Joſhua diſcomfited Amalek and his people t with the edge of the ſword.

t Either 1. The King of the Amalekites, and his People. Or 2 The People of the Amalekites, and thoſe other People who were leagued with them.

* Numb. 24 20. 1 Sam. 15. 3. 7 and 30. 1, 17. 2 Sam. 8. 12. Eſth. 9. 14.

14 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Write this for a memorial in a book u, and rehearſe it in the ears of Joſhua x: for * I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek y from under heaven z.

u Even in this Book, which Moſes was to write by God's Inſpiration and Appointment. See Exod. 34. 27. Deut. 31. 9. 22 x Thy Succeſſor, and the Captain of my People, that he and all ſucceeding Governors may watch all occaſions to execute this command. y (i. e.) I will utterly deſtroy them; for a Perſon or People dead or deſtroyed are ſoon forgotten. Pſalm 31 12. and the Grave is called the land of forgetfulneſs, Pſal. 88. 12. Or thus, Though they are now a numerous and flouriſhing People, and in great Repute, I will make them few and inglorious, for ſuch are little minded or remembred; for this is not to be underſtood abſolutely of a ſpeedy and utter Extinction of them, for he ſuppoſeth their being from Generation to Generation, verſe 16. but comparatively. z From the face of the whole Earth.

† That is, the LORD my banner.

15 And Moſes built an altar a, and called the name of it b † JEHOVAH Niſſi.

a Both for the offering of Sacrifices of Praiſe unto God, and to be a Monument of this Victory, and of the Author of it. b Viz. Of the Altar, which he ſo calls metonymically, becauſe it was the Sign and Monument of Jehovah Niſſi; even as Circumciſion is called God's Covenant, Gen. 17. 13. and the Lamb, the Paſſover, Exod. 12. 11. and the Cup, the New Teſtament, Luke 22. 20 becauſe they were the ſigns of them. Or the word, Altar, is to be repeated out of the former member, which is frequent, and the place to be read thus, he called the name of it, the Altar of Jehovah Niſſi. Or the name given to it ſignifies only the Inſcription ingraven upon it, which was not the ſingle name of God, but an entire Sentence, the lord is my banner. By which words he takes all the praiſe of the Victory from the Iſraelites, and gives it to God.

* Or, becauſe the hand of Amalek is againſt the throne of the LORD, therefore, &c.
† Heb. the hand upon the throne of the LORD.

16 For c he ſaid, * Becauſe d † the LORD hath ſworn that the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation.

c Or, And, as the Hebrew particle properly ſignifies; for theſe words are not a reaſon of the paſſage next preceding, but an additional Sentence. d Or, Surely, as that particle is oft uſed, as Job 8. 6. and 20. 20. Pſal. 10. 14. and 44. 22, &c. e Heb. the hand upon the throne of the Lord, for the hand of the Lord upon his throne, which is perfectly the ſame thing, only the order of the words is a little varied after the manner of the Hebrew Tongue. Theſe words then are a paraphraſtical Deſcription of a Solemn Oath, by the uſual poſture of it, viz. the lifting up the hand, which is uſually put for ſwearing, and in that ſenſe is aſcribed both to Men, as Gen 14. 22. and to God, as Deut. 32. 40. And this Hand of God lifted up upon his Throne, where his Majeſty doth peculiarly and glorioully dwell, ſignifies that God ſwears by himſelf, as is ſaid Heb. 6. 13. And thus the Chaldee and Arabick Interpreters underſtand it. Others render the place thus, Becauſe the Hand (or, his Hand, the pronoun being here underſtood, as it frequently is in the Hebrew Language, of which ſeveral inſtances have been given before, i. e. the hand of Amalek, which may eaſily be underſtood out of the following Clauſe in which Amalek is named) was againſt the throne of the Lord, i. e. was ſtretched out againſt God himſelf; for ſo God eſteems it, becauſe it was done againſt that People among whom God had placed his Throne, or Seat, or Dwelling, according to his Covenant made with them; which alſo was well known to the Amalekites by the Relation of their Progenitors, who in all probability had acquainted them with their own Rights, and with Jacob's Arts whereby he robbed Eſau, the Father of Amalek, (Gen. 36. 15, 16.) of his Birthright and Bleſſing, and conſequently of the Land of Canaan, to which now God was bringing them, that he might plant them there, and ſet up his Throne among them. And the Amalekites doubtleſs heard, as the other Neighbours alſo did, in what a miraculous manner God had brought them out of Egypt, and over the Red-Sea. And they knew better than others, by Tradition from their Parents, that God had promiſed Canaan to them, and now they ſaw that he was conducting them thither, and therefore to prevent this, they now commence a War againſt them, and againſt God or his Throne, whoſe Preſence with, and Conduct over them was moſt manifeſt; which was a great aggravation of their Sin. And this latter Tranſlation and Interpretation ſeems moſt probable, 1. becauſe it exactly agrees with the Hebrew words, and the order in which they are placed. 2. It makes the Coherence more clear than our Tranſlation doth, the former part of the Verſe containing a reaſon of the latter, to wit, of that ſevere Curſe and everlaſting War denounced againſt Amalek, becauſe they attempted by force to overthrow God's Throne and People, and that with ſo many aggravating circumſtances; of which ſee Deut. 25. 17, 18.

6 And he ſaid c unto Moſes, I thy father-in-law Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two ſons with her.

f viz. More clearly and by certain experience; as that phraſe ſignifies, Gen. 22. 12, 1 King. 17. 18, 24. For otherwiſe it is more than probable, that Jethro had the knowledg of the true God before this time, not only becauſe he was the great Grandchild of Abraham, but alſo becauſe of his long converſation with a perſon of ſo great knowledge, and wiſdom, and piety, as Moſes was. g Either 1. their falſe Gods, who wrought ſtrange things in and by their Servants the Magicians, who contended with Moſes, and proudly boaſted of their skill as not a whit inferior to that of Moſes, but at laſt were forced to yield up the Cauſe, Exod. 8. 19. or rather 2. the Egyptians, ſpoken of ver. 10. who dealt proudly, and ſcornfully, and tyrannically with the Iſraelites, but God ſhewed himſelf to be above them, and above their King, though Pharaoh would not own him for his Superior, (Exod. 5. 2.) but lift up his horn againſt God, and againſt his people: But the Lord brought that proud Prince upon his knees, and forced him oft to confeſs his faults, and to become Suppliant to Moſes for deliverance from the Plagues; and at laſt, when he continued incorrigible, he drowned him in the Sea.

12 And Jethro Moſes father-in-law took h a burnt-offering and ſacrifices i for God: and Aaron came, and the Elders of Iſrael to eat bread k with Moſes father-in-law before God l.

Which he did, that he might publickly teſtify both his embracing of the true Religion, and his thankfulneſs to God for the great deliverance given to his people, wherein alſo himſelf and Family were concerned. And he took or offered theſe, not immediately, or by himſelf, (which would have ſeemed a preſumptuous and unwarrantable Action for a ſtranger to undertake in the Church of Iſrael) but by thoſe who were appointed to do it; in which ſenſe David is ſaid to have ſacrificed, 2 Sam. 24. 25. and Solomon, 1 King. 8. 63. and all thoſe who brought their Offerings to the Prieſts to offer for them. i To wit, of Thanſgiving, as is expreſſed Exod. 24. 5. for part of theſe the Offerers, with others, did eat, Levit. 7. 15. whereas no man might eat of the Burnt-offerings, Levit. 1. 9. k (i. e.) To feaſt together of the remainders of the Sacrifices. l Either before the cloudy Pillar; or rather, before the Altar, and in the place of publick Worſhip; for ſome ſuch place undoubtedly they had, though the Tabernable was not yet built; and that was the place appointed for ſuch Feaſts. *Num. 3 15.

s (i. e.) I doubt not, God will aſſiſt and bleſs thee as well in the courſe which I propoſe to thee, as in that which thou now doſt uſe, becauſe God is a God of order, and loves order; and he is a God of mercy, and would not have thee deſtroy thy ſelf in his work. 21 Moreover thou ſhalt provide out of all the people * able men x, ſuch as fear God y; men of truth z, hating covetouſneſs a, and place ſuch over them to be rulers of thouſands, and rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

x Heb. men of might, not for ſtrength of body, but for greatneſs, reſolution, courage, and conſtancy of mind, which is the beſt preſervative againſt partiality and corruption in judgment, to which men of little minds, or narrow ſouls, are eaſily ſwayed by fears, or hopes, or gifts. y Which will reſtrain them from all injuſtice, even when they have ability and opportunity to do wrong ſo cunningly or powerfully, that they may eſcape the obſervation and cenſure of men. z Or, of faith, or faithful, ſuch as love the truth, and diligently labour to find it out in all cauſes, and then paſs a true and righteous ſentence; not at all reſpecting perſons, but only the truth and right of their Cauſes; ſuch as hate lies and ſlanders, and will ſeverely rebuke and puniſh them. a This, though included in the former, is particularly expreſſed, becauſe gifts and bribes are the great corrupters of Judges and judgments.

22 And let them judge the people at all ſeaſons: and it ſhall be that every great matter they ſhall bring unto thee, but every ſmall matter they ſhall judge: ſo ſhall it be eaſier for thy ſelf, and they ſhall bear the burthen with thee.

23 If thou ſhalt do this thing, and God command thee ſo b, then thou ſhalt be able to endure, and all this people ſhall alſo go to their place c in peace d.

b If God approve of the courſe which I ſuggeſt, to whoſe wiſdom I ſubmit my opinion. For Jethro might well think, that Moſes neither would, nor might make ſo great an alteration in the Government without conſulting God about it, and expecting his Anſwer. Others render the place thus, both God will give thee his commands, i. e. thou wilſt have leiſure to ask and take his counſel in all emergencies, which now thou haſt not, and thou wilſt be able to endure. c To their ſeveral habitations, which are called mens places, Judg. 7. 7. and 9. 55. and 19. 28, 29. where their calling and buſineſs lies, from which they are now diverted and detained by fruitleſs and weariſome attendances. d Orderly and quietly, having their minds much eaſed by this courſe, and their contentions ſoon ended.

24 So Moſes hearkened to the voice of his father-in-law e, and did all that he had ſaid f.

e This is one evidence of that meekneſs for which Moſes is juſtly magnified, that he diſdained not to receive advice from one ſo much his inferior in Wiſdom, and Learning, and knowledge of the things of God. And God would have this wiſe Counſel to come from Jethro, not from Moſes himſelf, to ſhew how variouſly he diſtributes his gifts, and to teach all men not to think too highly of themſelves, nor to deſpiſe the counſels even of their inferiors. f Not immediately, but after he had received God's approbation, Numb. 11. 16. and the peoples conſent, Deut. 1. 14.

25 And Moſes choſe g able men out of all Iſrael, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thouſands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

g Not ſolely, but together with the people, as appears from Deut. 1. 13.

26 And they judged the people at all ſeaſons: the hard cauſes they brought unto Moſes, but every ſmall matter they judged themſelves.

27 And Moſes let his father-in-law depart h, and he went his way into his own land.

h (i. e.) Diſmiſſed him honourably. See Numb. 10. 29.

CHAP. XIX.

The people come to Sinai, 1, 2. God's propoſal to them by Moſes. Of the terms of the Covenant, 3——6. Moſes lays before them what God had commanded, 7. The peoples acceptance of the ſame, 8 God directeth Moſes how to ſanctify the people, 10, 11. Moſes ſets bounds to the people that they touch not the mount, 12. The puniſhment of thoſe that did, 13. Moſes ſanctifying the people, 14. ommands them to keep from their wives, 15. The manner of God's appearing, 16, 18, 19. God talketh with Moſes, 21——24.

IN the third month a when the children of Iſrael were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the ſame day b * came they into the wilderneſs of Sinai. *Num. 33. 15.

a Heb. Third new Moon, called Sivan, including the latter part of May, and the former part of June. b Heb. in that day, to wit, when the Month or New-moon began, and when they departed from Rephidim, to note, that there was no Station between theſe two. This is ſet down thus accurately, becauſe it gives an account of the original of the Feaſt of Pentecoſt, becauſe the giving of the Law, which was 3 or 4 days after this time, was 50 days after the Paſſeover, whereof 46 or 47 were paſt at their firſt coming to Sinai, reckoning from the 15th day of the firſt month, when they came out of Egypt, to this time.

2 For they were departed from Rephidim, and were come to the deſert of Sinai c, and had pitched in the wilderneſs, and there Iſrael camped before the mount.

c (i. e.) To that part of the Deſert which adjoined to Mount Sinai, as Rephidim, from whence they came, was in that part of the Wilderneſs adjoining to Horeb, which was another part of the ſame Mountain. See Exod. 17. 6. So they ſeem to have fetched a large compaſs, and to have come from one ſide of the Mountain to the other.

3 And * Moſes went up to God d: and the LORD called unto him out of the mountain, ſaying, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto the houſe of Jacob, and tell the children of Iſrael; Act. 7. 8.

d Into the Mount of God, to the place where God had now fixed his cloudy Pillar, and where he was about to manifeſt himſelf in a glorious manner. So it is an anticipation.

4 * Ye have ſeen what I did unto the Egyptians, and how I bare you on Eagles wings e, and brought you unto my ſelf f. *Deut. 29. 2.

e (i. e.) Safely, out of the reach of danger; and ſtrongly, againſt all oppoſition. Compare Deut. 32. 11. Iſa. 63. 9. Rev 12. 14. f Into my preſence, and favour, and fellowſhip, to be my peculiar people, to ſerve and worſhip me as your only Lord and King.

5 Now * therefore if ye will obey my voice indeed g and keep my Covenant, then * ye ſhall be a peculiar treaſure unto me h above all people: for * all the earth is mine i. * Deut. 5. 2. * Deut. 4. 20. and 7. 6. and 14. 2. and 26. 18. and 32. 8, 9. Pſal. 135. 4. Cant. 8. 12. Iſa. 43. 1. Jer. 10. 16. Mal. 3. 17. Tit. 2. 14. *Deut. 10. 14. Pſal. 24. 1.

g Heb. obeying ye will obey, i. e. if ye will obey me ſincerely, diligently, and conſtantly. h Highly prized and loved, and carefully kept by me, as mens Treaſures generally are. i For all people upon earth are mine by creation and dominion, and I can diſpoſe of them all as I pleaſe, and either chuſe or refuſe any of them as I think fit; and therefore though I might refuſe you, as well as any others, yet it is my pleaſure to ſingle you out of all the world, upon whom to confer my chiefeſt and peculiar bleſſings. Or, though all the earth be mine, by general right, yet you only are mine by ſpecial title and priviledge.

6 And ye ſhall be unto me a * kingdom of Prieſts k, and an holy nation l. Theſe are the words which thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael. * 1 Pet. 2. 9. Rev. 1. 6. and 5. 10. and 20. 6.

k So they are called in regard, 1 of their exemption and ſeparation from all the people of the world, as Prieſts are taken out of the multitude of men. 2. Of their conſecration to the worſhip and ſervice of God, every Subject of this Kingdom being in ſome ſort a Prieſt to offer ſome kind of Sacrifices to God. 3. Of their Priviledges, becauſe God conferred upon them ſingular honour, ſafety and immunity, and liberty of coming near to him, as Prieſts among all Nations have been eſteemed priviledged perſons. l Purged from the Idolatry and other abominations of the heathen world, and ſeparated from them by a wall of partition; allied to me by an holy Covenant, and conſecrated to my uſe and ſervice.

7 And Moſes came and called for the Elders of the people, and laid before their faces all theſe words which the LORD commanded him.

8 And * all the people anſwer together, and ſaid, All that the LORD hath ſpoken, we will do. And Moſes returned the words of the people unto the LORD m. *Chap. 24. 3, 7. Deut. 5. 27. and 26. 17.

m Not for God's information, but for the peoples greater obligation, and to learn what anſwer he ſhould return from God to them.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Lo, I come unto thee n in a thick cloud o, that the people may hear when I ſpeak with thee, and * believe thee for ever: and Moſes told the words of the people p unto the LORD. *Chap. 14. 31.

n As to the Mediator between me and them, and the Interpreter of my mind to them. o See ver. 16. and compare 1 King. 8. 12. 2 Chron. 6. 1. p Thoſe mentioned ver. 8. This is here repeated, becauſe God's anſwer to them now follows.

10 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go unto the people, and ſanctify them q to day, and to morrow, and let them * waſh their cloaths r. * Gen. 35. 2.

q (i. e) Command them to ſanctify and cleanſe themſelves from all filthineſs of Fleſh and Spirit, and to prepare their Hearts for the right receiving of my Laws, and ſolemn entring into Covenant with me. Compare Lev. 11. 45. Joſ. 3. 5. and 7. 13. r By which external waſhing, which was agreeable to that ſtate of the Church, they were taught to cleanſe their inward man.

11 And be ready againſt the third day: for the third day s the LORD * will come down t in the ſight of all the people upon mount Sinai. *Chap. 34. 5 Deut. 33. 2.

s From this time, and the fiftieth day from the Paſſover, as was noted before. t In a viſible and glorious manifeſtation of his preſence.

12 And thou ſhalt ſet bounds to the people round about, ſaying, Take heed to your ſelves that ye go not up into the mount, or touch the border of it: * whoſoever toucheth the mount ſhall be ſurely put to death u. * Heb. 12. 22.

u By this Symbolical injunction God deſigned, 1. To reſtrain Mens curious and bold enquiries into the things of God. 2 To poſſeſs the Iſraelites then preſent, and all ſucceeding Generations with the dread and reverence of the Divine Majeſty, and of his Holy Law. 3 To prepare and inure the People to the obedience of God's commands, even when they diſcern not the reaſons of them. 4. To make them ſenſible of their own impurity and infirmity, and of their abſolute need of a Mediatour, through whom they might have acceſs to God. See Gal. 3. 19.

13 There ſhall not a hand touch it x, but he ſhall ſurely be ſtoned or ſhot through; whether it be beaſt y or man, it ſhall not live: when the † trumpet ſoundeth long z, they ſhall come up to the mount a. † Or, cornet.

x (i. e.) The Mountain. But 1. This ſeems to be a groſs tautology, for it was twice forbidden in the words next foregoing. 2. So the word hand would ſeem to be aſcribed both to man and beaſt. Others therefore render it, touch him i. e. they ſhall look upon ſuch an impudent tranſgreſſor of my expreſs command as an abominable perſon, whom they cannot touch without defilement, and therefore he ſhall be put to death in ſuch a manner as may be performed without touching him. y For though the Beaſts are not capable of a Law, yet they might be threatned for Man's caution, and puniſhed for the fault of their owners in not keeping them at a diſtance from the Mount. z (i. e.) With one continued, equal and gentle ſound, as is uſual in the end of the Muſick-ſong, which is oppoſed to a rough, and loud, and unequal ſound. There was no real Trumpet here, but an Angel made a ſound like that of a Trumpet. a Obj. This was forbidden to them verſe 12. Anſw. 1. They were forbidden to come up to the Mount whileſt God was delivering his Laws, but allowed it afterwards when that action ceaſed, which was ſignified by the long ſound of the Trumpet. 2. They might not come into the Mount or towards the top of it, but they might come to the bottom or lower parts of it, where the bounds were ſet, or at leaſt towards or near it, as the Hebrew Prepoſition, beth, is ſometimes uſed. So the Mount may be underſtood more ſtrictly, verſe 12. for an eminent part or top of it, where the thick Cloud appeared, and where Moſes was, and here more largely for the whole Mountain.

14 ¶ And Moſes went down from the mount unto the people, and ſanctified the people b, and they waſhed their cloaths.

b By commanding them to ſanctify themſelves, and directing them how to do it.

15 And he ſaid unto the people, Be ready againſt the third day, * come not at your wives c. * 1 Sam. 21. 4, 5. Zech. 7. 3. 1 Cor. 7. 5.

c Abſtain from the uſe of the Marriage-bed, partly becauſe your Wives may haply have their uncleanneſs upon them, though unknown to themſelves, at leaſt to you, whereby you may be legally defiled. See Lev 15. 18. and partly that your Minds may be abſtracted from all ſenſual Delights, and wholly employed about this great and holy Work and Service. There is a like command 1 Cor. 7. 5. but both this and that do indifferently concern both Miniſters and People, and are limited to a certain time, and therefore are very impertinently alledged for the perpetual celibacy of Miniſters. See alſo 1 Sam. 21. 5.

16 ¶ And it came to paſs on the third day in the morning, that there were * thunders and lightnings d, and a thick cloud e upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet f exceeding loud, ſo that all the people g that was in the camp trembled. * Heb. 12. 18.

d Sent partly as Evidences and Tokens both of God's glorious Preſence, and of the Anger of God, and the dreadful Puniſhments due to the Tranſgreſſours of the Law now to be delivered; and partly as means to humble, and awaken, and convince, and terrify proud and ſecure Sinners, that they might more reverently attend to the Words and Commands of God, more willingly yield Obedience to them, and be more afraid of the Violation of them. e Which was both a fit mean for the Production and Reception of the Thunders and Lightnings, and a Signification as well of the inviſible and unconceivable Nature of God, as of the obſcurity of the legal Diſpenſation in regard of its Types and Shadows, &c. 2 Cor. 3. 13, 18. and 4. 6. f A fit Inſtrument both for the Promulgation of God's Law, and for the Signification of that War that is between God and Sinners. g Moſes himſelf not excepted, as appears from Heb. 12. 21.

* Deut. 4. 10. 17 And * Moſes brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God, and they ſtood at the nether part of the mount h.

h Therefore one part of the Mount they might come to, though not to another, to wit, the higher; which may clear the difficulty and ſeeming contradiction betwixt verſe 12. and 13.

* Deut. 4. 11. and 33. 2. Judg. 5. 4. Hab. 3. 3. 18 And * mount Sinai was altogether on a ſmoak, becauſe the LORD deſcended upon it in fire i, and the ſmoak thereof aſcended as the ſmoak of a furnace, and * the whole mount quaked greatly k. * Heb. 12. 26.

i For further terrour to obſtinate Sinners. Hence this Law is called a fiery law, Deut. 33. 2. k By an Earthquake, as appears from Pſal. 60. 2. and 104. 32.

19 And when the voice of the trumpet ſounded long, and waxed louder and louder l, Moſes ſpake, and * God anſwered him by a voice m. * Neh. 9. 13.

l Heb. Went on, or increaſed and grew very ſtrong, or vehement, or loud. This is oppoſed to the ſounding long, verſe 13. m (i. e.) By plain, diſtinct, and audible words, as Pſal. 81. 7. Joh. 12. 29. ſo as the People alſo might hear, as appears from verſe 9. See Deut. 5. 24. 1 Kings 19. 12, 13. Heb. 12. 19.

20 And the LORD came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount n: and the LORD called Moſes up to the top of the mount, and Moſes went up.

n So here are three parts of the Mount manifeſtly diſtinguiſhed; the top where the Cloud was, the middle part where Moſes now ſtood, and about which the bounds ſeem to have been put, and the nether or lower part where the People were.

† Heb. conteſt. 21 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go down, † charge the people, leſt they break through unto the LORD to gaze o, and many of them periſh.

o Through curioſity to know in what form or manner I appear to thee.

22 And let the prieſts p alſo which come near to the LORD q ſanctifie themſelves, leſt the LORD break forth upon them.

p For though the Aaronical Prieſthood was not yet appointed, it is certain, that as there were Sacrifices before, ſo there were Prieſts to offer them, which were either the firſt-born, who were conſecrated to God, and did execute the Office of Prieſts, as may be gathered from Exod. 13. 2. and 24. 5. Numb. 3. 12. and 8. 26. or ſome other perſons appointed by God for doing that work till the Office was ſettled in Aaron's Family. q Not at this time, for both Prieſts and People are now kept at equal diſtance, verſe 22. but uſually, q. d. whoſe duty and priviledge it is to approach unto God, and to preſent the Peoples Prayers and Sacrifices to him, and therefore are here particularly admoniſhed, becauſe they above all others are obliged to this care, and becauſe they might ſeem to claim this priviledge by their Function.

23 And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, The people cannot come up r to mount Sinai, for thou chargedſt us, ſaying, Set bounds about the mount, and ſanctifie it.

r The People are ſufficiently admoniſhed in that particular, becauſe as thou didſt command this ſame thing before, verſe 12. ſo I have informed and warned them of it; ſo that it may ſeem ſuperfluous for me to go down again to acquaint them herewith. But God, who better knew the dulneſs and the hardneſs of their Hearts than Moſes did, ſaw it neceſſary to repeat the ſame command again and again. Some read the words interrogatively, Lo for halo, as it is 2 Sam. 13. 26. 2 Kings 5. 26. Job 2. 10. Mal. 2. 15. May not the people (i. e. ſome of the People, the Prieſts at leaſt, which, as thou haſt now ſaid, may come near to the Lord) go up? Is this an univerſal prohibition? To this Anſwer is given by a diſtinction in the next verſe, that he and Aaron might come up, but no other.

24 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Away, get thee down, and thou ſhalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the prieſts and the people break through, to come up unto the LORD, leſt he break forth upon them.

25 So Moſes went down unto the people, and ſpake unto them.

3 Thou ſhalt have no other Gods g before me h.

g Heb. There ſhall not be to thee another God, or other Gods, to wit, Idols, which others have, eſteem and worſhip as Gods, and therefore Scripture ſo calls them by way of ſuppoſition, Deut. 32. 21. 1 Sam. 12. 21. 1 Cor. 8. 4, 5. but thou ſhalt not have them in any ſuch Reputation or Veneration, but ſhalt forſake and abhor them, and cleave unto me alone. h (i. e.) In my Preſence, in my Houſe or Church, which you are, where I am eſpecially preſent; and therefore for you to worſhip any other God is moſt impudent Idolatry, even as when a Woman commits Adultery before her Husband's Face. He may alſo intimate, that all the Idolatry which any of them ſhall hereafter commit, though never ſo cunningly and ſecretly managed, is manifeſt to his eyes, Pſal. 44. 20, 21. Others tranſlate it with me, or beſides me, as it is rendred Matth. 12. 30. i Either in thy Mind, or with thy Hand, Acts 17. 29. or by thy command. k (i. e.) For thy uſe, or for thee to worſhip; for otherwiſe they were not abſolutely forbidden to make any Images, but only to make them for worſhip, as may appear by comparing this place with Levit. 19. 4. Deut. 4. 15. and Amos 5. 26. with Acts 7. 43. and from Levit. 26. 1. where the ſetting up of a pillar, or ſtone, is as abſolutely forbidden as the making of an Image. And therefore as the former is not forbidden to be done ſimply and univerſally, as appears from Joſ. 24. 20. 1 Sam. 7. 12. but only to be done in order to worſhip, ſo alſo is the latter. Moreover there were Cherubims and other Images in the Temple, and afterwards the Brazen Serpent, which, becauſe they were not made to be worſhipped, neither were indeed, nor were ever eſteemed to be any contradictions to this Law. l Or molten, or any other Image, as is moſt evident from the nature and reaſon of the Precept. Nor is any thing more common than ſuch ſynecdochical Expreſſions, wherein under one kind named, all other things of the like nature are contained. But for more abundant caution, and to put all out of doubt, he adds a more general word, nor any likeneſs. m As of God, Deut. 4. 15. Iſa. 44. 9, 20. Angels, Sun, Moon, or Stars, which the Heathens worſhipped, Deut. 4. 19. and 17. 3. n As of Men and Beaſts, and creeping things, which the Egyptians and other Gentiles worſhipped as Gods. q Not only inward Reverence is forbidden, but alſo all outward Geſtures that naturally or cuſtomarily expreſs Reverence, whether bowing down the Body, as here; or bending the knee, as 1 Kings 19. 18. or kiſſing the Idol, or one's Hand towards it, as Job 31. 27. Hoſ. 13. 2. one Geſture being by a Synecdoche named for all. r Nor before them; for to bow to them, and to bow before them, are Expreſſions in Scripture of the ſame extent and uſe, as appears by comparing this place with Levit. 26. 1. 2 Chron. 25. 14. and 2 Sam. 7. 22. with 1 Chron 17. 25. and Matth. 4. 9 with Luke 4. 7. s Or, worſhip them, either inwardly in thy Mind, or outwardly by any ſenſible mean or ſign of worſhip given to them, as Incenſe or Sacrifice, Vowing to them, or Swearing by them, or the like. t (i. e) Impatient of any partner in thy love and worſhip, and full of wrath againſt them that give my Glory to Images, Iſa. 42. 8. as jealouſie is the rage of a man, (Prov 6. 34) againſt the defiler of his Marriage-bed. God is pleaſed to call and account himſelf the Husband of his Church and People, Jer. 2. 2. Hoſ. 2. 19. and therefore Idolatry is called Adultery, Deut. 31. 16 Jer. 3. 3, 10. and God's anger againſt Idolaters, jealouſie. u The word el, properly ſignifies the ſtrong God, and ſhews God's ability to avenge himſelf, as the word, jealous, notes his readineſs and reſolution to do it. x (i. e.) Remembring; enquiring into, or puniſhing, as that word is commonly uſed, as hath been noted before. y Queſt. How can this be juſt? Anſw. 1. All are born Sinners, and are Children of wrath, and therefore juſtly puniſhable for their own Sins. Anſw. 2. He ſpeaks not here of eternal Damnation, but of temporal Puniſhments, in which there is no ſhadow of injuſtice, as appears, 1. Becauſe the Sins of Parents are oft puniſhed in their Children, even in humane Courts, as is manifeſt in Traitors, which practiſe being acknowledged to be juſt, it cannot with any ſenſe be accounted unjuſt in God. 2. Becauſe ſuch external Puniſhments have more good than evil in them, and are in many, and may be ſo in others, if themſelves do not hinder it, inſtruments of the greateſt Good, exerciſes of their Vertues and Graces, and means of their eternal Happineſs. 3. Becauſe Children are a part and the poſſeſſion of their Parents, and therefore it is not unjuſt if they ſuffer with them, and for them. Anſw. 3. This is to be underſtood with an exception of Repentance, and Penitent Children, as appears from Ezek. 18. And if any ſuch be temporally puniſhed for their Father's Sins, God will abundantly recompence it to them ſome other way. But if Children tread in their Father's ſinful Steps, it is but juſt that they ſhould partake of their Plagues. z And further too, as appears in the Ten Tribes, and afterwards in the Two Tribes, upon whom the iniquity of their Fathers hath been viſited now for many Generations. But he mentions them in particular, partly becauſe a Parent may live ſo long, and ſee the dreadful effects of his Sin in his Childrens Children; partly becauſe ſo far the Memory of a Father may extend, and be matter of imitation to his Children; and partly to ſhew the difference between his exerciſe of Juſtice and Mercy, as appears by comparing the next verſe. a This word is oppoſed to the conceit that Idolaters, at leaſt many of them, have of themſelves, that they love God more than others do, becauſe they love, and honour, and worſhip the Creatures for his ſake, and for thoſe Excellencies that he hath wrought in them; but this will no more excuſe their Idolatry, than it will excuſe him that commits Adultery with his Friend's Wife, that he did it for his Friend's ſake, and from the love he had to his Friend, and for his Relations.

*Deut. 7. 9. Pſal. 89. 34.

6 And * ſhewing mercy unto thouſands b of them that love me, and keep my commandments c.

b To wit, of their Generations, i. e. for ever; whereas his Puniſhment extended only to three or four of them: So far is God's Mercy exalted above his Juſtice. Compare Pſal. 103. 17. c This conjunction is very obſerveable both againſt thoſe that falſly and fooliſhly pretend or inſinuate, that the inward affection of love to God is not abſolutely and always neceſſary to Salvation; and alſo againſt them who pretending inward love to God, live in the cuſtomary breach of God's known commands.

*Lev. 19. 12. Deut. 5. 11. Matth. 5. 33.

7 * Thou ſhalt not take † the Name of the LORD d thy God in vain e: for the LORD will not hold him guiltleſs f that taketh his Name in vain.

† Or, not carry, or not take, or lift up, to wit, in or into thy Mouth, as the phraſe is more fully expreſſed, Job 4. 2. Pſalm 16. 4. and 50. 16. So Men are ſaid to take up a proverb, or a lamentation, Iſa. 14. 4. Ezek. 26. 17. d Not only the proper Name of the Lord, but any of his Attributes, Ordinances, and Works, by which God hath made himſelf known. e Or, unto vanity, or vainly. Either 1. Falſly, or in a falſe Oath; thou ſhalt not ſwear falſly by the Name of the Lord, or not lift up the Name of God into thy Mouth in an Oath to the confirmation of a Lie. Or, 2. In vain, as we render it, and as the word Schave is frequently uſed, as Job 7. 3. and 15. 31. Pſalm 60. 11. and 89. 47. Iſaiah 1. 13. You ſhall not uſe the Name of God either in Oaths, or in common Diſcourſe, lightly, raſhly, irreverently, or unneceſſarily, or without weighty or ſufficient Cauſe. Which being a Duty enjoyned not only in many places of Sacred Scripture, but alſo in the Apocryphal Eccleſiaſticus, 23. 15, 16, 17. and even by Heathen Authors, as Plato in his Book of Laws; and it being evident by the Light of Nature to Man's Reaſon, it were ſtrange if it were not here underſtood; eſpecially conſidering, that it is moſt reaſonable to take theſe ſhort Laws in the moſt comprehenſive ſenſe, ſuch as this, not the former, is; for the prohibition of uſing it vainly and raſhly, doth certainly include that of ſwearing by it falſly; but this latter doth not include the former. Beſides, the former Expoſition reſtrains the words to ſwearing, whereas the words are more general, and ſpeak of any taking God's Name into their Mouths, either by Oaths, or any other way. And it becomes not us to ſet limits to God's words, where God hath ſet none. It is alſo here to be obſerved, as well as in the other commands, that when this Sin is forbidden, the contrary Duty is commanded, to wit, to uſe the Name of God both in ſwearing and otherwiſe, holily, cautiouſly and reverently. f Or, Innocent, (i. e.) free from guilt, and the puniſhment of it; the meaning is, the Lord will look upon him as a guilty Perſon, and will ſeverely puniſh him. And ſo this, or the like phraſe is uſed, 1 Kings 2. 9. And it is a common figure, called Meioſis, where more is underſtood than is expreſſed, as 1 Sam. 12 21. Pſalm 25. 3. Prov. 10. 2. And this reaſon is here added, becauſe Sinners of this ſort are uſually held innocent by Men, either becauſe they cannot diſcover their fault when they forſwear themſelves, or becauſe they take no care to puniſh the Abuſers of God's Name by vain and cuſtomary Oaths, Curſes, or Blaſphemies, q. d. Though Men ſpare them, I will aſſuredly puniſh them.

8 Remember g the ſabbath day to keep it holy †.

g This word is here very emphatical; and 1. It reminds us of a former delivery of the ſubſtance of this command, to wit, Gen. 2. 3. 2. It inſinuates the great neceſſity of Conſideration and Preparation for the Sabbath before it comes. 3. It ſhews the ſingular importance of this Command, which is therefore placed in the heart and center of the reſt, to ſhew, that the religious Obſervation of this is the beſt way to ſecure our obedience to all the reſt; and that the neglect of this will bring in the violation of all the other, as common experience ſhews. † (i. e.) To uſe it holily; by a careful abſtinence from ſervile Works or worldly Buſineſs, and by a diligent employing of the day in holy Thoughts, Words, and Exerciſes, in the Worſhip of God in publick and private, and the Celebration of his Works; and the furthering of our own, and others Sanctification and Salvation. See Iſa. 58. 13.

9 * Six days ſhalt thou labour h, and do all thy work:

*Chap. 23. 12. and 31. 14. Lev. 23. 3. Ezek. 20. 12. Luke 13. 14.

h This may be either, 1. A command to employ thoſe days in our worldly occaſions, yet ſo as God and Religion be not neglected on thoſe days, as many Scriptures teach us. Or, 2. A permiſſion to do ſo; which I prefer, 1. Becauſe ſo it is a proper Argument to enforce the Obſervation of the Sabbath, q. d. Grudge not me one day, when I allow you ſix for it. 2. Becauſe the command of Diligence in our Callings would ſeem improperly placed here, as being of a quite different nature, and belonging to the ſecond Table, and being provided for in a diſtinct command, as we ſhall ſee.

10 But the ſeventh day is the ſabbath of the LORD i thy God: in it thou ſhalt not do any work k; thou, nor thy ſon, nor thy daughter, thy man-ſervant, nor thy maid-ſervant l, nor thy cattle m, nor thy ſtranger n that is within thy gates o:

i Or, To the Lord, (i. e.) Conſecrated to his Uſe, Honour, and Service. Hence God calls them my Sabbaths, Levit. 26. 2. Iſa. 56. 4. becauſe they are commended by his Example, and enjoyned by his Command. k (i. e.) Any ſervile, laborious, common or worldly Work, tending to thy own profit or pleaſure. See Exod. 34. 21. Levit. 23. 7 Numb. 28. 18. Iſaiah 58. 13. l This Clauſe is added, not as if Children or Servants were not immediately obliged by this Command, or were excuſed by God for the breach of this Law at their Maſter's commands, which were to obey God rather than Men, contrary to St. Peter's command and practice, Acts 5. 29. and which were to limit the foregoing word thou, and the Law of the Sabbath, only to thoſe that have Children and Servants, which is an idle, ſenſeleſs, and abſurd, as well as profane Opinion; but to reſtrain hard-hearted, and covetous, or ungodly Perſons, that they ſhould neither command nor ſuffer their Children or Servants to profane the Sabbath, ſo far as they can hinder it. Which how far it concerns thouſands of Governors of Families at this day, they ſhall do well ſeriouſly and in time to conſider. m Partly to teach us to exerciſe mercy towards the brute Creatures; compare Deut. 5. 14. partly, becauſe the uſe of Cattle muſt have drawn along with it the attendance and employment of Men; and partly, that by obſerving the Reſt of the Cattle, they might be more minded and quickened to the Obſervation of this ſacred Reſt. n (i. e) The Gentile that ſojourneth with thee; leſt their Example ſhould provoke the Iſraelites to imitate them; and leſt the Gentiles ſhould have opportunity of gaining at that time when, and by that thing whereby, the Iſraelites were loſers, even by the religious Obſervation of the Sabbath. o (i. e.) That dwells within thy Cities, which have Walls and Gates, or within thy Villages or Territories. So the word, Gates, is oft taken, as Gen. 22. 17. and 24. 60. and 2 Sam. 10. 8. compared with 1 Chron. 19. 9.

11 For * in ſix days p the LORD made heaven and earth, the ſea, and all that in them is, and reſted q the ſeventh day: wherefore the LORD bleſſed r the ſabbath day s, and hallowed it t.

p And neither in more nor leſs time, as he could have done. q (i. e) Ceaſed from his creating Works; otherwiſe he worketh ſtill, (John 5. 17.) by his Providence and Grace; and neither is and therefore he ſhall be put to death in ſuch a manner as may be performed without touching him. y For though the Beaſts are not capable of a Law, yet they might be threatned for Man's caution, and puniſhed for the fault of their owners in not keeping them at a diſtance from the Mount. z (i. e.) With one continued, equal and gentle ſound, as is uſual in the end of the Muſick-ſong, which is oppoſed to a rough, and loud, and unequal ſound. There was no real Trumpet here, but an Angel made a ſound like that of a Trumpet. a Obj. This was forbidden to them verſe 12. Anſw. 1. They were forbidden to come up to the Mount whileſt God was delivering his Laws, but allowed it afterwards when that action ceaſed, which was ſignified by the long ſound of the Trumpet. 2. They might not come into the Mount or towards the top of it, but they might come to the bottom or lower parts of it, where the bounds were ſet, or at leaſt towards or near it, as the Hebrew Prepoſition, beth, is ſometimes uſed. So the Mount may be underſtood more ſtrictly, verſe 12. for an eminent part or top of it, where the thick Cloud appeared, and where Moſes was, and here more largely for the whole Mountain.

14 ¶ And Moſes went down from the mount unto the people, and ſanctified the people b, and they waſhed their cloaths.

b By commanding them to ſanctify themſelves, and directing them how to do it.

* 1 Sam. 21. 4, 5. Zech. 7. 3. 1 Cor. 7. 5.

15 And he ſaid unto the people, Be ready againſt the third day, * come not at your wives c.

c Abſtain from the uſe of the Marriage-bed, partly becauſe your Wives may haply have their uncleanneſs upon them, though unknown to themſelves, at leaſt to you, whereby you may be legally defiled. See Lev. 15. 18. and partly that your Minds may be abſtracted from all ſenſual Delights, and wholly employed about this great and holy Work and Service. There is a like command 1 Cor. 7. 5. but both this and that do indifferently concern both Miniſters and People, and are limited to a certain time, and therefore are very impertinently alledged for the perpetual celibacy of Miniſters. See alſo 1 Sam. 21. 5.

* Heb. 12. 18.

16 ¶ And it came to paſs on the third day in the morning, that there were * thunders and lightnings d, and a thick cloud e upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet f exceeding loud, ſo that all the people g that was in the camp trembled.

d Sent partly as Evidences and Tokens both of God's glorious Preſence, and of the Anger of God, and the dreadful Puniſhments due to the Tranſgreſſours of the Law now to be delivered; and partly as means to humble, and awaken, and convince, and terrify proud and ſecure Sinners, that they might more reverently attend to the Words and Commands of God, more willingly yield Obedience to them, and be more afraid of the Violation of them. e Which was both a fit mean for the Production and Reception of the Thunders and Lightnings, and a Signification as well of the inviſible and unconceivable Nature of God, as of the obſcurity of the legal Diſpenſation in regard of its Types and Shadows, &c. 2 Cor. 3. 13, 18. and 4. 6. f A fit Inſtrument both for the Promulgation of God's Law, and for the Signification of that War that is between God and Sinners. g Moſes himſelf not excepted, as appears from Heb. 12. 21.

* Deut. 4. 10.

17 And * Moſes brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God, and they ſtood at the nether part of the mount h.

h Therefore one part of the Mount they might come to, though not to another, to wit, the higher; which may clear the difficulty and ſeeming contradiction betwixt verſe 12. and 13.

* Deut. 4. 11. and 33. 2. Judg. 5. 4. Hab. 3. 3. * Heb. 12. 26.

18 And * mount Sinai was altogether on a ſmoak, becauſe the LORD deſcended upon it in fire i, and the ſmoak thereof aſcended as the ſmoak of a furnace, and * the whole mount quaked greatly k.

i For further terrour to obſtinate Sinners. Hence this Law is called a fiery law, Deut. 33. 2. k By an Earthquake, as appears from Pſal. 60. 2. and 104. 32.

* Neh. 9. 13.

19 And when the voice of the trumpet ſounded long, and waxed louder and louder l, Moſes ſpake, and * God anſwered him by a voice m.

l Heb. Went on, or increaſed and grew very ſtrong, or vehement, or loud. This is oppoſed to the ſounding long, verſe 13. m (i. e.) By plain, diſtinct, and audible words, as Pſal. 81. 7. Joh. 12. 29. ſo as the People alſo might hear, as appears from verſe 9. See Deut. 5. 24. 1 Kings 19. 12, 13. Heb. 12. 19.

20 And the LORD came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount n: and the LORD called Moſes up to the top of the mount, and Moſes went up.

n So here are three parts of the Mount manifeſtly diſtinguiſhed; the top where the Cloud was, the middle part where Moſes now ſtood, and about which the bounds ſeem to have been put, and the nether or lower part where the People were.

21 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go down, † charge the people, leſt they break through unto the LORD to gaze o, and many of them periſh.

o Through curioſity to know in what form or manner I appear to thee.

22 And let the prieſts p alſo which come near to the LORD q ſanctifie themſelves, leſt the LORD break forth upon them.

p For though the Aaronical Prieſthood was not yet appointed, it is certain, that as there were Sacrifices before, ſo there were Prieſts to offer them, which were either the firſt-born, who were conſecrated to God, and did execute the Office of Prieſts, as may be gathered from Exod. 13. 2. and 24. 5. Numb. 3. 12. and 8. 26. or ſome other perſons appointed by God for doing that work till the Office was ſettled in Aaron's Family. q Not at this time, for both Prieſts and People are now kept at equal diſtance, verſe 22. but uſually, q. d. whoſe duty and priviledge it is to approach unto God, and to preſent the Peoples Prayers and Sacrifices to him, and therefore are here particularly admoniſhed, becauſe they above all others are obliged to this care, and becauſe they might ſeem to claim this priviledge by their Function.

23 And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, The people cannot come up r to mount Sinai, for thou chargedſt us, ſaying, Set bounds about the mount, and ſanctifie it.

r The People are ſufficiently admoniſhed in that particular, becauſe as thou didſt command this ſame thing before, verſe 12. ſo I have informed and warned them of it; ſo that it may ſeem ſuperfluous for me to go down again to acquaint them herewith. But God, who better knew the dulneſs and the hardneſs of their Hearts than Moſes did, ſaw it neceſſary to repeat the ſame command again and again. Some read the words interrogatively, Lo for halo, as it is 2 Sam. 13. 26. 2 Kings 5. 26. Job 2. 10. Mal. 2. 15. May not the people (i. e. ſome of the People, the Prieſts at leaſt, which, as thou haſt now ſaid, may come near to the Lord) go up? Is this an univerſal prohibition? To this Anſwer is given by a diſtinction in the next verſe, that he and Aaron might come up, but no other.

24 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Away, get thee down, and thou ſhalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the prieſts and the people break through, to come up unto the LORD, leſt he break forth upon them.

25 So Moſes went down unto the people, and ſpake unto them.

* Chap. 34. 14. Deut. 6. 15. Joſh. 24. 19. Nah. 1. 2. * Chap 34. 7. Numb. 14. 18. 1 King. 21. 29. Job 5. 4. and 21. 19. Iſa. 14. 20, 21 and 65. 6, 7. Jer. 2. 9. and 32. 18.

5 Thou ſhalt not bow down thy ſelf q to them r, nor ſerve them s: for I the LORD thy God am a * jealous t God, u * viſiting x the iniquity of the fathers upon the children y, unto the third and fourth generation z of them that hate me a:

q Not only inward Reverence is forbidden, but alſo all outward Geſtures that naturally or cuſtomarily expreſs Reverence, whether bowing down the Body, as here; or bending the knee, as 1 Kings 19. 18. or kiſſing the Idol, or one's Hand towards it, as Job 31. 27. Hoſ. 13. 2. one Geſture being by a Synecdoche named for all. r Nor before them; for to bow to them, and to bow before them, are Expreſſions in Scripture of the ſame extent and uſe, as appears by comparing this place with Levit. 26. 1. 2 Chron. 25. 14. and 2 Sam. 7. 22. with 1 Chron 17. 25. and Matth. 4. 9 with Luke 4. 7. s Or, worſhip them, either inwardly in thy Mind, or outwardly by any ſenſible mean or ſign of worſhip given to them, as Incenſe or Sacrifice, Vowing to them, or Swearing by them, or the like. t (i. e) Impatient of any partner in thy love and worſhip, and full of wrath againſt them that give my Glory to Images, Iſa. 42. 8. as jealouſie is the rage of a man, (Prov 6. 34) againſt the defiler of his Marriage-bed. God is pleaſed to call and account himſelf the Husband of his Church and People, Jer. 2. 2. Hoſ. 2. 19. and therefore Idolatry is called Adultery, Deut. 31. 16 Jer. 3. 3, 10. and God's anger againſt Idolaters, jealouſie. u The word el, properly ſignifies the ſtrong God, and ſhews God's ability to avenge himſelf, as the word, jealous, notes his readineſs and reſolution to do it. x (i. e.) Remembring; enquiring into, or puniſhing, as that word is commonly uſed, as hath been noted before. y Queſt. How can this be juſt? Anſw. 1. All are born Sinners, and are Children of wrath, and therefore juſtly puniſhable for their own Sins. Anſw. 2. He ſpeaks not here of eternal Damnation, but of temporal Puniſhments, in which there is no ſhadow of injuſtice, as appears, 1. Becauſe the Sins of Parents are oft puniſhed in their Children, even in humane Courts, as is manifeſt in Traitors, which practiſe being acknowledged to be juſt, it cannot with any ſenſe be accounted unjuſt in God. 2. Becauſe ſuch external Puniſhments have more good than evil in them, and are in many, and may be ſo in others, if themſelves do not hinder it, inſtruments of the greateſt Good, exerciſes of their Vertues and Graces, and means of their eternal Happineſs. 3. Becauſe Children are a part and the poſſeſſion of their Parents, and therefore it is not unjuſt if they ſuffer with them, and for them. Anſw. 3. This is to be underſtood with an exception of Repentance, and Penitent Children, as appears from Ezek. 18. And if any ſuch be temporally puniſhed for their Father's Sins, God will abundantly recompence it to them ſome other way. But if Children tread in their Father's ſinful Steps, it is but juſt that they ſhould partake of their Plagues. z And further too, as appears in the Ten Tribes, and afterwards in the Two Tribes, upon whom the iniquity of their Fathers hath been viſited now for many Generations. But he mentions them in particular, partly becauſe a Parent may live ſo long, and ſee the dreadful effects of his Sin in his Childrens Children; partly becauſe ſo far the Memory of a Father may extend, and be matter of imitation to his Children; and partly to ſhew the difference between his exerciſe of Juſtice and Mercy, as appears by comparing the next verſe. a This word is oppoſed to the conceit that Idolaters, at leaſt many of them, have of themſelves, that they love God more than others do, becauſe they love, and honour, and worſhip the Creatures for his ſake, and for thoſe Excellencies that he hath wrought in them; but this will no more excuſe their Idolatry, than it will excuſe him that commits Adultery with his Friend's Wife, that he did it for his Friend's ſake, and from the love he had to his Friend, and for his Relations.

* Deut. 7. 9. Pſal. 89. 34.

6 And * ſhewing mercy unto thouſands b of them that love me, and keep my commandments c.

b To wit, of their Generations, i. e. for ever; whereas his Puniſhment extended only to three or four of them: So far is God's Mercy exalted above his Juſtice. Compare Pſal. 103. 17. c This conjunction is very obſerveable both againſt thoſe that falſly and fooliſhly pretend or inſinuate, that the inward affection of love to God is not abſolutely and always neceſſary to Salvation; and alſo againſt them who pretending inward love to God, live in the cuſtomary breach of God's known commands.

* Lev. 19. 12. Deut. 5. 11. Matth. 5. 33.

7 * Thou ſhalt not take † the Name of the LORD d thy God in vain e: for the LORD will not hold him guiltleſs f that taketh his Name in vain.

† Or, not carry, or not take, or lift up, to wit, in or into thy Mouth, as the phraſe is more fully expreſſed, Job 4. 2. Pſalm 16. 4. and 50. 16. So Men are ſaid to take up a proverb, or a lamentation, Iſa. 14. 4. Ezek. 26. 17. d Not only the proper Name of the Lord, but any of his Attributes, Ordinances, and Works, by which God hath made himſelf known. e Or, unto vanity, or vainly. Either 1. Falſly, or in a falſe Oath; thou ſhalt not ſwear falſly by the Name of the Lord, or not lift up the Name of God into thy Mouth in an Oath to the confirmation of a Lie. Or, 2. In vain, as we render it, and as the word Schave is frequently uſed, as Job 7. 3. and 15. 31. Pſalm 60. 11. and 89. 47. Iſaiah 1. 13. You ſhall not uſe the Name of God either in Oaths, or in common Diſcourſe, lightly, raſhly, irreverently, or unneceſſarily, or without weighty or ſufficient Cauſe. Which being a Duty enjoyned not only in many places of Sacred Scripture, but alſo in the Apocryphal Eccleſiaſticus, 23. 15, 16, 17. and even by Heathen Authors, as Plato in his Book of Laws; and it being evident by the Light of Nature to Man's Reaſon, it were ſtrange if it were not here underſtood; eſpecially conſidering, that it is moſt reaſonable to take theſe ſhort Laws in the moſt comprehenſive ſenſe, ſuch as this, not the former, is; for the prohibition of uſing it vainly and raſhly, doth certainly include that of ſwearing by it falſly; but this latter doth not include the former. Beſides, the former Expoſition reſtrains the words to ſwearing, whereas the words are more general, and ſpeak of any taking God's Name into their Mouths, either by Oaths, or any other way. And it becomes not us to ſet limits to God's words, where God hath ſet none. It is alſo here to be obſerved, as well as in the other commands, that when this Sin is forbidden, the contrary Duty is commanded, to wit, to uſe the Name of God both in ſwearing and otherwiſe, holily, cautiouſly and reverently. f Or, Innocent, (i. e.) free from guilt, and the puniſhment of it; the meaning is, the Lord will look upon him as a guilty Perſon, and will ſeverely puniſh him. And ſo this, or the like phraſe is uſed, 1 Kings 2. 9. And it is a common figure, called Meioſis, where more is underſtood than is expreſſed, as 1 Sam. 12 21. Pſalm 25. 3. Prov. 10. 2. And this reaſon is here added, becauſe Sinners of this ſort are uſually held innocent by Men, either becauſe they cannot diſcover their fault when they forſwear themſelves, or becauſe they take no care to puniſh the Abuſers of God's Name by vain and cuſtomary Oaths, Curſes, or Blaſphemies, q. d. Though Men ſpare them, I will aſſuredly puniſh them.

8 Remember g the ſabbath day to keep it holy †.

g This word is here very emphatical; and 1. It reminds us of a former delivery of the ſubſtance of this command, to wit, Gen. 2. 3. 2. It inſinuates the great neceſſity of Conſideration and Preparation for the Sabbath before it comes. 3. It ſhews the ſingular importance of this Command, which is therefore placed in the heart and center of the reſt, to ſhew, that the religious Obſervation of this is the beſt way to ſecure our obedience to all the reſt; and that the neglect of this will bring in the violation of all the other, as common experience ſhews. † (i. e.) To uſe it holily; by a careful abſtinence from ſervile Works or worldly Buſineſs, and by a diligent employing of the day in holy Thoughts, Words, and Exerciſes, in the Worſhip of God in publick and private, and the Celebration of his Works; and the furthering of our own, and others Sanctification and Salvation. See Iſa. 58. 13.

* Chap. 23. 12. and 31. 14. Lev. 23. 3. Ezek. 20. 12. Luke 13. 14.

9 * Six days ſhalt thou labour h, and do all thy work:

h This may be either, 1. A command to employ thoſe days in our worldly occaſions, yet ſo as God and Religion be not neglected on thoſe days, as many Scriptures teach us. Or, 2. A permiſſion to do ſo; which I prefer, 1. Becauſe ſo it is a proper Argument to enforce the Obſervation of the Sabbath, q. d. Grudge not me one day, when I allow you ſix for it. 2. Becauſe the command of Diligence in our Callings would ſeem improperly placed here, as being of a quite different nature, and belonging to the ſecond Table, and being provided for in a diſtinct command, as we ſhall ſee.

10 But the ſeventh day is the ſabbath of the LORD i thy God: in it thou ſhalt not do any work k; thou, nor thy ſon, nor thy daughter, thy man-ſervant, nor thy maid-ſervant l, nor thy cattle m, nor thy ſtranger n that is within thy gates o:

i Or, To the Lord, (i. e.) Conſecrated to his Uſe, Honour, and Service. Hence God calls them my Sabbaths, Levit. 26. 2. Iſa. 56. 4. becauſe they are commended by his Example, and enjoyned by his Command. k (i. e.) Any ſervile, laborious, common or worldly Work, tending to thy own profit or pleaſure. See Exod. 34. 21. Levit. 23. 7 Numb. 28. 18. Iſaiah 58. 13. l This Clauſe is added, not as if Children or Servants were not immediately obliged by this Command, or were excuſed by God for the breach of this Law at their Maſter's commands, which were to obey God rather than Men, contrary to St. Peter's command and practice, Acts 5. 29. and which were to limit the foregoing word thou, and the Law of the Sabbath, only to thoſe that have Children and Servants, which is an idle, ſenſeleſs, and abſurd, as well as profane Opinion; but to reſtrain hard-hearted, and covetous, or ungodly Perſons, that they ſhould neither command nor ſuffer their Children or Servants to profane the Sabbath, ſo far as they can hinder it. Which how far it concerns thouſands of Governors of Families at this day, they ſhall do well ſeriouſly and in time to conſider. m Partly to teach us to exerciſe mercy towards the brute Creatures; compare Deut. 5. 14. partly, becauſe the uſe of Cattle muſt have drawn along with it the attendance and employment of Men; and partly, that by obſerving the Reſt of the Cattle, they might be more minded and quickened to the Obſervation of this ſacred Reſt. n (i. e) The Gentile that ſojourneth with thee; leſt their Example ſhould provoke the Iſraelites to imitate them; and leſt the Gentiles ſhould have opportunity of gaining at that time when, and by that thing whereby, the Iſraelites were loſers, even by the religious Obſervation of the Sabbath. o (i. e.) That dwells within thy Cities, which have Walls and Gates, or within thy Villages or Territories. So the word, Gates, is oft taken, as Gen. 22. 17. and 24. 60. and 2 Sam. 10. 8. compared with 1 Chron. 19. 9.

11 For * in ſix days p the LORD made heaven and earth, the ſea, and all that in them is, and reſted q the ſeventh day: wherefore the LORD bleſſed r the ſabbath day s, and hallowed it t.

p And neither in more nor leſs time, as he could have done. q (i. e) Ceaſed from his creating Works; otherwiſe he worketh ſtill, (John 5. 17.) by his Providence and Grace; and neither is idle, nor weary, Iſaiah 40. 28. but this reſt is aſcribed to him for our Admonition and Imitation. r (i. e.) Made it a day of Bleſſing, as well of receiving Bleſſings and Praiſes from Men, as of conferring his Bleſſings and Favours upon thoſe that religiouſly obſerve it. The Day is ſaid to be bleſſed, when Men are bleſſed by it, and in it, by a common Metonymy, as a Man's Field, Gen. 27. 27. and basket and ſtore, Deut. 28. 5. and the work of his hands, Job 1. 10. are ſaid to be bleſſed, when a Man is bleſſed in them. s It is remarkable, the Bleſſing and Sanctification are not appropriated to the Seventh day, but to the Sabbath-day, whether it ſhould be the Seventh day, as to the Jews it then was; or the firſt day, as to us Chriſtians now it is, which change ſeems hereby to be inſinuated. t (i. e.) Separated it from the reſt of the days, and from all common Employments, and conſecrated it to his own holy Service, and Man's holy Uſe.

* Lev. 19. 3. Deut. 5. 16. Eph. 6. 2. 12 ¶ * Honour u thy father and thy mother x: that thy days may be long y upon the land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

u Which word doth not only note the Reverence, Love, and Obedience we owe them, but alſo ſupport and maintenance, as appears from Matth. 15. 4, 5, 6. and from the like ſignification of that word, 1 Tim. 5. 3, 17. which is ſo natural and neceſſary a Duty, that the Jews ſay, a man is bound even to beg, or to work with his hands that he may relieve his Parents. x The Father is put firſt here, and the Mother, Levit. 19 3. to ſhew that we owe this Duty promiſcuouſly and indifferently to both of them. Compare Exod. 21. 15, 17. Deut. 21 18. and 27 16. Prov. 20. 20. and 30. 17. And becauſe theſe Laws are brief, and yet comprehenſive, under theſe are contained all our Superiors and Governors. y Heb. that they, i. e. thy Parents, may prolong thy days, or the days of thy Life, to wit, inſtrumentally, by their Prayers made to God for thee, and by their bleſſing in my Name conferred upon thee; though the active Verb is commonly taken imperſonally, as Job 7. 3. Prov. 9. 11. Luke 12. 10. and ſo it may be here, they prolong, for, be prolonged.

* Rom. 13. 9. 13 * Thou ſhalt not kill z.

z To wit, any Man or Woman, without Authority, and without juſt Cauſe; which exception muſt neceſſarily be underſtood, becauſe many other Scriptures command the Magiſtrate to kill great Offenders. And this Prohibition, being delivered by God who made, and ſearcheth, and commands Mens hearts, muſt be extended not only to the external Act of killing, but to all motions of the Heart or Tongue which tend that way, as Anger, Hatred, Envy, Malice, Strife, Blows, and the Challenges of Duelliſts; which is clearly manifeſt by comparing this with other Scriptures, as Matth. 5. 21. 1 John 3. 5, &c. And here, as in the reſt, is commanded the contrary Duty of preſerving the lives of our Neighbours as much as lies in our Power.

14 Thou ſhalt not commit adultery a.

a Here is mentioned one kind of Uncleanneſs, as being eminently ſinful, and unjuſt, and pernicious to Humane Society. But under this are comprehended and forbidden all other kinds of Filthineſs, as Beaſtiality, Sodomy, Whoredom, Fornication, &c. and all means, occaſions, and appearances of them, as it appears 1. from other Scriptures that forbid thoſe things, which either belong to this Command, or to none of the Ten, which is very improbable. 2. From the large extent of the other Commands, noted before. 3. From our Saviour's Explication, Matth. 5. 27. And contrariwiſe, all Chaſtity and Sobriety in Thoughts, Affections, Words, Habits, and Geſtures, is here preſcribed. See 1 Theſ. 4. 3, 4. Heb. 13 4.

15 Thou ſhalt not ſteal b.

b (i. e.) Either by deceit or violence, or without his knowledge and conſent, take away another Man's Goods, Eph. 4. 28. but on the contrary ſhalt preſerve and increaſe them, as need requires, and occaſion is offered.

* Deut. 19. 16. 16 * Thou ſhalt not bear falſe witneſs c againſt † thy neighbour d.

c Heb. not anſwer, viz. when thou art asked in Judgment, Lev. 5. 1. 19. 16. or, not ſpeak a falſe teſtimony, or as a falſe Witneſs. Which doth not only forbid Perjury in Judgment, but alſo all unjuſt Cenſure, Slander, Backbiting, Scorning, falſe Accuſation, and the like; and alſo requires a juſt and candid Judgment of him, and of his Words and Actions, ſpeaking well of him, as far as Truth and Juſtice will permit, and defending his good Name againſt the Calumnies and Detractions of others. † No, nor for thy Neighbours; but he ſaith againſt, both becauſe ſuch Perjuries, Slanders, &c. are moſt commonly deſigned againſt them, and becauſe this is a great aggravation of the Sin, when a Man not only ſpeaks evil and falſhood, but doth this from malice and ill-will. But under this kind are contained other Sins of a like, though leſs ſinful nature, as in the other commands. d A Man's Neighbour here is not only the Iſraelite, as ſome would have it, but any Man; as plainly appears, 1. becauſe that word is frequently uſed in that ſenſe, not only in the New, as all agree, but alſo in the Old Teſtament, as Gen. 11. 3. Lev. 20. 10. Eſth. 1. 19. Prov. 18. 17. 2. Becauſe it is ſo explained, Luke 10. 29, 36. Rom. 13. 9 compared with Matth. 22. 39. 3. From the reaſon of the thing, which is common to all; unleſs a Man will be ſo hardy to ſay, that he may bear falſe Witneſs againſt a Stranger, though not againſt an Iſraelite; and, in like manner, that when God forbids a Man to commit adultery with his neighbours wife, Lev. 20. 10. he may do it with a Stranger's Wife; and that though a Man be commanded to ſpeak the truth to his neighbour, Zech. 8. 16. he may tell lies to a Stranger. 4. Becauſe the great law of Love and Charity, which is the Life and Soul of this, and all the Commands, and binds us to all, binds us, and bound the Iſraelites to Strangers, as appears from Exod. 23. 4. and Lev. 19. 33, 34.

* Acts 20. 33. Rom. 7. 7. * Job 31. 9. 17 * Thou ſhalt not covet e thy neighbours houſe, thou ſhalt not * covet thy neighbours wife, nor his man-ſervant, nor his maid-ſervant, nor his ox, nor his aſs, nor any thing that is thy neighbours.

e The coveting here forbidden is, either, 1. The inward and deliberate purpoſe and deſire of a deceitful or violent taking away of another Man's Goods; but this is forbidden in the eighth Commandment. And it is hard to conceive, that St. Paul ſhould think, that this Command did not forbid ſuch a practice, Rom. 7. 7. which even the better ſort of Heathens eſteemed a Sin, whoſe words are, that they who are withheld from inceſt, or whoredom, or theft, only from a principle of fear, are guilty of thoſe Crimes; eſpecially ſeeing the Old Teſtament Scriptures, which doubtleſs he diligently ſtudied, do ſo plainly condemn evil purpoſes of the heart, as Levit. 19. 17. Deut. 9. 4, 5. and 15. 7, 9, &c. Or 2. the greedy deſire of that which is another Man's, though it be without injury to him. Thus Ahab ſinned in deſiring Naboth's Vineyard, though he offered him Money for it, 1 Kings 21. 2. Or rather 3. thoſe inward motions of the Heart, which from the Fountain of Original Corruption do ſpring up in the Heart, and tickle it with ſome ſecret Delight, though they do not obtain the deliberate Conſent of the Will. For ſeeing this Law of God is Spiritual and Holy, Rom. 7. 12, 14. and reacheth the thoughts, intents, and all the actual motions of the Heart, as is apparent from the Nature of God, and of his Law; and ſeeing ſuch motions are both the Fruits of a ſinful Nature, and the common Cauſes of ſinful Actions, and are not agreeable either to Man's firſt and uncorrupted Nature, or to God's Law, they muſt needs be a ſwerving from it, and therefore Sin. And this is the reaſon why this Command is added as diſtinct from all the reſt.

18 And * all the people ſaw the thunderings f and the lightnings, and the noiſe of the trumpet, and the mountain ſmoaking: and when the people ſaw it, they removed g, and ſtood afar off. * Heb. 1 18.

f (i. e.) Heard them. One ſenſe is oft put for another, as ſeeing, Gen. 42. 1. for hearing, Acts 7. 12. g From the bottom of the Mountain, where it ſeems they ſtood.

19 And they ſaid unto Moſes, * Speak thou with us, and we will hear: but let not God ſpeak with us, leſt we die h. * Deut. 24 and 18. 16. Heb. 1 19.

h This they ſpeak from a ſenſe of their own guilt, and of the Greatneſs and Holineſs of the Divine Majeſty, to whom they durſt not approach but by a Mediator. See Deut. 5. 28. and 18. 16. Gal. 3. 19.

20 And Moſes ſaid unto the people, Fear not: for God is come to prove you i, and that his fear may be before your faces k, that ye ſin not.

i Or try, or ſearch you, whether you are innocent, and ſuch as delight in my Preſence; or conſcious of your guilt, and therefore afraid of my Appearance; whether you have ſuch a righteouſneſs as can abide the trial of a Severe Judge; or whether you are ſuch as have cauſe to fear my Wrath, and to flee to my Grace and Mercy; which of you are Sincere and Upright, and which are Hypocrites and ungodly Perſons; or, to try, whether this terrible Appearance will produce in you that Reverence, Fear, and Obedience, which I call for; or, to give you a Law, by which you will be proved whether you do indeed love and fear me, as you pretend you do, or whether you do not. k God's fear is properly in Mens hearts; but here the ſenſe ſeems to be this, That his Fear, i. e. this dreadful Manifeſtation of his Majeſty and Juſtice (the act being here put for the Object) may be now and ever before your Eyes, and in your Memories, as an effectual Preſervative from Sin.

21 And the people ſtood afar off, and Moſes drew near unto * the thick darkeneſs, where God was. * Chap. 16. 1 King 12.

22 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Thus thou ſhalt ſay unto the children of Iſrael, Ye have ſeen l that I have talked with you * from heaven m. * Deut. 36.

l (i. e.) Heard, as verſe 18. He may uſe the word, ſeen, here, to intimate, that this was all they could ſee of God, to wit, his Voice and Speech, and that they ſaw no Image of him, as is expreſſed in a parallel place, and therefore ſhould make no Reſemblances of him, as it here follows. m (i. e.) From the Lower Heaven, to wit, the Air, or the Clouds, which were over the top of Mount Sinai, Deut. 4. 36. Neh. 9. 13. and ſo the word Heaven is oft underſtood, as Gen. 1. 20. Job 35. 11. Pſalm 79. 2. And ſo this place may be reconciled with Heb. 12. 25. where this is ſaid to be ſpoken upon Earth.

23 Ye ſhall not make * with me n gods o of ſilver p, neither ſhall ye make unto you gods of gold. * 1 Sam. 4, 5. 2 King 33 Ezek. 39. and 43. 8. 2 Cor. 6. 14, 15, n (i. e.) To worſhip together with me. I will allow no Companion; or, to me, as it follows, unto you; and verſe 24. unto me; and the particle, eth, is ſometimes uſed for el, or lamed, as 1 Sam. 22. 14. 2 Kings 22. 14. or, for me, either to repreſent my Perſon, by comparing this with the parallel place, Deut. 4. 15, 16. or to Worſhip me by, as it is apparent that the Iſraelites afterwards did intend to Worſhip Jehovah in the Golden Calf, and therefore Aaron calls the Feaſt of the Calf a Feaſt to Jehovah, Exod. 32. 5. and that with the approbation of the People, whom he then complied with, and durſt not reſiſt. o (i. e.) Idols or Images, to whom you may give the name and worſhip of gods. p And conſequently not of any other Materials, as Wood, or Stone: It is a Synecdoche.

24 ¶ An altar of earth thou ſhalt make unto me q, and ſhalt ſacrifice thereon thy burnt-offerings, and thy peace-offerings, * thy ſheep, and thine oxen: in all places r where I record my Name s, I will come unto thee, and I will bleſs thee. * Lev. 1

q For thy preſent uſe, or whileſt thou art in the Wilderneſs: This he commanded, partly that they might eaſily and readily erect an Altar upon all occaſions, which it might be hard for them to do there of better Materials; partly to mind them how much more God regarded the inward Holineſs, than the outward pomp of their Devotions; partly becauſe God would make a conſpicuous difference between them and Idolaters, who uſed much coſt and curioſity about their Altars; partly that the Altars might, after they left them, fall down and moulder away, and not remain as laſting Monuments, which might be afterward abuſed to Idolatry by any perſons that came thither; partly becauſe they were uncertain of their ſtay any where, except at Sinai, and therefore muſt raiſe ſuch Altars as they could ſuddenly do. But this Command only concerned their Wilderneſs ſtate; for there were better and more durable Altars in the Tabernacle and Temple. r Therefore there is no need of building any ſtately Altar in a certain place, as if my Preſence were fixed there, and not to be enjoyed elſewhere. s Or, cauſe my name to be remembred by you: i. e. Not in every place which you ſhall invent, but in all ſuch places as I ſhall appoint for the Remembrance or Celebration of my Name, or for the Service of my Majeſty, whether it be in the Wilderneſs, and in divers parts thereof, or in the Tabernacle and Temple.

25 And * if thou wilt make me an altar of ſtone t, thou ſhalt not † build of hewen ſtone u: for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou haſt polluted it x.

t Which in thoſe rocky parts might be as eaſie for them to make, as one of earth. u Which would require both time, and coſt, and art. The reaſons of this Precept are in part the ſame with the former, ver. 24. x By thy diſobedience to my expreſs command now given: And howſoever they think to gratify me by this curioſity, I ſhall not look upon it as a ſacred thing, by which the Sacrifices offered on it ſhall be ſanctified, but as a prophane thing which will defile them. So little doth God value or approve the inventions of men in his worſhip, how colourable ſoever they be.

26 Neither ſhalt thou go up by ſteps y unto mine Altar, that thy nakedneſs be not diſcovered thereon z.

y He ſeems to mean the ſteps of Ladders, or others of the ſame nature, which could ſuddenly be made, and were proper for their preſent condition, where there was danger of the following inconvenience. For afterwards God appointed an Altar ten cubits high, 2 Chron. 4. 1. Though ſome conceive they went not up to that by ſteps, but by an inſenſible aſcent upon the ground raiſed by degrees for that purpoſe. But if the Prieſts did go up to it by ſteps, God provided againſt the indecency here mentioned, by preſcribing linnen Breeches to them in that ſervice. z For theſe linnen Breeches were not yet appointed, and the manner then and there was for men to wear long Coats or Gowns like women. God would remove all appearance or occaſion of immodeſty, eſpecially in ſacred perſons and things; and the rather, to ſhew his deteſtation of that impudence and filthineſs which was very uſual in ſome of the Solemnities and Worſhips of the Heathen.

CHAP. XXI.

Law concerning bond-men or ſlaves, 1——5. Servants bored through the ear, 6. Ordinances for bond-women, 7——10. Of murtherers, 12. Of them that curſe their parents, 17. Of ſtrikers, 18, 19. Of them that hurt a woman with child, 22, 25. Of a maſter of a family that ſtrikes out an eye or tooth of his man or maid-ſervant, 26, 27. Of a puſhing ox, 29. Of them that hurt their neighbour's ox by digging a pit, 33. Of one ox killing another, 35, 36.

*Chap. 24. 3, 4.

NOW theſe are the Judgments a, which thou ſhalt * ſet before them.

a Or, the judicial Laws, by which thou and the Judges beforementioned ſhall govern thy ſelf and the people in civil and criminal Cauſes.

*Deut. 15. 12.

2 * If thou buy an Hebrew ſervant b, ſix years he ſhall ſerve: and in the ſeventh year c he ſhall go out free for nothing.

b Of which practice ſee Jer 34. 14. This was allowed in two caſes: 1. when a man for his crimes was condemned by the Judges to be ſold. Of which ſee Exod 22. 3. 2 King. 4 1. Matth. 18. 25. 2. when a man preſſed by great poverty, ſold himſelf or his Children: Of which ſee Lev 25. 39, 40. c Which is to be numbred, either 1. from the laſt Sabbatical year, or year of releaſe, which came every ſeventh year; and the ſenſe of the place is, not that he ſhall always ſerve ſix full years, but that he ſhall never ſerve longer, and that his ſervice ſhall laſt only till that year comes. Or rather 2. from the beginning of his ſervice; for 1. It were a very improper ſpeech to ſay he ſhall ſerve ſix years, of one who poſſibly entred into his ſervice but a month before the year of releaſe. 2. In the Law of the Sabbatical year there is no mention of the releaſe of Servants, as there is of other things, Lev. 25. Deut. 15. and in the year of Jubilee, when Servants are to be releaſed, it is expreſſed ſo, as Lev. 25. 54, 55.

3 If he came in † by himſelf d, he ſhalt go out by himſelf: if he were married, then his wife ſhall go out with him.

d (i. e.) With his own perſon only, not with a Wife, as the oppoſite branch ſheweth.

4 If his maſter have given him a wife, and ſhe have born him ſons and daughters, the wife and her children ſhall be her maſters e, and he ſhall go out by himſelf f.

d That being a true rule, and approved both by Scripture and by Heathen Authors, that the birth follows the belly, Gen. 21. 10. Gal. 4. 24, 25. and he that owns the tree hath right to all its fruit. f Queſt. How was this ſeparation of man and wife agreeable with the firſt inſtitution of Marriage, by which that Bond is made indiſſoluble? Anſw. 1. That Bond was not neceſſarily diſſolved by this Law, both becauſe the ſeparation was at the man's choice, who might have ſtayed there, if he ſo pleaſed; and becauſe the diſtinction of their Habitations might conſiſt with the right and uſe of Matrimony, which the Maſter alſo would probably permit for his own advantage. Anſ. 2. God might here, as well as in the caſe of Divorces, diſpence with his own Laws and Inſtitutions, eſpecially in this caſe, where he might deſign this for a puniſhment to the man for marrying a ſtranger, which was not pleaſing to God, as appears from Deut. 21. 11. Ezra 10. 2. Neh. 13. 23. And that this woman was a ſtranger, and not an Hebreweſs, is manifeſt, becauſe then ſhe alſo muſt have gone out free, ver. 7, 8, 9. and Deut. 15. 12.

5 And if the ſervant † ſhall plainly ſay, I love my maſter, my wife, and my children, I will not go out free: † Heb. ſaying ſhall ſay.

6 Then his maſter ſhall bring him unto the Judges g; he ſhall alſo bring him to the door h, or unto the door-poſt, and his maſter ſhall bore his ear through with an awl i, and he ſhall ſerve him for ever k.

g Partly, that it may appear he chuſeth this freely, and is not overawed nor over-reached by his Maſter; and partly, that the agreement being ſo publickly and ſolemnly confirmed, might be irrevocable. h To wit, of his Maſter's Houſe, as it is expreſſed, Deut. 15. 17. A token that he was fixed there, and never to go a Freeman out of theſe doors. i As a note of a Servant; as it continued to be long after this in Syria and Arabia, as Juvenal and Petronius Arbiter affirm: And it did fitly repreſent his ſetled and perpetual obligation to abide in that Houſe, and there to hear and obey his Maſter's Commands. See Pſal. 40. 6. k (i. e.) Not only for ſix years more, but without any limitation of time, as long as he lives, until the Jubilee, which is an exception made by God to this Law, Lev. 25. 40. Deut 15. 17. The Hebrew word, olam, here uſed, oft ſignifies not eternity, but only a long time. See Exod. 12. 14.

7 And if a man l ſell his daughter to be a maid-ſervant m, ſhe ſhall not go out as the men-ſervants do n.

l (i. e.) An Hebrew, as appears by the oppoſition of one of a ſtrange nation, ver 8. m Which was allowed in caſe of extreme neceſſity, becauſe of the hardneſs of their hearts. n But upon better terms, as being one of the weaker and more helpleſs Sex. Queſt. How doth this agree with Deut. 15. 17. Alſo unto thy maid ſervant thou ſhalt do likewiſe? Anſw. 1. Diſtinguiſh perſons. She, Deut. 15. was ſold by her ſelf, and that to meer ſervitude; this here was ſold by her Father, not only for ſervice, but in order to her marriage, as the following Verſes ſufficiently imply. 2. Diſtinguiſh things. The likeneſs between Men-ſervants and Maid-ſervants was only in the Rites uſed, in caſe ſhe conſented to perpetual ſervitude: The difference here is, in caſe they both were made free, in which caſe ſhe had ſome priviledges, which here follow.

8 If ſhe † pleaſe not her maſter who hath betrothed her to himſelf o, then ſhall he let her be redeemed p: to ſell her unto a ſtrange nation he ſhall have no power q, ſeeing he hath dealt deceitfully with her r. † Heb. be evil in the eyes of, &c.

o For a Concubine or ſecondary Wiſe. Not that Maſters did always take Maid-ſervants upon theſe terms, as ſome conceive; but that ſome did ſo, and of them this place ſpeaks. Though here is a differing reading; and as the Margent hath lo the Pronoun ſignifying to him, ſo the Text hath lo the Adverb ſignifying not; and ſo the Text may be tranſlated thus, ſo that he doth not betroth her, to wit, to himſelf, or to his ſon, as he gave her hopes he intended. Either reading or ſenſe is proper and probable. p Either by her ſelf or Friends, or any other perſon that will redeem her. Queſt. How could he part with her, and ſell her, when ſhe was betrothed to him? Anſw. 1. This might be one of thoſe many Indulgences given to them for the hardneſs of their hearts; and there is no doubt God could diſpence with his own poſitive Laws. 2. The latter reading avoids this difficulty. q This was in general prohibited for all Hebrew Servants, but it is particularly mentioned here, becauſe there was ſpecial reaſon for it; both becauſe there was more danger of her corruption in Chaſtity and Religion in regard of her Sex, and becauſe the Maſter in that caſe was under a greater temptation of ſelling her to a Foreigner, becauſe no Iſraëlite would buy her, or give ſo much money for her as an Heathen would, who would and might keep her for a perpetual Servant, which the Iſraelites might not do. r Viz. In breaking his promiſe of marriage made to her, or blaſting the hopes he encouraged her to have of it. The Hebrew words are exactly rendred thus, in dealing deceitfully or falſely with her or againſt her; and they may be added as an aggravation of that ſin of ſelling her to a ſtrange Nation, wherein there was a double falſe dealing, the one towards God, who by his Law forbad this; the other towards her, whom he hired upon other tems, and not with a power to diſpoſe of her contrary to the Law and manner of the Iſraelites.

9 And if he have betrothed her unto his ſon, he ſhall deal with her after the manner of daughters s.

s (i. e.) Give her a convenient Portion, as he doth to his own Daughters, chap. 22. 16.

10 If he take him another wife, her food, her raiment, and her duty of marriage t ſhall he not diminiſh u.

t Called due benevolence, 1 Cor. 7. 3. Or, her dwelling, as the word is oft uſed. So here are the three great conveniencies of life, food, and raiment, and habitation, all which he is to provide for her; or, her cohabitation, or, her time, the convenient and appointed times for conjugal converſe with her; for ſome times were diſallowed for it, Lev. 15. and when there were plurality of Wives, they had their viciſſitutes, Gen. 30. 15, 16. u Or rather, not withdraw, or deny it, as the word ſignifies, and as the LXX. Caldee, Samaritan, Vulgar, and others render it.

11 And if he do not theſe three unto her, then ſhall ſhe go out free x without money.

x And with gifts alſo by vertue of the Law, Deut. 15. 14. The ſum is this, The Maſter was either 1. willing to part with her, and then he was to let her be redeemed by herſelf, or any of her Friends, but not by an Heathen, ver. 8. Or 2. willing to keep her, and then as he had betrothed her, he was to perform all the duties of an Husband to her, although he had another Wife beſides her, ver. 10. 3. If he would keep her, and yet deny thoſe duties to her, then as his fault was aggravated, ſo was his puniſhment; for now he cannot ſell her, but muſt let her go freely, in this verſe.

* Gen. 9. 6. Lev. 24. 17. 12 * He that ſmiteth a man y ſo that he die, ſhall be ſurely put to death z.

y Knowingly and wilfully, as appears by the next verſe. z Neither the friends of the Party ſlain, nor the Magiſtrate, ſhall give him a pardon, or accept a ranſom for him, Numb. 35. 31.

* Deut. 19. 3. Joſh. 20. 2. 13 And if a man lie not in wait a, but God deliver him into his hand b, then * I will appoint thee a place whither he ſhall flee c:

a If it appear, that the Man-ſlayer did not intend nor deſire it, but only it fell out by his heedleſneſs, or by ſome caſualty. b By ſome unexpected Providence; or, God, and not Man, God without the Man's contrivance or deſign; for otherwiſe in a general ſenſe and way, God delivered Chriſt into the hands of Judas and the Jews, who did adviſedly and maliciouſly kill him. c (i. e.) A City or place of refuge, Numb. 35. 11. Deut. 19. 5.

* 1 King. 2. 28. 14 But if a man come preſumptuouſly d upon his neighbour to ſlay him with guile, * thou ſhalt take him from mine Altar e that he may die.

d (i. e.) Do this proudly, boldly, purpoſely and maliciouſly; for ſo the word ſignifies. e Which not only in the Wilderneſs, but afterward, ſeems to have been eſteemed a place of refuge, 1 King. 1. 50. as it alſo was among the Heathens: But God ſo far abhors murther, that he will rather venture the pollution of his own Altar, than the eſcape of the murtherer. See 2 King. 11. 15.

15 And he that ſmiteth e his father, or his mother, ſhall be ſurely put to death.

e Either 1. So as is before mentioned, ver. 12. ſo as they die. And to ſmite ſometimes ſignifies to kill, as Gen. 4. 15. 2 Kings 14. 5. compared with 2 Chron. 25. 3. And this may be here added by way of diſtinction, q. d. That killing of another man which is puniſhed with death, muſt be done preſumptuouſly; but the killing of Parents, tho not done preſumptuouſly, is a capital crime. Or 2. the meer ſmiting of them, to wit, wilfully, and dangerouſly. Nor will any think this Law too ſevere, that conſiders that this is an act full of horrid impiety againſt God, who hath ſo expreſly and emphatically commanded Children to honour their Parents; of higheſt and moſt unnatural ingratitude, and utterly deſtructive to human Society.

16 And he that ſtealeth a man and ſelleth him, or if he be found in his hand f, he ſhall ſurely be put to death.

f (i. e.) In the Man ſtealer's hand; q. d. though he keep him in his own hands for his own uſe; for ſtill it is a theft, and he is made that man's ſlave, and it is in his power to ſell him to another when he pleaſeth, and therefore deſerves death.

* Lev. 20. 9. Prov. 20. 20. Mat. 15. 4. Mar. 7. 10. 17 And * he that † curſeth * his father or his mother, ſhall ſurely be put to death.

† Or, revileth.

* Or, reviletb, to wit, wilfully, maliciouſly, obſtinately againſt all admonition, by comparing Deut. 21. 18.

† Or, his neighbour. 18 And if men ſtrive together, and one ſmite † another with a ſtone g, or with his fiſt, and he die not, but keep his bed:

g Or any other Inſtrument fit for ſuch a miſchievous purpoſe. An uſual Synecdoche.

19 If he ariſe again, and walk abroad upon his ſtaff, then ſhall he that ſmote him be quit: only he ſhall pay † for the loſs of his time h, and ſhall cauſe him to be throughly healed i.

† Heb. ceaſing.

h (i. e.) Of the profit which he could, or commonly did make of his time in the way of his Calling. i (i. e.) Pay the charges of the cure.

20 And if a man ſmite his ſervant k, or his maid, with a rod l, and he die under his hand m, he ſhall be ſurely † puniſhed n:

k Namely a ſtranger; for an Iſraelite was to be better uſed. See Lev. 25. 39, 40, &c. l A fit and uſual Inſtrument for correction, whereby it is implied, that if he kill'd him with a Sword, or any ſuch Weapon, he was to die for it. m (i. e.) Whilſt the Maſter is correcting him. n Not with death, for then it would have been ſaid ſo, as it is before and after; but as the Magiſtrate or Judge ſhall think fit, according to the diverſity of circumſtances; and therefore no particular puniſhment is ſet down.

21 Notwithſtanding, if he continue a day or two, he ſhall not be puniſhed, for he is his money o.

o (i. e.) His Poſſeſſion bought with his money; and therefore, 1. had a power to chaſtiſe him according to his demerit, which might be very great. 2. Is ſufficiently puniſhed with his own loſs. 3. May be preſumed not to have done this purpoſely and maliciouſly.

22 If men ſtrive and hurt a woman with child p, ſo that her fruit depart from her, and yet no miſchief follow q, he ſhall be ſurely puniſhed according as the womans husband will lay upon him, and he ſhall pay as the Judges determine r.

p To wit, the Wife of the other perſon, who interpoſed her ſelf to ſuccour her Husband. q Neither to the Woman, nor Child; for it is generally ſo as to reach both, in caſe the Abortive had life in it. r The Husband ſhall impoſe the fine, and, if it be unreaſonable, the Judges ſhall have a power to moderate it.

23 And if any miſchief s follow, then thou † ſhalt give life for life, s Either to the Mother, or to the Child, whether it be death, or any maim or miſchief. † Who? Anſw. Not the private perſon, which would have introduced infinite miſchiefs and confuſions, but the Magiſtrate; for theſe Laws are given to Moſes, and the execution of theſe things was committed to Moſes, and others under him.

24 * Eye for eye t, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, * Lev. 24. 20. Deut. 19. 21. Mat. 5. 38.

t This is called the Law of Retaliation, and from hence the Heathen Lawgivers took it and put it into their Laws. But though this might ſometimes be practiſed in the letter, yet it was not neceſſarily to be underſtood and executed ſo; as may appear, 1. by the impoſſibility of the juſt execution of it in many caſes, as when a man that had but one Eye or Hand, was to loſe the other, which to him was a far greater miſchief than what he did to his Neighbour, whom he deprived but of one of his Eyes or Hands. And this is a ſure and righteous Rule, Puniſhments may be leſs, but never ſhould be greater than the Fault. And how could a Wound be made neither bigger nor leſs than that which he inflicted? 2. By comparing this with other Laws, wherein a compenſation is allowed in like caſes, as ver. 18. 30. And when it is enjoined, that no ſatisfaction ſhall be taken for the life of a wilful murtherer, Numb. 35. 31. it ſeems therein implied, that ſatisfaction may be taken for leſſer injuries. And indeed the payment of ſuch a price, as the loſs of an Eye, or Hand, or Foot, required, though it might not ſo much ſatisfy the revenge of the Party ſo injured, yet it was really more to his benefit. This Law therefore was only minatory, but ſo as it was literally to be inflicted, except the injuring Party would give ſuch ſatisfaction as the injured Perſon accepted, or the Judges determined.

25 Burning for burning, wound for wound, ſtripe for ſtripe.

26 And if a man ſmite the eye of his ſervant u, or the eye of his maid, that it periſh, he ſhall let them go free for his eyes ſake.

u Which ſome confine to the Iſraelitiſh Servants, but the Text doth not ſo limit it; and the reaſon of the Law ſeems to reach to Gentile ſervants, this being a juſt puniſhment to unmerciful Maſters, (who ought to be merciful to their Beaſts, much more to ſuch Servants) and a fit recompence to a Servant for ſuch a loſs. And this Law reacheth the loſs of any other Member, theſe two being inſtanced in, the one as the chief, and the other as the meaneſt, to intimate that other parts of a like or middle nature are included.

27 And if he ſmite out his man-ſervants tooth, or his maid-ſervants tooth, he ſhall let him go free for his tooths ſake.

28 ¶ If an ox x gore a man or a woman that they die, then * the ox ſhall be ſurely ſtoned y, and his fleſh ſhall not be eaten †: but the owner of the ox ſhall be quit. * Gen. 9.

x Under which you are to underſtand any other Creatures of like nature which hurt a Man in ſuch a dangerous manner, whether with their Horns, or Teeth, or Feet; but he mentions only the Ox or Bull, and his goring with his Horn, becauſe this is moſt frequently done. y Partly to prevent future miſchiefs from that Creature; partly to puniſh its Maſter for his negligence in not keeping it in; and principally for Man's admonition, for whom ſeeing the Beaſts were made, it is not ſtrange nor unjuſt if it be deſtroyed for Man's good. God would hereby ſhew that he would not; and Men ſhould not ſpare a wilful Murderer. † Both becauſe it was forbidden food, its Blood being not let out; and for the Puniſhment of the Owner who was hereby hindred from the ſale of it, to beget in all the greater deteſtation of Murderers, when they obſerve the poor Beaſt upon this account accurſed, and therefore not to be touched or taſted.

29 But if the ox were wont to puſh with his horn in time paſt, and it hath been teſtified z to his owner, and he hath not kept him in, but that he hath killed a man or a woman a, the ox ſhall be ſtoned, and his owner alſo ſhall be put to death.

z Which the Jews ſay was to be done thrice, and before the Magiſtrate. a To wit, an Iſraelite, or a ſtranger who is free, by comparing this with verſe 32.

30 If there be laid on him b a ſum of money, then he ſhall give for * the ranſom of his life whatſoever is laid upon him. * Numb. 35. 31.

b Either by the avenger of Blood, the next a-kin to the party ſlain, who is willing to exchange the Puniſhment; or by the Judge, who may diſcern ſome circumſtances, which may much leſſen the Crime, as if an Ox had broken his Cords wherewith he was tyed, or broke forth through the careleſneſs or wickedneſs of his Servant to whoſe care he was committed.

31 Whether he have gored a ſon c, or have gored a daughter, according to this judgment ſhall it be done unto him.

c Names ſignifying their tender Age, in reſpect of the man or woman, verſe 29. And this is added, leſt the foregoing ſenſe ſhould be reſtrained to their Parents, whoſe lives were more precious, and therefore their loſs greater.

32 If the ox ſhall puſh a man-ſervant, or a maid-ſervant, he ſhall give unto their maſter thirty ſhekels d, and the ox ſhall be ſtoned.

d The half the freeman's Price. See on Matth. 26. 15.

33 ¶ And if a man ſhall open a pit, or if a man ſhall dig a pit e, and not cover it, and an ox or an aſs fall therein;

e If a Man ſhall either open an old Pit, which hath been covered with Earth; or dig a new pit, to wit, in a publick way, as the reaſon of the Law ſhews; for if it were done in a Man's own Houſe or Ground, there was no danger of ſuch an accident, except the Beaſt tranſgreſſed his bounds, and then the Man was not culpable.

34 The owner of the pit † ſhall make it good, and give money f unto the owner of them, and the dead beaſt ſhall be his.

† (i. e.) He by whoſe Hand or Command it was made. f Equal to the worth of the dead Beaſt, in the opinion of the Judge.

35 ¶ And if one mans ox hurt another that he die, then they ſhall ſell the live ox, and divide the money of it g, and the dead ox alſo they ſhall divide.

g Not equally, for ſo the Owner of the miſchievous Ox might be gainer by the miſchief, his Ox being much worſe than that which was killed; but in ſuch proportions as the Judges ſhall think fit, conſidering the worth of the Cattle, and the circumſtances of the Action.

36 Or if it be known that the ox hath uſed to puſh in time paſt, and his owner hath not kept him in, he ſhall ſurely pay ox for ox h, and the dead ſhall be his own.

h An Ox of equal value with that ſlain Ox, or the price and worth of it.

CHAP. XXII.

Of theft, 1—3. Of eating another man's vineyard, 5. Of hurt coming by fire, 6. Of hurt coming to goods committed to ones truſt, 7—13. Of hurt befalling things borrowed, 15. Of committing adultery, 16, 17. Of witchcraft, 18. Of uncleanneſs with beaſts, 19. Of idolatry, 20. That none ſhall hurt ſtrangers, or widows, 22——24. Of uſury, 25. Of pawning clothes, 27. Of honouring magiſtrates, 28. Of the firſt fruits, 29. Of eating fleſh torn by beaſts, 31.

† Or, goat.

* 2 Sam. 12. 6 Luk. 19. 8. See Prov. 6. 31.

IF a man ſhall ſteal an ox, or a † ſheep a, and kill it, or ſell it b, he ſhall reſtore five oxen for an ox, and * four ſheep for a ſheep c.

a Or, an aſs, which is added verſe 4. and conſequently any other living Creature, to be valued according to its worth and uſe to man, proportionably to the rule here laid down. Only theſe are inſtanced in, for their uſefulneſs in the ſervice both of God and of Men. b Which was an aggravation of the Crime, and a token of greater Boldneſs, Reſolvedneſs, and Expertneſs in the Trade of Thieving, than was in him who kept it at home, verſe 4. c Queſt. Why ſo much, ſeeing the ſtealer of other things was tied to reſtore but double? Anſw. 1. For terrour, becauſe theſe Beaſts being kept in the Field might more eaſily be ſtoln. 2. Becauſe the loſs of theſe was greater than of other things; for they did not only loſe what the Cattle might be ſold for, but all the ſervice, increaſe, and other benefits which a Man might receive from them. Queſt. 2. Why more for Oxen than for Sheep? Anſw. 1. Becauſe it argued greater boldneſs and cuſtomarineſs in the Thief to ſteal that which might more eaſily be diſcovered. 2. Becauſe beſides the intrinſecal worth of the Ox, the labour of the Ox was very conſiderable to his Owner, Prov. 14. 4. and therefore the loſs greater.

2 ¶ If a thief be found breaking up d, and be ſmitten that he die, there ſhall no blood be ſhed for him e.

d To wit, an houſe, which the Chaldee here adds, and by night, as appears from the next verſe. e (i. e.) For the Thief, though he be killed by a Man in his own defence. Becauſe in that caſe the Thief might be preſumed to have a worſe Deſign, and the Owner of the Houſe could neither expect, or have the help of others to ſecure him from the intended Violence, nor guide his blows with that diſcretion and moderation, which in the day-time he might uſe.

f He that kills him ſhall be put to death, becauſe he puniſhed him more than his Crime deſerved, and might have been otherwiſe either ſecured or righted; and in that caſe, it is probable, the Thief deſigned not Murder, but Theft only. But if it were evident, that the Houſe-breaker deſigned Murder, he might doubtleſs kill him in his own defence. g Either ſo long till his ſervice was worth the thing ſtollen, or rather for the ordinary time of ſix years, becauſe this was not a ſimple Thief, but an Houſe-breaker, which was much worſe. Queſt. How can he be ſold, who is ſuppoſed to be killed? Anſw. 1. The Hebrew word may be better rendred, ſhould be ſold, as the foregoing word of the ſame future time is rendred, ſhould make reſtitution, to wit, if he were not killed; and therefore the killer of him being ſufficiently ſecured againſt this injury, was more culpable in killing him without neceſſity.

4 If the theft be certainly found in his hand alive h, whether it be ox, or aſs, or ſheep, he ſhall reſtore double i.

h Not killed, nor ſold, as verſe 1. i Not more, 1. Becauſe in that caſe it was preſumed, either that he intended to reſtore it, or at leaſt that he was but raw and unexerciſed in the trade of Stealing, and ſo ſhould be more gently puniſhed; 2. Becauſe the right Owner recovered his Goods with leſs charge and trouble. Or 3. Becauſe it was but a ſingle Crime, whereas the other verſe 1. was an aggravated and complicated Crime, where one Sin and Injury was added to another. Obj. It is ſaid, he ſhall reſtore ſeven-fold, Prov. 6. 31. Anſw. 1. Seven-fold is put for abundantly, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 4. 24. Pſal. 12. 6. and 79. 12. and a learned man obſerves, it is never uſed for that definite number. Anſw. 2. This ſeven-fold, or ſeven times, may relate not to the proportion of his Reſtitution, but to the number of his Thefts, or rather of his Detections; and the ſenſe is this, Though he be found guilty of Theft ſeven times, all his Puniſhment is, that he ſhall reſtore as the Law preſcribes. Whereas Adultery, of which he there ſpeaks in the following verſes, is a Crime of that nature, that if a man be once found guilty of it, reſtitution cannot be made, nor will it ſerve his turn, but he falls into all the miſchiefs there reckoned up.

5 ¶ If a man ſhall cauſe a field or vineyard k to be eaten, and ſhall put in his beaſt, and ſhall feed in another mans field, of the beſt of his own field, and of the beſt of his own vineyard ſhall he make reſtitution.

k Or, Orchard, or other things of like nature; which is generally to be obſerved in Laws.

6 ¶ If fire break out and catch in thorns, ſo that the ſtacks of corn, or the ſtanding corn, or the field be conſumed therewith, he that kindled the fire l, ſhall ſurely make reſtitution m.

l Whether wilfully for ſuch a purpoſe, or careleſly in ſuch a time or place as was dangerous. m Which if he were not able to do, it is probable he was to be ſold for it, as in like caſes was provided.

7 ¶ If a man ſhall deliver unto his neighbour money or ſtuff n to keep, and it be ſtollen out of the mans houſe; if the thief be found, let him pay double.

n Heb. Veſſels, Garments, Utenſils, or any kind of Houſhold-ſtuff.

8 If the thief be not found, then the maſter of the houſe ſhall be brought unto the judges to ſee o whether he have put his hand unto his neighbours goods p.

o That they may examine all Circumſtances, and uſe all means to find out the Truth, by offering him his Oath, or otherwiſe. p Either to take and reſerve them for his own uſe, or to diſpoſe of them to another for his own advantage.

9 For all manner of treſpaſs q, whether it be for ox, for aſs, for ſheep, for raiment, or for any manner of loſt thing, which another challengeth to be his r, the cauſe of both parties ſhall come unto the judges, and whom the judges ſhall condemn s, he ſhall pay double unto his neighbour.

q To wit, about matters depoſited upon truſt, and loſt, of which alone this place ſpeaks. r Or, when, or concerning which he ſhall ſay, this is it, viz. the thing that I have loſt; or rather, this is he, to whom I committed it, and whom I ſuſpect and charge as guilty. s Whether the perſon with whom the things were depoſited, if they judged him guilty of Theft, or the Depoſitor, if he were convicted of a falſe Accuſation.

10 If a man deliver unto his neighbour an aſs, or an ox, or a ſheep, or any beaſt to keep t, and it die, or be hurt, or driven away, no man ſeeing it;

t As his Servant, not freely, but for wages.

11 Then ſhall an oath of the LORD u be between them both x, that he hath not put his hand unto his neighbours goods: and the owner of it ſhall accept thereof, and he ſhall not make it good.

u So called here, as alſo 1 Kings 1. 43. becauſe it is taken by his Authority and Appointment, and for his Honour, and in his Name alone, God being made both Witneſs, and Judge, and Avenger thereby. x (i. e.) Shall end the difference between them both, the one ſhall give his Oath, and the other ſhall accept of it; or be taken by them both; by the one, that he did deliver them to him upon Agreement and for Hire; by the other, that he put not his Hand to them.

12 And if it be ſtollen from him y, he ſhall make reſtitution unto the owner thereof.

y Heb. From with him, which is an emphatical Expreſſion, and notes that this was taken away, either 1. From thoſe things which were with him, or which were his, i. e. from the midſt of his own Goods, which ſuppoſeth fraud in him. Or 2. From under his eye, when he either did know of it, or with common care and diligence it might have been known and prevented, and this argues groſs neglect in him. And this is one reaſon why this man is bound to make Reſtitution, when the other ver 7. is not; another reaſon of the difference is, becauſe thoſe things verſe 7. were only or principally dead things, and ſuch things as required no great care; or if they did, (for in that caſe alſo were included, Oxen, Aſſes, &c. verſe 9) yet he with whom they were left, received no recompence for them, and therefore was not obliged to any ſingular care about them; but here the things were ſuch as needed great care and diligence, which alſo this man was obliged to perform by the hire which he received upon that account, which was Jacob's caſe, Gen. 31. 39.

13 If it be torn in pieces, then let him bring it for witneſs z, and he ſhall not make good that which was torn.

z It (i. e.) Some part of the torn Creature, which the wild Beaſt haply had left, Amos 3. 11, 12. Queſt. What if the whole Creature were carried away, as a Sheep or Lamb is ſometimes by the Wolf? Anſw. 1. I ſuppoſe this was not frequent, and that thoſe ravenous Creatures did ſpeedily fall to their meal, and that ſomething was left not far from the place, which the Shepherd might eaſily procure. 2. The words may be otherwiſe rendred, he ſhall bring a witneſs, as the Chaldee and Samar. render it; or a Teſtimony, (i. e.) ſome Evidence whereby the Judge might be ſatisfied; as for inſtance, That ſome Wolf or Lion, &c. was ſeen in thoſe parts, &c. or ſome witneſs of his Diligence and Faithfulneſs in all other things, which therefore might well be preſumed in this.

d (i. e.) Do this proudly, boldly, purpoſely and maliciouſly; for ſo the word ſignifies. e Which not only in the Wilderneſs, but afterward, ſeems to have been eſteemed a place of refuge, 1 King. 1. 50. as it alſo was among the Heathens: But God ſo far abhors murther, that he will rather venture the pollution of his own Altar, than the eſcape of the murtherer. See 2 King. 11. 15.

15 And he that ſmiteth e his father, or his mother, ſhall be ſurely put to death.

e Either 1. So as is before mentioned, ver. 12. ſo as they die. And to ſmite ſometimes ſignifies to kill, as Gen. 4. 15. 2 Kings 14. 5. compared with 2 Chron. 25. 3. And this may be here added by way of diſtinction, q. d. That killing of another man which is puniſhed with death, muſt be done preſumptuouſly; but the killing of Parents, tho not done preſumptuouſly, is a capital crime. Or 2. the meer ſmiting of them, to wit, wilfully, and dangerouſly. Nor will any think this Law too ſevere, that conſiders that this is an act full of horrid impiety againſt God, who hath ſo expreſly and emphatically commanded Children to honour their Parents; of higheſt and moſt unnatural ingratitude, and utterly deſtructive to human Society.

16 And he that ſtealeth a man and ſelleth him, or if he be found in his hand f, he ſhall ſurely be put to death.

f (i. e.) In the Man ſtealer's hand; q. d. though he keep him in his own hands for his own uſe; for ſtill it is a theft, and he is made that man's ſlave, and it is in his power to ſell him to another when he pleaſeth, and therefore deſerves death.

20 And if a man ſmite his ſervant k, or his maid, with a rod l, and he die under his hand m, he ſhall be ſurely † puniſhed n:

k Namely a ſtranger; for an Iſraelite was to be better uſed. See Lev. 25. 39, 40, &c. l A fit and uſual Inſtrument for correction, whereby it is implied, that if he kill'd him with a Sword, or any ſuch Weapon, he was to die for it. m (i. e.) Whilſt the Maſter is correcting him. n Not with death, for then it would have been ſaid ſo, as it is before and after; but as the Magiſtrate or Judge ſhall think fit, according to the diverſity of circumſtances; and therefore no particular puniſhment is ſet down.

21 Notwithſtanding, if he continue a day or two, he ſhall not be puniſhed, for he is his money o.

o (i. e.) His Poſſeſſion bought with his money; and therefore, 1. had a power to chaſtiſe him according to his demerit, which might be very great. 2. Is ſufficiently puniſhed with his own loſs. 3. May be preſumed not to have done this purpoſely and maliciouſly.

22 If men ſtrive and hurt a woman with child p, ſo that her fruit depart from her, and yet no miſchief follow q, he ſhall be ſurely puniſhed according as the womans husband will lay upon him, and he ſhall pay as the Judges determine r.

p To wit, the Wife of the other perſon, who interpoſed her ſelf to ſuccour her Husband. q Neither to the Woman, nor Child; for it is generally ſo as to reach both, in caſe the Abortive had life in it. r The Husband ſhall impoſe the fine, and, if it be unreaſonable, the Judges ſhall have a power to moderate it.

23 And if any miſchief s follow, then thou † ſhalt give life for life,

s Either to the Mother, or to the Child, whether it be death, or any maim or miſchief. † Who? Anſw. Not the private perſon, which would have introduced infinite miſchiefs and confuſions, but the Magiſtrate; for theſe Laws are given to Moſes, and the execution of theſe things was committed to Moſes, and others under him.

* Lev. 24. 20. Deut. 19. 21. Mat. 5. 38.

24 * Eye for eye t, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot,

t This is called the Law of Retaliation, and from hence the Heathen Lawgivers took it and put it into their Laws. But though this might ſometimes be practiſed in the letter, yet it was not neceſſarily to be underſtood and executed ſo; as may appear, 1. by the impoſſibility of the juſt execution of it in many caſes, as when a man that had but one Eye or Hand, was to loſe the other, which to him was a far greater miſchief than what he did to his Neighbour, whom he deprived but of one of his Eyes or Hands. And this is a ſure and righteous Rule, Puniſhments may be leſs, but never ſhould be greater than the Fault. And how could a Wound be made neither bigger nor leſs than that which he inflicted? 2. By comparing this with other Laws, wherein a compenſation is allowed in like caſes, as ver. 18. 30. And when it is enjoined, that no ſatisfaction ſhall be taken for the life of a wilful murtherer, Numb. 35. 31. it ſeems therein implied, that ſatisfaction may be taken for leſſer injuries. And indeed the payment of ſuch a price, as the loſs of an Eye, or Hand, or Foot, required, though it might not ſo much ſatisfy the revenge of the Party ſo injured, yet it was really more to his benefit. This Law therefore was only minatory, but ſo as it was literally to be inflicted, except the injuring Party would give ſuch ſatisfaction as the injured Perſon accepted, or the Judges determined.

25 Burning for burning, wound for wound, ſtripe for ſtripe.

26 And if a man ſmite the eye of his ſervant u, or the eye of his maid, that it periſh, he ſhall let them go free for his eyes ſake.

u Which ſome confine to the Iſraelitiſh Servants, but the Text doth not ſo limit it; and the reaſon of the Law ſeems to reach to Gentile ſervants, this being a juſt puniſhment to unmerciful Maſters, (who ought to be merciful to their Beaſts, much more to ſuch Servants) and a fit recompence to a Servant for ſuch a loſs. And this Law reacheth the loſs of any other Member, theſe two being inſtanced in, the one as the chief, and the other as the meaneſt, to intimate that other parts of a like or middle nature are included.

27 And if he ſmite out his man-ſervants tooth, or his maid-ſervants tooth, he ſhall let him go free for his tooths ſake.

x Under which you are to underſtand any other Creatures of like nature which hurt a Man in ſuch a dangerous manner, whether with their Horns, or Teeth, or Feet; but he mentions only the Ox or Bull, and his goring with his Horn, becauſe this is moſt frequently done. y Partly to prevent future miſchiefs from that Creature; partly to puniſh its Maſter for his negligence in not keeping it in; and principally for Man's admonition, for whom ſeeing the Beaſts were made, it is not ſtrange nor unjuſt if it be deſtroyed for Man's good. God would hereby ſhew that he would not; and Men ſhould not ſpare a wilful Murderer. † Both becauſe it was forbidden food, its Blood being not let out; and for the Puniſhment of the Owner who was hereby hindred from the ſale of it, to beget in all the greater deteſtation of Murderers, when they obſerve the poor Beaſt upon this account accurſed, and therefore not to be touched or taſted.

g Not equally, for ſo the Owner of the miſchievous Ox might be gainer by the miſchief, his Ox being much worſe than that which was killed; but in ſuch proportions as the Judges ſhall think fit, conſidering the worth of the Cattle, and the circumſtances of the Action.

IF a man ſhall ſteal an ox, or a † ſheep a, and kill it, or ſell it b, he ſhall reſtore five oxen for an ox, and * four ſheep for a ſheep c.

a Or, an aſs, which is added verſe 4. and conſequently any other living Creature, to be valued according to its worth and uſe to man, proportionably to the rule here laid down. Only theſe are inſtanced in, for their uſefulneſs in the ſervice both of God and of Men. b Which was an aggravation of the Crime, and a token of greater Boldneſs, Reſolvedneſs, and Expertneſs in the Trade of Thieving, than was in him who kept it at home, verſe 4. c Queſt. Why ſo much, ſeeing the ſtealer of other things was tied to reſtore but double? Anſw. 1. For terrour, becauſe theſe Beaſts being kept in the Fields might more eaſily be ſtoln. 2. Becauſe the loſs of theſe was greater than of other things; for they did not only loſe what the Cattle might be ſold for, but all the ſervice, increaſe, and other benefits which a Man might receive from them. Queſt. 2. Why more for Oxen than for Sheep? Anſw. 1. Becauſe it argued greater boldneſs and cuſtomarineſs in the Thief to ſteal that which might more eaſily be diſcovered. 2. Becauſe beſides the intrinſecal worth of the Ox, the labour of the Ox was very conſiderable to his Owner, Prov. 14. 4. and therefore the loſs greater.

2 ¶ If a thief be found breaking up d, and be ſmitten that he die, there ſhall no blood be ſhed for him e.

d To wit, an houſe, which the Chaldee here adds, and by night, as appears from the next verſe. e (i. e.) For the Thief, though he be killed by a Man in his own defence. Becauſe in that caſe the Thief might be preſumed to have a worſe Deſign, and the Owner of the Houſe could neither expect, or have the help of others to ſecure him from the intended Violence, nor guide his blows with that diſcretion and moderation, which in the day-time he might uſe.

f He that kills him ſhall be put to death, becauſe he puniſhed him more than his Crime deſerved, and might have been otherwiſe either ſecured or righted; and in that caſe, it is probable, the Thief deſigned not Murder, but Theft only. But if it were evident, that the Houſe-breaker deſigned Murder, he might doubtleſs kill him in his own defence. g Either ſo long till his ſervice was worth the thing ſtollen, or rather for the ordinary time of ſix years, becauſe this was not a ſimple Thief, but an Houſe-breaker, which was much worſe. Queſt. How can he be ſold, who is ſuppoſed to be killed? Anſw. 1. The Hebrew word may be better rendred, ſhould be ſold, as the foregoing word of the ſame future time is rendred, ſhould make reſtitution, to wit, if he were not killed; and therefore the killer of him being ſufficiently ſecured againſt this injury, was more culpable in killing him without neceſſity.

4 If the theft be certainly found in his hand alive h, whether it be ox, or aſs, or ſheep, he ſhall reſtore double i.

h Not killed, nor ſold, as verſe 1. i Not more, 1. Becauſe in that caſe it was preſumed, either that he intended to reſtore it, or at leaſt that he was but raw and unexerciſed in the trade of Stealing, and ſo ſhould be more gently puniſhed; 2. Becauſe the right Owner recovered his Goods with leſs charge and trouble. Or 3. Becauſe it was but a ſingle Crime, whereas the other verſe 1. was an aggravated and complicated Crime, where one Sin and Injury was added to another. Obj. It is ſaid, he ſhall reſtore ſeven-fold, Prov. 6. 31. Anſw. 1. Seven-fold is put for abundantly, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 4. 24. Pſal. 12. 6. and 79. 12. and a learned man obſerves, it is never uſed for that definite number. Anſw. 2. 12 And if it be ſtollen from him y, he ſhall make reſtitution unto the owner thereof.

I ſuppoſe this was not frequent, and that thoſe ravenous Creatures did ſpeedily fall to their meal, and that ſomething was left not far from the place, which the Shepherd might eaſily procure. 2. The words may be otherwiſe rendred, he ſhall bring a witneſs, as the Chaldee and Samar. render it; or a Teſtimony, (i. e) ſome Evidence whereby the Judge might be ſatisfied; as for inſtance, That ſome Wolf or Lion, &c. was ſeen in thoſe parts, &c. or ſome witneſs of his Diligence and Faithfulneſs in all other things, which therefore might well be preſumed in this.

14 ¶ And if a man borrow ought a of his neighbour, and it be hurt, or die, the owner thereof being not with it, he ſhall ſurely make it good b.

a (i. e.) Any living thing, which may be hurt or die, as it follows. b This may ſeem hard, but all things conſidered is reaſonable; becauſe in doubtful caſes, wherein it is not evident whether the borrower was faulty or not, as it is here, it ought to be interpreted in favour of the lender, rather than of the borrower; partly to oblige the borrower to the greater fidelity and care in ſuch things, which being not his own, men are commonly more careleſs about; partly becauſe the benefit being wholly the borrowers, the loſs alſo in all reaſon ought to be his, and the lender ought not to ſuffer for his kindneſs, leſt he ſhould be diſcouraged from ſuch actions for the future.

15 But if the owner thereof be with it c, he ſhall not make it good d: if it be an hired thing, it came for his hire e.

c In which caſe the Law reaſonably preſumes, both that the borrower would not abuſe it in the ſight of its owner, and that the lender might and would take due care about it. d Except there be ſome manifeſt fault in the borrower, as if he ſhould kill or wound the Beaſt in the lender's preſence; which exception is eaſily to be underſtood from divers other Laws of God. e (i. e.) The benefit was the lender's, and not the borrower's, and therefore the former reaſon ceaſeth; and whether the Maſter were preſent or abſent, he that receives the Gain or Hire ſhall bear the loſs, except when it came through the borrower's groſs and wilful default.

*Deut. 22. 28. 16 ¶ And * if a man entice a maid f that is not betrothed g, and lie with her, he ſhall ſurely endow her to be his wife.

See 1 Sam. 18. 25. Queſt. Why is there no Puniſhment for the Woman? Anſw. 1. She had no diſtinct Eſtate, being yet in her Father's Houſe. 2. The loſs of her Virginity was a ſufficient Puniſhment, eſpecially in Iſrael, where it was a great reproach and prejudice. 3. She was not ſo culpable as the Man, both becauſe ſhe was of the weaker Sex, and becauſe ſhe was drawn to the Sin by the Man's perſwaſion.

* Lev. 19. 26, 31. 18 ¶ * Thou ſhalt not ſuffer a witch k to live.

Of which ſee Exod. 7. 11. Levit. 20 27 Deut. 18. 10. 1 Sam 28. 9. The word is of the Feminine Gender, partly becauſe Women are moſt prone to theſe deviliſh Arts, and moſt frequently guilty of them; and partly to intimate, that no pity ſhould be ſhewed to ſuch Offenders, though they were of the weaker Sex.

n (i e.) Any Iſraelite; for it was permitted to take Uſury of the Gentiles, Deut. 23. 20. o This ſeems to be added, not by way of Appoſition, as if God's People and the Poor were all one, becauſe ſuch are commonly Poor; but by way of Reſtriction; for God had promiſed greatly to bleſs and enrich the generality of his People, if they by their Wickedneſs did not hinder it, and that there ſhould be few Poor among them; yet ſome ſuch there ſhould be for the tryal and exerciſe of their Charity. See Levit. 19. 10. Deut. 15. 4, 7, 11. p The Hebrew word ſignifies Biting; ſo Uſury is called, not by way of diſtinction, as if moderate Uuſury were allowed in this caſe, which is manifeſtly falſe, becauſe the borrower is here ſuppoſed to be poor, to whom not the Uſe only, but oft-times even the Principal is to be remitted, Luke 6. 34, 35. but by way of Explication, becauſe all Uſury is of a biting or eating Nature, which commonly conſumes the Perſon that pays it.

* Job 24. 3, 9. Prov. 20. 16. and 22. 27. Amos 2. 8. 26 * If thou at all take thy neighbours q raiment to pledge, thou ſhall deliver it unto him by that the ſun goeth down r.

q To wit, that is Poor, as appears by comparing this with the next verſe, where he is ſuppoſed to have but one Garment, and with Deut. 24. 12, 13. r Becauſe he ſpeaks of ſuch Raiment or Covering, wherein he uſed to Sleep, verſe 27. But you are not to think that the Creditor would every Morning take, and every Night redeliver his Pledge; and therefore this is rather a Prohibition to take any ſuch thing for a Pledge as a Man hath great and daily need of, by this argument, that if he did take it he could not keep it. Compare Deut. 24. 6.

27 For that is his covering only, it is his raiment for his skin: wherein ſhall he ſleep? and it ſhall come to paſs, when he crieth unto me, that I will hear: for I am gracious.

28 ¶ Thou ſhall not revile the † gods s, nor curſe the ruler of thy people t. † Or, judges.

s Not gods falſly ſo called, as ſome would have it, as appears by 1 Kings 18. 27. Jer. 10 11. but Magiſtrates and Governors, whether Civil or Eccleſiaſtical, as it is evident both from Acts 23. 3, 4, 5. and from the following words, which explain the former, according to the common uſe of Scripture, and from the Title of gods commonly given to ſuch, as Exod. 7. 1. Pſalm 82. 6. John 10. 34, 35. t Compare Eccl. 10. 20. Jude, verſe 8.

29 ¶ Thou ſhalt not delay u to offer the † firſt of thy ripe fruits x, and of thy † liquors: * the firſt-born of thy ſons ſhalt thou give unto me y. † Heb. fulneſs. † Heb * Chap. 2, 12. 34. 19. Deut. 19.

u Beyond the times appointed, leſt this delay grow to a total neglect. And delay may here be put for neglect, as that word is uſed, Deut. 7. 10. and 23. 21. Hab. 2. 3. which may ſeem to be favoured by the following Clauſe, which commands the giving or offering of the firſt-born without any mention of the haſtning or delaying of it. x Heb. thy fulneſs; and whereas this word is ſometimes applied to Seed or Corn, as Numb. 18 27. and ſometimes to the Vintage, as Deut. 22. 9. the circumſtances muſt determine, as it doth in like caſes, how it muſt be taken; which here ſeem to reſtrain it to dry Fruits, as Corn, &c. becauſe it is oppoſed to Liquors; and ſo all ſorts of Fruits are comprehended here. Unleſs you will make this an uſual figure called Hendyadis, as judgment and juſtice, Deut. 16. 18. is put for judgment of Juſtice, or juſt Judgment; ſo here the fulneſs and liquors, for the fulneſs of thy liquors; and ſo this may be one kind mentioned for all the reſt, than which nothing more frequent. y Not in kind, but by a price of Redemption to be paid to me in their ſtead.

30 Likewiſe z ſhalt thou do with thine oxen, and with thy ſheep: ſeven days it ſhall be with his dam, on the eighth day a thou ſhalt give it me.

z (i. e.) Ye ſhall offer their firſt-born. a Not ſooner, becauſe it was till then tender and imperfect, and therefore not fit to be offered to God; but it was not tied to that day, for it might be offered afterwards, as appears from Lev. 22. 27. even till it was a year old.

31 ¶ And ye ſhall be holy b men unto me: neither ſhall ye eat any fleſh that is torn of beaſts c in the field: ye ſhall caſt it to the dogs.

b (i. e.) Separated from all Filthineſs both moral and ceremonial. c Partly becauſe the Blood was not taken out of it; partly becauſe the clean Beaſt was ceremonially defiled by the touch of the unclean; and partly to beget in them a deteſtation of Cruelty, even in the Beaſts, and much more in Men.

CHAP. XXIII.

Falſe witneſs and report forbidden, 1. Right muſt not be wreſted, 2. He commands man to do good to his enemies, 3—5. Bribes are forbidden, 6—8. The years of ſowing appointed, and gathering, 10. Of the ſeventh year, which is the year of reſt; God's command concerning it, 11. Of the ſabbath-day, 12. Other gods ſhall not be mentioned, 13. Of the three feaſts in a year, 14. The manner of keeping the feaſt, 15, 16. The times appointed for the males appearing before the Lord, 17. No ſacrifice to be offered without unleavened bread, 18. Command concerning the firſt fruits, 19. God promiſeth an angel to prepare a way, 20. Who is commmanded to be obey'd, 21, 22. God promiſing them the land of the Amorites, &c. 23. forbiddeth the honouring of ſtrange gods, 24. God promiſes to bleſs them that ſerve him, 25—27. Hornets ſhall expel the enemies of the Iſraelites, 28, 29, 30. The borders of the land of Iſrael, 31. A covenant with the heathen is forbidden, 32. Or to let them inhabit among them, 33.

THou * ſhalt not † raiſe a a falſe report: put not thine hand b with the wicked to be an unrighteous witneſs. * Pſal. 15. 3. † Or, ceive.

a Heb. not take up, to wit, into thy Mouth, as Exod. 20. 7. either by the firſt raiſing, or further ſpreading of it; or not bear, or endure, as that word oft ſignifies; not hear it patiently, delightfully, readily, approvingly, as Perſons are very apt to do, but rather ſhalt diſcourage and reprove the ſpreader of it, according to Prov. 25. 23. Poſſibly the Holy Ghoſt might chuſe a word of ſuch general ſignification to ſhew that all theſe things were forbidden. b (i. e) Not conſpire or agree with them, which is ſignified by joyning hands, Prov. 11. 21. not give them an helping hand in it, not incourage them to it by Gifts or Promiſes, not aſſiſt them by Counſel or Intereſt. Others, not ſwear with them But ſwearing is not noted by putting the hand, but by lifting it up.

2 ¶ * Thou ſhalt not follow a multitude c to do evil d: neither ſhalt thou † ſpeak e in a cauſe to decline after many, to wreſt judgment f. * Lev 15. D 1. 17. † Heb ſwer.

c Either their Counſel or Example. But the Hebrew Rabbim both here and in the following Clauſe is by ſome rendred great Men, Men in Power and Authority, whom we are commanded not to follow. And as the word is thus uſed, Job 32. 9. Jer. 41. 1. ſo this ſenſe may ſeem moſt probable; 1. Becauſe in the laſt Clauſe he ſpeaks of Cauſes or Controverſies, as the Hebrew Rib ſignifies; and matters of Judgment, which were not determined by the Multitude, but by great Men. 2. Becauſe theſe are oppoſed to the Poor in the next Verſe. 3. Becauſe the Examples of ſuch Men are moſt prevalent. d Either in general or particular, to work miſchief, to oppreſs or cruſh another. e Heb. Anſwer, when thou art ſummoned as a witneſs in any cauſe. f Or to turn aſide right, or to pervert thy ſelf, the Verb being taken reciprocally, as Hiphil is oft put for Hithpahel; or which is all one, to do perverſly, i. e. unrighteouſly.

3 ¶ Neither ſhalt thou countenance g a poor man in his cauſe.

g Heb. Honour, i. e. reſpect, or prefer his Cauſe when the richer Man's Cauſe is more juſt: The meaning of this and the former Verſe is, there ſhall be no reſpect of Perſons, whether Rich or Poor, but an impartial conſideration of the Cauſe. See Levit. 19. 15. Pſalm 72. 1, 2.

4 ¶ * If thou meet thine enemies ox h or his aſs going aſtray, thou ſhalt ſurely bring it back to him again.

* Deut. 22. 1. Job 24. 3. Prov. 24. 17. and 25. 21. Matth. 5. 44. Rom. 12. 20.

h So far ſhalt thou be from revenging his Injuries, that thou ſhalt render good to him for them, whereby if thou doſt not reconcile him, thou wiltſt procure Peace to thy ſelf, and Honour to Religion.

5 * If thou ſee the aſs of him that hateth thee, lying under his burden, † and wouldeſt forbear to help him, thou ſhalt ſurely help with him i.

* Deut. 22. 4.

† Or, wilt thou ceaſe to help him? and wouldeſt ceaſe to leave thy buſineſs for him? thou ſhalt ſurely leave it to joyn with him.

i This Tranſlation depends upon this Suppoſition, that the Hebrew Verb azab, which is thrice uſed in this Verſe, ſignifies not only to leave, but alſo to help, or erect, or lift up, or ſtrengthen, or reſtore; which ſignification of the Verb may be proved, 1. From that uſe of it, Nehem. 3. 8. and 4. 2. 2. From the parallel place, Deut. 22. 4. where inſtead of this Verb, azab, is hakim, which is properly to erect or lift up. But if the Verb did ſignify only to leave, it may be thus rendred according to the Hebrew words, then, or therefore, or ſurely (for all theſe ways the Hebrew Particle Vau is uſed) thou ſhalt forbear to leave it, to wit, the Aſs groaning under his Burden, or the lifting up of the Aſs and Burden, to him alone; but if thou wiltſt be leaving, I will appoint thee a better Object for it, thou ſhalt ſurely leave, or lay aſide what thou haſt againſt him, i. e. whatſoever Controverſy thou haſt with him, that ſhall not hinder thee from ſuccouring him, or his, in any diſtreſs. The Hebrew Prepoſition, im, doth oft ſignify againſt, as Gen. 26. 20. Pſalm 85. 4. and 94. 16. Hoſ. 9. 8. And it is a conciſe or ſhort way of ſpeaking, which is very common in the Hebrew Language, againſt him for, what thou haſt againſt him. Or thus, and wouldeſt forbear to leave, to wit, thy buſineſs which thou art going about, for him, i. e. for the ſake of him who is thine Enemy, as the Hebrew Prepoſition, lamed, is oft uſed, as Exod. 14. 25. Numb. 25. 13. Joſ. 10. 14, &c. thou ſhalt repreſs thoſe malicious deſires, and thou ſhalt ſurely leave it to be, or to tarry, or to help with him to lift up the Aſs. So there is only an Ellipſis of the Verb, which is moſt common in the Hebrew Tongue.

6 Thou ſhalt not wreſt the judgment of thy poor k in his cauſe.

k (i. e.) Of the Poor which is among thee, not of the poor Jews only, as ſome peradventure may conceive; for common right muſt be done even to the Gentiles. Compare Deut. 27. 19.

7 Keep thee far l from a falſe matter m: and the innocent and righteous ſlay thou not n: for * I will not juſtify the wicked o.

* Chap. 34. 7.

l (i. e.) Abſtain from all Occaſions, Degrees, or Appearances of it. Compare Job 22. 23. Prov. 4. 14, 15. m (i. e.) An unrighteous Judgment; for he is ſpeaking to the Judges, as appears both by the foregoing and following Verſes. n Condemn not to Death, nor to any other unjuſt Penalty, for the ſame reaſon. o And therefore not condemn the innocent, one contrary being here underſtood from the other, as is frequent in the Book of the Proverbs; and what I do not, thou who acteſt in my Name and Stead ſhouldeſt not do. Or rather thus, Know, O Judge, (for to ſuch he ſpeaks) if thou doſt pronounce ſuch a wicked Sentence, I will not juſtify thee, or hold thee guiltleſs, i. e. I will ſeverely puniſh thee, as Exod. 20. 7.

8 ¶ And * thou ſhalt take no gift p: for the gift blindeth † the wiſe q, and perverteth the words of the righteous r.

* Eccl. 20. 28.

p Namely from ſuch whoſe Cauſes are depending before thee; becauſe if thou doſt not ſell Juſtice for it, yet thou wilt both ſeem to do ſo, and be tempted to do ſo. Compare Deut. 16. 19. 1 Sam. 8. 3. Prov. 17. 8, 23. and 19. 6. q Or, the open eyed, and quickſighted, who in this caſe cannot ſee, partly becauſe they will not ſee, and partly becauſe Intereſt and Affection do exceedingly corrupt the Judgment, and render it very partial. r (i. e.) The Judgment of the righteous Judges, i. e. of them who before were ſuch, and are enclined to be ſo, and probably would be ſo, were they not tempted with Bribes; or of them who by their place ſhould be righteous. So they are called righteous, to admoniſh them of their Duty to be ſo, and to aggravate their Sin when they are unrighteous, and conſequently to aggravate the miſchief of Gifts, which make thoſe unrighteous whoſe Office obligeth them to be righteous. Or thus, the matters or cauſes of the righteous, which may be underſtood not of the Judges, but of the Parties pleading, whoſe righteous Cauſe is by this means perverted by the Judge, and a wrong Sentence given.

11 But the ſeventh year thou ſhalt let it reſt, and lie ſtill t: that the poor of thy people may eat u: and what they leave, the beaſts of the field ſhall eat. In like manner thou ſhalt deal with thy vienyard, and with thy † olive-yard x.

t (i. e.) From Manuring, Plowing, Tilling, and Sowing, and Reaping alſo, by comparing Levit. 25. 3, 4, 5. And this God ordained not only for the reaſon here mentioned, the more comfortable Proviſion of the Poor, and for the Cattle, but for other weighty reaſons; as 1. That the heart and ſtrength of the Land might not be eaten out by continual Tillage. 2. That he might both try and exerciſe, and alſo ſecure the Obedience of the Iſraelites. 3. That he might keep them in dependance upon himſelf, and give to them and all their Neighbours a manifeſt proof of his ſingular and gracious Providence over his People. 4. That by this kind of Quitrent they might be admoniſhed that God alone was the Lord and Proprietary of the Land, and they were only Tenants at his Will. 5. That being freed from their great Labours about the Land, they might have the more leaſure to meditate upon God's Works, and to attend upon the Law, which was to be ſolemnly read at this time; Deut. 31. 10, &c. u Queſt. What had the Poor to eat? Anſ. Not only the Fruits of the Vines, and Olives, and other Fruit-trees, but alſo all that grew of its own accord, Levit. 25. 5. from thoſe Seeds which in the laſt reaping-time were ſcattered here and there, which were much more numerous now than in other years, becauſe God gave a ſpecial Bleſſing to the ſixth year, whereby it did bring forth the fruit of three years, Levit. 25. 21. and in years of ſo great plenty, Men are generally more negligent in their Reaping, and therefore the Relicks are more. x (i. e.) Thou ſhalt not prune nor dreſs them, nor gather and appropriate to thy own uſe what they ſhall produce, but ſhalt leave them to the Poor.

12 * Six days thou ſhalt do thy work, and on the ſeventh day thou ſhalt reſt y: that thine ox and thy aſs may reſt, and the ſon of thine hand-maid, and the ſtranger may be refreſhed.

* Chap. 20. 8, 9. Deut. 5. 13. Luke 13. 14.

y This command is here repeated, leſt any ſhould think the weekly Reſt might ceaſe when the whole Year was conſecrated to Reſt. There were three ſorts of Sabbaths to the Jews, 1. Of Days. 2. Of Years, to wit, the ſeventh Year. 3. Of Weeks of Years, to wit, the Jubilee; and all theſe are Types of the eternal Reſt in Heaven.

13 And in all things that I have ſaid unto you, be circumſpect: and * make no mention of the names of other gods z, neither let it be heard out of thy mouth.

* Deut. 12. 3.

z To wit, with Honour or Delight, or without Deteſtation; as fornication is not to be named among Saints, Eph. 5. 3. Or, not mention them in your Worſhip, or in Oaths, or in common Diſcourſe, and without ſpecial Occaſion, leſt the frequent mention of them might keep up their Memory, or introduce their Worſhip. Hence the Names of Idols and Idolatrous places were oft-times changed by the Iſraelites. See Numb. 32. 38. Joſ. 23. 7. Compare Pſalm 16. 4. Hoſ. 2. 17. Zech. 13. 2.

14 ¶ * Three times thou ſhalt keep a feaſt unto me in the year.

* Chap. 24. 23. Deut. 16. 16.

15 * Thou ſhalt keep the feaſt of unleavened bread: thou ſhalt eat unleavened bread ſeven days, as I commanded thee, in the time appointed the month of Abib: for in it thou cameſt out from Egypt: * and none ſhall appear before me empty a.

* Chap. 13. 3. and 34. 18.

* Deut. 16. 16. Eccl. 35. 4.

a This may be either 1. a Precept, as it is generally underſtood, that none ſhould ever come at thoſe times without ſome offering or other, for the ſupport of the Levites, and of the Worſhip of God; but the determination of this, or what they would give, was left to their choice. Or 2. a promiſe to encourage them to come ſo oft from their remoteſt Habitations to Jeruſalem, becauſe they ſhould never appear before God in vain, i. e. to no purpoſe, or without ſome benefit, for ſo the word, rekam, oft ſignifies. So it may be parallel to Iſaiah 45. 19. I ſaid not unto the ſeed of Jacob, ſeek ye me in vain. But the former ſenſe is more probable, by comparing this with its parallel place, Deut. 16. 16, 17.

16 And the feaſt of harveſt b, the firſt fruits of thy labours c, which thou haſt ſown in the field: and the feaſt of in-gathering d which is in the end of the year e, when thou haſt gathered in thy labours out of the field.

b (i. e.) Of Wheat-harveſt; for Barley-harveſt was before this time. This Feaſt was otherwiſe called Pentecoſt. c Queſt. How were theſe the firſt-fruits, when a Sheaf was offered to God in the Feaſt of the Paſſover? Anſ. That Sheaf was generally of Barley, which was leſs conſiderable than their Wheat; but this was the firſt fruits of their Wheat, which was their principal Grain, and they had no Bread before this time from the growth of that Year. d To wit, of all the reſt of the Fruits of the Earth, as of the Vines and Olives. This was alſo called the feaſt of Booths, and of Tabernacles. See Levit. 23. 43. Numb. 29. 12. Deut. 16. 13. All their three Feaſts had a reſpect to the Harveſt, which began in the Paſſeover, was carried on at Pentecoſt, and was fully compleated and ended in this Feaſt. e Of the common or civil Year, which began in September, as the ſacred Year began in March.

17 Three times in the year all thy males f ſhall appear before the LORD God g.

f To wit, ſuch as are of competent years, and health, and ſtrength, and ſuch as were at their own diſpoſe; for that Servants were not bound to this, may ſeem probable, becauſe none of theſe concerned were to appear before the Lord empty, or without an Offering, but the generality of Servants had not any thing to offer. And the care and management of their domeſtick Affairs did require the preſence and care of many of their Males. g (i. e.) In that place where God ſhall record his name, Exod 20. 24 as the Tabernacle or Temple.

18 * Thou ſhalt not offer the blood of my ſacrifice with leavened bread h; neither ſhall the fat of my † ſacrifice remain until the morning i.

h This and the following clauſe moſt underſtand of the Paſſeover, by comparing this place with its parallel, Exod. 34. 25. where the Paſſeover is mentioned. But the words being here univerſal, by the Laws of interpretation they ought to be univerſally underſtood, if they can bear that ſenſe; which here they may; for both theſe Clauſes agree to other Sacrifices. For as every Sacrifice had a Minchah, or a Meat-offering of Flour attending upon it, and offered with it; ſo it was expreſly cautioned, that no leaven ſhould be in that Minchah, Lev. 2. 11. And the fat of every Sacrifice was conſecrated to God, Lev 3. 16. 2 Chron. 35. 14, &c. and was preſently to be burnt upon the Altar, Lev. 7. 2, 3. And for Exod. 34. 25. what hinders but what is here more generally preſcribed, may be there particularly applied to the Paſſeover? and that ſeems more reaſonable, than to make that an idle repetition of the ſame thing. And my ſacrifice may be here put for my ſacrifices, by the common Enallage. Moreover, the two principal things which were offered to God in every Sacrifice, were blood and fat, Lev. 17. 6, 11, &c. i This if underſtood of the Paſſeover may ſeem ſuperfluous, becauſe nothing of it, neither fat nor lean, was to remain until the morning, Exod. 12. 10. but all of it was to be eaten, even the purtenance thereof, ver. 9. and that, for ought I ſee, without any exception of the fat, as there was in other Sacrifices, Lev. 3. 16. And therefore in that parallel place, Exod. 34. 25. where the Paſſeover is mentioned, there is not a word of the fat, but only it is ſaid in the general, neither ſhall the ſacrifice of the feaſt of the Paſſeover be left until the morning. And in that 2 Chron. 35. 14. where there is mention of the fat, it is manifeſtly reſtrained to the Burnt-offerings, which are there diſtinguiſhed from the Paſſeover, ver. 11, 12.

* Deut. 14. 21.

19 The firſt of the firſt-fruits k of thy land thou ſhalt bring into the houſe of the LORD thy God. * Thou ſhalt not ſeethe a kid in his mothers milk l.

k This ſeems to be a general Rule extending to all the Fruits which the Earth firſt produced; in every kind of which the very firſt are here enjoined to be offered unto God, before they ſhould preſume to eat any of them. It may ſeem to be repeated here, where the year of reſt is mentioned, to teach them the Firſt fruits were to be given to God of all that the Earth produced, not only by their labour and Seed, as might be thought from ver. 16. but alſo of its own accord, as is here implied. l He names one kind, under which he underſtands a Lamb, or a Calf, &c according to the uſe of Scripture-ſtile. This Law many underſtand literally, and that it is forbidden to them, becauſe the Idolaters had ſuch a cuſtom, whereof yet there ſeems to be no ſufficient proof; nor, if there were, doth it ſeem to be a Rite of that importance or probability to entice the Iſraelites to imitate it, that there needed a particular Law againſt this, more than againſt an hundred ſuch ridiculous uſages which were among the Heathen, and are not taken notice of in the Book of God's Laws. The words may be rendred thus, Thou ſhalt not ſeethe, or roſt, (for the word baſhal ſignifies to roſt as well as to boil, as it is evident from Deut. 16. 7.) a kid, being, or whilſt it is (which is to be underſtood, there being nothing more common than an Ellipſis of the Verb ſubſtantive) in his mother's milk; which it may be ſaid to be, either 1. whilſt it ſucks its Mother's milk; and ſo it may admit of a twofold interpretation, 1. that this is to be underſtood of the Paſſeover, of which moſt conceive he had now ſpoken, v 18. in which they uſed either a Lamb or a Kid, Exod. 12. 5. and then the word baſhal muſt be rendred roſt. 2. That this ſpeaks not of Sacrifice to God, wherein ſucking Creatures were allowed, Exod 22. 30. Levit. 22. 27. 1 Sam. 7. 9. but of man's uſe; and ſo God ordained this, partly becauſe this was unwholſome food, and principally to reſtrain cruelty, even towards Brute creatures, and luxury in the uſe of them. Or rather 2. whilſt it is very tender and young, rather of a milky than of a fleſhy ſubſtance, like that young Kid of which Juvenal thus ſpeaks, Qui plus lactis habet quam ſanguinis, i. e. which hath more milk than blood in it. And it may be ſaid to be in its mother's milk, by an uſual Hypallage, when its mother's milk is in it, i. e. whilſt the milk it ſucks, as it were, remains in it undigeſted and unconverted into fleſh, even as a man is oft ſaid to be in the ſpirit, when indeed the ſpirit is in him. And what is here indefinitely prohibited, is elſewhere particularly explained, and the time defined, to wit, that it be not offered to God before it was eight days old. And this interpretation may receive light and ſtrength from hence, that the Law of the Firſt-fruits, which both here and Exod. 34. 26. goes immediately before this Law, doth in Exod. 22. 30. immediately go before that Law of not offering them before the eighth day, which implies, that both of them ſpeak concerning the ſame thing, to wit, the Firſt-fruits or Firſt-born of the Cattle, which were not to be offered to God while they were in their Mother's milk, ſaith this place, or till they were eight days old, ſaith that place. And conſequently, if they might not be offered to God, they might not be uſed by men for food.

* Chap. 33. 2. 14. Num. 20. 16.

20 ¶ * Behold, I ſend an Angel m before thee to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared.

m To wit, Chriſt, the Angel of the Covenant, as may be gathered both from the following words, becauſe pardon of ſin, which is God's Prerogative, Mark 2. 7. is here aſcribed to him, and God's name is in him, and by comparing other Scriptures, as Exod. 32. 34. Acts 7. 38, 39. 1 Cor. 10. 9. See Exod 13. 21. and 14. 19.

21 Beware of him, and obey his voice, provoke him not: for he will not pardon your tranſgreſſions n: for my name is in him o.

n (i. e.) He will ſeverely puniſh you for them, by a common Meioſis, as Exod. 20. 7. Underſtand, if you continue obſtinate in your ſins. o Heb. Is in his inward parts, i. e. is intimately united to him, according to Joh. 10. 38. I am in the father, and the father in me. It not only ſignifies, that he acts in his Name, and by his Power and Authority, which even the Apoſtles did, and other Miniſters of the Goſpel do, and therefore it is unreaſonable to think no more is aſcribed to this Angel, but that his divine Nature or Eſſence is in him, whence he is called the Lord our righteouſneſs, Jer. 23. 6 and God, who will not give his glory to another, Iſa. 42. 8. hath given it to Chriſt, that all men ſhould honour the ſon even as they honour the father, Joh. 5. 23. which never was nor can be ſaid of any Angel without blaſphemy. Add to this, that the word name is oft put for the thing, or being, whether it be human or divine, as is manifeſt from Deut. 28. 58. Pſal. 20. 1. and 115. 1. Iſa. 30. 27. Act. 1. 15. Rev. 3. 4. and 11. 13. And ſo it muſt be here, becauſe this name is not ſaid to be given to him, as it would be, if it were properly taken; but to be in him, or in his inwards, which agrees well to the Divine Nature or Eſſence, but not to the meer Name.

22 But if thou ſhalt indeed obey his voice, and do all that I ſpeak p, * then I will be an enemy unto thine enemies, and † an adverſary unto thine adverſaries.

p All that I have already commanded, and ſhall further preſcribe by him unto Moſes.

x Here was a double mercy. God gave them ſtrength both to conceive, and to retain the conception till the natural and proper time of bringing forth came. y I will preſerve thee ſo as thou ſhalt live as long as the courſe of nature and temper of thy body will permit, when evil men ſhall not live out half their days, Pſal. 55. 23.

a Properly ſo called, as may be gathered from Joſ. 24. 12. Deut. 7. 20. Hornets are of themſelves very troubleſome and miſchievous; but theſe it is very probable were like thoſe Egyptian Flies, Exod. 8. 21. of an extraordinary bigneſs and perniciousneſs. Nor is it ſtrange that ſuch Creatures did drive many of theſe people from their Habitations; for many Heathen Writers give us inſtances of ſome people driven from their Seats by Frogs, others by Mice, others by Bees and Waſps; of which ſee Herodotus, Diodorus, Plin Ælian, Juſtin, &c. b He names theſe three people, either for all the reſt, becauſe they were the moſt potent about the time of Iſrael's firſt entrance into Canaan, and gave them moſt trouble; or becauſe theſe three were more infeſted with Hornets than the other Nations, as being more numerous and dangerous.

29 * I will not drive them out from beforee thee in one year; leſt the land become deſolate c, and the beaſt of the field multiply againſt thee.

CHAP. XXIV.

Moſes, Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, are commanded to appear before the Lord. Who was to come near the Lord, 2, 3. Moſes buildeth an altar, and 12 pillars, 4. He ſends young men to ſacrifice unto the Lord, 5. He ſprinkles the Altar with the blood, 6. The Covenant being read, the people promiſe obedience, 7. The people are ſprinkled with blood, 8. Moſes and the Elders of Iſrael ſee the Lord, 9, 10. God promiſes to give to Moſes two tables of ſtone, 12. Moſes and Joſhua go up to the Mount, 13. Aaron and Hur took care for the people in the mean time, 14. God appeareth on the Mount like devouring fire, 15, 16. God's glory on the Mount, 17. Moſes remains there forty days and forty nights.

AND he ſaid unto Moſes, Come up a unto the LORD, thou and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu b, and ſeventy of the Elders of Iſrael c, and worſhip ye afar off d.

a After thou haſt gone down and acquainted the people with my Will, and received their anſwer, then come up again. This ſenſe is gathered from the repetition of this Command after that was done, ver. 12. b Aaron and his two eldeſt Sons, whom by this ſpecial honour and favour he prepared for that Office to which they were to be called, chap. 28. c Not the ſeventy Governours which were choſen after this time, as appears from Num. 11. 24. compared with Num. 33. 16. but ſeventy perſons ſelected by Moſes out of thoſe Rulers choſen and mentioned Exod. 18. 25. and poſſibly theſe were the chief Heads of thoſe ſeveral Families which went with Jacob into Egypt, which were about 70. See Gen. 46. 26, 27. d Though they may come up into the Mount further than the people, yet do thou, and let them eſpecially, keep their diſtance; and what worſhip either thou or they ſhall offer to me, ſhall be performed afar off from the top of the Mountain, whither thou only ſhalt be admitted, and that not to pray to me, but only to receive Laws and Oracles from me. See ver. 2.

2 And Moſes alone e ſhall come near the LORD: but they ſhall not come nigh, neither ſhall the people go up with him f.

e (i. e.) Without the perſons now mentioned, though not without Joſhua his Miniſter, as ſome conceive from ver. 13. though even there Moſes ſeems to aſcend into the Mount without Joſhua. f To any part of the Mount, as Aaron, and Nadab, &c. did, but they ſhall tarry at the bottom. See Exod. 19. 12.

3 ¶ And Moſes came g and told the people all the words of the LORD, and all the judgments: and all the people anſwered with one voice, and ſaid, * All the words, which the LORD hath ſaid, will we do h.

*Chap 19. 8. Verſ. 7. Deut. 5. 27.

g Down from the Mount to the people, after he had received the Laws from God. h This they ſo readily and raſhly promiſe, becauſe they were not ſenſible of their own weakneſs, and becauſe they did not underſtand the comprehenſiveneſs, and ſpirituality, and ſtrictneſs of God's Law, but thought it conſiſted only in the external performances and abſtinences expreſſed.

4 And Moſes wrote i all the words of the LORD, and roſe up early in the morning, and builded an altar k under the hill, and twelve pillars l, according to the twelve tribes of Iſrael.

i To wit, in a Book, Heb. 9. 19. And the Ten Commandments God himſelf wrote alſo in Tables of Stone, Exod. 31. 18. k Repreſenting God in Chriſt, as one party in the Covenant. l Repreſenting the people of Iſrael, the other party. So here are the outward ſigns and ſymbols of a Covenant made between God and the Iſraelites.

5 And he ſent young men m of the children of Iſrael, which offered burnt-offerings, and ſacrificed peace-offerings of oxen n unto the LORD.

m It matters not whether they were the firſt-born, or others; it is ſufficient that they were perſons appointed and authoriſed for the preſent ſervice, not without God's direction. n One kind, as the principal is named for all; for there were offered alſo Goats, as appears both from Heb. 9. 19. and from hence, that burnt-offerings were uſually made of the Goats, Lev. 1. 10. Numb. 7. 28.

6 And Moſes took half of the blood o and put it in baſons; and half of the blood he ſprinkled on the altar †.

o Of the Beaſts killed, which for conveniency of ſprinkling was mixed with a little water, Heb. 9. 19. whereby alſo Chriſt was moſt fitly repreſented, who came by water and blood, 1 John 5. 6. † To ſignify, as well that God was appeaſed and atoned by this Blood, as it repreſented the Blood of Chriſt, as alſo that Chriſt was ſanctified with his own Blood, Heb. 9. 12.

7 And he took the book of the covenant p, and read in the audience of the people q, and they ſaid, * All that the LORD hath ſaid, will we do, and be obedient.

p Wherein Moſes had written the Conditions of this Covenant, to wit, the Words and Laws of God, above ver. 4. q (i. e.) In the hearing of a great number of them, or of ſome in the name of all the people, by whom it was read, or otherwiſe publiſhed to all the people ſucceſſively.

8 And Moſes took the blood r and ſprinkled it on the people s, and ſaid, Behold *, the blood of the covenant t which the LORD hath made with you, concerning all theſe words.

* 1 Pet. 1. 2.

r The other half of the Blood, which was put in the Baſons for this end, ver. 6. s Either upon the 12 Pillars repreſenting the people; or upon the peoples Repreſentatives, to wit, the Elders mentioned ver. 1. as when the people are commanded to lay on their hands, the Elders do it in their name and ſtead, Lev. 4. 15. Deut. 21. 2. or upon thoſe of the people which are neareſt him, which was imputed to all the reſt, and was to be taken by them as if it had reached unto them all. Now this ſprinkling of the Blood upon the people did ſignify, 1. their ratification of the Covenant on their parts, and their ſecret wiſhing of the effuſion of their own Blood if they did not keep it. 2. Their ſprinkling of their Conſciences with the Blood of Chriſt, and their obtaining redemption, juſtification, and acceſs to God through it alone. See Heb. 9. 20, 22. and 13. 20. Whereby the Covenant is made and confirmed, as was uſual both in Scripture, Matth 26. 28. Luke 22. 20. and among Heathens.

9 ¶ Then went up u Moſes and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and ſeventy of the Elders of Iſrael.

u In obedience to that command of God given ver. 1.

10 And they ſaw the God of Iſrael x, and there was under his feet as it were a paved work * of a ſaphire ſtone y, and as it were the body of heaven in his clearneſs z.

* Ezek. 1. 26. and 10. 1.

x Not any viſible reſemblance of the Divine Nature, which is expreſly denied, Deut. 4. 15. 1 Tim. 6. 16. and was refuſed to Moſes when he deſired it, Exod. 33. 18, 20. and therefore ſurely would never be granted to the Elders of Iſrael; but ſome glorious appearance or token of God's ſpecial Preſence; or rather, the ſecond perſon in the Trinity, who now ſhewed himſelf to them in an Humane and Glorious Shape, as an Eſſay and Teſtimony of his future Incarnation. This may ſeem probable, 1. Becauſe here is mention of his feet. 2. Becauſe this way of Chriſt's appearance was not unuſual. See Gen. 18, &c. 3. Becauſe the perſon who delivered the Law in Sinai was Chriſt, as appears from Acts 7. 38. though he be there called an Angel, a name oft given to Chriſt, as hath been formerly ſhewed. y Which is of a clear Sky-colour, mixed with Golden ſpots like Stars in the Sky. z Or, For clearneſs. A clear Sky in Prophetical Style ſignifying God's favour, as a cloudy Sky notes his Anger.

11 And upon the nobles a of the children of Iſrael he laid not his hand b: alſo they ſaw God, and did eat and drink c.

a Or ſeparated or ſelect ones, i. e. the perſons who were ſingled out to go up with Moſes, verſe 1. 9. the ſame of whom it is ſaid here, and verſe 10. that they ſaw God. b (i. e.) Did not hurt or deſtroy them, as they might expect according to the vulgar Opinion, Gen. 16. 13. and 32. 20, &c. and the Conſcience of their own Guilt, as being now before their Lord and Judge. And ſo the phraſe of putting or ſtretching forth the hand is moſt frequently uſed, as Gen. 37. 22. 1 Sam. 26. 11, 23. Eſth. 2. 21. Job 1. 11, 12. Pſal. 138. 7, &c. c So far were they from being deſtroyed, that they were not affrighted at this glorious appearance of God, but were refreſhed and comforted by it, and did joyfully eat and drink together in God's Preſence, celebrating the ſacred Feaſt made of the remnant of the Peace-offerings, according to the manner. Thus God gave them a taſte of his Grace and Mercy in this Covenant, and an Aſſurance that he would not deal with them according to the rigors of the Law, but for the ſake of the Blood of Chriſt typically repreſented here, would graciouſly pardon and accept all thoſe that ſincerely, though imperfectly, obey him.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Come up to me into the mount, and be d there: and I will give thee * tables of ſtone e, and a law, and commandments f, which I have written; that thou mayeſt teach them.

*Chap. 31. 18. and 32. 16.

d (i. e.) Abide, as that Verb is uſed 1 Tim. 4. 15. and elſewhere. e He choſe that material, partly as very durable, yet ſo that it was capable of being broken, which God, foreſeeing their wickedneſs, intended to do; and partly for ſignification, to note the hardneſs of their Hearts, upon which no impreſſion could be made, but by the Finger of God. f Or, the law, and becauſe that is ambiguous to the Moral, and Ceremonial, and Judicial, he adds, even the commandment, or commandments, to wit, the Ten Commandments, ſo called by way of Eminency, for theſe only were written by God upon the Stony Tables, as appears by Exod. 34. 28. the reſt were written by Moſes in a Book, above verſe 4.

13 And Moſes roſe up, and his miniſter Joſhua g: and Moſes went up into the mount of God.

g Who did not go up with Moſes to the top of the Mount, as is ſufficiently implied both here and above, verſe 1, 2. but abode in ſome lower place, waiting for Moſes his return, as appears from Exod. 32. 17. And there Joſhua abode forty days, not Faſting all the while, but having, as the reſt had, Manna for his Meat, and for his Drink, Water out of the brook that deſcended out of the mount, as we read Deut. 9. 21.

14 And he ſaid unto the elders, Tarry ye here for us h, until we come again unto you: and behold, Aaron and Hur i are with you: if any man have any matters to do, let him come unto them.

h (i. e.) For me and Joſhua, and here, i. e. in the Camp, where he was when he ſpake theſe words; for it was where not only Aaron and Hur, but the People might come, as it here follows, and therefore not upon the Mount. i Whom Moſes had made Joint-commiſſioners to determine hard Cauſes which were brought to them from the Elders, according to the order, Exod. 18. 22. Some make Aaron the Eccleſiaſtical Head, and Hur the Civil Head; but Aaron was not authorized for Eccleſiaſtical Matters till chap. 28.

15 And Moſes went up into the mount, and a cloud covered the mount.

*Numb. 14. 10.

16 And * the glory of the LORD k abode upon mount Sinai, and the cloud covered l it ſix days: and the ſeventh day m he called unto Moſes out of the midſt of the cloud.

k (i. e.) The tokens of his glorious Preſence in the Fire, ver. 17. Deut. 4. 36. l From the eyes of the People. m So long God made Moſes wait, either to exerciſe his Humility, Devotion, and Dependance upon God; or to prepare him by degrees for ſo great a Work; or becauſe this was the Sabbath-day, called therefore the ſeventh with an emphatical Article: And God might chuſe that day for the beginning of that glorious Work, to put the greater Honour upon it, and oblige the People to a ſtricter obſervance of it. So it was upon a Lord's day that St. John had his Revelation delivered to him, Rev. 1. 10.

*Deut. 4. 36.

17 And the ſight of the glory of the LORD was like * devouring fire n on the top of the mount, in the eyes of the children of Iſrael.

n He ſaith like it, for it was not devouring fire, as appears by Moſes his long abode in it. Note here, whatſoever the Elders of Iſrael ſaw before, the People ſaw no ſimilitude of God, as Moſes obſerves Deut. 4. 15.

18 And Moſes went up into the midſt of the cloud o, and gat him up into the mount: and Moſes was in the mount forty days and forty nights p.

o The God that called him enabling him to enter and abide there; whereas, when he was left to himſelf, he could not enter into the Tabernacle, Exod. 40. 35. p In which he did neither eat nor drink, Exod. 34. 28. Deut. 9. 9, 18. whereby it ſeems moſt probable the ſix days mentioned, verſe 16. were a part of theſe forty days, becauſe Moſes being in perpetual expectation of God's call, ſeems not to have had leaſure for eating and drinking, nor proviſion neither. Beſides, he is not ſaid to be in the midſt of the Cloud ſo long, but only in the mount, where he was thoſe ſix days, verſe 15, 16.

Moſes is commanded to take a free-will-offering to ſet up the tabernacle, and of what, 1——7. God commands him to make a ſanctuary, 8. Chargeth him how, and whereof to make a tabernacle, 9. 10. The form of the tabernacle, 11——16. The mercy-ſeat, 17. The table for the ſhew-bread, with other utenſils, 18——30. Of the candleſticks, with its employment, and other furnitures for the tabernacle, 31——39. Moſes is commanded to make it anſwerable to the pattern which he ſaw in the mount, 40.

AND the LORD ſpake a unto Moſes, ſaying, a Having delivered the Moral and Judicial Laws, he now comes to the Ceremonial Law, wherein he ſets down all things very minutely and particularly, whereas in the other Laws he was content to lay down general Rules, and leaveth many other things to be by analogy deduced from them. The reaſon of the difference ſeems to be this, That the light of Reaſon implanted in all men, gives him greater help in the diſcovery of Moral and Judicial things, than in Ceremonial matters, or in the external way and manner of God's worſhip; which is a thing depending wholly upon God's inſtitution, and not left to man's invention, which is a very incompetent Judge of thoſe things, as appears from hence, becauſe the wittieſt men, deſtitute of God's revelation, have been guilty of moſt foolery in their devices of God's worſhip.

10 ¶ * And they ſhall make an ark o of ſhittim-wood: two cubits p and an half ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit and an half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

o Or, Little cheſt, or coffer, for the uſes after mentioned. p Underſtand it of the common Cubit, which is generally conceived to contain a Foot and a half of our meaſure. See Gen. 6. 15.

11 And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold; within and without ſhalt thou overlay it, and ſhalt make upon it a crown q of gold round about.

q Or, A border, raiſed up above the reſt of the Ark, as a Crown is above that which it is applied to, only a Crown is round, and this was ſquare. This was both for Ornament, and for the faſtning of the covering of the Ark to it.

12 And thou ſhalt caſt four rings of gold for it, and put them in the four corners r thereof; and two rings ſhall be in the one ſide of it, and two rings in the other ſide of it.

r In the middle of each corner for conveniency of carriage. See 1 Kings 7. 30.

13 And thou ſhalt make ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with gold.

14 And thou ſhalt put the ſtaves into the rings, by the ſides of the ark, that the ark may be born with them.

15 The ſtaves ſhall be in the rings of the ark: they ſhall not be taken from it.

*Deut. 2. 1 Kings 8. 9.

16 And thou ſhalt put into the ark, * the teſtimony s, which I ſhall give thee.

s To wit, the Two Tables of Stone, wherein the Decalogue was written, called the Teſtimony here, and Exod. 30. 6. Levit. 16. 13. and more fully the Tables of the Teſtimony, Exod. 31. 18. Numb. 1. 50. becauſe they were witneſſes of that Covenant made between God and his People, whence they are called the Tables of the Covenant, Deut. 9. 9. and the Ark, the Ark of the Covenant, Numb. 10. 33. This being as a publick Record both of God's Mercy promiſed to them, and of the Duty and Conditions required of them. See Exod. 16. 34.

17 And thou ſhalt make a mercy-ſeat t of pure gold; two cubits and an half ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof.

t Or, Propitiatory; which ſeems from the ſameneſs of dimenſions to be nothing elſe but the covering of the Ark, upon which God is ſaid to ſit, whence the Ark is called God's footſtool. This covering is a manifeſt Type of Chriſt, who is therefore called the propitiation, or propitiatory, Rom. 3. 25. 1 John 2. 2. and 4. 10. becauſe he interpoſeth himſelf between God our Judge, and the Law by which we all ſtand condemned and accurſed, Gal. 3. 10, 13. that God may not deal rigorouſly with us according to that Law, but mercifully for his ſake who hath fulfilled the Law, and therefore boldly preſents himſelf to his Father on our behalf.

18 And thou ſhalt make two cherubims u of gold: of beaten work x ſhalt thou make them in the two ends of the mercy-ſeat.

u Figures of humane ſhape, in which alone the Angels uſed to appear; but they had wings, to ſignify their Expedition in God's Work and Meſſages. And between theſe Angels God is ſaid to ſit and dwell. So this place was a repreſentation of Heaven, where God ſitteth and dwelleth among the Cherubims and other glorious Angels. x Not made of ſeveral parcels joyned together, as Images commonly are, nor yet melted and caſt in a frame or mould, but beaten by the hammer out of one continued piece of Gold, poſſibly to note the exact unity or indiviſibility, and the ſimplicity of the Angelical Nature.

†Or, of the matter of the mercy-ſeat.

19 And make one cherub on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end: even † of the mercy-ſeat y ſhall ye make the cherubims on the two ends thereof.

y (i. e.) Of one and the ſame piece of maſſy Gold, out of which the Cherubims were made.

*1 Kings 8. 7. 1 Chron. 28. 18. Heb. 9. 5.

20 And the cherubims ſhall ſtretch forth their * wings on high, covering the mercy-ſeat with their wings, and their faces ſhall look one to another: toward the mercy-ſeat z ſhall the faces of the cherubims be.

z Towards God, who is ſuppoſed to ſit there, whoſe Face the Angels in Heaven always behold, and upon whom their Eyes are fixed to obſerve and receive his commands; and towards Chriſt, the true Propitiatory, which Myſtery they deſire to look into, 1 Pet. 1. 12. not envying mankind their near and happy relation to him, but taking pleaſure in the contemplation of it, 21 And thou ſhalt put the mercy-ſeat above upon the ark, and in the ark thou ſhalt put a the teſtimony that I ſhall give thee.

a Or, After thou ſhalt have put in the ark; for the Ark was not to be opened after the covering was put upon it. The Hebrew Particle Vau oft ſignifies after that, as Jer. 43. 13. and 51. 60.

*Chap. 29. 42. and 30. 36. Lev. 16. 2. Numb. 7. 89.

22 And there I will meet with thee b, and I will commune with thee, from above the mercy-ſeat, from * between the cherubims c which are upon the ark of the teſtimony, of all things which I will give thee in commandment unto the children of Iſrael.

b There I will be in a ſpecial and gracious manner preſent with thee. c Which ſpreading forth their wings formed a kind of ſeat, which the Divine Majeſty was pleaſed to poſſeſs.

*Chap. 37. 10. 1 King. 7. 48. 2 Chro. 4. 8.

23 ¶ * Thou ſhalt alſo make a table of ſhittim-wood: two cubits ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

24 And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, and make thereto a crown d of gold round about.

d A ſquare Border at the top of it, as verſe 11. partly for Ornament, and principally to keep what was put upon it from falling off.

25 And thou ſhalt make unto it a border e of an hand-breadth round about, and thou ſhalt make a golden crown f to the border thereof round about.

e Which encompaſſed and kept together the feet of the Table, and ſeems to have been towards the bottom of it. f Not the ſame mentioned before, verſe 24. but another for further Ornament to the Table.

26 And thou ſhalt make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings in the four corners that are on the four feet thereof.

27 Over againſt the border g ſhall the rings be for places of the ſtaves to bear the table.

g As much below the top, as the Border was above the bottom of the feet of the Table, which was a convenient place for the carriage. Others, near the border, in that part of the feet which is next to it.

28 And thou ſhalt make the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with gold, that the table may be born with them.

29 And thou ſhalt make the diſhes h thereof, and ſpoons i thereof, and covers k thereof, and bowls thereof, † to cover withal l: of pure gold ſhalt thou make them.

† Or, to pour out withal.

h In which the Bread and Frankincenſe upon it were put, Levit. 24. 7. Of this ſort there were twelve, one for every Loaf. i In which Incenſe was put, as appears from Numb. 7. 14. and by which Incenſe was either put into the Diſhes, or taken out of them, as occaſion required. k So the Hebrew word is uſed Exod. 37. 16. Numb. 4. 7: Herewith either the Bread, or Incenſe, or both, were covered. l To cover the ſame things. So this and the former were two ſeveral ſorts of Covers, the one deeper than the other, one to cover the Bread, another the Incenſe. Or, Bowls thereof, to pour out withal, to wit, liquid things, as Wine and Oyl, when they were offered. See Gen. 35. 14. Or theſe laſt words may relate not only to the Bowls, but the other things, here mentioned, and may be thus rendred, wherewith it, to wit, the Table, ſhall be covered, as indeed it was in a manner quite covered with theſe Veſſels.

m Heb. Bread of faces, or of the preſence, ſo called, becauſe it was conſtantly placed in God's preſence. This Bread was divided into twelve Loaves, one for every Tribe; and they were in their name preſented to God in the nature of an offering, as the Frankincenſe ſhews, as a publick acknowledgment, that they received all their Bread or Food, both corporal and ſpiritual, from God's hand, and were to uſe it as in God's preſence.

31 * And thou ſhalt make n a candleſtick of pure gold: of beaten work ſhall the candleſtick be made: his ſhaft o, and his branches, his bowls, his knops p, and his flowers ſhall be of the ſame q.

32 And ſix branches ſhall come out of the ſides of it r: three branches of the candleſtick out of the one ſide, and three branches of the candleſtick out of the other ſide.

Or the Spirit of God, the great Enlightner of the Church, with his ſevenfold or various Gifts and Operations.

33 Three bowls made like unto almonds with a knop and a flower in one branch: and three bowls made like almonds in the other branch, with a knop and a flower: ſo in the ſix branches that come out of the candleſtick.

34 And in the candleſtick s ſhall be four bowls t made like unto almonds, with their knops and their flowers.

35 And there ſhall be a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, according to the ſix branches u that proceed out of the Candleſtick.

u And, to compleat the number of four, mentioned in the foregoing Verſe, we muſt underſtand, that there was another knop and bowl and flower in the upper part of the ſhaft, above all the branches, as the rules of proportion, and common uſe in making ſuch things, will eaſily evince.

36 Their knops and their branches ſhall be of the ſame: all it ſhall be one beaten work of pure gold.

Moſes is commanded to make the Tabernacle with ten curtains, 1. The length and breadth of the curtains, 2. The form of the curtains, 3—6. He is commanded to make eleven curtains of goats hair, 7. The manner of the making and placing it, 8—14. Of what the Tabernacle is to be made, 15. The manner of its making, with other utenſils, 16—30. of the vail, and what it is to be made of, 31. The faſhion of it, 32, 33. The hanging for the tent-door, 36.

MOreover, * thou ſhalt make the tabernacle a with ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet b: with cherubims † of cunning work c ſhalt thou make them.

* Chap. 36. 8.

a Or, Tent; a little Houſe, wherein the Ark, Table and Candleſtick were to be placed. b (i. e.) With materials of theſe colours, to wit, Wool, as may be gathered from hence, that it is oppoſed to Linen. Compare Exod. 25. 4. c Either woven, or rather wrought with Needle, wherein is moſt skill and curioſity.

2 The length of one curtain ſhall be eight and twenty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: and every one of the curtains ſhall have one meaſure.

3 The five curtains ſhall be coupled together † one to another, and other five curtains ſhall be coupled one to another.

† Heb. the woman to her ſiſter.

4 And thou ſhalt make loops d of blue upon the edge of the one curtain, from the ſelvedge e in the coupling f: and likewiſe g ſhalt thou make in the uttermoſt edge of another curtain, in the coupling of the ſecond.

d Which together with the Taches were for the joining the Curtains together, as appears from verſe 11. which way of conjunction was moſt convenient for the often taking them down, and ſetting them up. e Or from, or in the extremity, or end, or edge. Heb. lip. f (i. e.) In the place where the two Curtains are coupled together. g The ſecond Curtain is to be made exactly like the firſt.

5 Fifty loops ſhalt thou make in the one curtain, and fifty loops ſhalt thou make in the edge of the curtain that is in the coupling of the ſecond; that the loops may take hold one of another.

6 And thou ſhalt make fifty taches of gold, and couple the curtains together with the taches h: and it ſhall be one Tabernacle.

h Or hooks or buttons, which were put into the loops to unite and faſten the Curtains.

7 ¶ And thou ſhalt make curtains of goats hair i to be a covering k upon the tabernacle: eleven curtains ſhalt thou make.

i Spun, Exod. 35. 26. and woven into a ſtuff, like our Camlet. k To be put next above the Curtains.

8 The length of one curtain ſhall be thirty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: and the eleven curtains ſhall be all of one meaſure.

9 And thou ſhalt couple five curtains by themſelves, and ſix curtains by themſelves, and ſhalt double the ſixth curtain l in the forefront of the tabernacle.

l For the better ſecurity of the inward covering.

10 And thou ſhalt make fifty loops on the edge of the one curtain that is outmoſt in the coupling, and fifty loops in the edge of the curtain which coupleth the ſecond.

11 And thou ſhalt make fifty taches of braſs, and put the taches into the loops, and couple the * tent together, that it may be one.

† Or, covering.

12 And the remnant that remaineth of the curtains of the tent, the half curtain that remaineth ſhall hang over the ſide of the tabernable.

13 And a cubit on the one ſide, and the cubit on the other ſide † of that which remaineth in the length of the curtains of the tent, it ſhall hang over the ſides of the tabernacle on this ſide, and on that ſide to cover it.

† Heb. in the remainder or ſurpluſage.

14 And thou ſhalt make a covering for the tent of rams skins died red, and a covering above of badgers skins m.

m To preſerve the reſt from the injury of the weather.

15 ¶ And thou ſhalt make boards for the tabernacle of ſhittim-wood ſtanding up.

16 Ten cubits ſhall be the length of a board, and a cubit and a half ſhall be the breadth of one board.

17 Two † tenons n ſhall there be in one board, ſet in order one againſt another: thus ſhalt thou make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

† Heb. hands.

r Heb. hands, (i. e.) parts of the boards ſo cut and framed, that like hands they may take hold of, and be faſtned into the ſockets, ver. 19.

18 And thou ſhalt make the boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards on the ſouth-ſide ſouthward.

19 And thou ſhalt make forty ſockets o of ſilver under the twenty boards: two ſockets under one board for his two tenons, and two ſockets under another board for his two tenons.

o Or baſes, or pedeſtals, or feet, upon which the boards ſtood, and to which they were faſtned.

20 And for the ſecond ſide of the tabernable, on the north-ſide there ſhall be twenty boards, 21 And their forty ſockets of ſilver: two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board.

22 And for the ſides of the tabernacle weſtward thou ſhalt make ſix boards.

23 And two boards p ſhalt thou make for the corners of the tabernacle in the two ſides.

p Which were of another faſhion than the former, as may be gathered both from the diſtinct nomination and uſe of them, and from the Laws of building. And whereas the reſt were but ſingle boards, theſe were double for greater ſtrength and conveniency of joining them together.

24 And they ſhall be † coupled together q beneath, and they ſhall be coupled together above the head of it unto one ring r: thus ſhall it be for them both, they ſhall be for the two corners.

q Heb. as twins, i. e. equal and equally joined together, and exactly anſwering one to the other. r Which ring was exactly in the corner, and with the help of the bars kept the corner-boards, and with them the other boards of the Tabernacle cloſe together. But you muſt note, that here were two rings in each corner, the one in the upper, the other in the lower parts.

25 And they ſhall be eight boards, and their ſockets of ſilver ſixteen ſockets: two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board.

26 ¶ And thou ſhalt make bars s of ſhittim-wood: five for the boards of the one ſide of the tabernacle.

s By bars you may underſtand either 1. ſeveral rows or orders of bars, one bar beginning at the end of the other, and each containing 4 cubits in length, and all together 20 cubits, which was the length of the Tabernacle; or 2. ſingle bars, which ſeem truer, 1. becauſe the word ſignifies bars, not rows of bars; and why ſhould we go from the proper ſignification of the word without cauſe? 2. If bars be put for rows of bars, there muſt be 5 rows of bars on a ſide, there being ſo many bars ſaid to be on a ſide. But the Abettors of that Opinion allow only 4 rows of bars on a ſide; and it is apparent the middle bar, which is one of the five, is but one ſingle bar, v. 28. and therefore it may be preſumed the reſt were ſo too. 3. The name of the middle bar implies, that of the other 4 bars, two were above it, and two below it. Obj. But if they were each ſingle bars, reaching the whole length of the Building, why is it ſaid peculiarly of the middle bar, that it ſhould reach from end to end, or from extremity to extremity, verſ. 28.? Anſ. This may be peculiarly ſaid of this, either becauſe the other four might want ſomething of the juſt length of the Building, or becauſe the middle bar might ſtand out beyond the two ends of it, for conveniency of the carriage of the Building.

27 And five bars for the boards of the other ſide of the tabernacle; and five bars for the boards of the ſide of the tabernacle for the two ſides weſtward t.

t There was but one ſide weſtward. Either therefore here is a tranſpoſition of the Hebrew words, which is uſual, and the words are thus to be placed and rendred, weſtward, looking to both ſides, or, weſtward, according to both the other ſides, now mentioned, to note that the number and length of bars in the weſt-end ſhould be equal to thoſe on either of the other ſides; or here is an enallage of the number, the dual or plural for the ſingular, of which there are many Examples, and ſo the words are to be rendred, for the ſide looking weſtward.

28 And the middle bar in the midſt of the boards u ſhall reach from end to end.

u Not within the thickneſs of the boards, as the Jews conceive, but in the length of them; as appears, 1. Becauſe this bar, as well as the reſt, was gilded, ver. 29. which was frivolous if it were never ſeen. 2. Becauſe all the bars had rings made to receive and hold them up, ver. 29.

29 And thou ſhalt overlay the boards with gold, and make their rings of gold, for places for the bars: and thou ſhalt overlay the bars with gold.

30 And thou ſhalt rear up the tabernacle, * according to the faſhion thereof which was ſhewed thee x in the mount.

b Which were elevated above the body of the Altar, in form either of Pyramids or Spires, or rather of Horns, as the word ſignifies; nor is there any neceſſity of departing from the proper ſignification. Theſe were not only for ornament, but for uſe alſo, either to keep things put upon it from falling, or that Beaſts to be offered might be bound to them. See Pſal. 118. 27. c Of the ſame piece with the Altar, for its uſe required ſtrength. d With plates of Braſs of competent thickneſs, both above the Wood and under it, that the Fire might not take hold of the Wood.

3 And thou ſhalt make his pans to receive his aſhes, and his ſhovels, and his † baſins e, and his fleſh-hooks f, and his fire-pans g: all the veſſels thereof thou ſhalt make of braſs.

e To receive the Blood of the Sacrifices, which they were to ſprinkle. f Wherewith they took Fleſh out of the Pot in which it was ſeethed, as 1 Sam. 2. 14. But this ſeems not proper here, becauſe the Fleſh was never boiled upon the Altar, but in other places appointed for that uſe. And the Hebrew word is general, and may ſignify either Tongs, or Fire-forks. g In which they carried live Coals from this Altar to that of Incenſe, as occaſion required.

4 And thou ſhalt make for it a grate of net-work h of braſs, and upon the net i ſhalt thou make four brazen rings k in the four corners thereof.

h Which was competently ſtrong and thick, this being as it were the Hearth of the Altar upon which they laid both the Wood and the Sacrifices, and it was full of holes, through which the Blood and Aſhes might fall down into the place appointed for them. i Or rather at, or beſide, or under the net, for ſo the Rings were placed, as their uſe ſhews, and the Hebrew Prepoſition al, is oft ſo uſed. k Which were either 1. Peculiar to the Grate, which by theſe was carried apart from the Altar, having the perpetual Fire kept in it; for had it been carried with the Altar, the Cloth wherewith the Altar was covered Numb. 4. 13. would have been endangered by the Fire. Or 2. Common to the Altar, to which theſe were fixed on the outſide, as on the inſide to the Grate, that by them the Grate might be both kept even and upright, and alſo carried together with the Altar, and that with ſuch caution that the Fire included might not hurt the Covering-cloth, which was not difficult to do.

5 And thou ſhalt put it under the compaſs l of the altar beneath, that the net may be even to the midſt of the altar m.

l (i. e.) Within the ſquare and hollow ſpace of the Altar. m Or, and the net ſhall be at (the Hebrew ad, being here uſed for el, as Hoſ. 14. 2. Joel 2. 12. Amos 4. 6, 8.) the midſt of the altar. And theſe words ſeem added to explain the word beneath, to ſhew that as it was not to be at the top, ſo neither at the bottom of the Altar, but in the midſt of it.

6 And thou ſhalt make ſtaves for the altar, ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and over-lay them with gold.

7 And the ſtaves ſhall be put into the rings n, and the ſtaves ſhall be upon the two ſides of the altar to bear it.

n Which ſeem to be the ſame both to the Altar and the Grate, though ſome alledge that place for the contrary.

*Chap. 25. 40. and 26. 30.
† Heb. be ſhewed.

8 Hollow with boards o ſhalt thou make it: * as † it was ſhewed thee in the mount, ſo ſhall they make it.

o (i. e.) Not one entire piece of Wood, but conſiſting of four ſeveral ſides, hollow within, for eaſineſs and conveniency of carriage in their Wilderneſs-ſtate.

9 ¶ And thou ſhalt make the court of the tabernacle p for the ſouth-ſide ſouthward: there ſhall be hangings for the court q of fine twined linen of an hundred cubits long, for one ſide.

p A Court encompaſſing the Tabernacle, Exod. 40. 33. in the midſt whereof the Altar of Sacrifices was placed, upon which the Offerings were burnt in the open Air, which was moſt convenient. q Whereby the Court was diſtinguiſhed and encloſed.

10 And the twenty pillars r thereof, and their twenty ſockets s ſhall be of braſs: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets t ſhall be of ſilver.

r On which the Hangings were faſtned, by the Hooks here mentioned. s Or, baſes, upon which the Pillars ſtood. t Or, hoops, which encompaſſed the Pillars at the top, being placed there, as it ſeems, for ornament only.

11 And likewiſe for the north ſide in length, there ſhall be hangings of an hundred cubits long, and his twenty pillars, and their twenty ſockets of braſs: the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of ſilver.

12 ¶ And for the breadth of the court on the weſt ſide, ſhall be hangings of fifty cubits: their pillars ten, and their ſockets ten.

13 And the breadth of the court on the eaſt ſide eaſtward, ſhall be fifty cubits.

14 The hangings of one ſide of the gate ſhall be fifteen cubits u: their pillars three, and their ſockets three.

u Which with the fifteen Cubits, verſe 15. and the twenty Cubits, verſe 16. make up the fifty Cubits mentioned verſe 13.

15 And on the other ſide ſhall be hangings fifteen cubits: their pillars three, and their ſockets three.

16 ¶ And for the gate of the court ſhall be an hanging of twenty cubits of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, wrought with needle-work: and their pillars ſhall be four, and their ſockets four.

All the pillars round about the court ſhall be filleted with ſilver: their hooks ſhall be of ſilver x, and their ſockets of braſs.

x All Silver, not only covered with Silver, as ſome unduly infer from Exod. 38. 17.

† Heb. fifty by fifty.

18 ¶ The length of the court ſhall be an hundred cubits, and the breadth † fifty every where, and the height five cubits, of fine twined linen, and their ſockets of braſs.

19 All the veſſels of the tabernacle in all the ſervice thereof, and all the pins thereof, and all the pins y of the court ſhall be of braſs.

y Wherewith the Tabernacle and Curtains thereof were faſtned to the ground, as Tents uſually are with wooden Pins.

† Heb. to aſcend up.

20 ¶ And thou ſhalt command the children of Iſrael that they bring thee pure oil-olive beaten z for the light, to cauſe the lamp † to burn alway a.

z Beaten out of the Olives with a Peſtle, which is freer from dregs than that which is ſqueezed out with a Preſs. a (i. e.) At all the times appointed; daily, though not continually; as the Lamb offered only every morning and every evening is called a continual burnt-offering, Exod. 29. 42. For that theſe were lighted only at the evening, may ſeem probable from the next verſe, and from Exod. 27. 21. and 30. 8. Lev. 24. 3. 1 Sam. 3. 3. 2 Chron. 13. 11. But becauſe Joſephus and Philo, who were eye-witneſſes of the Temple-ſervice, and had no temptation to lye in this matter, expreſly affirm, that ſome lights did burn in the day time, and it may ſeem indecent and improbable that God ſhould dwell and the Prieſts miniſter in darkneſs, and there were no Windows to give light to the Tabernacle by day; it may be granted that ſome few burnt in the day, and all in the night, and that the latter is only mentioned in the places alledged, as being a more ſolemn time when all are lighted.

b So called, becauſe there the people uſed to meet not only one with another, but with God alſo. See Exod. 25. 22. Numb. 17. 4. Others render it, in the tabernacle of witneſs, becauſe there God declared his mind, and will, and man's duty. c To wit, the ſecond vail, in the holy place. d A ſhort ſpeech for, before the ark of the teſtimony, as it is elſewhere more largely called, compare Exod. 25. 16. e To wit, the lamp, or the lights, taking care that there be a conſtant ſupply of them, and that they burn well.

2 And * thou ſhalt make † holy garments b for Aaron thy brother, for glory and for beauty c.

b Garments to be uſed only in holy Miniſtrations. c (i. e.) Such as are glorious and beautiful; partly to mind the people of the dignity and excellency of their Office and Employment; and principally to repreſent the glorious Robes wherewith Chriſt is both clothed himſelf, and clotheth all his people, who are made Prieſts unto God.

*Chap. 36. 1.
*Chap. 31. 2. and 35. 30.

3 And * thou ſhalt ſpeak unto all that are wiſe-hearted d, * whom I have filled e with the ſpirit of wiſdom, that they make Aarons garments to conſecrate him f, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office.

d (i. e.) Skilful Artiſts. The Hebrews make the Heart, not the Brain, the ſeat of Wiſdom. See Job 9. 4. e Either 1. By my ordinary Providence and Aſſiſtance, giving them both ability and opportunity to learn the Arts; or rather 2. By extraordinary inſpiration, which was neceſſary for the Iſraelites, whoſe baſe and laborious drudgery took off their Minds and Hands from all ingenious Studies and Arts. f (i. e.) To be an outward ſign of my calling and conſecration of him to my holy ſervice. A metonymical expreſſion.

4 And theſe are the garments which they ſhall make; a breaſt-plate, and an ephod g, and a robe h, and a broidered coat i, a mitre k, and a girdle l: and they ſhall make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, and his ſons, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office.

g This was a ſhort upper Garment, made without Sleeves, which was girt about the Body. And it was twofold, the one made of fine Linen, which was common not only to all the Prieſts, as 1 Sam. 2. 18. and 22. 18. but to ſome others alſo upon ſolemn and ſacred occaſions, as 2 Sam. 6. 14. the other made of divers Stuffs and Colours, peculiar to the High Prieſt; the parts whereof were not ſewed, but tied together. h An upper Garment like a Surpliſs. i An under Coat curiouſly wrought with circular works like Eyes, as the word notes, and richly adorned with Gems and other things. k A kind of Bonnet or Cap for the covering of the Head, ſuppoſed to be ſomething like a Turkiſh Turband for the form of it. l To encloſe and faſten all the other Garments, which were looſe in themſelves, that he might be more expeditious in his work.

5 And they ſhall take gold, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen.

6 ¶ And they ſhall make the ephod of gold m, of blue, and of purple, of ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, with cunning work.

m Beaten out into plates, and cut into wires.

7 It ſhall have the two ſhoulder-pieces n thereof joyned at the two edges thereof; and ſo it ſhall be joyned together.

n Which were two parts of the Ephod going up from the body of the Ephod, the one before, the other behind, which when the Prieſt had put over his Head, were tied together, and covered the Prieſt's Shoulders, and part of his Back and Breaſt.

† Or, embroidered. 8 And the † curious girdle of the ephod o which is upon it p, ſhall be of the ſame q, according to the work thereof; even of gold, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen.

o Which was for the cloſer faſtning and girding of it. p This is added to diſtinguiſh it from the other Girdle, verſe 4. which was to gird all the Garments, and was tied in a lower place. q Either 1. Of the ſame piece ; or rather 2. Of the ſame kind of materials and workmanſhip ; as the following words explain it.

9 And thou ſhalt take two onyx ſtones, and grave on them the names of the children of Iſrael:

10 Six of their names on one ſtone, and the other ſix r names of the reſt on the other ſtone, according to their birth:

r Levi ſeems to be omitted here, as being ſufficiently repreſented by the High Prieſt himſelf.

*Wiſd. 18. 24. 11 * With the work of an engraver in ſtone, like the engravings of a ſignet ſhalt thou engrave the two ſtones, with the names of the children of Iſrael: thou ſhalt make them to be ſet in ouches s of gold.

s Hollow places, ſuch as are made in golden Rings to receive and hold the precious Stones which are put in them.

12 And thou ſhalt put the two ſtones upon the ſhoulders of the ephod t, for ſtones of memorial unto the children of Iſrael. And Aaron ſhall bear their names before the LORD u upon his two ſhoulders for a memorial x.

t (i. e.) In the place where the two Shoulder-pieces were joyned together. u Into the Holy of Holies. An evident Type of Chriſt's entring into Heaven with the names and in the ſtead of his people, the true Iſrael, upon his Shoulders, and preſenting them to his Father with acceptance. x Not ſo much to the High Prieſt, that he ſhould not forget to pray for them, as to God, that he, beholding their names there, according to his order, might graciouſly remember them and ſhew mercy unto them. Such a memorial to God was the Rainbow, Gen. 9. 13. Such things are ſpoken of God after the manner of men.

13 And thou ſhalt make ouches y of gold:

y Not for the Stones, verſe 12. which had other Ouches, verſe 11. but for the Chains, verſe 14.

14 And two chains of pure gold at the ends z: of wreathen work ſhalt thou make them, and faſten the wreathen chains to the ouches.

z Or, with ends, (i. e.) not like Chains that are faſtned about ones Neck or Arm, which ſeem to have no end; but two diſtinct Chains with two ſeveral ends, both hanging downward; compare verſe 22. The Syriack render it double, others equal, or of equal length.

15 ¶ And thou ſhalt make the breaſt-plate of judgement a with cunning work, after the work of the ephod thou ſhalt make it: of gold, of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, and of fine twined linen ſhalt thou make it.

a This was a ſquare and curiouſly-wrought piece put over the Ephod upon one's Breaſt, called of judgment, becauſe from thence the Iſraelites were to expect and receive their judgment, and the mind of God in all thoſe weighty matters of War or Peace wherein they conſulted God for direction.

16 Four ſquare it ſhall be, being doubled b: a ſpan ſhall be the length thereof, and a ſpan ſhall be the breadth thereof.

b For greater ſtrength, that it might better ſupport and ſecure the precious Stones which were put into it, and that it might receive the Urim and Thummim, Lev. 8. 8.

† Heb. fill in it fillings of ſtone. † Or, rubie. 17 And thou ſhalt † ſet in it ſettings of ſtones, even four rows of ſtone c: the firſt row ſhall be a † ſardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this ſhall be the firſt row.

c It is needleſs to trouble the Reader with the explication of theſe Stones, which the Jewiſh Doctors themſelves are not agreed in, ſeeing this uſe of them is now aboliſhed. It may ſuffice to know, that they were precious Stones ſeverally allotted to the names of the ſeveral Tribes, according to God's good pleaſure, poſſibly with reſpect to ſome diſpoſition or concernment of each Tribe, which at this diſtance we cannot learn.

18 And the ſecond row ſhall be an emeraud, a ſaphir, and a diamond.

19 And the third row, a ligure, an agate, and an amethyſt.

† Heb. fillings. 20 And the fourth row, a beryl, and an onyx, and a jaſper: they ſhall be ſet in gold in their † incloſings.

21 And the ſtones ſhall be with the names of the children of Iſrael, twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a ſignet: every one with his name ſhall they be according to the twelve tribes d.

d (i. e.) According to the order of their birth, the firſt ſtone to the eldeſt, the ſecond to the next, &c.

22 And thou ſhalt make upon the breaſt-plate chains at the ends e, of wreathen work of pure gold.

e Some think theſe are the ſame with thoſe mentioned, v. 14. But it ſeems improbable and without example, that God ſhould in this ſhort deſcription, and that within a few Verſes, give a new and ſecond command concerning the ſame thing. It may rather ſeem that theſe are other Chains faſtned to the Breaſt-place, as it follows, whereas thoſe Chains, ver. 14. ſeem to have been faſtened to the Ephod, to thoſe ouches made in it for that purpoſe, ver. 13. And whereas theſe chains alſo are faſtened in the ſaid ouches, ver. 25. two ſeveral chains may well enough be faſtened in divers parts of each of the ouches; and there ſeems to be this difference between the chains, thoſe chains mentioned ver. 14. are ſaid to be faſtened only at one end, even to the ouches of the Ephod, whence they might hang down looſely, whereas theſe are manifeſtly faſtened at both ends, verſ. 24, 25.

23 And thou ſhalt make upon the breaſt-plate two rings of gold; and ſhalt put the two rings on the two ends of the breaſt-plate.

24 And thou ſhalt put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breaſt-plate.

25 And the other two ends of the two wreathen chains thou ſhalt faſten in the two ouches, and put them on the ſhoulder-pieces of the ephod before it f.

f (i. e.) In the fore-part of the Ephod; or before him, i. e. the High-prieſt, in his fore-part, upon his breaſt.

26 And thou ſhalt make two rings of gold, and thou ſhalt put them upon the two ends g of the breaſt-plate, in the border thereof, which is in the ſide of the ephod inward h.

g To wit, upon the lower ends, for there were other rings put upon the upper ends, ver. 23, 24, 25. h (i. e.) In the inner ſide of the Ephod, under which theſe rings were hid; for the Ephod was double, ver. 16.

27 And two other rings i of gold thou ſhalt make, and ſhalt put them on the two ſides of the ephod underneath k, towards the forepart thereof l, over-againſt the other coupling thereof m, above the curious girdle of the ephod.

i To anſwer the two rings in the Breaſt plate, that by all theſe the Breaſt-plate might be the better faſtened to the Ephod. k In the lower part of the Ephod, or in that part of it which is under the loweſt part of the Breaſt-plate. l Towards the breaſt. m (i. e.) Over-againſt the ouches on the ſhoulder-pieces, where the upper part of the Breaſt-plate was faſtened to the Ephod.

28 And they ſhall bind the breaſt-plate by the rings thereof, unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it may be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breaſt-plate be not looſed from the ephod.

29 And Aaron ſhall bear the names of the children of Iſrael in the breaſt-plate of judgment upon his heart n, when he goeth in unto the holy place o, for a memorial before the LORD continually.

n Partly to admoniſh the High-prieſt of that dear affection he ſhould have to his people, and with what ardency he ſhould pray for them, and principally to repreſent the tender compaſſions of Chriſt, the great High-prieſt, towards his people, and how mindful he is of them, and of all their concerns, even when he is in the Holy of holies, that is, in Heaven, where he remembers them ſtill, and unceſſantly intercedes for them. o (i. e.) Into the moſt Holy place; the poſitive degree being put for the ſuperlative.

30 And * thou ſhalt put in the breaſt-plate of judgment, the Urim and the Thummim p, and they ſhall be upon Aarons heart when he goeth in before the LORD: and Aaron ſhall bear the judgment of the children of Iſrael q upon his heart, before the LORD continually r. *Deu 8. Ezra 2 Neh. 7 p The words confeſſedly ſignify light, or illuminations and perfections, which may be underſtood either of two differing things, the one noting the knowledge, the other the perfection, to wit, of vertues and graces, which were required in the High-prieſt, and which were in Chriſt in an eminent degree, and from him alone communicated to his people; or of one and the ſame thing, noting perfect light or illumination, by a figure called Hendyadis, oft uſed in Scripture, as Deut. 16. 18. Mat. 4. 16. compare with Job 10. 20. Joh. 3. 5. Acts 17. 25. compared with Gen. 2. 7. Which may ſeem probable, 1. becauſe the great uſe of this inſtrument was to give light and direction in dubious and difficult caſes, and not to confer any other perfection upon any perſon. 2. Becauſe ſometimes both theſe words and things are expreſſed only by one of them, and that is by Urim, Numb. 27. 21. 1 Sam. 28. 6. which ſignifies lights. And the name ſeems to be given from the effect, becauſe hence the Iſraelites had clear light, and perfect or certain direction in dark and doubtful matters. But the great queſtion is, What this Urim and Thummin was, and in what manner God anſwered by it. Which God having on purpoſe concealed from us, and not ſet down the matter or form of it, as he hath done of all the other particulars, it may ſeem curioſity and preſumption for men ſolicitouſly to enquire, and poſitively to determine. Many conceive it was nothing elſe but the twelve precious Stones, wherein the names of the 12 Tribes were engraven, and that the anſwer of God was compoſed out of thoſe letters, which either ſhew more brightly, or thruſt themſelves further outward than the reſt did. Which ſeems a frivolous and ungrounded conjecture, both becauſe all the letters of the Alphabet were not there, and ſo all anſwers could not be given by them; and becauſe it was ſhut up within the duplicature of the Breaſt-plate, and therefore could not be ſeen by the High-prieſt, and there is not a word to ſignify that he was to take it out thence, and look upon it, but rather the contrary is evident. And that this Urim and Thummim are not the ſame thing with thoſe 12 ſtones, may be eaſily proved. 1. Becauſe the ſtones were ſet and ingraven in the Breaſt-plate, ver. 17. 21. this was only put into it, which is a word of quite different and more looſe and large ſignification, and therefore probably doth not deſign the ſame thing. 2. It is not likely, that in ſuch a brief account of the ſacred Utenſils, the ſame Command would be repeated again, eſpecially in more dark and general words than it was mentioned before. And how could Moſes now put it in, when the Workmen had faſtened it there before? Or why ſhould he be required to put it in the Breaſt-plate, when it was faſtened to it already, and could not without violence be taken from it? 3. Becauſe the ſtones were put in by the Workmen, Exod. 39. 10. the Urim and Thummim by Moſes himſelf, Lev. 8. 8. It is objected, that where the ſtones are mentioned, there is no mention of Urim and Thummim, as Exod. 39. and that where the Urim and Thummim are mentioned, there is no mention of the ſtones, as Lev. 8. 8. which ſhews they were one and the ſame thing. But that is not neceſſary, and there is an evident reaſon of both thoſe omiſſions; of the former, Exod. 39. becauſe he mentions only thoſe things which were made by the Workmen, whereas the Urim and Thummim ſeems to have been made immediately by God, or by Moſes with God's direction: Of the latter, Lev. 8. becauſe the ſtones are implied in the Breaſt-plate as a part of it, and being faſtened to it, whereas there he only mentions what was put in by Moſes himſelf. There are other conjectures, as that it was the name Jehovah, or ſome viſible repreſentations, &c. But ſuch conjectures are as eaſily denied as affirmed. It is therefore more modeſt and reaſonable to be ſilent where God is ſilent, than to indulge our ſelves in boundleſs and groundleſs fancies. It may ſuffice us to know that this was a ſingular piece of Divine Workmanſhip, which the High-prieſt was obliged to wear upon ſolemn occaſions, as one of the Conditions upon which God engaged to give him anſwers. Which anſwers God might give to him either by inward ſuggeſtion to his mind, or by a vocal expreſſion to his ear. But which of thoſe ways, or whether by any other way, it is needleſs now to ſearch, and impoſſible certainly to diſcover. q A ſhort Speech. As the teſtimony is oft put for the ark of the teſtimony, ſo is the judgment here for the breaſt-plate of judgment, i. e. that Breaſt-plate which declared the judgment, or oracle, or mind of God to the Iſraelites in thoſe caſes which they brought to the Lord. r (i. e.) At all times when he ſhall appear before the Lord in the holy place.

31 And thou ſhalt make the robe of the ephod s all of blue.

s Not the Ephod it ſelf, for that was preſcribed before, ver. 6. but a long and looſe Robe called the robe of the Ephod, becauſe it was worn next under it, and was girded about the High-prieſt's Body with the curious girdle of the Ephod.

32 And there ſhall be an hole in the top of it in the midſt thereof: it ſhall have a binding of woven work round about the hole of it, as it were the hole of an habergeon, that it be not rent.

† Or, Skirts 33 And beneath upon the † hem of it thou ſhalt make pomegranates t of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, round about the hem thereof, and bells u of gold between them round about.

t The figures of Pomegranates, but flat and embroidered. u By the ſound whereof the People might be admoniſhed of the work which the Prieſt was employed in, and thereby be provoked to join their affections and devotions with his. Theſe Pomegranates and Bells might note either 1. the qualifications of the Prieſt, who was both to declare or give forth the ſound of pure and wholſome Doctrine, and to adorn his Doctrine with the fragrancy and fruitfulneſs of a good converſation. Or 2. The glorious Atchievements of Chriſt, who cauſed the ſound of his Doctrine to be heard by all men, and offered up himſelf as a ſacrifice to God for a ſweet-ſmelling ſavour, Eph. 5. 2.

34 A golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe round about.

* Eccleſ. 45. 9. 35 * And it ſhall be upon Aaron to miniſter, and his ſound ſhall be heard when he goeth in unto the holy place before the LORD, and when he cometh out, that he die not u.

u For his diſobedience or careleſneſs. For though the matter might ſeem ſmall in it ſelf, yet it was an errour in God's Worſhip, wherein God is more ſevere than in other things; and it was an errour of the High-prieſt, who had more knowledge of God's mind herein, and was obliged to more care and diligence, not only for himſelf, but for the influences of his bad example upon the People.

36 And thou ſhalt make a plate x of pure gold, and grave upon it, like the engravings of a ſignet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD y.

x Like an half Coronet, reaching, as the Jews ſay, from ear to ear. y To mind the Prieſt of his ſpecial conſecration to God, and of that ſingular holineſs which was required of him, as at all times, ſo eſpecially in his approaches to God. It might alſo repreſent Chriſt, who is called the holy one of God, and who is a crowned Prieſt, or both King and Prieſt.

37 And thou ſhalt put it on a blue lace z, that it may be upon the mitre, upon the forefront of the mitre it ſhall be.

z The words may be rendered, thou ſhalt put it on, or, bind it, as the vulgar renders it, with a blue lace, to wit, upon the Mitre, as it follows.

38 And it ſhall be upon Aarons forehead, that Aaron may bear the iniquity of the holy things a which the children of Iſrael ſhall hallow in all their holy gifts b: and it ſhall be always c upon his forehead, that they may be accepted before the LORD.

a Either, 1. that he, being conſecrated to God for this end, that he ſhould take care as far as he could that both perſons and things preſented to God ſhould be holy or agreeable to the mind of God, might bear the puniſhment for any miſcarriage committed therein, which he could have prevented. Or rather, 2. that he being an holy perſon, and appointed by God to make a typical reconciliation for the ſins of the People, and to intercede for them, might take away, or obtain from God the pardon of their iniquity, wherewith even their holy things are defiled, if God ſhould ſeverely mark what is amiſs in them. Which ſenſe the laſt words of the Verſe favour. And the High-Prieſt was herein eminently a Type of Chriſt, who properly and truly bare and took away the iniquity of his Peoples holy things, by his ſacrifice and interceſſion. b (i. e.) Shall ſeparate or conſecrate unto God in all their offerings or gifts. If there be any thing amiſs either in the thing offered, or in the manner of offering, God upon the Prieſt's interceſſion will pardon it. c (i. e) At all times of his ſolemn appearance before God.

39 And thou ſhalt embroider the coat d of fine linnen, and thou ſhall make the mitre of fine linen, and thou ſhalt make the girdle of needlework.

d This was a looſe and large Garment made with ſleeves, worn under the Ephod, reaching down to the feet, which was girt with a girdle, Lev. 8. 7.

40 And for Aarons ſons thou ſhalt make coats e, and thou ſhalt make for them girdles, and bonnets ſhalt thou make for them, for glory and for beauty.

e Not of Woollen, Ezek. 44. 17. but of linen, Exod. 39. 27. Theſe were Ephods, 1 Sam. 22. 18.

41 And thou ſhalt put them upon Aaron thy brother, and his ſons with him: and * ſhalt anoint them, and † conſecrate them f, and ſanctify them, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office. * Chap. 29. 7. and 30. 30. † Heb. fill their hand.

f Heb. fill their hand, i. e. preſent them to God with part of the Sacrifice in their hands, as we find, Exod. 29. 24. by that rite putting them into their office.

42 And thou ſhalt make them linen breeches to cover † their nakedneſs, from the loins even unto the thighs g they ſhail † reach. † Heb. fleſh of their nakedneſs. † Heb. be.

g Including both. Compare Exod. 20. 26.

43 And they ſhall be upon Aaron, and upon his ſons, when they come in unto the tabernacle of the congregation, or when they come near unto the altar, to miniſter in the holy place, that they bear not iniquity, and die. It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever, unto him, and his ſeed after him.

CHAP. XXIX.

The manner of conſecrating Prieſts, 1—4. Of conſecrating Aaron and his ſons, 5, 6, 7. The Prieſts Veſture, 9. How the bullock of the ſin-offering was to be offered, 10—14. One ram for a burnt-offering, and the manner of offering, 15—18. A ram for hallowing the Prieſts, 19—31. Aaron and his ſons eat of the ram, wherewith they were conſecrated, 32, 33. The altar ſanctified for ſeven days, 36, 37. Two lambs offered daily, 38. The time, 39. The manner of offering, 40—43. God's promiſe to hallow the tabernable, Aaron, and his ſons, 44. and to dwell with them, 45, 46.

AND this is the thing that thou ſhalt do unto them to hallow them, to miniſter unto me in the prieſts office. * Take one young bullock, and two rams without blemiſh a; * Lev. 8. 1. 2.

a See Exod. 12. 5. Mal. 1. 13, 14.

2 And * unleavened b bread, and cakes unleavened tempered with oyl, and wafers unleavened anointed with oil: of wheaten flower ſhalt thou make them. * Lev. 6. 20.

b To ſhew that the Prieſts ſhould be, and that Chriſt really was, free from all malice and hypocriſy, both which are compared to leaven, Luke 12. 1. 1 Cor. 5. 8. and that all the ſervices offered to God by the Prieſts were to be pure and unmixed.

3 And thou ſhalt put them into one basket, and bring them c in the basket with the bullock and the two rams.

c To the door of the Tabernacle, as it follows ver. 4.

4 And Aaron and his ſons thou ſhalt bring unto the door of the tabernable of the congregation, and ſhalt waſh them with water d.

d Taken out of that laver, Exod. 30. 18. This ſignified the univerſal pollution of all men, and the abſolute need they have of waſhing, eſpecially when they are to draw nigh to God. And this outward waſhing was only typical of their ſpiritual waſhing by the Blood and Spirit of Chriſt in order to their acceptance with God.

5 And thou ſhalt take the garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breaſt-plate, and gird him with * the curious girdle of the ephod e. * Chap. 28. 8.

e Not about the Loins, but about the Paps, or Breaſt, as Chriſt and his Miniſters are repreſented, Rev. 1. 13. The linen Breeches are here omitted, becauſe they were put on privately before they came to the door of the Tabernacle, where the other things were put on.

6 And thou ſhalt put the mitre upon his head, and put the holy crown f upon the mitre.

f (i. e.) The plate of gold, chap. 28. 36. as appears by comparing Lev. 8. 9.

7 Then ſhalt thou take the anointing * oyl, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him g. * Chap. 30. 25.

g Which ſignified the gifts and graces of the Holy Ghoſt wherewith Chriſt was, and the Prieſts ought to be repleniſhed. See Iſa. 61. 1. Joh. 2. 27. But here ariſeth a difficulty; for this anointing is ſometimes ſpoken of, as peculiar to the High-Prieſt, as Lev. 21. 10. ſometimes as common to all the Prieſts, Exod. 30. 30. and 40. 14, 15. which may be thus reconciled, The Oil was ſprinkled upon all the Prieſts, and their right Ears, Thumbs, and Toes, and their Garments, verſe 20, 21. Lev. 8. 30. but it was poured out upon the Head only of the High-Prieſt, Pſal. 133. 2. who herein was a type of Chriſt, who was anointed above his fellows, Pſal. 45. 7. Heb. 1. 9.

8 And thou ſhalt bring his ſons, and put coats upon them:

† Heb. bind.

† Heb. fill the hand of.

*Chap. 28. 41.

9 And thou ſhalt gird them with girdles (Aaron and his ſons) and † put the bonnets on them: and the prieſts office ſhall be theirs, for a perpetual ſtatute h: and thou ſhalt † * conſecrate Aaron and his ſons.

h So long as the Jewiſh Pedagogy and Policy laſts.

* Lev. 1. 4.

10 And thou ſhalt cauſe a bullock to be brought before the tabernacle of the congregation: and * Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the bullock i.

i To ſignify that they offered it for themſelves and for their own ſins, which the offerer performing this Rite was to confeſs, Lev. 16 21. that they acknowledged themſelves to deſerve that death which was inflicted upon this innocent Creature for their ſakes, and to teſtify their Faith in the future Sacrifice of Chriſt, upon whom their ſins were to be laid, and by whoſe Blood they were expiated, and that they humbly begged God's mercy in pardoning their ſins, and accepting them to and in their holy Office.

11 And thou k ſhalt kill the bullock before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

k Moſes, who though no Prieſt, yet for this time and occaſion was called by God to this work.

*Chap. 27. 2. and 30. 2.

12 And thou ſhalt take of the blood of the bullock, and put it upon * the horns of the altar l with thy finger, and pour all the blood beſide the bottom of the altar.

l Not of Incenſe, as ſome would have it, but of the burnt-offerings, as may appear, 1. Becauſe it was that Altar at the bottom whereof the Blood was to be poured, as it is here expreſſed; but that was not done at the Altar of Incenſe, as is evident and confeſſed. Compare Lev. 16. 18, &c. 2. It was that Altar upon which the parts of the Sacrifices were burnt, as it here follows verſe 13. for there is no diſtinction here between the two Altars. It is true, in the following ſin-offerings of the Prieſts the Blood was put upon the Horns of the Altar of Incenſe, Lev. 4. 7. But it muſt be conſidered, 1. That the Blood was not poured out at the bottom of that Altar. 2. Becauſe Aaron and his Sons were not yet compleat Prieſts, but private perſons, and therefore did this at the ſame Altar which the people uſed in their ſin-offerings, Lev. 4. 25, 30.

† It ſeemeth by anatomy, and the Hebrew Doctors, to be the midriff.

13 And thou ſhalt take all the fat that covereth the inwards, and † the caul that is above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them m, and burn them upon the altar.

m The parts which in all Sacrifices were burned unto God, Lev. 3. 3. and 4. 19. to ſignify either the mortification of their inward and moſt beloved luſts, or the dedication of the beſt of all Sacrifices, and of their inward and beſt parts to God and his ſervice.

14 But the fleſh of the bullock, and his skin, and his dung, ſhalt thou burn with fire without the camp: it is a ſin-offering n.

n To wit, for the High-Prieſt, as is plain from the whole context, and therefore ought to be burnt by that Law, Lev. 4. There was indeed a Law, that that ſin-offering, whoſe Blood was not carried into the Tabernacle, which was the caſe here, ſhould not be burnt but eaten, Lev. 6. 30. and 10. 18. But that concerned the People, not the Prieſts, who did not eat, but burn their own ſin-offerings, Lev. 4. 3, 12.

15 Thou ſhalt alſo take one ram, and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram.

16 ¶ And thou ſhalt ſlay the ram, and thou ſhalt take his blood, and ſprinkle it round about upon the altar o.

o Which ſignifies, that not only our Perſons, but our very Altars and Sacrifices, and beſt Services, need the ſprinkling of Chriſt's Blood upon them to render them acceptable to God.

†Or, upon.

17 And thou ſhalt cut the ram in pieces, and waſh the inwards of him, and his legs, and put them unto his pieces, and † unto his head.

18 And thou ſhalt burn the whole ram upon the altar: it is a burnt-offering unto the LORD: it is a ſweet ſavour p, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

p Heb. A ſavour of reſt, wherewith God will be well-pleaſed, and for which, as repreſenting Chriſt who offered up himſelf, he will graciouſly accept of the offerings of the Prieſts for themſelves, and for the People.

19 ¶ And thou ſhalt take the other ram q: and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram.

q For a peace-offering. So here were all the three ſorts of Sacrifices, which were afterwards to be offered by them for the People.

20 Then ſhalt thou kill the ram, and take of his blood, and put it upon the tip of the right ear r of Aaron, and upon the tip of the right ear of his ſons, and upon the thumb of their right hand r, and upon the great toe of their right foot, and ſprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

r Theſe parts are conſecrated in the name and ſtead of all the reſt; the ear, as the inſtrument of hearing and receiving the mind and will of God in all their ſacred adminiſtrations, and in their whole converſation; the hand and foot, as the inſtruments of action and execution of that which they hear and underſtand to be the mind of God: And the right parts are choſen, rather than the left, as being uſually more vigorous and expeditious. And all theſe parts are ſprinkled with this Blood, to ſhew the abſolute neceſſity of Chriſt's Blood to qualify them for an acceptable and ſucceſsful diſcharge of their Office.

21 And thou ſhalt take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of * the anointing oyl, and ſprinkle it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his ſons, and upon the garments of his ſons with him: and * he ſhall be hallowed, and his garments, and his ſons, and his ſons garments with him.

22 Alſo thou ſhalt take of the ram the fat, and the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right ſhoulder: for it is a ram of conſecration s:

s Of the Prieſts in their Office. Therefore the right Shoulder was burnt, which in other Sacrifices was given to the Prieſt.

23 And one loaf of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer out of the basket of the unleavened bread, that is before the LORD.

24 And thou ſhalt put all in the hands of Aaron, and in the hands of his ſons, and ſhalt † wave them t for a wave-offering before the LORD.

t Either toſs them from one hand to another, as giving all from themſelves to God; or ſhake them to and fro, towards the ſeveral parts of the World, to note God's dominion over all places and people, and the extent of that true and great Sacrifice, repreſented in theſe types to all.

25 And thou ſhalt receive them of their hands, and burn them upon the altar for a burnt-offering, for a ſweet ſavour before the LORD: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 And thou ſhalt take * the breaſt of the ram of Aarons conſecrations, and wave it for a wave-offering before the LORD, and it ſhall be thy part u.

u To wit, the Breaſt alone, whereas both Shoulder and Breaſt were given to Aaron afterwards; the reaſon whereof might be, either becauſe Moſes was not a proper and compleat Prieſt, as Aaron afterward was, but only appointed by God for this time to do that work; or becauſe now there were in a manner two Prieſts, the one conſecrating, to wit, Moſes; the other conſecrated, to wit, Aaron; therefore theſe parts were divided, the Breaſt given to the former to be eaten, the Shoulder offered unto God for the latter, verſe 22. he being not yet a perfect Prieſt, and therefore not in a capacity of eating it.

27 And thou ſhalt ſanctiſie * the breaſt of the wave-offering, and the ſhoulder of the heave-offering, which is waved, and which is heaved up x of the ram of the conſecration, even of that which is for Aaron, and of that which is for his ſons y.

x This was done by throwing the parts upward, and catching them again. y The words may be rendred thus, of which, Breaſt and Shoulder of the Ram, ſhall be Aaron's portion, and of which ſhall be the portion of his ſons; ſo there is only an Ellipſis of the Verb Subſtantive, which is moſt common, and the Hebrew prefix Lamed deſigns a thing belonging to the perſon to whom that is prefixed, as it is in other like caſes, as Gen. 40. 8. Deut. 1. 17. Pſal. 47. 9.

28 And it ſhall be Aarons and his ſons by a ſtatute for ever, from the children of Iſrael: for it is an heave-offering z: and it ſhall be an heave-offering from the children of Iſrael, of the ſacrifice of their peace-offerings, even their heave-offering unto the LORD.

z Under which is comprehended alſo the wave-offering; as plainly appears both from the context, and from the parity of reaſon, theſe offerings being of the ſame nature, and deſigned for the ſame purpoſe.

29 ¶ And the holy garments of Aaron ſhall be his ſons a after him, to be anointed therein, and to be conſecrated b in them.

a (i. e.) His eldeſt Sons ſucceſſively. b By ſome other Prieſt, there being no other higher perſon who could do it, and therefore the neceſſity of it made it warrantable.

30 And † * that ſon that is prieſt in his ſtead, ſhall put them on ſeven days c when he cometh into the tabernacle of the congregation, to miniſter in the holy place d.

c For ſo long the ſolemnity of the Conſecration laſted, verſe 35. d Both that ſtrictly ſo called, and in the moſt Holy Place; for as none could go into the moſt Holy Place except the High Prieſt, ſo there were ſome things to be done in the Holy Place, which none but he could do. See Levit. 4. 7, 8.

31 ¶ And thou ſhalt take the ram of the conſecration, and ſeethe his fleſh in the holy place e.

e In the Court-yard at the Door of the Tabernacle, where it was both boiled and eaten, as appears from this and the next verſe, and from Levit. 8. 31. And part of this was eaten by the perſon or perſons that brought the offering, though they were of the people, who were not admitted into any other Holy Place but this.

32 And Aaron and his ſons ſhall eat the fleſh of the
*Lev. 8. ram, and the * bread that is in the basket, by the door 31. Matth. of the tabernacle of the congregation.
12. 4.

33 And they ſhall eat thoſe things f wherewith the atonement was made to conſecrate, and to ſanctifie them: but a ſtranger g ſhall not eat thereof, becauſe they are holy.

f (i. e.) The remainders of the Oblations mentioned verſe 32. g (i. e.) One who is not of the Prieſtly Race, whereas in other peace-offerings the offerer did eat a part.

34 And if ought of the fleſh of the conſecrations, or of the bread remain unto the morning, then thou ſhalt burn the remainder with h fire: it ſhall not be eaten, becauſe it is holy.

h According to the Law of all peace-offerings, except thoſe which were vows or voluntary offerings, Levit. 7. 16, 17. which theſe were not, compare Exod. 12. 10.

35 And thus ſhalt thou do unto Aaron, and to his ſons, according to all things which I have commanded thee: ſeven days ſhalt thou conſecrate them.

36 And thou ſhalt offer every day a bullock for a ſin-offering for atonement i: and thou ſhalt cleanſe the altar, when thou haſt made an atonement for it, and thou ſhalt anoint it, to ſanctifie it.

i As well for the Prieſts, as for the Altar, both which as they were or might be polluted, ſo they needed the ſprinkling of this Blood to ſanctifie them, to ſhew that all perſons and things were fitted for God's ſervice, and accepted by him only for and through the Blood of Chriſt.

36 Seven days thou ſhalt make an atonement for *Chap. 40. the altar, and ſanctifie it: * and it ſhall be an altar
10. moſt holy k: † * whatſoever toucheth the altar ſhall †Or, whatſoever. be holy l.
Lev. 6. 18.
*Chap. 30.
29.

k As appears from the following reaſon, becauſe it was not only Holy in it ſelf, but by its touch communicated a legal Holineſs to other things. l This may be underſtood either 1. Of perſons, as a caution that none ſhould touch the Altar but holy and conſecrated perſons. Or rather 2. Of things, yet not of all things, for polluted things were not made holy by the touch of holy things, which is affirmed Haggai 2. 12. but of things belonging to the Altar of offerings which by God's appointment were to be offered, which were ſanctified by being laid upon this Altar, and therefore the Altar was greater and more holy than the gift, as our bleſſed Saviour notes, Matth. 23. 19.

38 ¶ Now this is that which thou ſhalt offer m upon
*Num. 28. the altar, * two lambs of the firſt year * day by day
3. continually n,
*Dan. 12.
11.

m This is the chief end and uſe of this Altar, though it ſerved alſo for other Sacrifices. n To ſhew partly that men do daily contract new defilement, and daily need new pardons; and partly that God is not only to be worſhipped upon the Sabbath-days, and other ſet and ſolemn times, but every day.

39 The one lamb thou ſhalt offer in the morning o, †Heb. between the two evenings. and the other lamb thou ſhalt offer † at even o.

o Which two ſeaſons were ſelected, as moſt commodious, that men might both begin and end their worldly Actions and Buſineſſes with God, and might ſee their need of God's aſſiſtance and bleſſing in all their concerns, and the juſtneſs of giving him the praiſe and glory of all.

40 And with the one lamb a tenth-deal p of flour, mingled with the fourth part of an hin of beaten oil, and the fourth part of a hin q of wine, for a drink-offering.

p The tenth part of an Ephah, as is evident from Numb. 28. 5. which is an Omer, Exod. 16. 36. q An Hin was a meaſure for liquid things, as the Ephah was for dry things, containing ſix Pints of our meaſure.

41 And the other lamb thou ſhalt offer at even, and ſhalt do thereto according to the meat-offering of the morning, and according to the drink-offering thereof, for a ſweet ſavour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

42 This ſhall be a continual burnt-offering through-†Heb. of meeting. out your generations, at the door of the tabernacle † of the congregation before the LORD, where r I will meet you, to ſpeak there unto you.

r Either 1. At which Door, for there the Lord ſtood and talked with Moſes, Exod. 33. 9, 10. Or rather 2. In which Tabernacle, to wit, in the innermoſt part of it, becauſe that was the principal place where God did ordinarily reſide and meet with his people, Exod. 30. 6. Levit. 16. 2. whereas God met but once at the Door of the Tabernacle, and that with Moſes only, not with the people, with whom he is ſaid to meet in this place, verſe 43. Add to this, that the place where God meets them is the ſame place which is ſanctified by his Glory, and that was the Tabernacle, verſe 43. as it is expreſſed in our Tranſlation, and ſufficiently implied in the Hebrew, by a common Ellipſis of the Pronoun it, i. e. that place where I meet with you, to wit, the Tabernacle, ſhall be, &c.

43 And there I will meet with the children of Iſ-rael: and † the tabernacle ſhall be ſanctified by my †Or, Iſrael.
glory s.

s (i. e.) By my glorious preſence and appearance, of which ſee Exod. 40. 34, 35. Levit. 9. 24

44 And I will ſanctifie the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar: I will ſanctifie alſo both Aaron and his ſons to miniſter to me in the prieſts office.

45 ¶ And * I will dwell t amongſt the children of *Chap. 25.

t By my ſpecial grace, and favour, and bleſſing; for by his eſſence he fills all places.

46 And they ſhall know that I am the LORD their God that brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell among them: I am the LORD their God.

CHAP. XXX.

He commands to make an Altar for Incenſe, and of what, 1. The length and breadth of it, 2. The form of it, 3——6. Whereon the Prieſt was to kindle Incenſe every morning, being commanded, 7. All the children of Iſrael to bring half a ſhekel for their ſouls, 11——15. A laver of braſs, 17, 18. Wherein Aaron and his ſons waſh their feet, 19——21. The making the oil of holy ointment, 22——25. Its uſe, 26——28. None might make the like, 32, 33. for himſelf, 38.

AND thou ſhalt make * an altar to burn incenſe *Chap. 37.
upon a: of ſhittim-wood ſhalt thou make it. 25.

a Incenſe ſignifies the prayers of God's People, Pſal. 141. 2. Revel. 8. 3. which are not acceptable to God, except they be offered upon the true Altar, Chriſt. This Incenſe alſo was uſeful to correct the bad ſmell of the Sacrifices, which were offered on another Altar, not far from it. Yea, ſome Sacrifices were offered upon this Altar, as appears from verſe 10. Levit. 4. 7. But here only the principal and conſtant uſe of it is noted.

2 A cubit ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof (four-ſquare ſhall it be) and two cubits ſhall be the height thereof; the horns thereof b ſhall be of the ſame.

b See Exod. 27. 2. Though theſe horns, as they were for another uſe, ſo they ſeem to be here of another form, and for ornament more than for ſervice.

3 And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, the † top thereof c, and the † ſides thereof round about, †Heb. roof.
and the horns thereof: and thou ſhalt make unto it a †Heb. wall.
crown d of gold round about.

c This was made hollow like a Grate, that the Aſhes might fall thorough it. d A border which encompaſſed the Altar, that the things laid on it might not fall off.

4 And two golden rings ſhalt thou make to it, under the crown of it, by the two † corners thereof, upon †Heb. ribs.
the two ſides of it ſhalt thou make them: and they ſhall be for places for the ſtaves to bear it withal.

5 And thou ſhalt make the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with gold.

6 And thou ſhalt put it before the vail e that is by the ark of the teſtimony, before the mercy-ſeat that is over the teſtimony, where I will meet with thee.

e Before the ſecond Vail, in the holy place, and near to the Holy of holies, and conſequently to the Ark and Mercy-ſeat.

7 And Aaron ſhall burn thereon † ſweet incenſe f † Heb. incenſe of 12 * When thou takeſt the ſum of the children of Iſrael after † their number, then ſhall they give every man a ranſom for his ſoul m unto the LORD when thou numbreſt them n, that there be no plague amongſt them when thou numbreſt them.

m A certain price for the redemption of their lives; whereby they acknowledged the right and power which God had over their lives, and that they had forfeited them by their ſins, and that it was God's mercy to continue their lives to them. n To wit, upon any juſt occaſion, either now in the Wilderneſs, or afterwards: It may ſeem that this payment was neither to be made at this time only, as ſome would have it; nor yet every year, as Joſephus and others affirm, becauſe it is not ſaid to be a perpetual ſtatute, as other things of conſtant obſervance are, but upon any eminent occaſions, when the ſervice of the Tabernacle (which is the end and uſe of this collection) or Temple required it, as may be gathered from 2 King. 12. 4. compared with 2 Chron. 24. 6. Compare Neh. 10. 32. Matth. 17. 24. And as now it was imployed in the building of the Tabernacle, ſo afterwards it might be laid out upon the repairs or other ſervices of it.

13 This they ſhall give, every one that paſſeth among them that are numbred, * half a ſhekel, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary o, (a ſhekel is twenty gerahs:) an half ſhekel ſhall be the offering of the LORD p.

o Which though it hath been commonly conceived to be double to the common Shekel, yet divers late Learned men ſeem more truly to judge that it was no more than the common Shekel, conſiſting of Half a crown of Engliſh mony; which is called the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, becauſe the ſtandard by which all Shekels were to be examined, was kept in the Sanctuary, as afterwards the juſt Weights and Meaſures were kept in Chriſtian Temples, or other publick places. See Lev. 27. 25. Numb. 3. 47. Ezek. 45 10, 11, 12. Add to to this, that it was a part of the Prieſt's Office to look to the Weights and Meaſures, as plainly appears from 1 Chron. 23. 29. p Not leſs, leſt it ſhould be contemptible; nor more, leſt it ſhould be too burthenſome for the Poor.

14 Every one that paſſeth among them that are numbred, from twenty years old and above q, ſhall give an offering unto the LORD.

q The time when they began to be fit for emplyment, and capaple of getting and paying Money. Women and Children are not included here, becauſe they are reckoned in their Father's or Husband's.

15 The rich ſhall not † give more, and the poor ſhall not † give leſs r than half a ſhekel when they give an offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for your ſouls.

r This was partly to teach them, that all Souls are of equal worth in themſelves, and price with God; that there is no reſpect of perſons with God, and in God's Worſhip and Service, but Goſpel-graces, Ordinances and Priviledges are common and equal to all, Exod. 12. and 16. 18. Gal. 3 28. Col. 3. 11. that all Perſons are like obnoxious to Divine Juſtice, and are redeemed by one and the ſame price; partly to check the arrogance and vanity of the Rich, who are very apt to deſpiſe the Poor; and parrly that by this means the number of the People might be exactly known when occaſion required it.

* Chap. 38. 25.

16 And thou ſhalt take the atonement-money of the children of Iſrael, and * ſhalt appoint it for the ſervice of the tabernacle s of the congregration, that it may be a memorial t unto the children of Iſrael before the LORD, to make an atonement for your ſouls.

s For the building and furniture of it, and the maintenance of God's Worſhip in it. t Either to the People, who hereby profeſs God to be their Lord and Owner, and themſelves his Subjects and Tributaries; or to God, who hereby takes occaſion to remember them, and to own them for his People.

17 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes u, ſaying, u The frequent repetition of this Phraſe, and the ſhortneſs of theſe Diſcourſes, in compariſon of the length of the forty days, ſhew that God did not deliver all theſe Laws and Preſcriptions at one time, but ſucceſſively at ſeveral times, poſſibly upon the Sabbath-days.

18 Thou ſhalt alſo make a laver of braſs x, and his foot alſo of braſs, to waſh withal y, and thou ſhalt put it between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar z, and thou ſhalt put water therein.

x See the accompliſhment Exod. 38. 8. y Both the Prieſts, and the parts of the Sacrifices. z To wit, of Burnt-offerings.

* Pſal. 26. 6. Iſa. 52. 11. Heb. 10. 22.

19 For Aaron and his ſons ſhall * waſh their hands and their feet a thereat.

a To ſignify their natural impurity and unworthineſs, either to handle holy things, or to come into the holy place, and their need of waſhing with the Bloud and Spirit of Chriſt, which was typified by this waſhing.

20 When they go into the tabernacle of the congregation, they ſhall waſh with water, that they die not b: or when they come near to the altar to miniſter, to burn an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

b For though the Fault might ſeem ſmall, yet the Command was evident and eaſie, and therefore the diſobedience was worſe, arguing preſumption, rebellion, and contempt. And God is more ſevere in the matters of his Worſhip than in other caſes.

21 So they ſhall waſh their hands and their feet that they die not: and it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever to them, even to him, and to his ſeed throughout their generations.

22 Moreover, the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Take thou alſo unto thee c principal ſpices d, of pure myrrhe e five hundred ſhekels, and of ſweet cinamon half ſo much, even two hundred and fifty ſhekels, and of ſweet calamus f two hundred and fifty ſhekels, c The words are very emphatical, and the Jews from hence do rightly infer, that this Ointment was but once made, and that by Moſes his own hands. d See Cant. 4. 14. Ezek. 27. 22. and compare Pſal. 45. 8. Amos 6. 6. e Heb. myrrhe of liberty, either, 1. † Or, pe fumer.

25 And thou ſhalt make it an oil of holy ointment; an ointment compound after the art of the † Apothecary: it ſhall be an holy anointing-oil.

26 And thou ſhalt anoint h the tabernacle of the congregation therewith, and the ark of the teſtimony.

h This was only an outward Ceremony, ſignifying the ſeparation and ſanctification of theſe things for the Service of God; as the anointing of Kings and Prieſts noted their deſignation to their Offices.

27 And the table and all his veſſels, and the candleſtick and his veſſels, and the altar of incenſe, 28 And the altar of burnt-offering with all his veſſels, and the laver, and his foot.

29 And thou ſhalt ſanctify them that they may be moſt holy; whatſoever toucheth them ſhall be holy.

30 And thou ſhalt anoint Aaron and his ſons i, and conſecrate them that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office.

i Not all of them, but only thoſe who ſucceed him in the High-Prieſt's Office, as appears from Exod. 40. 15. Levit. 4. 3, 5, 16. and 16. 32. and 21. 10. This anointing of them ſignified both God's election or calling them to this Office, and the inward qualifications requiſite for it, to wit, the Gifts and Graces of the Holy Ghoſt, which are oft deſigned by this word of anointing, as Iſa. 61. 1. Dan. 9. 24. 1 John 2. 27. and the ſolemn ſetting apart of Chriſt, the true High-Prieſt, for the Mediatorial Office.

31 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This ſhall be an holy anointing-oil unto me k throughout your generations.

k)i. e) Reſerved for my Service alone, not employed to any profane or civil uſe, as it follows.

32 Upon mans fleſh ſhall it not be poured l, neither ſhall ye make any other like it, after the compoſition of it: it is holy, and it ſhall be holy unto you m.

l Except thoſe whom God himſelf, the Author of this Law, excepts, to wit, the High-Prieſts; of which ſee verſ. 30. and ſome of the Kings, of which ſee 1 King. 1. 39. Pſal. 89. 20. though others think the Kings were only anointed with common Oil. m As it is unto me, verſe 31. you ſhall account it holy, as I do.

* Ge 14.

33 Whoſoever compoundeth any like it, or whoſoever putteth any of it upon a ſtranger n, * ſhall even be cut off from his people.

n The word ſtranger is commonly uſed to note the Gentiles, or ſuch as were not of Iſrael's Race; but ſometimes it notes thoſe that are not of the Prieſtly Race, as Exod. 29. 33. Levit. 22. 12, 13. And ſo it ſeems to be here. And if any of the Kings were anointed with this Oil, it was done by God's ſpecial appointment, who may diſpence with his own Laws.

34 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Take unto thee ſweet ſpices, ſtacte, and onycha, and galbanum o: theſe ſweet ſpices, with pure frankincenſe, of each ſhall there be a like weight p.

o The Jews themſelves are not agreed what theſe were, and it concerns not Chriſtians much to know, the uſe of them being aboliſhed. It is evident they were each of them ſweet Spices, and therefore this Galbanum was not of the common kind, which gives a very bad ſcent. p Heb. Alone ſhall be with alone, i. e. Each of theſe alone ſhall be with another alone, to wit, in equal quantity. Or it may note, that each of theſe was to be taken and beaten apart, and then mixed together. Or, it ſhall be alone alone, i. e. abſolutely and certainly alone, the doubling of the word increaſing the ſignification, and thus it doth not belong to all the ingredients, becauſe the Hebrew Verb is here of the ſingular number, but only to the Frankincenſe; and the ſenſe may be, that whereas the other things ſhall be tempered together, the Frankincenſe ſhould be alone, which may ſeem moſt agreeable both to the common uſe of Frankincenſe, and to its differing nature from the other things mentioned, two of them at leaſt being confeſſedly liquid things.

Bezaleel and Aholiab are call'd for the work of the Tabernacle, 1—6, 7. The Table and Candleſticks, 8. The Altar, 9. Hallowing of the Sabbath is commanded again, 12——16. Moſes receiveth the two Tables of the Law, 18.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 See I have called by name Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, a of the tribe of Judah.

a He ſeems to be the ſame mentioned 1 Chron. 2. 20.

3 And I have filled him with the ſpirit of God b, in c wiſdom, and in underſtanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanſhip.

b Which was now neceſſary, becauſe the Iſraelites in Egypt wanted ingenious education to learn theſe things, and therefore needed inſpiration. c Or, with, the following clauſes being explicatory of the former, ſhewing what gifts of the Spirit God had filled him with, to wit, Wiſdom, &c.

4 To deviſe cunning works, to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs,

5 And in cutting of ſtones to ſet them, and in carving of timber, to work in all manner of workmanſhip.

6 And I, behold, I have given with him, Aholiab the ſon of Ahiſamach of the tribe of Dan: and in the hearts of all that are wiſe-hearted d I have put wiſdom, that they may make all that I have commanded thee:

d That have wiſdom and skill ſufficient to do theſe things under the inſpection and direction of Bezaleel and Aholiab, the principal workmen.

7 The tabernacle of the congregation, and the ark of the teſtimony, and the mercy-ſeat that is thereupon, and all the † furniture of the tabernacle: †Heb. veſſel.

8 And the table and his furniture, and the pure candleſtick e with all his furniture, and the altar of incenſe:

e So called by way of eminency, not only becauſe it was made of pure Gold, and was not defiled with Blood, for ſo ſome other things were, but eſpecially to mind the Prieſts of their Duty in keeping it neat and clean, it being more ſubject to defilement than other things.

9 And the altar of burnt-offering with all his furniture, and the laver and his foot:

*Chap. 39. 1, &c. 10 And * the clothes of ſervice f, and the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and the garments of his ſons, to miniſter in the prieſts office:

f Wherein the Ark and other ſacred Utenſils were wrapped up when they were to be removed. See Exod. 35. 19. and Numb. 4.

†Heb. incenſe of ſpices. 11 And the anointing oil, and † ſweet incenſe for the holy place: according to all that I have commanded thee ſhall they do.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

13 Speak thou alſo unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Verily my ſabbaths ye ſhall keep g: for it is a ſign between me and you h throughout your generations, that ye may know that I am the LORD that doth ſanctifie you i.

g This precept is here repeated, either 1. To ſhew the chief uſe of the Tabernacle and all this coſt and trouble about it, to wit, that they might there acceptably ſerve God, as in ſome meaſure upon every day, ſo eſpecially upon the Sabbath-day. Or rather 2. To reſtrain the time for the doing of the forementioned works, q. d. Though the work of the Tabernacle and Utenſils be holy, and for an holy uſe, yet I will not have it done upon my holy day. The Sabbath was not made for them, but they for it, and therefore they ſhall give place to it. h The Sabbath is a fivefold ſign, 1. Commemorative, of God's Creation of and Dominion over them, and all other things, to whom they do hereby profeſs their ſubjection. 2. Indicative, ſhewing that they were made to be holy, and that their ſanctification can be had from none but from God, as it here follows, and from the obſervation of God's days and appointments. 3. Diſtinctive, whereby they owned themſelves to be the Lord's peculiar people, by a religious keeping of thoſe Sabbaths, which the reſt of the World groſly neglected and profanely ſcoffed at. 4. Prefigurative, of that reſt which Chriſt ſhould purchaſe for them, to wit, a reſt from the burden of the ceremonial, and from the curſes and rigours of the moral Law, as alſo from ſin and the wrath of God for ever. See Heb. 4. 5. Confirmative, both aſſuring them of God's good will to them, and that as he bleſſed the Sabbath for their ſakes, ſo he would bleſs them in the holy uſe of it with temporal, ſpiritual and everlaſting bleſſings, as he declares in many places of Scripture; and aſſuring God of their ſtanding to that Covenant made between God and them. So that this was a mutual ſtipulation, or ratification of the Covenant of Grace on both ſides. i That ſelecteth you out of all people, and conſecrate you to my ſelf, and to my ſervice and worſhip, a great part whereof is the obſervation of the Sabbath. Or, that ſanctifieth you by my Word and Ordinances, which are in more eminent and ſolemn manner diſpenſed upon the Sabbath-day, by the obſervation whereof you declare that you own me as your only ſanctifier. And ſo we may obſerve, the Sabbath owns the Lord as our Creator, and as our Redeemer, and as our Sanctifier; and therefore it is no wonder God ſo ſeverely enjoyns the ſanctification of the Sabbath, and puniſheth the neglect of it, it being a tacit renouncing, or diſowning of God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghoſt.

14 * Ye ſhall keep the ſabbath therefore: for it is holy unto you: every one that defileth it, ſhall ſurely be put to death k: for * whoſoever doth any work l therein, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from amongſt his people. *Chap. 20. 8. Deut. 5. 12. Ezek. 20. 12. *Num. 15. 35.

k Of which ſee an example Numb. 15. 32, &c. l (i. e.) Servile work, as it is explained, Lev. 23. 7, &c.

15 Six days † may work be done, but in the ſeventh is the ſabbath of reſt m, † holy to the LORD: whoſoever doth any work in the ſabbath-day, he ſhall ſurely be put to death. †Heb. ſhall be done. † Heb. holineſs.

m Heb. The ſabbath of ſabbaths, or of ſabbaths, i. e. the great and chief Sabbath, as the ſong of ſongs is the moſt excellent Song, the holy of holies is the moſt Holy, &c. The Jews had many Sabbaths or Days of reſt, but this is here preferred before them all, by this emphatical repetition of the ſame word; and by this argument the foregoing duty is preſſed upon them.

16 Wherefore the children of Iſrael ſhall keep the ſabbath, to obſerve the ſabbath n throughout their generations for a perpetual covenant o.

n Or, Shall keep the ſabbath by obſerving, or celebrating the ſabbath, i. e. by obſerving or celebrating it, the antecedent being put for the relative, as is frequently done. So here is another moſt emphatical repetition to oblige us to the greater caution and diligence in this great Duty, and to ſhew what ſtreſs God lays upon it, who hath therefore placed this in the midſt of the commands of the Decalogue, as the Heart which gives life and vigour to all the reſt. Or it may be rendered thus, Shall obſerve the day of reſt to celebrate the ſabbath; and ſo the phraſe is like that in the Fourth Command, Remember the ſabbath-day to keep it holy. So here, Obſerve the ſabbath, i. e. watch its coming and approach, conſider attentively the nature and uſe of it, and that not as a matter of idle ſpeculation, but of ſerious practiſe; or ſo that you may do, or celebrate the ſabbath, i. e. perform all the duties of it. Or thus, Shall obſerve the ſabbath, to make it a ſabbath, or day of reſt, and that no idle or carnal reſt, but a reſt, holy to the Lord, as it is called in the foregoing verſe. Or, by a perpetual covenant; or, it is a perpetual covenant, i. e. condition or part of that agreement made between me and them. They have ſolemnly covenanted or promiſed that they will do all that I commanded them, Exod. 24. 7, 8. among which this is a chief branch; and I have covenanted to bleſs and ſanctify them in ſo doing. And this word perpetual, as alſo the word for ever being added to it in the next verſe, may intimate that this hath a longer perpetuity than the Ceremonies, to which this phraſe is ſometimes aſcribed, the rather becauſe the reaſon of this perpetuity given in the next verſe, is ſuch as hath its force not only till Chriſt, but even till the end of the World, and it is fit and juſt that men ſhould retain this monument, or memorial of the World's Creation, even till its diſſolution.

17 It is a ſign p between me and the children of Iſrael for ever: for * in ſix days the LORD made heaven, and earth, and on the ſeventh day he reſted, and was refreſhed q. *Gen. 2. 2.

p A ſign of the Covenant between us, that I will be their God, and they will be my People; both which depends upon this amongſt other Duties, and upon this in an eminent degree. q Not as if he had been weary with working, which ſurely he could not be with ſpeaking a few words, nor can God be weary with any thing, Iſa. 40. 28. but it notes the pleaſure or delight God took in reflecting upon his works, beholding that every thing he had made was very good, Gen. 1. 31.

18 ¶ And he gave unto Moſes, when he had made an end of communing with him upon mount Sinai, * two tables of teſtimony r, tables of ſtone s, written with the finger of God t. *Chap. 32. 16. Deut. 9. 10. 2 Cor. 3. 3.

r (i. e.) The Tables of the Law, which was the witneſs of God's Will and Iſrael's Duty. See Exod. 16. 34. s Whereby was ſignified both the durable and perpetual Obligation of the Moral Law, whereas the Ceremonial Law was to end with the Jewiſh Polity at Chriſt's coming, and the ſtonineſs of Mens Hearts by Nature, in which the Law of God could not be written, but by a Divine and Omnipotent Hand. t (i. e.) With the Power or Spirit of God, by comparing Matth. 12. 18. not by any Art of Man, but immediately by a Divine Hand.

CHAP. XXXII.

The people commit idolatry by worſhipping the molten image which Aaron made, 1——6. God makes it known to Moſes, and threatens their deſtruction, 7——10. Moſes prays for them, 11. God repents of the evil, 14. Moſes comes down from the mount with two tables, 15. being God's own writing, 16. Moſes hearing and ſeeing their idolatry, 17, 18. breaks the two tables, 19. and turns the calf into powder, 20. Aaron's excuſe, 21——24. Moſes ſeeing their nakedneſs, 25. Commands them to be ſlain, 26——28. He bids them conſecrate themſelves, 29. Moſes charging them with ſin, 30. Prayeth for them, 31—33. God ſpareth them, 34. But afterward plagueth them, 35.

AND when the people ſaw that Moſes delayed to come down out of the mount a, the people b gathered themſelves together unto Aaron c, and ſaid unto him, * Up, make us gods d which ſhall go before us e: for as for this Moſes f, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him g.

For it is ridiculous to think that the Body of the Iſraelites, who were now lately inſtructed by the Mouth, and Words, and Miraculous Works of the eternal God, ſhould be ſo ſenſeleſs as to think that was the true God which themſelves made, and that out of their own Ear-rings; much more, that that was the God that brought them out of Egypt, as they ſay, verſe 4. e To guide us through this vaſt Wilderneſs to the land of promiſe, where they longed to be: For, as for the Cloud, which hitherto had guided them, that ſeemed now to be fixed upon the Mount; and they thought both that and Moſes had deſerted them. The Jewiſh Doctors note, that he doth not ſay, Make us Gods whom we may worſhip, but which ſhall go before us, which, as they truly ſay, ſhews that they wanted not a God, whom they knew by infallible evidences they had, but a viſible guide, who might ſupply the want of Moſes, as the next words ſhew. f An expreſſion of contempt towards their great deliverer. g Whether he be not conſumed by the Fire in the Cloud, or taken up to Heaven, or conveyed away by God to ſome other place.

2 And Aaron ſaid unto them, Break off the golden ear-rings h which are in the ears of your wives i, of your ſons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me.

h Which were of good value and common uſe among the Eaſtern people, who ſeem to have uſed them ſuperſtitiouſly, Gen. 35. 4. Judg. 8. 24. and therefore Aaron demands theſe, partly that he might take away one Vice, or occaſion of Vice, whileſt the people were intent upon another; and partly that the propoſed loſs of their precious Ear-rings might cool their Idolatrous deſires. i Whom he thought moſt fond of their Jewels, and moſt unlikely to part with them.

3 And all the people brake off the golden ear-rings k which were in their ears l, and brought them unto Aaron.

k Whereby they ſhew both their madneſs upon their Idols, and their baſe ingratitude to their God, who had transferred theſe Jewels from the Egyptians to them, Exod. 12. 35, 36. which therefore God upbraids them with, Ezek. 16. 11, &c. l (i. e.) The mens ears, for the affix is of the Maſculine Gender; whereby it ſeems the men were more ſet upon Idolatry than the women, parting with their Ear-rings for it, which the women would not do.

4 * And he received them at their hand, and faſhioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a molten calf m, and they ſaid, Theſe be thy gods n, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

* 1 Kings 12. 28. Pſal. 106. 19.

m The meaning of this Tranſlation is, That Aaron, to wit, by Artificers, did firſt melt the Gold into one maſs, and then by the Graving-tool form it into the ſhape of a Calf, and poliſh it; or as others render the words, He formed it in a type or mould, made in the ſhape of a Calf, into which he caſt the molten Gold, and ſo made it a molten calf. But the words may be tranſlated thus, He put it, or them, into a purſe; for ſo the Hebrew Verb and Noun are both uſed 2 Kings 5. 23. and in like manner Gideon diſpoſed the Ear-rings given him for the like uſe, Judg. 8. 24. and afterwards he made of them a molten calf. Now the people deſired, and Aaron in compliance with them made this in the form of a calf, or an ox (for the word ſignifies both) in imitation of the Egyptians, as Philo the Jew expreſly affirms, and the learned generally agree; and it may thus appear, 1. The great Idols of the Egyptians, Apis, Seraphis and Iſis, were Oxen and Cows, as is confeſſed, 2. The Egyptians, beſides thoſe Creatures which they adored as Gods, did alſo make, and keep, and worſhip their Images, as even the Heathen writers, Mela and Strabo affirm. 3. The Iſraelites, whileſt they were in Egypt, were many of them infected with the Egyptian Idolatry, as it appears from Joſ. 24 14. Ezek. 20. 7, 8. and 23. 3. Acts 7. 39. And it is not unlikely divers of them hankered no leſs after the Idols, than after the Garlick and Onions of Egypt. And, being now, as they thought, forſaken by Moſes, they might think of returning to Egypt, as afterwards they did, and therefore choſe a God of the Egyptian Mode, that they might more willingly receive them again. n (i. e) This is thy God, the Plural Number being put for the Singular, as it is uſual in this caſe. The meaning is, This is the Sign, or Symbol, or Image of thy God; for ſuch expreſſions are very frequent: Thus this Image of a Calf is called a calf frequently, and the Images of the Temple of Diana are called ſhrines or little temples, Acts 19. So they intended to worſhip the true God by this Image, as afterwards Jeroboam did by the ſame Image, as we ſhall plainly ſee when we come to that place of Scripture. And it is abſolutely incredible that the generality of the Iſraelites ſhould be ſo void of all Senſe and Reaſon, as to think that this new-made Calf did bring them out of Egypt before its own Creation, and that this was the ſame Jehovah who had even now ſpoken to them from Heaven with an audible Voice, ſaying, I am the Lord thy God who brought thee out of the land of Egypt.

5 And when Aaron ſaw o it, he built an altar before it, and Aaron made proclamation, and ſaid, To morrow is a feaſt to the LORD p.

o (i. e.) Obſerved with what applauſe they received it, and with what fury and reſolution they proſecuted their former deſire, he was born down with the ſtream, and, as it is probable, by the peoples inſtigation, built an altar to it. p Heb. To Jehovah. Which Title being peculiar to the true God, and being here given by Aaron to the Calf, with the approbation of the people, makes it more than probable that the people deſigned to worſhip the true God in this Calf, which they made only as a viſible token of God's Preſence with them, and an Image by which they might convey their worſhip to God.

6 And they roſe up early on the morrow, and offered burnt-offerings, and brought peace-offerings q: and the * people ſat down to eat and to drink r, and roſe up to play s.

* 1 Co. 10. 7.

q But no ſin-offerings, which they moſt needed. r For the Sacrifices were accompanied with Feaſting, both among the Worſhippers of the true God, and among Idolaters. See Exod. 18. 12. and 24. 11. s By ſhouting, and ſinging, and dancing, as it appears from verſe 17, 18, 19.

15 And Moſes turned, and went down from the mount, and the two tables of the teſtimony were in his hand: the tables were written on both their ſides e: on the one ſide, and on the other ſide were they written.

e Not in the inſide and outſide, which is unuſal and unneceſſary, but in the inſide only, ſome of the Ten Commands being written on the right hand, and others on the left, not for any myſtery, but only for conveniency of writing.

16 And the * tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, graven upon the tables.

* Chap 18.

17 And when Joſhua f heard the noiſe of the people as they ſhouted, he ſaid unto Moſes, There is a noiſe of war in the camp.

f Who had waited all this while upon the middle of the hill for Moſes his return; and ſo neither knew what the people had done, nor heard what God had ſaid to Moſes.

18 And he ſaid, It is not the voice of them that ſhout for maſtery g, neither is it the voice of them that cry for † being overcome h: but the noiſe of them that ſing do I hear.

g Heb. of a cry of ſtrength, (i. e.) of ſtrong men, or of the ſtronger and victorious party, who uſe to expreſs themſelves with triumphant ſhouts. h Heb. of a cry of weakneſs, (i. e.) of weak, and wounded, and vanquiſhed men, who uſe to break forth into doleful cries.

19 And it came to paſs, aſſoon as he came nigh unto the camp, that he ſaw the calf, and the dancing: and Moſes anger waxed hot, and he caſt the tables out of his hands, and brake them i beneath the mount.

i Not through raſh anger, but by divine inſtinct, partly to puniſh their Idolatry with ſo great a loſs, and partly to ſhew that the Covenant made between God and them ſo much to their advantage, which was contained in thoſe Table, was by their ſin broken, and now of none effect, and not to be renewed but by bitter repentance.

20 * And he took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder k, and ſtrewed it upon the water l, and made the children of Iſrael m to drink of it n.

* Deut. 9. 21.

21 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, What did this people unto thee o that thou haſt brought ſo great a ſin upon them p?

o What injury or miſchief had they done to thee, which thou didſt ſo ſeverely revenge! p The ſin of the People is charged upon Aaron, both becauſe he did not reſiſt and ſuppreſs their wicked ſuggeſtion, ver. 1. by his counſel, and by the authority which Moſes had left in his hand, which he ſhould have done even with the hazard of his life, as the Rabbins ſay that Hur did, whom they report to have been ſlain by the People whilſt he diſſwaded them from their attempt, and becauſe he did not promote, and direct and manage their enterprize, ver. 4, 5.

22 And Aaron ſaid, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot: thou knoweſt the people, that they are ſet on miſchief q.

q Heb. are in evil, i. e. are altogether wicked, addicted to, or bent upon wickedneſs, ſo that it was impoſſible for me to ſtop or divert their courſe.

23 For they ſaid unto me, Make us gods which ſhall go before us: for as for this Moſes, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

24 And I ſaid unto them, Whoſoever hath any gold, let them break it off: ſo they gave it me: then I caſt it into the fire, and there came out this calf r.

r Not that he meant, or thought to perſuade Moſes, that the melted Gold came out of the fire in the form of a Calf by accident, without any art or induſtry of his, which was a ridiculous conceit, and eaſily confuted; but only he conceals his own ſin in the forming and graving of it, and lays the whole blame upon the people.

25 ¶ And when Moſes ſaw that the people were naked s (for Aaron had made them naked t unto their ſhame amongſt † their enemies u.)

† Heb. thoſe that riſe up againſt them.

s (i. e.) That they were ſtripped both of their ornament, which was not ſo much the Jewels of their Ears, as the innocency of their minds and lives; and of their defence, to wit, of the favour and protection of God, by which alone they were ſecured from the Egyptians, and were to be defended againſt thoſe many and mighty enemies towards whom they were about to march, and that being thus diſarmed and helpleſs, they would be a prey to every Enemy; when Moſes conſidered this, he took the following courſe to cover their nakedneſs, to expiate their ſins, to regain the favour of God, and by puniſhing the moſt eminent and incorrigibile Offenders, to bring the reſt to repentance. t As Ahaz is ſaid to have made Judah naked, 2 Chron. 28. 19. u Queſt. How were they made naked or aſhamed amongſt their Enemies, when at this time they were in their own Camp, remote from all their Enemies? Anſw. He ſpeaks not only of their preſent ſhame, but of their everlaſting reproach, eſpecially among their, and God's Enemies, who being conſtant to their Idols, would juſtly ſcorn the Iſraelites for their levity in forſaking their God ſo quickly and eaſily. See Jer. 2. 11. But the Hebrew word may be, and is by ſome tranſlated thus, amongſt thoſe that do or ſhall riſe up or be born of them, i. e. that ſhall ſucceed them; for ſo the word riſing is uſed Exod. 1. 8. Matth. 11. 11. And ſo the Chaldee here renders it, amongſt their generations; and the other Chaldee Interpreter, and the Syriack, in their latter days, or in after times. So the ſenſe is, That Aaron had put a note of perpetual infamy upon them, even to all after Ages.

26 Then Moſes ſtood in the gate of the camp x and ſaid, Who is on the LORD's ſide y? let him come unto me. And all the ſons of Levi z gathered themſelves together unto him.

x He choſe that place, 1. as the uſual place of Judicature. 2. That he might withdraw himſelf from the company of Idolaters as far as he might. 3. As a fit place of concourſe and reſort for thoſe that were on God's ſide. 4 To prevent the eſcape of the greateſt Delinquents, the reſt of the Camp being probably ſurrounded with ſome trench, or ſuch like thing, elſe Gates had been ſuperfluous and unprofitable. y Who will take God's part, and plead his Cauſe againſt Idolatry and Idolaters? z (i. e.) The moſt of that Tribe, as that univerſal Particle is oft underſtood; for ſome of them were deſtroyed as guilty.

27 And he ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Put every man his ſword by his ſide, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and ſlay every man his brother a, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour.

a The meaning is, Slay every principal Offender whom you meet with, without any indulgence or exception, though brother, or companion, or neighbour. There was no fear of killing the innocent in this caſe, becauſe, 1. The people were generally guilty. 2. Moſes had called to himſelf all that were on God's ſide, who thereby were ſeparated from the guilty. 3. The Nocent might eaſily be diſcerned from the Tranſgreſſors, either by the perſonal knowledge which the Levites or others had of the moſt forward Idolaters, or by their abiding in their Tents as aſhamed and grieving for their ſin, whilſt the Tranſgreſſors were impudently walking about in the Camp, as truſting to their numbers; or by the direction of God's Providence, if not by ſome viſible token.

28 And the children of Levi did according to the word of Moſes; and there fell of the people that day about three thouſand men b.

b And no more, for it is probable they ſlew only thoſe whon they knew to have been the Ringleaders to others in this miſchief.

29 † For Moſes had ſaid, * Conſecrate your ſelves to day to the LORD c, even every man upon his ſon, and upon his brother, that he may beſtow upon you a bleſſing this day.

† Or, and Moſes ſaid, Conſecrate your ſelves to day to the LORD, becauſe every man hath been againſt his ſon, and againſt his brother, &c.

† Heb. fill your hands.

c Offer up your ſelves to the honour and ſervice of the Lord in this work, which becauſe it was joined with the hazard of their lives, he calls it a conſecration or oblation of themſelves, as Abraham for the like reaſon is ſaid to have offered up Iſaac. † Heb. Fill your hands, &c. i. e. offer a Sacrifice, for ſo that phraſe is oft uſed, as Exod. 28. 41. Judg. 17. 5, 12. That work of Juſtice which they were going to execute might ſeem an inhumane and barbarous Act, but he tells them it was an acceptable Sacrifice to God, as the deſtruction of God's Enemies is called a ſacrifice, Iſa. 34. 6. Ezek. 39. 17. Or he hereby intimates, that this Tribe was deſigned by God for his immediate ſervice, and therefore recommends this work to them as an excellent initiation into their Office, and as a demonſtration that they were in ſome ſort worthy of that great truſt.

30 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Moſes ſaid unto the people, Ye have ſinned a great ſin: and now I will go up unto the LORD, * peradventure d I ſhall make an atonement for your ſin.

* 2 Sam. 16. 12. Amos 5. 15.

d He ſpeaks doubtfully, partly becauſe he was uncertain how far God would pardon them, and partly to quicken them to the more ſerious practice of repentance.

31 And Moſes returned unto the LORD, and ſaid, Oh, this people have ſinned a great ſin, and have made them gods of gold.

32 Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their ſin e: and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book f which thou haſt written.

e Undeſtand here, forgive it, or, or it is well, or, I and others ſhall praiſe thy name. His great paſſion for his People ſtops his words, and makes his Speech imperfect. f (i. e.) Out of the Book of Life, as appears by comparing this with other places, as Pſal. 69. 28. Dan. 12. 1. Luke 10. 20. Phil. 4. 3. Rev. 3. 5. and 13. 8. and 20. 12. or, out of the Catalogue or number of thoſe that ſhall be ſaved. I ſuppoſe Moſes doth not in this caſe wiſh his eternal damnation, becauſe that ſtate implies both wickedneſs in himſelf, and the diſhonour of God, but his annihilation, or the utter loſs of this life, and of that to come, and of all the happineſs of both of them. Nor doth Moſes ſimply deſire this, but only comparatively expreſſeth his ſingular zeal for God's glory, and charity to his People; ſignifying, that the very thoughts of the deſtruction of God's People, and of the reproach and blaſphemy which would be caſt upon God by means thereof, were ſo grievous and intolerable to him, that he rather wiſheth, if it were poſſible, that God would accept of him as a Sacrifice in their ſtead, and by his utter deſtruction prevent ſo great a miſchief. And it is to be conſidered, that Moſes ſpeaks this, as alſo many other things, as the Mediator between God and Iſrael, and as the Type of the true Mediator, Jeſus Chriſt, who was in effect to ſuffer this which Moſes was content to ſuffer.

33 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Whoſoever hath ſinned † againſt me, him will I blot out of my book g.

* Ezek. 18. 4.

† Or, doth ſin, to wit, preſumptuouſly, obſtinately, and impenitently. g Him will I cut off out of the land of the living, and eternally deprive of my favour and glory, and not thee who art innocent and righteous.

34 Therefore now, go, lead the people unto the place of which I have ſpoken unto thee. * Behold mine angel h ſhall go before thee. Nevertheleſs * in the day when I viſit, I will viſit their ſin upon them i.

* Chap. 33. 2.

* Deut 32. 35.

h Not Chriſt, the Angel of the Covenant, who had hitherto gone before them; but a created Angel, as appears by comparing this with Exod. 33. 2, 3, 12. Though Moſes obtained the revocation of this threatning, Exod. 33. 14, 17. i When I ſhall puniſh them for their other ſins, which I foreſee they will commit, I will remember and puniſh this alſo.

35 And the LORD plagued the people k, becauſe they made the calf which Aaron made l.

k This relates either to the deſtruction of 3000 of them by the Levites, or rather to the future Plagues, in which God alſo reckoned with them for this ſin. l They made it, becauſe they urged Aaron to make it, as Judas is ſaid to purchaſe the field, Act. 1. 18. which was purchaſed by his Money ; and Aaron made it, by giving command to make it. The Chaldee, Syriack, Arabick, and Samaritan, render the words thus, They worſhipped or ſacrificed to the calf which Aaron made. And the word which ſignifies to make, is oft uſed for worſhipping or ſacrificing, as Exod. 10. 25. Judg. 13. 15. 1 King. 18. 26.

So he ſhews that their perverſeneſs makes this ſeverity neceſſary for them, and that God even in his judgment remembers mercy to them.

4 ¶ And when the people heard theſe evil tidings, they mourned : and no man did put on him his ornaments c.

c Their precious Garments, or Jewels, which the Women reſerved, as we ſaw, ver. 3. This was a viſible ſign and profeſſion of their inward humiliation and repentance for their ſin, and of their deep ſenſe of God's diſpleaſure.

5 For the LORD had ſaid unto Moſes, Say unto the children of Iſrael, Ye are a ſtiff-necked people : I will come up into the midſt of thee d in a moment, and conſume thee e : therefore now put off thy ornaments from thee, that I may know what to do unto thee f.

6 And the children of Iſrael ſtript themſelves of their ornaments by the mount Horeb.

7 And Moſes took the tabernacle g, and pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp h, and called it the tabernable of the congregation i : and it came to paſs, that every one which ſought the LORD k, went out unto the tabernable of the congregation, which was without the camp.

g A Tent ſet up by Moſes for the People to meet in for ſacrifice and ſeeking of God, and other parts of God's Worſhip, until the great Tabernacle ſhould be finiſhed ; for ſuch a place was neceſſary, or highly expedient for that uſe, and therefore it is not probable they would be without it for a year's ſpace. h In teſtimony of God's alienation from them, and diſpleaſure againſt them, this being a kind of excommunication ; and all was too little to bring them to a thorough repentance. i It was ſo before, but he called it ſo now, to ſhew that God had not wholly forſaken them ; and that, if they truely repented, he ſtill permitted them to come into his preſence, and to ſeek the Lord. k Either for his favour, or for counſel and direction. See Exod. 18. 15, 19, 20.

8 And it came to paſs, when Moſes went out unto the tabernacle, that all the people roſe up, and ſtood every man at his tent door, and looked after Moſes l until he was gone into the tabernacle.

l Teſtifying their grief for God's departure, their reſpect to Moſes whom they had lately deſpiſed, their earneſt deſire of his interceſſion for them, their longing for God's favour, and their humble expectation of a gracious return from God by the hands of Moſes.

9 And it came to paſs as Moſes entred into the tabernacle, the cloudy pillar deſcended m, and ſtood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD talked with Moſes.

m Wherby God teſtified his approbation of Moſes, and of that which Moſes had done, which might ſeem to ſome ſevere and cruel.

10 And all the people ſaw the cloudy pillar ſtand at the tabernacle door, and all the people roſe up and worſhipped, every man in his tent door.

11 And * the LORD ſpake unto Moſes face to face n, as a man ſpeaketh to his friend. And he turned again into the camp ; but his ſervant Joſhua the ſon of Nun, a young man, departed not out of the tabernacle o.

* Gen. 30. N 12. 8.

n Or, mouth to mouth, as Numb. 12. 8. Not that God hath Face or Mouth, or that Moſes could behold it, which is denied, verſe 20. But the ſenſe is, He ſpake with him freely and familiarly, and immediately, not by an Angel in a dream or viſion, as he did to other Prophets. See Deut. 34. 10. o Who abode there either to keep it from injury or inconvenience ; for as it was ſet up by man's help, ſo it needed man's care to preſerve it ; or to aſſiſt and direct thoſe who reſorted thither to ſeek God in Moſes his abſence. And Joſhua ſeems to be appointed for this work rather than Aaron, or any other of the Elders, becauſe they had one way or other been guilty of the late Idolatry, and God would hereby puniſh them with a temporary ſuſpenſion from his ſervice, and their office.

12 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, See, thou ſayeſt unto me, Bring up this people, and thou haſt not let me know whom thou wilt ſend with me p. Yet thou haſt ſaid, I know thee by name q, and thou haſt alſo found grace in my ſight.

p (i. e.) What Angel it is, whether it be a created Angel ; for then I profeſs I am unſatisfied with him, verſe 15. or the ſame increated Angel Chriſt, who hath hitherto accompanied us, and then I am content. But I am at a great loſs by thy withdrawing thy cloudy Pillar from the people to whom it is to be a guide. q (i. e) Diſtinctly and familiarly, as one whom I have much converſe with, and great kindneſs for ; thy name is written in my Book. Compare Exod. 32. 32, 33. Pſal. 87. 5, 6. Phil. 4. 3. And knowing here notes approbation and affection, as Pſal. 1. 6. Matth. 7. 23. compare Jer. 1. 5.

13 Now therefore I pray thee, if I have found grace in thy ſight, ſhew me now thy way r, that I may know thee s, that I may find grace in thy ſight ; and conſider that this nation is thy people t.

See Deut. 4. 34. x Not only reſt from thy preſent anguiſh and perplexity of mind for thy people, but in due time I will bring them to their reſting place and ſettled habitation ; for it is evident from verſe 15, 16. that Moſes his care and prayer was more for the people than for himſelf.

15 And he ſaid unto him, If thy preſence go not with me, carry us not up hence y.

y Let us rather live and die in the Wilderneſs with thy preſence and favour, than go into Canaan without it ; for even that promiſe of reſt I value not without thy preſence. So he ecchoes back God's words to himſelf, and turns God's promiſe into a prayer.

16 For wherein ſhall it be known here z, that I and thy people have found grace in thy ſight ? Is it not in that thou goeſt with us ? ſo * ſhall we be ſeparated, I, and thy people, from all the people a that are upon the face of the earth.

c Or, My beauty ; for ſo that Hebrew word is ſometimes uſed, Gen. 6. 2. 1 Sam. 9. 2. or my excellency, or my glory, as appears from verſe 22. which was the thing Moſes deſired to ſee: And the difference between his requeſt and God's anſwer, doth not lye in glory and goodneſs, but in ſhewing his glory ſo as Moſes might gaze upon it, and making it only, as it follows, to paſs before him, to wit, in a ſudden and very tranſitory Viſion. Though it may be underſtood properly of God's goodneſs and kindneſs to men, of which the following words ſpeak, and that was the great, if not the only thing aſcribed to God, chap. 34. 6, 7. d (i e) My Name ; the Noun for the Pronoun, as is very frequent. I will give thee notice when I come, that thou mayſt attend ; I will not ſurprize thee, nor ſteal by thee. Or will proclaim, or publiſh of the name of the Lord, or of my name, i. e. ſome part of it, eſpecially my goodneſs, which may ſeem to be here principally intended, 1. By comparing this with chap. 34. 6, 7. 2. By the following words, which ſeem a limitation of this general expreſſion, q. d I will proclaim, manifeſt, and impart my goodneſs, but with a difference, not to all men, but to whom I pleaſe. 3. By other places, where the name of the Lord is principally, if not ſolely underſtood of his goodneſs, as Iſa. 50. 10. and in many places of the Pſalms. e This may ſeem to be added, with reference to the people for whom Moſes is interceding, leſt Moſes ſhould miſunderſtand or miſapply what is ſaid here, and chap. 34. 6, 7. The ſenſe is, I will ſhew this peculiar favour to thee, I will alſo be gracious towards the people thou pleadeſt for, but not promiſcuouſly. Some of them I will ſeverely and eternally puniſh for this and their other ſins ; and ſome of them I will pardon and ſave, not becauſe they are Righteous, or Innocent, or leſs Sinners than the reſt, but meerly out of my own good Pleaſure and moſt free Grace, whereby I will ſhew mercy to ſome, when I will not ſhew mercy to others. Thus this place is interpreted by the Apoſtle, Rom. 9. 16, &c.

20 And he ſaid, Thou canſt not ſee my face f: for
*Gen. 32. 30. Deut. 5. 24. Jud. 13. 22. Rev. 1. 16, 17. * there ſhall no man ſee me, and live g.

f Either 1. My eſſence. But that no man can ſee, neither in this life, nor in the next. Or rather 2. My glorious preſence. g This may note either 1. God's purpoſe that that bliſsful Viſion of God in Glory ſhall be given to no Man here, but is reſerved for the future life. Or rather 2. The impoſſibility of the thing from Man's weakneſs, which is ſuch, that if God ſhould diſplay all the Beams of his Glory to him, it would certainly aſtoniſh, overwhelm, and deſtroy him.

21 And the LORD ſaid, Behold, there is a place by me h, and thou ſhalt ſtand upon a rock.

h In this Mountain where my reſidence and glorious preſence now is, and in that part of it whence my Voice now cometh to thine Ears.

22 And it ſhall come to paſs, while my glory paſſeth by, that I will put thee in a clift of the rock, and will cover thee with my hand i while I paſs by.

i That thou mayſt not be undone by thy own deſires, nor ſwallowed up with the ſight of my glory.

23 And I will take away mine hand, and thou ſhalt ſee my back-parts k : but my face ſhall not be ſeen.

k (i. e.) Imperfectly and in part, as when we ſee only a Man's Back-parts and not his Face. Thou ſhalt ſee a ſhadow or obſcure delineation of my Glory, as much as thou canſt bear, though not as much as thou doſt deſire.

CHAP. XXXIV.

God commands Moſes to hew two tables of ſtone like the former, wherein he promiſes to write, 1. Moſes goes with theſe tables up to the mount, 4. God deſcends in a cloud, 5. He proclaims his name, 6, 7. Moſes worſhips, 8, 9. God making a covenant with the people, commands them not to make a covenant with their enemies, 10——12. Bids them beware of molten gods, 13——17. The feaſt of unleavened bread, 18. To reſt on the ſabbath-day, 19—21. Other laws, 22—26. Moſes wrote theſe words, 27. The time of Moſes's abode on the mount, 28. Moſes's face ſhining, 29. Is covered, 33. He acquaints the people with what the Lord told him, 31, 32.

*Deut. 10. 1. AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Hew thee two tables of ſtone a, like unto the firſt : and I will write upon theſe tables the words that were in the firſt tables b which thou brakeſt.

a The firſt Tables were made immediately by God, who of his own meer Grace and good Pleaſure, and without Man's merit or contrivance entred into Covenant with Abraham and his Seed. Theſe Tables muſt be made by Moſes, partly in token of God's diſpleaſure for their ſin, and partly to ſignify, that though the Covenant of Grace was firſt made without Man's care and counſel, yet it ſhould not be renewed but by Man's repentance. And as the Tables of Stone ſignified the hardneſs of their Hearts, ſo the hewing of them by Moſes might ſignify the circumciſion and plowing up of their Hearts, that they might be fit for the receiving of God's mercies, and the performance of their duties. b To ſhew God's reception of Iſrael into his favour, and their former ſtate, and that the Law and Covenant of God was neither aboliſhed, nor changed by their ſin.

2 And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and preſent thy ſelf
*Chap. 19. 20. there to me * in the top of the mount.

3 And no man ſhall * come up with thee, neither *Chap. 19. 12.
let any man be ſeen throughout all the mount, neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mount c.

c This is ſaid, not for the Beaſts, which are not capable of a Law, but to reſtrain the preſumption and curioſity of the people, by this argument, that even the Beaſts that come too near ſhall be deſtroyed, and much more Man, whoſe knowledge aggravates his ſin and puniſhment.

4 ¶ And he hewed two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt, and Moſes roſe up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, and took in his hand the two tables of ſtone.

5 And the LORD deſcended in the cloud d, and ſtood with him there e, and proclaimed the Name of the LORD.

d In the cloudy Pillar, which ordinarily ſtood up in the Air above the Mount, but came down to the top of it, when God ſpake with Moſes. See Exod. 33. 9 Numb. 11. 17, 25. e To wit, in the Mount, verſe 2, 4. and the clift of a Rock, chap. 33 22. which was in the Mount, and near the top of it, as appears by comparing theſe places together.

6 And the LORD paſſed by before him, and proclaimed, The LORD, The LORD God f, merciful, and gracious, long-ſuffering, and abundant in goodneſs and truth g, f This title ſhews his glorious Being, Power and Authority ; the following titles note his Goodneſs to Men. g In fulfilling all his gracious promiſes made to Abraham, and to his Seed, and to all his People ; wherein he is ſaid to be abundant, becauſe he generally is better than his word, and gives more than he promiſed. There is a truth in Divine Threatnings, but here the ſcituation of this word in the midſt of the Attributes of Divine Goodneſs plainly ſhews that it is to be reſtrained to the Promiſes ; this being uſual and reaſonable, that general words have their ſignification limited by the context. And indeed here ſeems to be a Hendyadis, goodneſs and truth, for true, ſincere and hearty goodneſs, as mercy and truth are oft put for true and real mercy. See Pſal. 25. 10. and 57. 3, &c.

7 Keeping mercy for thouſands h, forgiving iniquity, and tranſgreſſion, and ſin i, and * that will by no *Deut. 5.

fathers upon the children, and upon the childrens chil- 18 dren, unto the third and to the fourth generation. *Chap. 33. 7, 21 Joſh. 24 19 Job 10. 14. Nah. 1. 3.

h The Chaldee, and ſome others render it for a thouſand generations. i Sins of all ſorts and ſizes, ſecret or open, infirmities or preſumptions, againſt God or Men, as the heap of various words here put together ſignifies. k This is commonly eſteemed a title of Juſtice or Vengeance, which is here added by way of correction, leſt Men ſhould miſtake or abuſe God's mercy. God is moſt gracious indeed, but ſo as he is alſo juſt, and will not pity nor ſpare impudent and impenitent Tranſgreſſors , but will ſeverely puniſh them. And the Jewiſh Doctors hereupon obſerve, that the Mercy of God doth far exceed his Juſtice ; here being, as they number them, thirteen Attributes of Mercy, and but one of Juſtice. But this Tranſlation and Interpretation is rejected by ſome late learned Interpreters, who make this an Attribute of God's Goodneſs or Clemency, and render the words thus, In deſtroying he will not utterly deſtroy, though viſiting, &c. q. d. He is ſo gracious, that though he will ſeverely puniſh the Iniquity of the Fathers, and eſpecially their Idolatry, upon themſelves, and upon their Children, &c. as he hath ſaid Exod. 20. 5. yet in Judgement he will remember Mercy, and will not utterly deſtroy his people for their ſins. There are many things which favour this Interpretation. 1. This ſuits moſt with Moſes his Solicitude and Prayer for the People of Iſrael, which was, that God would not utterly deſtroy them, as he threatned to do. 2. This ſenſe beſt agrees with God's Promiſe, chap. 33. 19. I will make all my goodneſs to paſs before thee ; which general Promiſe is particularly explained and performed in theſe two verſes. 3. This place doth not ſpeak of God's diſpoſition and carriage towards his Enemies, againſt whom he proceeds with great ſeverity, and commands the Iſraelites to do ſo in the verſes here following ; but towards his People, whoſe cauſe Moſes is all along pleading with God. See chap. 32. 11, 12, 13, 31, 32. and 33. 13, 15. and 34. 9. 4. The Hebrew Verb here uſed frequently, ſignifies to make empty or deſolate, to empty Men of their Goods, or Places of Men. See Iſa. 3. 26. Amos 4. 6. So here he will not utterly empty or deſtroy: Though he will leave the marks of his Vengeance for this Sin upon thy People, even to their third and fourth Generation ; or if it may be further, yet he will not utterly root them out, which is the great thing thou feareſt and laboureſt to prevent. And this very phraſe here uſed, we have in Jer. 30. 11. and repeated Jer. 46. 28. where though Interpreters generally render it, I will not leave thee altogether unpuniſhed, which may make a good ſenſe, yet it ſeems much better to be rendred, I will not utterly deſtroy thee. (1.) Becauſe hereby theſe words exactly anſwer to the foregoing clauſe, yet will I not make a full end of thee, and ſo the ſame thing is elegantly repeated in other words, which is very frequent in Scripture. (2.) Becauſe here is an oppoſition between the ſeverity God uſeth to other People, and the kindneſs he uſeth to his own People, which is manifeſt in the former member of the verſe, and therefore moſt probable and agreeable in this. 5. This is much confirmed from Numb. 14. 18. where Moſes, pleading with God for the Pardon of his People's Sin, uſeth this very Phraſe and Argument, as taken out of God's Mouth, which in this ſenſe is very proper and prevalent, Thou haſt ſaid, that even when thou doſt viſit Iniquity, &c. thou wilt not utterly deſtroy them. And God anſwers him, verſe 20. I have pardoned according to thy word, i. e. ſo as not utterly to deſtroy them. But truly as I live, &c verſe 21, 22, 23. i. e. But I will ſeverely puniſh them. But if this had been the meaning, Lord thou haſt ſaid,—— thou wilt by no means clear the guilty, as we render it, it was a moſt improper Argument, and put a Sword into the Lord's Hand to ſlay them even by vertue of this conſideration.

8 And Moſes made haſte, and bowed his head toward the earth, and worſhipped.

9 And he ſaid, If now I have found grace in thy ſight, O LORD, let my LORD, I pray thee, go amongſt us, (for it is a ſtiff-necked people l,) and pardon our iniquity, and our ſin, and take us for thine inheritance m.

l And therefore need thy glorious and powerful Preſence to rule them. Or rather, though it be a ſtiff-necked people, as thou ſaiſt, yet forſake them not. The Hebrew Particle, chi, oft ſignifies though, as Exod. 5. 11. Iſa. 54. 6. m (i. e.) Deal with us as Men do with their Inheritances, dwell among us, protect us, improve us.

* Deut. 5. 2.

10 ¶ And he ſaid, Behold, * I make a covenant n: before all thy people I will do marvels, ſuch as have not been done in all the earth, nor in any nation: and all the people amongſt which thou art, ſhall ſee the work of the LORD: for it is a terrible thing that I will do with thee o.

n (i. e.) I do hereby renew my Covenant with thy People which they had violated and voided by their ſin. But the ſhortneſs of the Phraſe, there being no mention here of any with whom this Covenant is made or renewed, and the following words, make it more probable, that this Covenant is nothing but a ſolemn promiſe or engagement that God will do the thing which here follows. And the word covenant is oft uſed for a meer promiſe, as Gen. 9. 9, &c. Lev. 24 8. Numb. 18. 19. and 25. 12. o Either 1. By thy Miniſtery, as that phraſe is ſometimes uſed, as 1 Cor. 15. 10. Or 2. In the midſt of thee, i. e. of thy People, as ver. 11. before the, i. e. before thy People. This I prefer, becauſe the next Verſe explains this of ſuch things as were not done by Moſes his Miniſtery, nor in his time, but afterwards.

11 Obſerve thou that which I command thee this day. Behold, I drive out before thee the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebuſite.

27 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Write thou theſe words h: for after the tenour of theſe words I have made a covenant with thee, and with Iſrael.

h Object. God ſaith I will write, verſe 1. Anſw. 1. Moſes was to write the ritual Precepts mentioned here above, God wrote the Moral Law. 2. Moſes wrote what he wrote in a Book. See Exod. 24. 7. but what was written upon the Tables of Stone, was written by God himſelf, not by Moſes, who had no graving Inſtruments with him in the Mount, and could not without them write upon the Stone.

* Chap. 18. and 34. 1. Deut. 13. † Heb. words.

28 And he was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights i: he did neither eat bread, nor drink water: and he * wrote k upon the tables the words of the covenant, the Ten † Commandments.

i As he had been before, being now to renew the broken Covenant. This forty days faſt of his is mentioned four times, Exod. 24. 18. and here, and Deut. 9. 18. and 10. 10. but it is evident it was performed but twice, as the occaſion of it happened only twice. k Not Moſes, but the Lord, as appears from verſe 1. and from Deut. 10. the relative Pronoun being here referred to the remoter antecedent, of which there are many inſtances, as Gen. 10. 12. 1 Sam. 21. 14. and 27. 8. Pſal. 99. 6.

29 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Moſes came down from mount Sinai, (with the two tables of teſtimony in Moſes hand, when he came down from the mount) that Moſes wiſt not that the skin of his face ſhone l, while he talked with him.

Becauſe now he obtained what he did not before, to wit, a glimpſe of the Divine glory, which though but very tranſient, left its print upon his face. 2. Now it was more neceſſary than before, to procure the greater honour to Moſes, and to the Law, 2 Cor. 3. 7, 8, 11. becauſe of the late horrid violation and contempt of them, which the Iſraelites had fallen into.

30 And when Aaron and all the children of Iſrael ſaw Moſes, behold, the skin of his face ſhone, and they were afraid to come nigh him.

34 But when Moſes went in before the LORD to ſpeak with him, he took the vail off, until he came out: and he came out and ſpake unto the children of Iſrael that which he was commanded.

35 And the children of Iſrael ſaw the face of Moſes, that the skin of Moſes face ſhone: and Moſes put the vail upon his face again, until he went in to ſpeak with him.

CHAP. XXXV.

The command to obſerve the Sabbath, 1——3. and to bring a free-will offering to the Lord, 5. The furniture of the Tabernacle, 6——19. Men and women bring their jewels for the ſame, 20—24. Underſtanding women ſpin, 25, 26. The chief of the people bring in precious ſtones, and ſpices, 27—29. God endues Bezaleel and Aholiab with a ſpirit of wiſdom for this work, 30—35.

AND Moſes gathered all the congregation of the children of Iſrael together, and ſaid unto them, Theſe are the words which the LORD hath commanded that ye ſhould do them.

2 * Six days ſhall work be done, but on the ſeventh day there ſhall be to you an † holy day, a ſabbath of reſt to the LORD a: whoſoever doth work therein ſhall be put to death.

*Chap. 20. 9. Lev. 23. 3. Deut. 5. 12. Luke 13. 14. † Heb. Holineſs.

a This Command of the Sabbath is repeated here, as alſo Exod. 31. 13. together with the Inſtructions for the building of the Tabernacle, and its Utenſils, to ſhew that they were made for no other uſe than the Service of God, which was to be performed as every day, ſo in an eminent and peculiar manner upon the Sabbath-day, and to teach them the abſolute neceſſity of minding that Precept in and above all their Ceremonial Obſervations.

3 Ye ſhall kindle no fire b throughout your habitations upon the ſabbath-day.

b This Command ſeems to be only temporary and extraordinary during the preſent ſeaſon and condition, and not extending to ſucceeding Generations. For 1. There are inſtances of temporary Precepts both in the Old and New Teſtament, which yet are not in their places ſaid to be ſo. Such were ſome of the Precepts concerning the Paſſeover, Exod. 12. 11. as is confeſſed. And ſuch was that Law of abſtaining from things ſtrangled, and Blood, Act. 15. 2. This Precept is nakedly propoſed, and not called a perpetual ſtatute, nor enjoined to be obſerved in their Generations, as other Precepts are, to whom thoſe, or ſome like Clauſes, are frequently added. 3. The Sabbath is rather a Feaſt-day than a Faſt-day. And the Jews did make Feaſts and invited Gueſts upon the Sabbath-day, which could not probably be without kindling a fire. And, which is more conſiderable, Chriſt himſelf, who fulfilled all Righteouſneſs, and therefore would not have joined in the violation of the Sabbath, went to one of thoſe Feaſts, Luke 14. And the Corinthians, as they received the Lord's Supper upon that day, which none queſtion, ſo they had their Feaſts, as is confeſſed and apparent from 1 Cor. 11. 21, 22, &c. 4. The kindling of a fire was no greater hinderance to the religious obſervation of the Sabbath, than other things which were allowed upon that day, ſuch as the waſhing and dreſſing of themſelves, eating and drinking, &c. 5. This prohibition doth not ſeem to concern the dreſſing of meat, as many underſtand it, by comparing this with Exod. 16. 23. (which place I humbly conceive is miſunderſtood, as I have there intimated, for that was lawful to be done upon their moſt ſolemn days, Exod. 12. 16.) but the ſervice of the Tabernacle, which is the ſubject of this Chapter, and the occaſion of theſe words; and the ſenſe ſeems to be this, You ſhall kindle no fire for any handy-work throughout your habitation; no not for the ſervice of this Tabernacle, for the heating of any Tools, or the melting of any Metals, or other things belonging to it, which being to be made for God's ſervice, and deſerving and requiring all expedition, they might probably conceive that ſuch work might be done upon that day. And here alſo, as oft elſewhere, under one kind, all the reſt are comprehended and forbidden.

4 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the thing which the LORD commanded, ſaying,

5 Take ye from amongſt you an offering unto the LORD: * whoſoever is of a willing heart c, let him bring it; an offering of the LORD, gold, and ſilver, and braſs,

*Chap. 25. 2.

c For God values not forced or grudged Services, 2 Cor. 9. 7.

6 And blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linnen, and goats hair,

7 And rams skins died red, and badgers skins, and ſhittim-wood,

8 And oil for the light, and ſpices for anointing oil, and for the ſweet incenſe,

9 And onyx ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet for the ephod, and for the breaſt-plate.

10 And * every wiſe-hearted d among you ſhall come, and make all that the LORD hath commanded.

*Chap. 31. 6.

d (i. e.) Skilful Artiſt; for tho God had preſcribed the things, yet it required wiſdom and skill to execute what God commanded.

11 * The tabernacle e, his tent f, and his covering g, his taches, and his boards, his bars, his pillars, and his ſockets:

*Chap. 26. 1, &c.

e (i. e.) The Boards or ſtructure of the Tabernacle, as it appears, becauſe it is diſtinguiſhed here from its Tent and Curtains; whereas elſewhere the Tabernacle is put for all together. f The inward and finer Curtains which covered the Boards of it. g The outward and courſer coverings.

12 The ark, and the ſtaves thereof, with the mercy-ſeat, and the vail of the covering h.

h (i. e.) Which was hanged before the Ark and Mercy-ſeat.

13 The table, and his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, and the ſhew-bread i:

i But neither did God preſcribe the making of the Shew-bread amongſt the other Utenſils, Exod. 25. nor was this made by the Workmen here ſpoken of, but by others. How then comes this to be mentioned here? Anſw. 1. The ſhew bread may be here put for the Veſſels for the receiving the Shew-bread, by an uſual Metonymy of the adjunct, the thing contained put for the thing containing; as treaſures are put for the place where the Treaſures are put, Pſal. 135. 7. Matth. 2. 11 and 12. 35. and the gifts or offerings of God, for the Treaſury where they were put, Luke 21. 4. Hence Tremellius renders this place, and the Veſſels of the ſhew-bread. Obj. All the veſſels of the Table are mentioned before, of which this was one. Anſ. It is not unuſual after a general expreſſion comprehending all diſtinctly, to name one eminent member of that kind, ſuch as this unqueſtionably was, the Table being made principally for this uſe. Thus Mark 16. 7. Tell my diſciples and Peter. Like Examples are in 2 Sam. 2. 30. 1 King. 11. 1. Pſal. 18. the Title. Acts 11. 4. and in other Authors. And for the Particle Vau, and, which may ſeem to imply that theſe were things of another kind, and not any Veſſels of the Table, that is oft put for eſpecially, as Joſ. 2. 1. Mark 16. 7. and ſo only notes an eminent thing of the ſame kind, as hath been ſaid. Anſ. 2. Tho God did not preſcribe the making of the Shew-bread, yet he mentions it, together with the Table, Exod. 25. 30. and therefore it is conveniently mentioned with the Table in this place alſo, where Moſes to ſhew his exactneſs and fidelity, doth punctually repeat the ſame things to the People which he had received in command from God. In like manner the Oil, which fed the light of the Lamps, is mentioned here in the next Verſe, becauſe the lighting of the lamps was preſcribed, Exod. 25. 37.

14 The candleſtick alſo for the light, and his furniture, and his lamps, with the oil for the light,

15 * And the incenſe altar, and his ſtaves, and the anointing oil, and the ſweet incenſe, and the hanging for the door at the entring in of the tabernacle;

*Chap. 30. 1.

16 * The altar of burnt-offering, with his brazen grate, his ſtaves, and all his veſſels; the laver and his foot;

*Chap. 27. 1.

17 The hangings of the court, his pillars, and their ſockets, and the hanging for the door of the court;

18 The pins of the tabernacle, and the pins of the court, and their cords;

19 The clothes of ſervice, to do ſervice in the holy place, the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and the garments of his ſons to miniſter in the prieſts office.

20 ¶ And all the congregation of the children of Iſrael departed from the preſence of Moſes.

21 And they came every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up k, and every one whom his ſpirit made willing, and they brought the LORDS offering to the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all his ſervice, and for the holy garments.

k (i. e.) Whoſe Heart being deſirous and ready to ſerve God, ingaged his Hand to offer what he had to his ſervice.

22 And they came both men and women, as many as were willing-hearted, and brought bracelets, and ear-rings l, and rings, and tablets, all jewels of gold: and every man that offered, offered an offering of gold unto the LORD.

l Obj. Aaron had got theſe from them for the making of the Calf, Exod. 32. Anſw. Though the generality of the People did then part with their Ear-rings, yet there was a conſiderable number who did not, as being unſatisfied with that Idolatrous deſign; and it may ſeem that the Women would not part with theirs, being more fond of their Ornaments than of their Idols. See the notes on Exod. 32. 3.

23 And every man with whom was found blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goats hair, and red skins of rams, and badgers skins, brought them.

24 Every one that did offer an offering of ſilver and braſs, brought the LORDS offering: and every man with whom was found ſhittim-wood for any work of the ſervice, brought it.

25 And all the women that were wiſe-hearted, did ſpin with their hands, and brought that which they had ſpun, both of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, and of fine linen.

26 And all the women whoſe heart ſtirred them up in wiſdom m, ſpun goats hair.

m This word ſeems better to agree with the following than with the foregoing word, they ſpun with wiſdom, i. e. with skill and art.

27 And the rulers brought onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet for the ephod, and for the breaſt-plate, 28 And * ſpice, and oil for the light, and for the anointing oil, and for the ſweet incenſe.

*Chap. 30. 23.

29 The children of Iſrael brought a willing offering unto the LORD, every man and woman whoſe heart made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the LORD had commanded to be made, by the hand of Moſes.

*Chap. 31. 2.

30 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, See, * the LORD hath called by name Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah.

31 And he hath filled him with the ſpirit of God, in wiſdom, in underſtanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanſhip,

32 And to deviſe curious works, to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs;

33 And in the cutting of ſtones, to ſet them, and in carving of wood, to make any manner of cunning work.

34 And he hath put in his heart, that he may teach n, both he, and Aholiab the ſon of Ahiſamach of the tribe of Dan.

n To wit, others to work under him; for the work required many hands; and it is a peculiar gift of God to be apt to teach, which every skilful Man hath not.

35 Them hath he filled with wiſdom of heart, to work all manner of work of the ingraver, and of the cunning workman, and of the embroiderer, in blue, and in purple, in ſcarlet, and in fine linen, and of the weaver, even of them that do any work, and of thoſe that deviſe cunning work.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Moſes committeth the work to Bezaleel and Aholiab, 1—4. The liberality of the people is forbid, 5, 6. The curtains of cherubims, 8—13. The curtains of goats-hair, &c. all belonging to the tabernacle, 13—17.

THen wrought Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe-hearted man, in whom the LORD put wiſdom and underſtanding to know how to work all manner of work for the ſervice of the ſanctuary a, according to all that the LORD had commanded.

a Or, Of the holy place, to wit, of the Tabernacle, ſo called by a Prolepſis, and Synecdoche.

2 And Moſes called b Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe-hearted man, in whoſe heart the LORD had put wiſdom, even every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up to come unto the work to do it.

b God had qualified them before, but that is not ſufficient without a call.

3 And they received of Moſes all the offering which the children of Iſrael had brought for the work of the ſervice of the ſanctuary, to make it withal. And they brought yet unto him free-offerings every morning c.

c Which time they choſe as the firſt and beſt part of the day, and therefore fitteſt for God's ſervice.

4 And all the wiſe-men that wrought all the work of the ſanctuary, came every man from his work which they made.

5 And they ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, The people bring much more than enough for the ſervice of the work which the LORD hath commanded to make.

6 And Moſes gave commandment, and they cauſed it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, ſaying, Let neither man nor woman d make any more work for the offering of the ſanctuary: ſo the people were reſtrained from bringing.

d For the Women did part of this work as well as the Men. See Exod. 35. 25.

7 For the ſtuff they had was ſufficient for all the work to make it, and too much.

*Chap. 26 3, 4.

8 ¶ And every wiſe-hearted man among them that wrought the work of the tabernacle, * made ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet: with cherubims of cunning work made he them.

9 The length of one curtain was twenty and eight cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: the curtains were all of one ſize.

10 And he coupled the five curtains one unto another: and the other five curtains he coupled one unto another.

11 And he made loops of blue on the edge of one curtain from the ſelvedge in the coupling: likewiſe he made in the uttermoſt ſide of another curtain in the coupling of the ſecond.

*Chap. 26. 10.

12 * Fifty loops made he in one curtain; and fifty loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the ſecond: the loops held one to another.

13 And he made fifty taches of gold, and coupled the curtains one unto another with the taches. So it became one tabernacle.

14 And he made curtains of goats hair, for the tent over the tabernacle e: eleven curtains he made them.

e (i. e.) For the outward covering of the Tabernacle. See Exod. 35. 11.

15 The length of one curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were of one ſize.

16 And he coupled five curtains by themſelves, and ſix curtains by themſelves.

17 And he made fifty loops upon the uttermoſt edge of the curtain in the coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain which coupleth the ſecond.

18 And he made fifty taches of braſs to couple the tent together that it might be one.

19 And he made a covering for the tent, of rams skins died red, and a covering of badgers skins above that.

20 ¶ And he made boards for the tabernacle, of ſhittim-wood, ſtanding up.

21 The length of a board was ten cubits, and the breadth of a board one cubit and an half.

22 One board had two tenons, equally diſtant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

23 And he made boards for the tabernacle: twenty boards for the ſouth-ſide, ſouthward.

24 And fourty ſockets of ſilver he made under the twenty boards: two ſockets under one board for his two tenons, and two ſockets under another board for his two tenons.

25 And for the other ſide of the tabernacle, which is toward the north corner, he made twenty boards, 26 And their fourty ſockets of ſilver: two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board.

27 And for the ſides of the tabernacle weſt-ward, he made ſix boards.

28 And two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the two ſides.

34 And he overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

3 And he caſt for it four rings of gold, to be ſet by the four corners of it: even two rings upon the one ſide of it, and two rings upon the other ſide of it.

4 And he made ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold.

5 And he put the ſtaves into the rings, by the ſides of the ark, to bear the ark.

*Chap. 25. 17. 6 ¶ And he made the * mercy-ſeat of pure gold: two cubits and an half was the length thereof, and one cubit and an half the breadth thereof.

17 And the ſockets for the pillars were of braſs, the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets of ſilver, and the overlaying of the chapiters of ſilver, and all the pillars of the court were filletted with ſilver.

18 And the hanging for the gate of the court was needle-work, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen: and twenty cubits was the length, and the height in the breadth d was five cubits anſwerable to the hangings of the court.

d The height relates to its ſtanding or hanging upright, and the breadth relates to the hanging it ſelf, and the height of the hanging was taken in the breadth.

19 And their pillars were four, and their ſockets of braſs four, their hooks of ſilver, and the overlaying of their chapiters, and their fillets of ſilver.

20 And all the * pins of the tabernacle, and of the court round about were of braſs. *Chap. 27. 19.

21 ¶ This is the ſum of the tabernacle e, even of the tabernacle of teſtimony, as it was counted, according to the commandment of Moſes, for the ſervice of the Levites f, by the hand of Ithamar ſon to Aaron the prieſt.

e This doth not belong to the following account of Gold and Silver, but to the foregoing particulars of holy things relating to the Tabernacle, for theſe only were committed to the care of the Levites, as it here follows, but this Gold and Silver was put into other hands. f (i. e.) For thoſe holy uſes and ſervices which the Levites adminiſtred.

22 And Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the Tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

23 And with him was Aholiab, ſon of Ahiſamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver and a cunning workman, and an embroiderer in blue, and in purple, and in ſcarlet, and fine linen.

24 All the gold that was occupied for the work, in all the work of the holy place, even the gold of the offering, was twenty and nine talents g, and ſeven hundred and thirty ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

g Every Talent contained three thouſand Shekels. See Gen. 23. 15. Exod. 30. 13. It is not ſaid, that all this Gold and following Silver were uſed about the building of the Tabernacle, for the people brought much more than enough, Exod. 36. 5. And theſe remains, it is probable, were put into the ſacred Treaſury, to be uſed as occaſion ſhould require.

25 And the ſilver of them that were numbred of the congregation was an hundred talents, and a thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore and fifteen ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

*Chap. 30. 15. † Heb. a poll. * Num. 1. 46. 26 A * Bekah † for every man, that is, half a ſhekel, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, for every one that went to be numbred, from twenty years old and upward, for * ſix hundred thouſand, and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty men.

*Chap. 26. 19, 21, 25, 32. 27 And of the hundred talents of ſilver were caſt the * ſockets of the ſanctuary, and the ſockets of the vail; an hundred ſockets of the hundred talents, a talent for a ſocket.

28 And of the thouſand ſeven hundred ſeventy and five ſhekels, he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their chapiters, and filletted them.

29 And the braſs of the offering was ſeventy talents, and two thouſand and four hundred ſhekels.

30 And therewith he made the ſockets to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the brazen altar, and the brazen grate for it, and all the veſſels of the altar.

31 And the ſockets of the court round about, and the ſockets of the court-gate, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

CHAP. XXXIX.

The holy garments, 1. The Ephod, 2——7. The breaſt-plate, with 12 ſtones therein, 8——14. The robe of the Ephod, 22——26. The coats, mitre, and girdle, of fine linen, 27——29. The plate of the holy crown, 30, 31. All is viewed and approved by Moſes, 32——43.

AND of the blue, and purple, and ſcarlet they made clothes of ſervice, to do ſervice in the holy place, and * made the holy garments for Aaron, as the LORD commanded Moſes. *Chap. 31. 10. and 35. 19.

2 And he made the ephod of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen.

3 And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wiers, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the ſcarlet, and in the fine linen with cunning work.

4 They made ſhoulder pieces for it, to couple it together: by the two edges was it coupled together.

5 And the curious girdle of his ephod that was upon it was of the ſame, according to the work thereof, of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

*Chap. 28. 9. 6 ¶ * And they wrought onyx-ſtones incloſed in ouches of gold, graven as ſignets are graven, with the names of the children of Iſrael.

*Chap. 28. 12. 7 And he put them on the ſhoulders of the Ephod, that they ſhould be ſtones for a * memorial to the children of Iſrael, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

8 ¶ And he made the breaſt-plate of cunning work like the work of the ephod, of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen.

9 It was fourſquare, they made the breaſt-plate double: a ſpan was the length thereof, and a ſpan the breadth thereof being doubled.

10 And they ſet in it four rows of ſtones: the first row was a † Sardius, a Topaz, and a Carbuncle: this was the firſt row.

11 And the ſecond row an Emeraud, a Saphir, and a Diamond.

12 And the third row a Ligure, an Agate, and an Amethyſt.

13 And the fourth row a Beryl, an Onyx, and a Jaſper: they were incloſed in ouches of gold in their incloſings.

14 And the ſtones were according to the names of the children of Iſrael, twelve according to their names, like the ingravings of a ſignet, every one with his name according to the twelve Tribes.

15 And they made upon the Breaſt-plate chains at the ends, of wreathen work of pure gold.

16 And they made two ouches of gold, and two gold rings: and put the two rings in the two ends of the breaſt-plate.

17 And they put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breaſt-plate.

18 And the two ends of the two wreathed chains they faſtned in the two ouches, and put them on the ſhoulder-pieces of the Ephod before it.

19 And they made two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breaſt-plate upon the border of it, which was on the ſide of the Ephod inward.

20 And they made two other golden rings, and put them on the two ſides of the Ephod underneath, toward the fore-part of it, over-againſt the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the Ephod.

21 And they did bind the breaſt-plate by his rings unto the rings of the Ephod with a lace of blue, that it might be above the curious girdle of the Ephod, and that the breaſt-plate might not be looſed from the Ephod, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

22 ¶ And he made the robe of the Ephod of woven work, all of blue.

23 And there was a hole in the midſt of the robe, as the hole of an habergeon, with a band round about the hole, that it ſhould not rent.

24 And they made upon the hems of the robe, pomegranates of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and twined linen.

25 And they made * bells of pure gold, and put the bells between the pomegranates, upon the hem of the robe, round about between the pomegranates.

26 A bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate round about the hem of the robe to miniſter in, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

27 ¶ And they made coats of fine linen of woven work, for Aaron, and for his ſons,

28 And a mitre of fine linen, and goodly bonnets of fine linen, and * linen breeches of fine twined linen,

29 And a girdle of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet of needle-work; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

30 ¶ And they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote upon it a writing, like to the ingravings of a ſignet, * HOLINESS TO THE LORD.

31 And they tied unto it a lace of blue, to faſten it on high upon the mitre, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

32 Thus was all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation finiſhed: and the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did they.

33 ¶ And they brought the tabernacle unto Moſes, the tent, and all his furniture, his taches, his boards, his bars, and his pillars, and his ſockets,

34 And the covering of rams-skins died red, and the covering of badgers skins, and the vail of the covering,

35 The ark of the teſtimony, and the ſtaves thereof, and the mercy-ſeat,

36 The table and all the veſſels thereof, and the ſhew-bread,

37 The pure candleſtick, with the lamps thereof, even with the lamps to be ſet in order, and all the veſſels thereof, and the oyl for light,

38 And the golden altar, and the anointing oyl, and † the ſweet incenſe, and the hanging for the tabernacle-door,

39 The brazen altar, and his grate of braſs, his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, the laver, and his feet,

40 The hangings of the court, his pillars, and his ſockets, and the hanging for the court-gate, his cords, and his pins, and all the veſſels of the ſervice of the tabernacle, for the tent of the congregation.

41 The cloaths of ſervice to do ſervice in the holy place, and the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and his ſons garments to miniſter in the prieſts office.

42 According to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo the children of Iſrael made all the work.

43 And Moſes did look upon all the work, and behold, they had done it as the LORD had commanded, even ſo had they done it: and Moſes bleſſed them a.

a (i. e.) Both the People for their liberal Contribution, and the Workmen for their great Care and Induſtry.

CHAP. XL.

The tabernacle is commanded to be reared, 1——8. and anointed, 9—12. Aaron and his ſons ſanctified, 14, 15. Moſes performeth all things accordingly, 16——33. A cloud covered the tabernacle, 34—38.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 On the firſt day of the firſt month a ſhalt thou ſet up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

a To wit, of the ſecond Year after their coming out of Egypt, as is evident.

3 And thou ſhalt put therein the ark of the teſtimony, and cover the ark with the vail.

4 And * thou ſhalt bring in the table, and ſet in order † the things that are to be ſet in order upon it b, and thou ſhalt bring in the candleſtick, and light the lamps thereof.

*Chap. 26. 35.
†Heb. the order thereof.

b The Veſſels belonging to it, and the Shew-bread, Exod. 25. 29, 30.

5 And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of gold for the incenſe before the ark of the teſtimony, and put the hanging of the door to the tabernacle.

6 And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of the burnt-offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent c of the congregation.

c (i. e.) The Tabernacle which is covered with a Tent. See Exod. 35. 11. Though elſewhere the words tabernacle and tent are promiſcuouſly uſed.

7 And * thou ſhalt ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and ſhalt put water therein.

*Chap. 30. 18.

8 And thou ſhalt ſet up the court round about, and hang up the hanging at the court-gate.

9 And thou ſhalt take the anointing oil, and * anoint the tabernacle, and all that is therein, and ſhalt hallow it, and all the veſſels thereof: and it ſhall be holy.

*Chap. 30. 26.

10 And thou ſhalt anoint the altar of the burnt-offering, and all his veſſels, and ſanctiſie the altar: and * it ſhall be an altar † moſt holy.

*Chap. 29. 37.
†Heb. holineſs of holineſſes.

11 And thou ſhalt anoint the laver and his foot, and ſanctiſie it.

12 And thou ſhalt bring Aaron and his ſons unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and waſh them with water.

13 And thou ſhalt put upon Aaron the holy garments, and anoint him, and ſanctiſie him, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office.

14 And thou ſhalt bring his ſons, and cloath them with coats.

15 And thou ſhalt anoint them, as thou didſt anoint their father, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office: for their anointing ſhall ſurely be an everlaſting prieſthood d, throughout their generations.

d (i. e.) A Sign or Seal that their Prieſthood ſhall continue as long as their Polity laſts, till the coming of the Meſſias. He ſignifies that this Unction ſhould be ſufficient for all ſucceeding Prieſts, they ſhould not need to be anointed again, except the ſucceſſive High-prieſts. See Exod. 29. 7, 29. Levit. 4. 3. and 16. 32. and 21. 10.

16 Thus did Moſes: according to all that the LORD commanded him, ſo did he.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs in the firſt month, in the ſecond year e, on the firſt day of the month, that the tabernacle was reared up.

e After their coming out of Egypt, Numb. 7. 1.

18 And Moſes reared up the tabernacle, and faſtned his ſockets, and ſet up the boards thereof, and put in the bars thereof, and reared up his pillars.

19 And he ſpread abroad the tent over the tabernacle, and put the covering of the tent above upon it, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

20 ¶ And he took and put * the teſtimony into the ark, and ſet the ſtaves on the ark, and put the mercy-ſeat above upon the ark.

*Chap. 25. 16.

21 And he brought the ark into the tabernacle, and * ſet up the vail of the covering, and covered the ark of the teſtimony, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

*Chap. 35. 12.

22 ¶ And he put the table in the tent of the congregation upon the ſide of the tabernacle, northward without the vail.

23 And he ſet the bread in order upon it before the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moſes.

24 ¶ And he put the candleſtick in the tent of the congregation, over againſt the table, on the ſide of the tabernacle ſouthward.

25 And he lighted the lamps before the LORD; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

26 ¶ And he put the golden altar in the tent of the congregation before the vail.

27 And he burnt ſweet incenſe thereon; as the LORD commanded Moſes f.

f This is wiſely and ſeaſonably added, becauſe this was a work peculiar to the Prieſt, and not to be done by Moſes without God's expreſs command.

28 ¶ And he ſet up the hanging at the door of the tabernacle.

29 And he put the altar of burnt-offering by the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation, and offered upon it the burnt-offering, and the meat-offering g; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

g For the Conſecration of the Altar, this being the firſt Sacrifice.

30 ¶ And he ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and put water there, to waſh withal.

31 And Moſes, and Aaron and his ſons, waſhed their hands and their feet thereat.

32 When they went into the tent of the congregation, and when they came near unto the altar, they waſhed; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

33 And he reared up the court round about the tabernacle, and the altar, and ſet up the hanging of the court-gate, ſo Moſes finiſhed the work.

34 * Then a cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the glory of the LORD h filled the tabernacle.

*Lev. 16. 2. Numb. 9. 15. 1 Kings 8. 10. Iſa. 6. 4. Rev. 15. 8.

h (i. e.) The glorious Preſence of God, which having been forfeited and loſt, was now returned to them, and took its Habitation among them.

35 And Moſes was not able to enter into the tent i of the congregation, becauſe the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

i Partly becauſe of the extraordinary thickneſs and brightneſs of the Cloud, which both dazzled his Eyes and ſtruck him with Horrour, as 1 Kings 8. 11. and partly becauſe of his great Reverence and Dread of that eminent and glorious Appearance of God, and partly becauſe he was not called to it, as he was not able to go up into the Mount till he was called, Exod. 24. 16.

36 And when the cloud was taken up from over the tabernacle, the children of Iſrael † went onward in all their journeys.

†Heb. journeyed.

37 But if the cloud were not taken up, then they journeyed not, till the day that it was taken up.

38 For the cloud of the LORD was upon the tabernacle by day, and fire k was on it by night, in the ſight of all the houſe of Iſrael, throughout all their journeys.

k The ſame Pillar which in the day-time was like a Cloud, in the night-time had the appearance of Fire. See Exod. 13. 21.

Annotations on LEVITICUS.

The ARGUMENT.

THis Book, containing the Actions of about one Months ſpace, acquainteth us with the Levitical Ceremonies uſed after the Tabernacle was erected, and anointed in the Wilderneſs, and is therefore called Leviticus: It treats of Laws concerning perſons, and things, clean and unclean, by infirmity, or accident; as alſo purifyings in general once a Year, and divers particular cleanſings, with a brief repetition of divers Laws, Chap. 19. together with certain Feaſts, of ſeven Years reſt, of the Jubilee, and the redemption of things conſecrated to God, &c. but eſpecially of ſuch Ceremonies as were uſed about Offerings and Sacrifices, which were both expiatory for Treſpaſſes wittingly or unwittingly committed, whether by the People or the Prieſts; and alſo Euchariſtical, in the owning of God's Bleſſings. Here are declared alſo Laws for the regulating of theſe, and preſcribing the lawful time for Marriages; here is ſet down how ſeveral abominable Sins are puniſhable by the Magiſtrate; and how theſe things are to be managed by certain perſons appropriated to the tribe of Levi, whoſe Office is confirmed from Heaven, and the Male-adminiſtration of it threatned, and the Judgement particularly inflicted on Nadab and Abihu for an Example. Here are alſo promiſes, and threatnings, to the obſervers, or breakers of this Law.

CHAP. I.

God commands Moſes concerning free-will burnt-offerings of bullock or ſheep; male without blemiſh, 1——3. The offerer to lay his hand on the head of the offering, that it might be accepted for him, 4. The bullock to be ſlain and its blood ſprinkled on the altar, 5. Its parts to be conſumed by fire, 7——9. Of goats, 10. Of fowls, as turtle-doves and young piegeons; their blood to be wrung out at the ſide of the altar, 14——17.

AND the LORD called unto Moſes a, and ſpake unto him out of the tabernacle of the congregation b, ſaying, a Who ſtood without, Exod. 40. 35. waiting for God's call. b From the Mercy-ſeat in the Tabernacle.

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto *Chap. 22. 18. them, * If any man of you bring an offering c unto the LORD, ye ſhall bring your offering of the cattle, even of the herd, and of the flock d.

c There are divers kinds of Sacrifices here preſcribed, ſome by way of acknowledgement to God for Mercies either deſired or received; others by way of ſatisfaction to God for Men's Sins; others were meer exerciſes of Piety and Devotion. And the reaſon why there are ſo many kinds of them was, partly, reſpect to the childiſh eſtate of the Jews, who by the cuſtom of Nations, and their own natural Inclinations were much addicted to outward Rites and Ceremonies, that they might have full employment of that kind in God's ſervice, and thereby be kept from temptations to Idolatry; and partly to repreſent as well the ſeveral perfections of Chriſt, the true Sacrifice, and the various benefits of his Death, as the ſeveral Duties which Men owe to their Creator and Redeemer, all which could not be ſo well expreſſed by one ſort of Sacrifices. d Or, Of the ſheep; though the Hebrew word contains both the Sheep and Goats, as appears both from the uſe of the word, Gen. 12. 16. and 27. 9. and 38. 17. and from verſe 10. and other places of Scripture. Now God choſe theſe kinds of Creatures for his Sacrifices, either 1. In oppoſition to the Egyptian Idolatry, to which divers of the Iſraelites had been uſed, and were ſtill in danger of revolting to again, that the frequent deſtruction of theſe Creatures might bring ſuch ſilly Deities into contempt. Or 2. Becauſe theſe are the fitteſt repreſentations both of Chriſt and of true Chriſtians, as being Gentle, and Harmleſs, and Patient, and moſt uſeful to Men. Or 3. As the beſt and moſt profitable Creatures, with which it is fit God ſhould be ſerved, and which we ſhould be ready to part with, when God requires us to do ſo. Or 4. As things moſt common and obvious, that Men might never want a Sacrifice when they needed, or God required it.

3 If his offering be a burnt ſacrifice e of the herd, let him offer a male f without blemiſh g: he ſhall offer † Or, to be accepted for him. it † of his own voluntary will h, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation i before the LORD.

Iſa. 56. 7. and 58. 5. and 60. 7. Jer. 6. 20. e Strictly ſo called, ſuch as was to be all burnt, the Skin excepted, Levit. 7. 8. See Gen. 8. 20. and 1 Kings 3. 15. For otherwiſe every Sacrifice was burnt, more or leſs. The Sacrifices did partly ſignifie, that the whole Man, in whoſe ſtead the Sacrifice was offered, was to be intirely and unreſervedly offered or devoted to God's ſervice; and that the whole Man did deſerve to be utterly conſumed, if God ſhould deal ſeverely with him; and directed us to ſerve the Lord with all ſingleneſs of Heart, without ſelf-ends, and to be ready to offer to God even ſuch Sacrifices or Services wherein we our ſelves ſhould have no part nor benefit. f As being more perfect than the Female, Mal. 1. 14. and more truly repreſenting Chriſt. g Of which ſee Exod. 29. 1. Levit. 22. 22, &c. To ſignify, 1. That God ſhould be ſerved with the beſt of every kind. 2. That Man, repreſented by theſe Sacrifices, ſhould aim at all purity and perfection of Heart and Life, and that Chriſtians ſhould one day attain to it, Eph. 5. 27. 3. The ſpotleſs and compleat holineſs of Chriſt, Heb. 9. 13, 14. 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19. and 2. 22. h According to this Tranſlation, the place ſpeaks only of free-will-offerings, or ſuch as were not preſcribed by God to be offered in courſe, but were offered at the pleaſure, and by the voluntary devotion of any perſon, either by way of Supplication for any Mercy which he needed or deſired, or by way of Thankſgiving for any Favour or Bleſſing received. But it may ſeem improper to reſtrain the Rules here given to free-will-offerings, which were to be obſerved in other offerings alſo. And the Hebrew word is by the Seventy, Chaldee, Syriack, and Arabick, and others, rendred to this purpoſe, for his acceptation, or that he may be accepted with God, or that God may be atoned, as it is verſe 4. And ſo this phraſe is uſed, Levit. 23. 11. i In the Court near to the door, where the Altar ſtood, verſe 5. For here it was to be ſacrificed, and here alſo the People might behold the oblation of it. And this further ſignified, that men could have no entrance, neither into the earthly Tabernacle, the Church, nor into the heavenly Tabernacle of Glory, but by Chriſt, who is the door, Joh. 10. 7, 9. by whom alone we have acceſs to God.

4 * And he ſhall put his hand k upon the head of the burnt-offering l, and it ſhall be accepted from him to make atonement for him m. *Exod. 10,15.

k (i.e.) Both his hands, Levit. 8. 14, 18. and 16. 21. A common Enallage. l Whereby he ſignified, 1. that he willingly gave it to the Lord. 2. That he did legally unite himſelf with it, and judged himſelf worthy of that death which it ſuffered in his ſtead; and that he laid his ſins upon it in a ceremonial way, and had an eye to him upon whom God would lay the iniquity of us all, Iſa. 53. 6. and that together with it he did freely offer up himſelf to God. m To wit, ceremonially and ſacramentally; as directing his faith and thoughts to that true Propitiatory Sacrifice which in time was to be offered up for him. See Rom. 3. 25. Heb. 9. 15, 25, 26. And although Burnt-offerings were commonly offered by way of thankſgiving, Gen. 8. 20. Pſal. 51. 16, 17. yet they were ſometimes offered by way of atonement for ſin, to wit, for ſins in general, as appears from Job 1. 5. but for particular ſins there were ſpecial Sacrifices, as we ſhall ſee.

5 And he n ſhall kill the bullock before the LORD: and the Prieſts, Aarons ſons, ſhall bring the blood, and ſprinkle the blood round about upon the altar o that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

n Either 1. the Offerer, who is ſaid to do it, to wit, by the Prieſt; for men are commonly ſaid to do what they cauſe others to do, as Joh. 4. 1, 2. Or 2. the Prieſt, as it follows, or the Levite, whoſe office this was. See Exod. 29. 11. Levit. 8. 15. Numb. 8. 19. 1 Chron. 23. 28, 31. 2 Chron. 30. 16. and 35. 11. o Which was done in a conſiderable quantity, as may be gathered from Zech. 9. 15. and whereby was ſignified, 1. That the Offerer deſerved to have his Blood ſpilt in that manner. 2. That the Blood of Chriſt ſhould be poured forth for Sinners, and that that was the only mean of their reconciliation to God, and acceptance with him.

6 And he ſhall ſlay the burnt-offering p, and cut it into his pieces q.

p Partly for decency, becauſe the Sacrifices being as it were God's food and Feaſt, it was incongruous to offer to God that which men refuſed to eat; and partly to ſignify, that the great thing which God required and regarded in men was, not their outward appearance, but their inſide; and that as he doth ſee all mens inſides, (Heb. 4. 13) ſo he will one day make them viſible to others. q To wit, the head, and fat, and inwards, and legs, ver. 8. 9.

7 And the ſons of Aaron the Prieſt ſhall put fire r upon the altar, and lay the wood in order upon the fire.

r Or, diſpoſe the fire, i. e. blow it up, and put it together, ſo as it might be fit for the preſent work. For the fire there uſed and allowed came down from Heaven, Levit. 9. 24. and was to be carefully preſerved there, and all other fire was forbidden, Levit. 10. 1, &c.

8 And the Prieſts Aarons ſons ſhall lay the parts, the head and the fat s, in order upon the wood that is in the fire which is upon the altar.

s All the fat; which was to be ſeparated from the Fleſh, and to be put together, to increaſe the flame, and to conſume the other parts of the Sacrifice more quickly. Others tranſlate it, the trunk of the body, as diſtinguiſhed from the head, and joints, and inward parts.

9 But the inwards and his legs, ſhall he waſh t in water, and the prieſt ſhall burn all u on the altar, to be a burnt-ſacrifice, an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour x unto the LORD.

t To ſignify the univerſal and perfect purity both of the inwards, or the heart, and of the legs, or ways or actions, which was in Chriſt, and which ſhould be in all Chriſtians. Not only the parts now mentioned, but all the reſt, the trunk of the Body, and the ſhoulders, as is apparent from the practice or execution of theſe Precepts. x Not in it ſelf, for ſo it rather cauſed a ſtink, but as it repreſented Chriſt's offering up himſelf to God as a ſweet-ſmelling ſavour, Eph. 5. 2. and to admoniſh us of the excellent vertue of Divine inſtitution, without which God values no worſhip, though never ſo glorious, and by which even the meaneſt things are precious and acceptable to God.

10 And if his offering be of the flocks, namely, of the ſheep, or of the goats for a burnt-ſacrifice, he ſhall bring it a male without blemiſh.

11 And he ſhall kill it on the ſide of the altar northward y, before the LORD: and the Prieſts Aarons ſons ſhall ſprinkle his blood round about upon the altar.

y Here this and other kinds of Sacrifices were killed, Levit. 6. 25. and 7. 2. becauſe here ſeems to have been the largeſt and moſt convenient place for that work, the Altar being probably near the middle of the Eaſt-end of the Building, and the entrance being on the South-ſide; ſo the Northſide was the only vacant place. Beſides this might deſign the place of Chriſt's death both more generally, to wit, in Jeruſalem, which was in the ſides of the north, Pſal. 48. 2. and more ſpecially, to wit, on Mount Calvary, which was on the North and Weſt-ſide of Jeruſalem.

12 And he ſhall cut it into his pieces with his head and his fat: and the Prieſt ſhall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar:

13 But he ſhall waſh the inwards, and the legs with water, and the prieſt ſhall bring it all, and burn it upon the altar: it is a burnt-ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

14 And if the burnt-ſacrifice for his offering to the LORD be of fowles, then he ſhall bring his offering of * turtle doves, or of young pigeons z.

* Chap. 5. 7.

z Theſe Birds were appointed for the relief of the poor who could not bring better. And theſe Birds are preferred before others, partly becauſe they were eaſily gotten, and partly becauſe they are fit repreſentations of Chriſt's Chaſtity, and Meekneſs, and Gentleneſs, for which theſe Birds are remarkable. The Pigeons muſt be young, becauſe then they are beſt; but the Turtle-doves are better when they are more grown up, and therefore they are not confined to that age.

15 And the prieſt ſhall bring it unto the altar: and † wring off a his head, and burn it on the altar: and the blood thereof ſhall be wrung out * at the ſide of the altar.

† Or, pinch off the head with the nail.
* Heb. upon the wall.

a To wit, from the reſt of the body; as ſufficiently appears, becauſe this was to be burnt by it ſelf, as it here follows, and the body afterwards, ver. 17. And whereas it is ſaid Levit. 5. 8. he ſhall ——wring his head from his neck, but ſhall not divide it aſunder, that is ſpoken not of the Burnt-offering, as here, but of the Sin-offering, in which there might be a differing Rite.

16 And he ſhall pluck away his crop with his † feathers b, and caſt it beſide the altar on the Eaſt-part c, by the place of the aſhes d.

† Or, the filth thereof.

b Or, with its dung or filth, to wit, contained in the crop, and in the guts. c To wit, of the Tabernacle. Here the filth was caſt, becauſe this was the remoteſt place from the Holy of Holies, which was in the Weſt-end; to teach us, that impure things and perſons ſhould not preſume to approach to God, and that they ſhould be baniſhed from his preſence. d The place where the aſhes fell down and lay, whence they were afterwards removed without the Camp. See Levit. 4. 12. and 6. 10, 11. and 8. 17.

17 And he ſhall cleave it with the wings thereof, but ſhall not divide it aſunder e: and the Prieſt ſhall burn it upon the altar, upon the wood that is upon the fire: it is a burnt-ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

e Shall cleave the Bird thorough the whole length, yet ſo as not to ſeparate the one ſide from the other, and ſo as there may be a wing left on each ſide. See Gen. 15. 10.

CHAP. II.

Concerning free-will meat-offerings; of meal-flower with oil and frankincenſe upon it, 1. for a memorial, 2. The remainder moſt holy, to be eaten by Aaron and his ſons, 3. Of baked and unleavened cakes mixed, and wafers ſprinkled with oil, 4. Or dreſt in the pan, 5. or in the kettle, 7. but without leaven or honey, 11. The firſtlings excepted, 12. Salt of the covenant to be offered, 13. Firſt-fruits how to be offered, 14——16.

AND when † any will offer a meat-offering a unto the LORD, his offering ſhall be of fine flour b: and he ſhall pour oil upon it c, and put frankincenſe thereon d.

† Heb. a ſoul.

a This was of two kinds, the one joined with other Offerings, Numb. 15. 4, 7, 10. which was preſcribed, together with the meaſure or proportion of it: The other, of which this place ſpeaks, was a diſtinct and ſeparate Offering, and was left to the Offerer's good-will both for the thing, and for the quantity. And the matter of this Offering was things without life, as Meal, Corn, Cakes, &c. Now this ſort of Sacrifices were appointed, 1. becauſe theſe are things of greateſt neceſſity and benefit to man, and therefore it is meet that God ſhould be ſerved with them, and owned and praiſed as the giver of them. 2. In condeſcention to the poor, that they might not want an Offering for God, and to ſhew that God would accept even the meaneſt Services, when offered to him with a ſincere mind. 3. Theſe were neceſſary proviſions for the Feaſt which was here to be repreſented to God, and for the uſe of the Prieſts, who were to attend upon theſe holy miniſtrations. b Searced, or ſifted, and purged from all Bran, it being fit that the beſt things ſhould be offered to the beſt Being. c Which may note the Graces of the Holy Ghoſt, which are compared to Oil, and anointing with it, Pſal. 45. 7. 1 Joh. 2. 20. and which are neceſſary to make any Offering acceptable to God. d Which manifeſtly deſigned Chriſt's ſatisfaction and interceſſion, which is compared to a ſweet odour, Eph. 5. 2. and to incenſe, Rev. 8. 3.

2 And he ſhall bring it to Aarons ſons the Prieſts: and he e ſhall take thereout his handful of the flour thereof, and of the oil thereof, with all the frankincenſe thereof, * and the Prieſt ſhall burn the memorial of it f upon the altar, to be an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

* Chap. 5. 12. and 6. 15.

e (i. e) That Prieſt to whom he brought it, and who is appointed to offer it. f That part thus ſelected and offered; which is called a memorial, either 1. to the Offerer, who by offering this part is minded, that the whole of that he brought, and of all which he hath of that kind, is God's, to whom this part was paid as a quit-rent, or acknowledgment. Or 2. to God, whom (to ſpeak after the manner of men) this did put in mind of his gracious Covenant and Promiſes of favour, and acceptance of the Offerer and his Offering. See Exod. 30. 16. Levit. 6. 15. Numb. 5. 26.

3 And * the remnant of the meat-offering ſhall be Aarons and his ſons †: it is a * thing moſt holy g of the offering of the LORD made by fire.

* Chap. 7. 6.
Eccl 7.31.
* Num. 18. 9.

† To be eaten by them, Levit. 6. 16. g (i. e.) Moſt holy, or ſuch as were to be eaten only by the Prieſts, and that only in the holy place near the Altar. See Levit. 6. 26. and 7. 6, 9. and 21. 22.

4 And if thou bring an oblation of a meat-offering baken in the oven h, it ſhall be an unleavened cake of fine flour mingled with oil, or unleavened wafers anointed with oil.

h Made in the Sanctuary for that uſe, as may ſeem from 1 Chron. 23. 28, 29. Ezek. 46. 20.

5 And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baken † in a pan, it ſhall be of fine flour unleavened, mingled with oil.

† Or, on a flat plate or ſlice.

6 Thou ſhalt part it in pieces i, and pour oil thereon: it is a meat-offering.

i Becauſe part of it was offered to God, and part given to the Prieſt.

7 And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baken in the frying-pan, it ſhall be made of fine flour with oil.

8 And thou ſhalt bring the meat-offering that is made of theſe things unto the LORD, and when it is † preſented unto the Prieſt, he ſhall bring it unto the altar,

† Or, offered.

9 And the Prieſt ſhall take from the meat-offering * a memorial thereof, and ſhall burn it upon the altar: it is an * offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

* Verſe 2.
* Exod. 29. 18.

10 And that which is left of the meat-offering, ſhall be Aarons and his ſons: It is a thing moſt holy, of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

11 No meat-offering k which he ſhall bring unto the LORD, ſhall be made with leaven l: for ye ſhall burn no leaven, nor any honey m in any offering of the LORD made by fire.

k To wit, which is offered of free-will; for in other Offerings it might be uſed, Levit. 7. 13. and 23. 17. l This was forbidden, partly to mind them of their deliverance out of Egypt, when they were forced through haſte to bring away their Meal or Dough (which was the matter of this Oblation) unleavened; partly to ſignify what Chriſt would be, and what they ſhould be, pure and free from all error in the faith and worſhip of God, and from all hypocriſie and malice or wickedneſs, all which are ſignified by leaven, Matth. 16. 12. Mark 8. 15. Luke 12. 1. 1 Cor. 5. 8. Gal. 5. 9. m Either 1. becauſe it hath the ſame effect with leaven in Paſte or Dough, making it ſower, and ſwelling. Or 2. in oppoſition to the Sacrifices of the Gentiles, in which the uſe of Honey was moſt frequent. Or 3. to teach us, that God's worſhip is not to be governed by mens fancies and appetites, to which Honey might have been grateful, but by God's will. The Jews conceive, that under the name of Honey all ſweet Fruits, as Figs, Dates, &c. are contained and forbidden.

12 As for the oblation † of the firſt-fruits, ye ſhall offer them n unto the LORD; but they ſhall not † be burnt o on the altar for a ſweet ſavour.

† Or, of the firſt of the firſt fruits.

n Or, The offering, or, For the offering of the firſt-fruits you ſhall or may offer them, or either of them, to wit, Leaven or Honey, which were offered and accepted in that caſe, Levit. 23. 17. 2 Chron. 31. 5. [o] But reſerved for the Prieſts, Numb. 18. 13. Deut. 18. 4.

Exod. 27. 20.

* Mar. 9. 49. 13 And every oblation of thy meat-offering * ſhalt thou ſeaſon with ſalt [p]; neither ſhalt thou ſuffer the ſalt of the covenant of thy God [q] to be lacking from thy meat-offering: with all thine offerings [r] thou ſhalt offer ſalt.

[p] Either 1. for the decency and conveniency of the Feaſt, which God would have here repreſented. Or 2. for the ſignification of that in corruption of mind, and ſincerity of grace, which in Scripture is ſignified by Salt, Mark 9. 49. Col. 4. 6. and which is neceſſary in all them that would offer an acceptable Offering to God. Or 3. in teſtimony of that communion which they had with God in theſe exerciſes of his Worſhip; Salt being the great ſymbol of friendſhip in all Nations and Ages. [q] So Salt is called, either 1. becauſe it fitly repreſented the durableneſs and perpetuity of God's Covenant with them, which is deſigned by ſalt, Num. 18. 19. 2 Chron. 13. 5. Or 2. becauſe it was ſo particularly and rigorouſly required as a condition of their Covenant with God; this being made abſolutely neceſſary in all their Offerings, as it follows; and as the neglect of Sacrifices was a breach of covenant on their part, ſo alſo was the neglect of Salt in their Sacrifices. [r] Not theſe only, but all other, as appears from Ezek. 43. 24. Mark 9. 49.

14 And if thou offer a meat-offering of thy firſt-fruits [s] unto the LORD, thou ſhalt offer for the meat-offering of thy firſt-fruits, green ears of corn dried by the fire, even corn beaten out of full ears.

[s] To wit, of thine own free-will; for there were other Firſt-fruits, and that of ſeveral ſorts, which were preſcribed, and the time, quality and proportion of them appointed by God. See Levit. 23. 10.

15 And thou ſhalt put oil upon it, and lay frankincenſe thereon; it is a meat-offering.

16 And the Prieſt ſhall burn the memorial of it, part of the beaten corn thereof, and part of the oil thereof, with all the frankincenſe thereof: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

CHAP. III.

Concerning thank-offerings; of bullocks, male or female, without blemiſh; the manner of this oblation, 1——5. Of ſmall cattle, male or female, without blemiſh; a lamb, 6——12. A goat, 13——16. All fat the Lord's; the fat and blood not to be eat. 17.

AND if his oblation be a ſacrifice of peace-offering [a], if he offer it of the herd, whether it be a male or female [b], he ſhall offer it without blemiſh before the LORD.

[a] Which was an Offering for peace and proſperity, and the favour and bleſſing of God, either 1. obtained; and ſo this was a Thank-offering, as Levit 7. 12, 16. or 2. deſired; and ſo it was a kind of ſupplication to God, as Judges 20. 26. 1 Chron. 21. 26. [b] Which were allowed here, tho not in Burnt-offerings, becauſe thoſe principally reſpected the honour of God, who is to be ſerved with the beſt; but the Peace-offerings did primarily reſpect the benefit of the Offerer, and therefore the choice was left to himſelf.

* Exod. 29. 10. 2 And * he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the Tabernacle of the congregation [c]: and Aarons ſons the Prieſts ſhall ſprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

[c] Not on the North-ſide of the Altar, where the Burnt offering was killed, Lev. 1. 11. as alſo the Sin-offering, and the Treſpaſs-offering, Levit. 6. 25. and 7. 2. but in the very entrance of the Court where the Brazen Altar ſtood, which place was not ſo Holy as the other; as appears both becauſe it was more remote from the Holy of Holies, and becauſe the Aſhes of the Sacrifices were to be laid here. And the reaſon of this difference is not obſcure, both becauſe part of this Sacrifice was to be waved by the Hands of the Offerer, Levit. 7. 30. who might not come into the Court; and becauſe this Offering was not ſo Holy as the other, which were to be eaten only by the Prieſt, when part of theſe were eaten by the Offerer.

3 And he ſhall offer of the ſacrifice of the peace-offering, an offering made by fire unto the LORD,
*Exod. 29. 13, 22. † Or, ſuet. * the † fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

† Or, midriff over the liver, and over the kidneys. 4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the flanks: and the † caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away.

5 And Aarons ſons ſhall burn it on the altar upon the burnt ſacrifice [d], which is upon the wood that is on the fire: it is an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

[d] Either 1. Upon the remainders of it, which yet were burning; or rather 2. After it; for the daily Burnt-offering was firſt to be offered, both as more eminently reſpecting God's Honour, which ought to be preferred before all things; and as the moſt ſolemn and ſtated Sacrifice, which ſhould take place of all voluntary and occaſional Oblations, and as a Sacrifice of an higher nature and uſe, being for Expiation and Atonement, without which no Peace could be obtained, nor Peace-offering offered with acceptance.

6 ¶ And if his offering for a ſacrifice of peace-offering unto the LORD, be of the flock, male or female, he ſhall offer it without blemiſh.

7 If he offer a lamb for his offering, then ſhall he offer it before the LORD.

8 And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aarons ſons ſhall ſprinkle the blood thereof, round about upon the altar.

9 And he ſhall offer of the ſacrifice of the peace-offering, an offering made by fire unto the LORD, the fat thereof and the whole rump [e], it ſhall he take off hard by the back-bone: and the fat that coverth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards.

[e] Which in Sheep is fat, and ſweet, and in theſe parts was very much larger and better than ours, as is agreed both by ancient and modern Writers, and therefore was fitly offered to God.

10 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away;

11 And the prieſt ſhall burn [f] it upon the altar: it is † the food [g] of the offering made by fire unto the LORD.

[f] (i. e.) The parts now mentioned, and for the reſt, they fell to the Prieſt, Levit. 7. 31. [g] (i e) The fewel of the Fire, or the matter of the Offering. It is called food, Heb. bread, to note God's acceptance of it, and delight in it, as Men delight in their food.

12 ¶ And if his offering be a goat, then he ſhall offer it before the LORD;

13 And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of it, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation: and the ſons of Aaron ſhall ſprinkle the blood thereof upon the altar round about.

14 And he ſhall offer thereof his offering, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD, the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards.

15 And the two kidneys and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away.

16 And the prieſt ſhall burn them [g] upon the altar: it is the † food of the offering made by fire for a ſweet ſavour. All the fat [h] is the LORD's.

[g] The Parts mentioned, among which the Tail is not one, as it was in the Sheep, becauſe that in Goats is a refuſe Part. [h] This is to be limited, 1. To thoſe Beaſts, which were offered or might be offered in Sacrifice, as it is explained and reſtrained, Levit. 7. 23, 25. 2. To that kind of fat which is here abovementioned, and required to be offered, which was ſeparated, or eaſily ſeparable from the fleſh; for the fat which was here and there mixed with the fleſh they might eat, Deut. 32. 14. Neh. 8. 10.

17 It ſhall be a perpetual ſtatute for your generations, throughout all your dwellings [i], that ye eat neither fat [k], nor * blood [l].

[i] Not only at or near the Tabernacle, nor only of thoſe Beaſts which you actually Sacrifice, but alſo in your ſeveral dwellings, and of all that kind of Beaſts. [k] This was forbidden, 1. To preſerve the Reverence of the Holy Rites and Sacrifices. 2. That they might be taught hereby to acknowledge God as their Lord, and the Lord of all the Creatures, who might reſerve what he pleaſed to himſelf. 3. To exerciſe them in Obedience to God, and Self-denial, and Mortification of their Appetites, even in thoſe things which probably many of them would much deſire. [l] This was forbidden partly to maintain Reverence to God and his Worſhip; partly out of oppoſition to Idolaters, who uſed to drink the Blood of their Sacrifices; partly with reſpect unto Chriſt's Blood, thereby manifeſtly ſignified; and partly for moral admonition about avoiding cruelty, &c.

CHAP. IV.

Of ſins of errour or infirmity, and their ſacrifice, 1, 2. committed by the high-prieſt; ſo the guilt of the people; he muſt offer a perfect young bullock, and ſprinkle the blood ſeven times before the vail of the holy place, and upon the horns of the incenſe altar, 3——12. or by the whole congregation, when their ſins is known, the eldeſt of the congregation to lay his hand on the head of the offering to be offered in the ſame manner with that of the high-prieſt, 13——21. Or by a prince and ruler, he when his ſins is made known to him, muſt offer a he-goat, 22——26. Or by a private perſon, muſt offer a he-goat, 27——35. the ſin is forgiven him.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, * If a ſoul ſhall ſin [a] through ignorance [b] againſt any of the commandments of the LORD (concerning things which † ought not to be done) [c] and ſhall do againſt any of them [d]:

[a] This muſt neceſſarily be underſtood of more than common Sins, and daily Infirmities; for if every ſuch Sin had required an Offering, it had not been poſſible either for moſt Sinners to bear ſuch a Charge, or for the Altar to receive ſo many Sacrifices, or for the Prieſts to manage ſo infinite a work. And for ordinary Sins, they were ceremonially expiated by the daily Offering, and by that on the great day of Atonement, Levit. 16. 30. b Or, errour, either not knowing his Fact to be ſinful, as appears by comparing verſe 13, 14. or not conſidering it, but raſhly and unadviſedly falling into Sin through the Power of ſome ſudden Paſſion or Temptation, as the Hebrew word ſignifies, Pſal. 119. 67. Compare Job 19. 4. Pſal. 19. 13. c The words may be thus rendred, in or about every, or any of the commandments of the Lord which ſhould not be done; or, which concern things that ſhould not be done, to wit, in any negative commands. And there is great reaſon why a Sacrifice ſhould be more neceſſary for theſe, than for other Sins, becauſe affirmative precepts do not ſo ſtrictly and conſtantly bind Men as the negative do; and if a Man through ignorance have neglected them, he may yet recover his errour, and fulfil them. d Then he ſhall offer according to his quality, which is here to be underſtood out of the following verſes.

3 If the prieſt that is anointed e, do ſin f according to the ſin of the people g, then let him bring for his ſin which he hath ſinned, * a young bullock h without blemiſh unto the LORD for a ſin-offering i.

* Chap. 9. 2.

e (i. e.) The High-prieſt, who only was anointed after the firſt time. See Exod. 29. 7. and 30. 30. and 40. 15. Levit. 10. 7. Numb. 3. 3. His anointing is mentioned, becauſe he was not compleat High-prieſt till he was anointed. f Either in Doctrine or Practiſe, which it is here ſuppoſed he may do. And this is noted as a blot and character of imperfection in the Prieſthood of the Law, whereby the Iſraelites were directed to expect another and better High-prieſt, even one who is holy, harmleſs, and ſeparate from ſinners, Heb. 7. 26. g In the ſame manner as any of the people do; which implies that God expected more circumſpection and care from him, than from the people. But the words may be rendred, to the ſin or guilt of the people, which may be mentioned as a reaſon of the Law, and an aggravation of his Sin, that by it he commonly brings Sin, and Guilt, and Puniſhment upon the people, who are infected or ſcandalized by his example. h The ſame Sacrifice which was offered for all the people, to ſhew how much his Sin was aggravated by his quality. i Heb. ſin, which word is oft taken in that ſenſe, as Exod. 29. 14.

4 And he ſhall bring the bullock unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD, and ſhall lay his hand upon the bullocks head k, and kill the bullock l, before the LORD.

k To teſtify both his acknowledgment of his Sin, and his Faith in God's promiſe for the expiation of his Sins through Chriſt, whom that Sacrifice typified l To wit, by one of the Prieſts, whom he ſhall cauſe to do it; for this Prieſt is diſtinguiſhed from the anointed Prieſt, verſe 5.

5 And the prieſt that is anointed ſhall take of the bullocks blood, and bring it to the tabernacle of the congregation l.

l Into the Tabernacle; which was not required nor allowed in any other Sacrifice, poſſibly to ſhew the greatneſs of the High-prieſts Sin, which needed more than ordinary diligence in him, and favour from God to expiate it.

6 And the prieſt ſhall dip his finger in the blood, and ſprinkle of the blood ſeven times m before the LORD, before the vail o of the ſanctuary.

m A number much uſed in Scripture, as a number of perfection; and here preſcribed, either to ſhew that his Sins needed more than ordinary Purgation, and more frequent and manifeſt exerciſes of his Faith and Repentance, both which Graces he was obliged to joyn with that Ceremonial Rite. To wit, the ſecond Vail dividing between the Holy of Holies, which is generally called by the name here uſed, as Exod. 26. 31, &c. and 35. 12. and 40. 3, 21. Numb. 4. 5.

7 And the prieſt ſhall put ſome of the blood upon the horns of the altar of ſweet incenſe before the LORD, which n is in the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall pour all the blood o of the bullock at the bottom of the altar of the burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

n Which Altar; for the Altar of Burnt-offerings was without the Tabernacle. o So alſo below, verſe 18, 30, 34. to wit, all the reſt, as it is expreſſed Lev. 5. 9. for part was diſpoſed elſewhere.

8 And he ſhall take off from it all the fat of the bullock for the ſin-offering: the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

9 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away,

10 * As it was taken off from the bullock of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings: and the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar of the burnt-offering.

* Chap. 3. 3.

11 * And the skin of the bullock, and all his fleſh, with his head and with his legs, and his inwards and his dung.

* Exod. 22. 14. Num. 19. 5.

12 Even the whole bullock p ſhall he carry forth q † without the camp r, unto a clean place, where the aſhes are poured out s, and burn him on the wood with fire: † where the aſhes are poured out, ſhall he be burnt.

† Heb. to without the camp.

p So no part of this was to be eaten by the Prieſts, as it was in other Sin-offerings, Levit. 6. 26. The reaſon is plain, becauſe the Offerer might not eat of his own Sin-offering, and the Prieſt was the Offerer in this caſe, as alſo in the Sin-offering for the whole Congregation below, verſe 21. of which the Prieſt himſelf was a Member. q Not himſelf, which would have defiled him, but by another whom he ſhall appoint for that work, as may be gathered from Levit. 16. 27, 28. r To ſignify either, 1. The horrible and abominable nature of Sin, eſpecially in high and holy perſons, or when it overſpreads a whole people. Or 2. The removing of the guilt and puniſhment of that Sin from the people, and their duty of keeping ſuch wickedneſs out of the Camp for time to come. Or 3. That Chriſt ſhould ſuffer without the Camp or Gate, as he did. See Heb. 13. 11, 12. s For the Aſhes, though at firſt they were thrown down near the Altar, Levit. 1. 16. yet afterwards they, together with the filth of the Sacrifices, were carried into a certain place without the Camp. See Lev. 6. 10, 11.

13 ¶ And if the whole congregation of Iſrael t ſin through ignorance, * and the thing be hid from the eyes of the aſſembly, and they have done ſomewhat againſt any of the commandments of the LORD, concerning things which ſhould not be done, and are guilty:

14 When the ſin which they have ſinned againſt it † is known, then the congregation ſhall offer a young bullock u for the ſin, and bring him before the tabernacle of the congregation.

† Againſt any one of the ſaid Commandments. u But if the Sin of the Congregation was only the omiſſion of ſome Ceremonial Duty, a Kid of the Goats was to be offered, Numb. 15. 24.

15 And the elders of the congregation x ſhall lay their hands upon the head of the bullock before the LORD: and the bullock ſhall be killed before the LORD.

x (i. e.) The Rulers of the people, of whom ſee Exod. 3. 16. and 24. 1. who here acted in the name of all the people, who could not poſſibly perform this act in their own perſons.

16 And the prieſt that is anointed ſhall bring of the bullocks blood to the tabernacle of the congregation.

17 And the prieſt ſhall dip his finger in ſome of the blood, and ſprinkle it ſeven times before the LORD, even before the vail.

18 And he ſhall put ſome of the blood upon the horns of the altar, which is before the LORD y, that is in the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall pour out all the blood at the bottom of the altar of burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

y That is, before the Holy of Holies, where the Lord was in a more ſpecial manner preſent; namely the Altar of Incenſe, as before verſe 7.

19 And he ſhall take all his fat from him, and burn it upon the altar.

20 And he ſhall do with the bullock as he did * with the bullock for a ſin-offering z, ſo ſhall he do with this: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for them, and it ſhall be forgiven them.

* Ver. 3.

z To wit, for the Prieſt's Sin-offering, called the firſt bullock, verſe 21.

21 And he ſhall carry forth the bullock without the camp, and burn him as he burned the firſt bullock: it is a ſin-offering for the congregation.

22 ¶ When a ruler a hath ſinned, and done ſomewhat through ignorance b againſt any of the commandments of the LORD his God, concerning things which ſhould not be done, and is guilty:

c The disjunctive, or, is here put for the copulative, and, as it is 1 Cor. 12. 13. and 13. 8. and 15. 11. For it is evident, that he ſpeaks of the ſame Perſon, and of the ſame Sin.

24 And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of the goat, and kill it in the place where they kill the burnt-offering d before the LORD: it is a ſin-offering e.

34 And the Prieſt ſhall take of the blood of the ſin-offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and ſhall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar.

35 And he ſhall take away all the fat thereof, as the fat of the lamb is taken away from the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings: and the Prieſts ſhall burn them l upon the altar, according to the offerings made by fire m unto the LORD; and the Prieſt ſhall make an atonement for his ſin that he hath committed, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

l (i. e) The fat; but he uſeth the plural number, becauſe the fat was of ſeveral kinds, as we ſaw verſe 8, 9. m Heb. upon the Offerings, together with them, or after them; becauſe the Burnt-offerings were to have the firſt place. See on Chap. 3. 5.

CHAP. V.

If a man heard or knew of blaſphemy, and concealed it, he muſt atone it, 1. Or if he touch any unclean thing, and is made ſenſible of it; or have ſworn raſhly, he is guilty, muſt confeſs it, and offer a lamb or goat, female; in caſe of poverty, two turtle doves, or two young pigeons, one for a ſin, and one for a burnt-offering, 2——10. But if this were too much, the tenth part of an ephah of fine flower, without oil or frankincenſe, 11,——13. He that purloineth holy things muſt offer a ram, and the worth in ſilver, ſhekel according to the weight of the ſanctuary, 14——16. Sins of ignorance again mention'd, and a perfect ram, with the eſtimation, for a ſin-offering, 17——19.

† Or, adjuration. AND if a ſoul ſin, and a hear the voice of † ſwearing b, and is a witneſs, whether he hath ſeen * or known c of it; if he do not utter it, then he ſhall bear his iniquity d.

a And, for that is, as that Particle is often uſed, as Gen. 13. 15. 1 Chron. 21. 12. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 13. For this declares in particular what the ſin was. b Either 1. of adjuration upon oath, when the Judge adjures a Witneſs to ſpeak the whole truth; of which ſee Matth. 26. 63. But this ſeems too much to narrow the ſenſe; and this and the other Laws both before and after it, ſpeak of private ſins committed through ignorance. Or 2. of falſe ſwearing before a Judge. But that is expreſly forbidden Lev. 6. 3. Or rather 3. of curſing, or blaſphemy, or execration, as the word commonly ſignifies, and that either 1. againſt ones Neighbour, as 2 Sam. 16. 7. or 2. againſt God, as Levit. 24. 10, 11. which may ſeem to be principally intended here, becauſe the Crime here ſpoken of is of ſo high a nature, that he who heard it, was obliged to reveal it, and proſecute the guilty. And though God be not here mentioned, yet the general word is here to be underſtood of the moſt famous particular, as it is frequently in all Authors, of which there are many inſtances. * Being preſent when it was ſaid. c By ſufficient information from others. d (i. e.) The puniſhment of it; as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 19. 15. Numb. 18. 1. See of this Phraſe Levit. 17. 16. and 20. 20. Iſa. 53. 11.

2 Or * if a ſoul touch any unclean thing e, whether it be a carkaſs of an unclean beaſt, or a carkaſs of unclean cattle, or the carkaſs of unclean creeping things, and if it be hidden from him f, he alſo ſhall be unclean, and guilty g:

e To wit, ceremonially. Of which ſee more fully, chap. 11. 24, &c. and Deut. 14. f If he do it unwittingly, yet that would not excuſe him, becauſe he ſhould have been more diligent and circumſpect to avoid all unclean things. Hereby God deſigned to awaken men to watchfulneſs againſt, and repentance for, their unknown, or unobſerved ſins. See Pſal. 19. 12. 1 John 3. 20. g Not morally, for the Conſcience was not directly polluted by theſe things, Matth 15. 11, 18. but ceremonially.

3 Or if he touch the * uncleanneſs of man, whatſoever uncleanneſs it be that a man ſhall be defiled withal, and it be hid from him, when he knoweth of it h, then he ſhall be guilty i.

h As ſoon as he knoweth it, he muſt not delay to make his peace with God. And though it was ſin before, though not known, yet the knowledge of it made it worſe, and therefore required the more ſpeedy repentance. i Not only ceremonially by that touch, but morally for his violation and contempt of God's Authority and Command.

4 Or if a ſoul ſwear k, pronouncing with his lips to do evil l, or * to do good m, whatſoever it be that a man ſhall pronounce with an oath, and it be hid from him n; when he knoweth of it o, then he ſhall be guilty in one of theſe p.

k To wit, raſhly, without conſideration either of God's Law, or his own power or right, as David did, 1 Sam. 25. 22. l Either 1. to himſelf, to wit, to puniſh himſelf, either in his Body, or Eſtate, or ſomething elſe which is dear to him. Or rather 2. to his Neighbour, as 1 Sam. 25. 22. Acts 23. 12. m To wit, to his Neighbour, as Mark 6. 23. when a man either may not, or cannot do it, which may frequently happen. n (i. e.) He did not know, or not conſider, that what he ſwore to do, was or would be impoſſibe, or unlawful. o When he diſcovers it to be ſo, either by his own conſideration, or by information from others. p Either in the good or evil which he ſwore to do.

5 And it ſhall be when he ſhall be guilty in one of theſe things q, that he ſhall confeſs r that he hath ſinned in that thing.

q In one of the three forementioned caſes, either by ſinful ſilence and compliance with others in their ſin, verſe 1. or by an unclean touch, as ver. 2, 3. or by raſh ſwearing, ver. 4. r Before the Lord in the place of publick worſhip. And this confeſſion is not to be reſtrained to the preſent caſe, but by a parity of reaſon, and comparing of other Scriptures, to be extended to other Sacrifices for ſin, to which this was a conſtant companion; and as it were ſignified by the guilty perſon's laying his hand upon his Offering, ſo it is probable it was expreſſed in words. See Numb. 5. 6, 7.

6 And he ſhall bring his treſpaſs-offering † unto the LORD for his ſin which he hath ſinned, a female s from the flock, a lamb or kid of the goats, for a ſin-offering: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him concerning his ſin.

† Queſt. How comes confeſſion and a ſacrifice to be neceſſary for him that touched an unclean thing, when ſuch perſons were cleanſed with ſimple waſhing, as appears from Levit. 11. and Numb. 19? Anſw. This place ſpeaks of him that being ſo unclean did come into the Tabernacle, as may be gathered by comparing this place with Numb. 19. 13. which if any man did, knowing himſelf to be unclean, which was the caſe there, he was to be cut off for it; and if he did it ignorantly, which is the caſe here, ver. 2. he was upon diſcovery of it to offer this Sacrifice. Interpreters diſpute much what the difference is between ſins and treſpaſſes, and between ſin offerings and treſpaſs-offerings. Some make the one for omiſſions, the other for commiſſions; the one for greater, the other for leſſer ſins; the one for known ſins, the other for ſins of ignorance; in all which there ſeems to be more curioſity than ſolidity. Either they ſeem to be the ſame, as may be gathered from ver. 6. where thoſe two words, aſham, and chata, which they ſo carefully and critically diſtinguiſh, are both uſed concerning the Treſpaſs-offerings, and from ver. 9. or the difference may be this, that ſin-offerings were more indefinite or general, being for any particular ſin; and treſpaſs-offerings more reſtrained and particular for ſuch ſins as were more ſcandalous and injurious either to God by blaſphemy, as ver. 1. or to his Sanctuary, by approaching to it in one's uncleanneſs, ver. 2, 3. as hath been now ſaid; or to one's Neighbour, by ſwearing to do to them either the good which we afterwards cannnot or do not, or the evil which we ſhould not; or to the Prieſts and holy things of God, ver. 15. s Becauſe thoſe ſins were leſs than others, as being committed ignorantly or unwittingly, and therefore God would accept a meaner Sacrifice for them.

7 And * if † he be not t able to bring a lamb, then he ſhall bring for his treſpaſs which he hath committed, two turtle doves, or two young pigeons u unto the LORD; one for a ſin-offering x, and the other for a burnt-offering.

t Through poverty, as ver. 11. and 25, 26. And this exception was allowed alſo in other Sin-offerings. u Of which ſee Levit. 1. 14. x Which was for that particular ſin, and therefore is offered firſt before the Burnt-offering, which was for ſins in general; to teach us not to reſt in general confeſſions and repentances for ſin, as Hypocrites commonly do, but diſtinctly and particularly, as far as we can, to ſearch out, and confeſs, and loath, and leave our particular ſins, without which God will not accept our other religious Services. Note that the Burnt-offering was for the expiation of ſin, as well as the Sin-offering, Lev. 1. 4. only that was for ſin in general, and this for particular ſins.

8 And he ſhall bring them unto the Prieſt, who ſhall offer that which is for the ſin-offering firſt, and * wring off his head from his neck, but ſhall not divide it aſunder.

* Chap. 1. 15.

9 And he ſhall ſprinkle of the blood of the ſin-offering upon the ſide of the altar, and the reſt of the blood ſhall be wrung out at the bottom of the altar: it is a ſin-offering y.

y This is added as the reaſon why its blood was ſo ſprinked and ſpilt. See Lev. 4. 7, 18, 30, 34.

10 And he ſhall offer the ſecond for a burnt-offering, according to the † * manner z: and the Prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him a for his ſin which he had ſinned, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

† Or, ordinance.
* Chap. 1. 14.

z Or order appointed by God. a Either declaratively, he ſhall pronounce him to be pardoned; or typically, with reſpect to Chriſt.

11 ¶ But if he be not able to bring two turtle doves, or two young pigeons, then he that ſinned ſhall bring for his offering the tenth part of an ephah b of fine flour for a ſin-offering: he ſhall put no oil upon it, neither ſhall he put any frankincenſe thereon c: for it is a ſin-offering.

b About a pottle of our meaſure. See Exod. 16. 36. c Either to diſtinguiſh theſe from the Meat-offerings, Lev. 2. 1. or as a fit expreſſion of their true ſorrow for their ſins, in the ſenſe whereof they were to abſtain from things pleaſant and delightful. See Num. 5. 15. or to ſignify that by his ſins he deſerved to be utterly deprived both of the oil of gladneſs, the gifts, graces and comforts of the Holy Ghoſt; and of God's gracious acceptance of his Prayers and Sacrifices, which is ſignified by Incenſe, Pſal. 141. 2. or to teach them how evil a thing ſin was, how hateful to God, and how uncomfortable to themſelves.

12 Then ſhall he bring it to the Prieſt, and the Prieſt ſhall take his handful of it, * even a memorial thereof, and burn it on the altar, * according to the offerings made by fire unto the LORD: it is a ſin-offering.

* Chap. 2. 2.
* Chap. 4. 35.

13 And the Prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him as touching his ſin that he hath ſinned in one of theſe, and it ſhall be forgiven him: and the remnant ſhall be the prieſts, as a meat-offering d.

d As it was in the Meat-offering, where all, except one handful, fell to the ſhare of the Prieſts. See Lev. 2. 3. and 7. 9. And this is the rather mentioned here, becauſe in the foregoing Sacrifices, Levit. 4. 3, &c. 13, &c. the Prieſt had no part reſerved for him.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

15 If a ſoul commit a treſpaſs e, and ſin through ignorance f in the holy things of the LORD g, then he ſhall bring for his treſpaſs unto the LORD, a ram h without blemiſh out of the flocks, with thy eſtimation i by ſhekels of ſilver, after the * ſhekel of the ſanctuary * for † a treſpaſs-offering.

* Exod. 30. 13.
† Heb. a treſpaſs.

e Againſt the Lord and his Prieſts. f Fot if a man did it knowingly, he was to be cut off, Numb. 15. 30. g In things conſecrated to God, and to holy uſes; of which ſee Levit. 22. 2. ſuch as Tythes and Firſt-fruits, or any things due, or devoted, or offered to God, which poſſibly a man might either with-hold, or employ to ſome common uſe. See Exod. 34. 26. Deut. 12. 17, 18. and 15. 19. Jer. 2. 3. h A more chargeable Sacrifice than the former, as the ſin of Sacriledge was greater. i As thou ſhalt eſteem or rate it, thou O Prieſt, as appears from verſ. 16, 18. and Levit. 6. 6. See alſo Lev. 22. 14. and 27. 2, 3. and at preſent, thou O Moſes, Lev. 27. 3. for he as yet performed the Prieſt's part. And this either 1. may be referred to the ram, which was to be of ſuch a price and worth as the Prieſt ſhould appoint. Or rather 2. is an additional charge and puniſhment to him, which beſides the ram, he was to pay for the holy thing which he had with-held or abuſed, ſo many ſhekels of ſilver as the Prieſt ſhould eſteem proportionable to it; which was as it were another part or branch of his Treſpaſs-offering. * Of which ſee on Gen. 23. 15.

16 And he ſhall make amends for the harm that he hath done in the holy thing, and ſhall * add the fifth part k thereto, and give it unto the prieſt: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him with the ram of the treſpaſs-offering, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

* Chap. 22. 14. and 27. 13, 15. 27. Num. 5. 7.

k So much they were to add to holy things redeemed, Levit. 27. 13, 15, 19.

17 ¶ And if a * ſoul ſin and commit any of theſe things l which are forbidden to be done by the commandments of the LORD, though he wiſt it not m, yet is he guilty, and ſhall bear his iniquity.

* Chap. 4. 2. Numb. 5. 6.

l To wit, concerning holy things, of which he is yet ſpeaking, though with ſome difference and addition as it may ſeem. The former Law concerns the alienation of holy things from the ſacred to a common uſe; and this may concern other miſcarriages about holy things, and holy duties, as may be gathered from ver. 19. where this is ſaid to be a treſpaſs againſt the Lord, not in a general ſenſe, for ſo every ſin was; but in a proper and peculiar ſenſe. m For if he did it knowingly, he muſt die, Numb. 15. 30.

18 And he ſhall bring a ram without blemiſh out of the flock, with thy eſtimation, for a treſpaſs-offering unto the prieſt: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, concerning his ignorance wherein he erred, and wiſt it not; and it ſhall be forgiven him.

19 It is a treſpaſs-offering: he hath certainly treſpaſſed againſt the LORD.

CHAP. VI.

Treſpaſs-offerings for ſins of deceit, or violence, and perjury; reſtoration muſt be made, and a ram offered, 1——17. The lawful manner of this burnt-offering further declared; the fire to be ever burning upon the altar, 8——13. Of meat-offerings for a memorial unto the Lord, and every one that toucheth them is holy, 14——18. Meat-offerings for the conſecration of Aaron and his ſons, 19——23. Of the ſin-offering, 24——30.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 If a ſoul ſin and commit a treſpaſs againſt the LORD a, and lie unto his neighbour in that which was delivered him to keep b, or in * † fellowſhip c, or in a thing taken away by violence d, or hath deceived his neighbour e:

* Or, in dealing.
† Heb. putting of the hand.

a This ſin, though directly committed againſt Man only, is here emphatically ſaid to be done againſt the Lord, not only in general, for ſo every ſin againſt Man is alſo againſt the Lord, whoſe Image in Man is thereby injured, and whoſe Law, which obligeth us to Love, and Fidelity, and Juſtice to other Men, is thereby violated; but in a more ſpecial ſenſe, becauſe this was a violation of humane Society, whereof God is the Author, and Preſident, and Defender. See Numb. 5. 6. and becauſe it was a ſecret ſin, of which God alone was the Witneſs and Judge. See Acts 5. 4. and becauſe God's Name was abuſed in it by Perjury, verſe 3. b To wit, in truſt. c Heb. Or in putting of the hand. Which may be either, 1. Another expreſſion of the ſame thing immediately going before, which is very frequent in Scripture; and ſo the ſenſe is, When one Man puts any thing into another Man's Hand to keep for him; and when he requires it, to reſtore it to him. Or, 2. A diſtinct branch, which ſeems more probable, and ſo it belongs to commerce or fellowſhip in Trading, which is very uſual when one Man puts any thing into another's Hand, not to keep it, as in the foregoing Word or Member, but to uſe and improve it for the common benefit of them both, in which caſes of Partnerſhip it is eaſie for one to deceive the other, and therefore proviſion is here made againſt it. And this is called a putting of the hand, becauſe ſuch Agreements and Aſſociations uſed to be confirmed by giving or joyning their Hands together, Jer. 50. 15. Gal 2 9. Compare Exod. 23. 1. d To wit, ſecretly; for he ſeems to ſpeak here of ſuch ſins as could not be proved by Witneſs. e Got any thing from him by Calumny, or Fraud, or Circumvention; for ſo the word ſignifies.

3 Or have found that which was loſt, and lieth concerning it, and * ſweareth falſly f: in any of all theſe that a man doeth, ſinning therein:

* Numb. 5. 6.

f His Oath being required, ſeeing there was no other way of diſcovery left.

4 Then it ſhall be, becauſe he hath ſinned, and is guilty g, that he ſhall reſtore that which he took violently away, or the thing which he hath deceitfully gotten, or that which was delivered him to keep, or the loſt thing which he found:

g This Guilt of his being manifeſted, either by his refuſing to ſwear when called to it, as in ſome of the caſes alledged; or by his voluntary confeſſion upon remorſe, whereby he reapeth this benefit, that he only reſtores the principal with the addition of a fifth part; whereas if he were convicted of his fault, he was to pay double, Exod. 22. 9.

5 Or all that about which he hath ſworn falſly, he ſhall even * reſtore it in the principal, and ſhall add the fifth part more thereto, and give it unto him to whom it appertaineth, * † in the day of his treſpaſs-offering h.

* Chap. 5. 16.

† Heb. the day of his treſpaſs.

h It muſt not be delayed, but reſtitution to Man muſt accompany repentance towards God. Compare Matth. 5. 23.

* Chap. 5. 15.

7 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him before the LORD: and it ſhall be forgiven him, for any thing of all that he hath done, in treſpaſſing therein.

night unto the morning l, and the fire of the altar ſhall be burning in it.)

i Hitherto he hath preſcribed the Sacrifices themſelves; now he comes to the manner of them. k To wit, of the daily one, of which Exod. 29. 38. Numb. 28. 3. as the following words ſhew. l The meaning is, the evening Burnt-offering was to be ſo managed and laid on piece after piece, that the fire might be conſtantly maintained by it. It is to be underſtood, that the morning Burnt-offerings were to be kept burning all the day from morning to night alſo; but he mentions not that, becauſe there was ſo great a number, and ſuch a conſtant ſucceſſion of Sacrifices in the day-time, that there needed no Law for feeding and keeping in the fire then; the only danger was for the night, when other Sacrifices were not offered, but only the evening Burnt-offering, which if it had been conſumed quickly, as the morning Burnt-offering was, there had been danger of the going out of that fire, which they were commanded diligently and conſtantly to keep in and maintain here below, verſe 13.

10 And the prieſt ſhall put on his linen garment m, and his linen breeches ſhall be put upon his fleſh, and take up the aſhes which the fire hath conſumed n with the burnt-offering on the altar, and he ſhall put them beſides the altar.

m (i.e.) His linen Coat, of which ſee Exod. 28. 39, 40. n The aſhes are ſaid to be conſumed improperly, when the wood is conſumed into aſhes; as meal is ſaid to be ground, Iſa. 47. 2. when the Corn is ground into Meal; and the naked to be ſtripped of their cloathing, Job 22. 6. when by being ſtripped they are made naked.

11 And he ſhall put off his garments, and put on other garments o, and carry forth the aſhes without the camp, unto a clean place p.

o Becauſe this was no ſacred, but a common work. p Where no dung or filth was laid. See Levit. 4. 12. and compare Levit. 14. 40, 41.

12 And the fire upon the altar ſhall be burning in it: it ſhall not be put out q; and the prieſt ſhall burn wood on it every morning r, and lay the burnt-offering in order upon it, and he ſhall burn thereon s q The fire coming down from Heaven, Levit. 9. 24. was to be perpetually preſerved, and not ſuffered to go out, partly that there might be no occaſion nor temptation to offer ſtrange fire, nor to mingle their inventions with God's appointments; and partly to teach them whence they were to expect the acceptance of all their Sacrifices, even from the Divine Mercy and Grace, ſignified by the fire which came down from Heaven, which was an uſual token of God's favourable acceptance. See the notes on Gen. 4. 4, 5. r Though the evening alſo be doubtleſs intended, as it appears from ver. 9 and from the nature of the thing; yet the morning is only mentioned, becauſe then the Altar was cleanſed, and the aſhes taken away, and a new fire made. s (i. e.) Upon the Burnt-offering, which thereby would be ſooner conſumed, that ſo way might be made for other Sacrifices, which were many.

* Chap. 3. * the fat of the peace-offerings.

3, 9, 14.

13 The fire ſhall ever be burning upon the altar, it ſhall never go out.

* Chap. 2. 1. Num. 15. 4.

14 ¶ * And this is the law of the meat-offering t: the ſons of Aaron ſhall offer it before the LORD, before the altar.

t To wit, of that which was offered alone, and that by any of the People, not by the Prieſt, for then it muſt have been all burnt. This Law delivered, Levit. 2. is here repeated for the ſake of ſome Additions here made to it; as it is a common practiſe of Law-makers, when they make additional Laws, to recite ſuch Laws to which ſuch Additions belong.

15 And he ſhall take of it his handful of the flour of the meat-offering, and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincenſe which is upon the meat-offering, and ſhall burn it upon the altar for a ſweet ſavour, even the † Heb. It ſhall be eaten unleavened, chap. 10. 12.

16 And the * remainder thereof ſhall Aaron and his ſons u eat: † with unleavened bread x ſhall it be eaten in the holy place: in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation y they ſhall eat it.

u The Males only might eat theſe, becauſe they were moſt holy things; whereas the Daughters of Aaron might eat other holy things, Numb. 18. 11. x Or rather, unleavened, for with is not in the Hebrew, and it diſturbs the ſenſe; For ſince the Meat-offering it ſelf was fine flour, Levit. 2. 1. it is not likely that they eat it with unleavened bread. y In ſome ſpecial Room appointed for that purpoſe. See Levit. 8. 31. 1 Sam. 3. 3. Ezek. 42. 13. and 46. 19, 24. The reaſon why this was to be eaten only by holy perſons, and that in an holy place, is given verſe 17. becauſe it is moſt holy, and therefore to be treated with greater reverence.

* Num. 18. 9, 10.

* Chap. 2. 3.

17 It z ſhall not be baken with leaven: * I have given it unto them for their portion of my offerings made by fire: it is * moſt holy, as is the ſin-offering, and as the treſpaſs-offering.

z That part which remains to the Prieſt; for the part here offered to God ſeems not to have been baked at all.

18 All the males among the children of Aaron ſhall eat of it: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations, concerning the offering of the LORD made by fire: * every one that toucheth them ſhall be holy a.

* Chap 4, 5, 6.

a It may be underſtood either 1. Of Perſons, that none ſhould touch, or eat them, but conſecrated Perſons, to wit, Prieſts. Or this may be an additional caution, that they who eat them ſhould be not only Prieſts, or their Male-children, but alſo holy, i. e. having no uncleanneſs upon them, for in that caſe even the Prieſts themſelves might not touch them. Or rather 2. of things, as may be gathered by comparing this with ver. 27, 28. Whatſoever toucheth them, as ſuppoſe the Diſh that receives them, the Knife, or Spoon, &c. which is uſed about them, thoſe ſhall be taken for holy, and not employed for common uſes. See Exod. 29. 37.

19 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

* Exod. 36.

20 This is the offering of Aaron, and of his ſons, which they ſhall offer unto the LORD, in the day when he is anointed b: the tenth part of an * Ephah of fine flour for a meat-offering perpetual c, half of it in the morning, and half thereof at night d.

b When any of them are anointed for High-Prieſt; for he only of all the Prieſts was to be anointed in future Ages. This Law of his Conſecration was delivered before, Exod. 29. 2, 24, 25. and is here repeated becauſe of ſome additions made to it. c To wit, whenſoever any of them ſhall be ſo anointed. d Or, In the evening; the one to be annexed to the Morning-Sacrifice, the other to the Evening-Sacrifice, over and beſides that Meat-offering which every day was to be added to the daily Morning and Evening Sacrifices, Exod. 29. 40.

21 In a pan it ſhall be made with oil, and when it is baken e, thou f ſhalt bring it in: and the baken pieces of the meat-offering ſhalt thou offer for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

e Or, Fried, ſo that it ſwells and bubbles up. f Who art ſo anointed and conſecrated, verſe 22.

* Chap 3.

* Exod 25.

22 And the prieſt of his ſons * that is anointed in his ſtead ſhall offer it: it is a ſtatute for ever unto the LORD; * it ſhall be wholly burnt.

23 For every meat-offering for the prieſt ſhall be wholly burnt: it ſhall not be eaten f.

f No part of it ſhall be eaten by the Prieſt, as it was when the Offering was for the People. The reaſon of the difference is, partly becauſe when he offered it for the People, he was to have ſome recompence for his pains, which he could not expect when he offered it for himſelf; partly to ſignify the imperfection of the Levitical Prieſts, who could not bear their own iniquity; for the Prieſt's eating part of the Peoples Sacrifices did ſignify his typical bearing of the Peoples iniquity, as appears from Levit. 10. 17. and partly to teach the Prieſts and Miniſters of God, that it is their duty to ſerve God with ſingleneſs of heart, and to be content with God's honour, though they have no preſent advantage by it.

24 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

* Chap 3, 5, 11 and 4. 29, 33.

* Chap 22.

25 Speak unto Aaron and to his ſons, ſaying, This is the law of the ſin-offering: * in the place where the burnt-offering is killed, ſhall the ſin-offering be killed before the LORD: it is moſt holy.

26 * The prieſt that offereth it for ſin g, ſhall eat it: in the holy place ſhall it be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation.

g For the ſins of the Rulers, or of the People, or any of them, but not for the ſins of the Prieſts; for then its blood was brought into the Tabernacle, and therefore it might not be eaten.

† Or, whatſoever. Ver. 18

27 † Whatſoever ſhall touch the fleſh thereof, ſhall be holy *: and when there is ſprinkled of the blood thereof upon any garment h, thou ſhalt waſh that whereon it was ſprinkled in the holy place i.

* Of which ſee the note on verſe 18. h Upon the Prieſt's Garment; for it was he only that ſprinkled it, and in ſo doing he might eaſily ſprinkle his Garments. i Partly out of reverence to the blood of Sacrifices, which hereby was kept from a prophane or common touch; and partly that ſuch Garments might be decent, and fit for ſacred Adminiſtrations.

* Chap 33.

28 But the earthen veſſel wherein it is ſodden, * ſhall be broken k: and if it be ſodden in a brazen pot, it ſhall be both ſcoured, and rinſed in water l.

k Becauſe being full of pores, the Liquor in which it was ſodden might eaſily ſink into it, whereby it was ceremonially holy, and therefore was broken, leſt afterwards it ſhould be abuſed to prophane or common uſes. l And not broken, as being of conſiderable value, which therefore God would not have unneceſſarily waſted. And this being of a more ſolid ſubſtance than an Earthen Veſſel, was not ſo apt to drink in the humour.

29 All the males among the prieſts ſhall eat thereof: it is moſt holy.

* He 11.

30 * And no ſin-offering m whereof any of the blood is brought into the tabernacle of the congregation to reconcile withal in the holy place ſhall be eaten, it ſhall be burnt in the fire.

m Such were the Sacrifices offered for the High-Prieſt, or for the whole Aſſembly, either ſeverally, Levit. 4. 7, 18. or jointly for both, in the yearly atonement, Levit. 16. 27, 33.

CHAP. VII.

The law of the treſpaſs-offering, and what fell to the prieſts, both of this, and ſome other ſacrifices, 1——10. The law of the ſacrifices of peace-offerings, of thankſgiving, 11——15. Of vows and free-will-offerings; the unclean perſon eating thereof, to die, 16——21. Fat not to be eaten; what fat might be uſed for other things: he that eats of the fat of the offering to die, and no blood to be eat, 22——27. Another caution concerning thank-offerings, 28——34. The concluſion of the former laws, which are repeated, 35, 38.

*Chap. 5. and 6. LIkewiſe * this is the law of the treſpaſs-offering *: it is moſt holy.

*Chap.21. 22. 2 In * the place where they kill the burnt-offering, ſhall they kill the treſpaſs-offering, and the blood thereof ſhall he ſprinkle round about upon the altar.

*Chap. 1. 3, 5, 11. and 4. 24. 29. 33. *Exod.29. 13. chap. 3. 4, 10. and 4. 8, 9. 3 And he ſhall offer of it * all the fat thereof, the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards,

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them which is a by the flanks, and the caul that is above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away.

a Or, and that which is, &c. So this is another Fat, as may ſeem probable from the mention of the ſeveral parts, the Kidneys, and the flanks. For it ſeems prepoſterous after a plain and exact deſcription of the very particular place of the Fat, the kidneys, to add another more dark and doubtful deſcription of it from the flanks. And the Hebrew Writers, whoſe common practice of theſe things makes them the beſt Interpreters of it, make theſe divers kinds or parts of Fat. And ſo there is only an Ellipſis of the Conjunction copulative, which is Pſal 133. 3. and in many other places, as hath been already ſhewed.

5 And the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar, for an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a treſpaſs-offering.

*Num.18. 9, 10. 6 * Every male b among the prieſts ſhall eat thereof: it ſhall be eaten in the holy place: it is moſt holy.

b Suppoſing him not to have any uncleanneſs upon him, verſ. 20. or other impediment.

*Chap. 6. 26. 7 As the ſin-offering is, ſo is * the treſpaſs-offering c: there is one law for them: the prieſt that maketh atonement therewith ſhall have it d.

c To wit, in the matter here following, for in other things they differed. d (i. e.) By a Synecdoche; that part of it, which was by God allowed to the Prieſt. See Levit. 6. 26.

8 And the prieſt that offereth any mans burnt-offering, even the prieſt ſhall have to himſelf the skin of the burnt-offering which he hath offered.

*Chap. 2. 3, 10. † Or, on the flat plate, or ſlice. 9 And all * the meat-offering e that is baken in the oven, and all that is dreſſed in the frying-pan, and † in the pan, ſhall be the prieſts that offereth it f.

e Except the part reſerved by God, Levit. 2. 2, 9. f Becauſe theſe were ready dreſt and hot, and not to be preſently eaten; and becauſe the Prieſt, who offered it, was in reaſon to expect, and have ſomething more than his Brethren who laboured not about it; and that he had only in this Offering, for the other were equally diſtributed.

10 And every meat-offering mingled with oil, and dry g, ſhall all the ſons of Aaron have, one as much as another h.

g Without Oil, or Drink-offering, as thoſe Levit. 5. 11. Numb. 5. 15. h The ſenſe may be either 1. That every Prieſt ſhall have equal right to this, when the courſe of his miniſtration comes. But then there was no reaſon to make ſo great an alteration of the phraſe, nor to make any diſtinction of the differing kinds of Meat-offerings, if in both they were to be the Prieſts that offered them, as is expreſſed verſe 9. and here, as they ſay, intended. Or rather 2. That theſe were to be equally divided among all the Prieſts. And there was manifeſt reaſon for this difference, becauſe theſe were in greater quantity than the former; and being raw, might more eaſily and commodiouſly be divided and reſerved for the ſeveral Prieſts to dreſs it in that way which each of them beſt liked.

*Chap. 3. 22. 18. 11 And * this is the law of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings which he ſhall offer unto the LORD.

12 If he offer it for a thankſgiving i, then he ſhall offer with the ſacrifice of thankſgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour fryed.

i For mercies received. See Levit. 22. 29. 2 Chron. 29. 31. and 33. 16.

13 Beſides the cakes, he ſhall offer for his offering leavened bread k, with the ſacrifice of thankſgiving of his peace-offering l.

k Partly becauſe this was a Sacrifice of another kind than thoſe in which leaven was forbidden, this being a Sacrifice of Thankſgiving for God's bleſſings, among which leavened Bread was one; partly to ſhew that leaven was not ſo ſtrictly forbidden in other Sacrifices, as if it were evil in it ſelf, but to teach us wholly to reſt in the will of God in all his appointments, without too ſcrupulous an enquiry into the particular reaſons of them. Obj. Leaven was univerſally forbidden, Lev. 2. 11. Anſ. 1. That prohibition concerned only things offered and burnt upon the Altar, which this Bread was not, but it was offered only towards the Prieſt's food. 2. That was another kind of Sacrifice, and therefore it is no wonder if it had other Rites. 3 That Leaven was not univerſally forbidden, appears from Levit. 23. 17. l Or, With the ſacrifice of thankſgiving for his peace or proſperity.

14 And of it m he ſhall offer one out of the whole oblation for an heave-offering n unto the LORD, and it ſhall be the prieſts that ſprinkleth the blood of the peace-offerings.

m Of it, (i. e.) Either of the Loaves of leavened bread mentioned verſe 13. or of the Offering, one of each part of the whole oblation, as it follows; it being moſt probable and agreeable to the Rules and Laws laid down before and afterward, that the Prieſt ſhould have a ſhare in the unleavened Cakes and Wafers, as well as in the leavened Bread. n Concerning the Heave-offerings, ſee Exod. 29. 24, 28.

15 And the fleſh of the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings for thankſgiving ſhall be eaten n the ſame day that it is offered: he ſhall not leave any of it until the morning.

n By the Prieſts and Offerers, Levit. 22. 30.

16 But * if the ſacrifice of his peace-offering be a vow o, or a voluntary offering p, it ſhall be eaten the ſame day that he offereth his ſacrifice; and on the morrow alſo the remainder of it ſhall be eaten q. *Chap.19. 5, 6.

o Offered in performance of a Vow, the man having deſired ſome ſpecial favour from God, and vowed the Sacrifice to God if he would grant it. p Which a man freely offered to God, in teſtimony of his faith and love to God, without any particular injunction from God, or deſign of his own ſpecial advantage thereby. See Levit. 22. 23. Ezek. 46. 12. q Which was not allowed for the Thank-offering. The reaſon of which difference is to be fetched only from God's good pleaſure and will, to which he expects our obedience, though we diſcern not the reaſon of his appointments.

17 But the remainder of the fleſh of the ſacrifice on the third day, ſhall be burnt with fire r.

r That it might neither putrefy, and thereby be expoſed to contempt; nor yet be reſerved either for ſuperſtitious abuſe, or for the Prieſt's domeſtick uſe, which would ſavour of covetouſneſs, and of diſtruſt of God's care for their future proviſions.

18 * And if any of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings be eaten at all on the third day, it ſhall not be accepted, neither ſhall it be imputed unto him s that offereth it: it ſhall be an abomination, and the ſoul that eateth of it ſhall bear his iniquity. *Chap.19. 8.

s For an acceptable ſervice to God.

19 And the fleſh t that toucheth any unclean thing u, ſhall not be eaten: it ſhall be burnt with fire: and as for the fleſh x, all that be clean y ſhall eat thereof.

t To wit, of the holy Offering, of which he is here treating; and therefore the general word is to be ſo limited; for other fleſh one might eat in this caſe, Deut. 12. 15, 22. u After its oblation; which might eaſily happen, as it was conveyed from the Altar to the place where it was eaten: For it was not eaten in the holy place, as appears, becauſe it was eaten by the Prieſts, together with the Offerers, who might not come thither. x i. e. The other fleſh; that which ſhall not be polluted by any unclean touch. y Whether Prieſts or Offerers, or Gueſts invited to the Feaſt. See 1 Sam. 9. 12. and 20. 26. Both the fleſh and the Eaters of it muſt be clean.

20 But the ſoul that eateth z of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings that pertain unto the LORD, * having his uncleanneſs upon him a, even that ſoul * that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people. *Chap 15. 3. *Gen. 17. 14.

z Knowingly; for if it were done ignorantly, a Sacrifice was accepted for it, Levit. 5. 2. a (i. e.) Not being cleanſed from his uncleanneſs according to the appointment, Levit. 11. 24, &c. This Verſe ſpeaks of uncleanneſs from an internal cauſe, as by an Iſſue, &c. for what was from an external cauſe is ſpoken of in the next Verſe.

21 Moreover, the ſoul that ſhall touch any unclean thing, as * the uncleanneſs of man b, or any * unclean beaſt, or any abominable unclean thing, and eat of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings, which pertain unto the LORD, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people. *Chap.12. and 13. and 15. *Chap 11. 24, 28.

b Or, Of women, for the word ſignifies both; and that there were ſuch things coming from Men or Women, the touch whereof did pollute men and things, may be ſeen Levit. 15. and elſewhere. Others make it an Hypallage, uncleanneſs of man, for a man of uncleanneſs, or, an unclean man. But that ſeems not neceſſary here.

22 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Ye ſhall eat no manner fat of ox, or of ſheep, or of goat c.

c The general prohibition of eating Fat, Levit. 3. 17. is here explained of, and reſtrained to, thoſe kind of Creatures which were ſacrificed to God.

† Heb. carcaſs. 24 And the fat of the † beaſt that dieth of it ſelf, and the fat of that which is torn with beaſts d, may be uſed in any other uſe: but ye ſhall in no wiſe eat of it.

d He ſpeaketh ſtill of the ſame kinds of Beaſts, and ſheweth that this prohibition reacheth not only to the Fat of thoſe Beaſts which were offered to God, but alſo of thoſe that died, or were kill'd at home. And if this ſeems a ſuperfluous prohibition concerning the Fat, ſince the Lean as well as the Fat of ſuch Beaſts was forbidden, Levit. 22. 8. it muſt be noted that that prohibition reached only to the Prieſts, verſe 4.

25 For whoſoever eateth the fat of the beaſt, of which men offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, even the ſoul that eateth it, ſhall be cut off from his people.

* Gen. 9. 4. Chap. 3. 17. and 17. 14. 26 * Moreover, ye ſhall eat no manner of blood, whether it be of fowl, or of beaſt, in any of your dwellings.

27 Whatſoever ſoul it be that eateth any manner of blood, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people.

28 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

29 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, He that offereth the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings unto the LORD, ſhall bring e his oblation f unto the LORD g, of the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings.

e Not by another, but by himſelf, as it is explained verſe 30. f (i. e.) Thoſe parts of the Peace-offering, which are in a ſpecial manner offered to God, to wit, the Fat, and Breaſt, and Shoulder, as it follows. g (i. e.) To the Tabernacle, where the Lord was preſent in a ſpecial manner. He ſhews, that though part of ſuch Offerings might be eaten in any clean place, Levit. 10. 14. yet not till they had been killed, and part of them offered to the Lord in the place appointed by him for that purpoſe.

* Chap. 3. 3, 4. 19. 14. 30 * His own hands ſhall bring h the offerings of the LORD made by fire i, the fat with the breaſt, it ſhall he bring, that the breaſt may be waved k for a wave-offering before the LORD.

h After the Beaſt was killed, and the parts of it divided, the Prieſt was to put the parts mentioned into the hands of the Offerer. See Exod. 29. 22, 23, 24. i So called not ſtrictly, as Burnt-offerings are, becauſe ſome parts of theſe were left for the Prieſt, ver. 31. but more largely, becauſe even theſe Peace-offerings were in part, though not wholly, burnt. k To and fro, by his hands, which were ſupported and directed by the hands of the Prieſt.

31 And the prieſt ſhall burn the fat upon the altar: but the breaſt ſhall be Aarons and his ſons l.

l (i. e.) The portion of every ſucceeding High-prieſt and his Family; compare Exod. 29. 26.

32 And the right ſhoulder ſhall be given unto the prieſt for an heave-offering of the ſacrifices of your peace-offerings.

33 He among the ſons of Aaron that offereth the blood of the peace-offerings, and the fat, ſhall have the right ſhoulder for his part.

* Exod. 29. 28. Chap. 10. 14. Numb. 18. 18. Deut. 18. 3. 34 For * the wave-breaſt and heave-ſhoulder m have I taken of the children of Iſrael, from off the ſacrifices of their peace-offerings, and have given them unto Aaron the prieſt, and unto his ſons, by a ſtatute for ever, from among the children of Iſrael.

m The breaſt or heart is the ſeat of Wiſdom, and the ſhoulder of ſtrength for action, and theſe two may denote that Wiſdom, and Vertue, or Power, which was in Chriſt our High-prieſt, 1 Cor. 1. 24. and which ought to be in every Prieſt.

35 ¶ This is the portion of the anointing n of Aaron, and of the anointing of his ſons, out of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, in the day o when he preſented them, to miniſter unto the LORD in the prieſts office.

n (i. e.) Of the Prieſthood; the ſign put for the thing ſignified; and the anointing by a like figure is put for the right, or part of the Sacrifices belonging to the Prieſt by vertue of his anointing, as plainly appears from the words here following, out of the offerings, &c. o This was their portion appointed them by God in that day, and therefore to be given to them in after Ages. Or, from the day, &c. and thence forward; the Hebrew Prepoſition beth being put for min, as it is frequently.

36 Which the LORD commanded to be given them of the children of Iſrael, * in the day that he anointed them, by a ſtatute for ever throughout their generations. * Exod. 13, 15. Chap. 8. 12, 30.

37 This is the law of the burnt-offering, of the meat-offering, and of the ſin-offering, and of the treſpaſs-offering, and of the conſecrations p, and of the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings:

p (i. e.) Of the Sacrifice offered at the conſecration of the Prieſts.

38 Which the LORD commanded Moſes in mount Sinai in the day that he commanded the children of Iſrael to offer their oblations unto the LORD, in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

CHAP. VIII.

Moſes by God's command calls together Aaron and his ſons, and the whole congregation, 1——5. Waſhes Aaron and his ſons, 6. Puts on the prieſtly garments, 7——9. Anoints the tabernacle, with the altar and laver, to ſanctify them, 10——11. Anoints Aaron, 12. Puts the holy garments on his ſons, 13. offers ſacrifices for them, a bullock for a ſin-offering, 14—18. and a ram for a burnt-offering, 18—21. and a ſecond ram for conſecration; uſes the blood about ſome parts of their bodies; gives the parts into their hands to wave before the Lord, and ſprinkles of the anointing oil and blood from upon the altar, on them and their garments, 22—30. Declares to them God's charge, which they perform, 31——36.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes a, ſaying, a This is here premiſed, to ſhew that Moſes did not confer the Prieſthood upon Aaron by vertue of his relation or affection to him, but by God's appointment, which alſo appears from the following Story.

2 * Take Aaron and his ſons with him, and the * garments, and * the anointing oil, and a bullock for the ſin-offering, and two rams, and a basket of unleavened bread. * Exod. 1. * Exod. 2. 4. * Exod. 24.

3 And gather thou all the congregation b together, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

b The Elders which repreſented all, and as many of the People as would, and could get thither, that all might be witneſſes both of Aaron's Commiſſion from God, and of his Work and Buſineſs.

4 And Moſes did as the LORD commanded him, and the aſſembly was gathered together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

5 And Moſes ſaid unto the congregation, * This is the thing which the LORD commanded to be done. * Exod. 4.

6 And Moſes brought Aaron and his ſons, and waſhed them with water.

7 And he put upon him the coat c, and girded him with the girdle, and clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod upon him, and he girded him with the curious girdle of the ephod, and bound it unto him therewith.

c The linen Breeches preſcribed Exod. 28. 42. are not here mentioned, becauſe they were not to be put on at his Conſecration, but afterwards in the execution of his Office.

8 And he put the breaſt-plate upon him: alſo * he put in the breaſt-plate the Urim and the Thummim. * Exod. 30.

9 And he put the mitre upon his head: alſo upon the mitre, even upon his forefront did he put the golden plate, the holy Crown *, as the LORD * commanded Moſes. * Exod. 39, &c.

* Of which ſee Exod. 29. 6

10 * And Moſes took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle, and all that was therein, and ſanctified them. * Exod. 26.

11 And he ſprinkled thereof upon the altar ſeven times d, and anointed the altar, and all his veſſels, both the laver e, and his foot, to ſanctify them.

d To ſignify the ſingular uſe and holineſs of it, which it was not only to have in it ſelf, but alſo to communicate to all the Sacrifices laid upon it. e Where the Prieſts waſhed themſelves, and the Sacrifices, and Veſſels or Inſtruments of the holy miniſtration. See Levit. 6. 28.

12 And he * poured f of the anointing oil upon Aarons head, and anointed him, to ſanctify him. Exod.29. cclus 45.

f In a plentiful manner, as appears from Pſal. 133. 2. whereas other perſons and things were only anointed or ſprinkled with it.

13 * And Moſes brought Aarons ſons, and put coats upon them, and girded them with girdles, and † put bonnets upon them, as the LORD commanded Moſes. *Exod. 29. † Heb.

14 * And he brought the bullock g for the ſin-offering, and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the bullock for the ſin-offering. *Exod. 29.

g There were indeed ſeven Bullocks to be offered at his conſecration, one every day, Exod. 29. 35, 36. but here he mentions only one, either by a common Enallage of number, or becauſe he here deſcribes only the work of the firſt day, and leaves the reſt to be gathered from it; of which ſee ver. 33.

15 And he ſlew it, and Moſes took the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about, with his finger, and purified the altar, and poured the blood at the bottom of the altar, and ſanctified it, to make reconciliation upon it.

16 And he took all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caule above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and Moſes burned it upon the altar.

17 But the bullock, and his hide h, his fleſh, and his dung, he burnt with fire without the camp, as the LORD * commanded Moſes. *Exod 29.

h Which in the offerings for the people was not burnt, but given to the Prieſt.

18 ¶ * And he brought the ram for the burnt-offering: and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the ram. *Exod. 29.

19 And he i killed it, and Moſes ſprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

i Either Moſes, as in the following Clauſe, the Pronoun being put for the Noun; or ſome other perſon by Moſes his appointment; which may be the reaſon why he is not named here, as he is to the ſprinkling of the blood, which was an Action more proper to the Prieſt, and more eſſential to the Sacrifice, as the Learned have obſerved.

20 And he cut the ram into pieces, and Moſes burnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat.

21 And he waſhed the inwards and the legs in water, and Moſes burnt the whole ram upon the altar: It was a burnt-ſacrifice for a ſweet ſavour, and an offering made by fire unto the LORD, * as the LORD commanded Moſes. *Exod. 29. 18.

22 ¶ And * he brought the other ram, the ram of † conſecration, and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the ram. *Exod. 29. † Heb. fil-

23 And he ſlew it, and Moſes took of the blood of it, and put it upon the tip k of Aarons right ear, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.

k The loweſt and ſofteſt part of the Ear, called the tip or lap of the Ear. See Exod. 29. 20.

24 And he brought Aarons ſons, and Moſes put of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the thumbs of their right hands, and upon the great toes of their right feet: and Moſes ſprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

25 And he took the fat, and the rump, and all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys and their fat, and the right ſhoulder.

26 And out of the basket of unleavened bread, that was before the LORD, he took one unleavened cake, and a cake of oyled bread, and one wafer, and put them upon the fat, and upon the right ſhoulder.

27 And he put all * upon Aarons hands, and upon his ſons hands, and waved them for a wave-offering before the LORD. *Exod. 29. 24, &c.

28 And Moſes took them from off their hands, and burnt them on the altar, upon the burnt-offering: they were † conſecrations for a ſweet ſavour: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD. † Heb. fillings.

29 And Moſes took the breaſt, and waved it for a wave-offering before the LORD: For of the ram of conſecration it was Moſes * part l, as the LORD commanded Moſes. *Exod. 29. 26.

l Who at this time adminiſtring the Prieſt's Office was to receive the Prieſts Wages; it being moſt juſt and reaſonable that the Work and Wages ſhould go together.

30 * And Moſes took of the anointing oyl, and of the blood which was upon the altar, and ſprinkled it upon Aaron, and upon his garments and upon his ſons, and upon his ſons garments with him: and ſanctified Aaron, and his garments, and his ſons, and his ſons garments with him. *Exod. 30. 30.

31 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, and to his ſons, Boil the fleſh m at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and there * eat it with the bread that is in the basket of conſecrations, as I commanded, ſaying, Aaron and his ſons ſhall eat it. *Exod. 29. 32.

m That which was left of the Ram, and particularly the Breaſt, which was ſaid to be Moſes his part, verſe 29. and by him was given to Aaron, that he and his Sons might eat of it, in token that they and only they ſhould have the right to do ſo for the future.

32 And that which remaineth of the fleſh, and of the bread, ſhall ye burn with fire.

33 And ye ſhall not go out of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation in ſeven days, until the days of your conſecration be at an end: for * ſeven days n ſhall he o conſecrate you. *Exod. 29. 30, 35.

n In which the ſame Ceremonies were to be repeated, as the next verſe implies; and other Rites to be performed. o Either God; or Moſes; for the words may be ſpoken by Moſes, either in God's name, or in his own; Moſes ſpeaking of himſelf in the third perſon, which is very common in Scripture.

34 As he hath done this day, ſo the LORD hath commanded to do, to make an atonement for you.

35 Therefore ſhall ye abide at the door of the congregation day and night ſeven days, and keep the charge of the LORD p, that ye die not q, for ſo I am commanded.

p What God hath commanded you concerning your Conſecration. q If the threatning ſeem too ſevere for the fault, it muſt be conſidered both that it is the uſual practiſe of Lawgivers moſt ſeverely to puniſh the firſt Offences for the terrour and caution of others, and for the maintenance of their own Authority; and that this Tranſgreſſion was aggravated by many circumſtances, being committed by ſacred and eminent Perſons, and that in the preſence of the People, which made it a publick Scandal, and in God's Worſhip, where he is very tender and jealous, and againſt a plain and eaſy command of God, and at a time when they were receiving high Favours and Priviledges from God. Nor is Sin to be eſteemed or meaſured by the idle fancies of Men of corrupt Minds and Lives, whoſe Intereſts and Luſts eaſily blind their Minds; but by the Authority, Majeſty and Will of the Great, and Wiſe, and Juſt Lawgiver.

36 So Aaron and his ſons did all things which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes.

CHAP. IX.

Moſes commands Aaron to offer a ſin-offering, and burnt offering, and peace and meat offering; the congregation drawing near, and ſo the glory of the Lord ſhould appear to them, to make atonement for himſelf and the people, 1——7. Aaron's offering for himſelf, 8——14. For the people, 15——21. whom he bleſſes, firſt by prayer to God, and then by ſolemn declaration to them; the glory of God appears; fire from heaven conſumes the ſacrifice; the people ſhout and are amazed, 22——24.

AND it came to paſs on the eighth day a, that Moſes called Aaron and his ſons, and the elders of Iſrael b.

a To wit, from the firſt day of his Conſecration, or when the ſeven days of his Conſecration were ended, chap. 8. 33, 35. as appears from Exod. 29. 30, &c. Ezek. 43. 27. The eighth day is famous in Scripture for the perfecting and purifying both of Men and Beaſts. See Levit. 12. 2, 3. and 14. 8, 9, 10. and 15. 13, 14. and 22. 27 h All the Congregation were called to be Witneſſes of Aaron's Inſtalment into his Office, to prevent their murmurings and contempt, which being done, the Elders were now ſufficient to be Witneſſes of Aaron's firſt execution of his Office.

*Exod. 29. 1. 2 And he ſaid unto Aaron, * Take thee a young calf c for a ſin-offering d, and a ram for a burnt-offering without blemiſh, and offer them before the LORD.

c Heb. A calf, the ſon of a Bull or Cow: Which may ſeem to be added purpoſely to intimate that it was not a young calf properly ſo called, but a young bullock, for that was the Sacrifice enjoyned for the High-prieſt's Sin-offering, Levit. 4. 3. Though it be not material, if this be a young calf, and that a young bull, becauſe the grounds and ends of the ſeveral Sacrifices differ, that Levit. 4. being for his particular Sin; and this for his own and Family's Sins in general, and therefore no wonder if the Sacrifices alſo differ. d For himſelf and his own Sins, which was an evidence of the imperfection of that Prieſthood, and of the neceſſity of another and a better.

*Chap. 4. 23. Ezra. 6. 17. 3 And unto the children of Iſrael thou ſhalt ſpeak, ſaying, * Take ye a kid of the goats for a ſin-offering e, and a calf, and a lamb, both of the firſt year, without blemiſh for a burnt-offering.

e For the People, as it is expreſſed here verſe 15. for whoſe Sin a young Bullock was required, Levit. 4. 15. but that was for ſome particular Sin, but this was more general and indefinite for all their Sins. Beſides, there being an eye here had to the Prieſt's Conſecration and entrance into his Office, it is no wonder if there be ſome difference in theſe Sacrifices from thoſe before preſcribed.

4 Alſo a bullock, and a ram, for peace-offerings to ſacrifice before the LORD, and a meat-offering mingled with oyl: for * to day the LORD will appear f unto you. * Ver. 23.

f See the fulfilling of this Promiſe, verſe 24. Heb. Hath appeared. He ſpeaks of the thing to come as if it were paſt, which is frequent in Scripture, to give them the more aſſurance of the thing.

5 ¶ And they brought that which Moſes commanded before the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the congregation drew near and ſtood before the LORD g.

g Before the Tabernacle where God dwelt.

6 And Moſes ſaid, This is the thing which the LORD commanded that ye ſhould do: and the glory of the LORD h ſhall appear unto you.

h The glorious Manifeſtation of God's powerful and gracious Preſence, verſe 24. Compare Exod. 24. 16, 17. and 40. 34, 35. Ezek. 43. 2.

*Heb. 5. 3. 7 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Go unto the altar and * offer i thy ſin-offering and thy burnt-offering, and make an atonement for thy ſelf, and for the people k: and offer the offering of the people, and make an atonement for them, as the LORD commanded.

i Moſes had hitherto ſacrificed, but now he reſigneth his Work to Aaron, and actually gives him that Commiſſion which from God he had received for him. k The Order is very obſervable, firſt for thy ſelf, otherwiſe thou art unfit to do it for the People. Hereby God would teach us, both the deficiency of this Prieſthood, and the abſolute neceſſity of an higher and hetter Prieſt, Heb. 7. 26, 27. and how important and needful it is that God's Miniſters ſhould be in the Grace and Favour of God themſelves, that their Miniſtrations may be acceptable to God, and profitable to the People.

8 ¶ Aaron therefore went unto the altar, and ſlew the calf of the ſin-offering which was for himſelf.

9 And the ſons of Aaron brought the blood unto him, and he dipt his finger in the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar l, and poured out the blood at the bottom of the altar.

l To wit, of Burnt-offerings, of which alone he ſpeaks both in the foregoing and following words; and the Blood was poured out at the bottom of this Altar only, not of the Altar of Incenſe, as appears from Levit. 4. 7. where indeed there is mention of putting ſome of the Blood upon the Horns of the Altar of Incenſe, in this caſe of the Prieſt's Sacrificing for his own Sins. But there ſeems to be a double difference, 1. That Sacrifice was offered for ſome particular Sin, this for his Sins indefinitely. 2. There he is ſuppoſed to be compleat in his Office, and here he is but entring into his Office, and therefore muſt prepare and ſanctify himſelf by this Offering upon the Brazen Altar in the Court, before he can be admitted into the Holy Place where the Altar of Incenſe was. And the like is to be ſaid for the difference between the Sin-offering for the People here, and Levit. 4. 17, 18.

10 But the fat and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver of the ſin-offering he burnt m upon the altar, * as the LORD commanded Moſes. *Chap. 4. 8.

m Either 1. Diſpoſed it for the burning, (i. e.) laid it upon the Altar where it was to be burnt by the heavenly Fire, verſe 24. Thus Interpreters generally underſtand the word here, as alſo verſe 13, 17, 20. by an anticipation; or the conſequent is put for the antecedent, of which there are Examples in Scripture. Or 2. Properly burnt by ordinary Fire, which was uſed and allowed until the Fire came down from Heaven, verſe 24. though afterwards it was forbidden. And if it had not been allowed otherwiſe, yet this being done by Aaron at the command of Moſes, and conſequently with God's approbation, it was unqueſtionably Lawful. And therefore there ſeems to be no neceſſity of departing from the proper ſenſe of the word. Add to this, that there is nothing ſaid to be conſumed by that heavenly Fire, but the burnt-offering with the fat belonging to it, namely, that Burnt-offering mentioned verſe 16. which therefore is not there ſaid to be burnt, as it is ſaid of the other Burnt-offering, verſe 13. and of the reſt of the Sacrifices in their places.

11 And * the fleſh, and the hide he burnt with fire, without the camp. *Chap. 4. 11.

12 And he ſlew the burnt-offering, and Aarons ſons preſented unto him the blood, which he ſprinkled round about upon the altar.

13 And they preſented the burnt-offering unto him, with the pieces thereof, and the head: and he burnt them upon the altar.

14 And he did waſh the inwards and the legs, and burnt them upon the burnt-offering on the altar.

15 ¶ And he brought the peoples offering n, and took the goat which was the ſin-offering for the people, and ſlew it, and offered it for ſin, as the firſt o.

n Which was to be offered for the People, as the former was for himſelf, verſe 7. o To wit, in like manner as he did that for the Prieſt, verſe 8. and conſequently burnt this, as he did the other, verſe 11. for which Moſes reproves him, Levit. 10. 17.

16 And he brought the burnt-offering p, and offered it * according to the † manner. *Chap. 1. 3, 10. † Or, ordinance.

p Which alſo was offered for the People, as the laſt mentioned Sin-offering was.

17 And he brought the * meat-offering q, and † took an handful thereof, and burnt it upon the altar * beſides the burnt-ſacrifice of the morning r. *Chap. 2. 1, 2. †Heb. filled his hand out of it. *Exod. 29. 38.

q Which was always to be added to the Burnt-offering. See Levit. 6. r Which was to be firſt offered every morning; for God will not have his ordinary and ſtated ſervice ſwallowed up by extraordinary.

18 He ſlew alſo the bullock and the ram, for * a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, which was for the people: and Aarons ſons preſented unto him the blood (which he ſprinkled upon the altar round about.) *Chap. 3. 1.

19 And the fat of the bullock and of the ram, the rump, and that which covereth the inwards s, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver, s The Fat which covereth the Inwards, or the Guts. Which words are here underſtood, as appears by comparing this place with Levit. 3. 3, 9. and 4. 8. and 7. 3. where they are expreſſed.

20 And they put the fat upon the breaſts t, and he burnt the fat upon the altar.

t Which were reſerved for the Prieſt out of the Peace-offerings, which were offered for the People. See Levit. 7. 30, 31, 34.

21 And the breaſts, and the right ſhoulder, Aaron waved for a * wave-offering before the LORD, as Moſes commanded. *Exod. 29. 24, 26.

22 And Aaron lift up his hand u towards the people, and bleſſed them x, and came down y from offering of the ſin-offering, and the burnt-offering, and peace-offerings.

u His right Hand, which the Jews ſay was lifted up higheſt; or his hands, according to the other reading, which was the uſual Rite of Bleſſing. See Luke 24. 50. By this poſture he ſignified both whence he expected the Bleſſing, and his hearty deſire of it for them. x In ſome ſuch manner, as is related, Numb. 6. 24, &c. though not in the ſame form, as ſome ſuppoſe, for it is not probable that he uſed it before God delivered it. And this Bleſſing was an act of his Prieſtly Office, no leſs than Sacrificing. See Gen. 14. 18, 19. Numb. 6. 23. Deut. 10. 8. and 21. 5. Luke 24. 50. y To wit, from the Altar; whence he is ſaid to come down, either 1. Becauſe the Altar ſtood upon raiſed ground to which they went up by an inſenſible aſcent. Compare Exod 20 26. Or 2 Becauſe it was nearer the Holy Place, and the Holy of Holies, which was the upper end.

23 And Moſes z and Aaron went into the tabernacle of the congregation, and came out, and bleſſed the people a: and the glory of the LORD b appeared unto all the people.

z Who went in with Aaron to direct him, and to ſee him perform thoſe parts of his Office which were to be done in the Holy Place, about the Lights, and the Table of Shew-bread, and of the Altar of Incenſe, upon which part of the Blood of the Sacrifices now offered was to be ſprinkled, according to the Law, Levit. 4. 7, 16. a (i. e.) Prayed to God for his Bleſſing upon the People, as this phraſe is explained, Numb. 6. 23, &c. and particularly for his gracious Acceptation of theſe and all ſucceeding Sacrifices, and for his ſignification thereof by ſome extraordinary Token, which accordingly happened. b Either a miraculous brightneſs ſhining from the Cloudy Pillar, as Exod. 16 10. Numb. 14. 10 Or a glorious and viſible Diſcovery of God's gracious Preſence and Acceptance of the preſent Miniſtry and Service, as it follows.

* Gen. 4. 4. 1 King. 18. 38. 2 Chro. 7. 1, 2 Mac. 2 10, 11.

24 And * there came a fire c out from before the LORD d, and conſumed upon the altar the burnt-offering, and the fat: which when all the people ſaw, they ſhouted e, and fell on their faces.

c In Token of God's Acceptation and Approbation of the Prieſthood now inſtituted, and the Sacrifices now offered, and conſequently of others of the like nature. See the like inſtances Judges 6. 21. and 13. 19, 20. 1 Chron. 21. 26. And this fire now given was to be carefully kept, and not ſuffered to go out, Levit. 6. 13. and therefore was carried in a peculiar Veſſel in their Journies in the Wilderneſs. d Or, from the face or preſence of the Lord, i. e. from the place where God was in a ſpecial manner preſent, either 1. From Heaven, as 1 Kings 18. 38. 2 Chron. 7. 1. which is oft called God's dwelling place, as Deut. 26. 15. Iſa. 63. 15. Or 2. From the Holy of Holies, where alſo God is ſaid to dwell, 2 Kings 19. 15. 2 Chron 6. 2. Pſal. 80. 1. And what is done before the Ark is ſaid to be done before God, as 1 Chron. 13. 8, 10. and 16. 1, &c. And this may ſeem more probable by comparing this with Levit. 10. 2. e As wondering at, rejoycing in, and bleſſing God for this wonderful and gracious diſcovery of himſelf, and of his favour to them therein.

CHAP. X.

Nadab and Abihu offering ſtrange fire, are devoured by fire from heaven, 1, 2. For God will be ſanctified by them that draw near unto him, 3. Their dead bodies carried without the camp, 4, 5. Aaron and his two other ſons forbad to mourn, 6. Alſo to drink wine or any ſtrong drink, 8, 9. Their duty to diſtinguiſh between holy and unholy; and to teach the people all the ſtatutes of the Lord, 10, 11. He declares to them what of the burnt-offerings they might eat, 12——15. is angry that the ſin-offering was not eat, nor the blood carried into the holy place, 16——18. He is appeaſed by Aaron, 19, 20.

* Numb. 4. and 6. 61. Chron. 4. 2.

AND * Nadab and Abihu the ſons of Aaron, took either of them his cenſer, and put fire therein, and put incenſe thereon, and offered ſtrange fire a before the LORD b, which he commanded them not c.

a So called, as not appointed for, nor belonging to, the preſent work; fire not taken from the Altar, as it ought, but from ſome common fire. b Upon the Altar of Incenſe. c For ſeeing Moſes himſelf neither did, nor might do any thing in God's Worſhip without God's Command, which is oft noted of him; for theſe to do it, was a more unpardonable and inexcuſable preſumption. Beſides, not commanding may be here put for forbidding, as it is Jer. 32. 35. Now as this was forbidden implicitly, Levit. 6. 12. eſpecially when God himſelf made a Comment upon that Text, and by ſending fire from Heaven declared of what fire he there ſpake; ſo it is more than probable it was forbidden expreſly, though that be not here mentioned, nor was it neceſſary it ſhould be.

2 And there went out fire from the LORD d, and devoured them e, and they died before the LORD.

d From Heaven, or rather from the Sanctuary. See chap 9. 24. e Deſtroyed their Lives; for their Bodies and Garments were not conſumed, as it appears from verſ. 4, 5. Thus the Sword is ſaid to devour, 2 Sam. 2. 26. Thus lightning many times kills perſons, without any hurt to their Bodies or Garments.

3 Then Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, This is it that the LORD ſpake f, ſaying, I will be ſanctified g in them that come nigh me h, and before all the people I will be glorified i: and Aaron held his peace k.

f Though the expreſs words be not recorded in Scripture, where only the heads of Sermons and Diſcourſes are contained, yet it is probable they were uttered by Moſes in God's name. Howſoever the ſenſe and ſubſtance of them is in many places. See Exod. 19. 22. and 29. 43. Levit. 8. 35. g This may note, either 1. their duty to ſanctify God, i. e. to demean themſelves with ſuch care, and reverence, and watchfulneſs, as becomes the Holineſs of the God whom they ſerve, and of the Worſhip in which they are engaged; whence he leaves them to gather the juſtice of the preſent judgment for their groſs neglect herein. Or 2. God's purpoſe to ſanctify himſelf, i. e. to declare and manifeſt himſelf to be an holy and righteous God by his ſevere and impartial puniſhment of all Tranſgreſſors, how near ſoever they are to him. h (i. e) Who draw near to me, or to the place where I dwell, and are admitted into the holy place, whence others are ſhut out. It is a deſcription of the Prieſts. See Exod. 19. 22. Levit 21. 17. Ezek. 42, 13, 14. i As they have ſinned publickly and ſcandalouſly, ſo I will vindicate my Honour in a publick and exemplary manner, that all men may learn to give me the glory of my Soveraignty and Holineſs by an exact conformity to my Laws. k Partly through exceſſive grief, which is ſometimes ſignified by ſilence, as Iſa. 47. 5. Lam. 2. 10. and principally in acknowledgment of God's Juſtice and ſubmiſſion to it. Compare Pſal. 39. 10. Ezek. 24. 17. He murmured not, nor replied againſt God, nor againſt Moſes; wiſely conſidering that their ſin was directly againſt God, and in that which is moſt dear and honourable in God's account, to wit, in his Worſhip; and that God's honour ought to be dearer to him than his Sons; and that this being the firſt violation of the Law newly given, and committed by thoſe who ſhould have been the ſtricteſt Obſervers and Aſſertors of it, did deſerve a very ſevere puniſhment.

4 And Moſes called Miſhael and Elzaphan l the ſons of Uzziel, the uncle of Aaron *, and ſaid unto them, Come near, carry your brethren m from before the Sanctuary, out of the camp n.

l For Aaron and his Sons had ſcarce finiſhed their Conſecration-work, and were employed in their holy Miniſtrations, from which they were not to be called for Funeral Solemnities. See Levit. 21. 1, &c. * See Exod. 6. 17. Numb. 3. 19. m (i. e.) Kinſmen, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 13. 8. and 24 27. n Where the burying-places of the Jews were, that the living might neither be annoyed by the unwholſome ſcent of the dead, nor defiled by the touch of their Graves.

5 So they went near, and carried them in their coats o out of the camp, as Moſes had ſaid.

o In the holy Garments wherein they miniſtred; which might be done either 1. as a teſtimony of a reſpect due to them, notwithſtanding their preſent failure; and that God in judgment remembred mercy, and when he took away their Lives, ſpared their Souls. Or 2. becauſe being polluted both by their ſin, and by the touch of their dead Bodies, God would not have them any more uſed in his ſervice.

6 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar, and unto Ithamar his ſons, * Uncover not your heads p, neither rend your clothes q, leſt you die, and leſt wrath come upon all the people: but let your brethren, the whole houſe of Iſrael bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled r.

p Either 1. by putting off your Miters and Bonnets, or Ornaments, and going bare-headed, as mourners ſometimes did. See Levit 13. 45. Ezek. 24. 17, 23. Or 2. by ſhaving off the hair of your heads and beards, as mourners did. See Job 1. 20. Jer. 7. 29. and 41. 5. Ezek. 44. 20. Mich 1. 16. This latter may ſeem to be principally intended, 1. becauſe this Ceremony of uncovering the head being uſed by the People as well as by the Prieſts in caſe of mourning, as the places now alledged ſhew; and the other Ceremony here joyned with it, of rending the clothes, being alſo common to the People, ſeems to imply that he ſpeaks not of that uncovering of the Head which was peculiar to the Prieſts, but of that which was common both to Prieſts and People, eſpecially ſeeing that which is here forbidden to theſe Prieſts, is in the following words allowed to the People, to bewail their Death, which as at other times it was, ſo now probably might be performed by theſe ſame Ceremonies. 2. Becauſe the High-Prieſt is forbidden to uncover his head in way of Mourning for the Dead, not only at that time when he was in actual Miniſtration, but at all times, even when he had neither his Miter nor any of the Holy Garments upon him, Levit. 21. 10. q Give no ſignification of your Sorrow; mourn not for them; partly leſt you ſhould ſeem to juſtifie and approve of your Brethren, and tacitly reflect upon God as too ſevere in his Proceedings with them; and partly leſt thereby you ſhould be diverted from, or diſturbed in your preſent Service, which God expects ſhould be done chearfully. r Not ſo much in compaſſion to them againſt whom God hath ſhewed ſuch great and juſt Indignation, as in Sorrow for the Tokens of Divine Diſpleaſure.

7 And ye ſhall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation s, leſt you die: for the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you t: and they did according to the word of Moſes.

s Where at this time they were, either becauſe this happened within ſeven days of their Conſecration. See Lev. 8. 35. or becauſe they were longer detained there about ſome other Holy Miniſtrations. Though the former may ſeem more probable, becauſe the meat-offering here mentioned, verſe 12. and the ſin-offering, verſe 16 were part of the Conſecration-offerings. t You are perſons conſecrated peculiarly to God's Service, which therefore it is juſt and reaſonable you ſhould prefer before all Funeral Solemnities.

8 And the LORD ſpake unto Aaron, ſaying,

*Ezek. 44. 21. 1 Tim. 3. 3. 9 * Do not drink wine nor ſtrong drink u; thou, nor thy ſons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, leſt ye die: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations:

u This is here added, either becauſe Nadab and Abihu had been led to their Errour by drinking too much, which might eaſily fall out when they were Feaſting and full of Joy for their entrance into ſo Honourable and Profitable an Employment; or at leaſt becauſe others might thereby be drawn to commit the ſame Miſcarriages, which they might now commit from other Cauſes. Drunkenneſs is ſo odious a Sin in it ſelf, eſpecially in a Miniſter, and moſt of all in the time of his Adminiſtration of Sacred Things, that God ſaw fit to prevent all occaſions of it. And hence the Devil, who is God's Ape in his preſcriptions for his Worſhip, required this Abſtinence from his Prieſts in their Idolatrous Service.

11 And that ye may teach y the children of Iſrael all the ſtatutes which the LORD hath ſpoken unto them by the hand of Moſes.

y Be apt to teach aright, which drunken Perſons are very unfit to do.

* Exod. 29. 2. Chap 8. 2. * Chap. 21. 22. 12 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar, and unto Ithamar his ſons, that were left, * Take the meat-offering that remaineth of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and eat it z without leaven, beſide the altar: for it is * moſt holy.

z Moſes repeateth and reinforceth the former Command, partly leſt their great Loſs and Grief ſhould cauſe them to forget or neglect their Meat preſcribed them by God, which Abſtinence would have been both a ſignification of their Sorrow which God had forbidden them, and a new tranſgreſſion of a Divine Precept; and partly to encourage them to go on in their Holy Services, and not to be dejected for the late Severity, as if God would no more accept them or their Sacrifices.

13 And ye ſhall eat it in the holy place a, becauſe it is thy due b, and thy ſons due of the ſacrifices of the LORD made by fire: for ſo I am commanded.

* Exod. 29. 24. Chap. 7. 31, 34. 14 And * the wave-breaſt, and heave-ſhoulder ſhall ye eat in a clean place c, thou, and thy ſons, and thy daughters d with thee, for they be thy due, and thy ſons due, which are given out of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings of the children of Iſrael.

c In any of your Dwellings, or any place in the Camp, which he ſuppoſeth to be kept clean from all ceremonial Defilement, as they ought to be; whence the Lepers were put out of the Camp. See Numb. 5. 1, 2, 3. In any place where the Women as well as the Men might come, for the daughters of the Prieſts might eat theſe as well as their Sons, as it here follows. d To wit, if they were Maids, or Widows, or Divorced, Lev. 22. 11, 12, 13.

* Chap. 7. 29, 30. 15 * The heave-ſhoulder and the wave-breaſt ſhall they bring, with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave-offering before the LORD; and it ſhall be thine, and thy ſons with thee by a ſtatute for ever, as the LORD hath commanded.

16 ¶ And Moſes diligently ſought * the goat of the ſin-offering d, and behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar e the ſons of Aaron which were left alive f, ſaying, * Chap 9. 3.

d To wit, for the People, mentioned Lev. 9. 15. to know what was done with that part of it which was the Prieſts. Which he enquired into, more than into the other Sacrifices, becauſe a miſtake there was eaſie and probable, becauſe that matter might ſeem ſomething doubtful, by reaſon of two laws concerning it, ſeemingly contrary, the one Lev. 4. 21. where it is to be burned, the other Lev. 6. 26 where it was to be eaten. But they are thus reconciled: It was to be burnt, when the blood of this ſacrifice was brought into the holy place, Lev. 4. 16, 17. and when that was not done, which Aaron this firſt time could not do, for the reaſon expreſſed in ver. 18. it was to be eaten, and here lay their miſtake. e He ſpares Aaron at this time, as overwhelmed with ſorrow, and becauſe the rebuking of him before his ſons might have expoſed him to ſome contempt; but he knew that the reproof though directed to them, would concern him too, as he alſo apprehended it. f Preſerved from death when their brethren were deſtroyed, which is here mentioned as an aggravation of their ſin.

17 Wherefore have ye not eaten the ſin-offering in the holy place, ſeeing it is moſt holy, and God hath given it you to bear the iniquity of the congregation g, to make atonement for them before the LORD?

g (i. e.) As a reward of your ſervice and function, whereby you do expiate, bear and take away their ſins, by offering thoſe ſacrifices, and performing thoſe rites, by which God through Chriſt is reconciled to the penitent and believing offerers.

18 Behold, the blood of it was not brought in within the holy place h; ye ſhould indeed have eaten it in the holy place, * as I commanded. * Cha 6. 26.

h The reaſon whereof was, becauſe Aaron was not yet admitted into the holy place, whither that blood ſhould have been brought, till he had prepared the way by the ſacrifices which were to be offered in the Court.

19 And Aaron ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, this day have they offered i their ſin-offering and their burnt-offering before the LORD; and ſuch things have befallen me k: and if I had eaten the ſin-offering to day, ſhould it have been accepted in the ſight of the LORD l?

i They have done the ſubſtance of the thing, though they have miſtaken this one circumſtance. k Whereby, having been oppreſſed with grief, and almoſt bereft of my reaſon, it is not ſtrange nor unpardonable if I have miſtaken. l Becauſe it was not to be eaten with ſorrow, but with rejoycing and thankſgiving, as appears from Deut. 12. 7. and 26. 14. Hoſ. 9. 4. and I thought it fitter to burn it, as I did other ſacred relicks, than to profane it by eating it unworthily.

20 And when Moſes heard that, he was content m.

m He reſted ſatisfied with his anſwer, either becauſe he thought it reaſonable, ſeeing the letter of the law oft-times yields to neceſſities or great accidents, 2 Chron. 30. 18. Mat. 12. 3, 4. or at leaſt becauſe the things alledged were mitigations of his fault, and he would not add affliction to the afflicted, but rather defer the debate of it to a fitter opportunity.

CHAP. XI.

Beaſts clean and unclean, 1——8. Of fiſhes, 9——12. Of fowls and creeping things, 13——23. In touching of a dead Carcaſs, 24——28. Other Creatures unclean, 29——43. They are exhorted to purity and holineſs from the nature, and his goodneſs to them in taking them to be his people, 44, 45. The whole repeated, 46, 47.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and to Aaron a, ſaying unto them,

From the laws concerning the Prieſts, he now comes to thoſe which belong to all the people.

a To both of them, becauſe the cognizance of the following matters belonged to both, the Prieſt was to direct the people about the things forbidden or allowed, where any doubt or difficulty aroſe; and the Magiſtrate was to ſee the direction here given, followed.

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, * Theſe are the beaſts which ye ſhall eat b among all the beaſts that are on the earth: * De 14. Act. 12, 1 b Though every creature of God be good and pure in it ſelf, as appears from Gen. 1. 31. Mat. 15. 11. Rom. 14. 14. yet it pleaſed God to make a difference between clean and unclean, and to reſtrain the uſe of them, which he did in general and in part before the flood, Gen. 7. 2. but more fully and particularly here for many reaſons, as 1. To aſſert his own ſoveraignty over man, and over all the creatures, which men may not uſe but with God's leave, and to inure that ſtiff-necked people to obedience. 2. To keep up the wall of partition between the Jews and other Nations, which was very uſeful and neceſſary for many great and wiſe purpoſes. 3. That by bridling their appetite in things in themſelves lawful, and ſome of them very deſirable and delightful for food, they might be better prepared and enabled to deny themſelves in things ſimply and groſly ſinful. 4. For the preſervation of their health, ſome of the creatures forbidden being, though uſed by the neighbouring Nations, of unwholeſome nouriſhment, eſpecially to the Jews, who were very obnoxious to leproſies, which ſome of theſe meats are apt to produce and foment. 5. For moral ſignification, to teach them to abhor that filthineſs, and all thoſe ill qualities for which ſome of theſe creatures are noted.

3 Whatſoever parteth the hoof, and is cloven-footed c, and cheweth the cud d among the beaſts, that ſhall ye eat.

c To wit, is divided into two parts onely, as in the Coney Swine, &c. whereas the Horſe, Camel, &c. have their hoofs entire and undivided. This clauſe is added only to explain and limit the former, as appears from ver. 26. for the feet or hoofs of Dogs, Cats, &c. are parted or cloven into many parts. d. Heb and bringeth up the cud, i. e. the meat once chewed out of the ſtomach into the mouth again, that it may be chewed a ſecond time for better concoction. And this branch is to be joyned with the former, both properties being neceſſary for the allowed Beaſts. But the reaſon hereof muſt be reſolved into the will of the lawgiver; though Interpreters gueſs that God would hereby ſignifie their duties, by the firſt, that of dividing the word of God aright, and diſcerning between good and evil, between God's inſtitutions and mens inventions; and by the latter, that duty of recalling God's word to our minds and ſerious meditation upon it.

4 Nevertheleſs, theſe ſhall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the hoof: as the camel e, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof f, he is unclean unto you.

e An uſual food in Arabia, but yielding bad nouriſhment, as Galen notes. f To wit, ſo as to have his foot cloven in two, which being expreſſed ver. 3. is here to be underſtood. Otherwiſe the Camels hoof is divided, but it is but a ſmall and imperfect diviſion, as Ariſtotle and Pliny obſerve, and obſervation ſhews.

5 And the cony g, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof, he is unclean unto you.

g Some underſtand by this Hebrew word Shaphan, a mountain Mouſe, which were of a much greater ſize than ordinary Mice, and were uſed by the Arabians for Food. But for the names of the following Creatures, ſeeing the Jews themſelves are uncertain and divided about them, I think it improper to trouble the unlearned Reader with diſputes about them, and for the learned they may have recourſe to my Latin Synopſis. I ſhall therefore take them according to our Tranſlation.

6 And the hare, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof, he is unclean unto you.

7 And * the ſwine h, though he divide the hoof, and be cloven footed, yet he cheweth not the cud: he is * unclean unto you.

h Which the Jews would not ſo much as name, but called it another, or a ſtrange thing, leſt the naming of it ſhould tempt them to eat this meat which was ſo commonly uſed, and ſo much eſteemed by others.

Cor. 8.8.

8 Of their fleſh ſhall ye not eat, and their carcaſs ſhall ye not touch i: * they are unclean to you.

i To wit, in order to eating, as may be gathered by comparing this with Gen. 3. 3 Col. 2. 21. For ſince the Fat and the Skins of ſome of the forbidden Creatures were uſeful, for Medicinal and other good Uſes, and were uſed by good Men. See Matth. 3. 4. it is not probable that God would have them caſt away. Thus God forbad the making of Images, Exod. 20. not abſolutely and univerſally, but in order to the worſhipping of them, as Chriſtian Interpreters agree Or, they were here forbidden to touch them, to wit, unneceſſarily; and if he that touched them for ſome neceſſary uſe were polluted by it, it was but a ſlight and tranſient pollution, ending at evening, as appears from verſe 24, 25, &c.

9 ¶ Theſe ſhall ye eat, of all that are in the waters, whatſoever hath fins and ſcales k in the water, in the ſeas, and in the rivers, them ſhall ye eat.

k To wit, both of them; ſuch Fiſhes being both more cleanly, and more wholeſome Food than others. The names of them are not particularly mentioned, partly becauſe moſt of them wanted names; the Fiſhes not being brought to Adam and named by him as other Creatures were; and partly becauſe the Land of Canaan had not many Rivers, nor great ſtore of Fiſhes.

10 And all that have not fins nor ſcales in the ſeas, and in the rivers, of all that move in the waters, and of any living thing which is in the waters l, they ſhall be an abomination unto you:

l (i. e.) Either of the ſmaller ſort of Fiſhes, or of the greater, which are called here living creatures or beaſts, as ſome of them are called the beaſts of the ſea by other Authors.

11 They ſhall be even an abomination unto you m: ye ſhall not eat of their fleſh, but you ſhall have their carcaſſes in abomination.

m To wit, for Food. This clauſe is added to ſhew that they were neither abominable in their own Nature, nor for the Food of other Nations, and conſequently when the Partition-wall between Jews and Gentiles was taken away, theſe diſtinctions of Meats were to ceaſe. See Acts 10.

12 Whatſoever hath no fins nor ſcales in the waters, that ſhall be an abomination unto you.

13 ¶ And theſe are they which ye ſhall have in abomination among the fowls n, they ſhall not be eaten, they are an abomination, the eagle, and the oſſifrage, and the oſpray o.

n The true ſignification of the following Hebrew words is now loſt, as the Jews at this day confeſs, which not falling out without God's ſingular Providence may intimate the Ceſſation or Abolition of this Law, the exact obſervation whereof ſince Chriſt came is become impoſſible. In general, this may be obſerved, That tht Fowls forbidden in Diet, are all either Ravenous and Cruel, or ſuch as delight in the Night and Darkneſs, or ſuch as feed upon impure Things; and ſo the ſignification and reaſon of theſe Prohibitions is manifeſt, to teach Men to abominate all Cruelty or Oppreſſion, and all Works of Darkneſs and Filthineſs. o Which are two peculiar kinds of Eagles, diſtinct from that which being the chief of its kind, is called by the name of the whole kind, as it uſually happens.

14 And the vulture, and the kite after his kind:

15 Every raven after his kind p:

p (i. e.) According to the ſeveral kinds of Birds, known by this general Name, which includes, beſides Ravens properly ſo called, Crows, Rooks, Pyes, &c.

16 And the Owl q, and the Night-hawk, and the Cuckow, and the Hawk after his kind:

q Heb. the daughter of the Owl, which he mentions as the beſt of the kind both for Sex and Age, and therefore more deſired for Food than the Elder or Males. And it is hereby implied, that the very youngeſt and beſt of all the other kinds are forbidden, and much more the reſt.

17 And the little owl, and the cormorant, and the great owl,

18 And the ſwan, and the pelican, and the gier-eagle,

19 And the ſtork, the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat,

20 All fowls that creep r, going upon all four s, ſhall be an abomination unto you.

r That crawl or creep upon the Earth, and ſo degenerate from their proper Nature, which is to flie, and are of a mungrel Kind, which may intimate that Apoſtates and Mungrels in Religion are abominable in the ſight of God, and in converſation with Men. s Upon four Legs, or upon more than four, as Bees, Flies, &c. which is all one to the preſent purpoſe, theſe pluraliſts for Legs being here oppoſed to thoſe that have but two.

21 Yet theſe may ye eat, of every flying creeping thing that goeth upon all four, which have legs above their feet t, to leap withal upon the earth:

t The truth of this Tranſlation may ſeem evident both from the following clauſe, to leap withal, and eſpecially from the next verſe, where one of this kind is the locuſts, which, as it is manifeſt, have two Leg wherewith they leap, beſides the four Feet upon which they walk. The Adverb lo is here put for the Pronoun lo, as it is alſo 1 Chron. 11. 20. compared with 2 Sam. 23. 18. Others take the words as they lye, and read them negatively, which have not legs upon their feet, and ſo the ſence may be this, That they might eat the locuſts, graſhoppers, &c. when they were very young, and therefore more wholeſome for food: for they are born without legs, Plin. nat. Hiſt. 11. 29, or, their legs at firſt are very ſmall and ſcarce to be diſcerned, and in effect none. And the Canon of the Jews in this matter is this, Thoſe which yet have not wings and legs may be eaten, though they be ſuch as afterward would have them.

22 Even theſe of them ye may eat; * The Locuſt u after his kind, and the Bald-locuſt after his kind, and the Beetle after his kind, and the Graſhopper after his kind:

* Matth. 3. 4. Mark 1. 6.

u Locuſts, though unuſual in our food, were commonly eaten by the Æthiopians, Lybians, Parthians, and other Eaſtern people bordering upon the Jews, which is expreſly affirmed by Diodorus, Siculus, Ariſtotle, Pliny, St. Hierom and others, as well as Matt. 3. 4. And it is certain that the Eaſtern Locuſts were much larger than ours, ſo it is probable they were of different qualities, and yielded better nouriſhment; and the familiar uſe of them made them more agreeable to their bodies; for even poiſons themſelves have by frequent uſe been made not only harmleſs, but nouriſhing alſo to ſome perſons.

23 But all other flying creeping things which have four feet x, ſhall be an abomination unto you.

x (i.e) All ſuch except thoſe now mentioned; the word other being here underſtood out of the former Verſe, without which there might ſeem to be a contradiction between this and that Verſe. But the words may be, and by the vulgar Latin, are thus rendred, But all flying creeping things which have only four feet; which word only, is to be gathered out of ver. 20, 21. i. e. which have not thoſe legs above and beſides their feet mentioned, ver. 21. And ſo all the Verſes agree well together.

24 And for theſe ye ſhall be unclean: whoſoever toucheth the carcaſs of them, ſhall be unclean z until the even a.

z And ſuch were excluded both from the courts of God's houſe, and from free converſation with other men. a Which poſſibly might ſignifie, that even the ſmalleſt defilements could not be cleanſed but by the death of Chriſt, who was to come and offer up himſelf in the evening or end or declining age of the world, as the Prophets ſignifie, and the Apoſtle expreſſeth, Heb. 9. 26.

25 And whoſoever beareth b ought of the carcaſs of them, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even.

b Or, taketh away, out of the place where haply it may lie, by which others may be either offended, or polluted.

26 The carcaſſes c of every beaſt which divideth the hoof, and is not cloven footed, nor cheweth the cud, are unclean unto you: every one that toucheth them, ſhall be unclean.

c Which word is eaſily to be underſtood out of ver. 24. and 25. where it is expreſſed.

27 And whatſoever goeth upon his paws d, among all manner of beaſts that go on all four, thoſe are unclean unto you: whoſo toucheth their carcaſs, ſhall be unclean until the even.

d Heb. upon his hands; i.e. which hath feet divided into ſeveral parts like fingers, as dogs, cats, apes, bears, &c.

28 And he that beareth the carcaſs of them ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: they are unclean unto you.

29 ¶ Theſe alſo ſhall be unclean unto you, among the creeping things that creep upon the earth; the Weaſel, and the * Mouſe, and the Tortois after his kind,

* Iſa. 66. 17.

30 And the Ferret, and the Camelion, and the Lyzard, and the Snail, and the Mole.

31 Theſe are unclean to you among all that creep: whoſoever doth touch them when they be dead, ſhall be unclean until the even.

32 And upon whatſoever any of them, when they are dead, doth fall, it ſhall be unclean, whether it be any veſſel of wood, or rayment, or skin, or ſack, whatſoever veſſel it be, wherein any work is done, it muſt be put into water, and it ſhall be unclean until the even: ſo it ſhall be cleanſed.

33 And every earthen veſſel, whereunto any of them falleth, whatſoever is in it ſhall be unclean, and * ye ſhall break it.

* Chap. 6. 28.

34 Of all meat which may be eaten, that on which ſuch water cometh e, ſhall be unclean: And all drink that may be drunk in every ſuch veſſel, ſhall be unclean.

e The meaning is, that fleſh or herbs or other food which is dreſſed in water, to wit, in a veſſel ſo polluted, ſhall be unclean; not ſo, if it be food which is eaten dry, as bread, fruits, &c. the reaſon of which difference ſeems to be this, that the water did ſooner receive the pollution in it ſelf, and convey it to the food ſo dreſſed.

35 And every thing whereupon any part of their carcaſs falleth, ſhall be unclean, whether it be oven, or ranges for pots, they ſhall be broken down: for they are unclean, and ſhall be unclean unto you.

36 Nevertheleſs, a fountain, or pit † wherein there is plenty of water f, ſhall be clean: * that which toucheth their carcaſs ſhall be unclean.

† Heb. gatherin together waters.
* Or, h that tou eth.

f Of which no ſolid reaſon can be given, whilſt ſuch unclean things remain in them, but only the will of the Lawgiver and his merciful Condeſcention to Mens neceſſities, Water being ſcarce in thoſe Countries; and for the ſame reaſon God would have the ceremonial Law of Sacrifices to be offered to God, give place to the moral Law of Mercy towards Men.

37 And if any part of their carcaſs fall upon any ſowing ſeed which is to be ſown g, it ſhall be clean.

g Partly becauſe this was neceſſary Proviſion for Man; and partly becauſe ſuch Seed would not be uſed for Man's Food till it had received many Alterations in the Earth, whereby ſuch Pollution was taken away. See John 12. 24. 1 Cor. 15. 36.

38 But if any water be put upon the ſeed h, and any part of their carcaſs fall thereof, it ſhall be unclean unto you.

h The reaſon of the difference is, partly becauſe wet Seed doth ſooner receive, and longer retain any Pollution; and partly becauſe ſuch Seed was not fit to be ſown preſently, and therefore that neceſſity which juſtified the uſe of the dry Seed, which was ſpeedily to be ſown, could not be pretended in this caſe.

39 And if any beaſt of which ye may eat, die i, he that toucheth the carcaſs thereof, ſhall be unclean until the even.

i Either of it ſelf, or being killed by ſome Wild Beaſt, in which caſes the Blood was not poured forth, as it was when they were killed by Men either for Food or Sacrifice.

40 And * he that eateth of the carcaſs of it k, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: he alſo that beareth the carcaſs of it, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even.

* Chap 15. and 22 Ezek. 4 14 and 44 31.

Laws touching the uncleanneſs of women in child-bearing. Of a ſon, ſeven days; and her purification thirty three days, 1——4. Of a daughter fourteen days, and her purification ſixty ſix days, 5. Her offering, if rich, a lamb of a year old, a young pigeon, or turtle-dove for a ſin-offering, 6, 7. If poor, two turtle doves, or two young pigeons; one for a burnt offering, and one for a ſin-offering, 8.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If a * woman have † conceived ſeed, and born a man-child, then * ſhe ſhall be unclean a ſeven days b: according to the days of the ſeparation for her infirmity c ſhall ſhe be unclean.

* Chap. 15. 19.
† Heb. ſeeded
* Luke 2. 22.

From uncleanneſs contracted by the touching or eating of external things, he now comes to that uncleanneſs which ariſeth from our ſelves.

a Not for any filthineſs which was either in the Conception, or in bringing forth, but to ſignify the univerſal and deep Pollution of Man's Nature even from the Birth, and from the Conception. b For ſo long, or thereabouts, Nature is employed in the Purgation of moſt Women. c (i. e.) For her monthly Infirmity. And it may note an agreement therewith not only in the time, Levit. 15. 19. but in the degree of uncleanneſs, which was ſuch that ſhe defiled every thing ſhe touched, &c.

3 And in the * eighth day, the fleſh of his fore-skin ſhall be circumciſed d.

* Gen. 17. 12. Luke 1. 59. and 2. 21. John 7. 22.

d Which Law is here repeated, becauſe the Womans uncleanneſs laſting for ſeven Days, was one, though not the only, reaſon why the Child's Circumciſion was put off till the eighth Day.

4 And ſhe ſhall then continue e in the blood of her purifying f three and thirty days: ſhe ſhall touch no hallowed thing g, nor come into the ſanctuary, until the days of her purifying be fulfilled.

e Heb. ſit, i. e. abide, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 22. 5. and 34. 10. or tarry at home, nor go into the Sanctuary. f In her polluted and ſeparated Eſtate; for the word Blood or Bloods ſignifies both guilt, as Gen. 4. 10. and Uncleanneſs, as here and elſewhere. See Ezek. 16. 6. And it is called the Blood of her purifying, becauſe by the Expulſion or Purgation of that Blood, which is done by degrees, ſhe is purified. g She ſhall not eat any part of the Peace-offerings which ſhe or her Husband offered, which otherwiſe ſhe might have done; and, if ſhe be a Prieſt's Wife, ſhe ſhall not eat any of the Tythes or firſt Fruits, or part of the hallowed Meats, which at other times ſhe together with her Husband might eat.

5 But if ſhe bear a maid-child, then ſhe ſhall be unclean two weeks, as in her ſeparation: and ſhe ſhall continue in the blood of her purifying threeſcore and ſix days h.

h The time in both particulars is double to the former, not ſo much from natural Cauſes, becauſe the Purifications in Female Births are longer and ſlower; which if it were true, yet doth not extend to any ſuch time as here is mentioned, as for moral Reaſons; either to be as a blot upon that Sex for being the firſt in Mans Tranſgreſſion, 1 Tim. 2. 14. or to put an Honour upon the Sacrament of Circumciſion, which being adminiſtred to the Males, did put an end to that Pollution ſooner than otherwiſe had been; or to ſhew the priviledge of the Man above the Woman, and that the Women were to be purified, ſanctified, and ſaved by one of the other Sex, even by the Man Chriſt Jeſus, without whom they ſhould have ſtill continued in their impurity.

6 And when the days of her purifying are fulfilled for a ſon, or for a daughter i, ſhe ſhall bring a lamb of the † firſt year for a burnt-offering, and a young pigeon, or a turtle-dove for a ſin-offering k, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation unto the prieſt:

i For the Birth of a Son, or of a Daughter: but the Purification was for her ſelf, as appears from the following Verſes. k Either becauſe of her ceremonial Uncleanneſs, which required a ceremonial Expiation; or for thoſe particular Sins relating to the time and ſtate of Child bearing, of which ſhe is juſtly preſumed to be guilty, which might be many ways.

7 Who ſhall offer it before the LORD, and make an atonement for her, and ſhe ſhall be cleanſed from the iſſue of her blood. This is the law for her that hath born a male, or a female l.

l For though there was a difference in the time of her Uncleanneſs for the one and for the other, yet both were to be purified one and the ſame way; to note, that though all Sins and Sinners were not equal, yet all were to be cleanſed by the ſame means, to wit, by Chriſt, and by Faith. See 1 Cor. 7. 14. Gal. 3. 28.

8 * And if † ſhe be not able to bring a lamb, then ſhe ſhall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons, the one for the burnt-offering, and the other for a ſin-offering, and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for her, and ſhe ſhall be clean.

Laws touching Leproſys; its different kinds how to be known and judged of by the prieſt, 1——8. Of the ſwelling, 9——17. Of the Sores or Boils, 18——23. Of the fiery Inflamation, 24——28. Of the ſcall, 29——37. Of the Bliſters, 38, 39. Of baldneſs, 40——44. The Leper with clothes rent, bare-head, and covered lips, muſt cry Unclean, unclean, and dwell alone, 45, 46. Of the leproſie in Clothes, Linnen, Woollen, and Skins, 47——59.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron, ſaying,

2 When a man ſhall have in the skin a of his fleſh a † riſing, a ſcab, or bright ſpot b, and it be in the skin of his fleſh like the plague of leproſy c, * then he ſhall be brought unto Aaron the prieſt d, or unto one of his ſons the prieſts.

† Or, ſwelling.
* Deut. 17. 8. and 24. 8.

a For there was the Seat of the Leproſy. b Shining like the Scale of a Fiſh, as it is in the beginning of a Leproſy. c A Diſtemper moſt frequent in Eygpt and Syria, &c. known alſo among the Greeks, who note that it was not ſo properly a Diſeaſe, as a Defilement or Diſtemper in the Skin, whence Chriſt is not ſaid to heal, but to cleanſe the Lepers that came to him. And this Diſtemper is here provided againſt, not becauſe it was worſe than others, but becauſe it was externally and viſibly Filthy, and becauſe of its infectious Nature, that hereby we might be inſtructed to avoid Converſe with ſuch vicious Perſons who were likely to infect us. d Not to the Phyſitian, becauſe, as was now ſaid, it needed not ſo much healing, as cleanſing, and was rather a ceremonial Pollution than a Diſeaſe; and becauſe it belonged to the Prieſt to cleanſe him, and therefore to ſearch and diſcover whether he was defiled and needed cleanſing. The Prieſt alſo was to admit to, or exclude from, the Sanctuary, and therefore to examine who were to be excluded. And the diſcovery of this Diſtemper was not ſo difficult that it required the Phyſicians art, but the Prieſt, by experience, and the obſervation of thoſe rules might eaſily make it.

3 And the prieſt ſhall look on the plague e in the skin of the fleſh, and when the hair in the plague is turned white f, and the plague in ſight is deeper than the skin of his fleſh g, it is a plague of leproſy: and the prieſt ſhall look on him, and † pronounce him unclean h.

† Heb. pollute him.

e (i. e.) The ſign or appearance of the plague of Leproſy. And it is obſervable, that the ſame ſigns of it are given by Moſes here, and by the Learned Phyſicians in their Works. f And when the Leproſy came to its height, not the Hair only, but alſo the Skin was turned white, as Exod. 4. 6. Numb. 12. 10. And this change of Colour was an evidence both of the abundance of excrementitious Humours, and of the weakneſs of Nature, as we ſee in old and ſick Perſons. g For the Leproſy did conſume both the Skin and the Fleſh, as appears from 2 Kings 5. 14. h Heb. make him unclean, i. e. miniſterially and declaratively, in which ſenſe Miniſters are ſaid to remit ſins, Matth. 16. 19. and to deſtroy Nations, Jer. 1. 10.

4 If the bright ſpot be white in the skin of his fleſh, and in ſight be not deeper than the skin, and the hair thereof be not turned white, then the prieſt ſhall ſhut up him that hath the plague i ſeven days.

i For greater aſſurance; to teach Miniſters not to be raſh nor haſty in their Judgments and Cenſures, but diligently to ſearch and examine all things before-hand. The Plague is here put for the Man that hath the Plague, as Pride is put for a proud Man, Jer. 50. 31. and Dreams for the Dreamers, Jer. 27. 9.

5 And the prieſt ſhall look on him the ſeventh day: and behold, if the plague in his ſight be at a ſtay k, and the plague ſpread not in the skin, then the prieſt ſhall ſhut him up ſeven days more.

k This Tranſlation is juſtified by the following Clauſe which is added to explain it. Otherwiſe the words are and may be rendred thus, ſtand or abide in its own Colour; the Hebrew word being uſed for Colour as well as for Sight.

6 And the prieſt ſhall look on him again the ſeventh day: and behold, if the plague be ſomewhat dark l, and the plague ſpread not ſomewhat in the skin, the prieſt ſhall † pronounce him clean: it is but

but a ſcab: and he ſhall waſh his cloathes m, and be clean.

l Which is oppoſed to the white Colour of the Leproſy. But the word may be rendred, have contracted it ſelf, or, be reſtrained or confined to its former place and bigneſs; and thus the Oppoſition ſeems to be moſt clear to the ſpreading of its ſelf, mentioned both in the forgoing Verſe, and in the following Clauſe. m Though it was no Leproſy, but a Scab only: to teach us, that no Sin was ſo ſmall which did not need to be waſhed by the Blood of Chriſt, which was the thing deſigned by all theſe waſhings.

7 But if the ſcab ſpread much abroad in the skin, after that he hath been ſeen of the prieſt for his cleanſing, he ſhall be ſeen of the prieſt again.

8 And if the prieſt ſee, that behold the ſcab ſpreadeth in the skin, then the prieſt ſhall † pronounce him unclean: it is a leproſy.

† Heb. pollute him.

9 When the plague of leproſy is in a man, then he ſhall be brought unto the prieſt;

10 And the prieſt ſhall ſee him, and behold, if the riſing be white n in the skin, and it have turned the hair white, and o there be † quick raw fleſh p in the riſing:

† Heb the quickning of living fleſh.

n To wit, with a preternatural and extraordinary Whiteneſs, as Numb. 12. 14. o Or rather, or, the Copulative put for the Disjunctive, as hath been noted before; for either of theſe were ſigns of a Leproſy, and one of theſe may ſeem inconſiſtent with the other; the former ſign of white Hair ſuppoſing the Skin in which the Hair was to remain, and the latter of live fleſh ſuppoſing the Skin to be conſumed by the Leproſy. p Which ſhewed that this was not a ſuperficial Leproſy, but one of a deeper and more malignant Nature, that had eaten into the very Fleſh, for which cauſe it is in the next Verſe called an old, or inveterate, or grown Leproſy.

11 It is an old leproſy in the skin of his fleſh, and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean, and ſhall not ſhut him up, for he is unclean.

12 And if a leproſy break out abroad in the skin, and the leproſy cover all the skin of him that hath the plague, from his head even to his foot, whereſoever the prieſt looketh:

13 Then the prieſt ſhall conſider, and behold, if the leproſy q have covered all his fleſh r, he ſhall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: it is all turned white: he is clean:

q (i. e.) The ſign or appearance of the Leproſy; or the Scab is called a Leproſy, becauſe at firſt view it ſeemed to be ſo to the Prieſt, and to other beholders. r When it appeared in ſome one part it diſcovered the ill humour which lurked within, and withal the inability of Nature to expel it, but when it overſpread all, it manifeſted the ſtrength of Nature conquering the Diſtemper, and purging out the ill Humours into the outward Parts.

14 But when the raw fleſh appeareth in him r, he ſhall be unclean.

r Or rather, in it, i. e. in the place where the ſign or appearance of Leproſy was, when the Fleſh was partly changed into a whiter Colour, and partly kept its natural Colour, this variety of Colours was an evidence of the Leproſy, as one and the ſame Colour continuing was a ſign of Soundneſs.

15 And the prieſt ſhall ſee the raw fleſh, and pronounce him to be unclean: for the raw fleſh is unclean s: it is a leproſy.

s This is repeated again and again, becauſe raw or living Fleſh might rather ſeem a ſign of Soundneſs, and the Prieſt might eaſily be deceived by it, and therefore he was more narrowly to look into it, and to obſerve the place and manner, and other Circumſtances in which it appeared.

16 Or if the raw fleſh turn again, and be changed unto white t, he ſhall come unto the prieſt:

t As it is uſual with Sores, when they begin to be healed, the Skin, which is white, coming upon the Fleſh.

17 And the prieſt ſhall ſee him: and behold, if the plague be turned into white, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: he is clean.

18 ¶ The fleſh alſo, in which, even in the skin thereof was a bile, and is healed:

19 And in the place of the bile there be a white riſing, or a bright ſpot white, and ſomewhat reddiſh u, and it be ſhewed to the prieſt:

u (i. e.) White mixed with Red, as when Blood and Milk are mixed together. A late Learned Writer renders the words thus, white and very bright or light, which indeed is the true Colour of Leproſy, to wit, when it is in its perfection, as Exod. 4. 6, &c. But here it was only beginning and ariſing out of a Bile, in which together with the white, which was the Colour of the Leproſy, there might be ſome mixture of redneſs ariſing from the Bile, or that part of it which was not yet turned into the Nature and Colour of Leproſy.

20 And if when the prieſt ſeeth it, behold, it be in ſight lower than the skin, and the hair thereof be turned white, the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leproſy broken out of the bile.

21 But if the prieſt look on it, and behold, there be no white hairs therein, and if it be not lower than the skin, but be ſomewhat dark †, then the prieſt ſhall ſhut him up ſeven days.

† Or, and be contracted; of which ſee verſe 6.

22 And if it ſpread much abroad in the skin, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean; it is a plague x.

x Or, the Plague, to wit, of Leproſy, of which he is ſpeaking.

23 But if the bright ſpot ſtay in his place, and ſpread not, it is a burning bile, and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean.

24 ¶ Or if there be any fleſh in the skin, whereof there is a † hot burning y, and the quick fleſh that burneth have a white bright ſpot, ſomewhat reddiſh or white z:

† Heb. burning fire.

y Heb. a burning of Fire, by the touch of any hot Iron, or burning Coals, which doth naturally and uſually make an Ulcer or Sore in which the following Spot is. z (i. e) Or only White, without any mixture of Red in it. This Clauſe ſeems to overthrow that Expoſition of the Hebrew word Adamdam which is given by a Learned Man, verſe 19. becauſe this Colour which is here ſaid to be only White, is diſtinguiſhed from that which is here called Adamdam, which therefore muſt be ſome other Colour than that of Snow, which tho very light or bright, yet is only White.

25 Then the prieſt ſhall look upon it: and behold, if the hair in the bright ſpot be turned white, and it be in ſight deeper than the skin, it is a leproſy broken out of the burning: wherefore the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leproſy.

26 But if the prieſt look on it, and behold, there be no bright hair in the bright ſpot, and it be no lower than the other skin, but be ſomewhat dark a, then the prieſt ſhall ſhut him up ſeven days.

a Or, contracted, i. e. not ſpreading. See on verſe 6.

27 And the prieſt ſhall look upon him the ſeventh day: and if it be ſpread much abroad in the skin, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean, it is the plague of leproſy.

28 And if the bright ſpot ſtay in his place, and ſpread not in the skin, but it be ſomwhat dark, it is a riſing of the burning, and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean: for it is an inflamation of the burning b.

b (i. e.) Ariſing from the burning mentioned verſe 24.

29 ¶ If a man or woman hath a plague upon the head or the beard,

30 Then the prieſt ſhall ſee the plague, and behold, if it be in ſight deeper than the skin, and there be in it a yellow thin hair c, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is a dry ſcall, even a leproſy upon the head or beard.

c The Leproſy in the Body turned the Hair white, in the Head or Beard it turned it yellow. And if a Man's Hair was yellow before, this might eaſily be diſtinguiſhed from the reſt, either by the thinneſs or ſmallneſs of it, which is here noted, or by its peculiar kind of Yellow, for there are divers kinds or degrees of the ſame Colour manifeſtly differing one from another, as in green Colours, &c.

31 And if the prieſt look on the plague of the ſcall, and behold, it be not in ſight deeper than the skin, and that there is no black hair in it d, then the prieſt ſhall ſhut up him that hath the plague of the ſcall ſeven days.

d For had that appeared, it had ended the doubt, the black Hair being a ſign of ſoundneſs and ſtrength of Nature, verſe 37. as the yellow Hair was a ſign of unſoundneſs.

32 And in the ſeventh day the prieſt ſhall look on the plague: and behold, if the ſcall ſpread not, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the ſcall be not in ſight deeper than the skin, 33 He ſhall be ſhaven e: but the ſcall ſhall he not ſhave: and the prieſt ſhall ſhut up him that hath the ſcall, ſeven days more.

e For the more certain diſcovery of the growth or ſtay of the Plague.

34 And in the ſeventh day the prieſt ſhall look on the ſcall: and behold, if the ſcall be not ſpread in the skin, nor be in ſight deeper than the skin, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean: and he ſhall waſh his clothes, and be clean.

35 But if the ſcall ſpread much in the skin after his cleanſing, 36 Then the prieſt ſhall look on him, and behold, if the ſcall be ſpread in the skin, the prieſt ſhall not ſeek for yellow hair f: he is unclean.

f He need not ſearch for the Hair, or any other Sign, the ſpreading or running of it being a ſure ſign of Leproſy, without any other evidence.

37 But if the ſcall be in his ſight at a ſtay, and that there is black hair grown up therein; the ſcall is healed, he is clean, and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean g.

g The Truth of the Thing, and not the Sentence of the Prieſt, made him clean; and if the Prieſt had partilaly pronounced one clean who was not clean, his Sentence had been null. And therefore it is a fond and dangerous Conceit to think that the Abſolution given to any Sinner by a Prieſt, will ſtand him in any ſtead if he do not truly repent.

38 ¶ If a man alſo, or a woman, have in the skin of their fleſh bright ſpots, even white bright ſpots, 39 Then the prieſt ſhall look: and behold, if the bright ſpots in the skin of their fleſh be darkiſh white d, it is a freckled ſpot that groweth in the skin: he is clean.

h Or, contracted, or confined to the place where they are, and white.

40 And the man whoſe † hair is fallen off his head, he is bald, yet is he clean. † Heb. head is pilled.

41 And he that hath his hair fallen off from the part of his head toward his face, he is forehead bald: yet is he clean.

42 And if there be in the bald head, or bald forehead, a white reddiſh ſore, it is a leproſy i ſprung up in his bald head, or his bald forehead.

i It is a ſign that ſuch Baldneſs came not from Age, or any Accident, but from the Leproſy.

43 Then the prieſt ſhall look upon it: and behold, if the riſing of the ſore be white reddiſh in his bald head, or in his bald forehead, as the leproſy appeareth in the skin of the fleſh, 44 He is a leprous man, he is unclean, the prieſt ſhall pronounce him utterly unclean: his plague is in his head.

45 And the leper in whom the plague is, his clothes ſhall be rent k, and his head bare l, and he ſhall put a covering upon his upper lip m, and ſhall cry, Unclean, unclean n.

k To wit, in the upper and former Parts, which were moſt viſible. This was done partly as a token of Sorrow, Ezra 9. 3, 5 Job 2. 12. becauſe tho this was not a Sin, yet it was an effect of Sin, and a ſore Puniſhment, whereby he was cut off both from Converſe with Men, and from the Enjoyment of God in his Ordinances; partly as a warning to others to keep at a due diſtance from him whereſoever he came; and partly, as ſome add, that it might conduce to his Cure by giving the freer vent to the ill Humours. But the expoſing of the affected Part to the cold would rather hinder than further Evaporation. l Another ſign of Mourning, as appears from Levit. 10. 6. God would have Men tho not overwhelmed with, yet deeply ſenſible of his Judgments. m Partly as another badge of his Sorrow and Shame, as Ezek. 24. 17, 22. Micah 3. 7. and partly for the preſervation of others from his infectious Breath or Touch. n As begging the Pity and Prayers of others, and confeſſing his own Infirmity, and cautioning thoſe who came near him, to keep at a diſtance from him.

46 All the days wherein the plague ſhall be in him, he ſhall be defiled, he is unclean, he ſhall dwell alone, o * without the camp p ſhall his habitation be. * Numb. 5. 2. and 12. 14.

o Partly for his Humiliation; partly to prevent the Infection of others; and partly to ſhew the danger of converſe with ſpiritual Lepers, or notorious Sinners. This rule excludes the Society of ſound Perſons, but not of Lepers. See 2 Kings 15. 5. 2 Chron. 26. 21. p So Numb. 12. 14. and afterward without Cities and Places of great Concourſe, whereof we have Examples, 2 Kings 7. 3. Luke 17. 12.

47 ¶ The garment alſo that the plague of leproſy is in q, whether it be a woollen garment, or a linen garment, q Leproſy in Garments and Houſes is unknown in theſe Times and Places, which is not ſtrange, there being ſome Diſeaſes or Diſtempers peculiar to ſome Ages and Countries, as the Learned have noted. And that ſuch a thing was among the Jews, cannot reaſonably be doubted; for, if Moſes had been a deceiver, as ſome have impudently affirmed, a man of his Wiſdom would not have expoſed himſelf to the diſbelief and contempt of his People by giving Laws about that which their experience ſhewed to be but a Fiction. r Theſe two ſorts are put by a Synecdoche for any other Garments.

48 Whether it be in the warp, or woof s of linen or of woollen, whether in a skin, or in any † thing made of skin: † Heb. work of.

s A Learned Man renders it in the outſide, or in the inſide of it. If the Signification of theſe words be doubtful or unknown now, as ſome of thoſe of the living Creatures and precious Stones are confeſſed to be, it is not material to us, this Law being aboliſhed; it ſufficeth that the Jews underſtood theſe things by frequent experience.

49 And if the plague be greeniſh or reddiſh in the garment, or in the skin, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any † thing of skin, it is a plague of leproſy, and ſhall be ſhewed unto the prieſt. † Heb. veſſel or inſtrument.

50 And the prieſt ſhall look upon the plague, and ſhut up it that hath the plague, ſeven days.

51 And he ſhall look on the plague on the ſeventh day: if the plague be ſpread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in a skin, or in any work that is made of a skin, the plague is a fretting leproſy, it is unclean.

52 He ſhall therefore burn that garment, whether warp, or woof, in woollen, or in linen, or any thing of skin, wherein the plague is: for it is a fretting leproſy, it ſhall be burnt in the fire.

53 And if the prieſt ſhall look, and behold, the plague be not ſpread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin:

54 Then the prieſt ſhall command that they waſh the thing wherein the plague is, and he ſhall ſhut it up ſeven days more.

55 And the prieſt ſhall look on the plague after that it was waſhed: and behold, if the plague have not changed his colour t, and the plague be not ſpread, it is unclean, thou ſhalt burn it in the fire; it is fret inward, whether it be † bare within, or without u. † Heb. whether it be bald in the head thereof, or in the forehead thereof.

t If waſhing doth not take away that vicious Colour, and reſtore it to its own native Colour. u In the outſide of the Garment, which is here called the Forehead or Foreſide, as being moſt viſible, or in the inſide of it. Some of the Jewiſh Doctors underſtood it thus, whether the Garment was made thread-bare by the Leproſy, or by former wearing of it.

56 And if the prieſt look, and behold, the plague be ſomewhat dark after the waſhing of it, then he ſhall rend it out of the garment, or out of the skin, or out of the warp, or out of the woof.

57 And if it appear ſtill in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin, it is a ſpreading plague, thou ſhalt burn that wherein the plague is, with fire.

58 And the garment, either warp, or woof, or whatſoever thing of skin it be, which thou ſhalt waſh, if the plague be departed from them, then it ſhall be waſhed the ſecond time, and ſhall be clean.

59 This is the law of the plague of leproſy, in a garment of woollen, or linen, either in the warp, or woof, or any thing of skins, to pronounce it clean, or to pronounce it unclean.

CHAP. XIV.

Rites and Sacrifices for the cleanſing of a Leper; the Leproſie being heal'd and judged ſo by the Prieſts, who going without the Camp muſt take two living clean birds, &c. The manner of it: One to be ſlain, the other to be let looſe, 1—9. On the eighth day two male lambs and one ewe-lamb, and meat-offering, 10——20. If poor. 21—32. Of the Leproſie of houſes how to be known, 33——48. The manner of cleanſing them, 49—53. A repetition of this and the former Chapter, 54—57.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

* Mat 8. 24 Mar. 1. 40, 41. Lu. 5. 12, 14. and 17. 14.

2 This ſhall be the law of the leper in the day of his cleanſing: he * ſhall be brought unto the prieſt a.

a Not into the Prieſts houſe, but to ſome place without the Camp or City, Levit. 13. 46. which the Prieſt ſhall appoint.

3 And the prieſt ſhall go forth out of the camp, and the prieſt ſhall look, and behold, if the plague of leproſie be healed b in the leper, b To wit, by God. For God alone did heal or cleanſe him really, the Prieſt only miniſterially and declaratively, as Miniſters are ſaid to remit ſins, though it be granted that none can truly and properly forgive ſins but God, Mark 2. 7.

† Or, ſparrows. * Numb. 19. 6. Pſal. 51. 7.

4 Then ſhall the prieſt command to take for him that is to be cleanſed, two † birds c alive, and clean d, and * Cedar-wood e, and ſcarlet f, and hyſſop g, c The one to repreſent Chriſt as dying for his ſins, the other to repreſent him as riſing again for his purification or juſtification. d Allowed for food and for ſacrifice. e A ſtick of Cedar, to which the hyſſop and one of the Birds was tied by the ſcarlet thred. Cedar ſeems to be choſen, to note that the leper was now freed from that putrefaction or corruption which his leproſie had brought upon him, that kind of wood being in a manner incorruptible. f A thred of wool of a ſcarlet colour, Heb. 9. 19. to repreſent both the lepers ſinfulneſs, Iſa. 1. 18. and the blood of Chriſt, and the happy change of the lepers colour and complexion, which before was wan and loathſome, now ſprightly and beautiful. g Choſen partly for its fragrant ſmell, which ſignified the cure of the lepers ill ſcent, and partly for conveniency in the uſe of ſprinkling. See Exod. 12. 22.

† Heb. livingwater. Gen. 26. 19.

5 And the prieſt ſhall command that one of the birds be killed h in an earthen veſſel, over † running water i.

h To wit, by ſome other man. The Prieſt did not kill it himſelf, becauſe it was not properly a ſacrifice, as being killed without the camp, and not in that place to which all ſacrifices were confined; and if it had been a ſacrifice, that might be killed by another, ſo long as the ſprinkling of the blood of it, which was the moſt proper and eſſential act in the ſacrifice, was done by the Prieſt. i It ſeems to be a Metatheſis or tranſplacing of words, for over running water put in an earthen veſſel. Thus the blood of the bird and the water were mixed together, partly for the conveniency of ſprinkling, and partly to ſignifie Chriſt, who came by water and blood, 1 John 5. 6. The running water, i. e. ſpring or river water by its livelineſs and motion did fitly ſignifie the reſtoring of livelineſs to the leper, who was in a manner dead with his leproſie, as was noted before.

6 As for the living bird he ſhall take it, and the Cedar-wood, and the ſcarlet, and the hyſſop, and ſhall dip them, and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water.

† Heb. upon the face of the field.

7 And he ſhall ſprinkle upon him that is to be cleanſed from the leproſie, ſeven times k, and ſhall pronounce him clean, and ſhall let the living bird looſe † into the open field l.

k To ſignifie his perfect cleanſing and reſtoration to all his former priviledges. Compare Levit. 4. 17. and 7. 15, 16. and 10. 18, 19. i The place of its former abode, ſignifying the taking off that reſtraint which was laid upon the leper, and the liberty which the leper now had to return to his former habitation and converſation with other men.

* Numb. 12. 15.

8 And he that is to be cleanſed, ſhall waſh his clothes, and ſhave off all his hair m, and waſh himſelf in water, that he may be clean: And after that he ſhall come into the camp, and ſhall * tarry abroad out of his tent n ſeven days.

m Partly to diſcover his perfect ſoundneſs; partly to preſerve him from relapſe through any ſeeds or relicks of it which might remain in his hair or in his clothes; and partly to teach him to put off his old luſts, and become a new man. n Out of his former habitation, in ſome ſeparate place, leſt ſome of his leproſie yet lurking in him ſhould break forth to the infection of his family.

9 But it ſhall be on the ſeventh day, that he ſhall ſhave all his hair o off his head, and his beard, and his eye-brows, even all his hair he ſhall ſhave off: And he ſhall waſh his clothes, alſo he ſhall waſh his fleſh in water, and he ſhall be clean.

o Which began to grow again ſince it was firſt ſhaved, and now for more caution is ſhaved again.

† Heb. daughter of her year. * Chap. 2. 1.

10 And on the eigth day he ſhall take two he-lambs without blemiſh, and one ewe lamb of † the firſt year without blemiſh, and three tenth deals of fine flour for * a meat-offering mingled with oyl p, and one log q of oyl.

p Oyl is added here as a fit ſign of Gods grace and mercy, and of the lepers healing. q A meaſure for liquid things containing ſix eggſhels full.

11 And the prieſt that maketh him clean r, ſhall preſent the man that is to be made clean, and thoſe things before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

r The healing is aſcribed to God, ver. 13. but the ceremonial cleanſing or making of him clean and fit for ſoeiety was an act of the Prieſt uſing the rites which God had preſcribed, whereby the ſinner was cleanſed.

12 And the prieſt ſhall take one he-lamb, and offer him for a treſpaſs-offering s, and the log of oyl, and * wave them for a wave-offering, before the LORD.

* Exod. 29. 24.

s To teach them, that ſin was the cauſe of leproſie and of all diſeaſes, and that theſe ceremonial obſervations had a further meaning, even to make them ſenſible of their ſpiritual diſeaſes, their ſins, and to fly to God in Chriſt for the cure of them.

13 And he ſhall ſlay the lamb in * the place where he ſhall kill the ſin-offering, and the burnt-offering, in the holy place t: for * for as the ſin-offering is the prieſts, ſo is the treſpaſs-offering: it is * moſt holy u.

* Exod. 29. 11. chap. 1. 11. and 4. 24. * Chap. 7. 7. * Chap. 2. 3. and 21. 22.

t To wit, in the Court of the Tabernacle. See Levit. 1. 11. and 7. 7. u Both of them are equally holy, and therefore to be offered in the ſame place.

14 And the prieſt ſhall take ſome of the blood of the treſpaſs-offering, and the prieſt ſhall put it upon * the tip of the right ear x of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right x hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot x.

* Exod. 29. 20. chap. 8. 23.

x To ſignifie, that he was now free to hear God's word in the appointed places, from which he was before excluded, and to touch any perſon or thing without defiling it, and to go whither he pleaſed.

15 And the prieſt ſhall take ſome of the log of oyl z and pour it into the palm of his own left hand.

z As the blood ſignified Chriſt's blood by which men obtain remiſſion of ſins, ſo the oyl noted the graces of the ſpirit by which they are regenerated and renewed.

16 And the prieſt ſhall dip his right-finger in the oyl that is in his left hand, and ſhall ſprinkle of the oyl with his finger ſeven times before the LORD.

a (i. e) Before the ſecond vail which covered the Holy of Holies, where God is oft ſaid to dwell, and to be preſent in a peculiar manner.

17 And of the reſt of the oyl that is in his hand, ſhall the prieſt put upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, upon the blood of the treſpaſs-offering b.

b (ie e) Upon the place of that blood, as it is expreſſed, verſe 28. or where that blood was put, verſe 14. Or, over and beſides the blood, &c. i. e. As the blood was put in thoſe places, ſo ſhall the oyl be.

18 And the remnant of the oyl that is in the prieſts hand, he ſhall pour upon the head of him that is to be cleanſed: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him before the LORD.

*chap. 5. 1.

19 And the prieſt ſhall offer * the ſin-offering, and make an atonement for him that is to be cleanſed from his uncleanneſs, and afterward he ſhall kill the burnt-offering.

20 And the prieſt ſhall offer the burnt-offering, and the meat offering, upon the altar: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, and he ſhall be clean.

*chap. 5. 7.
† Heb. his hand reach not.
† Heb. for waving.

21 And * if he be poor, and † cannot get ſo much, then he ſhall take one lamb for a treſpaſs-offering † to be waved, to make an atonement for him, and one tenth-deal of fine flour mingled with oyl, for a meat offering, and a log of oyl,

22 And two turtle doves, or two young pigeons, ſuch as he is able to get: and the one ſhall be a ſin-offering, and the other a burnt-offering.

23 And he ſhall bring them on the eighth day for his cleanſing unto the prieſt, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD.

24 And the prieſt ſhall take the lamb of the treſpaſs-offering, and the log of oyl, and the prieſt ſhall wave them for a wave-offering before the LORD.

25 And he ſhall kill the lamb of the treſpaſs-offering, and the prieſt ſhall take ſome of the blood of the treſpaſs-offering, and put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.

26 And the prieſt ſhall pour of the oyl into the palm of his own left hand.

27 And the prieſt ſhall ſprinkle with his right finger ſome of the oyl that is in his left hand, ſeven times before the LORD:

28 And the prieſt ſhall put of the oyl that is in his hand, upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, upon the place of the blood of the treſpaſs-offering.

29 And the reſt of the oyl that is in the prieſts hand, he ſhall put upon the head of him that is to be cleanſed, to make an atonement for him before the LORD.

30 And he ſhall offer the one of the turtle doves, or of the young pigeons, ſuch as he can get:

31 Even ſuch as he is able to get, the one for a ſin-offering and the other for a burnt offering, with the meat-offering. And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him that is to be cleanſed, before the LORD.

32 This is the law of him in whom is the plague of leproſie, whoſe hand is not able to get that which pertaineth to his cleanſing.

33 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron ſaying,

34 When ye be come into the land of Canaan which I give to you for a poſſeſſion, and I put the plague of leproſie in a houſe of the land of your poſſeſſion:

35 And he that oweth the houſe ſhall come and tell the prieſt, ſaying, It ſeemeth to me, there is as it were a plague in the houſe;

‖ Or, prepare.

36 Then the prieſt ſhall command that they c ‖ empty the houſe before the prieſt go into it, to ſee the plague, that all that is in the houſe be not made unclean d: and afterward the prieſt ſhall go in to ſee the houſe.

c (i. e.) The poſſeſſours of the houſe. d It is obſervable here, that neither the people nor the houſhold ſtuffe were polluted till the leproſie was diſcovered and declared by the Prieſt, to ſhew what great difference God makes between ſins of ignorance, and ſins againſt knowledge and conſcience.

37 And he ſhall look on the plague: and behold if the plague be in the walls of the houſe e, with hollow ſtrakes f, greeniſh or reddiſh, which in ſight are lower than the wall:

e This was an extraordinary judgment of God peculiar to this people, either as a puniſhment of their ſins, which were much more ſinful and inexcuſable than the ſins of other nations; or as a ſpecial mean and help to Repentance, which God afforded to them above other people; or as a document of the miſchievous nature of ſin, typified by leproſie, which did not only deſtroy perſons, but their habitations alſo: ſee Zech. 5. 4. f Such as were in the bodies of leprous perſons, Levit. 13. 3.

38 Then the prieſt ſhall go out of the houſe to the door of the houſe, and ſhut up the houſe ſeven days.

39 And the prieſt ſhall come again the ſeventh day, and ſhall look: and behold, if the plague be ſpread in the walls of the houſe:

40 Then the prieſt ſhall command that they take away the ſtones in which the plague is, and they ſhall caſt them into an unclean place g without the city.

g Where they uſed to caſt dirt and filthy things.

41 And he ſhall cauſe the houſe to be ſcraped within round about, and they ſhall pour out the duſt h that they ſcrape off, without the city into an unclean place.

h The mortar or other Rubbiſh.

42 And they ſhall take other ſtones, and put them in the place of thoſe ſtones, and he ſhall take other morter, and ſhall plaiſter the houſe.

43 And if the plague come again, and break out in the houſe, after that he hath taken away the ſtones, and after he hath ſcraped the houſe, and after it is plaiſtered:

44 Then the prieſt ſhall come and look, and behold, if the plague be ſpread in the houſe, it is a fretting leproſie in the houſe: it is unclean.

45 And he ſhall break down the houſe, the ſtones of it, and the timber thereof, and all the morter of the houſe: and he ſhall carry them forth out of the city into an unclean place.

46 Moreover, he that goeth into the houſe, all the while that it is ſhut up, ſhall be unclean until the even.

47 And he that lieth in the houſe, ſhall waſh his clothes: and he that eateth in the houſe, ſhall waſh his clothes.

48 And if the prieſt † ſhall come in, and look upon it, and behold, the plague hath not ſpread in the houſe, after the houſe was plaiſtred, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce the houſe clean, becauſe the plague is healed.

† Heb. in coming in ſhall come in

49 And he ſhall take to cleanſe the houſe, two birds, and cedar-wood, and ſcarlet, and hyſop.

50 And he ſhall kill the one of the birds in an earthen veſſel, over running water.

51 And he ſhall take the cedar-wood, and the hyſop, and the ſcarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the ſlain bird, and in the running water, and ſprinkle the houſe ſeven times.

52 And he ſhall cleanſe the houſe with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar-wood and with the hyſop, and with the ſcarlet.

53 But he ſhall let go the living bird out of the city into the open fields, and make an atonement for the houſe: and it ſhall be clean.

54 This is the Law for all manner of plague of leproſie and * ſcall,

*chap. 13. 30.

55 And for the leproſie of a garment, and of an houſe,

56 And for a riſing, and for a ſcab, and for a bright ſpot;

57 To teach i † when it is unclean, and when it is clean: this is the law of leproſie.

† Heb in the day of the unclean, and in the day of the clean.

i To direct the Prieſt when to pronounce a perſon or houſe clean or unclean. So it was not left to the Prieſts power or will, but they were tied to plain rules, ſuch as the people might diſcern no leſs than the Prieſt.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, * When any man hath a † runuing iſſue out of his fleſh a, becauſe of his iſſue he is unclean.

* Num. 5. 2.
† Or, running of the reins

a His ſecret parts, called fleſh, Levit. 6. 10. and 12. 3. Ezek. 16. 26. and 23. 20.

3 And this ſhall be his uncleanneſs in his iſſue: whether his fleſh run with his iſſue, or his fleſh be ſtopped from his iſſue b, it is his uncleanneſs.

b Or if it haue run, and been ſtopped in great meaſure, either by the groſsnes of the humour, or by ſome obſtruction in parts that it cannot run freely, as it did, but only droppeth.

4 Every bed whereon he lieth, that hath the iſſue, is unclean: and every † thing c whereon he ſitteth, ſhall be unclean.

† Heb. veſſel.

c Heb. veſſel, by which the Hebrews underſtand all ſorts of houſhold-ſtuff.

5 And whoſoever toucheth his bed ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

6 And he that ſitteth on any thing whereon he ſate that hath the iſſue, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

7 And he that toucheth the fleſh d of him that hath the iſſue, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

d That is, any part of his body: the word fleſh being taken otherwiſe here than v. 2. As the ſame word is frequently uſed in ſcripture in differing ſignifications in the ſame chapter, and ſometimes in the ſame verſe, as Matth. 8. 22.

8 And if he that hath the iſſue ſpit upon him that is clean, then he ſhal waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

9 And what ſaddle ſoever he rideth upon that hath the iſſue, ſhall be unclean.

10 And whoſoever toucheth any thing that was under him, ſhall be unclean until the even: and he that beareth any of thoſe things, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

11 And whomſoever he toucheth that hath the iſſue, (and hath not rinſed his hands in water) e, he ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

e This may be underſtood, either, 1. Of the perſon touching, if he that hath an iſſue toucheth another with unwaſhen hands. Thus moſt take it. But why then ſhould it be limited to his hands? for if he had touched him by any other part, as ſuppoſe by kiſſing him, he had defiled him, though his hands had been waſhed. Or rather 2. Of the perſon touched, to whom the waſhing of his hands is preſcribed as an eaſier way of cleanſing himſelf, if ſpeedily uſed, but if that was neglected or delayed, a more laborious courſe was enjoyned him. And thus the Syriack interpreter underſtands it.

* chap. 6. 28. and 11. 32. 33.

12 And the * veſſel of earth that he toucheth which hath the iſſue, ſhall be broken: and every veſſel of wood ſhall be rinſed in water.

* chap. 14. 10.

13 And when he that hath an iſſue is cleanſed of his iſſue f, then * he ſhall number to himſelf ſeven days for his cleanſing g, and waſh his clothes. and bathe his fleſh in running water, and ſhall be clean h.

f When his iſſue is not only ſtopped in part or for a ſeaſon, but hath wholly ceaſed. g To wit, for the uſe of the ceremonies preſcribed in ſuch caſes. See Numb. 19. 11, 12. h i. e. Admitted to converſe with men, and with God in publick ordinances.

* chap. 14. 22.

14 And on the eighth day he ſhall take to him * two turtle doves, or two young pigeons, and come before the LORD unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and give them unto the prieſt.

15 And the prieſt ſhall offer them, the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him i before the LORD, for his iſſue.

i Not as if this was in it ſelf a ſin, but only a puniſhment of ſin; though oft-times it was ſinful as being a fruit of a mans intemperance, and immoderate luſt. See Levit. 14. 12.

* Deut. 23. 10.

16. And if * any mans ſeed of copulation go out from him k, then he ſhall waſh all his fleſh in water, and be unclean until the even.

k Not through weakneſs of the parts, as that ver. 3. but in his ſleep, which is called nightly pollution, which though involuntary, might ariſe from ſome luſtful Dream or imagination. But if it was voluntary, and by a man's own procurement when awake, it was eſteemed abominable, and a degree of murder. See Gen. 38. 9.

17 And every garment, and every skin whereon is the ſeed of copulation ſhall be waſhed with water, and be unclean until the even.

18 The woman alſo with whom man l ſhall lie with ſeed of copulation, they ſhall both bathe themſelves in water, and be unclean until the even.

l Or, The man, to wit, that had ſuch an iſſue, which is plainly to be underſtood out of the whole context. For though in ſome ſpecial caſes relating to the Worſhip of God, men were to forbear the uſe of the marriage-bed, as Exod. 19. 15. and 1 Sam. 21. 4. yet to affirm that the uſe of it in other caſes did generally defile the perſons, and make them unclean till even, is contrary to the whole current of Scripture, which affirms the marriage-bed to be undefiled, Heb. 13. 4. to the practice of the Jews, which is a good comment upon their own laws, and to the light of nature and reaſon.

† Heb. in her ſaparation.

19 And * if a woman have an iſſue, and her iſſue in her fleſh be blood m, ſhe ſhall be † put apart n ſeven days o: and whoſoever p toucheth her, ſhall be unclean until the even.

m Heb. And a woman when ſhe ſhall have an iſſue of blood, (and becauſe that might be at her noſe or other parts, he adds) and her iſſue ſhall be in her fleſh, i. e. in her ſecret parts, as the word fleſh is taken, ver. 2. So it notes her monthly diſeaſe. n Not out of the camp, as the lepers and ſome others, but from converſe with her husband and others, and from acceſs to the houſe of God o For ſometimes it continues ſo long, and it was but decent to allow ſome time for purification after the ceaſing of her iſſue. p To wit, of grown perſons. For the infant, to whom in that caſe ſhe might give ſuck, was exempted from this pollution by the greater law of neceſſity, and by that antecedent law which required women to give ſuck to their own children.

20 And every thing that ſhe lieth upon in her ſeparation ſhall be unclean: every thing alſo that ſhe ſitteth upon ſhall be unclean.

21 And whoſoever toucheth her bed, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf, in water, and be unclean until the even.

22 And whoſoever toucheth any thing that ſhe ſate upon, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water and be unclean until the even.

23 And if it be on her bed, or on any thing whereon ſhe ſitteth, when he toucheth it, he ſhall be unclean until the even.

24. And if any man lie with her at all, and her flowers be upon him, he ſhall be unclean ſeven dayes q: and, all the bed whereon he lieth ſhall be unclean.

q If he did this unwittingly; but if the man and Woman did this knowingly, this was a groſs ſin, Ezek. 18. 6. and they being accuſed and convicted were puniſhed with death, Levit. 20. 18. for as there was a turpitude in the action ſo it was very prejudical to the children then begotten, who were commonly weak, or leprous or otherwiſe diſordered; which was alſo an injury to the Commonwealth of Iſrael, and redounded to the diſhonour of God and of the true Religion, that the profeſſors thereof gave ſuch publick evidence of their intemperance.

25 And if a woman have an iſſue of her blood many days out of the time of her ſeparation, or if it run beyond the time of her ſeparation r, all the days of the iſſue of her uncleanneſs ſhall be as the days of her ſeparation: ſhe ſhall be unclean.

r To wit, the ſeven days mentioned, Levit. 12. 2. as ſuppoſe ſhe had the Emerods, &c.

26 Every bed whereon ſhe lieth all the days of her iſſue, ſhall be unto her as the bed of her ſeparation: and whatſoever ſhe ſitteth upon ſhall be unclean, as the uncleanneſs of her ſeparation.

27 And whoſever toucheth thoſe things ſhall be unclean, and ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

28 But if ſhe be cleanſed of her iſſue, then ſhe ſhall number to her ſelf ſeven days s, and after that ſhe ſhall be clean.

s From the ſtopping of her iſſue, as it is apparent. And this was for trial, whether it was only a temporary obſtruction, or a real ceſſation.

29 And on the eighth day ſhe ſhall take unto her two turtles, or two young pigeons, and bring them unto the prieſt, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

30 And the prieſt ſhall offer the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for her before the LORD, for the iſſue of her uncleanneſs.

31 Thus ſhall ye ſeparate the children of Iſrael from their uncleanneſs, that they die not in their uncleanneſs, when they defile my tabernacle t, that is among them.

t Which they did both ceremonially, by coming into it in their uncleanneſs, and morally by the groſs neglect and contempt of Gods expreſs and poſitive command to cleanſe themſelves.

32 This is the law of him that hath an iſſue, and of him whoſe ſeed goeth from him, and is defiled therewith.

33 And of her that is ſick of her flowers, and of him that hath an iſſue, of the man and of the woman, and of him that lieth with her which is unclean.

* chap 2.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, after * the death of the two ſons of Aaron, when they offered before the LORD and died.

* Exod 10. Heb. 9

* Exod 35. 1 King 12.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he * come not at all times a into the holy place ‖ within the vail b, before the mercy-ſeat which is upon the ark, that he die not c: for * I will appear d in the cloud e by the mercy-ſeat.

a Not whenſoever he pleaſeth, but only when I ſhall appoint him, to wit, to take down the parts and furniture of it upon every removal, and to miniſter unto me once in the year, Exod. 30. 10. ‖ i.e. into the moſt holy, or the holy of holies; as the following words demonſtrate, which is ſometimes called only the holy place, as Heb. 9. 2, 3. the poſitive degree put for the comparative, which is not unuſual in Scripture. b To wit, the ſecond vail. See Levit. 4. 6. c For his irreverence and preſumption. d Viſibly and glorioully: That is as it were my preſence-chamber, whither the prieſt ſhall not dare to come but when I call him. e Either in that dark place, for there was no light came into it, and clouds and darkneſs go together, and one may be put for the other: or in a bright and glorious cloud, which uſed to be over the mercy-ſeat, or rather in the cloud of incenſe mentioned afterward, ver. 13.

3 Thus f ſhall Aaron come into the holy place, with *ch. 4. 3. * a young bullock g for a ſin-offering h, and a ram for a burnt-offering.

f In this manner or upon theſe terms. g (i. e.) with the blood of it, as it is explained ver. 14. So it is a Synecdoche, the whole put for the part. For as for the body of it, that was to be killed and offered without upon the Altar of burnt-offerings. h For his own and families ſins, for a goat was offered for the ſins of the people.

*Exod. 28. 39, 43. 4 He ſhall put on the * holy linen coat i, and he ſhall have the linen breeches upon his fleſh, and ſhall be girded with a linen girdle, and with the linen mitre ſhall he *Exod. 30. 20. be attired. Theſe are holy garments k: therefore * ſhall he waſh his fleſh in water, and ſo put them on.

i It is obſervable that the High-prieſt did not now uſe his peculiar and glorious robes, but only his linnen garments, which were common to him with the ordinary prieſts. The reaſon whereof was, either becauſe this was not a day of feaſting and rejoycing, but of mourning and humiliation, at which times people were to lay aſide their ornaments, Exod. 33. 5. Some conceive, that under the linen garments here named are comprehended his more glorious robes alſo by a Synecdoche, But that doth not appear neither from hence, nor from other places alledged. Had onely his holy garments been mentioned in general, all might have been underſtood, but when onely the linen apparel is mentioned here and after ver. 23. and when that is ſo particularly expreſſed in four ſeveral parts of it, and not a word of the other either here or in the reſt of the chapter, it ſeems preſumptuous to add them here without any ground or evidence. Or becauſe it was fit he ſhould not exalt but abaſe himſelf, when he was to appear before the divine Majeſty, and therefore he was to come in the meaneſt of his Prieſtly habits: Or that it might be an evidence of the imperfection of this Prieſthood, and of the great difference between the Levitical, and the true High-Prieſt Chriſt Jeſus, whoſe prerogative alone it is to go into the true Holy of Holies with his glorious robes, when this muſt carry thither thé characters of his meanneſs. k Becauſe appropriated to an holy and religious uſe, for which reaſon other things are called holy. See Exod. 29. 31. and 30. 25. and 2 Chron. 5. 5.

5 And he ſhall take of the congregation of the children of Iſrael two kids of the goats for a ſin-offering, and one ram for a burnt-offering.

6 And Aaron ſhall offer his bullock of the ſin-offering,
*Heb. 9. 7. which is for himſelf, and make * an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe l.

l (i. e.) His family, as Gen. 7. 1. to wit, the Prieſts and Levites. See Numb. 1. 49.

7 And he ſhall take the two goats, and preſent them before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

8 And Aaron ſhall caſt lots upon the two goats: one † Heb. Azazel. lot for the LORD m, and the other lot for the † ſcape-goat.

m For the Lord's uſe and ſervice by way of ſacrifice. Both this and the other Goat typified Chriſt; this in his death and paſſion for us; that in his Reſurrection for our deliverance.

9 And Aaron ſhall bring the goat upon which the † Heb. went up. LORDS lot † fell n, and offer him for a ſin-offering.

n So the lot is ſaid to fall, Jonah 1. 7. Act. 1. 26. Heb. Went up, to wit, out of the veſſel, into which the lots were put, and out of which they were brought up.

10. But the goat on which the lot fell to be the ſcape-goat, ſhall be preſented alive before the LORD, to make an atonement with him o, and to let him go for a ſcape-goat into the wilderneſs.

o In manner hereafter expreſſed, ver. 21. 22.

11 And Aaron ſhall bring the bullock p of the ſin-offering which is for himſelf, and ſhall make an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe, and ſhall kill the bullock of the ſin-offering which is for himſelf.

p Mentioned in general ver. 6. The ceremonies whereof are here particularly deſcribed. This was a differing bullock or heifer from that Numb. 19. as appears by comparing the places.

12 And he ſhall take a cenſer full of burning coals of fire from off the altar q before the LORD, and his hands full of ſweet incenſe r beaten ſmall, and bring it within the vail s.

q To wit, of burnt-offering, where the fire was always burning, and whence fire was taken for ſuch uſes as theſe. r Of which ſee Exod. 30. 34, 35, 38. s (i. e.) Into the Holy of holies, ver. 2.

13 And he ſhall put the incenſe upon the fire t before the LORD, that the cloud of the incenſe may cover the mercy-ſeat that is upon the teſtimony, that he die not u.

t Which was in the cenſer, ver. 12. u For ſo groſs an errour committed in the higheſt acts of worſhip, and that by an High-Prieſt, whoſe knowledge and function was a great aggravation to his ſin.

*Heb. 9. 13. and 10. 4. *ch. 4. 6. 14 And * he ſhall take of the blood of the bullock, and * ſprinkle it with his finger upon the mercy-ſeat x eaſtward y: and before the mercy-ſeat z ſhall he ſprinkle of the blood with his finger ſeven times.

x To teach us, that God is merciful to ſinners only through and for the blood of Chriſt. y (i. e.) With his face eaſt-ward, or upon the eaſtern part of it, towards the people, who were in the court which lay eaſt-ward from the Holy of holies, which was the moſt weſtern part of the Tabernacle. This ſignified that the High-prieſt in this act repreſented the people, and that God accepted it on their behalf. z On the ground.

15 Then ſhall he kill a the goat of the ſin-offering that is for the people, and bring his blood within the vail, and do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bullock, and ſprinkle it upon the mercy-ſeat, and before the mercy-ſeat.

a Either this was done before he entred into the Holy of holies, though it be mentioned after, ſuch tranſ-placings of paſſages being not unuſual: or rather he went out of the Holy of holies, and killed it, and then returned thither again with its blood, and this agrees beſt with the text, nor are tranſpoſitions to be allowed without neceſſity. And whereas the High-prieſt is ſaid to be allowed to enter into that place but once in a year, that is to be underſtood, but one day in a year, though there ſeems to have been occaſion of going in and coming out more than once upon that day.

16 And he ſhall make an atonement for the holy place b, becauſe of the uncleanneſſes of the children of Iſrael c, and becauſe of their tranſgreſſions in all their ſins: and ſo ſhall he do for the tabernacle of the congregation that † remaineth among them, in the midſt † Heb. dwelleth.
of their uncleanneſs d.

b Of which ſee below ver. 19, 20. and Exod. 29. 36. Lev. 8. 15. Heb. 9. 13. c For though the people did not enter into that place, yet their ſins entred thither, and would hinder the effects of the High-prieſts mediation on their behalf, if God was not reconciled to them. d Encompaſſed with their ſins, being in the midſt of a ſinful people, who defile not themſelves only, but alſo Gods Sanctuary, as God complains, Ezek. 23. 38, 39.

17 * And there ſhall be no man in the tabernacle *Luk. 1. 10.
† of the congregation e when he goeth in to make an † Heb. of meeting Exod. 29. 42.
atonement in the holy place, until he come out, and have made an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſhold, and for all the congregation of Iſrael.

e (i. e.) In the holy place, where the Prieſts and Levites were at other times. This was commanded for the greater reverence to the Divine Majeſty then in a more ſpecial manner appearing, and that none of them might caſt an eye into the Holy of holies, as the High-prieſt went in or came out.

18 And he ſhall go out unto the altar f that is before the LORD, and make an atonement for it, and ſhall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about.

f To wit, the altar of incenſe, where the blood of ſacrifices was to be put, Levit. 4. 4. and particularly the blood of the ſin-offerings offered upon this day of atonement, Exod. 30. 10. and which is moſt truly and properly ſaid to be before the Lord, i. e. before the place where God in ſpecial manner dwelt, to wit, the Holy of holies. Some underſtand it of the altar of burnt-offerings, becauſe he is ſaid to go out to it. But that going out relates not to the Tabernacle, but to the Holy of holies, into which he was ſaid to go in, v. 17. Add to this, that this altar which is atoned by the High-prieſt ſeems to be in that place where he only might now come, and therefore in the Holy place, called here the Tabernacle, from which all other prieſts were for this day excluded, whereas the altar of burnt-offerings was without the Holy place or Tabernacle, to wit at the door of it and in the court of the Prieſts.

19 And he ſhall ſprinkle of the blood upon it with his finger ſeven times g, and cleanſe it, and hallow it from the uncleanneſſes of the children of Iſrael.

g To ſignifie its perfect cleanſing, ſeven being a number of perfection, and our perfect reconciliation by the blood of Chriſt here repreſented.

20 And when he hath made an end of reconciling the holy place, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar, he ſhall bring the live goat:

21 And Aaron ſhall lay both his hands h upon the head of the live goat, and confeſs over him i all the iniquities of the children of Iſrael, and all their tranſgreſſions in all their ſins k, putting them upon the head l of the goat, and ſhall ſend him away by the † Heb. a man of opportunity.
hand of † a fit man m into the wilderneſs n.

h See on Exod. 29. 10. and Lev. 1. 4. i Confeſſion of ſin being a duty to accompany the ſacrifice offered for it, as we ſee Lev. 5. 5. Numb. 5. 7. k Or, with or according to all their ſins: for ſo the Hebrew particle is oft uſed. He mentions iniquities, tranſgreſſions, and ſins, to note ſins of all ſorts, and that a very free and full confeſſion was to be made, and that the ſmalleſt ſins needed, and the greateſt ſins were not excluded from, the benefit of Chriſts death here repreſented. l Charging all their ſins and the puniſhment due to them upon the goat, which though only a ceremony, yet being done according to Gods appointment and manifeſtly pointing at Chriſt upon whom their iniquities and puniſhments were laid, Iſa. 53. 5. 6. it was available for this end. And hence the heathens took their cuſtom of ſelecting one beaſt or man, upon whom they laid all their imprecations and curſes, and whom they killed as an expiatory ſacrifice for their ſins, and to prevent their ruin. m One that knows the wilderneſs, and the way to it, and what places in it are moſt convenient for that uſe. Heb. a man of time, i. e. of years and diſcretion, who may be truſted with this work. n Which ſignified the removal of their ſins far away both from the people, and out of Gods ſight, or from the place of his preſence. And here the goat being neglected by all men, and expoſed to many hardſhips and hazards from wild beaſts, which were numerous there, might further ſignifie Chriſts being forſaken both by God and by men, even by his own diſciples, and the many dangers and ſufferings he underwent. The Jews write, that this goat was carried to the mountain called Azazel, whence the goat is ſo called, v. 10. and that there he was caſt down headlong, and that the red ſtring by which he was led turned white, when God was pleaſed with the Iſraelites, otherwiſe it remained red: and then they mourned all that year. And the antient Hebrews write that 40 years before the deſtruction of the Temple, which was about the time of Chriſts death, this red ſtring turned no more white.

22 And the goat ſhall bear upon him all their iniquities unto a land † not inhabited: and he ſhall let go the goat in the wilderneſs.

† Heb. of ſeparation.

23 And Aaron ſhall come o into the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall put off the linnen garments which he put on, when he went into the holy place, and ſhall leave them there.

o Forthwith, not expecting the return of the man who carried the goat away, but ſecurely committing that to Gods providence he ſhall go on in his work.

24 And he ſhall waſh his fleſh with water in the holy place p, and put on his garments q, and come forth, and offer his burnt-offering, and the burnt-offering of the people, and make an atonement for himſelf, and for the people.

p Either in the laver appointed for that purpoſe, Or, in ſome other veſſel within the holy place, becauſe after he had waſhed in it he is ſaid to come forth. q Not his ordinary Prieſtly linnen garments, for he was to leave them in the Tabernacle, v. 23. but the High-prieſtly garments, called his garments properly and peculiary, and by way of diſtinction from the former garments, which are called holy garments, v. 4. and the linnen garments, v. 23. but never his garments, as theſe are. And this change of his garments was not without cauſe. For the common Prieſtly garments were more proper and fit for him in the former part of his miniſtration, both becauſe he was to appear before the Lord in the moſt holy place to humble himſelf and make atonement for his own and for the peoples ſins, and therefore his humbleſt and meaneſt attire was moſt fit, and becauſe he was to lay his hands upon that goat on which all their ſins were put, by which touch both he and his garments would be in ſome ſort defiled, and therefore as we read here that he waſhed himſelf or his fleſh, ſo we may well preſume his linnen garments were laid by for the waſhing, as the cloaths of him who carried away the ſcape-goat were waſhed, v. 26. And the High-prieſtly garments were moſt proper for the latter part of his work, which was of another nature.

25 And the * fat of the ſin-offering ſhall he burn upon the altar.

26 And he that let go the goat for a ſcape-goat, ſhall waſh r his clothes, and bathe his fleſh in water, and afterward come into the camp.

33 And he ſhall make an atonement for the holy ſanctuary, and he ſhall make an atonement for the tabernacle of the congregation, and for the altar: and he ſhall make an atonement for the prieſts, and for all the people of the congregation.

CHAP. XVII.

Sacrifices to be offered only in the temple, 1—6. and not to devils, 7. on pain of death, 8, 9. blood not to be eat: on the ſame pain: the life being in the blood, and it given for an atonement, 10——14. nor any beaſt that died of it ſelf, or was torn by beaſts, 15.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his ſons, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, ſaying,

3 What man ſoever there be of the houſe of Iſrael that killeth a an oxe, or lamb, or goat in the camp b, or that killeth it, out of the camp b, a Not for common uſe or eating, for ſuch beaſts might be killed by any perſon or in any place, but for ſacrifice, as manifeſtly appears both from v. 4. where that is expreſſed, and from the reaſon of this law, which is peculiar to ſacrifices, v. 5. and from Deut. 12. 5, 15, 21. b In Canaan, the city anſwered to the camp, and ſo it forbids any mans doing this either in the city or in the country.

4 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle c of the congregation, to offer an offering unto the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD, blood ſhall be imputed unto that man d: he hath ſhed blood, and that man ſhall be cut off from among his people e:

c This was appointed, partly in oppoſition to the heathens, who ſacrificed in all places; partly to cut off occaſions of Idolatry; partly to prevent the peoples uſurpation of the Prieſts office; and partly to ſignifie, that God would accept of no ſacrifices but through Chriſt and in the Church; (of both which the Tabernacle was a type. See Heb. 9. 11.) and according to his own preſcript. But though men were tyed to this law, God was free to diſpenſe with his own law, which he did ſometimes to the Prophets, as 1 Sam. 7. 9. and 11. 15. &c. and afterwards more fully and generally in the days of the Meſſiah, Mal. 1. 11. Joh. 4. 21, 24. d He ſhall be eſteemed and puniſhed as a murderer both by God and by men. See Iſa. 66. 3. The reaſon is, becauſe he ſhed that blood, which, though not mans blood, yet was as pretious, being ſacred and appropriated to God, and typically the price by which mens lives were ranſomed. e By death, either by the hand of God, in caſe men do not know it or neglect to puniſh it, or by men, if the fact was publick and evident.

5 To the end that the children of Iſrael may bring their ſacrifices, which they f offer in the open field, even that they may bring them unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation unto the prieſt, and offer them for peace-offerings g unto the LORD.

f Either 1. the Egyptians and other idolatrous nations, which commonly ſacrificed to Idols or Devils in fields or any places: who are not here named but may be deſigned by the particle they, in way of contempt, as if they were not worthy to be named, as that particle is uſed, Luk. 14. 24. and 19. 27. Joh. 7. 11. and 8. 10. Or rather, 2. the Iſraelites now mentioned, and plainly underſtood in the following they, who, before the building of the Tabernacle, took the ſame liberty herein which the Gentiles did, from which they are now reſtrained. g He nameth theſe not excluſively to others, as appears from the reaſon of the law, and from v. 8, 9. but eſpecially, becauſe in theſe the temptation was more common in regard of their frequency, and more powerful, becauſe part of theſe belonged to the offerer, and the pretence was more plauſible, becauſe their ſanctity was ſomething of a lower degree than others, theſe being only called holy, and allowed in part to the people, when the other are called moſt holy, and were wholly appropriated either to God, or to the Prieſts.

6 And the prieſts ſhall ſprinkle the blood h upon the altar of the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and burn the fat for a * ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

* Exod. 18. ch 31.

h This verſe contains a reaſon of the foregoing law, becauſe of Gods propriety in the blood and fat, wherewith alſo God was well pleaſed, and the people reconciled. And theſe two parts only are mentioned, as the moſt eminent, and peculiar, though other parts alſo were reſerved for God.

7 And they ſhall no more offer their ſacrifices unto devils i, after whom they have gone a whoring k: This ſhall be a ſtatute for ever unto them throughout their generations.

i So they did, not directly or intentionally, but by conſtruction and conſequence, becauſe the Devil is the author of idolatry, and is eminently ſerved, pleaſed and honoured by it. And as the Egyptians were notorious for their Idolatry, as appears by the teſtimony of Scripture, and of all antient writers, ſo the Iſraelites were infected with their leaven Joſ. 24. 14. Ezek. 20. 7. and 23. 2, 3. And the name of Devils is commonly given in Scripture to Idols, yea even to thoſe which ſeemed moſt innocent, as to Jeroboams Calves, 2 Chron. 11. 15. by which he and the people deſigned and profeſſed to worſhip the true God, as is manifeſt from the nature of the thing, and from many places of Scripture, and the worſhippers of Idols are eſteemed and called worſhippers of Devils. See Deut. 32. 17.

Pſal. 106. 37. 1 Cor. 10. 20. Rev. 9. 20. The Hebrew word rendred Devils ſignifies goats, either becauſe goats were eminently worſhipped by the Egyptians, as Herodotus, Strabo, and others note, and diverſe of the Idols of the Heathens were of that or a like form; or becauſe the Devil did oft appear to the Heathens in that ſhape, as their own authors note. k For Idolatry, eſpecially in Gods people, is commonly called whoredom, as Ezek. 16. 16, 26. & 23. 8, 19, 21, &c. and that juſtly, becauſe it is a violation of that covenant by which they were peculiarly betrothed or married to God. See Hoſ. 2. 19, 18, 19.

8 And thou ſhalt ſay unto them, Whatſoever man there be of the Houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers which ſojourn among you, that offereth a burnt-offering, or ſacrifice, 9 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it unto the LORD, even that man ſhall be cut off from among his people.

* Gen. 9. 4. chap. 7. 26. & 19. 26. Deut. 12. 16. & 15. 23. 1 Sam. 14. 33. Ezek. 44. 7. *Jer. 44. 11. † Heb. ſoul.

10 * And whatſoever man there be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers that ſojourn among you, that eateth any manner of blood, * I will even ſet my face againſt that ſoul l that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people.

l (i. e.) I will be an enemy to him, and execute vengeance upon him immediately; becauſe ſuch perſons probably would do this in private, ſo as the Magiſtrate could not know nor puniſh it. See this or the like phraſe, Lev. 20. 3. and 26. 17. Jer. 3. 12. Ezek. 14. 8.

11 For the † life of the fleſh m is in the blood n, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your ſouls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the ſoul o.

m (i. e.) Of living creatures. n (i. e.) It depends upon the blood, is preſerved and nouriſhed by it, and is extinguiſhed when the blood is gone. And this law was given to the Jews, and hard-hearted people, as they are oft ſaid to be, that by this reſtraint from the blood of brute creatures they might be wrought to the greater abhorrency of taking away the life of a man. o Typically, and in reſpect of the blood of Chriſt which it repreſented, by which the atonement is really made, Heb. 9. 12. So the reaſon is double; 1 becauſe this was the eating up of the price or ranſom of their own lives, which in conſtruction was the deſtroying of themſelves. 2 becauſe this was ingratitude and irreverence towards that ſacred blood of Chriſt which they ought to have in continual veneration.

12 Therefore I ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, No ſoul of you ſhall eat blood, neither ſhall any ſtranger that ſojourneth among you eat blood.

† Heb. that hunteth any hunting. * chap. 7. 26.

13 And whatſoever man there be of the children of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers that ſojourn among you, † which * hunteth and catcheth any beaſt p or fowl that may be eaten, he ſhall even pour out the blood thereof, and cover it with duſt q.

p He inſtanceth in this kind, either becauſe perſons much given to that exerciſe are commonly too licentious, and being in haſte might eaſily tranſgreſs, or becauſe ſome might think the former prohibition did reach only to the blood of ſuch creatures as were offered to God in ſacrifice. q Partly to beget an honourable reſpect unto the blood even of beaſts, and much more of men; partly leſt the beaſts ſhould lick it up, and by taſting the ſweetneſs of it be made more fierce and cruel to devour and deſtroy others; and partly as a licence from God upon this condition giving them a right to kill and eat ſuch creatures, without any fear of the blood being imputed to them; for as the not-covering of the blood portends the puniſhment which the ſin of blood-ſhedding calls for, Job 16. 18. Ezek. 24. 7, 8. ſo covering it notes impunity.

14 * For it is the † life of all fleſh; the blood of it is for the † life thereof: therefore I ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Ye ſhall eat the blood of no manner of fleſh: for the † life of all fleſh is the blood thereof: whoſoever eateth it, ſhall be cut off.

*Exod. 22. 31. Ezek. 44. 31. † Heb. a carcaſs. * chap. 22. 8.

15 * And every ſoul that eateth r † * that which died of it ſelf, or that which was torn with beaſts, (whether it be one of your own country, or a ſtranger s) he ſhall both waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean untill the even: then ſhall he be clean.

r To wit, through ignorance or inadvertency, as appears by the ſleightneſs of the puniſhment; for if it was done knowingly, it was a preſumptuous ſin againſt an expreſs law here, and Deut. 14. 21. and therefore more ſeverely puniſhed. s Underſtand of the Proſelytes, either of the Proſelytes of the gate, who were obliged to obſerve the precepts of Noah, whereof this was one, or of the Proſelytes of righteouſneſs, or converts to the Jewiſh Religion: for other ſtrangers were allowed to eat ſuch things, Deut. 14. 21.

16 But if he waſh them not, nor bathe his fleſh, then he ſhall bear his iniquity t.

t (i.e.) The puniſhment of it, and therefore muſt offer a ſacrifice for it. See Levit. 5. 1, 2, &c. and 7, 18.

CHAP. XVIII.

Iſraelites not to live after the Cuſtoms of the Egyptians or Canaanites, but according to Gods Inſtitutions, 1——5. To abſtain from Inceſtuous Marriages, 6——18. And Copulation with a menſtrous Woman, 19. And Adultery, 20. And Offering Children to Moloch, 21. And all Unnatural Copulation with Man or Beaſt, 22, 23. Theſe things the Nations do: and the Land is defiled, and God is provoked: and they who do thoſe things ſhall die: but God was their Lord, 24——30.

1 AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the Children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, I am the LORD your God a.

a Your Soveraign, and Lawgiver, This is oft repeated here, becauſe the things here forbidden were practiſed and allowed by the Gentiles, to whoſe cuſtom he here oppoſeth Divine authority, and their obligation to obey his commands.

3 After the doings of the land of Egypt b wherein ye dwelt, ſhall ye not do; and after the doings of the land of Canaan b whither I bring you, ſhall ye not do: neither ſhall ye walk in their ordinances c.

b Theſe two nations he mentions, becauſe their habitation and converſation among them made their evil example in the following matters more dangerous. But under them he includes all other nations, as he elſewhere expreſſeth it. c Or ſtatutes, either becauſe their laws did indeed allow ſuch things, or becauſe prevailing cuſtoms have the force of laws.

4 Ye ſhall do my judgments, d and keep mine ordinances, d to walk therein: I am the LORD your God.

d Mine univerſally, Deut. 27. 26. Gal. 3. 10. for though the words be indefinite, the matter is neceſſary, and mine ſolely, Deut. 6. 13. compared with Mat. 4. 10. and therefore thoſe that here follow, though you do not ſee the particular reaſon of ſome of them, and though they be contrary to the laws and uſages of the nations.

* Ezek. 20. 11, 13. Luk. 10. 28. Rom. 10. 5. Gal. 3. 12.

5 Ye ſhall therefore keep my ſtatutes, and my judgments; * which if a man do, he ſhall live in them e: I am the LORD.

e Not only happily here, but alſo eternally hereafter, as it is expounded, Mat. 19. 17. Rom. 10. 5. This is added as a powerful argument why they ſhould follow Gods commands, rather than mens examples, becauſe their life and happineſs depends upon the one, not the other. And though in ſtrictneſs, and according to the law or covenant of works they could not challenge life for doing, except their obedience was univerſal, perfect, conſtant and perpetual, and therefore no man ſince the fall could be juſtified by the law, as the Apoſtle affirms and proves, Rom. 4. and Gal. 3. yet by the covenant of Grace this life is promiſed to all that obey Gods commands ſincerely, though not perfectly, 1 Tim. 4. 8.

6 None f of you ſhall approach g to any that is † near of kin to him, h to uncover their nakedneſs i: I am the LORD.

f Heb. No Man. For though the Women alſo be bound by this law, yet the men alone are mentioned, both becauſe they are moſt active in the choice of their Yoke-fellows, and therefore moſt likely to tranſgreſs theſe laws, and becauſe they having authority over the women could have the greater influence upon them by their power, counſel, or example, to oblige them either to the obſervation or violation of them. g This word ſignifies the conjugal act here, as it doth Gen. 20. 4. Iſa. 8. 3. but becauſe it is ambiguous in it ſelf, it is ſo limited and explained in the end of the verſe. h This is the general rule, which is particularly expounded and applied in the following inſtances. And theſe laws are ſo juſt and reaſonable, that although the barbarous nations did allow of ſuch inceſtuous marriages, yet wiſer and civil heathens by the meer light of nature condemned them, as may be ſeen in Suetonius, Tacitus, Catullus, and others. i (i. e.) Their ſecret parts, ſo called to put us in mind of the fall of our firſt Parents, whoſe firſt ſence and ſhame of their nakedneſs had its riſe from thence. This phraſe notes the ſame thing with knowing, Gen. 4. 1. and with diſcovering ones skirt, Deut. 22. 30. and 27. 20.

7 The nakedneſs of thy father, or k the nakedneſs of thy mother, ſhalt thou not uncover: ſhe is thy mother, l thou ſhalt not uncover her nakedneſs.

k Heb. and, put for that is, or to wit, as it is oft uſed. Here it notes, that the nakedneſs of the father, and the nakedneſs of the mother are one and the ſame thing, becauſe they two are one fleſh, and therefore her nakedneſs is his alſo. Which further appears becauſe the mother only is mentioned in the following words, which contain the reaſon of the law. l And therefore even nature teacheth thee to abhor ſuch inceſt. Yet the Perſians uſed to marry their mother; therein worſe than the very Camels, whom no force will drive to that act with their dams.

* chap. 20. 11. Deut. 22. 30. & 27. 20. Amos 2. 7.

8 * The nakedneſs of thy fathers wiſe m ſhalt thou not uncover: it is thy fathers nakedneſs n.

m (i. e.) Thy Step-mother. Examples of this are Gen. 35. 22. and 49. 4. 1 Cor. 5. 1. n By intereſt and relation; that which he only may uncover.

* chap. 20. 17. 2 Sam. 13. 12. Ezek. 22. 11.

9 * The nakedneſs of thy ſiſter o, the daughter of thy father p, or daughter of thy mother p, whether ſhe be born at home q, or born abroad r, even their nakedneſs thou ſhalt not uncover.

o By both parents. p Thy ſiſter by either of thy parents. q To wit, of thy father by another wife, whom he hath taken into his houſe. r Either of thy mother, by another, whether a former, or a ſecond husband, in another houſe and family: or, of thy father by ſome ſtrange woman: for there might be ſome doubt in theſe caſes.

10 The nakedneſs of thy ſons daughter, or of thy daughters daughter s, even their nakedneſs thou ſhalt not uncover: for theirs is thine own nakedneſs t.

s And conſequently of all thy children and childrens children, and all downwards. t They are a part of thy ſelf as coming out of thy loins, and out of thy wife, whoſe nakedneſs is thine own.

11 The nakedneſs of thy fathers wives daughter, begotten of thy father u, (ſhe is thy ſiſter) thou ſhalt not uncover her nakedneſs.

u Or, being akin to thy father. He ſeems to ſpeak of the daughter of the fathers brother by his wife, whom the father here ſpoken of, being brother to the deceaſed perſon, married by vertue of that law, Deut. 25. 5. by which marriage there was a near kindred contracted between the two families, ſo that the ſon of the one could not marry the daughter of the other. Thus this law is differing from that ver. 9. And that ſeems more probable, than that in ſo brief a table of laws the ſame thing ſhould be forbidden both there and here. Obj. The word being the ſame here and ver. 9. muſt be underſtood in the ſame ſenſe, and therefore here muſt be rendred begotten or born, as it is there. Anſw. It may be rendred there as well as here, akin, as ſome render the words there, of domeſtick, or of another, a foreign, kindred: and if the word had been participially put for begotten or born, it is likely the prepoſition Mem or Lamed would have been prefixed to the Hebrew word, abicha, as is common in thoſe caſes.

* chap.20. 19 † Heb. fleſh. Gen. 37. 27. 12 * Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy fathers ſiſter x: ſhe is thy fathers † near kinſwoman y.

x Thy Aunt by the fathers ſide, as the next verſe ſpeaks of the Aunt by the mothers ſide. If Amrams example be alledged to the contrary, ſee on Exod. 6. 20. y Heb. thy fathers fleſh, a member and product of the ſame fleſh from which thy father came.

†Heb fleſh. 13 Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy mothers ſiſter: for ſhe is thy mothers † near kinſwoman.

* chap.20. 20. 14 * Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy fathers brother z, thou ſhalt not approach to his wife: ſhe is thine aunt †.

z (i.e.) Of his wife, as the next words explain it. And as a man may not marry his aunt, ſo neither may a woman marry her uncle, there being altogether the ſame diſtance in kindred, and the ſelf-ſame reaſon of the law. And for the examples of Abraham, Amram, Othoniel, &c. to the contrary, they were before the publication of this law, by which it pleaſed God to reſtrain the liberty allowed formerly when the holy ſeed was in a narrower compaſs, and fewer perſons, which altered the caſe. For in that regard there was a time when God allowed brethren and ſiſters to marry, to wit, when there were no other in the World, which was the caſe of Adams immediate children. We learn from hence, that the ſame degrees are forbidden in conſanguinity or kindred by blood, and in affinity or kindred by marriage. † Some infer from hence, that it is unlawful for couſin-germans, or the children of brethren and ſiſters to marry. But there is not the ſame reaſon, nor the ſame degree of diſtance, for my uncle or aunt are nearer akin to me than their children are. Yet becauſe it ſeems doubtful to many, and may hereafter prove occaſion of grievous perplexities of mind, eſpecially to tender and ſcrupulous conſciences, Christian prudence directs us to chuſe the ſafeſt way, there being ſo great a latitude of unqueſtionable perſons.

* chap.20. 12. Ezek. 22.11. 15 * Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy daughter in law: ſhe is thy ſons wife, thou ſhalt not uncover her nakedneſs.

* chap. 20. 21. Mat. 14. 4. 16 * Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy brothers wife a: it is thy brothers nakedneſs.

a Neither in his life time, nor after his death, and therefore a woman might not marry her husbands brother, nor might a man marry his wives ſiſter, either before or after his wives death, for ſo all the prohibitions are to be underſtood: which will give light to ver. 18. But God, who can undoubtedly diſpenſe with his own laws, did afterwards make one exception to this rule, of which ſee Deut. 25. 5.

* chap.20. 14. 17 * Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of a woman and her daughter b, neither ſhalt thou take her ſons daughter, or her daughters daughter, to uncover her nakedneſs: For they are her near kinſwomen: it is wickedneſs c.

b To wit, thy ſtep-daughter, and ſo thy ſtep-ſons daughter, &c. c Becauſe they are very near to thy wife by conſanguinity, as coming directly from her; and therefore they are as near to thee by affinity, which binds as much as conſanguinity; the wife, who is only related by affinity, being nearer to a man than any other by conſanguinity, they two being made one fleſh, and therefore the ſame diſtance is to be obſerved in both of them.

‖ Or, one wife to another. 18 Neither ſhalt thou take ‖ a wife to her ſiſter d, to vex her, to uncover her nakedneſs beſides the other, in her life time e.

d The word ſiſter is here underſtood either 1. properly, ſo ſome: whence others infer, that it is lawful to marry ones wives ſiſter after the wives death. Or 2. improperly for any other woman, as not only perſons, but things, of the ſame kind are oft called, ſiſters and brethren, of which ſee plain examples, Exod. 26. 3. and 32. 27, 29. Ezek. 1. 9. and 3. 13. and 16. 45, 48, 49. So the ſence is, thou ſhalt not take one woman to another. And this ſence may ſeem more probable, 1. becauſe elſe here were a tautology, the marriage of a man with his wives ſiſter being ſufficiently forbidden ver. 16. where marriage with his brothers wife is forbidden, as alſo ver. 9. and 11. where he forbids the marriage of ones own ſiſter, and conſequently the marriage of ones wives ſiſter, it being manifeſt and confeſſed that affinity and conſanguinity are of the ſame conſideration and obligation in theſe matters. Nor can this be added for explication, for then the comment would be darker than the text, nay it would deſtroy the text, for then what was ſimply and abſolutely and univerſally forbidden before, is here forbidden doubtfully and reſtrainedly, and might at leaſt ſeem to be allowed after the wives death; which is rejected by thoſe who own the former interpretation. 2. Becauſe the reaſon of this prohibition, which is leſt he ſhould vex her thereby, is much more proper and effectual againſt marrying any other woman than againſt marrying the wives ſiſter, ſo near and dear a relation being moſt commonly and probably a means to induce them rather to love and pleaſe and ſerve, than to vex one another in ſuch a relation. And therefore to take her natural ſiſter to vex her would ſeem a courſe unſuitable to his end or deſign. 3. Some add another reaſon, that Polygamy, which Chriſt condemns, Mat. 19. 5. is either forbidden here or no where in the law. But this may admit of great diſpute. And it is obſervable that Chriſt confutes Polygamy and divorces, not by any of Moſes his laws (which probably he would not have omitted, if they had been to his purpoſe) but by the firſt inſtitution of marriage, Gen. 2. 23. whence alſo Malachi ſeems to fetch his argument, chap. 2. 14, 15. And that law Deut. 21. 15, 16. may ſeem to intimate that God did then, in conſideration of the hard-heartedneſs of the Jewiſh Nation, diſpenſe with that firſt and primitive law, eſpecially if we conſider the practice of divers holy men amongſt the Jews, not only before the law, as Abraham and Jacob, but alſo after it, as Elkanah, and David, who would never have lived in the violation of a known law, or, if they had, would have been blamed for it, whereas on the contrary God mentions it as one of his favours vouchſafed to David, that he gave him his maſters wives into his boſom, 2 Sam. 12. 8. and affirms, that David turned not aſide from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life, ſave only in the matter of Uriah, 1 King. 15. 5. Peradventure therefore it may deſerve ſome conſideration which a learned man in part ſuggeſts, that this Text doth not ſimply forbid the taking of one wife to another, but the doing of it in ſuch a manner or for ſuch an end, that he may vex or puniſh, or revenge himſelf of the former; which probably was a common motive amongſt that hard-hearted people to do ſo, and therefore the forbidding hereof might give a great check to the practice of Polygamy amongſt them. e This clauſe is added to ſignifie Gods allowance to marry one wife after another, when ſhe is dead, and thereby to intimate how the word Siſter is to be underſtood.

* chap.20. 18. Ezek. 22. 11. 19 * Alſo thou ſhalt not approach unto a woman f to uncover her nakedneſs, as long as ſhe is put apart for her uncleanneſs.

No not to thy own Wife. See chap. 12. 2. and 15. 24, 25. This was not only a ceremonial pollution, but an immorality alſo, whence it is put amongſt groſs ſins, Ezek. 18. 6. There is alſo a natural turpitude in this action. And therefore it is now unlawful under the Goſpel.

* Exod.20. 14. chap. 20. 10. 20 Moreover, * thou ſhalt not lie carnally with thy neighbours wife, to defile thy ſelf with her.

* chap.20. 2. 2 King. 23. 10. * called Act. 7. 43. Moloch. 21 And thou ſhalt not let any of thy ſeed * paſs through the fire g to * Moloch h, neither ſhalt thou prophane the name of thy God i: I am the LORD.

g This was done two ways, either 1. By burning them in the fire, of which ſee 2 King. 3. 27. 2 Chron. 28. 3. Pſal. 106. 37, 38. Eſa. 57. 1. Or 2. By making them paſs between two great fires, which was a kind of luſtration or conſecration of them to that God. Which latter ſeems to be here meant. See on Deut. 18. 10. where the word fire, here underſtood, is expreſſed. h Or, Moloch; called alſo Milcom, an Idol chiefly of the Ammonites, as appears from 1 King. 11. 7. 2 King. 23. 13. Jer. 49. 1, 3. This ſeems to be the Saturn of the Heathens, to whom eſpecially children and men were ſacrificed. This is mentioned, becauſe the neighbours of Iſrael were moſt infected with this Idolatry, and therefore they are particularly cautioned againſt it, though under this one inſtance all other Idols and acts, or kinds of Idolatry, are manifeſtly comprehended and forbidden. i Either by joining him with, or by forſaking him for, ſuch a baſe and bloody Idol, whereby the name, honour, and ſervice of God would be horribly defiled, and expoſed to the ſcorn of the Heathen, as if he were but one of the ſame kind with their mungrel-deities.

* 1 Cor. 6. 9. 1 Tim. 1. 10. 22 * Thou ſhalt not lie with mankind k as with woman-kind: it is abomination.

k See Levit. 20. 13. 1 King. 14. 24.

* chap.20. 15. & 16. 19. 23 * Neither ſhalt thou lie with any beaſt to defile thy ſelf therewith: neither ſhall any woman ſtand before a beaſt to lie down thereto, it is confuſion l.

l An horrible confuſion of the natures which God hath diſtinguiſhed, and of the order which God hath appointed, and an overthrow of all bounds of Religion, Honeſty, Sobriety and Modeſty.

24 Defile not ye your ſelves in any of theſe things: for in all theſe m the nations are defiled, which I caſt out before you.

m To wit, above-mentioned ſins. Whence it is apparent, that the ſeveral inceſts here prohibited are not only againſt the poſitive and particular Law given by God to the Jews, but alſo againſt the general Law and Light of nature. And therefore the Law about theſe things was one of the ſeven Precepts of Noah. And the ſober Heathens condemned ſuch inceſtuous Marriages. The Roman Hiſtorians obſerve, that when Claudius the Emperor had married his Niece, (which is one of the loweſt kinds of inceſt here mentioned) and the Senate in complaiſance with him had made it lawful for any to do ſo, yet there was but one, and he too an obſcure perſon, that followed his example.

25 And the land is defiled: therefore I do viſit m the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land it ſelf vomiteth out her inhabitants n.

m I am now viſiting, or about to viſit, i. e. to puniſh. See Eſa. 26. 21. n As no leſs burdens to the Earth than corrupted food is to the ſtomach. See Jer. 9. 19. Mich. 2. 10.

* chap.20. 22. 26 * Ye ſhall therefore keep my ſtatutes and my judgments, and ſhall not commit any of theſe abominations, neither any of your own nation, nor any ſtranger o that ſojourneth among you:

o In Nation or Religion, of what kind ſoever. For though they might not force them to ſubmit to their Religion, yet they might reſtrain them from the publick contempt of the Jewiſh Laws, and from the violation of natural Laws, which, beſides the offence againſt God and nature, were matters of evil example and conſequence to the Iſraelites themſelves.

27 (For all theſe abominations have the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled.)

Jer.9.19. zek. 36. 3. 17.

28 That * the land ſpue not you out alſo when ye defile it, as it ſpued out the nations that were before you.

29 For whoſoever ſhall commit any of theſe abominations, even the ſouls that commit them ſhall be cut off [p], from among their people.

[p] To wit, by death to be inflicted by the Magiſtrates, as it is apparent in caſe of Idolatry with Moloch or other falſe Gods; and, in caſe of the Magiſtrates neglect, by God himſelf. This phraſe therefore of cutting off, is to be underſtood variouſly, as many other phraſes are, either of Eccleſiaſtical, or Civil and Corporal puniſhment, according to the differing natures of the offences for which it is inflicted.

30 Therefore ſhall ye keep mine ordinance, that ye commit not any one of theſe abominable cuſtoms, which were committed before you, and that ye defile not your ſelves therein: I am the LORD your God.

CHAP. XIX.

Iſraelites muſt be holy, 1, 2. muſt honour their Parents, and keep Sabbaths, 3. Shun Idolatry, 4. Duly to ſtay and eat their Peace-offerings, 5——8. In Harveſt time, leave Gleanings for the poor and ſtranger, 9, 10. Not ſteal, deceive or lie, 11. Nor ſwear falſly, 12. Nor defraud, rob, or detain. 13. Nor curſe the deaf, nor put a Stumbling-block before the blind, 14. Nor judge unjuſtly, 15. Nor be Tale-bearers; nor bear falſe witneſs againſt their Neighbour, 16. But rebuke their Brother for Sin, 17. Not revenge themſelves, but love their Neighbours, 18. Not to mix different things, 19. The puniſhment of a man lying with a bond-maid, 20——22. They muſt not eat of the fruits of Canaan till after four years, 23. To eat no blood: And uſe no Soothſaying, 26. Nor any heatheniſh method of Mourning, 28. Nor proſtitute their Daughters, 29. But muſt reverence God and his Ordinances, 30. Not regard Conjurers and Wizards, 31. Honour the Ancient, 32. Love and right Strangers, 33, 34. Do no Unrighteouſneſs, either in Judgment or Commerce, 35. 36.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, * ye ſhall be holy [a]: for I the LORD your God am holy [b].

*chap.11. 44. and 20. 7. 1Pet.1.16.

[a] Separated from all the forementioned defilements, and intirely conſecrated to God and obedient to all his Laws and Statutes. [b] Both in my Eſſence, and in all my Laws, which are holy and juſt and good, and in all my actions: Whereas the Gods of the Heathens are unholy both in their Laws and Inſtitutions, whereby they allow and require filthy and abominable actions, and in their practices, ſome of them having given wicked examples to their Worſhippers.

3 * Ye ſhall fear every man his mother, and his father [c], and * keep my ſabbaths [d]: I am the LORD your God.

*Exod.20. 12. *Exod. 8. and31.13.

[c] The mother is put firſt, partly becauſe the practice of this duty begins there, mothers, by perpetual converſe, being more and ſooner known to their children than their fathers; and partly becauſe this duty is moſt commonly neglected to the mother, upon whom children have not ſo much dependence as they have upon their Father. And this fear includes the two great duties of reverence and obedience. [d] This is here added, to ſhew, that, whereas it is enjoyned to Parents that they ſhould take care that the Sabbath be obſerved both by themſelves and by their children, it is the duty of children to fear and obey their Parents in this matter, and moreover, that, if Parents ſhould neglect their duty herein, or by their command, counſel, or example, draw them to pollute the Sabbath, yet the Children in that caſe muſt keep the Sabbath, and in all ſuch caſes prefer the command of God before the commands of their Parents or Superiours.

4 * Turn ye not [e] unto Idols [f], nor make to your ſelves * molten gods [g]: I am the LORD your God.

*Exod.20. 4. *Exod.33. 17. Deut. 27. 15.

[e] Turn not your hearts and faces from me, whom alone you pretend to reſpect, unto them. He intimates, that their turning to Idols is a turning from God, and that they could not ſerve both God and Idols. [f] The word ſignifies ſuch as are no Gods, or nothings, as they are called, 1 Cor. 8. 4. many Idols having no being, but only in the fancy of their Worſhippers, and all of them having no virtue or power to do good or evil, Eſa. 41. 23. [g] Nor graven Gods neither, as appears from Exod. 20. whereby we learn, that ſuch expreſſions are generally to be underſtood Synecdochically.

5 And if he offer a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, ye ſhall offer it at your own will [h].

[h] Or, according to your own good pleaſure, what you think fit: For though this in the general was required, yet it was left to their choice to determine the particulars. See Levit. 7. 16. Or rather, to your acceptation, i. e. in ſuch manner as it may be accepted by God on your behalf, which is explained in the next verſe, and not in ſuch manner as to loſe the end you aim at, to wit, Gods acceptance; for if ye do otherwiſe than God hath preſcribed, it ſhall not be accepted, as he adds ver. 7. but on the contrary ſeverely puniſhed, ver. 8.

6 It ſhall be eaten the ſame day ye offer it, and on the morrow [i]: and if ought remain until the third day, it ſhall be burnt in the fire.

[i] By which clauſe it appears that he ſpeaks here only of that ſort of peace-offerings, which were offered either by vow or freely for the obtaining of ſome mercy deſired; for the other ſort, which was by way of gratitude for mercies received, were to be eaten the ſame day. Levit. 7. 15.

7 And if it be eaten at all on the third day: it is abominable, it ſhall not be accepted.

8 Therefore every one that eateth it, ſhall bear his iniquity [k], becauſe he hath prophaned the hallowed thing of the LORD, and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among his people.

[k] (i. e.) The puniſhment of his iniquity; inſtead of acceptation he ſhall receive puniſhment.

9 And * when ye reap the harveſt of your land, thou ſhalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither ſhalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harveſt.

*chap. 23. 22. Deut. 24. 19. Ruth2.15. 16.

10 And thou ſhalt not glean thy Vineyard, neither ſhalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard: thou ſhalt leave them for the poor and ſtranger: I am the LORD your God [l].

[l] Who gave you all theſe things with a reſervation of my authority over you, and right in them, and with a charge of giving part of them to the poor.

11 * Ye ſhall not ſteal, neither deal falſly, neither lie one to another [m].

*Exod.20. 15. & 22.1, 7, 10. chap. 6. 2.

[m] Or, one againſt another to the defrauding of him of any of his goods, to which kind of lying the words foregoing and following ſeem here to reſtrain it, though it be true, that all ſorts of lying are unlawful.

12 And ye ſhall not * ſwear by my name falſly [n], neither ſhalt thou prophane the name of thy God [o]: I am the LORD.

*Exod.20. 7. chap. 6. 3. Deut.5.11 Mat.5.34. Jam.5.12.

[n] This is here added, to ſhew how one ſin draws on another, and that when men will lye for their own advantage, they will eaſily be induced to Perjury. [o] By any unholy uſe of it. So it is an additional precept, thou ſhalt not abuſe my holy name by ſwearing either falſly or raſhly. Or this may be a reaſon of the former prohibition, becauſe in ſo doing thou wilt prophane the name of thy God.

13 * Thou ſhalt not defraud thy neighbour, neither rob him: the wages [p] of him that is hired ſhall not abide with thee all night [q], until the morning.

*Deut.24. 14, 15. Mal. 3. 5. Jam. 5. 4.

[p] Heb. The work, put for the wages, as Deut 24. 15. Job 7. 2. Jer. 22. 13. [q] Becauſe his urgent neceſſities require it for preſent ſubſiſtence.

14 Thou ſhalt not curſe the deaf, nor put a ſtumbling block before the blind [r], but ſhalt fear thy God [s]: I am the LORD.

*Deut.27. 18.

[r] To make them fall. Under theſe two particulars are manifeſtly and eſpecially forbidden all injuries done to ſuch as are unable to right or defend themſelves; of whom God here takes the more care, becauſe they are not able to ſecure themſelves. [s] Who both diſcerns the injuries you do them, and can avenge them, though the blind and deaf cannot.

15 Ye ſhall do no unrighteouſneſs in judgment: thou ſhalt not * reſpect the perſon of the poor [t], nor honour the perſon of the mighty: but in righteouſneſs ſhalt thou judge thy neighbour.

*Exod.23. 3. Deut.1. 17. and16. 19. Prov. 24. 23. Jam. 2. 9.

[t] So as through pity to him to give an unrighteous ſentence. Compare Deut. 1. 17. and 10. 17. Prov. 24. 23.

16 * Thou ſhalt not go up and down as a tale-bearer [u] among thy people: neither ſhalt thou ſtand [x] againſt the blood of thy neighbour: I am the LORD.

*Exod.23. 1.

[u] Who makes it his buſineſs to go up and down from one to another, and divulge evil and falſe reports concerning others, which though many times it proceeds only from levity and talkativeneſs, yet apparently tends to the great injury of our neighbour. See Prov. 11. 13. Jer. 6. 28. and 9. 4. [x] To wit, in judgment as a falſe accuſer or falſe witneſs: For accuſers and witneſſes uſe to ſtand, whilſt the Judges ſate, in Courts of Judicature.

17 * Thou ſhalt not hate [y] thy brother [z] in thine heart: * thou ſhalt not in any wiſe rebuke thy neighbour [a] || and not ſuffer ſin upon him [b].

*1 Joh. 2. 11. *Mat. 18. 15. || Or, that thou bear not ſin for him.

[y] To prevent murder, laſt ſpoken of, he forbids hatred, which is the common cauſe, and a degree, of murder, 1 Joh. 3. 15. [z] The ſame with neighbour, as it follows, i. e. every man, Matth. 5. 44. for it is manifeſt, that Gods Law commanded them to love ſtrangers no leſs than Iſraelites. [a] If thy brother hath done thee or others any injury, thou ſhalt neither divulge it to others as a tale-bearer, nor hate him, and ſmother that hatred by ſullen ſilence, as 2 Sam. 13. 22. nor juſtifie and flatter and encourage him therein, but ſhalt freely and in love, not with hatred, tell him of his fault. [b] (i. e.) Not ſuffer him to lye under the guilt of any ſin, which thou by rebuking of him, and thereby bringing him to true Repentance, couldſt in ſome ſort free him from. But the phraſe of ſuffering ſin upon him ſeems imperfect and unuſual in Scripture, and I doubt whether the Hebrew verb Naſa be ever uſed for permitting or ſuffering. The words may be rendred thus, And (or ſo) thou ſhalt not bear ſin for him, or for his ſake, thou ſhalt not make thy ſelf guilty of his ſin, as thou wilt aſſuredly do, if thou doſt not perform thy duty of rebuking him for his ſin, which is a likely way, and a courſe appointed by God to remove the guilt of his ſin from him, and conſequently, as it was his fault that he ſinned and contracted guilt, ſo it is thy fault, that his guilt continues upon him. Many things favour this ſence. 1. This is the proper and uſual ſignification of the word Naſa. 2. The ſame words are uſed in this ſence, Levit. 22. 9. Num. 18. 32. 3. The prepoſition al is oft uſed thus, as Gen. 37. 8, 34. Judg. 9. 9. 1 King. 16. 7. 4. This phraſe of bearing ſin or iniquity is conſtantly uſed in this book for being guilty and lyable to puniſhment. And ſo the ſenſe is here full and compleat, and a very weighty reaſon here given to enforce the foregoing precept.

* Mat. 5. 43. and 22. 39. Rom. 13. 9. Gal. 5. 14. Jam. 2. 8.

18 Thou ſhalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge c againſt the children of thy people, * but thou ſhalt love thy neighbour d, as thy ſelf e: I am the LORD.

c Heb. nor keep, either 1. The injury here ſuppoſed, in thy memory: So it is oppoſed to thoſe who ſay they will forgive, but not forget, an injury. Or 2. Anger or hatred, in thy heart. So this verb is uſed, Jer. 3. 12. Nah. 1. 2. d By which he underſtands not the Iſraelites only, as ſome would perſwade us, but every other man with whom we converſe, as plainly appears 1. By comparing this place with verſe 34. where this very law is applied to ſtrangers. 2. Becauſe the word neighbour is explained by another man, Levit. 20. 10. Rom. 13. 8 See more on Exod. 20. 16. e With the ſame ſincerity, though not equality, of affection, as to thy ſelf.

19 Ye ſhall keep my ſtatutes f. Thou ſhalt not let thy cattle gender with a diverſe kind g: thou ſhalt not ſow thy field with mingled ſeed h: neither ſhall a garment mingled of linen and woollen come upon thee.

f Either 1. My Laws. So this is fitly premiſed, becauſe otherwiſe ſome of the following commands might ſeem trifling, and obedience to them unneceſſary; Or 2. My Ordinances, to wit, of nature; or the order which I have appointed in creatures, as the word is uſed Job 26. 10. and 38. 33. Pſal. 148. 6. Prov. 8. 29. and therefore they ſhall not confound thoſe things that I have diſtinguiſhed, which were in ſome ſort to reproach and correct my works, and which may ſeem to be done in ſome of the following inſtances. g This was prohibited, partly to reſtrain the curioſity and boldneſs of men, who might attempt to amend or change the works of God: Partly that by the reſtraints here laid even upon brute-creatures men might be taught to abhor all unnatural and unlawful luſts: Partly to teach the Iſraelites to avoid mixtures with other Nations either in Marriage or in Religion: Which alſo may be ſignified by the following prohibitions. h See of this and the next, Deut. 22. 9, 10, 11.

‖ Or, abuſed by any. † Heb. reproached by or, for man. ‖ Or, they. † Heb. there ſhall be a ſcourging.

20 And whoſoever lieth carnally with a woman that is a bondmaid ‖ † betrothed to an husband † and not at all redeemed, nor freedom given her, ‖ † ſhe ſhall be ſcourged i: they ſhall not be put to death k, becauſe ſhe was not free l.

† Or, reproached or deſpiſed, and therefore forſaken, of her husband. For as his continuance with her in his and her maſters family and ſervice, is mentioned as an evidence that he loved her, Exod. 21. 5, 6. So on the contrary his forſaking of her was a reproach to her, and a ſign of contempt. i Heb. There ſhall be a ſcourging, which may belong, either 1. To her alone, as the Jews underſtand it, for the mans puniſhment follows, ver. 21, 22. Or, 2. To both of them, for 1. Both were guilty. 2. It follows, they ſhall not be puniſhed with death, which may ſeem to imply that they were to be puniſhed by ſome other common and conſiderable puniſhment, which ſcourging indeed was, but the paying of a ram was a ſmall penalty and very unſuitable to the greatneſs of the offence. And the offering of the ram as a treſpaſs-offering for the ſin againſt God, is not inconſiſtent with making ſatisfaction other ways for the injury done to men, as we may ſee Levit. 6. 4, 5, 6. but only added here as a further puniſhment to the man, either becauſe he only could do this. and not the woman, who being a bond-woman had nothing of her own to offer: Or becauſe his Sex and his Freedom aggravated his ſin. k Which they ſhould have been, had ſhe been free, Deut. 22. 23, 24. l The reaſon of this difference is not from any reſpect which God gives to perſons, for bond and free are alike to him, but becauſe bond-women were ſcarce Wives, and their Marriages were ſcarce true Marriages, being neither made by their choice, but by their maſters authority, nor continued beyond the year of releaſe, but at her Maſters or Husbands pleaſure: Of which ſee Exod 21. 4. &c.

* chap. 5. 15.

21 And * he ſhall bring his treſpaſs-offering unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, even a ram for a treſpaſs-offering.

22 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him with the ram of the treſpaſs-offering before the LORD, for his ſin which he hath done: and the ſin which he hath done ſhall be forgiven him.

23 And when ye ſhall come into the land, and ſhall have planted all manner of trees for food; then ye ſhall count the fruit thereof as uncircumciſed m: three years n ſhall it be as uncircumciſed unto you: it ſhall not be eaten of.

m (i. e.) As unclean, not to be eaten but caſt away, and counted abominable, as the foreskins are. n This precept was ſerviceable, 1. to the Trees themſelves, which grew the better and faſter, being early ſtript of thoſe fruits, which otherwiſe would have derived to themſelves and drawn away much more of the ſtrength from the root and tree. 2. To men, both becauſe the fruit then was wateriſh, indigeſted and unwholſome, and becauſe hereby men were taught to bridle their appetites; a leſſon of great uſe and abſolute neceſſity in a godly life. 3. To God, who required and deſerved the firſt-fruits, which muſt be alſo of the beſt, and ſo they could not be in this time.

† Heb. holineſs of praiſes to the LORD. chap. 23. 20. Numb. 5. 8 Joſh. 6. 19.

24 But in the fourth year all the fruit thereof ſhall be † holy o to praiſe the LORD withal p.

o Conſecrated to the Lord, as the firſt-fruits and tithes were, and therefore given to the Prieſts and Levites, Numb. 18. 12, 13. Deut. 18. 4. yet ſo that part of them were communicated to the poor Widows and Fatherleſs and Strangers. See Deut. 14. 28. p. To bleſs the Lord, by whoſe power and goodneſs the trees bring forth fruit to perfection.

25 And in the fifth year ſhall ye eat of the fruit thereof, that it may yield unto you the increaſe thereof q: I am the LORD your God.

q That God may be pleaſed to give his bleſſing, which alone can make them fruitful.

* chap. 19. &c.

26 * Ye ſhall not eat any thing with the blood r, neither ſhall ye uſe inchantment, nor obſerve times s.

r (i. e.) Any fleſh out of which the blood is not firſt poured. See 1 Sam. 14. 32. The Jews write, that the Egyptians and other Nations, when they offered Sacrifices to the Devils, did eat part of the ſacrifices, beſide the blood which was kept in baſons for that end, which alſo they believed to be as it were the ſpecial food of the Devils. s To wit, ſuperſtitiouſly, by the obſervation of the clouds, or ſtars, or otherwiſe, by eſteeming ſome days lucky, others unlucky. See Deut. 18. 10, 11. Eſth. 3. 7.

* chap. 5.

27 * Ye ſhall not round the corners of your heads t, neither ſhalt thou mar the corners of thy beard.

t (i. e.) Your Temples: Ye ſhall not cut off the hair of your heads round about your Temples. This the Gentiles did, either for the worſhip of the Devils or Idols, to whom young men uſed to conſecrate their hair, being cut off from their heads, as Homer, Plutarch, and many others write; or in funerals or immoderate mournings, as appears from Eſa. 15. 2. Jer. 48. 37. And the like is to be thought concerning the beard or the hair in the corner, (i. e.) corners of the beard. The reaſon then of this prohibition is becauſe God would not have his people agree with Idolaters, neither in their Idolatries, nor in their exceſſive ſorrowing, no nor ſo much as in the appearances and outward ſignifications or expreſſions thereof.

* Deut. 1.

28 Ye ſhall not * make any cutting in your fleſh u for the dead x, nor print any mark upon you: I am the LORD.

u Which the Gentiles commonly did both in the worſhip of their Idols, and in their ſolemn mournings, Jer. 16. 6. x Heb. for a ſoul, i. e. either 1 improperly, for a dead body; as that word is ſometimes uſed, as Lev. 19. 28. and 21. 1. Numb. 6. 6. or 2. properly, for the ſoul; ye ſhall not cut your fleſh or your bodies, for your ſouls, or upon pretence of doing your ſouls any good, either in way of mortification, or in the worſhip of God, as they did, 1 King. 18. 28. in like manner as others were willing to give to God the fruit of their body for the ſin of their ſoul, Mic. 6. 7.

29 Do not † proſtitute thy daughter to cauſe her to be a whore y, leſt the land fall to whoredom, and the land become full of wickedneſs.

y As the Gentiles frequently did for the honour of ſome of their Idols, to whom diverſe women were conſecrated, and publickly proſtituted.

* chap. 2.

30 * Ye ſhall keep my ſabbaths, and reverence my ſanctuary z: I am the LORD.

z. Not preſuming to approach it without reverence, or with any kind of uncleanneſs upon you.

* Iſa. 8. Acts 16.

31 * Regard not them that have familiar ſpirits a, neither ſeek after wizards b: I am the LORD your God.

a That have entred into covenant with the Devil, by whoſe help they foretel many things to come, and acquaint men with ſecret things. See Lev. 20. 27. Deut. 18. 11. 1. Sam. 28. 3, 7, 9. 2 King. 21. 6. b Another name expreſſing the ſame thing for ſubſtance, to wit, perſons in league with the Devil, with ſome difference only in the manner of their operation.

32 Thou ſhalt riſe up c before the hoary head, and honour the face of the old man, and fear thy God d: I am the LORD.

c To do them reverence when they paſs by, for which end they were obliged, as the Jews ſay, preſently to ſit down again when they were paſt, that it might be manifeſt they aroſe out of reſpect to them. d A reaſon of the former precept, both becauſe old men in ſome reſpect do moſt reſemble God, who is ſtiled the ancient of days, Dan. 7. 9, 13. and becauſe this reſpect is due to ſuch, if not for themſelves, who may be unworthy or contemptible, yet for Gods ſake, who requires this reverence, and whoſe ſingular bleſſing old age is.

* Exod. 21. and 9. ‖ Or, opreſs. * Exod. 8. * Deut. 19.

33 And * if a ſtranger ſojourn with thee in your land, ye ſhall not ‖ vex him e.

e Either with opprobrious expreſſions, or grievous exactions.

34 * But the ſtranger that dwelleth with you ſhall be unto you as one born amongſt you f, and * thou ſhalt love him as thy ſelf: for ye were ſtrangers g in the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

f Either 1, as to the matters of common right, as it here follows: ſo it reacheth to all ſtrangers. Or 2 as to Church-privileges: ſo it concerns only thoſe who were proſelytes of righteouſneſs. g and therefore are ſenſible of the fears, diſtreſſes, and miſeries of ſuch, which call for your pity, and you ought to do to them, as you would that others ſhould do to you when you were ſuch.

35 Ye ſhall do no unrighteouſneſs in judgment, in mete-yard h, in weight, or in meaſure i.

h In the meaſuring of lands, or any dry and continued things, as cloth, ribband, &c. i In the meaſuring of liquid or ſuch dry things as are not continued, only contiguous, as of corn or wine, &c. Or, the former may note greater, the latter leſs, meaſures.

* Deut. 13. Prov. 11. and 16. and † Heb. ſtones.

36 * Juſt balances, juſt † weights, a juſt ephah i, and a juſt hin i ſhall ye have: I am the LORD your God which brought you out of the land of Egypt.

i Theſe two meaſures are named as moſt common, the former for dry, the latter for moiſt things: but under them he manifeſtly comprehends all other meaſures.

37 Therefore k ſhall ye obſerve all my ſtatutes, and all my judgments, and do them: I am the LORD.

k Becauſe my bleſſings and deliverances are not indulgences to ſin, but greater obligations to all duties to God and men. So that if religion and righteouſneſs were utterly loſt in the world, they ought in all reaſon to be found among you as my peculiar people and freed men.

CHAP. XX.

Iſraelites muſt not offer their Children to Molech on pain of Death, 1——3. Which if not inflicted by the Magiſtrate, ſhall be by God himſelf, 4, 5. The ſame, againſt running after Soothſayers, 6. Againſt Curſers of Parents, 9. Againſt Adultery, 10. Or inceſtuous and unlawful copulation with Women, Men, or Beaſt, 11——21. They muſt put a difference between clean and unclean, 22——26. Soothſayers to be ſtoned, 27.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 * Again, thou ſhalt ſay to the children of Iſrael a, * Whoſoever he be of the children of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers b that ſojourn in Iſrael, that giveth any of his ſeed unto Molech c, he ſhall ſurely be put to death: the people of the land ſhall ſtone him with ſtones.

* chap. 18. 21. * Deut. 18. 10. 2 Kin. 17. 17. & 23. 10. Jer. 32. 35.

a Here follow the puniſhments of the crimes forbidden in the former chapters. b Not only ſuch as were Proſelytes, but all others, theſe being groſs immoralities, and ſuch as the precepts of Noah reached to, and ſuch as the laws of nature and nations obliged them to. And therefore the toleration of ſuch actions was not only againſt reaſon of ſtate, and the intereſt of the commonwealth of Iſrael, and dangerous to the infection and deſtruction of the Iſraelites by the imitation of ſuch examples, but alſo againſt the light of nature and laws of humanity. c. Or to any other Idol; for the reaſon of the law equally concerns all. See Levit. 18. 21.

3 And I will ſet my face againſt that man d, and will cut him off from among his people e: becauſe he hath given of his ſeed unto Molech, to defile my ſanctuary f, and to prophane my holy Name g.

d (i. e.) Deal with him as an enemy, and make him a monument of my juſtice, either by puniſhing him immediately and eminently, when the Magiſtrate cannot or will not do it, or by adding to his corporal puniſhments my curſe upon his ſoul and name. See Lev. 17. 10. e From the number of his people, of what nation or kindred ſoever he was, or, from the land of the living. f Which was done by this wickedneſs, either becauſe ſuch perſons did, for the cover of their Idolatry, come into God's Sanctuary, as the reſt did: See Lev. 15. 31. or becauſe the Sanctuary was, and was ſaid to be defiled by groſs abominations committed in that city or land where Gods Sanctuary was: or becauſe by theſe actions they did pronounce and declare to all men that they eſteemed the ſanctuary and ſervice of God abominable and vile, by preferring ſuch odious and pernicious Idolatry before it. g Partly by deſpiſing it themſelves, and partly by diſgracing it to others, and giving them occaſion to blaſpheme it, and to abhor the true religion, becauſe they ſaw it deſerted and condemned by thoſe that beſt knew it and once embraced it.

4 And if the people of the land do any ways hide their eyes from the man h, when he giveth of his ſeed unto Molech, and kill him not:

h (i.e.) Wink at his fault, and forbear to accuſe and puniſh him. Compare Act. 17. 30.

5 Then I will ſet my face againſt that man, and * againſt his family i, and will cut him off, and all that go a whoring after him, to commit whoredom with Molech, from among their people.

* Exod. 20. 5.

i (i. e.) Either, 1. His poſterity, whom God threatned to puniſh for their fathers Idolatry, Exod. 20. Or 2. his people, as that word is uſed, Jer. 8. 3. Mic. 2. 3. to wit, the people of that land, who by their connivance make themſelves guilty of his ſin, ver. 4. Or 3. his diſciples and followers, who are oft called the ſons or children of their maſters. And ſo it may ſeem to be explained in the following words, all that go a whoring after him, as the firſt clauſe which concerns the head or chief perſon himſelf, I will ſet my face againſt that man, is explained by theſe words, I will cut him off.

6 And * the ſoul that turneth after ſuch as have familiar ſpirits and after wizards, to go a whoring after them k, I will even ſet my face againſt that ſoul, and will cut him off from among his people.

* chap. 19. 31.

k To ſeek knowledge or counſel or help from them.

7 * Sanctifie your ſelves therefore, and be ye holy: for I am the LORD your God.

* chap. 11. 44. & 19. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 16.

8 And ye ſhall keep my ſtatutes, and do them: I am the LORD which ſanctifie you l.

l (i. e.) Who ſeparated you from all nations, and from their impurities and Idolatries, to be a peculiar people to my ſelf, and therefore I will not ſuffer you to follow their examples. Or, who really ſanctify you, and give you my grace to do what I require, i. e. to keep my ſtatutes. Or the argument is this, Thoſe Idols and Idolatries will defile you and make you worſe, but I only and my ſervice will ſanctify you and make you better.

9 * For m every one that curſeth n his father, or o his mother, ſhall be ſurely put to death: he hath curſed his father, or his mother, his blood ſhall be upon him p.

* Exod. 21. 17. Deut. 27. 16. Prov. 20. 20. Mat. 15. 4.

So there needs no diſpute about the connexion, or what this is a reaſon of. n Which is not meant of every perverſe expreſſion, but of bitter reproaches or imprecations. o Heb. and put for or, as hath been noted before. p He is guilty of his own death: he deſerves to die for ſo unnatural a crime.

13 * If a man lie alſo with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they ſhall ſurely be put to death r; their blood ſhall be upon them.

* chap. 18. 17.

s (i. e.) Abominable and extraordinary wickedneſs, as the ſingularity of the puniſhment ſheweth. t Either, or both or all of them, if they conſented to it.

15 * And if a man lie with a beaſt, he ſhall ſurely be put to death: and ye ſhall ſlay the beaſt u.

* chap. 18. 23. Deut. 27. 21

u Partly for the prevention of monſtrous Births, partly to blot out the memory of ſo loathſome a crime, and partly that by ſo ſevere a puniſhment of that creature which was only a paſſive inſtrument to mans ſin, men might be aſſured that a more dreadful puniſhment than corporal death was reſerved for them, if they repented not.

16 And if a woman approach unto any beaſt, and lie down thereto, thou ſhalt kill the woman and the beaſt: they ſhall ſurely be put to death; their blood ſhall be upon them.

17 * And if a man ſhall take his ſiſter, his fathers daughter, or his mothers daughter, and ſee her nakedneſs x, and ſhe ſee his nakedneſs, it is a wicked thing, and they ſhall be cut off in the ſight of their people y: he hath uncovered his ſiſters nakedneſs, he ſhall bear his iniquity.

* chap. 18. 9. Deut. 27. 22.

x Seeing is here underſtood, either 1. properly, and ſo God would cut off the occaſions of further filthineſs Or rather 2. improperly, for touching her or lying with her; for 1. the ſence of ſeeing is oft put for other ſences, as for hearing, Gen. 42. 1. compared with Act. 7. 12. Exod. 20. 18. Rev. 1. 12. and for touching, as Joh. 20. 25, 29. 2. that act is expreſſed by words parallel to this of ſeeing, as by uncovering or diſcovering, and by knowing, Gen. 4 1. 3. ſo it is directly explained, in the following words, he hath uncovered his ſiſters nakedneſs, which manifeſtly ſignifies lying with her. 4. it is not probable that an equal puniſhment would have been appointed to an immodeſt ſight, and to the higheſt act of filthineſs. 5. nor ſeems there to be any reaſon why this crime ſhould be reſtrained to this rather than to any other relations, when it was as great, yea a greater crime in ſome other relations. y (i. e.) Publickly, for the terrour and caution of others.

18 * And if a man ſhall lie with a woman z having her ſickneſs a, and ſhall uncover her nakedneſs, he hath † diſcovered her fountain b, and ſhe hath uncovered the fountain of her blood: and both of them ſhall be cut off from among their people.

20 * And if a man ſhall lie with his uncles wife, he hath uncovered his uncles nakedneſs: they ſhall bear their ſin, they ſhall die childleſs c.

* chap. 18. 14.

c (i. e.) Either ſhall be ſpeedily cut off ere they can have a child by that inceſtuous conjunction, that the remembrance of the fact may be blotted out: or, if this ſeem a leſs crime than moſt of the former inceſtuous mixtures, becauſe the relation is more remote, and therefore the Magiſtrate ſhall forbear to puniſh it with death, yet they ſhall either have no children from ſuch an unlawful bed, or their children ſhall die before them, Hoſ. 9. 11, 12. or ſhall not be reputed their genuine children, but baſtards, and therefore excluded from the congregation of the Lord, Deut. 23. 2.

CHAP. XXI.

Prieſts muſt not defile themſelves, in mourning over the Dead: Caſes excepted, 1——6. Nor marry with a Whore, Profane, or Divorced Woman, 7, 8. His Daughter, if a Whore, to be burnt with fire, 9. The High Prieſt muſt in no caſe defile himſelf with the Dead, 10——12. Muſt marry a Virgin of his People, 13——15. Perſons having bodily defects, allowed to eat of the holy things, but not to ſerve in the Tabernacle, or offer to God, 16——24.

* Ezek. 44. 25.

1 AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Speak unto the Prieſts, the ſons of Aaron, and ſay unto them, * There ſhall none be defiled for the dead a among his people:

a To wit, by touching of the dead body, or abiding in the ſame houſe with it, or aſſiſting at his funerals, or eating of the funeral feaſt. The reaſon of this law is evident, becauſe by ſuch pollution they were excluded from converſe with men, to whom by their function they were to be ſerviceable upon all occaſions, and from the handling of holy things, Num. 6. 6. & 19. 11, 14, 16. Deut. 26. 14. Hoſ. 9. 4. And God would hereby teach them, and in them all ſucceſſive Miniſters of holy things, that they ought ſo entirely to give themſelves to the ſervice of God, that they ought to renounce all expreſſions of natural affections, and all worldly employments ſo far as they are impediments to the diſcharge of their holy ſervices. See Lev. 10. 3, 7. Deut. 33. 9. Mat. 8. 22. Hereby alſo God would beget in the people a greater reverence to the Prieſtly function, and oblige the Prieſts to a greater degree of ſtrictneſs and purity than other men.

2 But for his kin that is near unto him b, that is, for his mother, and for his father, and for his ſon, and for his daughter, and for his brother c.

b Under which general expreſſion his wife ſeems to be comprehended, though ſhe be not expreſſed in the following inſtances, becauſe from the mention of others more remote it was eaſie to gather that ſo near a relation was not excluded. And hence it is noted as a peculiar and extraordinary caſe, that Ezekiel, who was a Prieſt, was forbidden to mourn for his wife, Ezek. 24. 16, &c. Theſe exceptions God here makes in condeſcention to humane infirmity, becauſe in ſuch caſes it was very hard to reſtrain the affections. But this allowance concerns only the Inferiour Prieſt, not the High Prieſt, as we ſhall ſee. c Obj. Eleazar and Ithamar are forbidden to mourn for their brethren, Nadab and Abihu. Anſ. 1. That caſe was ſingular, both becauſe ſuch a mourning might ſeem to be a cenſure of God's ſeverity upon them, and becauſe they were then in the actual execution of their office and in their initiation to it, and they were the only perſons, beſides Aaron, that could perform that work, and therefore their attendance upon it was more neceſſary than it would be in after-times and other caſes. 2. The latter law can either limit or enlarge the former at the pleaſure of the law-giver. And this law may ſeem to be added, leaſt that prohibition Lev. 10. ſhould be taken for a general rule.

3 And for his ſiſter d a virgin, that is nigh unto him e, which hath had no husband f; for her may he be defiled.

d Either by father, or mother. e (i. e.) By nearneſs not of relation, (for that might ſeem a needleſs addition) but of habitation, i. e. one not yet cut off from the family, as it follows. f For if ſhe was married, ſhe was now of another family, and under her husbands ſpecial care in thoſe matters.

|| Or, being an husband among his people he ſhall not defile himſelf for his wife, &c.

4 But || he ſhall not defile himſelf, being a chief man among his people g, to prophane himſelf.

g Or, ſeeing he is a chief man, &c. or ruler, &c. for ſuch not only the High Prieſt, but others alſo of the Inferiour Prieſts were. And therefore though he might defile himſelf for the perſons now named, yet he, above all others, muſt take heed ſo to do it that he do not profane himſelf by doing as follows. Or, for a chief man, &c. the prepoſition Lamed being eaſily underſtood from the former verſe, where it is oft uſed, ſuch ſupplements being not unuſual in the Hebrew tongue. So the ſence is, He ſhall not defile himſelf for any other perſon whatſoever who is not thus near of kin to him, no not for a prince or chief ruler among his people, who might ſeem to challenge this duty from him, to join with all others in their reſentment of the publick loſs, much leſs ſhall he defile himſelf for any other. And ſo the laſt word, to profane himſelf, may be added as a reaſon why he ſhould not defile himſelf for the prince or any other, except the perſons named, becauſe ſuch defilement for the dead did profane him, or make him as a common perſon and unclean, and conſequently unfit to manage his ſacred employment, which was an impediment to the ſervice of God, and a publick inconvenience to the people whoſe concerns with God he negotiated. And it was not meet ſuch great and important affairs ſhould give place to the ceremonies of a funeral for a ſtranger.

* chap. 19. 27, 28. Ezek. 44. 20.

5 * They ſhall not make baldneſs upon their head h, neither ſhall they ſhave off the corner of their beard, nor make any cutting in their fleſh.

h To wit, in funerals, as the heathens did: q. d. Though I allow them to defile themſelves for ſome of the dead, yet in no caſe ſhall they uſe theſe ſuperſtitious and heatheniſh rites, which alſo the people are forbidden to do, Lev. 19. 27. Deut. 14. 1. but the Prieſts in a more peculiar manner, becauſe they are by word and example to teach the people their duty not to ſorrow for the dead as perſons without hope.

6 They ſhall be holy unto their God i, and not profane the Name of their God k: for the offering of the LORD made by fire, and the bread of their God l they do offer: therefore they ſhall be † holy.

i Devoted to God's ſervice, and always prepared and fit for it, and therefore ſhall keep themſelves, as far as they can, from all defilement, which makes them unmeet for their maſters uſe. k Which they eſpecially bear: they ſhall not diſparage the ſervice of God by making it give place to ſuch ſleight occaſions. l (i. e.) the ſhew-bread: or rather, all the other offerings, beſides burnt-offerings: which are called bread, either becauſe bread is commonly put for all food, as below, ver. 17, 21. or, becauſe God is ſatisfied and refreſhed with theſe offerings, as a man is with his bread: or rather, becauſe they, or part of them, are the bread or food of the Prieſts, and are here called the bread of their God, either objectively becauſe they were offered to God, or efficiently, becauſe they were given by God to the Prieſts. And theſe are called bread in oppoſition to the burnt-offerings, which being wholly conſumed gave no food to the Prieſts. Or, the offerings made by fire are here put Synecdochically for all the reſt, the moſt eminent kind for all, which are here called bread, becauſe devoured by fire to the honour of God. For the particle and is not in the Hebrew, and may be omitted.

* Ezek. 44. 22.

7 * They ſhall not take a wife that is a whore, or profane m, neither ſhall they take a woman put away from her husband n: for he is holy unto his God.

m Or, defiled, or defloured, though it were done ſecretly, or by accident, or by force: becauſe the Prieſt muſt take care that all the members of his family be free not only from groſs wickedneſs, but from all ſuſpicions of evil, and occaſions of reproach or contempt, becauſe this would reflect upon himſelf, and upon his God and religion alſo. The word may note one defloured by any perſon, though it were by her husband; or a widow, becauſe not only the High-Prieſt was obliged to marry a virgin, ver. 13. but alſo the inferiour Prieſts, as appears from Ezek. 44. 22. and that is either ſignified by this word, or by none other here. It is true, a widow, and a profane perſon are diſtinguiſhed, ver. 14. but the ſame word may be, and oft is taken in differing ſences, both more largely and more ſtrictly, in the ſame chapter. And there was ſome reaſon why it ſhould be more expreſly and diſtinctly ſet down there, a widow, or one profane or defloured otherwiſe, becauſe there was the more need of caution in the High-Prieſt, and therefore the widow is particularly mentioned, which in the former caſe might be ſufficiently comprehended under a general title. n Tho' not for adultery, but for light cauſes and by the husbands fault, becauſe tho' the woman might be wholly innocent and free, yet it would leave ſome blemiſh upon her.

8 Thou ſhalt ſanctifie him o therefore, for he offereth the bread of thy God: he ſhall be holy unto thee: p for I the LORD which ſanctifie you am holy q.

o Thou, O Moſes, and whoſoever ſhall ſucceed in thy place, to whom it belongs to ſee thoſe and other of my laws obſerved, ſhall take care that the Prieſt be holy, and do not defile himſelf by any of theſe forbidden marriages, though he would do it. p Either, 1. in thy eſteem, and therefore ſhall not give thee cauſe to think meanly and irreverently of him by his defiling or debaſing of himſelf with irregular mixtures: or, 2. to thy uſe or ſervice, in whoſe name he is to act with God, and therefore ſhall preſerve himſelf in a ſtate of holineſs and acceptation with God. q And therefore my Miniſters muſt be ſuch alſo.

9 And the daughter r of any prieſt, if ſhe profane her ſelf by playing the whore, ſhe profaneth her father s; ſhe ſhall be burnt with fire t.

r And by analogy his ſon alſo, and his wife, becauſe the reaſon of the law here added concerns all. And nothing is more common than to name one kind for the reſt of the ſame nature, as alſo is done Levit. 18. s (i. e.) Expoſeth his perſon and office, and conſequently religion, one of whoſe prime miniſters he is, to contempt. t Which was the ſevereſt of all the kinds of puniſhments among the Jews. Whereby God would ſhew, both the greatneſs of their ſins who ſtand in nearer relation to God than others, and how far God is from allowing ſin in thoſe who are neareſt to him.

* Exod. 30. * Exod. 2. chap. 16. 32.

10 And he that is the high prieſt among his brethren, upon whoſe head * the anointing oyl was poured u, and * that is conſecrated to put on the garments x, ſhall * not uncover his head y, nor rent his clothes z.

u Levit. 8. 12. Which was only ſprinkled upon inferiour Prieſts, blood alſo being mixed with it, Lev. 8. 30. x To wit, thoſe holy garments, which were peculiar to him, as well as thoſe common to others. y This being then the poſture of mourners, Lev. 10. 6. tho' afterwards the cuſtom was changed and mourners covered their heads, 2 Sam. 15. 30. Eſth. 6. 12. Or if this cuſtom was now in uſe, the meaning may be, he ſhall not put off the Prieſtly covering or mitre, which was neceſſary for him to do if he had put on the mourners covering upon his head, otherwiſe the holy covering had been defiled, but he ſhall continue in the exerciſe of his office, which is ſignified by keeping on his Prieſtly garments. z Another expreſſion of mourning.

11 Neither ſhall he go in a to any dead body, nor defile himſelf for his father b or for his mother.

a To wit, into the chamber or houſe where they lie. This and divers other rites here preſcribed were from hence tranſlated by the Heathens into their uſe, whoſe Prieſts were put under the ſame obligations. b Becauſe upon his fathers death he was actually High-prieſt, having been conſecrated to this office in his Fathers life-time.

12 Neither ſhall he go out of the ſanctuary c, nor profane the ſanctuary d of his God: for * the ‖ crown of the anointing oyl e of his God is upon him: I am the LORD.

* Exod. 28 36.
‖ Or, conſecration, or ſeparation, Numb. 6. 7.

c To wit, to attend the funerals of any perſon: for upon other occaſions he might and did commonly go out. d Either by making the ſervice thereof give place to the diſcharge of his paſſions, or the performance of a civility, or by entring into the Sanctuary before the ſeven days allotted for his cleanſing, Numb. 19. 11. were expired. e (i. e.) The anointing oil, which to him was in ſtead of a crown, by which he was advanced not only above the reſt of his brethren, but even above all the people, whoſe chief Governour he was in the things of God, tho' ſubject and accountable to the civil Magiſtrate, by which alſo he was made an eminent type of Chriſt who was to be King and Prieſt. Or, the crown, to wit, the golden plate, which is called the holy crown, Exod, 29. 6. and the anointing oyl of his God are upon him. So there is only an Ellipſis of the conjunction, and, which is frequent, as Pſal. 33. 2. and 144. 9. Iſa. 63. 11. Hab. 3. 11. &c. And theſe two things, being moſt eminent, are put for the reſt, and the ſign is put for the thing ſignified, q. d. for he is Gods High-prieſt. Or, the conſecration (for ſo nezer ſignifies) of the anointing oil, which by an Hypallage may be put for the anointing oil of the conſecration, i. e. whereby he is conſecrated, is upon him, i. e. though that action be paſt, yet the vertue of it remains ſtill upon him, he is a ſacred perſon in the higheſt degree, and therefore not to defile himſelf in any kind.

13 And he ſhall take a wife in her virginity f.

f Or, a Virgin, partly for the decency of the type, becauſe as he was a type of Chriſt, ſo his wife was a type of the Church, which is compared to a Virgin, 2 Cor. 11. 2. Rev. 14. 4. and partly for greater caution and aſſurance that his wife was not a defiled or defloured perſon. This and the following rule belong not to all the Prieſts, for then this were a groſs tautology, theſe ſame things or moſt of them being expreſly forbidden to them v. 7. but only to the High-prieſt, to ſhew that he alſo and he eſpecially is obliged to the ſame cautions.

14 A widow g, or a divorced woman, or profane, or an harlot, theſe ſhall he not take; but he ſhall take a virgin of his own people h to wife.

g Except ſhe were the widow of his predeceſſor, which ſome gather from Ezek. 44. 22. But that place ſpeaks only of the common Prieſt, not of the High-prieſt. h (i. e.) Either 1. of his own tribe, which is confuted by the examples of holy men. See 2 Chron. 22. 11. Or 2. of the ſeed of Iſrael, as it is explained, Ezek. 44. 22.

15 Neither ſhall he profane his ſeed i among his people: for I the LORD do ſanctifie him k.

i By mixing it with forbidden kinds, whereby the children would be diſparaged and rendred unfit for their Prieſtly function. k (i. e.) have ſeparated him from all other ſorts of men for my eſpecial and immediate ſervice, and therefore will not have that race corrupted.

16 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

17 Speak unto Aaron, ſaying, Whoſoever he be of thy ſeed l in their generations m, that hath any blemiſh n, let him not approach to offer the † bread o of his God.

l Whether the High-Prieſt, or the inferiour ones. m In all ſucceſſive ages, as long as your Prieſthood and polity indures. n i. e. Any defect or exceſs of parts, any notorious deformity or imperfection in his body. The reaſon hereof is partly typical, that he might more fully repreſent Chriſt, the great High-prieſt, who was typified both by the prieſt and ſacrifice, and therefore both were to be without blemiſh; partly moral to teach all Chriſtians and eſpecially Miniſters of holy things, what purity and perfection of heart and life they ſhould labour after, and that notorious blemiſhes in the mind or converſation render a man unfit for the Miniſtery of the Goſpel, and partly prudential, becauſe ſuch blemiſhes were apt to breed contempt of the perſon, and conſequently, of his function, and of the holy things wherein he miniſtred. For which reaſon, ſome conceive, that ſtill ſuch perſons as have notorious defects or deformities which render them contemptible, are not fit for the Miniſtery. Which may be true in the general, except where there are eminent gifts and graces, which are ſufficient to vindicate a man from the contemptibleneſs of his bodily preſence. The particular defects here mentioned, I ſhall not enlarge upon becauſe ſome of the Hebrew words are diverſly interpreted, and becauſe the uſe of theſe things being aboliſhed, the knowledge of them is not very neceſſary. o Either the ſhew-bread, one eminent part being named for the whole: or the food, i. e. all the oblations. See before on ver. 8.

*ch.22.23.

p Unto God, or to ſerve him in his ſanctuary. q Moſt reſtrain this word to the noſe, and to ſome great deformity relating to it, either the want of it wholly or in part, or the ſhortneſs, flatneſs, or crookedneſs of it. But according to others, it ſignifies more generally, a perſon that wants ſome member or members, becauſe the next word, to which it is oppoſed, ſignifies one that hath more members than he ſhould.

19 Or a man that is broken footed, or broken handed,

20 Or crook-backt, or a † dwarf, or that hath a blemiſh in his eye, or be ſcurvy, or ſcabbed, or hath his ſtones broken.

† Or, too ſlender.

21 No man that hath a blemiſh r, of the ſeed of Aaron the prieſt, ſhall come nigh to offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire: he hath a blemiſh, he ſhall not come nigh to offer the bread of his God.

r Any notorious blemiſh whereby he is disfigured, though not here mentioned.

22 He ſhall eat the bread of his God, both of the moſt holy, and of the holy s.

s Which a Prieſt having any uncleanneſs upon him might not do. Whereby God would ſhew the great difference between natural infirmities ſent upon a man by God, and moral defilements which a man brought upon himſelf. What was holy, and what moſt holy was declared before. See Levit. 2. 3. and 6. 17. and 7. 1. and 14. 13. and 22. 10.

23 Only he ſhall not go in unto the vail t, nor come nigh unto the altar u, becauſe he hath a blemiſh, that he profane not my ſanctuary x: for I the LORD do ſanctifie them y.

t (i. e.) To the ſecond vail which was between the Holy and the moſt Holy place, Exod. 26. 13. 36. to burn incenſe, to order the ſhew-bread, and to dreſs the lamps, which were nigh unto that vail though without. u (i. e.) The altar of burnt-offering, which was without the ſanctuary. The ſenſe is, He ſhall not execute the prieſts office, which was to be done in thoſe two places. x Heb. my ſanctuaries, in the plural number, as it is alſo, Levit 26. 31. Jer. 51. 51. Ezek. 28. 18. For though the Sanctuary was but one, yet there were divers parts, to wit, the Court, the Holy place, and the moſt holy, each of which was in a large ſenſe a Sanctuary, or an holy place ſet apart for Gods Worſhip. y (i. e.) Do ſet them apart for high and holy uſes, to manifeſt my preſence and grace, and to receive my Worſhip and ſervice in them. And therefore I will not have them polluted or diſparaged by the admiſſion of defiled or deformed prieſts to Miniſter therein.

24 And Moſes told it unto Aaron, and to his ſons, and to all the children of Iſrael.

CHAP. XXII.

A Prieſt, with any Uncleanneſs, muſt not eat of holy things, on pain of Death, till Sun-ſet, and he be well cleanſed, 1.——7. Might not eat of a dead Carcaſs, nor that which was torn, 8. No Strangers nor hired Servant to eat of holy things, 10. Not the Prieſts Daughter, if Married to a Stranger, 12. Concerning ſuch as eat thereof unwillingly, 14.——16. Concerning Free-will Offerings and their Conditions, 17. 24. Not to be received from a Strangers hand, 25. Of what Age, 26. No Beaſt to be offered with the Dam, 28. Offerings to be eat the ſame Day, 29, 30. An Exhortation to obedience, 31.---33.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and to his ſons, that they ſeparate themſelves a from the holy things b of the children of Iſrael, and that they profane not my holy name in thoſe things which they c hallow unto me: I am the LORD.

a To wit, when any uncleanneſs is upon them, as it appears from v. 3, 4. b (i. e.) from eating of thoſe parts of the offerings, which belong to them. Only of the tithes they might eat in that caſe. c Either the children of Iſrael, or the Prieſts: For both of them did in their kinds hallow, conſecrate or offer them to God. But the former ſeems more probable, both becauſe they are mentioned here, and v. 3. where they are ſaid to hallow, &c. and becauſe this makes the argument ſtronger, it ill became the Prieſts to profane or pollute what the people did hallow.

3 Say unto them, whoſoever he be of all your ſeed among your generations that goeth unto the holy things d, which the children of Iſrael hallow unto the LORD, having his uncleanneſs upon him, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from my preſence e: I am the LORD.

d To eat them, or to touch them; for if the touch of one of the people having his uncleanneſs upon him defiled the thing he touched, much more was it ſo in the Prieſt. e Either, from the place of my preſence and from my ordinances by excommunication: He ſhall be excluded both from the adminiſtration, and from the participation of them. Or, from the people among whom I am preſent, which commonly is expreſſed by cutting off from his people. Or, from the land of the living.

4 What man f ſoever of the ſeed of Aaron is a leper, or hath * a † running iſſue, he ſhall not eat of the holy things untill he * be clean. And * whoſo toucheth any thing that is unclean by the dead, or * a man whoſe ſeed goeth from him,

7 And when the ſun is down he ſhall be clean, and ſhall afterward eat of the holy things, becauſe it is his food g.

g (i. e.) His portion, the means of his ſubſiſtence. This may be added, to ſignifie why there was no greater nor longer a penalty put upon the Prieſts than upon the people in the ſame caſe, Lev. 11. and 15. becauſe his neceſſity craved ſome mitigation: Tho' otherwiſe the Prieſts being more ſacred perſons, and obliged to greater care and exemplarineſs deſerved a greater puniſhment.

* Exod. 22.31. *ch.17.15. Ezek. 44. 31.

8 * That which dieth of it ſelf, or is torn with beaſts, he ſhall not eat, to defile himſelf therewith: I am the LORD.

9 They ſhall therefore keep mine ordinance h, leſt they bear ſin i for it k, and die therefore, if they profane it l: I the LORD do ſanctifie them.

h Either this ordinance here treated of concerning abſtaining from holy things when they are unclean: Or more generally, that great ordinance whereby I have made them the Guardians of holy places and things to keep them from all defilement by themſelves or others. Heb. my watch, (i. e.) the watch or guard which I have commanded them to keep. i (i. e.) Incur guilt and puniſhment. k (i. e.) For the neglect or violation of it. l (i. e.) Their charge, or Gods ordinance about it.

*See 1 Sam 21. 6.

10 * There ſhall no ſtranger m eat of the holy thing; a ſojourner n of the prieſts, or an hired ſervant ſhall not eat of the holy thing o.

m (i. e.) Of a ſtrange family, who is not a prieſt, as ver. 12. compare Matth. 12. 4. But there is an exception to this rule, v. 11. n One that comes to his houſe and abides there for a ſeaſon, and eats at his table. o Of theſe parts of the offerings, which fell to the prieſts ſhare, as the breaſt and ſhoulder.

† Heb. with the purchaſe of his money.

11 But if the prieſt buy any ſoul † with his money, he ſhall eat of it, and he that is born in his houſe: they ſhall eat of his meat p.

p Becauſe they were wholly his, and as ſuch they were circumciſed, Gen. 17. Exod. 12.

* Heb. a man a ſtranger.

12 If the prieſts daughter alſo be married unto † a ſtranger q, ſhe may not eat of an offering of the holy things.

q (i. e.) To one of another family, who is no prieſt. Yet the prieſts wife, though of another family, might eat. The reaſon of which difference is, becauſe the wife paſſeth into the name, ſtate and priviledges of her husband, from whom the family is denominated and eſteemed.

*ch.10.14.

13 But if the prieſts daughter be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her fathers houſe, * as in her youth, ſhe ſhall eat of her fathers meat, but there ſhall no ſtranger eat thereof.

14 And if a man eat of the holy thing unwittingly, then he ſhall put the fifth part thereof unto it r, and ſhall give it unto the prieſt, with the holy thing s.

r Over and above the principal, and beſides the ram to be offered to God, Levit. 5. 15. s Or, and ſhall give unto the Prieſt the holy thing, i. e. the worth of it, which the Prieſt was either to take to himſelf or to offer to God, as the nature of the thing was.

15 And they t ſhall not profane the holy things of the children of Iſrael, which they offer unto the LORD.

t Either 1. The people ſhall not profane them, by eating them: Or 2. The Prieſts ſhall not profane them, i. e. ſuffer the people to profane them, without cenſure and puniſhment. Both come to the ſame thing: The people ſhall not do it, nor the Prieſts ſuffer it.

‖ Or, lade themſelves with the iniquity of treſpaſs in their eating.

16 Or ‖ ſuffer them to bear the iniquity of treſpaſs u, when they eat their holy things: for I the LORD do ſanctifie them.

u (i. e.) They i. e. the Prieſts, ſhall not (the negative particle being underſtood out of the foregoing clauſe, as Pſal. 1. 5. and 9. 18.) ſuffer them, i. e. the people, to bear the iniquity of treſpaſs, i. e. the puniſhment of their ſin, which they might expect from God, and for the prevention whereof the prieſt was to ſee reſtitution made, &c. The words may be rendred thus, But (ſo the Hebrew vau is oft tranſlated) they i. e. the Prieſts, ſhall make them, i. e. the people, to bear the iniquity, or puniſhment of their treſpaſs or ſin, i. e. they ſhall require from them reparations in manner here expreſſed.

17 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

* ch. 1. 2, 3. 10.

18 Speak unto Aaron, and to his ſons, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, * Whoſoever he be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers x in Iſrael, that will offer his oblation for all his vows y, and for all his free-will-offerings, which they will offer unto the LORD for a burnt-offering:

x Such as were Proſelytes. y See on Levit. 7. 16.

19 Ye ſhall offer at your own will a male z without blemiſh of the beeves, of the ſheep, or of the goats.

z For a burnt-offering, which was always of that kind: but the females were accepted in peace-offerings, Lev. 3. 1. and ſin-offerings, Lev. 4. 32. and 5. 6.

* Deut. 15. 21. and 17. 1. Mal. 1. 8.

20 * But whatſoever hath a blemiſh, that ſhall ye not offer: for it ſhall not be acceptable for you.

* ch. 3. 1. ‖ Or, goats.

21 And * whoſoever offereth a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, to accompliſh his vow, or a free-will-offering in beeves or ‖ ſheep, it ſhall be perfect, to be accepted: there ſhall be no blemiſh a therein.

a To wit, none of the blemiſhes mentioned, v. 22, 24. for ſome blemiſhes did not hinder the acceptance of a free-will-offering, but only of a vow, v. 23.

* ver. 20.

22 * Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen, or ſcurvy, or ſcabbed, ye ſhall not offer theſe unto the LORD; nor make an offering by fire of them upon the altar unto the LORD.

‖ Or, kid. *ch.21.18.

23 Either a bullock, or a ‖ lamb that hath any thing * ſuperfluous or lacking in his parts, that mayeſt thou offer b for a free-will-offering: but for a vow it ſhall not be accepted.

b Either 1. To the Prieſt, who might, according to the rules given by God, either convert it to his own uſe, or ſell it, and lay out the price of it upon the Temple or Sacrifices. But in this ſenſe any of the other kinds, as blind, or broken, &c. might be offered, which yet are forbidden to be offered, v. 22. or rather 2. To the Lord, as is expreſſed, v. 22. 24. this being put down by way of oppoſition to thoſe defects, v. 22. and by way of exception from the general rule, v. 21.

24 Ye ſhall not offer unto the LORD that which is bruiſed, or cruſhed, or broken, or cut, neither ſhall ye make any offering thereof in your land.

25 Neither from a ſtrangers hand c ſhall ye offer the bread d of your God of any of theſe e; becauſe their corruption is in them f, and blemiſhes be in them: they ſhall not be accepted for g.

c To wit, from Proſelytes, from whom leſs might ſeem to be expected, and in whom God might bear with ſome things, which he would not bear with in his own people: Yet even from thoſe ſuch ſhould not be accepted, much leſs from the Iſraelites. d (i. e.) The ſacrifices. See on Levit. 21. 8. e (i. e.) So corrupted or defective. Which clauſe limits the ſenſe and kinds of offerings, and cuts off another more general interpretation received by many, to wit, that he forbids the receiving of any offering, whether blemiſhed or perfect, from the hands of a ſtranger remaining in Heatheniſm. f (i. e.) They are corrupt, vitious and unlawful ſacrifices. g Or, from you, O Prieſts, to whom it belongs to offer. You ſhall bear the blame of it, for the ſtrangers might do ſo through ignorance of Gods Law.

26 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, ſaying,

* Exod. 34. 26. Deut. 14. 21.

27 * When a bullock, or a ſheep, or a goat is brought forth, then it ſhall be ſeven days under the dam, and from the eighth day h and thenceforth, it ſhall be accepted for an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

29 And when ye will offer a ſacrifice of thankſgiving unto the LORD, offer it at your own will k.

k (i. e.) What and when you pleaſe, ſo the rules be obſerved: Or, for your acceptance, as Levit. 1. 3. i. e. in ſuch manner that God may accept it, i. e. regularly, chearfully, &c.

Concerning the Feaſts of the Lord, 1, 2. The Sabbath, 3. Paſſover, 4—8. The firſt Fruits, 9—14. Of Pentecoſt, 15—22. Of the Feaſt of Trumpets, 23—25. Of Attonements, 26—32. Of the Feaſt of Tabernacles, 33—44.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them concerning the feaſts of the LORD which ye ſhall proclaim a to be holy convocations, b even theſe are my feaſts c.

a (i. e.) Cauſe to be proclaimed, by the Prieſts. See Numb. 10. 8, 9, 10. b Days for your aſſembling together to my worſhip and ſervice in a ſpecial manner. c Which I have appointed, and the right obſervation whereof I will accept.

*Ex. 20.9. and 23.12. and 31.15. and 34.21. chap.19.3. Deut.5.13. Luk.13.14.

3 * Six days ſhall work be done, but the ſeventh day is the ſabbath of reſt, an holy convocation; ye ſhall do no work d therein: it is the ſabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings e.

d So it runs in the general for the ſabbath day, and for the day of expiation, v. 28. excluding all works about earthly occaſions or employments whether of profit or of pleaſure; but upon other feaſt days he forbids only ſervile works, as v. 7, 21, 36. for ſurely this manifeſt difference in the expreſſions uſed by the wiſe God muſt needs imply a difference in the things. e This is added to diſtinguiſh the ſabbath from other feaſts, which were to be kept before the Lord in Jeruſalem only, whither all the males were to come for that end; but the Sabbath was to be kept in all places where they were, both in Synagogues, which were erected for that end, and in their private houſes.

4 Theſe are the feaſts of the LORD, even holy convocations, which ye ſhall proclaim in their ſeaſons f.

f In their appointed and proper times, as the word is uſed, Gen. 1. 14. Pſal. 104. 19.

5 * In the fourteenth day of the firſt month at even is the LORDS paſſeover.

6 And on the fifteenth day of the ſame month is the feaſt of unleavened bread unto the LORD: ſeven days ye muſt eat unleavened bread.

7 In the firſt day ye ſhall have an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

8 But ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD ſeven days g: in the ſeventh day is an holy convocation, ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

g The matter and manner whereof, ſee Numb. 28. 18. &c.

9 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

*Ex. 23. 16 Num. 28. 26.

‖ Or, handful.

† Heb. an Omer.

10 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, * When ye be come into the land h which I give unto you, and ſhall reap i the harveſt thereof k, then ye ſhall bring a ‖ † ſheaf l of the firſt-fruits of your harveſt unto the prieſt:

h Therefore this obliged them not in the deſert, where they reaped no harveſt, &c. i (i. e.) begin to reap, as it is expounded, Deut. 16. 9. So he begat, i. e. began to beget, Gen. 5. 32. and 11. 26. and he built, 1 King. 6. 1. i. e. he began to build, as it is explained, 2 Chron. 3. 1. k To wit, barly harveſt, which was before wheat harveſt. See Exod. 9. 31, 32. and 34. 22. Ruth 2. 23. l Heb. An omer, which is the tenth part of an Ephah. It ſeems here to note the meaſure of corn which was to be offered. For it is to be conſidered, that they did not offer this Corn in the ear, or by a ſheaf or handful, but, as Joſephus, 3. 10. affirms, and may be gathered from Lev. 2. 14, 15, 16. purged from the chaff, and dryed, and beaten out, and, ſome add, ground into meal and ſifted into fine flour; though this may be doubted of, becauſe the meat-offering attending upon this was of fine flour, v. 13. and becauſe this offering is ſaid to be of green ears of Corn dried, &c. Lev. 2. 14.

11 And he ſhall wave the ſheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you m: on the morrow after the ſabbath n the prieſt ſhall wave it.

m That God may accept of you and bleſs you in the reſt of your harveſt. n (i. e.) After the firſt day of the feaſt of unleavened bread, which was a Sabbath or day of reſt, as appears from v. 7. or upon the ſixteenth day of the month. And this was the firſt of thoſe fifty days, in the cloſe whereof was the feaſt of Pentecoſt or Whitſuntide.

12 And ye ſhall offer that day, when ye wave the ſheaf, an he-lamb o without blemiſh of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

o Beſides the daily morning and evening ſacrifice, which it was needleſs to mention here, and beſides one of thoſe ſacrifices to be offered every day of the ſeven, v. 8.

13 And the meat-offering thereof ſhall be two tenth-deals p of fine flour mingled with oyl, an offering made by fire unto the LORD for a ſweet ſavour: and the drink-offering thereof q ſhall be of wine, the fourth part of an hin r.

p Or, parts, to wit, of an Ephah, i. e. two Omers, whereas in other ſacrifices of Lambs there was but one tenth deal preſcribed, Numb. 15. 4. The reaſon of which diſproportion may be this, that one of the tenth deals was a neceſſary attendant upon the Lamb, and the other was peculiar to this feaſt and occaſion, and was an attendant upon that of the ſheaf or Corn, and was offered with it in thankſgiving to God for the fruits of the Earth. q Drink-offerings were added to all burnt-offerings, as we may ſee, Numb. 15. 5. r The meaſure appointed for every Lamb, Numb. 15. 5. This alſo probably would have been doubled, for the reaſon now mentioned, had this been a thank-offering for the vintage as it was for the Harveſt.

14 And ye ſhall eat neither bread s, nor parched corn, nor green ears t, until the ſelf-ſame day u that ye have brought an offering unto your God: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

s Made of new wheat, as the nature and reaſon of the Law ſheweth. t Which were uſual, not only for offerings to God, as Lev. 2. 14. but alſo for mans food. See Joſh. 5. 11. Ruth 2. 14. 1 Sam. 17. 17. Matth. 12. 1. u Good reaſon God ſhould be firſt ſerved and owned as the ſupream Landlord.

* Deut. 16. 9.

† Or, ſeven weeks.

15 And * ye ſhall count unto you from the morrow after the ſabbath x, from the day that ye brought the ſheaf of the wave-offering, † ſeven ſabbaths y ſhall be compleat.

x (i. e.) From the ſixteenth day of the month, and the ſecond day of the feaſt of unleavened bread incluſively. See on v. 11. y (i. e.) weeks, which are ſo called, by a Synecdoche, from the chief day of it, both here and Luk. 18. 12 Acts 20. 7. 1 Cor: 16. 2.

16 Even unto the morrow after the ſeventh ſabbath z ſhall ye number fifty days, and ye ſhall offer a new meat-offering a unto the LORD.

z (i. e.) After ſeven weeks or forty nine days, the morrow after which was the fiftieth day, called alſo Pentecoſt. a To wit, of new Corn made into loaves, as it follows.

*Ex. 23. 16 19. and 34. 26. Numb. 15. 20. and 28. 26. Deut. 26. 2.

17 Ye ſhall bring out of your habitations b two wave-loaves of two tenth-deals c: they ſhall be of fine flour, they ſhall be baken with leaven d, they are the * firſt-fruits unto the LORD.

b (i. e.) Out of the Corn of your own land, for which and for the fruits of it you are now to offer praiſes unto God. And this alſo, as well as the former ſacrifice, was brought out of the common charge, and in the name of the whole nation, whence it is ſaid to be brought out of their habitations in the plural number. Some conceive two ſeveral loaves were brought from every family, or, as others, from every City or Town. But this is eaſily confuted from v. 18. where we read that with the bread, to wit, the two loaves, were to be offered ſeven Lambs, one Bullock, &c. which doubtleſs was a common oblation, and in the name of all. c In double proportion, as before, v. 13. d Becauſe theſe were not offered to God, but wholly given to the Prieſts for food. See on Lev. 2. 11. and 7. 13.

18 And ye ſhall offer with the bread ſeven lambs without blemiſh of the firſt year, and one young bullock, and two rams e: they ſhall be for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, with their meat-offering, and their drink offerings; even an offering made by fire of ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

e In Numb. 28. 11, 19. it is two young bullocks and one ram. Either therefore it was left to their liberty to chuſe which they would offer, or one of the bullocks there, and one of the rams here, were the peculiar ſacrifices of the feaſt-day, and the other were attendants upon the two loaves, which were the principal and moſt proper offering at this time. And the one may be mentioned there, and the other here, to teach us, that the addition of a new ſacrifice did not deſtroy the former, but both were to be offered, as the extraordinary ſacrifices of every feaſt did not hinder the oblation of the daily ſacrifice.

19 Then ye ſhall ſacrifice * one kid f of the goats for a ſin-offering f, and two lambs of the firſt year for a ſacrifice of * peace-offerings. * ch. 4. 23. 28. * ch. 3. 1.

f In Lev. 4. 14. the ſin-offering for the ſin of the people is a bullock, but here a kid, &c. the reaſon of the difference may be this, becauſe that was for ſome particular ſin of the people, but this only in general for all their ſins. If it be ſaid, then this ſhould have been the better ſacrifice. as being for far more and poſſibly greater offences, it may be replied, that this is not the only inſtance wherein the greater ſins are expiated by ſmaller ſacrifices, and the ſmaller ſins by greater ſacrifices; which was to inſtruct us, that ſins were not expiated by the ſacrifices for any worth in them, but only in reſpect of Chriſt; and that, though all ſins are not equal, yet they are all expiated by one and the ſame price, even by the blood of Chriſt.

20 And the prieſt ſhall wave them g with the bread of the firſt-fruits for a wave-offering before the LORD, with the two lambs: * they ſhall be holy to the LORD, † for the prieſts h. * Num. 18. 12. Deut. 18. 4. † Heb. to.

g (i. e.) Some part of them in the name of the whole; and ſo for the two lambs, otherwiſe they had been too big and too heavy to be waved. So it is a ſynecdochical expreſſion. h Who had to themſelves not only the breaſt and ſhoulder, as in others, which belonged to the Prieſt, but alſo the reſt which belonged to the offerer; becauſe the whole Congregation being the offerer here, it could neither be diſtributed to them all, nor given to ſome without offence or injury to the reſt.

21 And ye ſhall proclaim on the ſelf-ſame day, that it may be an holy convocation i unto you: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in all your dwellings, throughout your generations.

i A Sabbath or day of reſt, called Pentecoſt; which was inſtituted, partly in remembrance of the conſummation of their deliverance out of Egypt by bringing them thence to the mount of God, or Sinai, as God had promiſed, and of that admirable bleſſing of giving the Law to them at that time, and forming them into a Commonwealth under his own immediate Government; and partly in gratitude for the further progreſs of their harveſt, as in the Paſſeover they offered a thank-offering to God for the beginning of their harveſt.

22 And * when ye reap the harveſt of your land, thou k ſhalt not make clean riddance of the corners of thy field when thou reapeſt, * neither ſhalt thou gather any gleanings of thy harveſt: thou ſhalt leave them unto the poor, and to the ſtranger: I am the LORD your God. *ch. 19. 9. * Deut. 24. 19. &c.

k From the plural, ye, he comes to the ſingular, thou, becauſe he would preſs this duty upon every perſon who hath an harveſt to reap, that none might plead exemption from it. And it is obſervable, that though the preſent buſineſs is only concerning the Worſhip of God, yet he makes a kind of excurſion to repeat a former Law of providing for the poor, to ſhew that our piety and devotion to God is little eſteemed by him if it be not accompanied with acts of Charity to men.

23 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

24 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, in the * ſeventh month, in the firſt day of the month, ſhall ye have a ſabbath, a memorial of blowing of trumpets l, an holy convocation. * Numb. 29. 1.

l (i. e.) Solemnized with the blowing of trumpets by the Prieſts, not in a common way, as they did every firſt day of every month, Numb. 11. 10. but in an extraordinary manner, not only in Jeruſalem, but in all the Cities of Iſrael. This ſeems to have been inſtituted, 1. To ſolemnize the beginning of the new year, whereof as to civil matters, and particularly as to the Jubilee, this was the firſt day; concerning which it was fit the people ſhould be admoniſhed, both to excite their thankfulneſs for Gods bleſſings in the laſt year, and to direct them in the management of their civil affairs. 2. To put a ſpecial honour upon this month. For as the ſeventh day was the Sabbath, and the ſeventh year was a Sabbatical year, ſo God would have the ſeventh month to be a kind of Sabbatical month, for the many Sabbaths and ſolemn feaſts which were obſerved in this more than in any other month. And by this ſounding of the trumpets in its beginning God would quicken and prepare them for the following Sabbaths, as well that of atonement and humiliation for their ſins, as thoſe of thankſgiving for Gods mercies.

25 Ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein: but ye ſhall offer an offering m made by fire unto the LORD.

m What that was, ſee Numb. 29. 2, &c.

26 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying.

*ch. 16. 30. Num. 29. 7.

27 * Alſo on the tenth day of this ſeventh month, there ſhall be a day of atonement; it ſhall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls n, and offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

n With faſting, and bitter repentance for all, eſpecially their national ſins, among which no doubt God would have them remember their ſin of the golden Calf. For as God had threatned to remember it in after times to puniſh them for it, Exod. 32. 34. ſo there was great reaſon why they ſhould remember it to humble themſelves for it.

28 And ye ſhall do no work in that ſame day: for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you, before the LORD your God.

* Gen. 17. 14.

29 For whatſoever ſoul it be o that ſhall not be afflicted in that ſame day, * he ſhall be cut off from among his people.

o Either of the Jewiſh Nation, or Religion. Hereby God would ſignifie the abſolute neceſſity which every man had of Repentance and Forgiveneſs of ſin, and the deſperate condition of all impenitent perſons.

30 And whatſoever ſoul it be that doth any work in that ſame day, the ſame ſoul will I deſtroy from among his people.

31 Ye ſhall do no manner of work: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

32 It ſhall be unto you a ſabbath of reſt, and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls in the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even ſhall ye † celebrate your ſabbath p.

p This clauſe ſeems to be added to anſwer an objection, how this day of atonement could be both on the tenth day, v. 27. and on the ninth day here. The anſwer is, it began at the evening or cloſe of the ninth day, and continued till the evening or cloſe of the tenth day, and ſo both were true, eſpecially if you conſider, that the Jews did take in ſome part of the ſixth days evening by way of preparation for the Sabbath, and therefore would much more take in a part of the ninth day to prepare and begin the great and ſolemn work of their yearly atonement. And this clauſe may be underſtood either, 1. Of this particular Sabbath called here your Sabbath in the ſingular number, poſſibly to note the difference between this and other Sabbaths: for the weekly Sabbath is oft called the Sabbath of the Lord, becauſe that was in a ſpecial manner appointed for the praiſing, honouring and ſerving of God and celebrating his glorious works, as alſo the other Sabbaths here mentioned were, whereas this was principally ordained for their need and for their good, even to ſeek and obtain the pardon of their ſins. Or 2. Of all their Sabbaths, and conſequently of this. The Jews are ſuppoſed to begin every day, and conſequently their Sabbaths, at the evening, in remembrance of the creation, Gen. 1. 5. as Chriſtians generally begin their days and Sabbaths with the morning in memory of Chriſts Reſurrection.

33 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

* Num. 29. 12.

34 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, * The fifteenth day of the ſeventh month ſhall be the feaſt of tabernacles q for ſeven days unto the LORD.

q (i. e.) Of Tents or Booths or Arbours. This feaſt was appointed principally to remind them of that time when they had no other dwellings in the Wilderneſs, as it is expreſſed, v. 43. and to ſtir them up to bleſs God, as well for the gracious conduct and protection then afforded them, as for their more commodious and ſecure habitations now given them; and ſecondarily to excite them to gratitude for all the fruits of the year newly ended, which were now compleatly brought in, as may be gathered from v. 39. and Exod. 23. 16. Deut. 16. 13, 14. See an inſtance of this feaſt, Neh. 8. 16.

35 On the firſt day ſhall be an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

* Joh. 7. 37. and 2 Chron. 7. 9.

† Heb. day of reſtraint.

36 Seven days ye ſhall offer an offering r made by fire unto the LORD; * on the eighth day s ſhall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a † ſolemn aſſembly t, and ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

r A ſeveral offering each day, which is particularly deſcribed Numb. 29. 13, &c. s Which though it was not one of the days of this feaſt ſtrictly taken, nor is it here affirmed to be ſo, but on the contrary is expreſly ſaid to conſiſt of ſeven days, v. 34, 39. nor did they dwell longer in Tabernacles, yet in a larger ſence it belonged to this feaſt, and is called the great day of the feaſt, Joh. 7. 37. And ſo indeed it was, as for other reaſons, ſo becauſe, by their removal from their Tabernacles into more fixed and comfortable habitations, it repreſented that happy time wherein their 40 years tedious march in the wilderneſs was ended with their introduction into and ſettlement in the land of Canaan, which it was moſt fit and juſt they ſhould acknowledge with ſuch a ſolemn day of thankſgiving as this was. t Heb. a day of concluſion, becauſe it was the end of the feaſt, Joh. 7. 37. or, of reſtraint, becauſe they were reſtrained from ſervile work, and obliged to attendance upon Gods worſhip; or, of detention, becauſe they were yet detained before the Lord, and kept together for his ſervice, and not ſuffered to return to their tents, till this was over.

37 Theſe are the feaſts of the LORD, which ye ſhall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, a burnt-offering, and a meat-offering, a ſacrifice u, and drink-offerings, every thing upon his day:

u (i. e.) Another ſacrifice, to wit, for a ſin-offering, as we ſhall find it, Numb. 29. 16, 19, 22, &c. called by the general name, a ſacrifice, becauſe it was deſigned for that which was the principal end of all ſacrifices, to wit, for the expiation of ſin.

38 Beſide the ſabbaths x of the LORD, and beſide your gifts y, and beſide all your vows, and beſide all your free-will-offerings, which ye give unto the LORD.

x (i. e.) The offerings of the weekly ſabbaths, by a Metonymy, as the day is ſometimes put for the actions done in it, as Prov. 27. 1. 1 Cor. 3. 13. God will not have any ſabbath-ſacrifice diminiſhed becauſe of the addition of others, proper to any other feaſt. And it is here to be noted, that though other feſtival days are ſometimes called ſabbaths, as here v. 39. yet theſe are here called the ſabbaths of the Lord, in way of contradiſtinction to other days of reſt, to ſhew that this was more eminently ſuch than other feaſt-days, which alſo ſufficiently appears from the fourth Commandment. y Which, being here diſtinguiſhed from the free-will-offerings made to the Lord, may ſeem to note what they freely gave to the Prieſts over and above their firſt-fruits and tithes or other things which they were enjoyned to give.

39 Alſo z, in the fifteenth day of the ſeventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit a of the land, ye ſhall keep a feaſt unto the LORD ſeven days. On the firſt day ſhall be a ſabbath, and on the eighth day ſhall be a ſabbath.

z Or, rather ſurely, as this particle is oft uſed: For this is no addition of a new, but only a repetition of the former, injunction, with a more particular explication both of the manner and reaſon of the feaſt. a Not the corn, which was gathered long before, but of their trees, as vines, olives, and other fruit-trees: which compleated the harveſt, whence this is called the feaſt of in-gathering, Exod. 23. 16.

† Heb. fruit.

40 And ye ſhall take you on the firſt day the † boughs b of goodly trees c, branches of palm-trees, and the boughs of thick trees d, and willows of the brook e, and ye ſhall rejoyce f before the LORD your God ſeven days.

b Heb. the fruit, i. e. fruit-bearing boughs or branches with the fruit on them, as the word fruit ſeems to be taken, 2 King. 19. 30. Ezek. 19. 12. c To wit, the olive, myrtle and pine, as they are mentioned, Nehem. 8. 15, 16. which were moſt plentiful there, and which would beſt preſerve their greenneſs or freſhneſs. d Fit for ſhade and ſhelter. e Which might do well to mix with the other, and in ſome ſort to bind them together. And as they made their booths of theſe materials, as is apparent, Nehem. 8. ſo it ſeems they did alſo carry ſome of theſe boughs in their hands, as is affirmed by Jewiſh and other antient writers. f Which joy they teſtified by feaſting, thankſgiving, &c.

41 And ye ſhall keep it a feaſt unto the LORD ſeven days in the year, it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations: ye ſhall celebrate it in the ſeventh month.

42 Ye ſhall dwell in booths g ſeven days: all that are Iſraelites born ſhall dwell in booths;

g Which were erected in their cities or towns, either in their ſtreets, or gardens, or the tops of their houſes, Nehem. 8. 16. which were made flat, and therefore were proper and fit for that uſe.

43 That your generations may know that I made the children of Iſrael to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

44 And Moſes declared unto the children of Iſrael the feaſts of the LORD.

CHAP. XXIV.

Laws about the oil of the Candleſticks and the preparation of it, 1——4. Of the Shew-Bread, 5.——9. Shelomith's Son Blaſphemes: He is put in Cuſtody: and God conſulted; and all that heard him, laying their hands on his Head, he is ſtoned; and this paſſes into a Law, 10.–16. Life for Life, Beaſt for Beaſt, Eye for Eye, &c. the ſame Law for the Stranger as a Native, 17——22.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

† Heb. cauſe to aſcend.

2 Command the children of Iſrael, that they bring a unto thee pure oil-olive, beaten, for the lights, † to cauſe the lamps to burn continually.

a At their common charge, becauſe it was for their common good and ſervice. This command was given before, Exod. 27. 20.

3 Without the vail of the teſtimony b, in the tabernacle of the congregation ſhall Aaron c order it from the evening unto the morning, before the LORD continually : it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations.

b (i. e.) Which was before the Ark of the Teſtimony. c Either by himſelf, or by his ſons, Exod. 25. 37.

*Exod. 31. 8. 4 He ſhall order the lamps upon * the pure d candleſtick before the LORD continually.

d So called, partly becauſe it was made of pure gold, partly becauſe it was to be oft dreſſed and always kept clean.

*Exod. 25. 30. 5 And thou e ſhalt take fine flour, and bake twelve * cakes f thereof : two tenth-deals g ſhall be in one cake.

e By the Prieſts or Levites, whoſe work it was to prepare them, 1 Chron. 9. 32. f Repreſenting the twelve tribes. g (i. e.) Two Omers. See Levit. 23. 13.

6 And thou ſhalt ſet them in two rows h, ſix on a row, upon the pure table i before the LORD.

h Not one above another, but one beſide another, as the frankincenſe put upon each, ver. 7. ſhews. i So called becauſe it was covered with pure gold, Exod. 25. 24. and becauſe it was always to be kept very pure and clean by the care of the Prieſts.

7 And thou ſhalt put pure frankincenſe k upon each row, that it may be on the bread l for a memorial m, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

k Unmixed and uncorrupted, or of the beſt ſort. l Or, to the bread, or for the bread, to wit, to be burnt before the Lord inſtead of the bread, which could not conveniently be offered to God in that manner. And this was done every time that the bread was changed. m For that part which properly belonged to God, whereas the reſt belonged to the Prieſts. See on Levit. 2. 2.

8 Every ſabbath he ſhall ſet it in order before the LORD n continually, being taken o from the children of Iſrael by an everlaſting covenant p.

n Whence it was called the ſhew-bread, Heb. the bread of faces or of preſence, i. e. the bread which was put upon the Table in the Lords preſence. o Such ſupplements are not unuſual. Thus in the floor, 1 King. 22. 10. is put for ſitting in the floor, 2 Chron. 18. 9. and burdens, 2 Chron. 2. 18. for carrying burdens, 1 King. 5. 15. And theſe cakes are ſaid to be received from or offered by the children of Iſrael, becauſe they were bought with the money which they contributed, as may be ſeen Nehem. 10. 32, 33. as Judas is ſaid to purchaſe the field, Act. 1. 18. which was purchaſed by his money, Mat. 27. 7. p By vertue of that compact made between me and them, by which they are obliged to keep this amongſt other commands, and, they ſo doing, I am obliged to be their God and to bleſs them. And this may be here called an everlaſting covenant, not only becauſe it was to endure as long as the Jewiſh religion and polity ſtood, but alſo becauſe this was to ſtand there everlaſtingly, or continually as is here ſaid, and therefore the new cakes were firſt brought before the old were taken away.

*Exod. 29. 33. ch. 8. 31. 1 Sam. 21. 6. Mat. 12. 4. 9 And * it q ſhall be Aarons and his ſons, and they ſhall eat it in the holy place : for it is moſt holy unto him, of the offerings r of the LORD made by fire, by a perpetual ſtatute.

q (i. e.) The old bread now to be taken away. r Or, as one or being one of the offerings, &c. in regard of the incenſe which was offered by fire, and that for or inſtead of the bread, as was ſaid on ver. 7. and therefore the bread was reputed as if it had been ſo offered.

10 And the ſon of an Iſraelitiſh woman, whoſe father was an Egyptian s, went out t among the children of Iſrael : and this ſon of the Iſraelitiſh woman, and a man of Iſrael ſtrove together u in the camp.

s This circumſtance ſeems noted, partly to ſhew the danger of marriages with perſons of wicked principles or practiſes, wherein the children, as one wittily and truly obſerves, like the concluſion, do commonly follow the worſe part, and are more eaſily taught by word or example, to do ten things agreeable to their corrupt natures, than one thing contrary to it ; and partly by this ſeverity againſt him who was a ſtranger by the father, and an Iſraelite by the mother, to ſhew that God would not have this ſin to go unpuniſhed amongſt his people, whatſoever he was that committed it. t To wit, out of Egypt, being one of that mixed multitude, which came out with the Iſraelites, Exod. 12. 32. It is probable, this was done when the Iſraelites were near Sinai. u This is added to ſhew, that provocation to ſin is no juſtification of ſin.

† Or, named. Gen. 30. 28. Numb. 1. 17. 11 And the Iſraelitiſh womans ſon † blaſphemed the Name of the LORD x, and curſed y, and they z brought him unto Moſes a, (and his mothers name was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan.)

x The words of the Lord, or of Jehovah, are here conveniently ſupplied out of v. 16. where they are expreſſed, but here they are omitted for the aggravation of his crime. He blaſphemed the name ſo called by way of eminency ; that name which is above every name ; that name which a man ſhould in ſome ſort tremble to mention ; which is not to be named without cauſe and without revererence. For which reaſon the godly Jews did many times rather underſtand than expreſs the name of God, as Mark 14. 62. the right hand of power, for of the power of God, as it is Luk. 22. 69. and the bleſſed for the bleſſed God, Mat. 26. 63. Mark 14. 61. y Not the Iſraelite only, but his God alſo, as appears from ver. 15, 16. z Either the people who heard him, or the inferiour Magiſtrate, to whom he was firſt brought. a According to the order ſettled by Jethro's advice, Exod. 18. 26.

* Numb. 15. 34. † Heb. to expound unto them according to the mouth of the LORD. 12 And they * put him in ward, † that the mind of the LORD might be ſhewed them b.

b For God had only ſaid in general, that he would not hold ſuch guiltleſs, i. e. he would puniſh them, but had not declared how he would have them puniſhed by men.

13 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

14 Bring forth him that hath curſed, without the camp, and let all that heard him, * lay their hands upon his head c, and let all the congregation ſtone him d. * Deut. 13. 9. & 17. 7.

c Whereby they gave publick teſtimony that they heard this perſon ſpeak ſuch words, and did in their own and in all the peoples names, deſire and demand juſtice to be executed upon him, that by this ſacrifice God might be appeaſed, and his judgments turned away from the people, upon whom they would certainly fall if he were unpuniſhed. d The ſame puniſhment which was before appointed for thoſe who curſed their Parents, whereas it deſerved a far more grievous death. Thus God in this life mixeth mercy with judgment, and puniſheth men leſs than their iniquities deſerve.

15 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Whoſoever curſeth e his God, ſhall bear his ſin f.

e (i. e.) Speaketh of him reproachfully and with contempt. They therefore are greatly miſtaken that underſtand this of the heathen Gods, whom their worſhippers are forbidden to reproach or curſe. But Moſes is not here giving laws to Heathens, but to the Iſraelites, nor would he concern himſelf ſo much to vindicate the honour of Idols, nor doth this agree either with the deſign of the holy Scriptures, which is to beget a contempt and deteſtation of all Idols and Idolatry ; or with the practice of the holy Prophets, who uſed oft to vilify them. See 1 King. 18. 27. Jer. 10. 11. f (i. e.) The puniſhment of it ; ſhall not go unpuniſhed. Some ſay he was to be beaten with ſtripes : others ſay with death, which is deſcribed ver. 16.

16 And † he that blaſphemeth the Name of the LORD g, he ſhall ſurely be put to death, and all the congregation h ſhall certainly ſtone him : as well the ſtranger, as he that is born in the land, when he † blaſphemeth the name of the LORD, ſhall be put to death. † Or, he that nameth. † Or, nameth.

g This ſome make a diſtinct ſin from curſing his God mentioned ver. 15. but the difference they make ſeems arbitrary, and without evidence from reaſon, or the uſe of the words. And therefore this may be a repetition of the ſame ſin in other words, which is common. And as this law is laid down in more general terms, ver. 15. ſo both the ſin and the puniſhment are more particularly expreſſed, ver. 16. Or the firſt part of ver. 16. may be an application of the former rule to the preſent caſe. And as for him that blaſphemeth, &c. or, is blaſpheming, &c. in the preſent tenſe, which is fitly uſed concerning words juſt now uttered, and ſcarce yet out of their ears, he ſhall, &c. And ſo the following words, as well the ſtranger, &c. may be a repetition and amplification of the former law. h To ſhew their zeal for God, and to beget in them the greater dread and abhorrency of blaſphemy.

17 * And he that † killeth any man i, ſhall ſurely be put to death. *Exod. 21. 12. Num. 35. 31. Deut. 19. 21. †Heb. ſmiteth the ſoul of a man.

i This law is repeated here, either to juſtifie this ſentence of putting blaſphemers to death, from the ſame ſeverity executed for a leſs crime ; or, to prevent the miſchievous effects of mens ſtriving or contending together, which as here it cauſed blaſphemy, ſo it might in others lead to murder.

18 And he that killeth a beaſt, ſhall make it good, † beaſt for beaſt. † Heb. ſoul for ſoul.

19 And if a man cauſe a blemiſh in his neighbour ; as * he hath done, ſo ſhall it be done unto him. * Exod. 21. 24. Deut. 19. 21. Mat. 5. 38.

20 Breach for breach, eye for eye, tooth for tooth : as he hath cauſed a blemiſh in a man, ſo ſhall it be done to him again.

21 * And he that killeth a beaſt, he ſhall reſtore it : and he that killeth a man, he ſhall be put to death. * Exod. 21. 33.

22 Ye ſhall have * one manner of law k, as well for the ſtranger, as for one of your own country : for I am the LORD your God. * Exod. 12. 49.

k To wit, in matters of common right, but not as to Church priviledges.

23 And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould bring forth him that had curſed, out of the camp, and ſtone him with ſtones : and the children of Iſrael did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

CHAP. XXV.

The Land not to be Tilled, but reſt the ſeventh year : And that which grew of it ſelf in Field or Vineyard, to be meat for them and their Cattle, 1——7. The Jubilee on the day of Atonement : A year of Liberty and Reſtoration : A year of reſt to the Land : Of the peculiar Bleſſing of God on it, 8——22. Sold Inheritances to be redeemed at any time; but now to be reſtored : A Dwelling-Houſe in a Walled City only excepted, 23——34. Kindneſs to the Poor : Uſury forbidden : An Iſraelite muſt not be a Bondman or Maid, but an Hired Servant till the year of Jubilee : Bond-men or Maids to be taken from the Heathen : An Inheritance for ever, 35——46. Of an Iſraelite that ſhould ſell himſelf to a ſtranger, 47——53.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in mount Sinai a, ſaying, a (i. e.) Near mount Sinai. So the Hebrew particle beth is ſometimes uſed, as Gen. 37. 13. Joſ. 5. 13. Judg. 8. 5. 2 Chron. 33. 20. compared with 2 King. 21. 13. So there is no need to diſturb the order of the hiſtory in this place.

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land b which I give you, then ſhall the land † keep * a ſabbath c unto the LORD d.

†Heb. reſt. *Exod. 23. 10. See ch. 26. 34.

b So as to be ſettled in it; for the time of the wars was not to be accounted, nor the time before Joſhua's diſtribution of the land among them, Joſ. 14. 7, 10. c (i. e.) Enjoy reſt and freedom from plowing, tilling, &c. d (i. e.) In obedience and unto the honour of God. This was inſtituted partly for the aſſertion of God's ſoveraign right to the land, in which the Iſraelites were but tenants at Gods will, partly for the trial and exerciſe of their obedience, partly for the demonſtration of his providence as well in the general towards men, as more eſpecially towards his own people, of which ſee below, ver. 20, 21, 22. partly to wean them from inordinate love, and purſuit of or truſt to worldly advantages, and to inure them to depend upon God alone, and upon Gods bleſſing for their ſubſiſtence, partly to put them in mind of that bleſſed and eternal reſt provided for all good men, wherein they ſhould be perfectly freed from all worldly labours and troubles, and wholly devoted to the ſervice and enjoyment of God. See on Exod. 23. 11. and laſtly, that by their own ſtraits in that year they might learn more compaſſion to the poor who were under the ſame ſtraits every year.

3 Six years thou ſhalt ſow thy field, and ſix years thou ſhalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof.

4 But in the ſeventh year ſhall be a ſabbath of reſt unto the land, a ſabbath for the LORD: thou ſhalt neither ſow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard.

*2 King. 19. 29. † Heb. of thy ſeparation.

5 * That which groweth of its own accord e of thy harveſt thou ſhalt not reap f, neither gather the grapes † of thy vine undreſſed g: for it is a year of reſt unto the land.

e From the grains that fell out of the ears the laſt reaping time. f (i. e.) As thy own peculiarly, but only ſo as others may reap it with thee, for preſent food. g Heb. the grapes of thy ſeparation, i. e. The Grapes which thou haſt ſeparated or ſet apart to the honour of God, and to the ends and uſes appointed by God; or, the grapes of that year, which are in this like the Nazarites hair, not cut off by thee, but ſuffered to grow to the uſe of the poor.

6 And the ſabbath h of the land ſhall be meat for you, for thee, and for thy ſervant i, and for thy maid and for thy hired ſervant, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with thee, h (i. e.) The growth of the Sabbath, or that fruit which groweth in the Sabbatical year. See on Levit. 23. 38. where the word, Sabbath, is taken in the like ſenſe. i For all promiſcuouſly, to take food from thence as they need it.

7 And for thy cattle, and for the beaſt, that are in thy land, ſhall all the increaſe thereof be meat.

† Or, weeks.

8 And thou ſhalt number ſeven † ſabbaths of years unto thee, ſeven times ſeven years, and the ſpace of the ſeven ſabbaths of years ſhall be unto thee forty and nine years.

† Heb. loud of ſounds. * chap 23. 27.

9 Then ſhalt thou cauſe the trumpet † of the jubilee k to ſound on the tenth day of the ſeventh month l, * in the day of atonement m ſhall ye make the trumpet ſound throughout all your land.

k Which ſignified the true liberty from our ſpiritual debts and ſlaveries to be purchaſed by Chriſt, and to be publiſhed to the world by the ſound of the Goſpel. l Which was the firſt month of the year for civil and worldly affairs, which were mainly concerned in the Jubilee, and therefore it began in that month; and, as it ſeems, upon this very tenth day, when the trumpet ſounded, as other feaſts generally began when the trumpet ſounded. m A very fit time, that when they faſted and prayed for Gods mercy to them in the pardon of their ſins, then they might exerciſe their charity and kindneſs to men in forgiving their debts, which is the true faſt, as is noted, Iſa. 58. 6. and to teach us, that the foundation of all ſolid comfort and joy muſt be laid in bitter repentance and atonement for our ſins through Chriſt.

10 And ye ſhall hallow the fiftieth year n, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof o: it ſhall be a jubilee p unto you, and ye ſhall return every man unto his poſſeſſion q, and ye ſhall return every man unto his family r.

n By which it ſeems moſt probable, that the year of Jubilee was not the forty and ninth year, as ſome learned men think, but preciſely the fiftieth year. Which may appear, 1. Becauſe the Jews account it ſo, which is confeſſed by the adverſaries of this opinion, who ſay, that the Jews err in the computation of the Jubilee, as they do in Chriſt, the great end and antitype of the Jubilee. But it is not probable that the Jews ſhould univerſally err in a matter of conſtant practice among themſelves, eſpecially when there was nothing of intereſt or prejudice in the caſe, as there was in reference to Chriſt. 2. Becauſe it is expreſly called the fiftieth year here, and ver. 11. that fiftieth year, which was not true, if it was but the nine and fortieth year. It is ſaid, it is called ſo popularly, and it was ſo, if you take in the foregoing Jubilee. But it muſt be remembred, that there was not yet any foregoing Jubilee, but the very firſt of the kind is expreſly called the fiftieth year, which in truth it was not, if the Jubilee was ended ere the fiftieth year began. 3. From the common courſe of computation. The old weekly Sabbath is called the ſeventh day, becauſe it truly was ſo, being next after the ſix days of the week and diſtinct from them all: and the year of releaſe is called the ſeventh year, ver. 4. as immediately following the ſix years, ver. 3. and diſtinct from them all. And therefore in like manner the Jubilee muſt needs be called the fiftieth year, becauſe it comes next after ſeven times ſeven or forty nine years, ver. 8. and is diſtinct from them all. 4. From ver. 11, 12. where it is ſaid, ye ſhall not ſow, nor reap, &c. For it is the Jubilee, &c. which looks like a vain and uſeleſs repetition, if this year were but one of the ſeven years, for this very command was given concerning every ſeventh year, ver. 4. but if this year of Jubilee was, as indeed it was, a year diſtinct from, and coming after the ſeven ſevens of years, then this repetition and application of that command to it was highly neceſſary, becauſe otherwiſe it might ſeem hard and unreaſonable that they ſhould forbear ſowing and reaping two years together, which hereby they are commanded to do. Two things are objected againſt this, 1. That the Jubilee was only a revolution of forty nine years. But that ſeems a great miſtake, for it is moſt expreſly diſtinguiſhed from them all, and by way of diſtinction called the fiftieth year, therefore ſurely none of the forty nine. 2. The difficulty propounded, v. 20. concerns only the 7th year, whereas it had been a greater difficulty, if it had been extended to the Jubilee, and the Jubilee had been another vacant year coming next after the ſeventh year. But though the difficulty was greater for the Jubilee, yet it was more frequent for the ſeventh year: and the reſolution of the one made the way plain for the ſatisfaction of the other. For as God promiſed ſo to bleſs every ſixth year, that it ſhould bring forth fruit for three years, ver. 21. ſo when the caſe was extraordinary, as in the Jubilee, it was but reaſonable to expect an extraordinary bleſſing from God upon that ſixth year which went next before the laſt of the ſeventh years, or the forty ninth year, that it ſhould then bring forth fruit for four years. o Underſtand ſuch as were Iſraelites; principally to all ſervants, even to ſuch as would not and did not go out at the ſeventh year, and to the poor, who now were acquitted from all their debts, and reſtored to their poſſeſſions. p So called either from the Hebrew word Jobel which ſignifies firſt a ram, and then a rams horn, by the ſound whereof it was proclaimed; or from Jubal, the inventor of muſical inſtruments, Gen. 4. 21. becauſe it was celebrated with Muſick and all expreſſions of joy. q Which had been ſold or otherwiſe alienated from him. This Law was not at all unjuſt, becauſe all buyers and ſellers had an eye to this condition in their bargains; but it was neceſſary and expedient in many regards, as 1. To mind them that God alone was the Lord and owner and proprietor both of them and of their lands, and they only his Tenants and Farmers; a point which they were very apt to forget. 2. That hereby Inheritances, Families, and Tribes, might be kept entire and clear until the coming of the Meſſias, who was to be known as by other things, ſo by the Tribe and Family out of which he was to come. And this accordingly was done by the ſingular providence of God until the Lord Jeſus did come. Since which time thoſe characters are miſerably confounded: Which is no ſmall argument that the Meſſias is come. 3. To ſet bounds both to the inſatiable avarice of ſome, and the fooliſh prodigality of others, that the former might not wholly and finally ſwallow up the inheritances of their brethren, and the latter might not be able to undo themſelves and their poſterity for ever, which was a ſingular priviledge of this Law and People. r From whom he was gone, being ſold to ſome other Family either by himſelf or by his Father.

11 A jubilee ſhall that fiftieth year be unto you: ye ſhall not ſow s, neither reap that which groweth of it ſelf in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undreſſed.

s Though it come immediately after a ſeventh year, wherein alſo this was forbidden to you.

12 For it is the jubilee; it ſhall be holy unto you t; ye ſhall eat the increaſe thereof u out of the field x.

t So it was, becauſe it was ſequeſtred in great part from worldly employments and dedicated to God, and to the exerciſe of holy joy and thankfulneſs; and becauſe it was a type of that holy and happy Jubilee which they were to expect and enjoy by and under the Meſſias. u Such things as it produced of it ſelf: For the year before nothing was ſowed. x Whence they in common with others might take it as they needed it; but muſt not put it into barns. See ver. 5. and Exod. 23. 11.

13 In the year of this jubilee ye ſhall return every man unto his poſſeſſion.

14 And if thou ſell ought unto thy neighbour, or buyeſt ought of thy neighbours hand, ye ſhall not oppreſs one another y.

y Neither the ſeller by requiring more, nor the buyer by taking the advantage from his brothers neceſſities to give him leſs than the worth of it.

15 According to the number of years after the jubilee, thou ſhalt buy of thy neigbour, and according unto the number of years of the fruits z he ſhall ſell unto thee.

z Or, Of years of fruits, or, of fruitful years; for there were ſome unfruitful years, to wit, ſuch wherein they were not allowed to ſow or reap, &c.

16 According to the multitude of years thou ſhalt increaſe the price thereof: and according to the fewneſs of years, thou ſhalt diminiſh the price of it: For according to the number of the years of the fruits a doth he ſell unto thee.

a Or, For the number of the fruits. The meaning is, he ſelleth not the land, but only the fruits thereof, and that for a certain time.

17 Ye ſhall not therefore oppreſs one another, but thou ſhalt fear thy God: for I am the LORD your God.

18 Whereſore ye ſhall do my ſtatutes, and keep my judgments, and do them, and ye ſhall dwell in the land in ſafety.

19 And the land ſhall yield her fruit, and ye ſhall eat your fill, and dwell therein in ſafety.

20 And if ye ſhall ſay, What ſhall we eat b the ſeventh year? behold, we ſhall not ſow, nor gather in our increaſe.

b A like objection, ſee Exod. 34. 23, 24.

21 Then I will command † my bleſſing upon you in the ſixth year, and it ſhall bring forth fruit for three years c.

† (i. e.) Give. Commanding is oft uſed in Scripture either for the performance of promiſed bleſſings, as Deut. 28. 8. Pſal. 111. 9. and 133. 3. or for the execution of threatned Judgments, as Iſa. 5. 6. Amos 9. 4. both being acts of Gods providential Will, as the command is of his legiſlative Will. c Not compleatly, but in great part, to wit, for that part of the ſixth year which was between the beginning of harveſt and the beginning of the ſeventh year, for the whole ſeventh year, and for that part of the eighth year which was before the harveſt, which reached almoſt until the beginning of the ninth year, And by this expreſſion we may underſtand the meaning of that eminent paſſage of Chriſt's being three days and three nights in the grave, to wit, one whole day and part of two days: Of which more, if God pleaſe, in its proper place. This is added to ſhew the equity of this command. As God would hereby try their Faith, and exerciſe Obedience, ſo he gave them an eminent proof of his own exact Providence and tender care over them in making proviſions ſuitable to their neceſſities. Albeit it be alſo probable, that divers of them, eſpecially ſuch as were more ſolicitous or diſtruſtful of Gods Providence, did lay up ſomething of the fruits of former years againſt this time.

22 And ye ſhall ſow the eighth year, and eat yet of old fruit d until the ninth year: until her fruits e come in, ye ſhall eat of the old ſtore.

d Of the ſixth year principally, if not ſolely. e (i. e.) The fruits of the eighth year.

|| Or, to be quite cut off † Heb. for cutting off. * Pſal. 119. 19. 1 Pet. 2. 11.

23 The land ſhall not be ſold || † for ever f: for the land is mine g: for ye are * ſtrangers and ſojourners with me h.

f Or, abſolutely and properly, ſo as to become the propriety of the buyer: Or to the extermination or utter cutting off, to wit, of the ſeller, from all hopes and poſſibility of Redemption. g. Procured for you by my power, given to you by my mere grace and bounty, and the right of propriety reſerved by me, and to be diſpoſed of by you only to ſuch perſons and in ſuch manner as I ſhall have ordained. h (.i e.) In my land or houſes: thus he is ſaid to ſojourn with another that dwells in his houſe. Thus the poor decayed Iſraelites and the ſtrangers are ſaid to live with them, i. e. with the other Iſraelites, to wit, in the land or houſes here, ver. 35, 36, 40, 45. Or, before me, in my ſight, or in my account. Howſoever in your own or other mens opinions you paſs for Lords and Proprietors, yet in truth, according to which my judgment always is, you are but ſtrangers and ſojourners, not to poſſeſs the Land for ever, but only for a ſeaſon, and to leave it to ſuch as I have appointed for it.

24 And in all the land of your poſſeſſion, ye ſhall grant a redemption i for the land.

i (i. e.) A right of redemption in the time and manner following.

25 If thy brother be waxen poor, and hath ſold away ſome of his poſſeſſion k, and if any of his kin come to redeem it l, then ſhall he redeem that which his brother ſold.

k To wit, in the fields, but not in cities, ver. 29. l Or, If the redeemer come, being near akin to him, to whom the right of Redemption belonged, Ruth 3. 2, 9, 12. Jer. 32. 7. who in this act was an eminent Type of Chriſt, who was made near akin to us by taking our fleſh, that he might perform the work of Redemption for us.

† Heb. his hand hath attained and found ſufficiency.

26 And if the man have none to redeem it, † and himſelf be able to redeem it:

27 Then let him count the years of the ſale thereof m, and reſtore the overplus n unto the man to whom he ſold it, that he may return unto his poſſeſſion.

m (i. e.) From the time of the ſale to the Jubilee. See above, ver. 15, 16. n (i. e.) A convenient price for the years from this Redemption to the Jubilee.

28 But if he be not able to reſtore it to him, then that which is ſold ſhall remain in the hand of him that hath bought it until the year of jubile: and in the jubile it ſhall go out o, and he ſhall return unto his poſſeſſion.

o (i.e.) Out of the buyers hand, without any Redemption money.

29 And if a man ſell a dwelling houſe in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is ſold; within † a full year may he redeem it.

† Heb. days 1 Sam. 1. 3. and 27. 7.

30 And if it be not redeemed within the ſpace of a full year, then the houſe that is in the walled city ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever to him that bought it, throughout his generations: it ſhall not go out in the jubile p.

p The reaſon is from the great difference between ſuch houſes and lands. The reaſons before alledged for lands do not hold in ſuch Houſes; there was no danger of confuſion in Tribes or Families by the alienation of Houſes. The ſeller alſo had a greater propriety in Houſes than in Lands, as not coming to him by Gods meer gift, but being commonly built by the owners coſt and diligence, and therefore had a fuller power to diſpoſe of them. Beſides, God would hereby encourage perſons to buy and poſſeſs Houſes in ſuch places, which frequency and fulneſs of Inhabitants in Cities, was a great ſtrength, honour and advantage to the whole Land.

31 But the houſes of the villages q which have no wall round about them, ſhall be counted as the fields of the country: † they may be redeemed, and they ſhall go out in the jubile.

† Heb. redemption belongeth unto it.

q Becauſe they belonged to and were neceſſary or very convenient for the management of the lands.

32 Notwithſtanding the cities of the Levites, and the houſes of the cities of their poſſeſſion may the Levites redeem at any time.

33 And if || a man purchaſe of the Levites, then the houſe that was ſold, and the city of his poſſeſſion ſhall go out r in the year of jubile: for the houſes of the cities of the Levites are their poſſeſſion among the children of Iſrael.

r Or thus, But he that ſhall redeem it ſhall be or muſt be of the Levites, i. e. No perſon of another Tribe, though by Marriage near akin to the ſelling Levite, ſhall redeem it, but Levites only, and any of them ſhall have have the ſame power to redeem it, which in other Tribes only the neareſt kindred have: and, in caſe none of them redeem it, yet the houſe that was ſold, and the city of his poſſeſſion, i. e. his ſhare or intereſt in the City of his poſſeſſion, ſhall go out and return to the Levites without any Redemption.

34 But the field of the ſuburbs of their cities s may not be ſold t, for it is their perpetual poſſeſſion.

s Of which ſee on Numb. 35. 5. t Not ſold at all, partly, becauſe it was of abſolute neceſſity for them for the keeping of their Cattle, and partly becauſe theſe were no encloſures, but common fields, in which all the Levites that lived in ſuch a City had an intereſt, and therefore no particular Levite could diſpoſe of his part in it. Some conceive, that this Law was altered in enſuing ages, which they gather from Jer. 32. 7, 8. &c. and Act. 4. 36. 37. But thoſe examples do not prove it. That ſale of Jeremiah's was made by a particular diſpenſation and command of God, and that in a time when the Levites, as well as the people, were to be deſtroyed or diſperſed, and carried into captivity, and therefore could receive no conſiderable injury by it: and beſides, this ſale was only made formally and for ſignification, as it is explained, ver. 14. 15. And for the land ſold by Barnabas a Levite, Act. 4. as it was at a time when the Jewiſh Church was diſſolved, and their State upon the brinks of utter ruine, ſo it is not evident that it was ſuch Suburb land, which would have yeilded but a ſmall price, but it might be other land, either ſuch as he might have in right of his wiſe, or ſuch as he might have purchaſed. For though the Levites in general had no other ſhare of Land, beſide this, allotted them by God, yet it is conceived that particular Levites might purchaſe lands to themſelves.

35 And if thy brother be waxen poor, and † fallen in decay u with thee, then thou ſhalt † relieve him x, yea though he be a ſtranger, or a ſojourner y, that he may live with thee.

u Heb. his hand wavereth or faileth or is decayed, ſo that he hath not power to get or keep wealth as the phraſe is, Deut. 8. 18. as on the contrary, when a man is able, his hand is ſaid to attain and find ſufficiency, as here above, ver. 26. x Heb. ſtrengthen him, comfort his Heart, and ſtrengthen his Hand. y Underſtand it of Proſelytes only, for of other ſtrangers they were permitted to take uſury, Deut. 23. 20.

36 * Take thou no uſury of him z, or increaſe a, but * fear thy God, that thy brother may live with thee.

* Exod. 22. 25. Deut. 23. 19. Prov. 28. 8 Ezek. 18. 8 & 22. 12. * Nehem. 5. 9.

z (i. e.) Of thy brother, whether he be Iſraelite, or Proſelyte. a This ſome conceive relates to the fruits of the earth, food, &c. as uſury doth to money. But here may rather ſeem to be two words expreſſing the ſame thing, (1.) to meet with the ſubtil evaſions of crafty and covetous men, who made gain of their poor brethren (for of ſuch only he ſpeaks here, as is evident from ver. 35.) by the lending of money or other things; and that they may quiet their conſciences, and palliate their ſin, they diſguiſe it under other names: and (2.) to ſhew that all kinds of uſury are in this caſe forbidden, whether of money, or of victuals, or of any thing that is commonly lent by one man to another upon uſury, or upon condition of receiving the thing lent with advantage and overplus, as it is ſaid, Deut. 23. 19.

37 Thou ſhalt not give him thy money upon uſury, nor lend him thy victuals for increaſe.

38 I am the LORD your God which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

39 And * if thy brother that dwelleth by thee be waxen poor, and be ſold unto thee, thou ſhalt not † compel him to ſerve as a bond-ſervant b.

* Exod. 21. 2. Deut. 15. 12. Jer. 34. 14. † Heb. ſerve thy ſelfe of him with the ſervice &c.

b Neither for the time, for ever, nor for the manner, with the hardeſt and vileſt kinds of ſervice, rigorouſly and ſeverely exacted from him.

40 But as an hired ſervant, and as a ſojourner he ſhall be with thee, and ſhall ſerve thee unto the year of jubile.

41 And then ſhall he depart from thee c, both he and his children with him, and ſhall return unto his own family, and unto the poſſeſſion of his fathers ſhall he return.

c Thou ſhalt not ſuffer him or his to abide longer in thy ſervice, as thou mighteſt do in the year of releaſe, Exod. 21. 2, 6.

42 For they are my ſervants d, which I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: they ſhall not be ſold † as bondmen.

† Heb. with the ſale of a bondman.

d They, no leſs than you, are members of my Church and People; ſuch as I have choſen out of all the world to ſerve me here, and to enjoy me hereafter, and therefore are not to be oppreſſed or abuſed, neither are you abſolute Lords over them to deal with them as you pleaſe.

*Eph. 6. 9. Col. 4. 1.

43 * Thou ſhalt not rule over him with rigor, but ſhalt fear thy God e.

e Though thou doſt not fear them who are in thy power, and unable to right themſelves, yet fear that God who hath commanded thee to uſe them kindly, and who can and will avenge their cauſe, if thou doſt oppreſs them.

44 Both thy bond-men, and thy bond-maids which thou ſhalt have ſhall be of the heathen that are round about you: of them ſhall ye buy bond-men and bond-maids.

45 Moreover, of the children of the ſtrangers that do ſojourn among you, of them ſhall ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they begat in your land; and they ſhall be your poſſeſſion.

† Heb. ye ſhall ſerve your ſelves of them.

46 And ye ſhall take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them for a poſſeſſion; † they ſhall be your bond-men for ever: but over your brethren the children of Iſrael, ye ſhall not rule one over another with rigor.

47 And if a ſojourner or ſtranger wax rich by thee, and thy brother that dwelleth by him wax poor, and ſell himſelf unto the ſtranger or ſojourner by thee, or to the ſtock f of the ſtrangers.

f Heb. root, i. e. one of the root or ſtock. So the word root is elſewhere uſed for the branch or progeny growing from it, as Numb. 13. 28. 2 Chron. 22. 10. He ſeems to note one of a foreign race and countrey, tranſplanted into the land of Iſrael, and there having taken root amongſt the people of God, yet even ſuch an one, though he hath ſome privilege by it, yet he ſhall not have power to keep an Hebrew ſervant from the benefit of Redemption.

48 After that he is ſold, he may be redeemed again; one of his brethren may redeem him.

49 Either his uncle, or his uncles ſon may redeem him, or any that is nigh of kin unto him of his family may redeem him: or, if he be able, he may redeem himſelf.

50 And he ſhall reckon with him that bought him, from the year that he was ſold to him, unto the year of jubile, and the price of his ſale ſhall be according unto the number of years, according to the time of an hired ſervant g ſhall it be with him.

g Allowance ſhall be made for the time wherein he hath ſerved, proportionable to that which is given to an hired ſervant for ſo long ſervice, becauſe his condition is in this like theirs; that it is not properly his perſon, but his work and labour that was ſold.

51 If there be yet many years behind, according unto them he ſhall give again the price of his redemption out of the mony that he was bought for.

52 And if there remain but few years unto the year of jubile, then he ſhall count with him, and according unto his years ſhall he give him again the price of his redemption.

53 And as a yearly hired ſervant ſhall he be with him: and the other ſhall not rule with rigor over him in thy ſight h.

h Thou ſhalt not ſuffer this to be done, but whether thou art a Magiſtrate, or a private perſon, thou ſhalt take care according to thy capacity to get it remedied.

‖ Or, by theſe means.

54 And if he be not redeemed ‖ in theſe years, then he ſhall go out in the year of jubile, both he and his children with him.

55 For unto me the children of Iſrael are ſervants; they are my ſervants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

* 2 Sam. 22. 27. Pſal. 18. 26.

x Or, careleſly with you or towards you, i.e. I will put you out of my care and protection.

25 And I will bring a ſword upon you, that ſhall avenge the quarrel of my covenant y: and when ye are gathered together within your cities, I will ſend the peſtilence among you, and ye ſhall be delivered into the hand of the enemy z.

y (i.e.) My quarrel with you for your breach of your faith and covenant made with me. z Becauſe thoſe few that ſhall be left of the peſtilence will be unable to defend you in your cities or ſtrong-holds.

26 * And when I have broken the ſtaff of your bread a, ten women b ſhall bake your bread in one oven, and they ſhall deliver you your bread again by weight c: and * ye ſhall eat, and not be ſatisfied.

a Either 1. by taking away that power and vertue of nouriſhing, which I have put into bread or food, which when I withdraw, it will be unable to nouriſh. Or rather 2. by ſending a famine or ſcarcity of bread, which is the ſtaffe and ſupport of mans preſent life, Pſal. 104. 15. for ſo this phraſe is commonly uſed, and elſewhere explained, as Pſal. 105. 16. Ezek. 4. 16. and ſo the following words expound it here. b (i.e. Ten or many families, for the women took care for the bread and food of all the family. c This is a ſign and conſequence both of a famine, and of the baking of the bread of ſeveral families together in one oven, wherein each family took care to weigh their bread, and to receive the ſame proportion which they put in. Compare Ezek. 4. 16.

27 And if ye will not for all this hearken unto me, but walk contrary unto me:

28 Then I will walk contrary unto you alſo in fury d, and I, even I will chaſtiſe you ſeven times for your ſins.

d Or, in fury of raſhneſs or careleſneſs with you or among you, like a raging lion breaking into a multitude of people, and deſtroying all he meets with promiſcuouſly or without any diſtinction, both righteous and wicked together, as is threatned, Ezek. 21. 3. Or, in fury of contrariety, or meeting with you, or againſt you, like a man that meets his enemy in the fury of battel.

29 * And ye ſhall eat the fleſh of your ſons e, and the fleſh of your daughters ſhall ye eat.

* Deut. 28. 53. Ezek. 5. 10.

e Through extreme hunger. See Lam. 4. 10.

30 And I will deſtroy your high places f, and * cut down your images g, and caſt your carcaſes upon the carcaſes of your idols h, and my ſoul ſhall abhor you.

* 2 Chro. 34. 7. Ezek. 6. 4, 5, 13.

f In which you will ſacrifice after the manner of the Heathens See Levit. 19. 26. Numb. 33. 52. g Or, Your images of the Sun, made for the honour and worſhipping of the Sun, and having ſome reſemblance to it. See 2 Chron. 34. 7. Under this one kind of Idolatry, famous and frequent in thoſe times and places, he contains all the reſt. h So he calls them, either to ſignifie that their Idols how ſpecious ſoever or glorious in their eyes, were in truth but lifeleſs and contemptible carcaſes, having eyes but ſee not, &c. Pſal. 115. 5. or to ſhew that their Idols ſhould be ſo far from helping them, that they ſhould be thrown down and broken with them, and both ſhould lie together in a forlorn and loathſome ſtate.

31 And I will make your cities waſte, and * bring your ſanctuaries i unto deſolation, and I will not ſmell k the ſavour of your ſweet odours l.

* Lam. 1. 10. Ezek. 9. 6. & 21. 7.

i Either 1. Gods ſanctuary, called Sanctuaries here, as alſo Pſal. 73. 17. and 74. 7. Jer. 51. 51. Ezek. 28. 18. becauſe there were divers appartments in it, each of which was a Sanctuary, or, which is all one, an holy place, as they are ſeverally called. And your emphatically, not mine, for I diſown and abhor it, and all the ſervices you do in it, becauſe you have defiled it. Or 2. The Temples built by you to Idols, therefore called their Sanctuaries, in oppoſition to Gods. Or 3. Your Synagogues. But the firſt is moſt probable, becauſe he ſpeaks of the place where they uſed to offer their ſweet odours here following. k (i.e.) Not own or accept them. See Gen. 8. 21. Iſa. 1. 11, &c. l Either of the incenſe, or of your ſacrifices, which, when offered with faith and obedience, are very ſweet and acceptable to me.

32 And I will bring the land into deſolation: and your enemies which dwell therein m, ſhall be aſtoniſhed at it n.

m Having driven you out and poſſeſſed your places. n See Lam. 5. 12.

33 And * I will ſcatter you among the heathen, and will draw out a ſword after you o: and your land ſhall be deſolate, and your cities waſt.

* Deut. 4. 27. & 28. 62, 64.

o The ſword ſhall follow you into ſtrange lands, and you ſhall have no reſt there.

34 * Then ſhall the land ‖ enjoy her ſabbaths, as long as it lieth deſolate, and ye be in your enemies land, even then ſhall the land reſt, and enjoy her ſabbaths p.

* 2 Chron. 36. 21.

‖ Or, accompliſh. See Job. 14. 6.

p Either 1. becauſe it ſhall be rid of you who were the unprofitable and heavy burdens thereof, under whom it in a manner groaned. Or rather 2. becauſe it ſhall now enjoy thoſe Sabbatical years of reſt from tillage, which you through covetouſneſs oft-times would not give it, as the next verſe informs us, though God commanded it, Levit. 25. 4.

35 As long as it lieth deſolate, it ſhall reſt: becauſe it did not reſt in your ſabbaths, when ye dwelt upon it.

36 And upon them that are left alive of you, I will ſend a faintneſs q into their hearts, in the lands of their enemies, and * the ſound of a † ſhaken leaf ſhall chaſe them, and they ſhall flee, as fleeing from a ſword: and they ſhall fall, when none purſueth.

* Prov. 28. 1.

† Heb. driven.

q The word notes a tenderneſs and ſoftneſs of mind whereby they are diſenabled from bearing the preſent miſeries, and are in continual dread of further and ſorer miſeries.

37 And * they ſhall fall one upon another r, as it were before a ſword, when none purſueth s: and ye ſhall have no power to ſtand before your enemies.

* Iſa. 10. 4.

r As ſoldiers uſe to do when their ranks are broken, and they forced to flee away haſtily from their purſuers. s Your guilt and fear cauſing you to imagine that they do purſue you when indeed they do not.

38 And ye ſhall periſh among the heathen, and the land of your enemies ſhall eat you up.

39 And they that are left of you * ſhall pine away t in their iniquity in your enemies lands, and alſo in the iniquities of their fathers ſhall they pine away with them.

* Ezek. 4. 17. & 6. 9. & 20. 44. & 24. 23. & 33. 10. & 36. 31. Hoſ. 5. 15.

t Be conſumed and melt away by degrees through diſeaſes, oppreſſions, griefs and manifold miſeries.

40 If they ſhall confeſs u their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their treſpaſs which they treſpaſſed againſt me, and that alſo they have walked contrary unto me, u Heb. And they ſhall confeſs, where our tranſlation and many others underſtand the particle if, which is alſo wanting and underſtood, Exod. 4. 23. Mal. 1. 2. and 3. 8. So here, And if they ſhall confeſs, &c. But there ſeems no neceſſity of any ſuch ſupplement, but theſe and the following words may be taken as they lye in their plain and proper ſignification, to this purpoſe, ver. 40. And through the heavineſs and extraordinarineſs of their affliction, their conſciences will force them to confeſs their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their treſpaſs which they have treſpaſſed againſt me, i.e. with their prevarication with me and defection from me to Idolatry, which by way of eminency he calls their treſpaſs: and that alſo they have walked contrary to me, ver. 41. and that I alſo have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies: i.e. that they are not come into theſe calamities by chance, nor by the misfortune of war, but by my juſt judgment upon them. All which confeſſion is no more than Pharaoh made in his diſtreſſes, and than hypocrites in their affliction uſe to make. And therefore he adds, if then their uncircumciſed, i.e. impure, carnal, profane, and impenitent hearts be humbled, i.e. ſubdued, purged, reformed: if to this confeſſion they add ſincere humiliation and reformation, I will do what follows.

41 And that I alſo have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies: if then their * uncircumciſed hearts be humbled, and they then accept of the puniſhment of their iniquity x.

* Jer. 6. 10. Rom. 2. 29. Col. 2. 11.

x The Hebrew word avon commonly ſignifies iniquity, but it is oft uſed for the puniſhment of iniquity, as here and 1 Sam. 28. 10. Pſal. 31. 10. Iſa. 53. 6, 11. The meaning is, if they ſincerely acknowledge the righteouſneſs of God and their own wickedneſs, and patiently ſubmit to his correcting hand, and would rather be in their preſent ſuffering condition, than in their former ſinful, though proſperous eſtate; if with David they are ready to ſay, it is good for them that they are afflicted, that they may learn God's ſtatutes, and obedience to them for the future, which is a good evidence of true repentance.

42 Then will I remember my covenant y with Jacob, and alſo my covenant with Iſaac, and alſo my covenant with Abraham will I remember, and I will remember the land z.

y To wit, ſo as to perform it, and make good all that I have promiſed in it. For words of knowledge or remembrance in Scripture, do moſt commonly connote affection and kindneſs: of which there are many inſtances, ſome given before, and more hereafter. z Which now ſeems to be forgotten and neglected, and deſpiſed, as if I had never choſen it to be the peculiar place of my preſence and bleſſing.

43 The land alſo ſhall be left of them, and ſhall enjoy her ſabbaths, while ſhe lieth deſolate without them: and they ſhall accept of the puniſhment of their iniquity: becauſe, even becauſe they deſpiſed my judgments, and becauſe their ſoul abhorred my ſtatutes.

44 And yet for all that, when they be in the land of their enemies, * I will not caſt them away, neither will I abhor them, to deſtroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them: for I am the LORD their God †.

* Deut. 4. 31. Rom. 11. 26.

† Neither the deſperateneſs of their condition, nor the greatneſs of their ſins, ſhall make me wholly make void my covenant with them and their anceſtors, but I will in due time remember them for good, and for my covenants ſake return to them in mercy. From this place the Jews take great comfort, and aſſure themſelves of deliverance out of their preſent ſervitude and miſery. And from this, and ſuch other places, St Paul concludes, that the Iſraelitiſh nation, though then rejected and ruined, ſhould be gathered again and reſtored.

45 But I will for their ſakes || remember the covenant of their anceſtors, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt, in the ſight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the LORD.

|| Or rather, to or for them, i. e. for their good or benefit; for ſurely, if one conſiders what is ſaid before concerning the wickedneſs of this people, he cannot ſay this deliverance was given them for their ſakes, but muſt rather ſay with the Prophet, Ezek. 36. 22, 32. not for your ſake, O houſe of Iſrael, &c.

46 Theſe are the ſtatutes, and judgments, and laws which the LORD made between him and the children of Iſrael in mount Sinai, by the hand of Moſes.

CHAP. XXVII.

Laws touching the redeeming of Men, devoted to God, 1——8. Or of Beaſts, 9——13. Of Houſes, 14, 15. Of Fields or Grounds, 16——25. What things might not be vowed, and being ſo, what redeemable, and what not, 26——29. Of redeeming the Tenths both of Fruit and Cattel, 30——33.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2. Speak unto the children, and ſay unto them; When a man ſhall make a ſingular vow a, the perſons ſhall be for the LORD b, by thy eſtimation c.

a Or, an eminent or hard or wonderful vow, not concerning things, which was not ſtrange, but cuſtomary, but concerning perſons, as it here follows, which he vowed, or by vow devoted unto the Lord, which indeed was unuſual and difficult: yet there want not inſtances of ſuch vows, and of perſons which devoted either themſelves or their children to the ſervice of God, and that either more ſtrictly and particularly, as the Nazarites, and the Levites, 1 Sam. 1 .11. and for theſe there was no redemption admitted, but they were in perſon to perform the ſervice to which they were devoted: or more largely and generally, as ſome who were not Levites, nor intended themſelves or their children ſhould be Nazarites, might yet through zeal to God and his ſervice, or to obtain God's help in giving them ſome mercy which they wanted and deſired, or in freeing them from ſome evil felt or feared, devoted themſelves or their children to the ſervice of God and of the Sanctuary, tho' not in ſuch a way as the Levites, which they were forbidden to do, yet in ſome kind of ſubſerviency to them. And becauſe there might be too great a number of perſons thus dedicated, which might be burdenſom and chargeable to the Sanctuary, therefore an exchange is allowed, and the Prieſts are directed to impoſe and require a tax for their redemption. b (i.e.) Dedicated to the Lord, and conſequently to the Prieſt. c By whoſe eſtimation? Anſ. Either 1. thine, O Prieſt, to whom the valuation of things belonged, and here is aſcribed, ver. 12. Or rather 2. thine, O man that voweſt, as appears from ver. 8. where his eſtimation is oppoſed to the Prieſts valuation. Nor was there any fear of his partiality in his own cauſe, for the price is particularly limited. But where the price is undetermined, there, to avoid that inconvenience, the Prieſt is to value it, as ver. 8, 12.

3 And thy eſtimation ſhall be, of the male from twenty years old even unto ſixty years old d, even thy eſtimation ſhall be fifty ſhekels of ſilver, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

d Which is the beſt time for ſtrength and ſervice, and therefore is prized at the higheſt rate.

4 And if it be a female, then thy eſtimation ſhall be thirty ſhekels e.

e Leſs than the mans price, becauſe ſhe is inferiour to him both in ſtrength and ſerviceableneſs.

5 And if it be from five years old f even unto twenty years old, then thy eſtimation ſhall be of the male twenty ſhekels, and for the female ten ſhekels.

f At what age they might be vowed by their parents, as appears from 1 Sam. 1. tho' not by themſelves; and the children were obliged by their parents vow, which is not ſtrange conſidering the parents power and right to diſpoſe of their children ſo far as is not contrary to the mind of God.

6 And if it be from a month old, even unto five years old, then thy eſtimation ſhall be of the male five ſhekels of ſilver, and for the female thy eſtimation ſhall be three ſhekels of ſilver.

7 And if it be from ſixty years old, and above, if it be a male, then thy eſtimation ſhall be fifteen ſhekels, and for the female ten ſhekels.

8 But if he be poorer then thy eſtimation g, then he ſhall preſent himſelf before the prieſt, and the Prieſt ſhall value him: according to his ability h that vowed, ſhall the prieſt value him.

g If after his vow he be decayed and impoveriſhed, and not able to pay the price which thou, according to the rules here given, requireſt of him. h Which God alſo conſidered in other caſes, as Levit. 12. 8. Compare 2 Cor. 8. 12.

9 And if it be a beaſt whereof men bring i an offering unto the LORD, all that any man giveth k of ſuch unto the LORD, ſhall be holy l.

i To wit, uſually and according to Gods appointment. k (i. e.) Voweth to give. l (i. e.) Conſecrated to God, either to be ſacrificed, or to be given to the Prieſt according to the manner of the vow, and the intention of him that voweth.

10 He ſhall not alter it, nor change it m, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good n: and if he ſhall at all change beaſt for beaſt, then it, and the exchange thereof o ſhall be holy.

m Two words expreſſing the ſame thing more emphatically, q.d. He ſhall in no wiſe change it, neither for one of the ſame, nor of another kind. n Partly becauſe God would preſerve the ſanctity and reverence of conſecrated things, and therefore would not have them alienated, and partly to prevent abuſes of them who on this pretence might exchange it for the worſe, as reſerving the judgment to himſelf. o (i. e.) both the thing firſt vowed, and thing offered or given in exchange. This was inflicted upon him as a juſt penalty for his raſhneſs and levity in ſuch weighty matters.

11 And if it be any unclean p beaſt of which they do not offer a ſacrifice unto the LORD, then he ſhall preſent the beaſt before the prieſt:

p Either for the kind, or for the quality of it, if it were ſuch an one as might not be offered. The Dog only may ſeem to be excepted, for his price might not be offered. See Deut. 23. 18.

12 And the prieſt ſhall value it, whether it be good or bad: † as thou valueſt it, who art the Prieſt, ſo ſhall it be.

† Heb. according to thy eſtimation, O Prieſt, &c.

13 But if he will at all redeem it, then he ſhall add a fifth part thereof unto thy eſtimation.

14 And when a man ſhall ſanctifie q his houſe to be holy unto the LORD r, then the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, ſo ſhall it ſtand s.

q To wit, by a vow, for of that way and manner of ſanctification he ſpeaks in this whole chapter. r In which caſe the benefit of it redounded either to the Prieſts for their maintenance, Num. 18. 14. or to the Sanctuary for its reparations or expences. s Suppoſing that the Prieſts eſtimation doth not notoriouſly ſwerve from the rules of valuation preſcribed by God. For if the Prieſt determined moſt unrighteouſly and unreaſonably, as ſuppoſe an hundred times more than the true value of it, I preſume no man is ſo void of ſence as to ſay they were all bound to ſtand to the Prieſts determination in that caſe. Even as in caſe a mans leproſie was notorious and unqueſtionable, if a Prieſt ſhould through partiality pronounce him clean, this did not make him clean. And therefore all thoſe paſſages of Scripture which leave things to, and command men to acquieſce in, the determination of the Prieſt or Prieſts, are to be underſtood with this exception, that their determinations be not evidently contrary to the revealed will of God, to whom Prieſts are ſubject and accountable. Otherwiſe if the Prieſts had commanded men to profane the ſabbath, this would have acquitted them from the obligation of God's command of keeping it holy, which is impious and abſurd to affirm. And this conſideration will give light to many Scriptures.

15 And if he that ſanctified it, will redeem his houſe, then he ſhall add the fifth part t of the mony of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be his.

t Which he might the better do, becauſe the Prieſts did uſually put a moderate rate upon it.

16 And if a man ſhall ſanctifie unto the LORD ſome part of a field of his poſſeſſion u, then thy eſtimation ſhall be according to the ſeed thereof x: || an homer of barley ſeed ſhall be valued at fifty ſhekels of ſilver y.

|| Or, the land of an homer, &c.

u (i. e.) Which is his by inheritance, becauſe particular direction is given about purchaſed lands, ver. 22. And he ſaith part of it, becauſe it was unlawful to vow away all his poſſeſſions, becauſe thereby he had diſenabled himſelf from the performance of divers duties by way of ſacrifice, almſgiving, &c. and made himſelf burdenſome to his brethren. x (i. e.) According to the quantity and quality of the land, which is known by the quantity of ſeed which it can receive and return. y Not to be paid yearly, till the year of Jubilee, as ſome would have it, but once for all, as is moſt probable, 1. becauſe here is no mention of any yearly payment, but only of one payment, and we muſt not add to the text. 2. becauſe it is moſt probable that lands and all things were favourably and moderately valued, ſo that men might be rather encouraged to make ſuch vows upon juſt occaſions, than to be deterred from them by exceſſive impoſitions. But if this were yearly rent, it was an exceſſive rate, and much more than the land ordinarily yielded. For an Omer is but the tenth part of an Ephah, Exod. 16. 36. and therefore not above a pottle of our meaſure, which quantity of ſeed would not extend very far, and in ſome lands would yield but an inconſiderable crop, eſpecially in barley, which was cheaper than wheat, and which for that reaſon, among others, may ſeem to be here mentioned rather than wheat.

17 If he ſanctifie his field from the year of Jubilee z, according to thy eſtimation a it ſhall ſtand b.

z (i. e.) Immediately after the year of Jubilee is paſt. a Now mentioned, to wit, of 50 ſhekels for an homer of barley ſeed. b (i. e. That price ſhall be paid without diminution.

18 But if he ſanctifie his field after the Jubilee c, then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the mony, according to the years that remain, even unto the year of the Jubilee d, and it ſhall be abated from thy eſtimation.

c (i. e.) Some conſiderable time after the Jubilee, as appears from the following words. d The defalcation from the full price of fifty ſhekels being to be more or leſs as the years are more or fewer. See Levit. 25. 15, 16, 17.

19 And if he that ſanctified the field will in any wiſe redeem it, then he ſhall add the fiſth part of the mony of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be aſſured to him.

20 And if he will not redeem the field e, or if he have ſold the field f to another man, it ſhall not be redeemed any more g.

e To wit, when the Prieſt ſhall ſet a price upon it, and offer it to him in the firſt place to redeem it. f He, who? Either 1. the man that vowed it; if he, after ſuch a vow made ſhall neglect to pay his vow, and ſhall ſacrilegiouſly ſell the ſame land to another man: or, if he ſell it, i. e. ſuffer it to be ſold to another, and will not prevent that by redeeming it to himſelf. Or rather 2. the Prieſt, or ſome in his name, who though not expreſſed, is ſufficiently underſtood out of the foregoing clauſe, If he will not redeem or buy again the field, to wit, of the Prieſt, who is now the ſeller of it; or, or rather and, for this ſeems to be added by way of accumulation, if he, i. e. the Prieſt, of whom he might have redeemed it, upon his refuſal, offers it to ſale, and have ſold the field to another man. Add to this, that none but the Prieſt could ſell this land, after it was once vowed and declared to be ſo, and offered by the Prieſt to him again to redeem it, which is apparently the preſent caſe. g (i.e.) He ſhall for ever loſe the benefit of redemption.

21 But the field when it goeth out h in the Jubilee, ſhall be holy unto the LORD, as a field devoted: the poſſeſſion thereof ſhall be the prieſts i.

h (i. e.) Out of the poſſeſſion of the other man to whom the Prieſt ſold it. i For their maintenance. Nor is this repugnant to that law, that the Prieſts ſhould have no inheritance in the land, Numb. 18. 20. for that is only ſpoken of them and the whole Tribe of Levi in general, and in reference to the firſt diviſion of the land, wherein the Levites were not to have a diſtinct part of land, as other tribes had; but this doth not hinder, but ſome particular lands might be vowed and given to the Prieſts either for their own benefit, or for the ſervice of the Sanctuary.

22 And if a man ſanctifie unto the LORD a field which he hath bought, which is not of the fields of his poſſeſſion k;

k Which is not his patrimony or inheritance.

23 Then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the worth of thy eſtimation l, even unto the year of the Jubilee m, and he ſhall give thine eſtimation n in that day, as a holy thing o unto the LORD.

l (i. e.) The price or ſum at which thou, O Prieſt, ſhalt reckon it. So it is only a change of the perſon, which is frequent: or, the price which thou, O Moſes, by my direction haſt ſet in ſuch caſes. m (i. e.) As much as it is worth, for that ſpace of time between the making of the vow and the year of Jubilee: for he had no right to it for any longer time, as the next verſe tells us. n Without the addition of the fifth part, which he was to pay for his lands of inheritance, ver. 19. as being of a better and more durable tenure than purchaſed lands which were his only till the Jubilee. o As that which is to be conſecrated to God inſtead of the land redeemed by it.

24 In the year of the jubilee the field ſhall return unto him of whom it was bought, even to him to whom the poſſeſſion of the land did belong p.

p By original right, which no other perſon by vow or otherwiſe could give away from him.

*Exod. 30. 13. Num. 3. 47. Ezek. 45. 12.
25 And all thy eſtimation ſhall be according to the ſhekel of the ſanctuary: * twenty gerahs ſhall be the ſhekel.

† Heb. firſt-born, &c. *Exod. 13. 2, 12.
26 Only the † * firſtling of the beaſt, which ſhould be the LORDS firſtling, no man ſhall ſanctifie it q, whether it be ox or ſheep r: it is the LORDS.

q To wit, by vow; becauſe it is not his own, but the Lords already, and therefore to vow ſuch a thing to God is a tacit derogation from, and an uſurpation of the Lords right, and a mocking of God by pretending to give him what we cannot withhold from him. r Under theſe two eminent kinds he comprehends all other beaſts which might be ſacrificed to God, the firſtlings whereof could not be redeemed but were to be ſacrificed; whereas the firſtlings of men were to be redeemed, and therefore were capable of being vowed, as we ſee 1 Sam. 1. 11.

27 And if it be of an unclean beaſt r, then he ſhall redeem it according to thine eſtimation, and ſhall add a fifth part of it thereto: or if it be not redeemed, then it ſhall be ſold s according to thy eſtimation.

r (i.e.) If it be the firſt-born of an unclean beaſt, as appears from ver. 26. which could not be vowed, becauſe it was a firſt-born, nor offered, becauſe it was unclean, and therefore is here commanded to be redeemed or ſold. Others underſtand it of all unclean beaſts in general, and not of the firſt-born of them, becauſe the firſt-born of ſuch were to be redeemed by a ſheep, Exod. 13. 13. without the addition of any ſuch fifth part as is here enjoined. Which is true of the firſt redemption of them, but then as after they were redeemed they might be again vowed unto God, ſo when the owners would redeem them a ſecond time, it was but reaſonable they ſhould pay a better price for them. And if this were meant of unclean beaſts in general, this were the very ſame law which is mentioned before, ver. 11, 12, 13. which, it is not probable, would after a few verſes be unneceſſarily repeated again like a diſtinct law. s And the price thereof was given to the Prieſts, or brought into the Lords treaſury.

28 * Notwithſtanding, no devoted thing t that a man ſhall devote unto the LORD, of all that he hath u, both of man and beaſt, and of the field of his poſſeſſion, ſhall be ſold or redeemed: every devoted thing is moſt holy unto the LORD x. * Joſh. 6. 19.

t (i. e.) Nothing which is abſolutely devoted to God with a curſe upon themſelves or others, if they diſpoſed not of it according to their vow; as the Hebrew word implies. u To wit, in his power or poſſeſſion. x (i. e.) Only to be touched or employed by the Prieſts, and by no other perſons; no not by their own families, for that was the ſtate of the moſt holy things.

29 None devoted, which ſhall be devoted of men y, ſhall be redeemed: but ſhall ſurely be put to death.

y Not by men, as ſome would elude it; but of men, for it is manifeſt both from this and the foregoing verſes, that men here are not the perſons devoting, but devoted. Queſt. Was it then lawful for any man or men thus to devote another perſon to the Lord, and in purſuance of ſuch vow to put him to death? Anſw. This was unqueſtionably lawful, and a duty in ſome caſes, when perſons have been devoted to deſtruction either by God's ſentence, as Idolaters, Exod. 22. 20. Deut. 23. 15. the Canaanites, Deut. 20. 17. the Amalekites, Deut. 25. 19. & 1 Sam. 15. 3, 26. Benhadad, 1 King. 20. 42. or by men, in purſuance of ſuch a ſentence of God, as Numb. 21. 2, 3. & 31. 17. or for any crime of an high nature, as Judg. 21. 5. Joſ. 7. 15. But this is not to be generally underſtood, as ſome have taken it, as if a Jew might by virtue of this Text, devote his child or his ſervant to the Lord, and thereby oblige himſelf to put them to death, which peradventure was Jepthe's errour. For this is expreſly limited to all that a man hath, or which is his, i. e. which he hath a power over. But the Jews had no power over the lives of their children or ſervants, but were directly forbidden to take them away, by that great command, thou ſhalt do no murder. And ſeeing he that killed his ſervant caſually by a blow with a rod was ſurely to be puniſhed, as is ſaid Exod. 21. 20. it could not be lawful wilfully and intentionally to take away his life upon pretence of any ſuch vow as this. But for the Canaanites, Amalekites, &c. God the undoubted Lord of all mens lives, gave to the Iſraelites a power over their perſons and lives, and a command to put them to death. And this verſe may have a ſpecial reſpect to them or ſuch as them. And although the general ſubject of this and the former verſe be one and the ſame, yet there are two remarkable differences to this purpoſe; 1. The verb is active, ver. 28. and the agent there expreſſed, that a man ſhall devote, but it is paſſive, ver. 29. and the agent undetermined, which ſhall be devoted, to wit, by God, or men in conformity to God's revealed will. 2. The devoted perſon or thing is only to be ſold or redeemed, and ſaid to be moſt holy, ver. 28. but here it is to be put to death, and this belongs only to men, and thoſe ſuch as either were, or ſhould be devoted in manner now expreſſed.

30 And * all the tithe of the land z, whether of the ſeed of the land or of the fruit of the tree, is the LORDS: it is holy unto the LORD. * Gen. 28. 22. Num. 18. 21, 24. Mal. 3. 8. 10.

z There are divers ſorts of Tithes, but this ſeems to be underſtood only of the ordinary and yearly Tithes belonging to the Levites, &c. as the very expreſſion intimates, and the addition of the fifth part in caſe of redemption thereof implies.

31 And if a man will at all redeem ought of his tithes, he ſhall add thereto the fiſth part thereof.

32 And concerning the tithe of the herd, or of the flock, even of whatſoever paſſeth under the rod ||, the tenth ſhall be holy unto the LORD.

|| Either 1. the tithers rod, it being the manner of the Jews in tithing to cauſe all their cattel to paſs through ſome gate or narrow paſſage, where the tenth was marked by a perſon appointed for that purpoſe and reſerved for the Prieſt. Or 2. the ſhepherds rod, under which the herds and flocks paſſed, and by which they were governed and numbred. See Jer. 33. 13. Ezek. 20. 37.

33 He ſhall not ſearch whether it be good or bad, neither ſhall he change it: and if he change it at all, then both it, and the change thereof ſhall be holy, it ſhall not be redeemed.

34 Theſe are the commandments which the LORD commanded Moſes for the children of Iſrael in Mount Sinai.

NUMBERS.

The ARGUMENT.

THis Book giveth us an Hiſtory of almoſt forty years travel of the children of Iſrael through the Wilderneſs, where we have an account of their journeys, and what happened to them therein, with their Government, and how they were managed thereby; Called Numbers by reaſon of the ſeveral Numbrings of the people, as at the offerings of the Princes, and at their ſeveral journeys, &c. But eſpecially two, One, Chap. 1. Out of which the Prieſts and Levites were excepted, but numbred by themſelves, viz. In the ſecond year after they were come out of Egypt, in the firſt month whereof the Paſſeover was inſtituted; with the order about the Tabernacle both of the Levites, and People, and their ſeveral marches, encampings, and manner of pitching their Tents, the Prieſt's maintenance and eſtabliſhment, by the miraculous budding of Aarons rod, with the ſeveral impediments in their marches, both among themſelves by ſeveral murmurings, ſeditions, and conſpiracies; and from their enemies, viz. the Edomites, Canaanites, over whom having obtained a victory, and afterwards murmuring, they were ſtung with fiery Serpents, and cured by the brazen one; Amorites, whoſe Kings, Sihon and Og, they overcame, aud ſlew; and Moabites, where by the allurements of Balaam who was hired by Balak to curſe Iſrael, they joyned themſelves to Baal-peor, and are plagued for it; that openly oppoſed them. The other chief numbring is in Chap. 26. where they are found almoſt as many as at the firſt, though among them were none of the firſt numbring, (according to what God had threatned Chap. 14.) ſave Moſes, Joſhua, and Caleb, by reaſon of their deſire to return back into Egypt upon the diſcouraging report of ten of thoſe twelve that Moſes ſent to ſpy out the Land; whereupon they were forced to wander above 38 years in the wilderneſs; where he gave them ſeveral Laws, Civil, Eccleſiaſtical and Military; as alſo particular directions about women's inheriting, occaſioned by the caſe of Zelophead's daughters, and concerning vows; And then brings them back to the borders of Canaan, where, after divers victories obtained againſt their enemies, they were directed how the Land of Canaan was to be divided among the Tribes, and what portion the Levites were to have among them; together with ſix cities of Refuge ſet apart for the Man-ſlayer: At length Aaron being dead, and Eleazar placed in his ſtead, and Moſes alſo having received the ſentence of Death, doth, by God's appointment, deliver up the people unto the charge and conduct of Joſhua.

CHAP. I.

God Commands Moſes and Aaron to number the People that were fit for War, 1——3. Twelve Captains choſe, of every Tribe one: Their Names: The number of each Tribe, 4——45, 46. The Levites exempted: To take care of the Tabernacle: The other Tribes Camping round it, 47——54.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the wilderneſs of Sinai a, in the tabernacle b of the congregation, on the firſt day of the ſecond month, in the ſecond year after they were come out of the land of Egypt, ſaying, a Where now they had been a full year or near it, as may be gathered by comparing this place with Exod. 19. 1. & 40. 17. and other places. b From the mercy-ſeat.

* Exod. 30. 12.

2 * Take ye the ſum c of all the congregation of the children of Iſrael d, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, e with the number of their names, every male by their poll:

c This is not the ſame muſter with that Exod. 38. 26. as plainly appears, becauſe that was before the building of the Tabernacle, which was built and ſet up on the firſt day of the firſt month, Exod. 40. 2. but this was after it, to wit, on the firſt day of the ſecond month, as is ſaid ver. 1. And they were for differing ends; that was to tax them for the charges of the Tabernacle; but this was for other ends, partly that the great number of the people might be known to the praiſe of God's faithfulneſs, in making good his promiſes of multiplying them, and to their own comfort and encouragement; partly for the better ordering of their camp and march, for they were now beginning their journey; and partly that this account might be compared with the other in the cloſe of the Book, where we read that not one of all this vaſt number, except Caleb and Joſhua, were left alive; which was an evident diſcovery of the miſchievous nature of ſin, by which ſo vaſt a company were deſtroyed, and a fair warning to all future generations to take heed of rebelling againſt the Lord, for which their anceſtors had been ſo dreadfully plagued even to extirpation. It is true, the ſums and numbers agree in this and that computation, which is not ſtrange, becauſe there was not much time between the two numbrings, and no eminent ſin among the people in that interval, whereby God was provoked to diminiſh their numbers. Some conceive, that in that number, Exod. 30. & 38. the Levites were included, which are here excepted, ver. 47. and that in that interval of time, there were grown up as many more men of thoſe years as there were Levites of the ſame age. d So the ſtrangers mixed with them were not numbred. e The people were divided into twelve Tribes, the Tribes into great Families, Num. 26. 5. theſe great Families into leſſer Families called the houſes of their fathers, becauſe they were diſtinguiſhed one from another by their fathers.

† Heb. every one that goeth out.

3 From twenty years old and upward † all that are able to go forth to war in Iſrael: thou and Aaron ſhall number them by their armies.

4 And with you there ſhall be a man of every tribe f: every one head of the houſe of his fathers.

f To inſpect the work, that it might be faithfully and impartially done.

5 And theſe are the names of the men that ſhall ſtand with you g: of the tribe of Reuben h, Elizur the ſon of Shedeur.

g To wit, with Moſes and Aaron, who were the chief managers of the work. h The Tribes are here numbred according to the order or quality of their birth, firſt the children of Leah, then of Rachel, and then of the handmaids.

6 Of Simeon; Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai.

7 Of Judah; Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab.

8 Of Iſſachar; Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar.

9 Of Zebulun; Eliab the ſon of Helon.

10 Of the children of Joſeph; of Ephraim, Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud: of Manaſſeh; Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.

11 Of Benjamin; Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.

12 Of Dan; Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai.

13 Of Aſher; Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.

14 Of Gad; Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel i.

i Called Reuel, Numb. 2. 14. the Hebrew letters Daleth and Reſh being very like and oft changed.

15 Of Naphtali; Ahira the ſon of Enan.

16 Theſe were the renowned k of the congregation, princes of the tribes of their fathers, heads of thouſands l in Iſrael.

k Heb. the named or called, to wit, by Moſes and by God's appointment, to manage this affair, and others as there was occaſion. Compare Numb. 16. 2. & 26. 9. l See Exod. 18. 21. Numb. 10. 4.

17 And Moſes and Aaron took theſe men which are expreſſed by their names.

18 And they aſſembled all the congregation together on the firſt day of the ſecond month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, by their poll.

19 As the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo he numbred them in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

20 And the children of Reuben, Iſraels eldeſt ſon, by their generations m, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; m Heb. to wit, their generations, i. e. the perſons begotten of Reubens immediate Children, who are here ſubdivided into families, and they into houſes, and they into particular perſons.

21 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Reuben, were forty and ſix thouſand and five hundred.

22 Of the children of Simeon, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, thoſe that were numbred of them, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

23 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thouſand and three hundred.

24 Of the children of Gad, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

25 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Gad, were forty and five thouſand ſix hundred and fifty.

26 Of the children of Judah, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

27 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Judah, were threeſcore and fourteen thouſand and ſix hundred n.

n Far more than any other tribe, in accompliſhing of Jacobs prophecy, Gen 49.

28 Of the children of Iſſachar, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war.

29 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Iſſachar, were fifty and four thouſand and four hundred.

30 Of the children of Zebulun, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upwards, all that were able to go forth to war.

31 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Zebulun, were fifty and ſeven thouſand and four hundred.

32 Of the children of Joſeph, namely, of the children of Ephraim, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

33 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Ephraim, were fourty thouſand and five hundred o.

o Above 8000 more than Manaſſeh, towards the accompliſhment of that promiſe, Gen. 48. 20. which the Devil in vain attempted to defeat by ſtirring up the men of Gath againſt them, 1 Chron. 7. 21. 22.

34 Of the children of Manaſſeh, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

35 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Manaſſeh, were thirty and two thouſand and two hundred.

36 Of the children of Benjamin, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

37 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Benjamin, were thirty and five thouſand and four hundred.

p. The ſmalleſt number, except one, though Benjamin had more immediate children than any of his brethren, Gen. 46. 21. whereas Dan had but one immediate ſon, Gen. 46. 23. yet now his number is the biggeſt but one of all the Tribes, and is almoſt double to that of Benjamin. Such great and ſtrange changes God eaſily can, and frequently doth, make in families, 1 Som. 2. 5. And therefore let none boaſt or pleaſe themſelves too much in their numerous off-ſpring.

38 Of the children of Dan, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

39 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Dan, were threeſcore and two thouſand and ſeven hundred.

40 Of the children of Aſher by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old, and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

41 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Aſher, were forty and one thouſand and five hundred.

42 Of the children of Naphtali, throughout their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

43 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Naphtali, were fifty and three thouſand and four hundred.

44 Theſe are thoſe that were numbred, which Moſes and Aaron numbred, and the princes of Iſrael, being twelve men: each one was for the houſe of his fathers.

45 So were all thoſe that were numbred of the children of Iſrael, by the houſe of their fathers, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war in Iſrael.

46 Even all they that were numbred, were * ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand, and five hundred and fifty.

*Exod. 38. 26. See Exod. 12. 37. chap. 26. 51.

47 But the Levites after the tribe of their fathers. were not numbred among them.

49 For the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes, ſaying,

50 Only thou ſhalt not number the tribe of Levi q, neither take the ſum of them among the children of Iſrael.

q Becauſe they were not generally to go out to war, which was the thing principally eyed in this muſter, ver. 3. 20, 45. but were to attend upon the Service of the Tabernacle, and therefore are reſerved to another diſtinct muſter, Numb. 3. 15. and 4. 2. &c. And leſt this ſhould be thought to be deſigned and done through Moſes his ambition to give his own tribe the preeminence, he aſſures them it was done by God's expreſs command.

50 But thou ſhalt appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of teſtimony r, and over all the veſſels thereof, and over all things that belong to it: they ſhall bear the tabernacle, and all the veſſels thereof, and they ſhall miniſter unto it, and ſhall encamp round about the tabernacle.

r So called here, and Exod. 38. 21. becauſe it was made chiefly for the ſake of the Ark of the Teſtimony, 2 Sam. 7. 2. which is oft called the Teſtimony, as hath been obſerved before.

51 And when the tabernacle ſetteth forward, the Levites ſhall take it down: and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, the Levites ſhall ſet it up: and the ſtranger s that cometh nigh t, ſhall be put to death.

s The ſtranger elſewhere is one of another Nation, here one of another Tribe, one no Levite. t So as to do the offices mentioned ver. 50.

52 And the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch their tents every man by his own camp, and every man by his own ſtandard, throughout their hoſts.

53 But the Levites ſhall pitch round about the tabernacle of teſtimony, that there be no wrath u upon the congregation of the children of Iſrael: and the Levites ſhall keep the charge x of the tabernacle of teſtimony.

u To wit, from God, who is very tender of his worſhip, and will not ſuffer the profaners of it go unpuniſhed; whoſe wrath is called ſimply Wrath by way of eminency, as the moſt terrible kind of wrath. x (i.e.) Shall ſuffer no ſtranger to approach through curioſity or any other motive.

54 And the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did they.

CHAP. II.

Order for the Marches and Camping of the Tribes, 1, 2. Judah on the Eaſt ſide, with Iſſachar and Zebulon, who led the Van, 3——9. Reuben on the South ſide, with Simeon and Gad: then the Tabernacle was to follow, the Levites camping round it, 10——17. Ephraim on the Weſt ſide with Manaſſes and Benjamin, 18——24. Dan on the North Quarter, with Aſher and Naphtali, 25.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

2 Every man of the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch by his own ſtandard a, with the enſign of their fathers houſe: † far off b about the tabernacle of the congregation ſhall they pitch.

† Heb. over againſt.

a Or, enſign, by that to which he is allotted by the following order. It is manifeſt that there were four great Standards or Enſigns, which here follow, diſtinguiſhed by their Colours or Figures, or otherwiſe; alſo that there were other particular Enſigns belonging to each of their Fathers houſes or Families, as is here ſaid. b Partly out of reverence to God and his worſhip, and the portion allotted to it, and partly for caution, leſt their vicinity to it might tempt them to make too near approaches to it. It is ſuppoſed they were at 2000 cubits diſtance from it, which was the ſpace between the people and the Ark, Joſ. 3. 4. and it is not improbable, becauſe the Levites encamped round about it, between them and the Tabernacle.

3 And on the eaſt-ſide toward the riſing of the Sun, ſhall they of the ſtandard of the camp of Judah pitch, througout their Armies: and Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab ſhall be captain of the children of Judah.

4 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were threeſcore and fourteen thouſand and ſix hundred.

5 And thoſe that do pitch next unto him, ſhall be the tribe of Iſſachar c: and Nethaneel the ſon of Zaar ſhall be captain of the children of Iſſachar.

c He and Zebulon were Leah's two youngeſt ſons, and therefore would more contentedly ſubmit to Judah.

6 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred thereof, were fifty and four thouſand and four hundred.

7 Then the Tribe of Zebulun: and Eliab the ſon of Helon ſhall be captain of the children of Zebulun.

8 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred thereof, were fifty and ſeven thouſand and four hundred.

9 All that were numbred in the camp of Judah, were an hundred thouſand and fourſcore thouſand and ſix thouſand and four hundred d, throughout their armies: theſe ſhall firſt ſet forth.

d This was the moſt numerous camp, becauſe they marched firſt, as being placed on the Eaſt and going towards the Eaſt, and becauſe they guarded the Sanctuary.

10 On the ſouth-ſide ſhall be the ſtandard of the camp of Reuben e, according to their armies: and the captain of the children of ‖ Reuben ſhall be Elizur the ſon of Shedeur.

e Who being the firſt-born, was the leader of the ſecond camp.

11 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred thereof were forty and ſix thouſand and five hundred.

12 And thoſe which pitch by him, ſhall be the tribe of Simeon: and the captain of the children of Simeon ſhall be Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai.

13 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them were fifty and nine thouſand and three hundred.

14 Then the tribe of Gad: and the captain of the ſons of Gad ſhall be Eliaſaph the ſon of Reuel f.

f Called Deuel, Numb. 1. 14. the Hebrew letters Daleth and Reſh being very like, and oft changed, as appears by comparing Gen. 10. 3. with 1 Chron. 1. 6. and Gen. 36. 26, 38. with 1 Chron. 1. 41, 50.

15 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were forty and five thouſand and ſix hundred and fifty.

16 All that were numbred in the camp of Reuben, were an hundred thouſand and fifty and one thouſand and four hundred and fifty, throughout their armies: and they ſhall ſet forth in the ſecond rank.

17 Then the tabernacle of the congregation ſhall ſet forward with the camp of the Levites in the midſt of the camp g: as they encamp, ſo ſhall they ſet forward, every man in his place by their ſtandards.

g Which is not to be underſtood ſtrictly or exactly, but largely; for in their march they were divided, and part of that Tribe marched next after Judah, Numb. 10. 17. and the other part exactly in the midſt of the camp.

18 On the weſt-ſide ſhall be the ſtandard of the camp of Ephraim h, according to their armies: and the captain of the ſons of Ephraim ſhall be Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud.

h Who is here preferred before his brother, according to the propheſie, Gen. 48. 19. 20.

19 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fourty thouſand and five hundred:

20 And by him ſhall be the tribe of Manaſſeh: and the captain of the children of Manaſſeh ſhall be Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.

21 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were thirty and two thouſand and two hundred.

22 Then the tribe of Benjamin: and the captain of the ſons of Benjamin ſhall be Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.

23 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were thirty and four thouſand and five hundred.

24 All that were numbred of the camp of Ephraim, were an hundred thouſand and eight thouſand and an hundred, throughout their armies: and they ſhall go forward in the third rank.

25 The ſtandard of the camp of Dan ſhall be on the north-ſide by their Armies: and the captain of the children of Dan ſhall be Abiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai.

26 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were threeſcore and two thouſand and ſeven hundred.

27 And thoſe that encamp by him, ſhall be the tribe of Aſher: and the captain of the children of Aſher, ſhall be Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.

28 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fourty and one thouſand and five hundred.

29 Then the tribe of Naphtali: And the captain of the children of Naphtali, ſhall be Ahira the ſon of Enan.

30 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fifty and three thouſand and four hundred.

31 All they that were numbred in the camp of Dan, were an hundred thouſand and fifty and ſeven thouſand and ſix hundred i: they ſhall go hindmoſt with their ſtandards.

i The ſtrongeſt camp next after Judah, and therefore he comes in the rear, as Judah marched in the front, that the Tabernacle might be beſt guarded where there was moſt danger.

32 Theſe are thoſe which were numbred of the children of Iſrael, by the houſe of their fathers; all thoſe that were numbred of the camps throughout their hoſts, were ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty.

33 But the Levites were not numbred k among the children of Iſrael, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

k Becauſe their warfare was of another kind.

34 And the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes: ſo they pitched by their ſtandards l, and ſo they ſet forward, every one after their families, according to the houſe of their fathers.

l (i. e.) Each of them under his principal ſtandard.

CHAP. III.

The Genealogie of Moſes, Aaron, and his ſons, Nadab and Abihu, 1——4. The Levites are joyned with them in the Adminiſtration of the Tabernacle, 5——10. Inſtead of all the Firſt-born, 11——13. The three Families of the Levites numbred, 14——39. The Firſt-born numbred, 40——43. Being more than the Levites, ſome of them are redeemed, and the Money given to Aaron and his Sons, 44——51.

1 THeſe a alſo are the generations b of Aaron and Moſes, in the day that the LORD ſpake with Moſes in Mount Sinai c.

a Which follow in this chapter. b (i.e.) Either 1. The things done by them; as the word generation is ſometimes uſed, as Gen. 6. 9. and 25. 19. and 37. 2. Or rather 2. The Kindred or Family, for that is the ſubject of this chapter, and not their events or actions. Obj. Aarons Family indeed is here mentioned, but not Moſes his Family. Anſw. Moſes his Family and Children are here included under the general name of the Amramites, ver. 27. which includes all the Children and Grand-children of Amram, the perſons only of Aaron and Moſes being excepted. And the generations of Moſes are thus obſcurely mentioned, becauſe they were but common Levites, the Prieſthood being given ſolely to Aarons poſterity, whence Aaron is here put before Moſes, who elſewhere is commonly named after him. c This ſeems to be added, becauſe Nadab and Abihu mentioned ver. 2. were then alive, though dead at the time of taking this account.

2 And theſe are the names of the ſons of Aaron; Nadab the * firſt-born, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. * Exod. 6. 23.

3 Theſe are the names of the ſons of Aaron, the prieſts which were anointed, † whom he conſecrated to miniſter in the prieſts office. † Heb. whoſe hand he filled

4 * And Nadab and Abihu died before the LORD, when they offered ſtrange fire before the LORD, in the wilderneſs of Sinai, and they had no children: and Eleazar and Ithamar miniſtred in the prieſts office in the ſight of Aaron d their father. * Lev. 10. 1. chap. 26. 61. 1 Chron. 24. 2.

d In the time of Aarons life, as this phraſe is taken, Numb. 3. 4. See alſo Pſal. 72. 5, 17. and under their fathers inſpection and direction, and as their fathers ſervants or miniſters in the Prieſts-office: for ſervants are oft deſcribed by this phraſe of being, or ſtanding, or ſerving in the ſight or preſence of their maſter.

5 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

6 Bring the tribe of Levi near, and preſent them e before Aaron the prieſt, that they may miniſter unto him

e Offer them to the Lord for his ſpecial ſervice. This was promiſed to them before, and now actually conferred upon them.

7 And they ſhall keep his charge f, and the charge of the whole congregation g before the tabernacle h of the congregation, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle.

f (i.e.) Aarons charge, or thoſe things which are committed principally to Aarons care and overſight, and under him and his direction to the Levites. g (i.e.) Of all the ſacrifices and ſervices which are due to the Lord from all the people, and becauſe all the people could not and might not perform them, or at leaſt diverſe of them, in their own perſons, therefore they were to be performed by ſome particular perſons in their name and ſtead; formerly by the firſt-born, Numb. 8. 16. and now by the Levites. See Numb. 1. 53. and 16. 9. h Emphatically; not within the tabernacle, for the care of theſe things within the holy place was appropriated to the Prieſts, as the care of the moſt holy place was peculiar to the High-Prieſt.

8 And they ſhall keep all the inſtruments of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the children of Iſrael i, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle.

i Thoſe things which all the children of Iſrael are in their ſeveral places and ſtations obliged to take care of, though not in their perſons, yet by others in their ſtead.

9 And * thou ſhalt give the Levites unto Aaron and to his ſons: they are † wholly given unto him k out of the children of Iſrael. * chap. 8. 19. † Heb.

k To attend upon him and obſerve his orders and eaſe him of part of his burden in things hereafter mentioned.

10 And thou ſhalt appoint Aaron and his ſons, and they ſhall wait on their prieſts office l: and the ſtranger m that cometh nigh n ſhall be put to death.

l In their own perſons, not by the Levites. m (i. e.) Every one who is of another family than Aarons, yea though he be a Levite. See Numb. 1. 53. & 16. 40. n To wit, to execute any part of the Prieſts office.

11 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

* ch. 8.16. & 18.6. 12 And I, behold, * I have taken the Levites from among the children of Iſrael, inſtead of all the firſt-born n that openeth the matrix among the children of Iſrael: therefore the Levites ſhall be mine.

n Who were God's propriety by right of Redemption, Exod. 13. 12. and to whom the adminiſtration of holy things was formerly committed, which now was taken away from them, either becauſe they had forfeited this priviledge by joining with the reſt of their brethren in the idolatrous worſhip of the calf, or becauſe they were to be mainly concerned in the diſtribution and management of the inheritances which now they were going to poſſeſs, and therefore could not be at leiſure to attend upon the ſervice of the Sanctuary: Which made it fit that this work ſhould be committed to other hands. And God would not commit it to ſome other perſons in each Tribe, which might be an occaſion of Idolatry, confuſion, diviſion, and contempt of ſacred things, but to one diſtinct Tribe, which might be intirely devoted to that ſervice, and particularly to the Tribe of Levi; partly out of his reſpect to Moſes and Aaron, branches of this Tribe; partly as a recompence of their zeal for God and againſt Idolaters. See Exod. 32. 26, 29. Deut. 33. 9. and partly becauſe it was the ſmalleſt of the Tribes, and therefore moſt likely to find both employment in, and maintenance for the work.

* Exod. 13. 2. Lev. 27. 26. ch. 8. 16. Luk. 2. 23. * Exod. 13. 12, 15. 13 Becauſe * all the firſt-born are mine; * for on the day that I ſmote all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt, I hallowed unto me all the firſt-born in Iſrael, both man and beaſt; mine they ſhall be: I am the LORD o.

o Who may appoint whom I pleaſe for my ſervice.

14 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the wilderneſs of Sinai, ſaying, 15 Number the children of Levi, after the houſe of their fathers, by their families: every male from a month old p and upward, ſhalt thou number them.

p Becauſe at that time the firſt-born, in whoſe ſtead the Levites came, Numb. 8. 16. were offered to God, Luk. 2. 22. and to be redeemed, Numb. 18. 16. And from that time the Levites were conſecrated to God, and were, as ſoon as they were capable, to be inſtructed in their work. Elſewhere they are numbred from twenty five years old, when they were entred as novices to part of their work, Numb. 8. 24. and from thirty years old, when they were compleatly admitted to their whole office.

† Heb. mouth. 16 And Moſes numbred them according to the † word of the LORD, as he was commanded.

* Gen. 46. 11. Exod. 6. 16. ch. 26. 57. 1 Chro. 6. 1, 2. & 23. 6. 17 * And theſe were the ſons of Levi, by their names: Gerſhon, and Kohath, and Merari.

18 And theſe are the names of the ſons of Gerſhon, by their families; Libni, and Shimei.

19 And the ſons of Kohath by their families; Amram, and Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

20 And the ſons of Merari by their families; Mahli and Muſhi: theſe are the families of the Levites, according to the houſe of their fathers.

21 Of Gerſhon was the family of the Libnite, and the family of the Shimite: theſe are the families of the Gerſhonite.

22 Thoſe that were numbred of them, according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, even thoſe that were numbred of them, were ſeven thouſand and five hundred.

23 The families of the Gerſhonite ſhall pitch behind the tabernacle weſtward.

24 And the chief of the houſe of the father of the Gerſhonite ſhall be Eliaſaph the ſon of Lael.

* Exod. 25. 9. * Exod. 26. 1. * Exod. 26. 7, 14. * Exod. 26. 36. 25 And the charge of the ſons of Gerſhon, in the tabernacle of the congregation, ſhall be the * tabernacle q, and the * tent r, * the covering thereof s, and the * hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

q Not the boards, which belonged to Merari, ver. 36. but the ten curtains mentioned Exod. 26. 1. r To wit, the curtains of goats hair. s (i. e.) The coverings, of rams-skins and badgers-skins. See Numb. 4. 25.

* Exod. 27. 9. * ch. 27. 16. 26 And the * hangings of the court, and the * curtain for the door of the court which is by the tabernacle and by the altar round about, and the cords of it t, for all the ſervice thereof.

t By which the Tabernacle was faſtened to the pins, and ſtretched out, Exod. 35. 18.

27 And of Kohath u was the family of the Amramite, and the family of the Izharite, and the family of the Hebronite, and the family of the Uzzielite: theſe are the families of the Kohathite.

u This Family had many priviledges above the others: Of that were Moſes and Aaron, and all the Prieſts: They had the chief place about the Tabernacle, and the care of the moſt holy things here below, ver. 31. and in the Land of Canaan they had twenty three Cities, which were almoſt as many as both their brethren received. See Joſ. 21.

28 In the number of all the males, from a month old and upward were eight thouſand and ſix hundred, keeping x the charge of the ſanctuary y.

x Or, keepers, &c. i. e. appointed for that work, as ſoon as they were capable of it. y (i. e) Of thoſe holy things contained in or nearly belonging to the ſanctuary, expreſſed verſe 31.

29 The families of the ſons of Kohath ſhall pitch on the ſide of the tabernacle ſouthward.

30 And the chief of the houſe of the father of the families of the Kohathite, ſhall be Elizaphan the ſon of Uzziel.

31 And their charge ſhall be the * ark, and the * table, and the * candleſtick, and * the altars, and the veſſels of the ſanctuary wherewith they miniſter, and * the hanging z, and all the ſervice thereof a. * ch. 25. 10 * ch. 25. 23 * ch. 25. 31 * ch. 27. 1. & 30. 1. * ch. 26. 31

z Which covered the moſt holy place, for all other hangings belonged to the Gerſhonites. a (i. e.) All the other furniture belonging to it, of which ſee Numb. 4. 7, 9, 14.

32 And Eleazar the ſon of Aaron the Prieſt ſhall be chief b over the chief of the Levites c: and have the overſight of them that keep the charge of the ſanctuary.

b Next under the High-prieſt; whence he is called the ſecond Prieſt, 2 King. 25. 18. and in caſe of the High-prieſts abſence by ſickneſs or other neceſſary occaſions, he was to perform his work, 1 King. 4. 4. and he had a ſuperiority over all the reſt of the Prieſts and Levites. c (i. e.) Over thoſe three perſons, who were each the chief of their ſeveral families; of whom ſee here, ver. 24, 31, 35.

33 Of Merari was the family of the Mahlite, and the family of the Muſhite: theſe are the families of Merari.

34 And thoſe that were numbred of them, according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, were ſix thouſand and two hundred.

35 And the chief of the houſe of the father of the families of Merari, was Zuriel the ſon of Abihail: theſe ſhall pitch on the ſide of the tabernacle northward.
